17 HOURS AHEAD POST-GATTY RECORD
NOVO SIBIRSK, Siberia, July 18 — Wiley Post, American around the-world flier, took off at 1:55 a. m., EDT, today for Irkutsk, 879 miles away. He was 17 hours and four minutes ahead of the record he and Harold Gatty made two years ago.

Of the 15,400 miles in the globe-circling flight, he had covered 6,500 miles. He must get back to Floyd Bennett airport, New York, before 9:30 p. m., EDT, Sunday to better his record with Gatty.

BAIL POSTED FOR HARRIMAN IS FORFEITED

NEW YORK, July 18 — Joseph W. Harriman remained on the missing list when his sanity hearing was called in federal court today, and Federal Judge Francis Caffey ordered forfeited the $250,000 bail on which the banker has been at liberty.

A bench warrant for Harriman's arrest was issued.

Harriman, grey-haired former president of the Harriman National bank, was sought in New York city, in New Jersey and on Long Island as fears grew that when he slipped away yesterday he went with the intent of committing suicide.

A special watch was kept at the Long Island grave of his son who died in 1928. His death was said by relatives, testifying in an attempt to prove the former banker irresponsible and save him from trial on charges of falsifying his bank's books, to have started the decay which they swore had gone so far that Harriman could not follow trains of thought or help prepare his own defense.

Doctor Says Noise Undermining Life

WAUKESHA, Wis., July 18 — "Americanitis," a disease caused by the speed, suspense and noise of modern living, is attacking modern life today, according to Dr. F. J. Woodhead.

"In the machine age, it is the survival of the fittest," says Dr. Woodhead. "The strain of the age is demonstrated by the fact that although disease and the death rate are decreasing, the number of insane in the United States is increasing."

"If nerves were made of steel like the vast sinews of machinery there could be no objection to the efficiency of modern industry, but Dresden china, is no more fragile than the human nervous system. Either may break under unnatural strain or rough handling.

"Time was when people who complained of noise were told, 'You'll get used to it,' but recent studies have proved definitely that noise is a menace to health."

DANIELS OUT; NO NEW CHIEF IS SELECTED

Acceptance of the resignation of Grant Daniels as Cisco chief of police at a meeting of the commission last night was announced today by Mayor J. T. Berry.

Mr. Daniels offered his resignation yesterday and the commission was convened last night to act upon it.

No successor to Mr. Daniels has been named, the mayor said, nor has any temporary chief been appointed. The mayor indicated that the commission will "take plenty of time" in the selection of a new chief.

At the meeting, also, the commission ordered purchase of a Chevrolet truck without cab to replace a fire truck that is out of commission. The new equipment will cost approximately $650. Purchase of the equipment was necessary to maintain a credit on the Cisco fire insurance rate, it was explained.

TEXAS GRANTS 187 CHARTERS DURING JUNE

AUSTIN, July 18 — The record of Texas charters made impressive gains during June, as recently reported by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

According to the secretary of state, charters were granted to 187 new corporations during June, a total which, according to records going back to 1915, has been exceeded only by the totals of 244 for June, 1927 and 205 for June, 1928. Last year in June, 174 charters were granted.

Total capital stock authorized during June amounted to $2,732,099 a gain of 38 per cent over that for May, but scarcely half that for June a year ago, $6,461,000. Six of the new corporations had authorized capital stock of $100,000 or more, whereas 66 were capitalized at $5,000 or less.

Oil companies numbering 49 received charters during the month of June, the largest individual group; merchant and firms accounted for 44 of the new corporations, and manufacturing firms were third with 29 new corporations. New charters were granted also to 18 real estate and building companies and to 11 banking and finance concerns. Also included in the total were 5 transportation corporations, 2 public service companies, and 29 firms grouped under the miscellaneous heading.

Permits to operate in Texas were granted to 24 out-of-state corporations, a rather small number. Last year in June, 27 out-of-state corporations received permits to do business in Texas.

DALLAS C. OF C. EXAMPLE CITED TO HELP GOVT

DALLAS, July 18 — A precedent set by the Dallas chamber of commerce is being cited to similar bodies all over the United States by leaders at Washington entrusted with administration of President Roosevelt's national industrial recovery act.

They are urging that chambers of commerce everywhere follow the lead of the Dallas organization in calling state-wide meetings of industrial executives to effect cooperation with the administration program.

On June 26 the Dallas chamber called together 1,200 business, labor and industrial officials in a conference, the first of its kind in the United States, to study the recovery program and initiate preliminary plans for participation in it.

Since that time hundreds of trade and business groups have held meetings here, numbering sometimes as many as six or seven according with the national plan.

The June 26 meeting resulted in calling another meeting at which the Texas Industrial Council was organized. The council will hold its first post-organization meeting here on Monday, July 17, to climax the activities of individual groups whose meetings have occupied the center of the stage here during the past several weeks.

The council is to be made up of presidents of all cooperative trade associations in the state and representatives from industries not now participating in a trade association. Each association has the privilege of designating some officer other than the president, if it chooses, as its representative on the council.

RISKED LIFE TO SAVE DOG

PORTLAND, Ore., July 18 — Unmindful of his own life, James Whitt, 17, threw his life preserver around his pet dog when a canoe they were paddling upset recently. The preserver kept the animal afloat until harbor police rescued them. Whitt clung to the canoe.

LARGER GROUP SEEN FOR FFA ENCAMPMENT

Response to invitations sent 158 schools which maintain Future Farmer chapters inviting them to send groups of boys to the annual Tri-District Future Farmers encampment here August 7, 8 and 9, has been gratifying, said E. H. Varnell, director and Cisco vocational instructor, this morning.

The attendance of last year from about 25 schools is expected to be greatly exceeded by attendance this year, he said, due to the fact that the number of encampments held over the state last year has been decreased. In anticipation of this larger group for the camp that will be held at Lake Cisco, the fee has been reduced from $2.75 to $2, he said.

Schools to Be Represented.
Among schools which have already notified him of their intention to send groups of F. F. A. boys, is Comany which is planning to bring 34 here for the encampment. Haskell is another school which will send a delegation while boys from Rochelle, May, Colorado, Santa Anna, Breckenridge, Throckmorton, Dublin, De Leon, Stephenville, Rising Star, and other nearby schools will be here for the three-day event. This list does not include schools at greater distances which are expected to be represented, Mr. Varnell said. The encampment is planned to cover a radius of 200 miles.

Program for the encampment has been blocked out and details of it are being completed. It will be educational and recreational.

Ollie B. Webb, of the Texas and Pacific railroad, has offered members of the chapter winning most points in the contests, free transportation over that railroad to the state fair at Dallas on Vocational day.

ETCC Will Sponsor District Meetings

DALLAS, July 18 — Six district meetings sponsored by the East Texas chamber of commerce will be held in the near future for the purpose of considering the national industrial recovery program as it applies to east Texas.

Glen Davis, assistant manager in charge of the chamber's Dallas office, said in announcing the meetings the problem of how east Texas retailers and wholesalers may organize under the recovery act will receive special attention at the meetings.

"The apparent conflict between provisions of the act and the state's anti-trust laws will be studied closely," Davis said, "to determine how east Texas business men may participate in the national program without violating the laws of their state."

A poll of Texas newspapers, considered to be accurate barometers of public opinion in their communities, showed the publications voting 11 to 1, Davis said, for unreserved participation in the administration program, regardless of the effect on national and state anti-trust laws.

FEDERAL MEN ARE SENT INTO E. TEXAS FIELD

TYLER, July 18 — Interior department representatives today made preparation to police the east Texas oil field to prevent interstate shipments of oil produced in violation of state proration orders.

Professor J. Howard Marshall, of the Yale university school of law and Dr. Norman Meyers, acting special assistant solicitor for the interior department's investigation, made up an advance guard which arrived here last night.

They were to be joined today by A. D. Ryan, of Washington, who is to be the federal agent in charge of the government's activities in the field. A corps of agents who will police the field was expected later.

Lightness of Piccard Gondola Will Aid Scientist's Flight Into Stratosphere

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series on the proposed stratospheric flight of Dr. Jean Piccard, dealing with the physical equipment the scientist will utilize on his trip. The next will deal with the purpose of the flight.

CHICAGO, July 18.—The extreme lightness of the gondola in which Dr. Jean Piccard and Lieutenant T. G. W. Pettie will make a third stratospheric flight in the interests of science, will allow their balloon to ascend to a height of 11 miles, the scientist believes.

Should the light, spherical gondola, attached to a Goodyear balloon, attain that altitude, it would exceed by one mile the height reached by the chemist's twin brother, Professor Auguste Piccard, who already has made two ascensions in attempts to wrest from the skies the secret of the cosmic ray — a secret still held from earthbound scientists.

New Sphere Lighter
The aluminum gondola used in previous flights weighed approximately 300 pounds. The new sphere, in which the chemist and his naval aide plan to take off from the Century of Progress Exposition here this month, weighs but 200 pounds, and Dr. Piccard counts upon this saving to give him the greater altitude.

His gondola, made of Duralumin, a metal lighter than aluminum, was constructed under his direction by the Dow Chemical Company of Midland, Mich. Shaped into eight perfect segments of a sphere, each resembling a section of orange peel, the strips were welded together to form the complete ball, and capped at each end for additional strength.

The gondola is suspended from a Goodyear-Zeppelin balloon of 600,000 cubic feet capacity, 100,000 more than employed in the balloon used in last year's European flight. It will rise from the ground but one-fifth inflated, but will expand itself into a perfect sphere before it reaches the stratosphere. The hydrogen will be expanded to 10 times its sea level volume through decrease in the air pressure on the upward journey.

Two Manholes.
Two manholes, one at the top and one at the bottom of the gondola, are quick-acting for emergency exit, although they are sealed tightly once the passengers are aboard.

Portholes of the gondola are fitted with double optical glass. One at the top leaves the operating cords of the balloon visible at all times; eight others arranged around the sides of the ball are for observation purposes; and another is placed on the bottom of the shell.

Two special quartz glass windows in the upper section will allow for installation of a spectograph for

NOTICES ARE SENT OUT BY SEC'Y TODAY

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Sec'y of Agriculture Wallace today notified county agents in the cotton belt that farmers might be permitted to destroy that part of their cotton acreage which they have contracted to take out of production without waiting the arrival of formal acceptance of their contracts.

Wallace also notified wheat belt farmers today that he will proceed with his wheat production control program in spite of short crop predictions.

NO NOTICE RECEIVED BY COUNTY AGENT.

County Agent J. C. Patterson, at Eastland, said early this afternoon that he had received no notification from the department of agriculture to permit Eastland county farmers to go ahead with plowing up cotton they have contracted to destroy.

He said that there were still numbers of instances in which local committees have not approved individual contracts in which these committees consider production estimates too high. Instances of this are being "ironed out" as rapidly as possible, he said, but he was uncertain as to what disposition should be made of such unapproved contracts in the event the government orders actual destruction of the cotton so contracted to begin.

CROPS' VALUE INCREASES OVER TWO BILLIONS.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Economic commodity prices have increased the American farmer's cash and potential return on four leading crops by more than $2,150,000,000.

This huge gain, attributed partly to effects of the Roosevelt recovery program and partly to unfavorable crop reports, was calculated today on the basis of the increase in prices of cotton, corn, wheat and oats since March.

Its significance is best realized when compared with other depression statistics. It is equivalent to more than half the amount tied up in closed banks. It is almost equivalent to one-half the year's grossed farm income, tentatively estimated at $3,000,000,000.

If the rise can be converted into crop dollars, it will turn a heavy deficit from farm operations in 1932 to a tidy profit in 1933. The increased value were being most appreciably felt in the 16 cotton states, the great western wheat plains and the middle western corn belt.

Alabama, Arkansas Voting Upon Repeal

(By United Press)
The drive to repeal the 18th amendment underwent its crucial test today as the first states of the traditionally dry south to consider the issue voted on the 21st amendment. The states were Alabama and Arkansas. A light vote was being cast in most sections of Arkansas in the first hours of balloting. The vote for the state probably will be less than 200,000.

If wets take the two states repeal was believed likely this year. Sixteen states have voted repeal. None so far have voted against it.

THE NEW SECURITIES LAW.

The new federal "honesty in securities" law, points out David Lawrence, Washington correspondent, probably never will fulfill one of its main purposes, which is to give authentic information to the prospective investor. But he suggests that it will achieve a good end by making the seller of securities more cautious both of the character of the investment he offers as well as the manner in which it is presented to the public.

As it is understood, the new law does not require that every material fact concerning an issue of securities be stated in an offer of sale. On the contrary it requires that no material fact which is necessary to keep any statement that is made from being misleading to the prospective customer be omitted or misrepresented.

$90,000 FOR EASTLAND COUNTY.

Eastland county will share in the federal emergency highway building fund to the extent of $90,000 on the basis of recommendations made to the federal bureau of roads by the state highway commission.

Cisco has no criticism to make of the distribution of the work in the county. The program under which the grant is to be expended provides for practically completing all of Cisco's present cardinal highway needs.

ARKANSAS WILL REFUND.

Arkansas has a highway building debt said to amount to approximately $146,000,000. The last Arkansas legislature passed what is known as the state highway bond refunding act, which provided for refunding all forms of the road indebtedness.

Its members, the governor, treasurer, and state comptroller, face the doubtful task of balancing the state's budget with an ad valorem tax.

ing or acquiring any information that may in any way aid in securing compliance with any tax law or revenue law in this state."

The board has seldom used those powers. Appropriations have been insufficient to allow the board to do any work other than that of assessing intangible assets, the state auditor pointed out.

Under present tax laws, 12 or 15 state agencies are collecting state taxes. No one of them devotes its entire time to that subject.

Another evil of Texas' tax system has been recognized.

The man who scraped and saved to pay his ad valorem taxes may be penalized as much as 30 per cent because his neighbor did not do the same. Delinquent state, county and local taxes last year totaled $46,725,000. Taxes collected totaled $151,368,085.

The burden of the unpaid sum is thrown back upon the taxpayer. In other words, the man who would have paid only $50 in taxes must pay $75 because of the many citizens who do not pay—a heavy penalty on John Citizen, who wishes to pay the bills of his government as well as those of the butcher and baker.

The legislature determined to do something about the tax situation in Texas, and labeled its effort senate bill 412. The new law provides $50,320 for the biennium beginning September 1, for the support and maintenance of the state tax commissioner's office.

The commissioner is given broad powers for the collection of certain delinquent taxes. The law also broadens and strengthens the powers of the state tax board to make it a vital unit in state government.

Travis county's grand jury made no report on its investigation of lobbying during the 43rd legislature because it was afraid to do so.

The word "afraid" needs qualification.

At intervals during its five weeks session, it was learned, the grand jury examined ginger ale bills, compared hotel records and questioned witnesses. A special report on its investigation of the powerful $2,000,000 "third house" of the legislature was planned in an effort to awaken public opinion.

On reconsideration, however, it was feared if the report on lobbying were issued, the public would also desire to know why no indictments were returned. Apparently, evidence was insufficient for an indictment. And so, the grand jury recessed without returning either a report or an indictment affecting lobbying.

BARGAIN BRIDE by KATHARINE HAVLAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ELINOR STAFFORD, 20, falls in love with 25-year-old BARRETT COLVIN, who has returned to NEW YORK after years abroad. Barrett has made a name for himself as an archeologist. He is about to ask Elinor to marry him when her jealous, scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, intervenes and succeeds in breaking up the romance.

When Elinor's aunt, wealthy MISS ELLA SEXTON, dies she leaves her entire fortune to Barrett. Then drunken VANCE CARTER, who inherits BENNETT STAFFORD, Elinor's father, Barrett, who does not want the Sexton fortune, tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live in his home as a guest for a year he will give the entire sum to her to divide among the relatives.

The marriage takes place next day. Barrett finds himself falling in love with Elinor over again. Then one day he writes with BOB WELFARE and believes she has been meeting Welfare secretly. His suspicions are renewed and he treats her coldly. This makes Elinor miserable.

Her father's health is slow to improve and the doctor advises a warmer climate. Elinor goes with her father to Aiken.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXII

ELINOR wrote Barrett stilted little notes about the weather, her father's condition, and the routine of the household. He read them thin. He could not help it. He carried them in an inner coat pocket and scorned himself for keeping them. He tried to burn them one night in the library fireplace. Instead he burned the hand that salvaged them.

Toward the end of April Barrett saw Lida Stafford for the first time since her daughter had gone south. Lida appeared on a Sunday morning, wearing a dress so simple a man would call it plain, though to a woman it bore the unmistakable stamp of Paris.

"My dear Barrett!" she murmured, gliding into the library. Stiffly he took her outstretched hands. He heard her ask, "Lonely?" and responded heavily, "Very!"

"You must dine with me some night, Barrett. I would so like to know you better!" He murmured vaguely about having to get a great deal of work out of the way. He detested the woman!

Lida settled by the hearth. She stretched a slender foot toward the fender. Her ankles were still quite as good as Elinor's, she saw happily.

"I came in because I have found myself to be in the most amazing position," she began.

"Yes?" he prompted without enthusiasm.

"Overdrawn again! Can you fancy it, Barrett? I simply know nothing of figures! And I can't seem to learn!" He said nothing. "I knew if Elinor were in town that she'd help me out—for a little time—and this morning I thought, "But what is more natural than to turn to my Elinor's husband? The man whom she so adores!"

HE opened his cigar case, offered her one and lit one for himself after lighting hers.

"Mrs. Stafford," he said slowly after a moment's silence, "the last time Elinor lent you money—which you have not returned to her—I told her I did not like it. She promised me she would not do it again. You see, therefore, that, while I am sorry to refuse you, I cannot help you out—"

Lida grew white, her eyes hard. She laughed harshly.

Without heeding the interruption, Barrett went on. "Elinor settled on you and your husband a large fortune, more than I wanted her to settle upon you—"

"I quite believe that!" Lida broke in scathingly.

"If you can't manage on that you couldn't manage on any amount," Barrett said, stolidly.

"What a delightful lecture!" "You'll have to pull up or be very miserable," he stated. "Easy spending is a habit, you know—"

She rose. With a slow, almost insolent gesture she pulled her fur close around her soft, white throat.

"I shall not forget," she said, "that I came to you for help and that you refused me!"

"I'm sorry you feel as you do, Mrs. Stafford. Can't you see that when I asked Elinor to refuse you aid I pledged myself to do the same thing?"

"Elinor would not have to know."

"I do not lie, Mrs. Stafford—"

Her face hardened. She caught the implication he had not meant to make with his statement.

Lida smiled.

"We usually number these cases," the man went on. "For one thing it makes telephone calls easier. Your case will be—" he consulted records—"6072B."

If she could find her proud and lofty son-in-law in a compromising situation how she would put on the screws! And someone had said he drove to Connecticut often.

Monday found Lida abroad early. She usually woke about 10 o'clock to bathe and return to bed for her breakfast. After that she would dawdle over letters, the newspapers or perhaps a sensational novel. Then came the fine art of dressing which always took an hour and often more. As the clock struck one she usually sauntered forth to meet some one for luncheon or to hunt up diversion for the day.

This Monday morning found her up at eight and dressed by nine. In her car a half hour later she ordered Grier to an address on a side street.

The chauffeur, waiting before this address, smiled the cynical smile that came often to his honest Irish lips. His eyes were on the gilt lettering that appeared on a plate glass window. Women like Lida Stafford went to detective agencies for just one reason—to ferret out secrets to use for blackmail or a divorce.

GRIER wondered about Mrs. Stafford's errand as he waited in the new car she had bought the day after her daughter's marriage. "She can't be havin' that husband of hers shadowed," he mused. "He can't get gay, like he is to his bed and a wheel chair!" Grier gave up the riddle.

Meanwhile inside Lida had explained her errand. The sleek individual who sat back of the desk had listened to her tale and written Barrett Colvin's name and New York address on a pad. Now he said, "We'll do all that is possible and we'll keep you informed, Mrs. Stafford. If the facts are what you think they are and Mr. Colvin makes a trip to Connecticut soon it won't take us very long to give you the lowdown!"

Lida smiled.

"We usually number these cases," the man went on. "For one thing it makes telephone calls easier. Your case will be—" he consulted records—"6072B."

Lida wrote, "6072B" in a small engagement book, murmuring as she did so, "Thank you—"

"Not at all, Mrs. Stafford—"

She rose and drew her coat around her. The man's eyes appraised her, running over her slowly from head to foot and back again. Lida was warmed, reassured. She had been so alone since Vance Carter's "absurd outbreak." Men had been shy of her. She had once or twice felt the threat of age and wondered what she would do with time—and herself—when she was old. She had no investment that would return peace as the fire burned low. She did not realize her lack of resource. She thought only, "Old age is hideous!"

She left the place smiling over the memory of this strange man's threat of age and wondered what her daughter would have shuddered at their light and struggled to forget it.

The day was clear, unusually warm. "Perhaps," Lida mused, "Barrett will drive up there this afternoon!"

NATION'S GOLF STARS SET FOR WESTERN TILT

MEMPHIS, July 18. — From virtually every section of the country, the cream of the nation's golfers will invade Memphis starting July 24 to play in the Western Amateur Golf tournament this year.

Gus Moreland, of Dallas, will come to the Memphis Country club course to defend the title that he won last year, and opposing him will be Ira Couch, of Chicago, runner-up in the 1933 play.

The entry list closed July 17. Sure to be on this list are Chick Evans, eight times winner of the Western and one of the outstanding figures in American golf; Johnny Lehman, a former champion; Don Armstrong, state champion of Illinois; Johnny Banks, Western Junior champion; Rudy Knepper, of New York; Charlie Seavers, Los Angeles; Johnny Dawson, of Chicago; Don Moe, of Portland.

The south will send its best golfers in an effort to wrest the western crown for this section. Four former Dixie title holders are expected to be among the entries. They are Ralph Redmond, of St. Petersburg, Fla., recently crowned king of Dixie golfers; Emmet Spicer, of Memphis, twice holder of the southern title; Sam Perry of Birmingham, another who has held the southern title twice; and Chasteen Harris, 1931 Dixie champion, of Memphis.

The Western covers a lot of territory that ranges as far east as Buffalo, N. Y., runs into the Pacific ocean on the west, and parts of it extend into Florida. Then any golfers who live outside the territory may play by invitation of the association.

Two players from Panama will be in the field by invitation. They are Captain R. W. Ryden and R. W. Ryden, Jr. The younger Ryden is champion of Panama.

Underworld at Crossroads as Status of Liquor Trade Changes, But Rackets Go On

By C. C. NICOLET
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1933, United Press)

The underworld of New York is in a state of flux, revolutionized by the rapid change in status of the liquor trade, but the racketeers go on collecting just the same.

The once profitable illicit beer business is gone, and whiskey has become an over the counter commodity which offers only a meager portion of the revenue it provided until a few months ago. As far as New York is concerned, the 18th amendment already has been repealed.

Thus the dependable revenue from alcohol for which the gangs once fought with guns and knives has been eliminated and the "mobs" are at the crossroads. They must increase materially their revenue from rackets, or face extinction.

"If we can get the racketeers on the run they will never come back," says Chief Assistant District Attorney Thomas Kane.

"I believe we are getting the upper hand."

New York is the ideal city, geographically, for the racketeer. Except for the Bronx it is built on islands, and that makes it easy for the underworld robber barons to control the passage ways through which all commodities must come. From a head of lettuce to a carload of steel, everything shipped into New York pays its tribute.

Protection Fee

A Gloucester fisherman cannot dock his schooner and put ashore his cargo without paying a "membership fee" to a "protective association." If he pays, he is unmolested; if he does not, his fish may rot on the docks or his crew may be beaten even shot, by waterfront thugs.

The racket permeates New York so thoroughly that from the baby's milk to the grandfather's coffin tribute may be exacted.

"We go about racket prosecutions quietly," Kane explains. "We try to get the victim before the grand jury before the racketeer knows we are preparing a case. That way we can get his story without having him intimidated first. But the victim almost never makes the complaint. We have to find out about it from some outside source, and go to the victim and persuade him to tell his story."

With federal action, the racketeer will lose the tremendous advantage that he now has. Kane points out, because of the fact that New York city itself is divided into five counties, each with a different prosecuting organization.

The city's gangs are disrupted by assassination and federal prosecutions on income tax charges.

Vincent Coll and Vannie Higgins are dead.

Arthur Elegenheimer, better known as Dutch Schultz, is in hiding because of an income indictment.

Is Behaving

Owney Madden has just gotten out of Sing Sing on parole and he is behaving with circumspection.

Of all the metropolitan gangsters, Waxey Gordon, safe in his Jersey stronghold comes closest to exercising his old time sway.

By an accident he escaped assassination in the first days of legal beer when the Schultz mob from New York tried to keep him from stretching his influence across the river. Max Hassel, his Pennsylvania ally, was killed instead.

In both New Jersey and Pennsylvania the Gordon-Hassel gangs and their allies have succeeded to some extent in putting legal beer on a racketeering basis, and there is ample evidence the New York gangsters are exercising all their influence in the hope of getting money from beer

Perfidious Savages..

IN THE Torres Straits Islands in the East Indies, there are no trees suitable for canoe building. So the natives, a cruel, treacherous race, import their canoes from the Fly River Delta in New Guinea—another place with an unenviable reputation. The distance between these two places is over four hundred miles, and no native in that region travels even one-quarter of that distance.

When a canoe is wanted, the word is simply passed on from tribe to tribe. On the strength of this vague order a canoe is built. Then it is relayed back. Each tribe of bloodthirsty cannibals tests and discusses it before passing it on. Finally the payment, shell necklaces, spear points, arm bands, makes its way to the canoe builders in the same leisurely fashion.

There is reason for this honesty in savages to whom perfidy is natural. If any of the parties in this complicated transaction were to risk being dishonest, their credit would be ruined. And though these natives may kill and eat each other, they hold barter inviolate.

Even savages understand that in commerce it pays to be honest, and to let the world realize your honesty! So in modern business, Advertising must be honest. It is a proof of honesty. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its quality, usefulness and value.

The man who advertises is inviting your inspection. He is letting his goods stand on their own merit. He can't afford to deceive you. You can depend on him. That's why it pays to read advertising and to buy advertised goods.

Any one can spend money --- the reader of advertisements spends wisely

TEXAS NAT'L DEMO GROUP ENDS DUTIES

The Texas democratic national campaign committee will cease to function August 1, its purpose having been "fully discharged," a letter from Roy Miller, director, to all members of advisory and district executive committees today announced.

As a result of the committee's efforts, the letter states, total funds contributed by Texas democrats to the national campaign were $175,000. Individual contributions approximated 23,000.

A copy of the letter was received here by Will St. John, state democratic committee man for the 17th district.

Letter

"Inasmuch as the purpose for which it was created has been fully discharged, the present activities of this committee will be terminated and state headquarters at Austin closed effective August 1.

"In concluding the intensive campaign which the committee has waged in the interests of the democratic party in Texas for the past ten months, I desire to express grateful appreciation of the selfless and patriotic services of hundreds of fine men and women who have constituted its executive committees in the eighteen congressional districts and others who have cooperated so generously in its program. It should be gratifying to them that the objective we sought to achieve at the outset of the national campaign was fully achieved. Realizing, of course, that Texas would record an overwhelming majority for the national ticket, our only purpose was to place our state in the forefront of a great democratic victory. As a result we had the satisfaction of seeing Texas take first place in majority of votes cast for the ticket and we achieved the distinction of contributing more money to the national campaign fund than any other state except New York.

"Confronted with a tremendous deficit, incurred to insure a glorious victory, Chairman Farley of the national committee, shortly after the election requested our committee to continue its activities in an effort to raise additional funds to assist in liquidating the debt. The democrats of Texas, having now had an opportunity to render this additional service, there appears to be no further need to continue the activities of the committee.

Total Funds

"Total funds raised by the committee or contributed by Texas democrats direct to national headquarters have amounted to about $175,000. The number of individual contributions approximated 23,000. When our final report is made we will send you the definite figures.

"Few of those who participated actively in achieving these gratifying results have sought favor or job in compensation for their services. They have been and are content to find their reward in the splendid achievements of our great president and his administration in the re-birth of our beloved country. I commend them for their unselfish patriotism. Those who only for the sake of the cause itself bear the heat of its battles, rarely seek to divide the spoils. That is usually the business of the camp followers and non-combatants who in safety and complacency travel in dress parade in the rear of the victorious army.

"I desire to express grateful appreciation to Senator Margie Neal, my co-director, for her unflinching cooperation. The democrats of Texas owe a special debt of gratitude to Frank Scofield, our director of finance, who since the inauguration of the campaign ten months ago, has devoted his time and splendid talents to the work of the organization. To him is chiefly due the remarkable record made for Texas in the raising of funds. I am grateful also to W. H. Kittrell Jr., of Dallas for the skillful and efficient manner in which he handled the publicity work of the committee.

Referred to Adams

"Those who are interested in party matters from a national standpoint should hereafter communicate with Jed C. Adams, national committee man, who is now a resident of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, national committee woman, at Corpus Christi. Those who seek patronage should also communicate with them and with Senators Sheppard and Connally and their congressional constituents.

"I am sending copies of this announcement to President Roosevelt, Vice-President Garner and Mr. Farley, Chairman of the National Committee, advising them that the members of this committee and its various district and county organizations, comprising in their respective personals hundreds of patriotic men and women of Texas whose only interest is the democratic party as an agency of service to our country, stand ready at all times to aid them in respect to any issue or problem that concerns our party's welfare or our country's good.

"Assuring you of my grateful personal appreciation of your generous and unflinching cooperation at all times, and urging that you command me whenever I can serve you in any way, I am with warmest good wishes,

"Sincerely yours,
"ROY MILLER,
"DIRECTOR."

Reach for a Lucky for always Luckies Please!

I learned about "Toasting" from my husband

I used to think that "Toasting" was just an advertising phrase. But one day my husband explained to me what "Toasting" is—and what it does. Where he learned it all, I don't know, but I began to understand the difference in cigarettes. Now I find myself enjoying Luckies' mildness and fine taste with a new respect. But even more—since I am a woman quite sensitive to personal daintiness—and since my cigarette and my lips are so intimately related, I especially appreciate the comforting purity of "Toasting". Naturally, with me it's always "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"
