Utah Delays Repeal Action to Permit Nationwide Hookup

FORMAL VOTE TO BE TAKEN AT 7 PM MST

BULLETIN
SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 5.—The Utah repeal convention recessed until 2:45 this afternoon when it will reconvene to vote on repeal. Members of the convention said the repeal vote probably would be cast around 3 instead of tonight.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 5.—Delegates to Utah's repeal convention decided today to delay the effectiveness of prohibition repeal by five hours in order to permit a nationwide radio broadcast of convention proceedings.

PENNSYLVANIA DELEGATES RATIFY
HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 5.—Fifteen prohibition repeal delegates met in the senate chamber today and voted to ratify the 21st amendment to the federal constitution. Pennsylvania thus became the 34th state to ratify.

GOVERNMENT IN VIRTUAL CONTROL
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The impending end of the nation's 13-year experiment of prohibiting the use of alcoholic beverages found the government in virtual control of the liquor industry today with far-reaching economic and social effects expected to result from the change. Utah's ratification was the final move required to legalize liquor.

The fight for repeal, long believed hopeless, has been accomplished with such speed since Michigan voted for it April 3 that many details of the government's program of temporary control remained to be worked out.

As soon as Utah ratifies, President Roosevelt planned to proclaim repeal, starting a shift of the burden of recovery taxes from business to liquor, the levies and tariffs on which are expected to yield more than $500,000,000 a year.

The shift of the tax burden, together with a renewal of employment in the liquor and allied industries, was regarded as the principal economic effect of repeal from the government's viewpoint. Nineteen states will permit the sale of liquor.

Lubbock and Cisco To Play Here Friday

Arrangements were concluded by telephone this morning for a game between the Lubbock high school Westerners and the Cisco Lobos at Chesley field Friday afternoon at 2:30.

It will be a benefit game, all proceeds above expenses to be given to Orbie D. Jacobs, Cisco youth who has been bedfast with a back injury sustained several years ago when W. B. Chapman coach of the Westerners, was coach of the Cisco eleven.

The agreement was concluded between Supt. R. N. Cluck, of Cisco, and Coach Chapman this morning after efforts to get in touch with the Lubbock coach during a school board meeting last night failed. Cisco offered $200 traveling expenses and hotel expenses for 20 men which Chapman accepted.

Neither Cisco nor Lubbock plan to make anything out of the meeting between these two strong high school elevens. Even the officials are expected to be secured for no more than their expenses.

Ticket Sale Drive
Teams of business men and students will make a swift ticket sale drive. Publicity has been placed in other towns of the oil belt in which there will be no game except that here—Abilene going to Pampa for the bi-district championship clash between the two, and the Ranger Bulldogs invading Temple, Texas, for a post-season contest with the Temple Wildcats, who, like themselves, were ruled out of competition because of ineligible players after they had virtually won their district.

Prices of the tickets were not definitely decided upon this morning. A moderate rate will be set, however, and it is not probable that reserved seats will be sold. It is hoped to pack the stadium at Chesley field for the game.

First Meeting
This will be the first meeting between the two teams. It will also be the first time that a Chapman-coached eleven will contest his first love in football, the team with which he began his career as a youngster just out of college and which he made into a state institution during the last decade. He spent nine years as the Cisco coach before going to Lubbock.

The teams rate about the same in their respective districts and the game should prove a thriller.

DR. TANNER IS BURIED TODAY AT EASTLAND

Funeral services for Dr. Herbert Battles Tanner, 74, secretary of the Eastland chamber of commerce who died at 10 last night, were to be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the First Methodist church, at Eastland. The "9:45 Bible Class" of that church was to have charge of the services, and Chief Justice J. E. Hickman, of the eleventh supreme judicial district, teacher of the class, was to deliver the funeral oration. Dr. Tanner, a member of the Presbyterian church, was also a member of that class.

He had served for four and one-half years as secretary of the Eastland chamber of commerce. He discharged the duties of that position lately without remuneration and purely out of his civic loyalty and desire to serve his community.

Born in Wisconsin
Born in White Water, Wis., February 13, 1859, Dr. Tanner concluded a life of great activity in the public behalf. He was for 33 years a practicing physician in the city of Kakukuna, Wis., which he also served as mayor. He was married there September 1, 1881, to Miss Mary G. Boyd. They were the parents of four children, all of whom survive. They are Kenneth B. and Herbert J., of Eastland; Harold P., of Van, Texas; and Miss Blanche Tanner, of Seattle, Wash.

Mother of Breck Grid Coach Dies
Mrs. S. A. Shotwell, mother of Coach P. E. Shotwell of Breckenridge high school, died at her home in Canyon, Texas, yesterday afternoon, friends of Coach Shotwell here were informed today. She had been in ill health for some time. Funeral was to be today at Canyon, where she had made her home for 40 years.

U. S. SUPREME COURT HOLDS AGAINST CITY

F. D. Wright, attorney for the city of Cisco in its bonded debt litigation, had no comment today upon the action of the United States supreme court in reversing lower federal court opinions which held favorably to Cisco in a suit brought by Charles P. Bullard, et al, seeking judgment upon portions of the city's bonded debt principal and interest alleged past due.

He said he had received no notice of the supreme court ruling other than what had appeared in the press and was prepared to make no comment until a copy of the opinion had been received and studied.

The case was taken to the supreme court via the fifth circuit court of appeals at New Orleans after Judge James C. Wilson, of federal district court Abilene, had ruled his court without jurisdiction to try the case. The lower court ruling held that the plaintiffs were not actual owners of the bonds, but merely held them in the status of a collection agency, and therefore could not combine all separate accounts into one account to bring it within the limits of federal jurisdiction. The recourse of the plaintiffs under that ruling was the state courts.

Modified Ruling
The circuit court modified the ruling to the extent that the plaintiffs could come into federal courts with such accounts as represented to individual holders $3,000 or more alleged past due and unpaid bond principal and interest, but sustained the district court in other particulars. It likewise held that the city was right in contending the committee were not actual owners of the bonds but merely held them for collection purposes. They could not, under that opinion, combine all claims into one, but must keep each claim separate, having recourse to federal court only with those which represented $3,000 or more. Only about $12,000 of the entire claim was eligible to federal jurisdiction under that ruling.

The supreme court ruling, however, it is understood, reverses that opinion and returns the case to the federal court at Abilene for trial on its merits.

The case was argued on appeal to the supreme court at Washington several weeks ago. Bullard, et al, claim to hold more than $2,000,000 of the defaulted city obligations. "We can't tell what the court has held until we see a copy of the opinion which we hope to receive in a few days," said Mr. Wright. "It might be that it has held that the burden is upon us to prove that a lot of those bondholders did not hold claims severally in amounts of $3,000, and if that is true the status of the case is not materially changed."

Auditor Tried for Slaying of His Wife

DALLAS, Dec. 5.—Toy G. Woolley, 28-year-old insurance auditor, went on trial for his life here today. APPROVAL FOR CWA SCHOOL HERE SOUGHT

A CWA school for the unemployed has been asked for Cisco, it was announced today by Supt. R. N. Cluck, of the local public schools. The project, approved by the county CWA board, is awaiting approval at Austin, he said.

Approval of four CWA school units is asked. Each unit, however, is subject to the local demand for the character of instruction and the facilities found to be available after approval. They are:

Commercial school, headquarters at high school building. Five hours daily will be devoted to classes in bookkeeping, typewriting, business administration and commercial law.

Home making, headquarters at high school. Courses in hygiene and sanitation, dietetics, child care and others of the home making arts.

Literary school, headquarters at one of the wards. Courses in standard grade school subjects, citizenship, and etc.

Woodwork and general agriculture, headquarters at high school.

Battery Explodes; None Seriously Hurt

Both C. C. Garmany, district plant chief, and J. W. Smith, assistant, escaped without serious injury yesterday afternoon when a spark generated while battery connections were being changed followed a tiny jet of hydrogen gas into a small battery, exploding it at the Southwestern Bell Telephone company re-peater plant headquarters here.

Job Selling Probe Transcript Wanted

FORT WORTH, Dec. 5.—An immediate request will be made for a transcript of testimony taken in the legislative investigation committee into alleged state job selling for possible action by a Tarrant county grand jury, Ass't District Attorney Dawson Davis announced.

Davis said he would request a copy of the testimony from the committee chairman.

CISCO PREPARES FOR FULL WEEK-END

Workmen were progressing rapidly today with the decoration of Cisco's business district for the Christmas season. Pine trees, an innovation here where fir and cedar have customarily been used, have been erected and wiring of the trees for colored lighting effects was under way. The Oil Bell Decorating company has devised a new and unusually attractive scheme for the business district, which will be in place by Thursday when the American legion three-day Christmas carnival opens in the lower floor of the telephone exchange at Eighth street and E avenue.

In this state capitol building at Salt Lake City, Utah, this evening the death knell of national prohibition will sound as the Utah repeal convention casts that state's formal vote of ratification of the 21st federal constitutional amendment, repealing the 18th amendment. The vote was delayed from noon (MST) to 7 p. m. (MST) today so that the program could be carried over the radio. Left, inset, is Sec'y of State Of Utah M. H. Wellington, who was to read the certificates of election, and at the right, inset, is Gov. Henry Blood, elected temporary chairman of the repeal convention.

GOP CHARGES NRA SEEKS TO MUZZLE PRESS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 5.—The republican national committee, in a formal press release, has charged the administration is seeking to establish a dictatorship by muzzling hostile opinion, the press and the radio.

In support of its assertion, the committee said that there was documentary evidence that radio broadcasting stations had been threatened with loss of licenses unless they censored the use of their facilities in behalf of NRA.

It added that NRA had for two months resisted writing of a reaffirmation of constitutional free press guarantees into the newspaper code.

15,000 MORE JOBS FOR TEXAS

AUSTIN, Dec. 5.—Work for 15,000 more Texans on civil works administration projects has been authorized, the Texas Relief commission was notified here today.

This addition will raise the total number of workers on CWA projects in Texas to 206,000.

The additional grants has been made because the Texas civil works administration has been so successful in providing work without allocating CWA funds for purchase of materials, Col. Lawrence Westbrook, the administrator said.

Beauty Contest

Among the chief events of the entertainment program will be a beauty contest for the title of Miss Cisco 1933 at the Palace Theater Friday evening at 7:30 and a marathon race from Lake Cisco to the telephone building Saturday afternoon.

There will be nightly dances Thursday, Friday and Saturday with Jack Kern's stringed orchestra, one of the best in the country, providing the music. These dances will be marked by several attractive features. Mr. Kern, is the director of the en-

NEW SANITARY DIVISION NOW LOCATED HERE

A new division was being added to the county CWA relief organization today with the installation of headquarters for an Eastland county unit of the federal sanitation service under direction of Fleming Waters.

The immediate and principal objective of this new department, which Mr. Waters estimated would employ about 200 men and women over a period of two and a half months, is the construction of sanitary pit privies, of both public and private character, where needed for the safe disposition of human excrement.

Prives without such sanitary facilities may secure the building of such a toilet at no cost except for materials. Labor will be furnished free even for salvaging old structures from which to secure the needed lumber, Mr. Waters said.

The department will employ large numbers of women in making careful health surveys of the county, the purpose being to develop necessary health improvement campaigns and projects. Mr. Waters said.

"The object of this work," he explained, "is to create employment. Approximately $15,000 will be expended."

Headquarters were established today in connection with other CWA offices on the second floor of the judia building.

State Bonds Again To Be Advertised

AUSTIN, Dec. 5.—Texas $2,750,000 of bond bids for relief were again to be advertised for sale today after the state bond commission had set December 21 as the date for opening bids.

Bids on any amount of the bonds not less than $1,000 will be received at the state comptroller's office until 1:30 p. m. December 21. A former call for bids had limited bidders to blocks of not less than $45,000.

A. and G. Omitted From Announcement

Through error the A. & G. Motor company's name was omitted from the announcement that they would have a booth during the American Legion Carnival to be held at the old telephone building December 7, 8, and 9. The error was an oversight, says Jack Kern, who has charge of the Carnival, and he is very glad to announce the cooperation.

ELECTION IN 6TH DISTRICT IS CALLED OFF

HAMMOND, La., Dec. 5.—Mobilized citizens, some by passive resistance, others by force, defeated Sen. Huey P. Long's political administration and prevented the opening of the polls for a federal election today in Louisiana's sixth congressional district.

The citizens, claiming that Sen. Long's regime "hand-picked" a ballot listing only Mrs. Bolivar Kemp as candidate for congress to succeed her late husband, refused to vote.

Flying squadrons of armed citizen deputies were out before 5 a. m. today in this section, bent on closing all polling places they found.

So effective was the revolt that at 8 a. m. Judge Lee Ponder, Long lieutenant in three parishes, announced that the election was officially called off in each of those parishes.

Sen. Long remained in his New Orleans hotel room headquarters. Two bodyguards watched over him. The senator was enraged over grotesque newspaper displays which showed the senator hanging and burning in effigy before a cheering crowd at Hammond.

Shots were exchanged last night on a bridge near Baton Rouge between a group of Livingston parish citizens and occupants of a truck believed by the men to be hauling new ballots from Baton Rouge to replace those burned earlier at Denham Springs. The truck escaped through a swamp.

The citizens deputies were sworn in yesterday evening to carry out an order of District Judge Nat Tyler, making permanent an injunction to prevent election supervisors from distributing ballots to the polls in the three parishes.

Sen. Lewis Fails to Report at Dallas

EL PASO, Dec. 5.—J. Hamilton Lewis, Illinois senator, arrived here yesterday ahead of schedule to recuperate from a cold. He said he had cancelled his appearance at Dallas tonight.

DALLAS, Dec. 5.—Sen. J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, scheduled to address a chamber of commerce meeting here today, failed to arrive today.

Chamber of commerce officials, who formed a reception committee for the colorful senator, said they had received no word he had been delayed or would be unable to attend the meeting.

At Chicago his friends were reportedly anxious over his whereabouts after he failed to appear at Springfield, Mo., last night for an address.

THE TUGWELL BILL

"The Tugwell bill," asserts the Amarillo Daily News, "is tearing down rather than building confidence." That is one of the truest things that can be said about the measure which is proposed to throw so many safeguards about the sale of package foods, cosmetics, drugs and so forth that the probabilities of interpretation and enforcement achieve the ridiculous. The bill, sponsored by Prof. Rex Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture and a member of the Roosevelt so-called "brain trust," and championed by Sen. Royal S. Copeland, of New York, a prominent member of the medical fraternity, would enforce "truth in advertising" to such a literal extent that every claim or assertion made about a product must be capable of proof to the satisfaction of competing products. That is true, because the proposed law would put a formidable weapon in the hands of a competitor, who could cause the manufacturers or distributors of another product untold difficulties upon any of innumerable technical issues that would be created.

A study of the bill will conclusively show that in an effort to control the small percentage of the irresponsible, the rest of the industry, whose products are proven and whose integrity is well known, would be victimized. In other words the Tugwell bill would burn down the barn to be rid of the rats. Its sponsors assert that the purposes of the bill are misunderstood and misinterpreted. The purposes are no doubt very clear in Mr. Tugwell's mind. Left to his unbiased reasoning the application of the measure would be a welcome assistance to legitimate, well-intentioned enterprise. But Mr. Tugwell cannot control the interpretations of those who come after them, nor guarantee their viewpoints. Nor can he assure the industry of the attitude of another administration, no more than he can positively say that the very individuals against whom the sanctions of the bill are directed will not seize upon its technical features to destroy the good which it ostentatiously seeks to protect.

The standards that are being maintained in American food, drugs and cosmetic industries today do not require such a measure. It is true that there are instances which should be corrected. But the News ventures to say that these instances are receiving as adequate and positive treatment at the hands of competition and the buying public as they could receive at the hands of the government under the measure which Mr. Tugwell proposes with such impractical sublimity to impose upon the industry. Manufacturers who have no ethical standards for the preparation of products, will have no ethical conceptions of competition. They will readily seize upon legal black-jacks with which to harass and injure their legitimate competitors. For that reason Mr. Tugwell and his competitors are not militating against this element in the industry. On the contrary they are hurling a boomerang that will return in force against the very enterprise they aver to protect.

Explaining that the bill provides that every package of food, every container of cosmetics and every bottle or jar of patent medicine shall bear a wrapper giving a complete scientific analysis of its contents, and that the manufacturer must be in a position to prove every assertion made about the article, or none of these products shall be advertised in any way whatever, the Amarillo News points out that the measure would make the secretary of agriculture a vital "czar of medication," a dictator upon whose decision depends the legality or the illegality of the advertising. The secretary would be the sole judge.

To quote the News: "Manufacturers, druggists, advertising agencies, newspapers, magazines and other industries primarily affected believe the bill is the most vicious piece of legislation ever attempted in American history. Their belief is based on the fact that the bill would give the secretary's interpretations the force of law. By the act, he makes the law, interprets it, enforces it and is the prosecuting attorney, final judge and jury. Are the American people ready for such a plunge of government into the control of private enterprise, they ask. Is it safe to grant any one man such authority?"

"Those opposing the bill do not contend that the present federal pure food and drug law is perfect. They admit that there are a relatively few manufacturers and advertisers who are unscrupulous, but this is a situation which can be remedied by amendments to the present law which is satisfactory and protective in its general sense. The present law is admitted by all to exercise proper supervision over claims on the label as to usefulness and purity and it would be simple to amend this law so that this supervision over the label would be extended to all collateral advertising, including newspaper, radio and other forms. The law should be reworded to give it the strength originally intended. The Tugwell bill in its present form will practically force all manufacturers of decent, useful remedies for home use out of business, without giving the industry opportunity for recourse to courts or to present its side of the case.

"The Tugwell bill is tearing down rather than building confidence. Whether the charge of druggists is true that it is an attempt at suppression of self-medication, it certainly is bringing fear and consternation into a major branch of American industry. Mr. Tugwell should remember that hundreds of thousands of persons are dependent upon drug, cosmetics and package food industries for their livelihood; that 90 cents of every dollar spent for advertising goes into employment; that there are millions of American citizens who find it necessary to buy and use so-called patent medicines every day; that except in a few extreme cases, these home remedies are produced and offered for sale in a legitimate member can expect to reform the world in a day or dictate member can expect to reform the world in a day or dictate its home life simply by the passage of a law."

BROUGHT LUCK - SUPERIOR, Wis., Dec. 5 - When one of the family's cows died, Donald Olmstead, South Range farm youth, thought it was a stroke of good luck. He set out some traps around the carcass and in six days had trapped two coyotes. Their pelts brought him $40.

52,000 MOLES COSTLY - ALMA, Wis., Dec. 5 - County commissioners here paid $25,200 in bounties for moles during the past five months. At ten cents a mole, this means that 52,500 of the tiny animals were killed. The commissioners have voted to abolish the mole bounty.

The Boys Who Couldn't Agree on the Liquor Question

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

In Amarillo, as here, they take their high school football seriously. Amarillo, you recall, was precipitated from the district running, after winning the title, all because one of the young men on the team forgot some recorded statistics that had bearing upon his eligibility. Blair Cherry, coach of the Sandies, whom you remember of Ranger's first district championship days, has made the bitter discovery that it isn't he, but football that the plainmen love.

One of the customers became so excited when the Amarillo boy was found ineligible and the Sandies tossed out of the running, that he called the Cherry home on the telephone and insulted the woman who answered.

"Where's that bird that got us in this hell of a mess?" he is reported to have shouted into the transmitter. At least the woman reported that such is what beat upon her startled ears out of the receiver.

The Amarillo News took up the cudgels in defense of the coach. Tactless Texan declaring him the best football coach in the state, etc., and defending stoutly.

It's all right to wish for the other fellow's job when he's doing well at it, but none of us want it when the going is tough.

Being in Mr. Cherry's shoes in Amarillo today isn't as inviting as it was when his Sandies were playing in the state finals.

The football season isn't over for the Lobos yet. The Lubbock West-ers are coming here next Friday afternoon to battle the Cisco eleven for the sake of Orbie D. Jacobs, who has been bedfast with a back injury he received in football practice several years ago.

The Lubbock team holds about the same standing in district No. 1 that the Cisco boys hold in district 3 standing. It ought to be a great game from the standpoint of football alone. When all factors are considered it should achieve the status of a classic.

The coach of the Lubbock team is W. B. Chapman, the "boy coach" who made the Lobos a state institution in 1923-24-25 and on until he left here to take over the Lubbock reins. It was under his regime that the injury occurred to Orbie, and it is fitting that he should be the mentor who cooperates with the Cisco school in this effort to help the lad. Every football lover in Cisco should buy a ticket to this game. He or she will not only see a great high school game, the only one in the oil belt on that day, but will at the same time contribute the admission to a great cause. Orbie is making slow improvement. X-ray examinations made possible by the Goodfellows class of the Methodist Sunday school revealed. But he needs the money.

"Chap" is bringing his team here for $200 and the hotel bill. The $200 will just about pay the cost of transporting the team. It's a mighty fine spirit, but you can always count on "Chap" to show just that sort of a spirit.

You Cisco people go down into your jeans and dig up the price of this game. By golly, even the scribes are going to pay the price of admission as well as write the account. We're not going to ask to be admitted free this time. We pay our money and we take out writing pads with us.

Daily News and American and Roundup want ads are a good investment—Phone 80.

AUSTIN, Dec. 5 - That depression recur was a familiar story when the Old Testament was written. That they scourge a nation was well known to the ancients.

Perhaps the depression of 1929-33 is different from all other in that, not relief but the readjustment of the public unrest they bring to the surface, is being guided by the government, rather than that the unrest is directed against the government.

Karl Marx recorded, in picturing the pattern of depression times, that overproduction and unemployment went hand in hand in such times. He recorded that as wealth concentrated in few hands, and monopoly was extended, public unrest grew to the point of readjustment.

He came pretty close to writing the history in advance of this depression, as to overproduction and unemployment, as to monopoly and wealth concentration. His picture alone failed to show that the government itself was leading the forces of readjustment, rather than standing entrenched with arms to resist the struggling people like the Hoover troops combating the world war soldiers in Washington.

Repeated convention delegates brought into relief the issue of next year's state and legislative politics. That issue is repeal of the state prohibition amendment. As to candidates for the legislature and for governor, it will hinge on submission of the repeal question. Many important economic questions and many questions of the fitness of individuals for office will be submerged and hidden by that.

And besides, the fight will not be final anyway, any more than half a century's agitation before the 18th amendment was adopted, and 12 years since.

Voters may be able to keep their judgment and reason calm, and pass on the resubmission issue in each legislative campaign only as one phase, with the fitness of the candidates, and their stand on many other questions as also important; but in many cases the repeal question will dominate the selections.

Tax bills just being sent to property owners for the first time reflect the exemption of resident homesteads from state taxes. The total state tax bill will be several million dollars smaller as a result. Those who pay taxes should and will be more ready to pay, now that such a substantial reduction has been applied to their holdings.

In time, the state will come to rely wholly upon other than property taxes for its support. Property taxes now constitute probably one-fourth its total levy since homesteads have been exempted. Cities, counties and districts undoubtedly will indefinitely continue to rely on this principal source of revenue.

IDAHO CUPID BUSY - TWIN FALLS, Ida., Dec. 5 - Cupid worked over-time in this section this year. To date over 220 couples have applied for license to marry, compared to 99 for a like period in 1932.

Senator James Couzens of Michigan on the Warpath

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Sen. James Couzens of Michigan is an independent republican and one of the real battlers of the American congress, is on the warpath again. President Roosevelt has named Martin Conboy district attorney for Southern New York. Conboy is a noted leader of the New York bar. He is an independent democrat. He was a first and last supporter of President Roosevelt and his policies. He has been a regular in all the national and state campaigns. Sen. Couzens will fight confirmation of Conboy. He has announced the reason why. Conboy has been attorney for Albert H. Wiggin, former chairman of the Chase National bank. Conboy visited Washington. His friends, including many senators, congratulated him. Well, the Michigan warrior did not congratulate him. He very bluntly and very emphatically said as he shook hands with the New Yorker, "I shall certainly oppose your confirmation by the senate." Postmaster-Gen. James A. Farley and Conboy have been close personal and political friends throughout the years. Sens. Copeland and Wagner of New York are personal and political friends of the noted lawyer and leader. Now, just how far will Couzens go, or rather how far will he get, in his crusade against the choice of the President for the very important office of federal district attorney for the southern district of New York.

BARRISTER SID HARDIN IN THE STATE PICTURE

Barrister Sid L. Hardin, county attorney of Hidalgo is in an ugly mood. It appears the Hidalgo county relief board remains "up in the air." Barrister Sid threatens to file an injunction suit unless the knot is untangled by the powers that be. A great constitutional lawyer, Barrister Hardin rules that the state relief setup is unconstitutional. Well, while he has no desire to stop disbursement of relief money, he is going to take the extreme step "if the disagreement of personnel of the Hidalgo county board is not ironed out immediately." Truth is, there are petty politicians the state over who should be spanked and sent to the wilderness. Winter is here. There are worthy persons who need relief. They need jobs—paying jobs. Texas taxpayers voted a bond issue of $20,000,000. The New Deal administration matches dollar for dollar in the relief work. Now practical politicians of the peanut type do not pay the taxes of Texas or the federal government. They should step aside in order that relief should be given to those who are entitled to relief.

KANSAS LAWMAKERS AND INFLATION

Kansas has a republican governor. Kansas has a house of representatives elected by the people. This house of representatives voted a resolution urging President Roosevelt "to inflate currency under proper safeguards." Oklahoma has a democratic governor. William H. Murray is not a shriveled localism. He belongs to the nation. That is, he is known nationally. He issued a Thanksgiving proclamation, an executive proclamation seeking to waive penalties on real estate taxes throughout Oklahoma for 1934 and prior years. That is, he authorized all county treasurers to accept back taxes without penalty after Dec. 1, the deadline set in a law passed by the last legislature." Gov. Murray has a head of his own. He is law unto himself. He has scant respect for legislative "deadlines" unless he recommends the lines before legislative enactment comes.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

The world is more populated than it ever has been. Humanity needs as much as it ever did. In fact, today we consider as necessities what were formerly regarded as luxuries. What is the cause of there now being a decreased demand when the natural tendency would seem to be exactly the opposite? More people require more supplies and the education of the people to a higher standard of living introduces a demand for more expensive goods. The cause is the reduced buying power of the people, and there seems to be a thousand schemes floating around to remedy that.

The two things which will do the most to restore confidence and to give capital a square deal so it will come out of hiding and go to work. In spite of what we may think of capital, it takes money to make the wheels of business go round. The fellows who have money are scared and won't put it to work until they are satisfied that it won't be taken away from them by taxes and they will have a chance to make a reasonable profit.

PIED PIPER NEEDED

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 5 - Salt Lake county needs a pied piper to rid its area of countless rats and mice according to Dr. Zimmerman, director of rodent control, U. S. biological survey. Rats and mice are specially noticeable, Zimmerman explained, during winter months because they are driven from fields and farms into towns and cities for shelter.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his hotel apartment?

DAVID BANNISTER, a reporter, undertakes to find out. Among the suspects are an "unknown" hired who killed King shortly before his death; HERMAN SCURLACH, in jail and charged with his innocence, who wrote King a threatening letter; JOE PARHOTT, King's former vaudeville partner, with whom he had had trouble; MELVINA HOLLESTER, middle-aged spinster who had quarreled with King after his cat killed her canary.

The blond suspect arrested, Bannister talks to her, but she refuses to tell where she came from or say anything about herself.

DENISE LANG, King's fiancée, identifies the prisoner as the girl she saw talking to King the day before his death. The girl admits going to King's apartment to get some letters, but denies any knowledge of the murder.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIII

DAVID BANNISTER was late coming to breakfast next morning and, when he did, he dawdled over his food. He turned on the radio in the living room, listened for five minutes and then turned it off. After a glance at the headlines he showed no interest at all in the morning newspaper.

To his aunt's questions about the King murder case he gave sketchy answers. Kate Hewlett, not to be ignored, persisted in her questioning and finally Bannister retreated upstairs to his room.

There he sat, smoking one cigarette after another. He decided to hunt for an old tobacco pouch he had somewhere and rummaged through his luggage. The tobacco pouch was not found. Bannister came across a photograph in the search—a photograph in a leather frame, showing a pretty girl, smiling. He placed the picture on the desk before him and leaned forward, studying it.

Adele was not beautiful. Even in the days when he had been most in love with her, Bannister had never considered her that. Hers were not the perfect classic features. Her eyes, for instance, slanted ever so slightly. Her cheeks were too high. Nevertheless, she was an extremely attractive young woman. Devilishly attractive.

Bannister picked up the photograph. Devilishly attractive was right! And heartless and unprincipled, a slave to her own ambitions. Adele was all of those things. She took a man's heart, played with it like a toy, using it for her purposes—

Bannister sprang to his feet. He crossed the room and strode back again. Why should he condemn Adele? She was no worse than the rest of them! Women were all alike. He was the one to be condemned, because he was a fool. He had let this other girl—the one accused of Tracy King's murder—rely wholly upon other than property taxes for its support. Property taxes now constitute probably one-fourth its total levy since homesteads have been exempted. Cities, counties and districts undoubtedly will indefinitely continue to rely on this principal source of revenue.

BANNISTER'S right eyebrow elevated, indicating interest. "We found that out over at the Tremont where she was registered," the detective confided. "Personally I can't make the dame out at all. Either she's dumb as they come or she's damned smart."

"I agree with you," Bannister said heavily. "Anything new turn up this morning?"

"Nothing except that other prisoner in the murder case, Scurlach, tried to brain a guard this morning."

"What?"

"Sure. Went after him like a wild man. I didn't see it myself but they say this guard had brought Scurlach his breakfast and come back for the dishes. He was whistling a tune and when he opened the cell door Scurlach made a grab for him. The guard yelled but before the turnkey got there Scurlach had him down to the floor pounding him. The turnkey managed to get them separated."

"What was it all about?"

"Well, it sounds crazy to me but Scurlach claimed he thought the guard was kidding him. Because of the time he was whistling."

"Oh," said Bannister. "What was the tune?"

"Listen Carlotta. They say it's one of the songs Tracy King used to sing. Kinda funny, isn't it?"

Bannister agreed that it was. He arose and strolled to the press room but there was no one about. For half an hour longer he waited. McNeal did not appear and at the end of that time Bannister grew restless and left the building.

He walked toward Sixth street more because of habit than any other reason. A clock in the window of a building he passed informed him that it was after three o'clock. He considered ways in which to spend an hour before going back to headquarters. There were the movies—but Bannister had lost his taste for movies. He could go to the Evening Post office, but decided against it. He might drop in at a book store. Yes, he'd do that.

HAWLEY'S was only a block and a half away. Having decided on his destination, Bannister walked more rapidly. Books, he decided, were what he needed. There were half a dozen new volumes he'd meant to look up. If Hawley's didn't have them he'd put in an order. Books were the thing, all right. Solid. Satisfying. Always the same. He'd get that new one of Aldous Huxley's to read tonight.

He passed a millinery shop and something in the window caught his eye. A green hat. Its hue was the same as the hat Juliet France had worn. Vivid but becoming. Bannister frowned at the thought and hurried on.

He reached the street intersection just as the lights changed from green to red. Bannister waited impatiently, although there was no reason why he should object to the delay.

A small man approached and halted beside Bannister, also waiting for the lights to change. He had on a gray topcoat, immaculately pressed but rather worn. His black hat was creased in the center. The little man's shoulders stooped slightly. He wore spectacles and his hair was quite gray.

All this Bannister took in in a casual glance and then he stepped forward.

"Why, Mr. Hollister!" he exclaimed. "I didn't recognize you." The pale eyes behind the spectacles lifted. For an instant they stared, startled; then the little man smiled. "Hello," he said. "I remember you. You're the young fellow who came out to see us so late the other night. I'm afraid I don't remember the name—"

"Bannister," the other told him. "David Bannister."

"Oh, yes," Matthew Hollister took a step nearer. "I'm glad I met you, Mr. Bannister," he said. "I've been wanting to talk to some one—"

There was something in the tone rather than in the words themselves that arrested Bannister's attention.

15TH BIRTHDAY OF SUNSHINE SPECIAL TODAY

DALLAS, Dec. 5.—Eighteen years of progress in railway transportation is being celebrated today as the Texas and Pacific railway observes the eighteenth anniversary of its internationally famous passenger train, the "Sunshine Special".

Speed Increased
As a result of these improvements to motive power and roadbed, running time of the Sunshine Special has been further reduced and this train can boast of a safety record unexcelled by any American railway. Mr. Jensen said, "But it is the improvement in the passenger equipment that is most apparent to the public. In the beginning the train provided standard sleeping cars, coaches and diners, but improvements and refinements were added from time to time until now the train is one of the most luxurious in the country. It was the first to introduce completely air-conditioned lounge and dining cars for the comfort of passengers. These modern comfort cars exclude all dust, dirt, heat, or chill by means of air conditioning equipment, and

Improvements
At the time the Sunshine Special was put in service it was difficult to imagine how better railway transportation could be possible, but in the eighteen years that have passed remarkable advances have been made in passenger service as typified this famous train, Mr. Jensen said. "Even the old Port Worth depot from which the first Sunshine Special departed has been replaced by an entirely new Texas and Pacific passenger terminal and office building, one of the most modern in the south.
The passenger engine that pulled the first Sunshine has become obsolete and would seem a dwarf today in comparison with the present locomotive which provide the finest and most advanced type of motive power in the United States. The entire Texas and Pacific roadbed has been completely rebuilt since that first epochal trip of the Sunshine Special. Ninety-pound rail was then the heaviest in use, but now there is none lighter than 110-pound steel between Dallas and Fort Worth and St. Louis, while double track has been laid where traffic is heaviest. Automatic block signals have been installed on the entire system.

provide such exceptional facilities as broad observation windows, a traveling library, radio entertainment enroute, soda fountain service, shower baths, game tables and other features.
How the traveling public has demonstrated its appreciation for this superior service is indicated by the frequent occasions when it has been necessary to run the Sunshine Special in two and three sections. Mr. Jensen said, "This happened often last summer and on September 5 it was run in five sections to carry the immense crowd to the Century of Progress in Chicago. Popularity of the Sunshine Special was responsible for the inauguration of its companion train on The Texas and Pacific, The Texan.

LABORATORY TESTS CHECK EFFICACY OF KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Show Why This Delicious Cereal Overcomes Common Constipation
There are scientific reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN in preventing and relieving common constipation. Laboratory investigations show that it supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines; and vitamin B to promote appetite, and help tone the intestinal tract.
These two important food-elements aid regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation.
The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action — much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.
Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming!
Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.
Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.
Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

$7.50 Per Capita Is State U. Heat Cost

AUSTIN, Dec. 4.—It will cost the University of Texas approximately $7.50 per student to heat the 21 buildings on the campus here this winter.
Around 35,000,000 pounds of lignite will be burned to produce the 200,000,000 pounds of steam needed for heat this winter, according to estimates by C. J. Eckardt, Jr., adjunct professor of mechanical engineering and superintendent of the power plant.
On the coldest days, 2,000,000 pounds of steam will be produced by the $115,000 steam generating system, at a cost of approximately $450.
The lignite, mined at Bastrop by a former University student, F. L. Denison, is burned in furnaces which maintain a temperature of 2,400 degrees Fahrenheit. Steam goes into distribution mains aggregating 100,000 feet in length.

Jug Provides Link To Mound Builders

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 5.—A nearly intact clay pot, uncovered at an old mound site at Marksville, La., during the construction of a public park, has provided a long-sought link between the mound builders of the Ohio valley and the mound building Indians of Louisiana, according to the Smithsonian Institution.
A design on one side of the pot is typical of southern mound builders. On the other side, however, there is a design typical of Ohio valley aborigines, closing the hitherto suspected but unproven gap between the two cultures.
Since the mound builders of the Ohio valley possessed one of the highest new world cultures, the discovery means either the mound builder complex originated in the southeastern area and was carried northward by prehistoric immigrants where it underwent greater development, or that it originated in the north and spread southward in a deteriorated form according to Frank Setzler, Smithsonian archaeologist.
The Marksville excavations may furnish a clue by which it will be possible to fit the mound builder culture into archaeological chronology. Up to the present the mound builders have remained a mysterious people. Although unquestionably In-

Donald: "But, mother, nearly all the other boys who were absent could come in cars but their folks don't even try to use them in cold weather—'cause they can't get them started." Mother: "Maybe, dear, they don't use the right gas and oil—that's practically the only difference between our car and many others. Understand, Donald, people are careless—they fail to get penetrative oil—found only in Germ Processed Motor Oil made by Conoco. Cold oil, even winter grade, unless it is right, makes it hard for the starter to revolve the motor. GOOD BY DEAR I'LL CALL FOR YOU

Donald: "Mother, I should think the school board would make all parents use Conoco." Mother: "They couldn't do that, Donald, but it would be a good idea if the parents themselves would find out why their cars wouldn't start and buy Conoco. And I imagine they would if they knew it would save them money also."

Full motor protection, especially in cold motor starting, can be found only in Conoco Germ Processed (Paraffin Base) Motor Oil because the penetrative oiliness, called "The Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away.

Instant Starting and Lightning Pick-up can best be obtained with Conoco Bronze Gasoline, and without sacrifice of Long Mileage, Greater Power and Anti-Knock advantages. For cold weather starting it cannot be excelled.

When planning a trip for business or vacation, write the Conoco Travel Bureau, Denver, Colo., America's largest Free Travel Bureau.

The Story of Christmas

And again to the shepherds the angel of the Lord spoke, saying: This shall be a sign unto you: You shall find the babe, your Saviour, in the city of David wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

3 about Cigarettes

Not so long ago practically all cigarettes were made by hand

Now, Chesterfields are made by high-speed machines that turn out 750 cigarettes a minute, and the cigarettes are practically not touched by hand.

By the use of long steel ovens—drying machines of the most modern type—and by ageing the leaf tobacco for 30 months—like wine is aged—Chesterfield tobacco is milder and tastes better.
Only pure cigarette paper—the best made—is used for Chesterfield.
And to make sure that everything that goes into Chesterfield is just right, expert chemists test all materials that are used in any way in the manufacture.
Chesterfields are made and packed in clean, up-to-date factories, where the air is changed every 4½ minutes. The moisture-proof package, wrapped in Du Pont's No. 300 Cellophane—the best made—reaches you just as if you went by the factory door.
In a letter to us, an eminent scientist says:
"Chesterfield Cigarettes are just as pure as the water you drink."
