GOING UP.

Resignation of E. H. Varnell as vocational instructor in the Cisco high school, which also means his relinquishment of a post analogous to agricultural secretary of the chamber of commerce, will be received by Cisco with a feeling akin to a shock.

The shock occurs by reason of the complacency with which we had come to view Mr. Varnell's association with Cisco. Eight years were enough to establish him as an institution.

Fortunately, his place will be capably filled, although his successor will have a difficult task solely because of the esteem in which Mr. Varnell is held and the fact that those who have benefited by his service will be prone to magnify the standard even above the high level that it fixed.

The place that Mr. Varnell filled is one of the most valuable to Cisco of all the places in the public or professional services. It is a point of liaison between the rural areas and the urban center.

The News bids Mr. Varnell and his family a regretful adieu, with wishes for success equal to the hopes he has in accepting the larger responsibility.

CODES—BEFORE AND AFTER.

Charles I. Francis, Wichita Falls attorney for one of the oil company respondents in the state anti-trust suit, sized up the suit at Austin in these words:

"Jimmy Alford proposes to fine us for having a code up to a certain date. The federal government proposes to put us in jail if we don't live up to a code after a certain date."

He said the nationally-approved oil code embodied all the provisions dealing with selling of petroleum products that were in the oil men's marketing code, the basis of the Texas anti-trust penalty and ouster suit.

HOW MUCH OIL?

It is uncertain as to what can be done about production after the troublesome eight days are up.

The federal government has allocated to Texas 955,000 barrels daily production from Sept. 8. The Texas commission, required to give 10 days' notice and hold a hearing before changing proration orders, has called its hearing for the 16th.

The federal oil committee, and Charles F. Roeser, Texas representative, have not tried to say how the total Texas production shall be allocated to fields.

And now with the legislature coming on again, Texas is promised more, many more, words, as lawmakers undertake to settle the problems of oil that won't stay settled.

Texas Topics By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Sept. 6—While the legislature now has authority to change the boundaries of counties, create the boundaries of new counties or abolish existing ones, a constitutional amendment will be voted on in November of next year to confer the power on citizens of counties to merge the units of local government.

It was said, in submitting the amendment that in most instances, one-fourth the present number of counties would serve all purposes for which the large number originally were laid out.

The Texas capitol has been dressed up somewhat for the legislature. Walls of the first floor have been repainted, and the dingy stairs have been given a coat of fresh white paint.

Rep. Tennyson of Wichita Falls will, if he succeeds in having the subject submitted to the special session, make further efforts to secure the passage of his bill to prohibit the 50-cent "ready to serve charge" by gas utilities.

His bill was filibustered to death by a few senators in the final hours of the regular session, and the filibuster killed also other bills.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling.

BEHIN HERE TODAY EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bibby's department store, married DICK RADER, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City.

the one thing Eve determined not to do. AT 10:30 a rosy-cheeked little woman with a youthful face and graying hair appeared and asked for Mr. Barnes.

Apparently mild and yielding, Mrs. Penney proved to be firm and self-reliant to a surprising degree. Even Mona, who usually found some means of gaining her own ends in such matters, could neither outwit nor wheedle Mrs. Penney into taking care of minor details of office routine which were Mona's responsibility or exchanging lunch periods to suit Mona's whims.

Mrs. Penney was a widow with a young daughter who was in college. Every stroke of the artist's pencil was for the sole object of assuring her daughter's education.

AND then Eve's mother came to visit her. Kate Bayless made an inspection tour of the apartment, then shook her head and decided to spend the morning doing the things Eve found little time for.

Every noon Kate met her daughter in the ladies' lounge at Bibby's. Here, while she waited, Kate sat at one of the desks and addressed postal cards to relatives, neighbors and friends at home.

noon's entertainment for her mother—usually either a shopping tour or a matinee. "Why, I could almost forget there is such a place as home," Kate said one day.

That week had passed so swiftly that her mother's departure had been unexpected. Eve regretted that she had not found time to take her mother to the stock exchange and the brokerage office.

She was watching the activities of the market anxiously these days. Pure Soap, Inc., had fallen four points and then, following brisk selling, had resumed its former high and plunged ahead.

And then Pure Soap, Inc., reached the point Eve had been hoping for. Lest it take another slump she hurried to the bank that noon and arranged to sell.

There was a perceptible pause after Eve answered. She was almost certain she heard a sharp intake of breath at the other end of the line and then a girl's voice said, "Oh, I'm sorry! They must have given me the wrong number."

INELIGIBILITY SMASHES RICE GRID CHANCES

By STUART E. JONES United Press Staff Correspondent HOUSTON, Sept. 6 - If the 1933 Rice Institute eleven distinguishes itself in the forthcoming Southwest conference gridiron wars, Coach Jack Meagher will reaffirm his belief in miracles.

Of the 37 candidates, less than a dozen have enjoyed varsity experience and three are transfers from junior colleges. Followers of the Owls may feel a slight pang of optimism while looking at the small roster by noticing that Rice will be as potentially strong in the center of the line as any conference school.

Jim Byrd and Raymond Maes, both of Greenville, who performed well on the 1932 freshman squad, also will seek tackle posts.

Bob Schulze, Temple, and Charlie Mehr, Houston, are a couple of experienced substitutes for the guard positions.

Dick Lauterbach and Percy Arthur, Houston, will battle for center. Meagher will spend most of his time with the backfield.

Halback Hope Meagher believes Quinn Connelly of Fort Worth will prove a halfback asset. Connelly, a senior, is the Owls' best ball passer and can punt and carry the ball.

Charlie Kivell, one of the best blockers on the squad, and Elmo Hutzler, a ball carrier from San Antonio, will see backfield service.

OWL SCHEDULE FOR 1933 SEASON HOUSTON, Sept. 6 - The 1933 football schedule for Rice Institute follows:

Sept. 23 - Texas College of Arts and Industries at Houston. Sept. 30 - Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge.

County Home Rule Authority Is Now Within Easy Reach of All Counties

By RAYMOND BROOKS Capitol Correspondent AUSTIN, Sept. 6 - County home rule authority is now a fact for every county of over 62,000 population, and in easy reach of every other county.

It was conferred by adoption of the home rule amendment. A pre-enabling law, setting out procedure, already had been enacted, whose effectiveness was confirmed by adoption of the amendment.

Counties of over 62,000 people in the 1930 census, may now move ahead to the adoption of home rule charters. They can, by the most speedy possible action have the charter decided on before the primary elections next year nominate all the long string of county office-holders; but lack of its adoption by then will not delay adoption whenever the voters decide.

County home rule is exactly of the power, and is controlled by much of the constitutional provisions governing city home rule that is the right of any city of over 5,000 people.

Procedure Easy The home rule enabling act provides that the expense of preparing a charter to submit to the voters can cost but a few hundred dollars. The procedure of preparing such a charter is easy. The biggest item of the entire cost is the election to adopt or reject the charter.

that may be taken under the home rule amendment though any combination of them can be taken together by counties which do not prefer to move along from the first to later innovations:

- 1. Adopting a county charter, similar to that of cities. 2. Providing for hiring a county manager, which may be conferred in the original charter. 3. The much-discussed question of the home rule county government's absorbing a separate governmental set-up for cities within the county.

Assuming that the first step only will be taken at first, here is the procedure provided by which any county of over 62,000 population can decide on adopting a home rule charter. In smaller counties, passing an authorizing act by the legislature will give them the same privilege:

How to Start If qualified voters want to start the preparation of a charter, they prepare a petition to the commissioners court that it call a convention to select a charter commission. In counties between 75,000 and 150,000 population five hundred signers are required. In counties of 25,000 to 75,000 population, 400 signers are enough. The commissioners court is required, when such a petition is filed, to call precinct conventions within 10 to 20 days after the precinct convention.

Related Issues Two other closely integrated questions are pending in constitutional amendments to be voted on next year. They are:

- 1. Consolidation of counties, and changing of county boundaries. 2. Total abolition of the fee system of paying county officials.

The home rule amendment already adopted effectively takes care of the fee system, except as to judicial officers, who are not touched by it.

Here are the progressive steps

Underweight Children Need More Iron in Their Blood!

Children who are thin and pale and who lack appetite are usually suffering from a deficiency of iron.

When the blood lacks iron it becomes thin and poor and fails to nourish. Then a child loses appetite and becomes still thinner and weaker - and easy prey to disease!

To build up your child, give him Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. It contains iron which makes for rich, red blood. It also contains tasteless palatine which tends to purify the blood. These two effects make it an exceptional medicine for young and old.

Scores of Strange Plants Identified

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 - Spanish and American scientists now are identifying scores of plants, hitherto unknown to science, that were collected more than 100 years ago by a Spanish physician in Colombia, the Smithsonian Institution reports.

Between the years of 1783 and 1808 Dr. Jose Celestino Mutis started out to collect and describe all the flora of the Andean region north of the Equator.

In 1783, after he had outlined his project, according to the Smithsonian, Mutis was appointed by King Carlos III of Spain as "first botanist and astronomer of the Royal Expedition to Grenada." The King provided Mutis with ample funds for the work and he set up at Bogota what was described as a "great scientific factory." At one time, the Smithsonian says, he employed 13 artists working nine hours a day to the plants collected.

But Mutis died in 1808. During the Spanish revolution the material was sent to Spain, where the boxes were opened in the presence of the royal family. The mounted plants and drawings were sent to the Botanical Garden.

On several occasions it is pointed out, attempts were made to resurrect the collection. However, when Ellsworth P. Killip, of the Smithsonian, visited the Madrid garden last year both he and Dr. Arturo Caballero, director, were convinced of the worth of this collection.

Now the work of identifying them is in progress. Up to the present time more than 100 new species have been discovered.

Women Chemist Makes Rubber

BOULDER, Col., Sept. 6 — After startling success in the production of "synthetic marble," Mrs. Jean Anderson, of this city is developing "synthetic rubber" and "synthetic leather."

Both projects, says this woman, who came here three years ago, after teaching chemistry for 32 years at Columbus, O., are in defiance of the old law of chemistry that there can be no composition of chemicals and minerals.

Her newest work literally is glorifying the hollyhock, combined with different chemicals, that forms Mrs. Anderson's new experimental products.

She started work in November on "synthetic rubber." She sent a sample piece to a portable type-writer company, which replied that the material is valuable, if produced cheaply in quantities. Mrs. Anderson says it can.

A sample also was sent to Henry Ford, who called it "teak wood." The automobile magnate told Mrs. Anderson his chemists were doing similar work with soy beans.

A year ago she obtained a patent for her process of controlling chemicals.

By adding the juice of the hollyhock she has been able to obtain a flexible rubber.

He said the relief administration already had authorized the state to spend federal money to transport carloads of food into the storm area and added the government probably would take care of all those who have lost jobs because of the storm.

SUGGESTS SPECIAL SESSION BE DELAYED.

AUSTIN, Sept. 6.—The contemplated special session of the Texas legislature should be delayed out of deference to members of the legislature in the hurricane area, State Senator Ben O'Neal, suggested here today. September 11 had been mentioned as the likely date by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson.

HUNTS MOOSE

SEATTLE, Sept. 6.—Seeking large specimens of bull moose, Major Nicholas Biddle of Philadelphia, and Harold T. Green, curator of the Academy of Natural Sciences museum of Philadelphia, were en route to the Kenai Peninsula, near Seward Alaska. The hunters said the moose did not necessarily have to be the largest in the world, but they must be big.

DREAM HOUSES AT WORLD'S FAIR ARE ARCHITECTURAL GLIMPSE OF TOMORROW

CHICAGO, Sept. —How will we live tomorrow? Tomorrow, we have read, is another day—but tomorrow is today for Chicago World's Fair visitors in the Home and Industrial Arts exhibits at A Century of Progress.

Here in nine model homes, only a few steps from the crude logs of Fort Dearborn of a hundred years ago as it has been reconstructed for the Fair, leading architects and engineers have dared to reach into the future and bring forth a handful of home planning ideas that are as interesting as they are revolutionary.

No Waste Here.

There are no basements in these homes.

There are no attics. There is no waste space at all.

Gone are fancy "ornaments". Simplicity of line and construction are the new word.

Gone are massive, heavy buildings. The home of tomorrow is "light", clear-cut.

There are few extravaganzas. Dollar for dollar, the money that paid for these homes went into useful, efficient, convenient and beautiful construction. Wasted money has become a thing unknown in the past few years.

Home Has Hangar.

What surprises await the thousands who stream daily into these homes! There are houses of glass and steel and synthetic stone. There are air-conditioned rooms that are never uncomfortable. There are roof gardens and solariums on houses that cost no more than many average homes of the past.

One home, called the "House of Tomorrow", has an airplane hangar in addition to a built-in garage. All the outside walls of this house are of transparent glass. Venetian blinds allow the inhabitants to control their natural light and their privacy as they see fit. Special controls allow artificial light to be dimmed or brightened at will. Air conditioning keeps the temperature constant.

Walls of the Stran-Steel house are built entirely of steel sections, specially constructed so that wall board or other materials may be nailed to them. The house can be built by ordinary carpenters with no special tools.

Furniture really a jump ahead of the modern meets the visitor's eye in the "Design for Living" house. Here are simple, comfortable furnishings, beautiful in a fundamental way, the creation of the New York designer, Gilbert Rohde.

House Built of Glass.

Sunlight House, the contribution of the lumber industries, is light and cheerful as the name implies. The exterior is finished in a manner to retain the natural beauty of its wood walls. Panels inside are of many differing kinds of wood. There are even wooden dishes and goblets on the dining room table. Construction is "dry" throughout; there is no plaster anywhere.

In this unusual group of dwellings is a house built entirely of colored translucent glass, a home unique, if there ever was one. There is a house of Rostone, a "tailor-made" stone, manufactured from

You can't throw stones if you live in a house like this. It's all glass, one of the unique exhibits in the Home and Industrial Arts group at the Chicago World's Fair.

You can depend on the man who advertises

NINE times out of ten you will find that the man who advertises is the man who most willingly returns your money if you are not satisfied.

He has too much at stake to risk losing your trade or your confidence. You can depend on him.

He is not in business for today or tomorrow only --- but for next year and ten years from next year. He knows the value of good-will.

You get better merchandise at a fairer price than he could ever hope to sell it if he did not have the larger volume of business that comes from legitimate advertising and goods that bear out the promise of the printed word.

Don't miss the advertisements. This very day they call your attention to values that tomorrow you will be sorry you overlooked.
