STERLING UNDECIDED ON SESSION

Testimony Is Ended in Norwood Insurance Case Today

2 WITNESSES SAY THEY SAW 'DEAD' BANKER

FORT WORTH, Oct. 28.—Testimony ended today in the suit of Mrs. Emma Norwood to collect $100,000 insurance on the life of Sidney Norwood, who lost heavily in peanut speculation and disappeared in 1921 before his Cleburne bank failed with a shortage of nearly $2,000,000.

Both sides rested after attorneys for the Southland Life Insurance company, defendant, produced two witnesses who testified they had seen the fugitive alive in 1929.

Three issues were suggested in informal conversation with the court: First, whether Norwood is dead; second, whether he died before October 3, 1928, nearly a month after his insurance policy lapsed; and, third, whether he should be legally dead under Texas statutes after an alleged absence of seven years.

Arguments were scheduled this afternoon. The case will go to the jury late today.

Kay Griffin, of Fort Worth, was to have been a third witness to testify he had seen Norwood within the last four years but attorneys presented a physician's statement that Griffin was ill with a heart ailment.

On a pullman coach near Monterey the bearded, unkempt former financier was seen July 25, 1929, Luther White, who repairs typewriters in Tampico, Mexico, testified.

Rural Free Deliveryman Julian H. Gwynn sat in a Juarez bar and talked for 30 minutes to Norwood the same month, he testified late yesterday.

"Catfish Car" Here On Way to Abilene

The "catfish car," a Miller special, was in Cisco this morning on the way to Abilene to the races tomorrow. It is owned by Frederick Bailey and will be driven by George Souders.

The car is reputed to be the fastest four cylinder machine ever built, having made almost 118 miles on hour in the trials at Indianapolis. Its motor makes up to 8000 revolutions a minute. There are four valves to the cylinder.

The car takes its name from its shape, which is streamlined throughout. It has a tail fin used for stabilizing it on the track, and all the curves in the body are gradual. The body is made entirely of aluminum. The car is equipped with a number of safety devices, one being the flexible steering wheel.

METHODISTS ENJOY DINNER AND PROGRAM

More than 125 members and friends of the First Methodist church gathered in the dining room of the church for a chicken dinner last night and a program of fun and seriousness. The principal address of the evening was made by the Rev. Kenneth Pope, pastor of the First Methodist church, of Breckenridge. He took for his theme "Doing What You Can With What You Have," basing a lesson in the miracles of personal service upon the story of the loaves and fishes with which Christ fed the multitude.

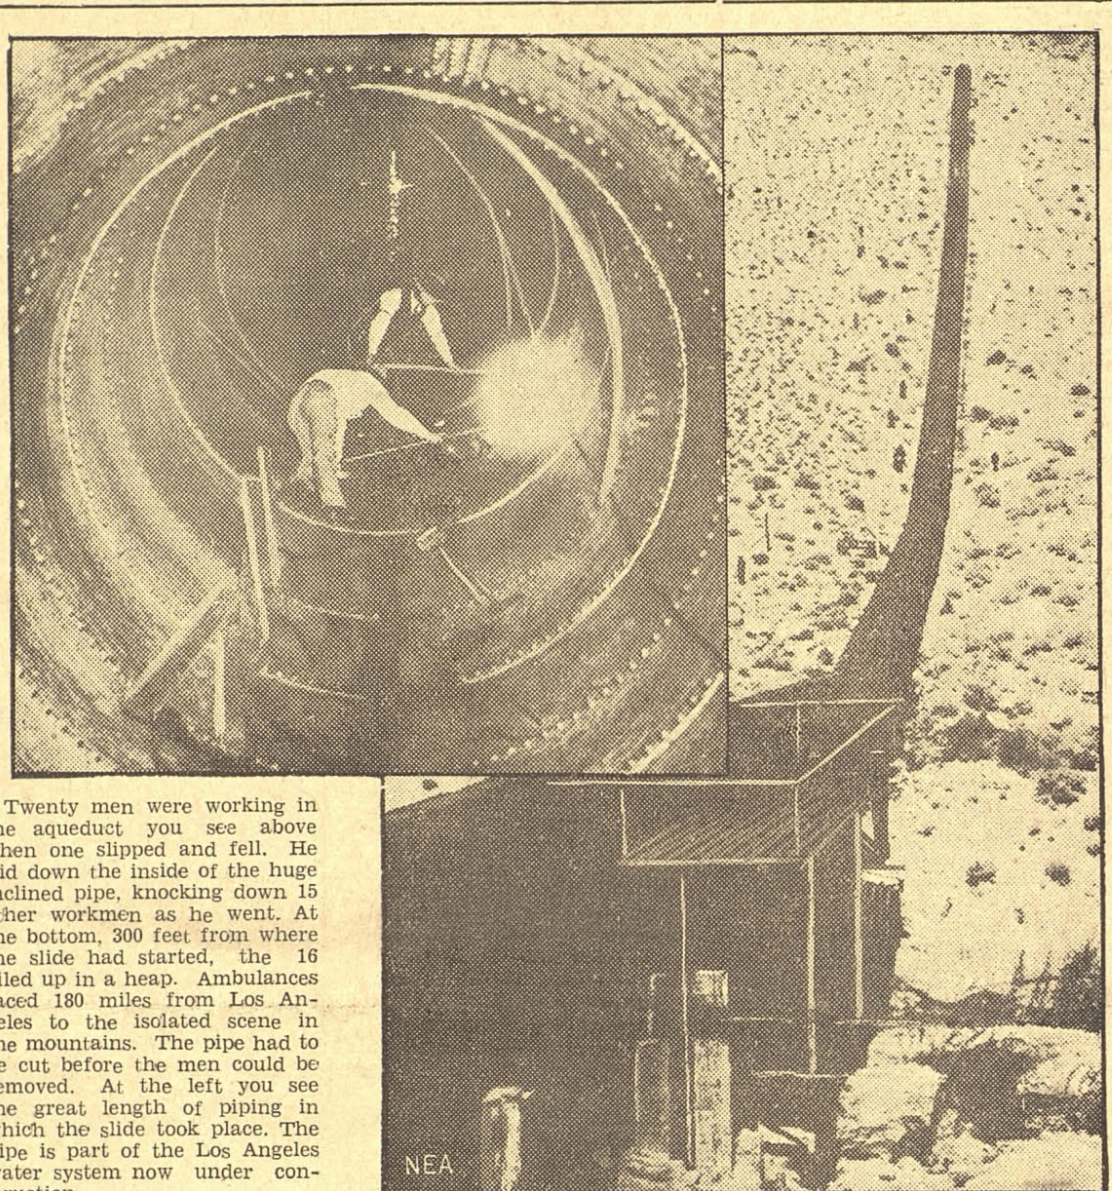

"If these five 'small' loaves and two fishes had not been given into the hands of Jesus," he said, "the multitude would not have been fed." He declared that it is not a lack of money, a lack of talent or a lack of brains that is the trouble with the nation and with towns and churches in particular, but a lack of a proper consecration of these resources and their proper use.

G. W. Oullum and his Lobo high school orchestra played. There were vocal solos by Miss Marion Chambliss, accompanied by Mrs. A. L. Thomas; and Riegon Edwards, accompanied by Miss Eileen Wilson. Mrs. Ben Krauskopf played violin solos with Mrs. Troy Powell accompanying.

A reading that set the house in an uproar was given by Mrs. Zella Blanche Moore.

Important talks were made by Dr. Hubert Seale, S. H. Nance and William Reagan.

Where "Shoot-the-Chutes" Injured 16

Twenty men were working in the aqueduct you see above when one slipped and fell. He slid down the inside of the huge inclined pipe, knocking down 15 other workmen as he went. At the bottom, 300 feet from where the slide had started, the 16 piled up in a heap. Ambulances raced 180 miles from Los Angeles to the isolated scene in the mountains. The pipe had to be cut before the men could be removed. At the left you see the great length of piping in which the slide took place. The pipe is part of the Los Angeles water system now under construction.

PLATFORMS OF THREE PARTIES ARE COMPARED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Ten major platform planks, aside from prohibition, demonstrate the issues between the Republican, Democratic and Socialist parties in this election. Here they are:

1. BANKING.—Republican: Revision of banking laws for more stringent supervision; investigation to solve permanently the problem of security affiliates operated by banks.

Democratic: Separation of security affiliates from banks and divorce of investment banking from commercial banking; further restriction in use of Federal Reserve facilities for speculative purposes.

Socialist: Socialization of credit and currency system; government ownership of Federal Reserve banks; creation of a government-owned banking corporation to perform all kinds of banking service.

For the Farmers

AGRICULTURE.—Republican: Maintenance of present agricultural aid including the tariff, the Agricultural Marketing Act which created the Farm Board, etc. Modification of the act as may be necessary.

Democratic: Extension of farm co-operative movement; improved agricultural credit; effective control of surpluses; condemns Farm Board "speculation" in farm products.

Socialist: Insurance against losses due to adverse weather conditions; shift of taxes from farm property to income and profits; increased federal and state subsidies to rural regions.

3. TARIFF.—Republican: Protective tariff.

Democratic: Competitive tariff for revenue.

Socialist: Create international economic organizations to deal with problems of raw materials, investments, money, credits, tariff and living standards from standpoint of world-wide welfare of the masses.

For the Jobless

4. UNEMPLOYMENT.—Republican: Federal government entering field of direct charity and direct individual relief; endorses emergency relief appropriation and local relief responsibility.

Democratic: Endorses shorter work-day and week; unemployment and old age insurance.

CISCO TO ASK REHEARING OF FOOTBALL CASE

Preparation of a motion for a rehearing of Cisco's application of a mandamus requiring the district Inter-scholastic league committee to put the 91st district court judgment in Cisco's football case into effect in spite of a supersedeas bond, an application denied yesterday, will be prepared today for filing in the eleventh court of civil appeals at Eastland, attorneys announced.

The appeal court held yesterday that the bond of $5,000 filed by the district committee to supersede the 91st court's judgment in favor of Cisco had been properly perfected. The opinion, written by Justice Leslie, held that to set aside the bond would be to destroy the subject matter of the case rather than preserve and enforce jurisdiction.

It gave two reasons for denying the application. One was that the district committee had properly superseded the district court judgment in filing a supersedeas bond and the other was that to grant the application would be to exercise "original jurisdiction" in the case and not appellate jurisdiction which alone the court has.

The court held that Cisco's contention that the proceedings to obtain a supersedeas bond by the district committee were improper are not sustained.

SIX HUNTED IN JAIL BREAK AT CLEBURNE

CLEBURNE, Oct. 28.—Search for six men, including one sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary for burglary, was under way here today following a jail break at the Johnson county jail.

The prisoners had sawed their way out of a second floor cell room, dropped to a lower floor and then dug through an old cement wall to freedom.

Howard Gray, 18 recently brought here from Huntsville prison and sentenced to two years for automobile theft, was arrested shortly after the break was discovered. He was coming back to the jail when arrested, he told deputy sheriffs.

DISTRICT OIL ALLOWABLE TO BE INCREASED

Omar Burkett, deputy supervisor in charge of proration enforcement in the west central Texas district, said today that the railroad commission's order effective October 15, cutting the district allowable to 21,250 barrels per day is being redrafted to fix the district allowable at the marginal well limits.

He said that the marginal allowable of the district is 31,385 barrels per day.

The effect of the revised order will be to allow full minimum production as permitted under the marginal well law, exempting from proration wells which do not produce the full allowable of their classes.

The marginal well law fixes limits of 10 barrels per day for all wells under 2,000 feet; 20 barrels per day for wells between 2,000 and 3,000 feet, and 40 barrels per day for wells deeper than 3,000 feet.

The new order will be put in effect as soon as received by Burkett's office.

CISCO LOBOES TAKE TO AIR TO DOWN PAPOOSES 13 TO 6

By FRANK LANGSTON

The Cisco Loboes had the better of an aerial game yesterday and downed the McMurry college freshmen, 13 to 6. The game was marked by intercepted passes, Cisco capturing 5, to 3 for the Papooses.

When the tribe from Abilene took to the air the Elkinsmen changed their defensive tactics, using about a 5, 3, 2, 1 formation. Caffrey and Cearley were backing up the line, with Chuck Van Horn, offensive pass threat, coming back to cover an end. Caffrey and Cearley were each responsible for two captured aeriels. And at that the Indians could not penetrate the Lobo forward wall consistently. To be exact, they made a net gain of 29 yards on the ground and 58 through the air during the entire afternoon. Cisco made a net gain of 72 yards on scrimmage plays and 111 by the more direct method.

Loboes Score.

The first touchdown came in the first quarter after Cisco had recovered a fumble on the McMurry 48 yard line. The Loboes lost a couple and were penalized 5. Then on third down Barker took the ball through right tackle behind perfect interference, cut back and left his interference, and literally outran the McMurry secondary defense for 55 yards and a touchdown. Garrett kicked goal.

A little later Cisco again threatened the goal line when Hagen McMahon got off a quick kick to catch the McMurry backfield napping, and McColl grounded the kick on the McMurry goal line. Blackburn managed to get off a punt on third down, however, and the position of the ball was reversed when Glover, Papooses guard, intercepted a pass and galloped 65 yards before being brought down on the Loboes' 12 yard line, where the ball went over on downs.

In the second period Van Horn took a 20 yard pass from McColl, putting the ball on the McMurry 10 yard marker. Brogdon recovered a fumble, though, and the Papooses punted out of danger. They intercepted a pass from Ray on the McMurry 40 yard line just as the half ended.

McCormury Starts Drive.

In the second half Captain Harliss began an offensive drive with a 23 yard run to the Cisco 20 yard stripe. Then he heaved a pass to Campbell for a touchdown. The Cisco line rushed through and blocked the kick, and the score was Cisco 7, McMurry 6.

Cisco retaliated a little later when Chuck Van Horn took Captain McColl's pass for 51 yards to the McMurry 1 yard line. McColl opened the last period by ramming the Papooses' line for a touchdown and giving the Cisco fans a chance to breathe a little more easily. Garrett's kick was wide. Making the score Cisco 13, McMurry 6.

Last Quarter.

Neither team managed to threat-

very seriously in the last stanza, though each gained on passes. Cisco used its "lea flicker" play successfully in this period, McColl passing forward to Van Horn, who whirled and passed laterally to Sterley for a 19 yard gain. This is one of the two plays on which Coach Elkins has been spending a great deal of time in the last three weeks.

Although the Loboes did not play the offensive game of which they are capable, they held off the McMurry attack, stopping both the running plays and the aerial game of the visitors. They lacked the pep, though, that they displayed in the Terrill game, which was due largely to the fact that they entered the game with the news that they were not to compete in the district race but would have to play outland ball the rest of the season.

McMahon Stars.

Hagen McMahon stood out in the line for his defensive work. It was the first game in which Hagen has shown up to the best of his ability, but he was in every play, spilling the interference and making the tackles. He was credited also with blocking the kick for the point after touchdown and with recovering a fumble for the Loboes.

Beside him Chuck Van Horn was working hard. Usually used as an offensive threat because of his ability to snag McColl's passes, he played a roving end game yesterday and blasted the hopes of the warriors wherever they tried to find an opening. He came back on McMurry's passes and was responsible for the failure of several to connect with the receiver.

New Ends.

Over on the other end Coach Elkins found a couple of good men in Garrett and Andrews. They alternated there, replacing Rutledge, starter in all the other games. Both boys are fast and worked hard yesterday, and one of them will very likely get the call to start the next game. Garrett was especially good on defense. Both are kickers, Garrett doing the place kicking, and Andrews a part of the punting.

Cearley, who started the season on the bench, developed a pass consciousness yesterday and intercepted a couple of aeriels and generally messed up the McMurry offense. Larch and Aycock spent most of the afternoon in the enemy backfield, as usual.

The Cisco backfield played the same general type of game as it has all season, the long run of Barker, the blocking and defensive work of Caffrey, and the passing of McColl standing out. St. John continued to show up as a candidate for a first string quarterback position.

Former Lobo Back.

The Papooses had two great backs in Captain Harliss and Robert Blackburn. Both were triple threat men, at all times dangerous to the

OIL MEN URGE AMENDMENT OF PRORATION

AUSTIN, Oct. 28.—Gov. Ross S. Sterling said this afternoon that he would "sleep over it" before making a decision about calling a special session of the Texas legislature to pass new oil proration laws.

If there is a session, he indicated, it would be called for next week before a new legislature is elected November 8.

The governor conferred today with leading figures in the state's oil industry who urged a special oil session.

A law similar to that of Oklahoma recognizing economic waste as preventable will be sought. A member of the oil delegation said, they believe the Texas law should be so amended as to permit the state railroad commission to prevent production greatly in excess of the market needs.

COOLIDGE AS A COLLEGE PRESIDENT.

Calvin Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith are holding down more commission jobs than any two important personages in America. Roy Howard in his New York World Telegram declares that a new cabinet position is to be created if Roosevelt wins, and Smith will be its head. Furthermore, that it will be the most important of all the cabinet jobs and its head will be given greater authority. Not to be outdone, the friends of Coolidge have insisted that he be named to head New York university as successor to Chancellor Elmer E. Brown. Coolidge is a contributor at so much per word to the magazines. Smith is editor of The Outlook. Likewise a highly prized writer for the magazines at so much per line. There are 11,000,000 jobless ones. Why crown the frigid New Englander and the Happy Warrior with a dozen well paying positions?

TURNING R. F. C. COIN LOOSE.

Money is said to make the world go round. Nearly 5000 banks with 14,340,000 depositors have been told by the Reconstruction corporation they may borrow $854,000,000 from the government. John Nance Garner and a democratic house voted to put over the act creating the R. F. C. It was the first time in 12 years that the Hoover administration had attempted anything to relieve the situation or make even an indirect effort to make jobs for the jobless ones the nation over as well as to protect the depositors and their deposits. Presidential election day is almost here. Teddy Roosevelt was ever a champion of emergency measures to meet emergencies when they bobbed up. He never waited three years or two years or one year. He always struck the anvil in advance.

COAST BANK DEPOSITS INCREASE.

Bank deposits rose $20,000,000 last week in seven Western states embraced in the 12th federal district with San Francisco the center point. This is a little earful and it is all right, but the seven great producing states of the Pacific coast and mountain district should make even a better showing. Perhaps it will come later along after the American voter has returned his verdict, and perhaps it will be another case of "just around the corner."

PRORATION KNOCKED SKY HIGH.

It has come to pass that a three judge federal court has sent down an opinion condemning as invalid orders and regulations of the state railroad commission in relation to the East Texas oil fields on the grounds "that they deal with economic rather than physical waste." This ruling was interpreted as meaning that the commission had the power to issue regulatory orders, but that those in effect in the East Texas field at present were unjust. The opinion reaffirms the validity of laws passed by the legislature relating to prevention of physical waste and reaffirms the power of the legislature to delegate this authority to the railroad commission and admits the authority of the railroad commission to make reasonable regulations and to pass reasonable orders in pursuance of the grant of authority. Lawmakers enact statutes. Courts interpret statutes. A three judge federal court interpreted the proration order of the commission and left that body hanging in the air grasping for breath. Now how will it be possible to stabilize the oil industry in the East Texas field or any other field. It is for the rail commissioners and their legal advisers to blaze a trail. Ross S. Sterling

Through the Editor's Spectacles

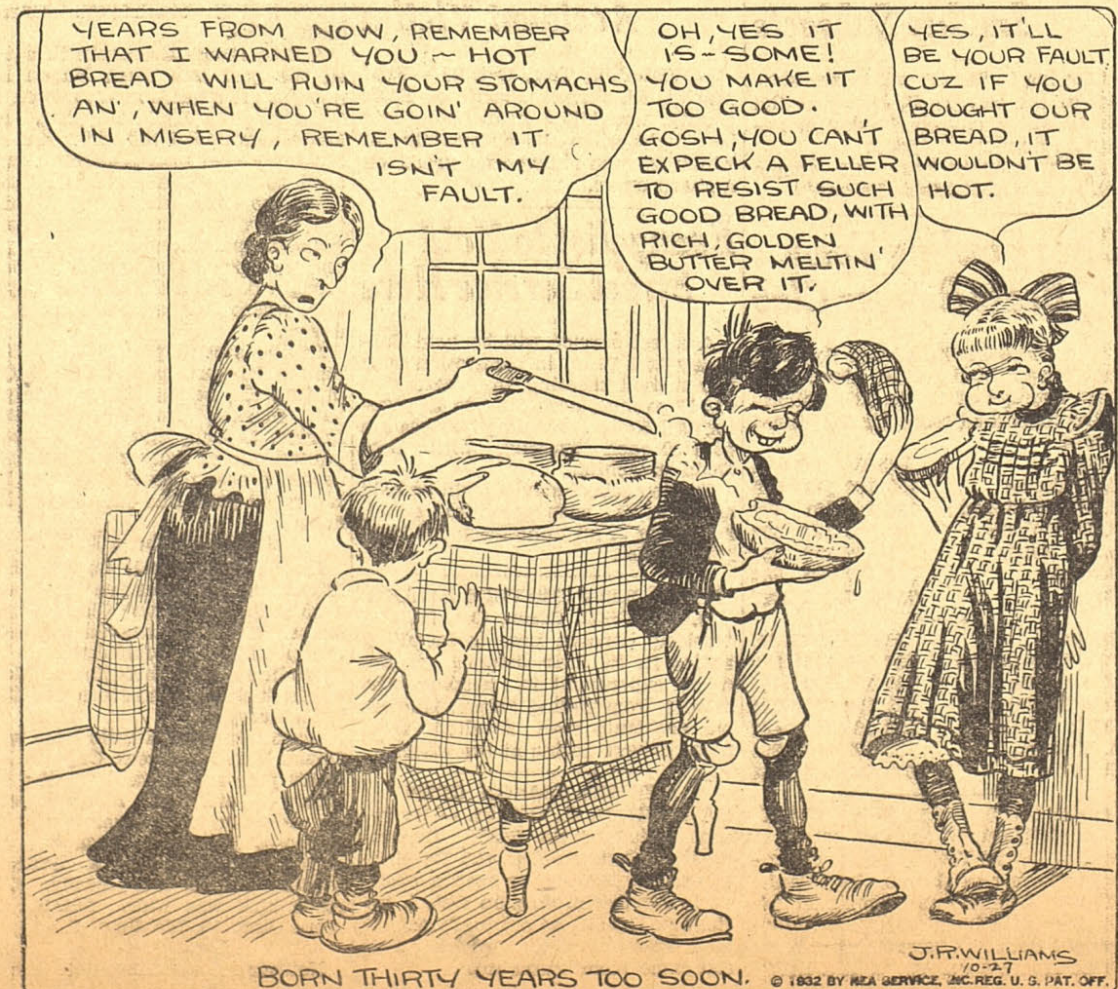

By GEORGE

Well, folks, it looks like the final move has been made so far as the Lobes getting to play in the Inter-scholastic league this season is concerned, and that there is nothing to do now but make the best of a bad bargain. The result is that Cisco is in the paradoxical position of having been made the victim through legal technicalities of an issue that was decided in our favor. The operations of justice are devious and often confusing. Sometimes when we think we have lost we have won and sometimes when we think we have won we have lost. Life is like that. We aim at the stars and get kicked in the seat of the pants. For instance a lot of us thought back in Prosperity days that Cisco was going to be a metropolis of some sort. Instead we got a $5,000,000 debt that scares us witless.

The Lobes may get the final decision in this case but it will be too late to do anything about it. The decision of the appeals court at Eastland which held that the district committee had properly perfected its supersedeas bond is going to cost every school in the district considerable money no matter how the case is decided. Each will lose one-half of the proceeds of a game with the Cisco Lobes — a game that has always been one of the biggest grid-iron drawing cards on the schedule of each. The court, of course, has no responsibility for that. It's duty was simply to interpret the law as it saw it and that is what was done. It does not make the laws, as its decision pointed out, but simply interprets them.

The members of the district committee and their attorneys assume responsibility. What a deep emotional state must underlie their ac-

Methodists Meet In Amarillo Nov. 10

AMARILLO, Oct. 28 — Assignment of several hundred Methodist ministers to posts for the ensuing year will be announced here at the conclusion of the Northwest Texas Texas Methodist conference, to be held in Amarillo beginning Nov. 10. Responsibility for placing the ministers rests with Bishop Hiram Abiff Beaz of Houston, who will preside at the conference, and his nine cabinet members.

The latter group, each representing a district, include W. M. Murrell, Abilene; L. N. Lipscomb, Amarillo; Mark M. Beavers, Clarendon; C. A. Bickley, Lubbock; E. E. White, Plainview; John Eldridge, Perryton; George S. Slaver, Stamford; and O. P. Clark, Sweetwater.

Bishop Beaz will outline for those at the conference ecclesiastical progress during the past year.

The Rev. J. N. Score, prominent south Texas minister, will address the gathering in sermonic discourse.

Preliminary district reports presented at pre-conference meetings indicate that numerous conversions and accessions to the denomination have occurred during the last year.

Three Texas cities, Abilene, Plainview and Clarendon, have already made known their desire to be chosen as the 1933 conference meeting place, with the result that a lively contest is anticipated.

Austin, Oct. 28 — These are views of a state senator whose leadership and record of public service are well established:

"Despite the acrid criticism of what is known as the rule of senatorial courtesy, the senator of Texas will not be led blindly to support any member in taking out personal or political spite on some individual before the body for confirmation.

"The senate believes, and the rule has worked out in practice, that a senator should know more of the merits of a matter from his district than any other member.

"We can function only so long as the senate can believe and rely in the assurances of one of its members.

"It looks like the season is open all the year around for taking a shot at the senate or legislature. I wonder if anyone ever comes to think about the sacrifice involved in the service of some members, or the hard work of all members.

"As to voting publicly on confirmations of the governor's appointees, I am ready to cast my vote in open session every time. I think, for the protection of individuals, the discussion and committee hearings on contested appointees should be private, otherwise any person, no matter how meritorious, would be subject to unjust public attack.

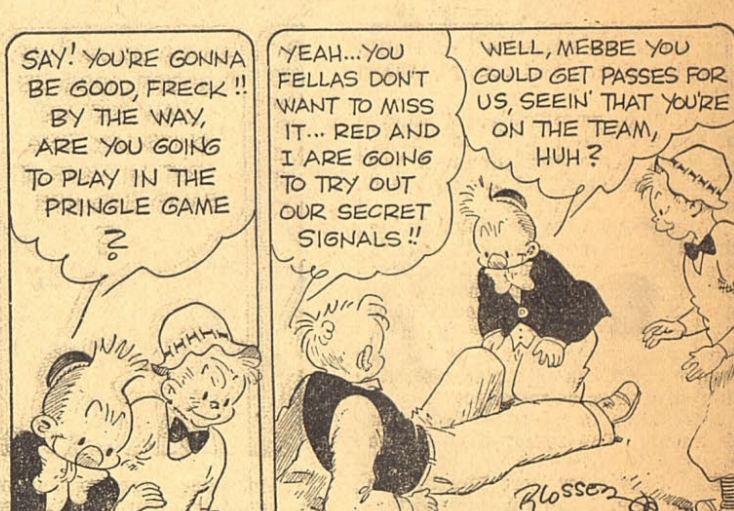

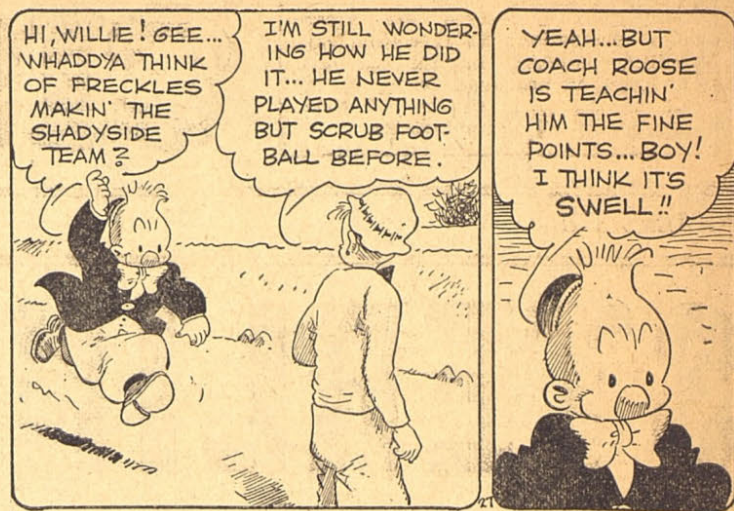

"In the matter of fee investigations, scores of officials were investigated and found to be strictly honorable, yet if their hearings had been public, a question would have been raised from the very fact of the official's appearance before the investigators.

"This senator said he believes since the senate is required to pass on the confirmation of appointees, it should perform its duty as a real responsibility, and not become "just a rubber stamp."

In all these views, he will find general concurrence. The United States senate abandoned last year, as out worn, the practice of voting in secret session on appointees. Its committee hearings on the confirmations are secret.

Apparently the constitution of Texas gives no direct instruction for secret sessions, only authorizing

ROOSEVELT IS HOLDING LEAD IN 41 STATES

Roosevelt is shown holding his lead of 3 to 2 over Hoover in the semifinal returns of The Literary Digest's nation-wide Presidential poll, according to tomorrow's issue of the magazine, which gives a tabulation of nearly 3,000,000 votes. This is a larger return than announced, than the final return of the 1928 Literary Digest poll.

Of a total of 2,933,600 votes tallied Roosevelt has 56.19 per cent, or 1,648,237 votes, while Hoover has 37.33 per cent, or 1,095,274 ballots, and Thomas has 141,992 votes, or 4.84 per cent of the total number counted.

Hoover shows a slight gain from 37.19 per cent of the total vote which he had last week.

Hoover continues to carry the seven states of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Jersey with only scant changes shown in the week's balloting in any of them.

Roosevelt continues to carry all of the other forty-one states. With over 300,000 additional ballots received and counted during the past week mailed from every section of the country, neither candidate shows a gain or loss in any state of more than 1 per cent.

In a division of the vote for apportionment in the Electoral college the semifinal returns would give Roosevelt 474 electoral votes to Hoover's 57.

The vote in New York continues to be closer than in any other state, also still carried by Roosevelt, making the outcome here still doubtful. Roosevelt is polling 167,084 votes to Hoover's 157,845, a very slight increase for the president over last week's returns.

The race is also very close in Delaware, where Roosevelt's lead has been cut from a plurality of 202 votes last week to 175 votes this week out of a total of 4,997 cast in the state.

The returns from "State Unknown" divide 58.47 per cent for Roosevelt and 33.65 per cent for Hoover, which percentage is still in excess of the democratic candidate's ratio for the country as a whole.

In an analysis of "how the same voters voted in 1928" Roosevelt is shown obtaining 37.19 per cent of his strength from former republicans, which is an increase over the ratio he received in last week's returns. The same analysis indicates that Hoover is obtaining 80.61 per cent of his votes from former republican ranks and 6.09 per cent from former democrats, which ratios are practically the same as those reported last week.

It is revealed also that Roosevelt continues to obtain more votes from those who voted for his rival in 1928 than from members of his own party in the twelve states of California, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Roosevelt continues his lead in the Republican stronghold of Pennsylvania, where the vote is divided 120,054 democratic and 88,885 republican.

Massachusetts still gives Hoover the largest plurality he receives in any state. He leads his democratic rival here by a vote of 57,707 to 33,023. Governor Roosevelt continues to show a clear majority in thirty-nine states in the polling up-to-date.

Kansas, regarded by many as a doubtful state, now shows a vote of 27,757 for Roosevelt to 22,372 for Hoover.

In California, the home state of the president, the democratic candidate has a lead of 143,584 to 77,875. Texas, which was registered in the Hoover column four years ago, now shows a vote of over 4 to 1 democratic.

Cisco Lad Stars For Texas Miners

"Red" Coldwell, former Cisco high school star is playing his fourth and final year of football at the Texas college of Mines this year. "Red," who has been playing a tackle position for the past three years, has made the mythical all far-southwestern team for two years, has been changed to an end position this year, and it seems that he bids fair to become the best end ever to play in this part of the country. His play to date has been one of the features of the four straight victories registered so far by the Miners. He is co-captain of the team this year — sharing the honor with J. B. Andrews, quarterback, who is also playing his final season.

ed of favoring Hoover and also of favoring Roosevelt.

"As an old campaigner The Digest is used to it, and makes allowances for politicians who may be a bit up in the air.

"Hoover still holds the same seven States—the New England group and New Jersey — and Roosevelt still holds the other forty-one, plus state unknown, which carries no electoral vote altho its ballot strength beats that of Connecticut.

"Hoover's potential electoral vote, as indicated by our semifinal figures, stands unchanged at 57. Roosevelt's at 474.

"Several states where the vote is close may be fairly classed as doubtful and may appear in the opposite column on November 8.

"They're the ones that the embattled candidates honor with visits and speeches. Literary Digest readers can have plenty of good clean fun by checking up these tactics on both sides with our semifinal figures.

"You'll notice that the states honored with visits and speeches are fairly evenly balanced in the poll also so that they have large blocks of electoral votes. It is seldom that anybody bothers much about the states of scanty electoral votes.

"Meanwhile the campaign has plunged into its bare-knuckle stage—the crisis of that quadrennial fever which disrupts American life, and throws the best of neighbors into a cat and dog feud until the passing of Election Day releases them from the spell and allows them to see what jolly good fellows they've been shaking their fists at."

The semifinal returns of the 1928 Literary Digest poll showed Hoover leading in forty-four states and Smith in four. The figures forecast that Mr. Hoover would capture four states of the "solid south" — Virginia, North Carolina, Texas and Florida — which he did in the election.

RANGERS TASK WITH MODERN BAD MAN HARDER THAN EVER

By WINSTON COPELAND
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Oct. 28. — By 1910 the last of the old-time Texas frontier bandits had gone, but in their stead came a new menace — the modern bandit.

The opening of rich oil fields, the attendant boom towns rampant with vice, and the consequent influx of "hard characters," gave the Rangers much to do. These characters carried the nerve of the old-timers but aside with rapid-fire guns and scientific devices.

The Ranger changed his tactics to keep pace. Horses were abandoned for automobiles, old-style six shooters for automatics.

The task of cleaning out oil towns fell to the Ranger. Local enforcement officers seldom could meet the occasion. The incidents are numerous where five or six Rangers, led by such men as Captain Tom Hickman or Captain Frank Hamer, strolled into a town 20,000, half-filled with desperadoes and "moved them out."

At the present time the Ranger force is getting a heavy dose of work in the East Texas oil field. In one raid there Hickman rounded up nearly 100 gamblers who succumbed to his detective tactics of donning a checkered suit, spats and glowing necktie, and joining the game as a "tin horn" gambler.

Quick Shift
Such figures as Hickman, Hamer and Capt. R. W. Aldrich made quick shift of the vice in boom towns as at Ranger and Mexia in the early part of the last decade, or Borger four years ago.

This is but a part of his work. The Ranger's job has become even harder than that of his predecessors. The code of the body has changed from "shoot it out" to "get there first and stop it," a much harder task, but the Ranger does it.

In March, 1927, two figures emerged from the Red River National bank at Clarksville. In their hands they carried money bags laden with $33,000.

"Halt!" The shout broke the stillness of the noon hour. Across the street stood four figures.

The two men reached for their weapons and as they did a volley of gun-fire resounded. Both robbers dropped simultaneously, one with five bullet wounds, the other with four.

Capt. Tom Hickman had "got there first and stopped it." He had worked on a tip the bank was to be robbed. The day of the robbery he parked across the street in a side-curtained car until he saw the men go into the bank.

True to Ranger code, he did not seek covering for protection. He stood across the street from the bank in full view of the bandits. As he took his place, Stuart Stanley, who had quit "rangering," and his father came up. Hickman gave them guns. Constable E. Q. Ivey joined them in time to get in the melee.

The Rangers never have worn uniforms, but a Ranger's entry into a town is unmistakable. His wide-brimmed hat, his air of confidence and the ever-present halo of western atmosphere mark him almost as surely as does the uniform of the policeman. He must disguise to remain incognito.

NINE INDIAN PRINCES OWN PAPER STOCK

LONDON, Oct. 28.—No less than nine ruling princes of India shortly will be among the share-holders of the "Pioneer," published at Allahabad, one of the best known Indian newspapers. The "Pioneer" thus qualified as the most royal of all royal newspapers.

A syndicate, headed by J. P. Sri-vasier, Minister of Education in the United Provinces, has purchased the newspaper. The Maharajahs of Kashmir, Baroda, Gwalior, Travancore, Bikaner, Patiala, Jaipur and Bhavnagar and the Nawab of Bhopal all have promised to buy shares in the paper, according to information reaching London.

Twenty-one-Gun Salute
Three of them, the Maharajahs of Kashmir, Baroda and Gwalior, are each entitled to salutes of twenty-one guns on ceremonial occasions. King George V is entitled to no more.

Saluting guns will have to boom 170 times if all the royal share-holders pay state visits to their property at the same time.

The Maharajah of Gwalior is only 16 years old, the Maharajah of Travancore only 20.

Needless to say, the policy of the newspaper will be anti-Gandhi and anti-Indian National Congress.

Stockholders' List.
An extract from the stockholders' list will probably read like this:
His Highness Saramad-Rajah-i-Hindustan Rajrajendra Shri Maharajahiraj Sawai Man Singhji Bahadur, Maharajah of Jaipur.

Put more SUNSHINE days on your calendar

How many days in the month do you feel your best? You can add to these sunshine days by simply obeying nature's laws.

The first of these laws is regular elimination. Avoid common constipation by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help aid regularity. ALL-BRAN also contains twice the iron of an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much more pleasant than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TECH TO PLAY NOTRE DAME "B" ELEVEN

LUBBOCK, Oct. 28.—One of the aftermaths of the biggest coaching schools held in the United States last summer at Texas Technological college, in which many of the country's most famous coaches participated, is the game in Lubbock with Notre Dame on Friday, October 28. Hunk Anderson of Notre Dame, an old friend of Coach Pete Cawthon of Tech, was in this coaching school and was so much impressed with the possibilities at Texas Tech that he agreed to send a team here.

While the squad coming to Lubbock is known as a "B" team, that does not mean that some of the best of Notre Dame's men are not coming to Lubbock. Fans attending the game here will see the famous Notre Dame system clicking as it should click and against a team that is using the same system. Cawthon says Anderson could keep 60 of his best men at home and then send a squad to Lubbock that would rate in the southwest.

The odds are against Texas Tech, of course in the forthcoming fray, but the Matadors are in the best of condition and their morale is at the highest point of the year. They are keyed to play inspired football against the fighting Irish.

Coach Cawthon's charges have amassed a total of 199 points this season in seven games to their opponents 13, a record equalled probably by no other team. And two of these games have been with Southwestern conference elevenes.

After Notre Dame comes Trinity university in Lubbock November 4 and the Baylor Bears on Armistice Day. November 19 sees Tech at Albuquerque battling the University of New Mexico. The Matadors will close the season at home November 24 with the annual Thanksgiving go with Simmons university.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON E. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

F. B. Cunningham, advertising manager of the Topeka (Kansas) Capital, says:

"Mrs. Housewife, the dictator of the family budget, reads and believes in her daily newspaper.

"Do you realize that today the woman spends 85 per cent or more of the family budget? She recommends how the other 15 per cent will be spent. She buys the furnishings and supplies for the home—her husband's clothes, a goodly portion of them, if you please.

"The daily newspaper is the paper to reach the woman. Recent surveys have shown that women invariably prefer the newspaper. Local and national advertisers who are appealing to women are more and more turning to the daily newspapers—they are actually beginning to place the large bulk of their advertising appropriations in the daily newspapers. Women invariably prefer their daily newspaper because they can find a larger selection of advertising to their liking—they find more and authentic feminine news—they can select and buy merchandise advertised almost the same day.

"The daily newspaper fulfills the needs of the average family readers particularly the women, because she can keep abreast of the times, with world wide happenings, local and state, of this or that woman's organization, the trends of fashion, club woman's news, society news; in short, the daily newspaper is where she meets and rubs shoulders with her neighbor; it's her daily market place, her shoppers' guide in the privacy of her own home. Newspapers therefore provide the most acceptable means of entering the home with Mrs. Housewife in a receptive mood, and, incidentally, the most economical means for any merchant of crying his wares to the masses."

William Linton Andrews, editor of The Leeds England, Mercury, says:

"Sometimes when I listen to windy talk about marketing plans, I want to get up and remind the speaker that markets are simply people. Some of the experts get entangled in forests of formulas. They ought to make it their job to get right through to the people.

"Those who make goods are short sighted if they look upon their goods as sold when they have deposited them in the warehouse of a wholesaler or upon the shelves of a retailer. No article is truly sold until it has reached the hands of the man or woman who actually intends to use it.

"The manufacturer, in order to sell the right people the right article at the right price in the right place at the right time, must not leave his marketing to the haphazard channels by which so many excellent commodities today reach the consumer. Marketing must advance step by step with making. The methods employed must sell more goods at less cost to informed customers who demand them.

"The modern factor in this business which alone can secure the cooperation of distributors, can find markets, can inform customers, and can reduce the cost of the whole operation, is advertising.

"The United States was the first country to discover that selling is made easier by the creation of 'pull' from the customer than by the exclusive use of 'push' from the manufacturer.

"One of the effects of the advance of popular education has been to make the reading of newspaper a universal habit. This in turn has built up the very large aggregate sales of newspapers today, and has placed at the disposal of advertisers the most economical producer of 'pull' so far discovered.

"Markets, I say, are only people, and newspaper advertising is demonstrably the most certain and economical and the simplest method of placing a sales message before the people. As an Englishman I take off my hat to those Americans who have led the way in sales publicity. We in Britain are benefiting by their example. We try to get right through to the people."

Trade leadership is won on quality plus advertising. It is not what a business man thinks of his business that counts—it's what the public thinks about it!

Truthful advertising brings customers to a store, and when that store sells goods or service built to a standard instead of to a price, they come back time and time again.

Advertising through the printed page makes a universal appeal.

Advertising has a way of forming new habits and changing old ones.

Persistent advertising is the key to greater volume.

People are not satisfied with just any old thing. They want the best. They know the best is always advertised. That is why they read the ads before they buy.

Business concerns that are persistent advertisers gain a reputation for giving values in both merchandise and service, for it is a well known fact that first-class concerns devote all of their time, energy and thought to quality and service.

Progressive merchants build and keep a profitable business by advertising quality goods at popular prices and then backing up their ads.

AUSTIN, Oct. 25.—When a student travels from Vienna, Austria, to Austin to attend the University of Texas there usually is some reason—so a representative of the university daily publication undertook to find out from Guy Dudley Meadows.

"Mr. Meadows, you are from Vienna, as listed in the student directory, are you not?" The reporter began. "Was it the climate, the hospitality, or just what was it that caused you to come so far to school?"

"Now," replied Meadows, "it's because I'm from Waco."

Meadows explained that he had listed his guardian's home in Vienna rather than his home in Waco.

LILACS IN SEPTEMBER
COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Oct. 28.—Because of the flood that struck Colorado Springs in August lilacs bloomed again in the city parks in September. The flood, botanists explained, stripped the lilac bushes of their leaves. Mother nature then started to work overtime in the bushes, in an effort to produce new leaves. The result was a fall crop of fragrant lilac blossoms.

The Cheyenne office during the month of June, topped the list with a total of 408 applications for homesteads, gas and oil prospecting permits and final proofs.

Stan Ball accuses Asper Delo, timber king, of having men shot who attempt to check up on his activities. He tells Delo he will see personally that he does not. Upon leaving Delo's office Ball saves Delo's daughter, from kidnapers and tells her he is Stanley Black.

Dudley Winters, in love with Dona gets with her to Three Rivers to get her father to give up his wild fight with Ball. Dudley plans to marry Dona and gets a certificate signed. Ball is accused of killing a ranger and of a number of crimes. He is supposed to have ambushed Delo and wounded him badly. Dona has to tell her father she is married to Dudley in order to quiet him and get him to give up the hunt. He agrees, but backs out when the offer is rebuffed. The posse surrounds Ball. They are headed by Swergin. Delo's timber boss, who has taken a fancy to Dona.

Dona joins the hunt and is captured by Ball after attempting to shoot him. He takes her to a cave, Swergin discovers the cave while Ball is outside and captures him, rescuing Dona. Swergin's men start to lynch Ball, but Dona steps in and saves him. He takes her with him but lets her have his horse to ride to camp. She returns it that night and Dudley follows her. He tries to shoot Ball, but misses. Dona is entranced and agrees to marry him. Dudley has been riding by himself a great deal. Dona agrees to marry him that evening. They ride out and Dona, who knows now she cares for Ball, leads him to the cave. Dona thinks Ball has left, but Dudley finds five coals. Dona discovers activity in Pass Creek that she is sure her father does not know about. She decides to ride over the next day.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Dona was up early and down to the corral before the rest of the camp was stirring. Malloy was nowhere in sight so Dona saddled the roan herself. She galloped up the slope toward Pass Creek.

She met the surprise as she cantered out at the top of Pass Creek divide. The world below her on each side was hidden in a misty shadow. Only the ridge was aglow with the golden splendor of the sun.

Dona sat on her horse and looked down into the valley she was about to enter. She was sure adventure beckoned to her, sure that she would soon know the secret of all the trouble in the Three Rivers country.

The trail was rough and unused for a half mile. Then several trails joined it, apparently coming from above but from different angles and it became a beaten pathway that showed recent heavy use. Dona pushed on along this pathway for another half mile. She began to grow uneasy as the trail widened. She would be sure to meet someone on so well marked a road.

With a sudden feeling that she was about to come upon another rider she pulled out of the trail and took to the timber. This made the going slower.

She came to the edge of the clearing, the sought, guided to the spot by the roar of a truck motor. The timber had become so heavy that it was impossible to see any trail marks or landmarks behind her. Dona thanked her luck that she had always had a keen sense of direction.

Discounting she hid the roan in a dense growth of brush and berry bushes. Her next step was to push forward in the direction of the truck. The job of forcing her way through the brush was a difficult one for a slender girl, but Dona was determined to see what was going on.

She came to an opening in the trees and peered out. What she saw made her lips tighten. The clearing had once been piled high with cut lumber and poles. She could see the propped and the planks they had been piled upon. Several thousand feet of lumber still remained. Two big trucks were loading from the remaining stacks.

Dona's eyes sparkled with anger as she watched the men at work. A heavy voice bellowed an order and Dona stepped back quickly. She recognized that voice—Swergin was directing the work. It was plain that this timber was being sent out without checking, if it was not being deliberately stolen by the boss.

Dona began to understand things more clearly than before. But she could not make up her mind. She must ride in and see her father. She would have a straightforward talk with him. If Swergin was stealing from the company he would meet with a lot of trouble.

She worked her way back to her horse and mounted. Her return begun secretly than her approach. She realized that if she was caught she might be dealt with roughly. Swergin would not hesitate to keep her prisoner until he had finished his job.

She kept off the trail until she was well up toward the top of the ridge. When she could see the pass ahead she cut across and located the pathway. Riding swiftly she topped the pass and halted. The roan blew noisily and bawled to be on his way, but Dona quitted him with a pat on the neck for she was suddenly interested in the back trail.

A stone rattled below and a branch snapped. Dona turned the roan and slid from sight over the pass. Someone was riding up from below and it might be Swergin.

The roan trotted along eagerly while Dona watched behind her. A stone came rattling down into the trail from above and she glanced up the hillside. She caught a flash of a black horse and the wide Stetson hat of a rider. Her heart jumped wildly and she strained her eyes, but the rider had vanished above her.

Dona urged the roan a little faster and listened for sounds from above. She had the advantage in a race if she chose to let her horse out because she was on the trail and the man above was in the rough timber.

The rattling of stones from above became very distinct as her pursuer put his horse to a gallop to keep abreast of her. Dona's eyes suddenly lighted up. If that was Ball she would show him that he could not overtake her. She hated him thoroughly as she remembered how he had looked as he promised to stay out of the country.

Dona slapped the roan smartly with her quirt. He leaped down the trail and the race was on. They thundered out into a meadow and crossed it like a sweeping stampede. Dona caught sight of her pursuer breaking from the timber behind and to her right. He was bending over his horse's neck urging it on. The black horse was flying along with an easy stride that made Dona sure Ball was pursuing her.

Into the timber the roan plunged while the black came clattering after. Dona smiled as she realized that her horse was equal to the black if not a little faster. She bent forward and urged the big fellow on.

The roan laid his ears back and let his stride out a trifle. Only a horse born and bred to the hill country could have kept his feet at such a pace on a rocky trail.

They shot out into another little meadow and Dona glanced over her shoulder. The black was still on her right, but was losing ground. Dona ducked low and used her spurs. The cowboy on the horse was pulling a rifle from under the flap of his saddle.

After that the race was real. Dona forced the roan to his fastest pace and held to what cover she could pick without leaving the trail. Her pursuer had ceased to try heading her off and was following along the beaten path. His horse with solid footing, had ceased to lose ground. Strive as the roan would, he could not get away.

The camp was not so far away and that made Dona feel hopeful of escaping. There was one more clearing to cross and she entered it lying flat on the roan's neck and urging him to his best speed. Behind her the black shot out into the open as he gave chase.

The rider who was pursuing her rose in his stirrups and raised his rifle. A bullet cut the dirt close to the roan's heels. Dona's lips drew tight and she strained forward as though to help her horse. Another bullet cut the dust on the other side. These were warning shots and aimed to stop them, but she did not stop.

The third shot did not loosen a spurt of dust and Dona felt the roan falter. Her heart beat wildly and anger blinded her as her horse lurched to one side. The man behind her had wounded the roan. The big horse pounded on but his stride was broken and rough and he was having trouble in breathing. Dona eased up in her saddle and prepared for an attack. It was certain that her pursuer would overtake her now.

Another shot rang out, close behind this time. Dona did not look back but she knew her horse had been hit again. He broke and staggered, then, before she could clear herself, he plunged forward and fell.

Dona swung one leg loose but could not free the other. The roan hit the ground and rolled over. A screaming pain shot through her right side, then a swirling blindness swept over her and all was still and blank.

INDUSTRY GETS AID FROM VON PAPAN'S PLAN

BERLIN, Oct. 28. — Several branches of German industry are experiencing a slight improvement as a result of the von Papan cabinet's fight against the crisis.

The most important part of von Papan's 12-month plan (namely, the tax remission scheme) became operative on Oct. 1; hence its effect cannot yet be appreciated. Two other measures had previously been enforced, however; they are first, the granting of permission to employers to pay lower wages in case they employ additional workers; and second relief for the farmers.

Wage cuts have contributed to stimulating the labor market, although on only a small scale. Thus it is reported that 11,000 additional workers have found employment throughout the Reich on the basis of the wage-cut decree. The total number of newly employed workers probably however, is higher. It is authoritatively announced for example that the number of workers in the Saxon textile industry alone has increased 5,400 since von Papan's decree.

On the other hand, the wage reduction has led to strikes throughout the country and involving several thousand workers. Business improvement practically is limited to the textile, leather, and food industries, while the basic branches of production like mining and building continue to grow worse.

The question of agricultural relief is being discussed. While the government and its supporters regard farm relief as the foundation of a new and better national policy, some critics affirm that von Papan's measures are not sufficient to save the farmers; while others complain that the government's pro-agriculture policy is going too far.

MENUS FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY

If you are planning to keep open house the afternoon of election day, or to serve something to guests waiting for returns in the evening, nothing could be more in keeping with the occasion than old-fashioned election cake with coffee.

The traditional election cake is dark, rich, spicy and fruity—a most delectable concoction that our grandmothers reasoned would appeal particularly to the men-folk who did the voting in those days.

Election Cake

One compressed yeast cake, 1 cup lukewarm water, 1 tablespoon granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon lard, 6 cups flour, 1 cup butter or other shortening, 2 cups brown sugar, 3 eggs, 1 cup seeded raisins, 1 cup shredded citron, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 1/2 teaspoons soda.

Dissolve yeast cake in lukewarm water. Add lard, granulated sugar, salt and 2 cups flour. Mix thoroughly and let stand in a warm place overnight, or six to eight hours. Then cream butter and slowly beat in brown sugar, beating until creamy. Add 1/2 cup of flour and mix thoroughly and stir into mixture. Mix thoroughly and turn into buttered and floured deep cake pans. Cover with a cloth and let stand in a warm place until double in bulk. Bake one hour in a moderate oven.

This cake should be baked about a week before wanted for use. It will keep a long time, so the rule is a large one, making three large loaves of cake. They can be frosted or not, as you prefer, but the fruit makes a frosting unnecessary unless particularly wanted.

ly. Add eggs well beaten. Add raisins, citron and lemon juice and beat into batter. Mix and sift remaining flour with spices

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Sections of grapefruit, codfish balls with tomato sauce, toasted cornbread, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Turnip and potato puré, spinach and egg salad, baked quinces, milk, tea.

DINNER: Casserole of veal steak, boiled rice, creamed Jerusalem artichokes, stuffed prune salad, cocoanut cream pie, milk, coffee.

THE MUSICIANS of Nathaniel Shilkret's orchestra accompanied the voice of Caruso, although they could not hear it. Shilkret wore ear-phones and directed his men accordingly.

The PINE PROFESSIONAL CATERPILLAR

ALWAYS LAYS A SILKEN TRACK WHENEVER IT LEAVES THE NEST, SO THAT IT MAY FIND ITS WAY BACK, AND IT ALWAYS TRAVELS WITH OTHERS OF ITS KIND, END TO END, IN SINGLE FILE.

FABRE, THE GREAT NATURALIST, ONCE STARTED A PROCESSION OF THESE CATERPILLARS AROUND THE RIM OF A VASE, AND THEN CUT THE SILKEN LINE TO THE NEST. THE CATERPILLARS TRAVELED AROUND THE RIM EIGHT DAYS BEFORE FINDING THEIR WAY HOME.

• IN ALBANIA • IF A GIRL GROWS UP AND DOES NOT MARRY THE MAN CHOSEN FOR HER, IN CHILDHOOD, SHE BECOMES A MAN-WOMAN! SHE DRESSES LIKE A MAN, BEARS ARMS, AND CAN INHERIT PROPERTY AS A MALE.

PINE PROFESSIONAL CATERPILLARS may seem like very dumb creatures, in following a circular path around the rim of a vase for eight days, before discovering something wrong. But they were doing the thing that they had been taught by instinct to do — to follow their own silken life-line, that would lead them back home. How were they to know that the line had been joined in a loop and that they were on an endless track?

met in the basement of the church for a covered dish luncheon Wednesday. Tables and room were attractively decorated with autumn flowers.

The invocation was given by Mrs. O. O. Odum. Mrs. Clifford Yeager gave two piano selections, one "Con-fetti" and the other a composition of her own, "When the Minister Comes to Tea" and "When Daddy Kissed the Cook" were read by Mrs. Ocie Leveridge.

The class president, Mrs. Johnny Cox, took the chair for a brief business session. Mrs. V. L. Thompson was elected press reporter.

The following members were present: Mesdames Ocie Leveridge, J. P. Parish, Hubert Seal, Ted Huestis, O. W. Ford, Smith Huestis, Milt Williams, R. W. Merckett, John Peters, J. W. Thomas, W. C. McDaniel, H. V. McCorkle, Ed Huestis, and Johnny Cox, and Mesdames O. O. Odum, Butts, and Clifford Yeager, guests.

Cisco team. Besides, they could back up the line and run back punts equally well, and alternated at these two positions on defense. Blackburn, former Cisco back, was largely responsible for the McMurry gains because of his blocking ability, and was the hardest tackler on the freshman team, despite his lack of weight.

Up in the line the Papooses had a real tackle in Brogdon. Big and fast, he was hard to keep out of Cisco plays. Beside him was Campbell at end, a good man on both offense and defense. He snagged two passes for the fish and scored the touchdown for them. He had the difficult assignment of taking out Latch, Lobo tackle, on offense.
