Recurrent "Settling Tremors" Disturb Quake Section

NO EPIDEMIC THREATENED, DOCTOR SAYS

LOS ANGELES, March 13. — Increasing intensity of "settling tremors" spread fear through Southern California's earthquake-stricken area today. Counting its dead at 135 and estimating its property damage possibly as high as $60,000,000, the section was disturbed by heavy recurrent shocks. A tremor at 5:16 a. m. was the strongest since the original jolt Friday. Thus far, seismologists estimated, more than 1,000 separate "settling quakes" have rolled northward across the area. The medical situation was well in hand, Dr. Charles Decker, of Los Angeles, appointed to direct the relief work, said today. Dr. Decker declared there was no epidemic of any kind in Long Beach or surrounding territory.

Regrets Reports. "I regret very much that some sources have seen fit to declare that epidemics of one kind or another are raging or threatened," he said. "This is not the case and there appears to be no danger that the situation will get out of hand."

At Long Beach Charles F. Henderson, reconstruction director, wired the governor asking the legislature immediately to appropriate $500,000 for emergency food supplies.

A survey made by the United Press in Long Beach, indicated 85 per cent of the homes had sustained visible damage, ranging from caved-in roofs to total destruction.

First mail to be delivered in Long Beach since the disaster was ready for distribution today. Both post office structures were wrecked and two clerks killed. The department's personnel, however, established an open air post office on a vacant lot.

McADOO WOULD APPROPRIATE $5,000,000. WASHINGTON, March 13. — Sen. McAdoo, Dem., Calif., introduced in the senate today a resolution to appropriate $5,000,000 for relief of the California earthquake zone.

Zangara to Die Week Beginning March 20. TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 13. — Gov. Dave Sholtz today signed the warrant for the execution of a sentence of death against Giuseppe Zangara, slayer of Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, and set the date for some time during the week of March 20.

"Mason Model" Wins Stock Show Crown. FORT WORTH, March 13. — "Mason Model," exhibited by J. D. Jordan, 14, of Art, Texas, today was selected grand champion steer of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show here today.

The 895 pound Hereford steer won the crown over 149 entries and won for its young owner $115 in cash prizes.

Many Activities Carried on by Chamber Of Commerce During Year, Report Shows

A year of varied and fruitful activity is reflected in the annual report of Se'cy J. E. Spencer of the chamber of commerce just submitted to the board of directors of the institution. The report covers in summaries all avenues of activity through which the efforts of the chamber have been extended in Cisco's interest during the year. Due to the unusual economic conditions which have prevailed, it points out, a great share of the time and program of the organization has been devoted to relief work. That situation is uniformly true of all chambers of commerce, however since these agencies were the most readily available and the best equipped for the distribution of the various forms of relief that have been provided during the depression.

The report covers highway activities, oil, agriculture, federal building, federal loans, educational promotion, industries, R. F. C. relief, Red Cross and so forth.

In the field of highway development it recites activities in relation to two major projects—the Weatherford-Strawn cut-off on highway No. 1 and the state designation of the Leary cut-off, joining Cisco by direct route with cities to the north and opening up to better exploitation a fruitful trade territory in that direction.

In this connection it says: The Cisco chamber of commerce took the initiative in developing and organizing sentiment in favor of the Weatherford-Strawn "cut-off" among those towns which would benefit therefrom, from Ranger to Midland. During this campaign your president and secretary, and members of the highway committee, attended various meetings in numbers of towns in the course of which funds were raised and an organization perfected to assist the Texas highway commission in this work. This organization assisted the highway commission in securing the right-of-way through counties hostile to the new road. As a result of this work, contracts have been let by the commission for the construction of the road-bed through Parker, Erath and Eastland counties, which work is now under way, while most of the right-of-way has been secured through Bell and Tarrant counties, with prospect that the remainder of the roadbed will be contracted at an early date. Unless some unforeseen interference occurs, the road is now assured and its early completion in prospect.

Designation of the Leary road intersecting highway No. 67 nine miles north of Cisco and giving this city a direct paved outlet north, was realized in November, and fences are now being set back to widen the right-of-way for immediate rebuilding. The chamber of commerce joined hands with county officials and has been instrumental in bringing this about.

The chamber also worked with county officials and the state highway commission in an effort to pave a gap in highway No. 23 between Rising Star and Cross Plains, and this work has recently been completed. It also had a part in eliminating a dangerous curve in highway No. 1 four miles east of Cisco.

Persistent correspondence was carried on with congressmen, government officials and others in influential positions in the effort to hasten construction of the federal building, the report says. "In spite of the fact that it appeared hopeless at times because exhaustion of funds appropriated for public construction" it declares, "the effort was continued from different angles with the result that the building is now under construction."

Cooperation with oil men active support of a tariff on imported oils and assistance in the organization of groups of operators and in sending delegations to appear before the Texas Railroad commission at hearings of vital consequence to the oil industry marked its efforts to encourage promotion of the petroleum industry here.

Assistance in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Beautification campaign here as well as active cooperation with the West Texas regional commercial organization in other programs is cited.

Efforts to secure a poultry packing plant after destruction of the Le Plant by fire, and also to

BANKS BEGIN REOPENING TO DO BUSINESS

DALLAS, March 13.—Banks in many parts of Texas were reopening today under national or state regulations, ending a banking holiday proclaimed by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson ten days ago. Permission of State Banking Commissioner James Shaw was required for the reopening of state banks. Member banks of the federal reserve system were being issued licenses to reopen by Gov. B. A. McKinney, of the federal reserve bank here. Five member banks and six banks not members of the federal reserve were open here today. They found it unnecessary to call on the national treasury for any new currency. All major banking institutions in Fort Worth were open, accepting payroll checks for deposit or collection subject to unlimited withdrawals. They also accepted checks given in payment of cattle for slaughter purposes. It was probable that all state banks would be open by Wednesday.

99-Year-Old Pioneer Dies Here Sunday

Mrs. Frances Sue Johnson, 99, for more than half a century a resident of this part of the state, died at 1:30 yesterday afternoon at the home of Charles Nossk, near Cisco, where she had been living for some time. Mrs. Johnson's daughter, Mrs. Pearly Kilborn, died in 1920. She has a nephew, Bob Pressley, of Sulphur Springs.

Mrs. Johnson had been an invalid for some time before death occurred yesterday.

The funeral was to be held from Wippen's funeral home this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with interment in Oakwood cemetery.

ANNUAL PIANO TOURNEY TO BE HELD MAY 11-13

ABILENE, March 13. — Under the auspices of the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, the fifth annual All-Southwestern Piano tournament, inaugurated in 1929 by Irl Allison, dean of music Simmons university, will be held this year in eleven different units on May 11, 12, and 13th.

These eleven units will be held in localities as follows: West Texas district at Abilene; North Texas at Dallas; Central Texas at Waco; East at Tyler; Southeast Texas at Beaumont; South Texas at San Antonio; Southwest Texas at El Paso; Texas Plains at Lubbock; New Mexico district at Albuquerque; Oklahoma district at Oklahoma City; and Louisiana district at Shreveport.

Piano students of all ages of grade school, high school and college rank from Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Louisiana are eligible to enter their entire repertoires and receive a fair rating on each selection played. Rewards will be blue, white, and red ribbons, and gold and silver seal certificates signed by the supreme judge.

Contestants do not compete against each other, but against the National standard of excellence, embracing three honor ratings, superior, excellent, and good. It is therefore possible for any number of talented students to share the highest honors and be equally rewarded.

Dr. John Thompson, of Kansas City, famous teacher and composer, will be the supreme judge of the tournament. A uniform standard of judging will prevail in each unit, making a final elimination unnecessary. District and Southwestern winners will be chosen from the reports of all units. A board of competent judges to assist Dr. Thompson has been appointed.

For the first time, piano teachers will also be rewarded with gold and silver seal certificates, signed by Dr. Thompson on the collective blue ribbon rating attained by their pupils. Bernard Richards, Abilene, is the general secretary of the tournament.

Record of Commercial Failures in Texas Provides Encouragement for Business

AUSTIN, March 13.—"Whatever other forces may cloud the business horizon, the record of commercial failures in Texas continues to stand as one from which considerable encouragement may be derived," it is stated in the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research report on commercial failures during February, 1932. "Of course, no one will deny that each failure represents a business tragedy for some individual but the numbers of these insolventcies has been kept at a level much lower than in previous depressions and, in fact, lower than in some "good" business years. "For example, according to weekly reports from R. G. Dunn and Company there were only 71 insolventcies in Texas during the month of February; this number is smaller by 13 per cent than that for February a year ago and the average for February during the past fourteen years. Since 1920, there have been seven cases in which the total number of failures during February was greater than the number for the month just past. "Total liabilities were $1,421,000 during February, a decline of 13 per cent from the $1,734,000 total liabilities reported in February a year ago. The average size of the bankruptcies was also smaller than in February a year ago, as is shown by the fact that the average liabilities per failure this year were $20,014 as compared with $21,146 in February, 1932. "Groceries and meat markets shared first place in the number of failures, with thirteen insolventcies in each of the two groups, while drug stores came third with eleven failures; last year these three groups accounted for ten, eighteen, and six of the failures respectively. The rest of the failures were distributed among numerous small general stores group involving as many as six failures."

SAN ANTONIO MAYOR FOUND DEAD IN BED

SAN ANTONIO, March 13. — Mayor C. M. Chambers, former district attorney here and prominent in city and state politics, was found dead in his bed today.

The 52-year-old executive complained of an acute attack of indigestion last night. His body was found by his wife this morning.

Chambers was father of the movement which elevated John Garner to the vice-presidency of the United States.

Marion Olson Bar Association Officer

He is a graduate of Cisco high school and the University of Texas and the Harvard Law school.

He has returned to San Antonio after a visit with his parents here over the week-end.

$800 More in Gold Received By Cisco Bank

Eight hundred dollars more in gold coin, representing accumulation of the precious metal since Friday, was shipped to the federal reserve bank at Dallas this morning by the First National bank. Alex Spears, cashier, said. The bank's first shipment was valued at $1,712.50. This makes a total of $2,512.50 in gold which the Cisco bank has collected and deposited with the Dallas federal reserve bank since the current moratorium was invoked.

U. P. MOVES TO PROHIBIT NEWS BROADCASTING

NEW YORK, March 13. — All broadcasting of United Press news will be prohibited if the American Newspaper Publishers association at its April meeting votes to support that policy, provided the other two major news services follow suit. Karl A. Bickel, president of the United Press, declared today in a letter to L. B. Palmer, general manager of the A. N. P. A. Bickel's letter follows: My Dear Mr. Palmer: I am advised that at the annual meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers association in New York next month an effort is to be made to solve the problem of the relationship between the newspapers and news broadcasting and to define what your association's attitude will be toward the broadcasting of news by your members.

Two years ago, upon the occasion of the first extended discussion of the question before an annual meeting of your organization, the United Press associations addressed a letter to the A. N. P. A. and declared its readiness to join with your members in working out a solution of the problem. In the meantime the issue has become one of the increasing interest and controversy.

The United Press has always taken the position that its relationship with radio was dictated by what was the best interests of its clients. This is still our position. Our business is that of serving the needs and advancing and protecting the interests of newspapers receiving our service.

We took both of these steps because they appeared to us to be in the best interests of our client newspapers.

Up to this time we have not prohibited our client newspapers who either directly own radio stations or who have control of time upon certain stations, from broadcasting United Press dispatches. We insist that no United Press dispatches be used in connection with any advertising program. This is in accordance with the judgment of the radio committee of the American Newspaper Publishers association.

The United Press, at this time, desires to make its position in connection with the broadcasting of United Press news by client newspapers definite.

The United Press is ready to prohibit broadcasting of its news dispatches at any time the membership of the American Newspaper Publishers association votes to support that policy, provided that the other two major news services also agree.

The problem of newspaper news broadcasting is primarily a newspaper question. The newspapers themselves, through their national organization, should determine the best interests of the industry. Once determined, the United Press pledges its fullest cooperation in seeing that the desires of newspapers are made effective.

In order that the position of the United Press associations in this matter may be clearly understood, I am sending a copy of this letter to the officers of the Associated Press and the International News Service for their information. With cordial best wishes, Sincerely yours, (Signed) KARL A. BICKEL.

Senate Stops Revolt On Roosevelt Plan

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The senate today beat down a rebellion against the Roosevelt plan to reduce veterans' compensation and federal payrolls.

CONGRESS IS ASKED TO ACT IMMEDIATELY

WASHINGTON, March 13. — President Roosevelt, in a surprise move that startled even his closest friends, today sent a message to congress calling for the immediate modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of beer.

In the briefest message he has yet submitted to the legislators, Mr. Roosevelt asked for immediate action in carrying out one of his foremost pledges to the nation. He asked that manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages be permitted in order to bolster the revenues of the government.

The message follows: "I recommend to the congress the passage of legislation for the immediate modification of the Volstead act in order to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the constitution, and to provide through the manufacture and sale by substantial taxes a proper and much needed revenue for the government."

"I deem action at this time to be of the highest importance. "Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Leaders sensed the president's call for action now was to supplement the $500,000,000 economy program which was taken up today by the senate in order to assure balancing of the budget.

The beer bill, it is estimated, will raise between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000.

When the president's message was read to the house the clerk was constantly interrupted by bursts of cheers and applause from both the membership and the galleries.

LAND BILL IS DEBATED IN TEXAS HOUSE

AUSTIN, March 13. — Reps. Sarah T. Hughes, Dallas, and Walter E. Jones, of Jourdanton, today debated the west Texas land bill providing for installment payment of funds claimed due the state on mineral developments.

Jones discussed the merits of the bill for an hour, maintaining that distribution of payment over a 20-year period with four per cent interest as provided in the measure was equitable.

Mrs. Hughes followed Jones in the house debate and declared passage of the bill would "mean that millions of dollars would be lost to the school fund."

She offered an amendment to the bill to allow extension of time to land owners but cutting out oil companies. "Oil companies owe this money directly," she said, "and are able to pay now. I say give the landowner time but don't give it to the oil companies."

The measure now provides for payment of the bonus and rental money due the state over a 20-year period. It was substituted for the original bill which set payment during a period of 40 years at 3 per cent interest. The bill is before the house on second reading.

MOVIE WORKERS AND THEIR SALARIES.

Hollywood is very disturbed. Hollywood has 15,000 unionized motion picture studio workers. Producers have expressed hope that pay cuts would permit the studios to remain in operation. For the stars or big shots a reduction of 50 per cent is the ultimatum. Many have accepted in good will the salary cut. Now the little fellows must take their medicine. Indeed, the proposal of the producers to reduce pay of all members of the movie colony except the extras is admittedly "a means of weathering the current financial storm."

The movie kings are on the rack. They are facing disaster unless there is a drastic reduction in overhead. They are going to cut to the bone.

SENATE PASSES INSURANCE BILL.

First the Texas senate passed an insurance relief measure. Then the insurance committee of the house voted a favorable report to the senate bill which confers broad powers on the insurance commission and allows the commission to take whatever steps that are necessary to protect insurance companies during a financial emergency. However, the house committee amended the bill and restricted its application to life insurance companies only. Also, it struck out a provision that would limit the effectiveness of the bill to Aug. 31. An outstanding member of the legislature remarked:

"There are indications that some of those who are interested in the repeal of the Robertson law but now have little hope for success along that line may introduce resolutions for several investigations of Texas financial institutions. All this would be a waste of time and the money of the people. First, investigation along these lines is wholly unnecessary. The point is that even the word "investigation" casts a shadow on any financial organization and at this time is dangerous. This is not the time for radicalism. This is not the hour for personal ax-grinding. There are many all-important measures before the people. They concern the reduction of taxes, and all this must be done by cutting out wasteful inactivities, the abolition or consolidation of bureaus or boards and laws which will pave the way for a return of confidence as well as for the restoration of sound thinking in this grand old state."

The lawmakers of Texas, for the most part, are doing their best to solve the problems which are uppermost and to give the people wise laws to fit in with conditions as they are at home and abroad and in the domestic as well as the world markets. A building program is the program that should be put over and not a program which will bludgeon the building spirit here at home and continue the business stagnation as well as the agricultural situation as they have existed in recent years. "All for Texas" should be the watchword of lawmakers and laymen and a speedy return of confidence and prosperity the prayer of all.

SHYLOCK GIVEN WARNING IN COLORADO.

Rowland K. Goddard is the head of the United States secret service in the Rocky Mountain territory with headquarters in Denver. Reports that loan agencies or loan banks were preparing to cash checks at a 10 per cent discount reached his ears. What he said should be of interest to the people of Texas as well as to the people of the Rocky Mountain states: "If any such move is made the loan sharks are going to jail." Such action would be in direct violation of the president's proclamation and I would feel justified in taking drastic measures to prevent such profiteering.

Justice first. Profiteering, if attempted, should be smashed, and the offenders placed behind the bars. Gold hoarders are going to be handled by the government. Publication of the names of the principal hoarders in the United States may be ordered. Ever since 1915 the federal reserve bank, headquarters in the city of New York, has been recording the names of persons who withdrew gold in any sizeable amount. Through cooperation of the banks, the government is in possession of all the facts and figures pertaining to the huge quantities of coin and metal now reposing in vaults in the country. While the countless millions are making and will continue to make necessary sacrifices for the restoration of confidence and business activities these traffickers or speculators in gold should be compelled to disgorge and discontinue their pinching practices at home and abroad.

"Trading with the enemy" is punishable by the criminal statutes of the government. Enforce the law.

Roosevelt Puts New Interpretation Upon "Individualism" in Book Soon to Appear

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Franklin D. Roosevelt is the wartime president of the United States. His book—"Looking Forward"—will be published March 16. Coming events are said to cast their shadows before. Let him tell it himself in a foreword:

"I do not believe that in the name of the sacred word, individualism, a few powerful interests should be permitted to MAKE INDUSTRIAL CANNON FODDER OF THE LIVES OF HALF THE POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES. I believe that the individual should have full liberty of action to make the most of himself. I BELIEVE IN THE SACREDNESS OF PRIVATE PROPERTY, WHICH MEANS THAT I DO NOT BELIEVE THAT IT SHOULD BE SUBJECTED TO THE RUTHLESS MANIPULATION OF GAMBLERS IN THE STOCK MARKET OR IN THE CORPORATE SYSTEM. I believe that the government without becoming a bureaucracy can act as a counter-balance to this oligarchy so as to secure initiative, life, a chance to work and the safety of savings to men and women, rather than SAFETY OF SAVINGS OF EXPLOITATION TO THE EXPLOITER, SAFETY OF MANIPULATION TO THE FINANCIAL MANIPULATOR, SAFETY OF UNLICENSED POWER TO THOSE WHO SPECULATE TO THE BITTER END WITH THE WELFARE AND PROPERTY OF OTHER PEOPLE. A mere builder of more industrial plants, a creator of more railroad systems, an organizer of more corporations is as likely to be a danger as a help. The day of the GREATER FINANCIAL PROMOTER OR TITAN, to whom we granted everything if only he would build or develop IS OVER."

When read between the lines, this foreword to the Roosevelt book, "Looking Forward," is very interesting, very educational, very informative, and hints of innovations to come.

Pres. Roosevelt was given dictatorial powers when the congress enacted his new banking act. It was something extraordinary in American history. To a man the new house voted for the Roosevelt banking measure. Only seven senators eral reserve system as a whole lost $109,000,000 in the week ending March 9, of which exports and ear markings before the stopping Saturday of $89,000,000 accounted for all but $10,000,000.

However as much gold appears to have been redeposited in the federal reserve banks as was withdrawn by domestic banks and individuals in the crazy days before the president by proclamation declared a banking holiday throughout the nation.

All this is a reminder that the new money provided for in the enactment of the emergency bank law will flow out to its users normally (it is predicted), to be paid over the counters of such banks as are open in return for checks just as all past currency has been paid out. Furthermore the act will put the new money into circulation by order of the secretary of the treasury by exchanging it for gold and gold certificates either bank reserves or private hoards. The measure gives the treasurer specific authority to call in such reserves or hoards whenever he decides the situation demands it. Penalty is provided for anyone not complying.

Well, New York banks and the great banks the country over are "raring" to reopen. They are all said to be in preparation for quick resumption of operations in financing industry and trade. It is significant that a tide of gold continues to flow back to the New York reserve bank, and it is more than significant that it renewed its flowing activities when the World War time trading with the enemy act was made a part of this most sweeping measure which clothed the president with dictatorial powers. For all new legislation proposed in the wake of the passage of the act turn to the first page of The American-Statesman.

Speaking seriously, "the hair of the dog is good for the bite." And unless the sanest of prophets, who are likewise patriots and noted for their love of country and its institutions, are at fault another period of normalcy is on the way.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

The Humble Oil and Gas company's Lubricator, semi-monthly magazine, devotes several pages of its issue to a pictorial review of Cisco accompanied by a historical sketch of the city. This magazine, scattered throughout Texas and into other states, gives Cisco some valuable advertising. The layout makes a creditable presentation of Cisco and should attract a great deal of favorable attention.

The chamber of commerce and J. E. Caffrey are due thanks for providing the material on which the layout is based.

Reopening of banks throughout the nation is under way this week. Banks in federal reserve centers are to open first, today; banks in cities where recognized clearing house associations are located are to open Tuesday and banks elsewhere are to open on Wednesday and succeeding days, as rapidly as their applications to resume business are approved by the treasury. So the president has announced in a message to the nation urging public forbearance and cooperation in a program to restore normal banking operations on a progressive scale.

At the same time it is indicated no restrictions will be placed upon reopened banks in the matter of withdrawals except as these withdrawals are sought in gold or as these banks have reason to believe that the money is intended to be used for hoarding purposes. No gold will be paid out, so the announcement from Washington is interpreted.

instructions he has received as follows:

Where a customer applies for withdrawal of a large sum he will be required to make affidavit as to the purposes for which he wishes to use the money. This affidavit will then be forwarded to federal authorities and the United States secret service will make a check to determine whether or not the money was used for the purposes sworn to. In the event it was not, but used, instead, for hoarding, the luckless individual will be subjected to severe penalties.

If the bank is convinced that hoarding is intended when the application for withdrawal is made it will be its duty to refuse payment. On the other hand withdrawal of money for any legitimate purpose will not be restricted, it is understood, the sole intent of the restrictions invoked being to keep the money in circulation.

Such restrictions will not, therefore, hamper business, but will assist it. They will keep money in the banks where it may be used in promoting economic welfare and out of the socks and lock boxes where it remains idle and useless.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—Only one thing has been uniformly true of the recovery from past depressions in the United States. That is the fact of recovery itself, and the fact that it was always under way before it was generally realized.

In detail, the manner of recovery has varied. In several cases there seems no doubt that the natural optimism and pep of a young people with a continent in which to expand, automatically pulled us out without our doing anything very definite about it. But there are also cases where conscious effort, both legislative and private, turned the tide.

In fact, the very first depression the country had, one which started in 1819 and continued through 1820, was largely relieved by an act of Congress for the relief of public land debtors, who had been squeezed by a decline in land prices after having bought land from the government.

Congress was again largely instrumental in pulling the country out of the panic of '37. For it was at this time that it established the independent treasury as we know it today. Previously federal funds had been deposited in private banks, especially the federally-chartered Bank of the United States.

The great expansion to the west in 1879 was of course the main thing that ended the terrible depression that began in '73. The next major depression, which opened in '93, again reached its turn in '96 before anyone realized what was happening. Discovery of new gold fields gave gold production a big boost just when more gold was badly needed as a money base. Victory for McKinley's "sound money" program in '96 thus became possible, and a wheat crop failure in India helped force wheat up from 53 cents at Chicago in August to 93 cents before November. It was at this time, too, that the industrial south began to emerge from the dormant post-Civil War state. Thus the cycle. Nobody knows enough about it yet to reduce it to a formula.

WE know that every depression is preceded by a period of frenzied finance, unthinking optimism, loose banking, unjustified credit extension, and usually of low public morals. We know that while there have been depressions apparently not connected with wars, none the less every war has been followed by a depression, and the bigger the war the bigger the depression. The influence of foreign conditions, both in starting the depression and in ending it, has increased in strength as we have come down to the present. No major depression has ever been ended and recovery made until money, currency and credit were stabilized on some basis which all America accepted and supported.

The most hopeful sign for the immediate future is this: at last we are all in the same boat. The bank moratorium put us there. The public and the government now realize the depression is a common problem to be met resolutely by a common effort.

The banking system will get a thorough overhauling. MEASURES to divorce savings from investment banking, perhaps even to guarantee savings are almost sure to pass. There is going to be closer and closer regulation of security-floating, and a more realistic inspection of capital accounts and dividend policies.

The new administration is pledged to "a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards." Foreign trade, dwindled to a shadow, may be gradually nursed back to strength by the reciprocal agreements promised. Crop reports indicate a lighter winter wheat crop, which may help.

Overbuilt, perhaps in some respects, our cities cry for slum elimination and housing projects which will employ building tradesmen, raise living standards, increase property values. We have a definite promise of a balanced budget, lowered federal expenses, lower taxes for the ordinary man, and a threat of higher ones for the fortunately placed.

Several industries which may at this time, too, that the industrial and the radio did may be hiding-around that corner, waiting only for a slight impetus. Shorter hours, better working conditions, the shorter week, better security against sickness and old age, these are social benefits which if they come promptly should lend their aid in the upswing.

DINNER GIVEN IN ARMSTRONG HOME

WASHINGTON, March 13—“Old Man” Betts, the capitol elevator man who reprimands congressmen when they don't step lively, has turned into something of a sardonic wit to wit:
Two small boys approached him, timidly, asked please mister could he tell them the location of the blue room. Betts could and would. Said he:
“I think the republicans have charge of that!”
Tom Blanton, the Texas congressman who has things to say on the floor of the house on most subjects and at all times, thinks that the play “Of These I Sing” has a great moral lesson for his colleagues.
In objecting to a bill, Blanton said:
“Gentlemen, it is a damn fool appropriation like this that makes it possible to write a play like that.”
The bill was passed.
Every time Senator Huey P. Long sneezes, so it seems, that is news so: He almost disrupted a recent debate on the navy appropriations bill thus:
In the midst of the discussion he strolled down the aisle of the senate. He stopped at the desk of Clerk John Crockett and boomed:
“Got any cueing tobacco?”
Crockett gave him a plug. Long bit off a chunk and returned to his chair to enjoy it.

and of visitors to the city and was acclaimed the most successful event of its character ever held here.
Other sections of the report are as follows:
Other Activities.
“Architecture: Much has been accomplished through this department, most of which has been detailed in Mr. Varnell's report to which I refer you. The chief project accomplished during the year was the establishment of a community cannery, which has given outstanding service to the community at a minimum cost to this organization.
“R. F. C. Relief: Through the efforts of this Chamber of Commerce, joined with the efforts of the other Chamber of Commerce of the county and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Cisco has been able to secure a total of $16,000.00 of this type of federal relief for unemployed, during the past four months. The entire county obtained $83,000.00 and has made application for further loans, which we have every reason to expect to receive.
“This money is expended under the supervision of a local R. F. C. committee in giving work relief to needy unemployed. During the period between seven hundred and eight hundred individuals in Cisco and Cisco vicinity have been given work, thereby enabling them to remain self-supporting. The work provided has been of such nature as to contribute to the permanent improvement of Cisco and its environs, of which you have been kept informed through the press.
“A small portion of the money allotted Cisco has been used as direct relief to families in needy conditions and unable to work.
“Red Cross Relief: A vast amount of this type of relief has been distributed through the Chamber of Commerce by your secretary, as county Red Cross chairman during the year. It includes several carloads of Red Cross free flour; 26,000 yards of cotton cloth; thousands of yards-made garments and a small amount of money relief in the form of groceries and medicines. We were able to secure a maximum of this character of relief by reason of a careful survey which was made of conditions in the county and upon which conclusive data was based to support our applications. Another fact which has impressed national headquarters in our favor has been the careful and systematic manner of distribution which has been followed by well organized committees throughout the county. Detailed records have been kept of every case.

Statistics.
“The following statistics will reveal the magnitude of this work which was carried on during the year:
“Thirteen carloads, or approximately 700,000 pounds of free flour have been received and distributed.
“About 2,600 families have received this flour through the Red Cross agencies. Multiplied by an average of five to the family, which, incidentally, is a low average for the class of people served, this represents approximately 13,000 mouths that have been fed.
“Red Cross free clothing was first distributed in the form of cotton cloth, most of which had to be made up into garments by local volunteer committees. We received 26,000 yards of this cloth and distributed it in the form of garments and piece goods. The garments distributed out of the Cisco agency were made by a committee headed by Mrs. E. H. Varnell.
“In addition to the cloth we later secured a shipment of several thousand yards-made garments and hosiery. These included overalls, underwear, trousers, etc. These are being distributed.
“All of the work above reported on is still in progress. We have on hand a supply of flour sufficient for the next thirty days at the present rate of distribution.

“In addition to the flour and clothing program carried out last year, the Red Cross conducted an intensive direct relief program in 1931, financed by cash furnished by the national headquarters. The county received about $16,500.00 in cash during that year, which was used to supply groceries, clothing and other necessities for drought sufferers. About $3,000.00 worth of seed was also furnished by the national chapter and distributed in the county.
“During the two years the county has received, as a result of this relief work, approximately $40,000.00 in money value from the national chapter, all of which has been handled through the county chapter headquarters here, Cisco having received its full share of the value and benefits.
“From this it can readily be seen that relief work has been the major activity, not only of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce, but all others, including the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, during the past year. Through our efforts our people have received their full share of the benefits, and no other section can point with greater satisfaction to its accomplishments in this field, although the work has required a major portion of our time and effort.

One I Love

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JANET HILL and ROLF CARLYLE have been engaged almost a year. They have put off their marriage because Janet thinks they must have $500 in a savings account first. Rolf enjoys spending money and the rigid economy necessary to save this amount is distasteful to him. Janet works as secretary to BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine, and Rolf is employed at an advertising agency. Janet, deeply in love, is not suspicious when Rolf begins to make excuses for not coming to see her. One night he breaks an engagement with her. MOLLIE LAMBERT, who lives across the hall, tells Janet she has seen Rolf entering a theater with another girl. Janet meets Rolf next day after work and tells him what Mollie has said. Rolf becomes angry, says their engagement is meaningless and that if Janet really wanted to marry him she would have done so long ago. They quarrel. Janet is miserable, hoping Rolf will call or come to see her but he does not.
She learns that the girl Mollie saw with him is BETTY KENDALL, a niece of a member of the firm for which Rolf works. Betty has taken a job in her uncle's office.
Mollie advises Janet to go out with other young men and show Rolf she has forgotten him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER X
It seemed to Janet that she had been thinking of Rolf and no one or anything else but Rolf since the day she had last seen him, the day their engagement had come to an end. But when she came face to face with him again Rolf Carlyle was far from her thoughts.
It was on the Saturday following her trip to the movies with Mollie. Janet was in front of the Brewster Hotel. By odd coincidence it was almost exactly the same place where she had seen Rolf with Betty Kendall on that other Saturday.
It happened this way:
Janet had had a very special task to perform that morning. Bruce Hamilton was out of town. He had departed unexpectedly the day before, making hurried preparations. In the midst of half an hour of rapid fire dictation Hamilton had suddenly stopped short.
“Good Lord!” he exclaimed. “I forgot about Miss Graham!”
Janet knew about Miss Graham. She was an important member of the advertising staff of Fisher-Looms, Inc.—one of Every Home's best clients. Miss Graham was coming to Lancaster to arrange some demonstrations of Fisher products. Very high type demonstrations with educational value. The plan was to persuade one of the local women's organizations to sponsor the affair. Since Fisher Looms had been buying a page of space in every issue of Every Home Magazine for more than six months and there would be a new contract to discuss before long it certainly behooved Bruce Hamilton, the magazine's advertising manager, to show Miss Graham every courtesy.
She gets in Saturday morning. Hamilton said, “I was to have lunch with her.” He paused, frowning at the metal inf stand before him, and tapped his desk meditatively.
There were several moments of silence. Then all at once he exclaimed, “See here—how's this? Why can't you go to see Miss Graham and take her to lunch?”
“But, Mr. Hamilton—”
“He was smiling. ‘You'll like her,’ Hamilton assured the girl. ‘And you can do it, too. Tell her why I couldn't make it. Tell her I'll give her a ring Monday morning and arrange to see her later,’

Rolf stood looking at her. He said, “Why—Janet!”

moment. Then Rolf said, flushing slightly, “Which way are you going?”
“Did he wonder why she happened to be coming from the Brewster Hotel? Janet failed to enlighten him. It was Saturday afternoon and she was not due back at the office but for some reason she didn't want to tell Rolf that. She didn't want him to think she had nothing to do with a half-holiday but go home and stay there now that she was no longer engaged to him. For an instant she considered pretending that she had a date. Then she said, “I have to do some shopping. I'm on my way to Lansings.”
Lansings' was the town's largest department store.
“Going that way myself. Mind if I walk along?”
“Why, no. Of course not.”
They walked the length of the block. Rolf spoke of the weather which was pleasant and said that spring certainly would be there almost any day now. Janet agreed, adding that some of the shrubs in the park were beginning to show buds. Rolf, with a slight air of self-satisfaction, told her he was handling a new “account.” It was a good one. He went on to mention some trivial office gossip.
Janet's face was an effective mask. No one would have guessed to look at her that her heart was pounding feverishly, that her hands in their neat black gloves were like ice. The color that had left her face at the surprise encounter came flooding back and her heart was singing with excitement.
But at Rolf's mention of the Atlas Advertising office that singing ceased abruptly. Janet spoke before she could check the words.
“I understand you have a new girl in your office. Miss Kendall!”
“Oh, yes.” Rolf's tone was casual. If Betty Kendall's name had any special significance for him he did not betray it. “She's D. R.'s niece—maybe you knew that. Doesn't know anything about writing ads, of course, but I suppose she can learn.”
“She's very pretty,” Janet said.
Apparently Rolf thought this statement needed no comment. There was something he wanted to say and it did not seem to come easily. They had reached a corner where the only building was set back from the street. There was no one else near. Rolf slowed his step and said, “Listen, Janet, I want you to know I'm sorry about the other night. We shouldn't have quarreled that way. I mean I wish we could be friends—”
She looked at him swiftly. The young man's eyes were straight ahead.
Janet's own voice sounded hushed and a trifle breathless. “I'm sorry, too,” she said. “I didn't mean all those things I said. I shouldn't have said them. Only—well, I guess I misunderstood. I thought you were in love with that other girl. With Betty Kendall. Oh, Rolf, these two weeks have been terrible! I couldn't eat or sleep or anything. I've wanted to talk to you! I've wanted to tell you I don't feel the way I did about getting married. I mean I was wrong. We don't need to wait until we've saved $500. We don't need to wait at all. I'll marry you any time. Today! This very afternoon if you say so!”
She stopped, suddenly alarmed.

So Tired and Nervous She Couldn't Sleep Well
“I was in a very nervous condition,” writes Mrs. J. S. Odum, of Waycross, Ga. “I did not sleep well at night. I would get up in the mornings feeling all tired and worn out. My appetite was poor. My mother-in-law thought Cardui would help me. After I began taking it my appetite increased. I rested better at night. I kept taking Cardui until I felt well and strong. I know it did me a lot of good. It is splendid for nervousness and other troubles that young women have.”
Cardui is sold at drug stores here.
