ORDERED BY PRESIDENT LEWIS TO RETURN TO WORK STRIKING COAL MINERS REFUSE TO OBEY

Secretary of the Belleville District in Illinois Declares They Will Take No Orders From Lewis—Says They Are Tired of President Wilson's Commission—Said at the White House no Action Will Be Taken There Until All the Men Are at Work.

Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 31.—Pending formal words as to the compliance of the Illinois and Indiana soft coal miners, with orders from their national organization to return to work, no steps were taken at the White House today toward an investigation of the bituminous coal strikers or for the commission to take up the men's grievances. White House officials indicated they expected no further action on the president's part until it was clear that the miners had all returned to work. In that event they anticipated he would immediately ask the commission to begin its investigation.

Men Ignore Order
ST. LOUIS, July 31.—Any peremptory order from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, to the striking miners to return to work will be disregarded by the "run-away" day men of the Belleville section of Southern Illinois, according to James Mason, secretary of the Belleville sub-district. "We would pay no attention to such an order," Mason declared. "President Frank Farrington of the Illinois Miners Union is the man we take orders from in this sub-district. We are tired of the president's commission. We are now having experience with one of them—in the wage scale we are now objecting to."

SENATOR HARDING BEGINS SERIES OF FRONT PORCH TALKS

Associated Press. MARION, O., July 31.—Senator Harding's front porch campaign began with a pilgrimage to Marion of a delegation from Mansfield to pay their respects to the republican nominee and hear him discuss national issues. Most of the delegates accounted themselves home folks, as Mansfield is only forty miles away. Many personal friends of Senator Harding, farmers, storekeepers and professional men marched together. A complement, both men and women, emphasized the fact that their united support was pledged to the candidate. Many did not wait for the hour set for the formal call at the Harding residence, but went at once. They kept the senator busy shaking hands and renewing acquaintances. Two airplane pilots made the pilgrimage. The porch, which has become one of the landmarks in presidential history, has a capacious stretch. The Harding lawn is no longer a lawn but a vast expanse of white crushed limestone. The pelibly carpet was laid to preserve the solid surface under the tramp of those expected to take part in the front porch campaign. In the opening speech of his front porch campaign, Senator Harding told the delegation from Richland county, Ohio, the greatest usefulness of the nation the nation's demand is leveling class and sectional barriers and "interdependence and mutuality interest in all our people."

Associated Press. GALVESTON, July 31.—Governor Hobby today ordered a general court martial to try Private J. C. Tyler, the sentry who on Friday shot and killed Captain Herbert Robertson.

Cotton Rule Revoked

Associated Press. AUSTIN, July 31.—The rule governing the concentration of cotton for housing in federal warehouses was cancelled by the railroad commission today.

GOVERNOR COX WILL TELL THEM EXACTLY WHERE PARTY STANDS

Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 31.—The position of the democratic party on the League of Nations will be made perfectly clear when Governor Cox delivers his speech of acceptance of the presidential nomination, George White, the new national chairman, declared in answer to an inquiry from Senator Harding as to the party's stand on the administration's foreign policy. DAYTON, O., July 31.—In addition to the League of Nations, the American industrial problem and other domestic questions are to have a prominent place in the address of Governor Cox accepting the democratic presidential nomination, according to advices here today in close touch with the Cox campaign. It was said that a large portion of the address might be expected to deal with industrial affairs, with a view to bringing capital and labor closer together. Those who have talked with the governor said this is one of his most serious concerns and they believed he would give his views at length.

POLAND'S DELEGATES CROSS FRONT LINES TO MEET BOLSHEVIK

Associated Press. WARSAW, July 31.—The Polish military delegates who left Warsaw yesterday, crossed the front line tonight. Premier Witos is informed the delegation has established contact with the bolshevik delegates on the road between Brest-Litovsk and Baranovichy. Associated Press. PARIS, July 31.—The bolshevik cavalry has advanced to the East Prussian frontier, according to a report from the French military mission at Warsaw. The bolsheviks are fraternizing with the Germans. The mission understands the Germans and soviet are negotiating and the northern wing of the bolshevik army is menacing Warsaw. General Joseph Haller, of the French trained army, has been given supreme command of the northern Polish armies. The first step in the reorganization of the Polish army was begun by the Anglo-French mission. Large authority is placed with the French staffs. The mission reports that the morale of the Polish army has stiffened as a result of allied support.

FORT WORTH MAN IS FINED FOR SELLING SHORT WEIGHT ICE

Special to the News. PORT WORTH, July 31.—The first case to be tried in Tarrant county in which a defendant was charged with violating the state weight and measure law in connection with the sale of ice resulted Friday afternoon in a conviction. J. D. Parsons was fined $10, the minimum under the law. The costs in the case will run the total up to about $50. There are three like charges against Parsons now pending in the county criminal court. The complaints were made upon information furnished by members of the Housewives' league.

JAPANESE ANSWER WILL SOON BE READY FOR THE UNITED STATES

Associated Press. TOKIO, July 31.—The outline of Japan's answer to the United States note relative to Japan's intent to occupy Saghalin, Siberia, is printed by the newspapers. The answer will say occupation was unavoidable and its decision will not be changed. The reply will emphasize the fact that Japan has no territorial ambitions, but that its occupation will be only temporary until a stable government is established in Russia.

MAKE THREE ARRESTS IN CASE GROWING OUT OF SALE OF NARCOTICS

Associated Press. HOUSTON, July 31.—Three arrests have been made in connection with what federal officers term a plot to sell narcotics. Two men were arrested yesterday at New Orleans and brought here on fugitive warrants. A place maintained for the disposal of narcotics was raided July 14 and it was said purchasers frequently visited the place in limousines.

WHEAT CONTINUES TO DECLINE ON THE MARKETS FOR FUTURES

Associated Press. ST. LOUIS, July 31.—Wheat futures closed at $2.14 1/2, or nine and one-half points under yesterday for the first time since the food control expired, when it sold under $2.21, the minimum.

HARDING CHARGES NOT BE ANSWERED BY GOVERNOR COX NOW

Associated Press. DAYTON, O., July 31.—Governor Cox today continued to withhold comment on the statement of Senator Harding, charging the democrats with seeking to obscure the League of Nations issue and declaring that champions of the league with international interests were behind democratic campaign funds. It is stated Governor Cox would make no response before his address Saturday and also would continue his policy of refusing to make statements to the press.

CISCO DISCUSSING FEASIBILITY OF BIG PICNIC THIS MONTH

A committee from the Chamber of Commerce and Production is now at work sounding out a proposition to have a two days picnic at Cisco August 20. It has not been determined definitely that the picnic will be held, but it is more than probable that it will. An effort is being made to learn if J. W. Bailey and Pat Neff can be secured for speeches on the date proposed. Ranger team will be here on both dates to play the Scouts, so there will be baseball as a feature. There will also be real races, to which all surrounding towns and cities will be invited to send their swiftest teams and suitable prizes will be offered to the winners. It is proposed to have a street carnival and all kinds of concessions. The Cisco band will be secured and there will probably be bands from other places. An old settlers reunion will be undertaken, as will also one for the members of the American Legion. There will be airplane flights, planes carrying passengers, if requested. If it shall be determined definitely to have the picnic the committee and every citizen will put forth their best efforts to make it a success and one of the biggest affairs of the year in West Texas.

SOUTH AMERICAN IS FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN ROOM WITH WOMAN

Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 31.—Many former followers of the late President Carranza are involved in a plot to make Governor Cantu president of Mexico, Eduardo Ruiz, representative here of the provisional government in Mexico, said. Ruiz accused Governor Cantu of being a "reactionary" and declared him the "head of the revolutionary Carranzistas, political blunderer and the greatest figure in the political camouflage story of Mexico."

CAR DOOR FALLS ON EXPRESS MESSENGER BADLY INJURING HIM

Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 31.—Mexico is not seeking loans in the United States, according to a statement by the Mexican embassy here, authorized by the president of the republic. The ambassador said that Mexico did not contemplate the negotiation of any loans abroad, believing that the improvement in interior conditions would furnish all necessary funds. Private investors in business enterprises, however, would be welcomed, it was stated.

BORAH WILL SPEAK IN SEVERAL STATES FOR REPUBLICANS

Associated Press. CHICAGO, July 31.—Senator William Borah of Idaho, active in the pre-convention campaign of Hiram Johnson, will take an active part in the campaign for Senator Harding and will probably make several speeches and speaking tours in behalf of the presidential nominee, it was announced at republican headquarters tonight.

FREEPORT CHAMBER GETS ADVERTISING IF NOT THE SPEAKERS

Associated Press. EL PASO, July 31.—Japanese are enlisting by the hundreds in the army of General Cantu in Lower California, according to Henry Hill, consul general from the republic of Panama, to Salvador, who was in El Paso today en route to Washington. Hill added that the majority of the citizens of Lower California are not in sympathy with Cantu.

RAILROADS SECURE ADVANCE IN RATES EQUAL TO ONE BILLION FOUR HUNDRED MILLION YEARLY

Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 31.—Increase in freight, passenger, Pullman and other railroad rates, approximating, by unofficial estimate, $1,400,000,000, were approved by the interstate commerce commission today, effective upon five days notice by the carrier to the commission and the public. The total is about $200,000,000 less than the railroads asked to absorb the $600,000,000 wage award by the railroad labor board, and to bring their net income to six per cent provided by the transportation act. The freight increase total is estimated at $1,134,000,000 on a basis of six per cent on $18,900,000,000 valuation placed by the commission on the properties of all roads. The increase of 40 per cent in the east is estimated to yield approximately $750,000,000. The 25 per cent granted the southern roads is estimated to yield about $100,000,000. The increase in passenger rates will aggregate $233,827,942. The increased Pullman rates aggregate $43,639,344. The advance in excess baggage rates will approximate $1,402,599, and the advance in milk train rates, about $5,000,000.

What the Roads Asked

WASHINGTON, July 31.—In presenting their applications for freight rate increases the railroads contended before the interstate commerce commission that $1,017,000,000 was necessary to advance their income to the six per cent basis permitted by the new transportation act. Shippers and state commissions generally agreed that some advances were necessary, but they opposed both the total and the method of application. Passenger rates, the carriers proposed, would be left unchanged and their program of advances, applicable throughout the country, did not take into account any wage increases made by the railroad labor board. The advances as proposed were: Eastern roads, 30.4 per cent, to yield an advance in all revenues of 21.1 per cent, or $544,000,000. Western roads, 23.9 per cent, to advance all revenues 17 per cent, or $352,833,000. Southern roads, 30.6 per cent, to pro-

SHORT LINE TRAIN DERAILED IN IDAHO AND MANY ARE HURT

Associated Press. OGDEN, July 31.—The Oregon short line train number thirty-two due at Ogdon from Butte, was derailed at Downry, Idaho. Several persons were hurt according to meager information given out at the railroad office here.

STUBBLE FIELD AND EPPLER BE IN RUN OFF FOR COMMISSIONER

Associated Press. BEVERLOO, July 31.—Belgium-American marksmen, using the American army rifle against a field of thirteen other teams, have, by official score, won both team and individual matches in the Olympic classic free-for-all rifle competition. Other teams used, for the most part, high power hunting and target guns. County Commissioner Eppler will be in the run-off primary for nomination for reelection to the office he now holds. The race will be between him and Henry S. Stubblefield, he having received 397 votes and Stubblefield, 368. As the report of the result of the primary election was published, it gave Stubblefield 422. This was an error in taking the totals on the vote.

INCREASE GOES INTO EFFECT IMMEDIATELY ON THE ROADS GIVING FIVE DAYS NOTICE TO THE COMMISSION AND THE PUBLIC—THE AMOUNTS OF INCREASE WAS ABOUT TWO HUNDRED MILLIONS LESS THAN THE ROADS HAD ASKED FOR—THE TOTALS NAMED ARE UNOFFICIAL ESTIMATES, BUT APPROXIMATELY CORRECT.

Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 31.—Increase in freight, passenger, Pullman and other railroad rates, approximating, by unofficial estimate, $1,400,000,000, were approved by the interstate commerce commission today, effective upon five days notice by the carrier to the commission and the public. The total is about $200,000,000 less than the railroads asked to absorb the $600,000,000 wage award by the railroad labor board, and to bring their net income to six per cent provided by the transportation act. The freight increase total is estimated at $1,134,000,000 on a basis of six per cent on $18,900,000,000 valuation placed by the commission on the properties of all roads. The increase of 40 per cent in the east is estimated to yield approximately $750,000,000. The 25 per cent granted the southern roads is estimated to yield about $100,000,000. The increase in passenger rates will aggregate $233,827,942. The increased Pullman rates aggregate $43,639,344. The advance in excess baggage rates will approximate $1,402,599, and the advance in milk train rates, about $5,000,000. Setting out the necessity for the increase, the railroads claimed that the net income of all of the country's roads fell from $1,056,000,000 in 1916 to $510,000,000 in 1919, while their investment was increased more than $2,000,000,000. Operating expenses, the roads said, have increased 99.1 per cent since 1916, and revenues 25.37 per cent. Operating expenses, it was added, are now 59 per cent of the revenues, against 68 per cent in 1916. Arguing for the increases, the railroad executives said that a billion dollars of added revenues was needed if the roads were to handle the nation's commerce satisfactorily. They contended that savings promised by them could not be effected at once because the roads were not returned to them in the same conditions as they were when taken over and because of unsolved labor difficulties. Clifford Thorne, of Chicago, representing shippers, recommended to the commission that the roads be unified for operation as they were in 1917, declaring that only in this way could the roads solve the existing transportation problem. Mr. Thorne also argued that the rate advances asked were excessive as the carriers had not made any provision for more efficient operation or for decreases in the cost of materials. He also argued that the companies set too high a value on their properties and that they were capitalizing land granted them by federal and state governments without cost and asking the people to forever pay a tax on these free gifts.

SHIPMENT OF WHEAT DELAYED BY REASON OF A CAR SHORTAGE

Much Grain, Is Stored on the Ground, Uncovered, and Rain Is Falling In Many Sections—All Elevators and Warehouses Are Full — Some Cars Being Supplied But Not Enough.

Special to the News.

WICHITA FALLS, July 31.—Since July 4 the Ft. Worth & Denver railroad has been short 142 grain cars a day on an average, according to a telegram sent by the traffic bureau of the West Texas chamber of commerce to the interstate commerce commission at Washington. The telegram makes mention in the following language of other lines' situation:

"Situation very bad on Quanah, Acme & Pacific, Abilene & Southern, Wichita Valley, Orient and Santa Fe. All storage facilities full and overflowing."

"Number of elevators closed down entirely account receipts beyond capacity and lots of grain being stored in the open on the ground. It is now raining in many places throughout the grain belt in Texas and unless immediate relief is given farmers and grain men will incur heavy losses."

The estimated production of wheat this year has been placed conservatively at 15,000,000 bushels, requiring approximately 12,500 "tight" cars to handle. Something like 2,000 cars of 1919 wheat is still to be moved.

So pronounced has been the congestion of towns with wheat that gins have been nailed up and wheat stored in them. In one or two instances W. O. W. halls were converted into granaries. Everything that afforded protection was impressed into service.

Even fine residences were turned partly into receptacles to care for the grain, the occupants circumscribing their living quarters to the closest compass consistent with rude comfort.

Every vestige of evidence tending to bring conviction to Washington authorities is being marshaled and dispatched daily.

Securing Some Cars

STAMFORD, July 31.—In the last few days 440 "tight" cars have been delivered to the Orient railroad for stations cluttered with 1920 wheat, according to the traffic department of the West Texas chamber of commerce. The Southern Pacific delivered 156 and the Texas & Pacific 284 cars. It is believed that the arrival of these will serve appreciably in reducing the insistent demands along this system. However, the Orient in Texas needs 900 cars for present grain car calls, and Ed. P. Byrds, traffic manager, is pressing the claims before the railroad association committee on car service for the additional equipment.

On July 25 direction was given for the delivery of 25,000 "tight" cars by eastern roads to western roads for a tier of southwestern states, where the wheat congestion is most pronounced. Director of Public Service F. G. Rollings, in a telegram, says that while he cannot determine the number of cars West Texas and the Panhandle will receive, the proportion will be just.

The traffic department, under the impression that the Washington authorities do not appreciate the oncoming large production of cotton and sorghum grain, has written them fully the condition of crops and the outlook for an immense movement so that they may understand that unless immediate steps are taken to accommodate the mammoth tonnage that is likely to be offered West Texas and the Panhandle will sustain financial damage that will be considerably above that of the fall of 1919, when the west raised its greatest crops and had not cars to move them.

To Build Warehouses

AMARILLO, July 31.—Establishment of community warehouses for cotton and grain in the larger centers and the erection of storage facilities for grain and cotton on farms, in order to effect needed relief in the face of the present car situation which is expected to become alarmingly acute when the new cotton crop begins to move, are some of the things which the West Texas chamber of commerce is now advocating through its agricultural manager, J. C. Wells.

Warehouses and storage facilities intended for cotton are cluttered up with grain of this year's production and last year's cotton. Many cotton yards have the appearance now of having been the dumping ground of the new crop, because sales and shipments in recent months have been few. Mr. Wells reports that interest is more pronounced in the building of community grain storage facilities and some few communities are now advocating farmers taking the initiative in preparing facilities to protect their cotton and grain until the present railway transportation snarl is dissipated.

"Community warehouses are needed almost everywhere in West Texas. We must tear down our small barns and build greater in order to hold the prodigious crops of 1919," said Mr. Wells. "The gospel of more community storage is the message that we are trying to disseminate among all communities. Unless we can interest farmers and other interests in these enterprises we may reasonably expect to see great crop loss in the next months."

CLARENCE GOT SOAKED, THEN "BAKED" HIMSELF

By International News Service.

WABASH, Ind., July 31.—Playing in the rain almost proved fatal to Leo Helvy, nine, son of Clarence Helvy, of North Manchester. It wasn't pneumonia, either. Leo, being very damp, set down on the oven door in the kitchen of his home. To facilitate the drying process he drew up his knees and pushed back into the oven. A few minutes later he experienced discomfort from the increasing heat, but he couldn't move. Then he screamed. His father rushed into the house, but couldn't get the boy free until his mother had been summoned to assist. The boy's back and knees were badly scorched.

The Test of the Two Violins

Violins differ subtly in tone! Test the New Edison Realism by that fact.

Stradivarius. — This violin has a rich, mellow tone.

We have an "Ave Maria" RE-CREATION played by Albert Spalding with his Guarnerius. This famous violin has a brilliant, singing tone. We have a second "Ave Maria" RE-CREATION played by Carl Flesch with his genuine realism for you. Come in and compare these two RE-CREATIONS—tone for tone. If the New Edison makes clear the distinction between the singing Guarnerius and the mellow Stradivarius, you know it has perfect realism for you.

The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph with a Soul"

Albert Spalding himself recently took part in a test of the New Edison's Realism, at New York City. He played in direct comparison with the RE-CREATION of his performance by the New Edison. Mr. Henry Hadley, one of the jury of the three distinguished musicians who listened from behind a screen, said: "The RE-CREATION matched Mr. Spalding's performance tone for tone." The New Edison is the only phonograph which has given this conclusive proof of its perfect realism. It has triumphed in 4,000 such comparison-tests.

PRICES! HALT!

Since 1914, the total price increase in the New Edison has been less than 15%. Mr. Edison has, personally, absorbed more than one half of the increased cost of manufacture. Life of Krassin, Soviet Envoy, Reads Like Novel

By International News Service. LONDON, July 31.—Leonid Bovisovitch Krassin, member of the central soviet committee, engineer by profession, considered to be one of the most responsible authorities from Russia as she is today and who it is believed, may help bring the turbulent nation out of her present difficulties, has somewhat of a career. Krassin recently was in London for the purpose of opening trade negotiations with the British government.

Krassin is a Siberian by birth. Born in 1870, he entered for scientific courses in the Technological Institute at Petrograd, and was expelled after three years for taking part in a student uprising. In 1894 he was exiled to Siberia. While at Irkutsk he worked on the new Siberian railway, and in 1897 for his good work was allowed to complete his studies at Kharkoff. He was again expelled in 1898, and went to Baku, where he superintended the erection of the central electrical station, and acted as sub-manager of the Electric Power company.

During the whole period he was active in the organization of illegal printing offices for the issue of "Iskra," which became later the printing office of the central committee of the Russian social democratic workmen's party. They survived the revolution.

In 1901 Krassin joined the central committee of the Russian social democratic workmen's party. In 1905 he was outlawed and escaped to Geneva.

He afterward returned and resumed his civil position in the capacity of manager of the Petrograd cable system, but all the time assisting in the organization—financial and technical—of the bolshevik party.

His revolutionary activity led to his leaving Russia again and settling in Berlin, working first as an engineer in the Siemens-Schuckhut establishments. Later he went to that firm's Moscow branch. In January, 1913, he removed to Petrograd and was appointed managing director of the Siemens plant and interests there.

His connection with the soviet republic dates from 1917, when he went to Brest-Litovsk to treat with the Germans at the instance of Lenin and Trotsky. On returning to Moscow he was elected president of the supreme council of national economics and chairman of the equipment committee of the red army. He rose quickly under the bolshevik regime, and a year last March was made commissary of the people for ways and communications.

He is a well set-up man with black hair and a full beard, a dark complexion and a very engaging manner. He is supremely competent and an efficient administrator.

Only recently he has been in Stockholm. He knows the Russian position as no one west of the Russian frontier knows it today. The friend and confidante of Lenin and Trotsky, he knows their minds, aims and objects. From Archangel to the Crimea and the German frontier to the Urals, M. Krassin has a bird's-eye view of Russia as she is today.

BITS OF HUMOR

Breaking It Gently

A fondness for backing an occasional winner was one of Bill's weaknesses; that his selection didn't always come home first couldn't be blamed on him. After a certain race, he got home rather later than usual, to be met at the door by his wife, her face distorted with rage. He knew the signs, and sank into a chair, content to wait till the clouds had rolled by. When at last she had to pause for want of breath, he remarked casually:

"I say, Nell, ye likes to 'ear of people winnin' lots o' money, don't yer?"

Visions of new hats and even a dress floated before her dazzled eyes, so the woman forced a smile to her lips and replied:

"That I do. Tell me all abart it."

"Well," he said, as she nestled close to him, "a bookmaker's been an' gorn an' won all me wages this week."

DIAMOND MERCHANT HAS PRETTY CASHIER PRESENT AT DEATH

Associated Press. CHICAGO, July 31.—May Woods, the pretty hotel cashier, who was alone with Samuel Loftis, head of the diamond firm when he died suddenly in his luxurious apartment last night, told the police that Loftis crumpled to the floor dead, after they had engaged in a friendly struggle.

Rom Shayne, a newspaper advertising solicitor, and May Woods are held by the police here for questioning in connection with the sudden death of Samuel Loftis.

Shayne told the police that he answered Miss Woods' telephone call for help from the Loftis apartment, and the diamond merchant collapsed when he admitted him.

He was dead when a physician arrived. The coroner's examination showed he died from cerebral hemorrhages. But no marks of violence were found on the body. Loftis' housekeeper told the police that her employer had been drinking heavily recently.

After a post mortem examination the coroner's physician announced that Loftis' death was caused by cerebral hemorrhages, produced by external violence. The wound was probably the result of Loftis' fall.

CALLING A HALT

According to the report of the federal reserve board, the curtailment of industrial activity in the month of July was due to lower demand, cancellation of orders and general readjustment.

The board finds that in some districts production continues upon old orders which are still "on the books," despite the fact that new orders have fallen off.

But here is the bright light appearing in the gloom of reduction and depression in some centers. The report continues: "In the agricultural regions, improved crop conditions and the development of a more confident tone in business, are reported to have brought about a turn distinctly for the better."

The summary is that it is all a matter of readjustment. In this connection, the report finds a greater efficiency of labor. Employees are learning that they must, in the future, give the employer the worth of his money, just as the customers at the stores are demanding their "money's worth," in both quantity and quality.

That the people are awakening to a realization of the extravagant gait at which they have been traveling is shown by the report of bond houses telling of a noted increase in the purchase of liberty bonds. This as they take it, always means a saving on the part of the small buyer.

The greatest of all the trouble, as the board finds, is the transportation problem. Until conditions in this great necessity are bettered, many other industries will continue to be hampered. Just now agriculture is perhaps the most acute sufferer, by failure of the railroads to meet the demands made upon them, while on the other hand, the steel industry is suffering from the same cause and progress and improvements in many directions will be hindered and stopped for want of steel and its products.

But the fact remains that underlying all of this there is undoubtedly a realization, on the part of the people, that economy must be practiced in every direction if prices are not to mount to a point where the very necessities of life will become unobtainable. Then, too, it is dawning upon them that production must be increased—production of food. Shutting down of one industry, or many of them, will not bring hardship upon men who are willing to work in the agricultural regions, to which the whole people must ever look for their food supplies.

Increased food production means, finally, competition and prices at which the masses may be able to purchase many articles now denied them, not only by prohibitive prices, but by reason of the scarcity of such products.

There are no indications of anything panicky in the curtailed activity of certain industries. It is just, as the report of the board puts it, a readjustment, something which was bound to come, sooner or later and when it is brought about it will be found that prices of labor and the cost of living will remain high, perhaps not what they now are, but with only minor reductions, and the profiteers will be missing. With this element eliminated from the world's business today, the ratio between labor and the cost of living would be found equitable.

UPHOLDING POLAND

The allies are preparing to aid Poland as against the bolsheviks of Russia and the real civilized nations of the world will be with them in their efforts. About the time of the national conventions in the United States, a howl and cry was raised against the expression of any sympathy for the Polish people.

After the "yelp" from the presidential candidate of the so-called Farmer-Labor party, whose leaders, in its convention, by their radicalism, drove all even half-way conservative delegates away, it is not hard to discern that the only opposition to aid for Poland comes from those really putting forth bolshevik propaganda in this country.

Any effort, any force, anywhere, at any time, which will tend to stop the progress of bolshevism and all it stands for and represents, in any country, should be met with acclaim and if the allies furnish the Poles with arms, munitions, food and supplies and the British and French send their officers to organize the Polish army and put it on a better fighting basis, as is proposed, the world should be glad.

Bolshevism in Russia and as preached in this country, means only anarchy, rapine and murder. The bolsheviks should be driven from the frontier of Poland, back into Russia. Bolshevism in this country should be sent to Russia just as rapidly as they can be rounded up and deported. Drive all of the breed into that country, which is responsible for it, and keep them there until such time as it is possible to thoroughly subjugate or annihilate them.

There is no place in the world for the bolsheviks and it should be exterminated. But for the scandalous activity of some of America's own officials, in the immigration department, the United States would be free from all men who may raise up and protest aid for Poland in its fight against the bolsheviks.

Truth is never afraid of being questioned.

A man lives only when he measures life by its intensity. The one who keeps his eye on the crawling hands of the clock never did and never will find out the real secret of a happy and contented life.

It is safer to be a first-class tinker than a second-rate philosopher.

THE DANGERS OF DELAYED WHEAT MARKETING

The recent order of the railway shipping board assigning twenty-five thousand extra grain cars to the winter wheat region looks mighty good if we get the cars and can keep them and also keep the few we already have. In this case, the farmer will be relieved of his principal source of worry and be left free to plan his next year's crop and get his land ready in good season for sowing. So far this year, the farmer's troubles have really begun at the time when they should end, with the growing and gathering of the crop.

Local banks have borrowed money from city banks to finance the farmer until his wheat is sold. The banks are telling the farmer that they need their money to meet other obligations and keep up the normal flow of commerce. Business waits on the sale of wheat for the awakening of trade. Labor expects steadier employment when the farmer begins to spend his wheat money. It is an endless chain of prosperity or disaster, all dependent this year upon getting the wheat sold. First and last, everyone in this country as well as the hungry hoards of Europe anxiously await the moving of our bumper wheat crop.

But twenty-five thousand extra cars will make only a beginning in the marketing of this crop. At best and assuming that all the cars come, they can carry in one trip only about twenty-eight million bushels of grain, or less than one-tenth of the wheat in sight. Six or eight trips for these cars is perhaps the minimum service we should expect of them and it is too much to hope that they would make a round trip in less than a month. Unless, therefore, these cars are given good movement, seized by the railway shipping board at the end of their journey each time, brought back and put again into wheat service and kept there until the grain is all marketed, the crop of another year will find our bins still full of old wheat and the note cases in our banks full of overdue wheat notes.

But the cost of inadequate transportation is more to the farmer than mere increased interest charges and inconvenience. He must take less than he should for the wheat he sells. Wheat growers stand to lose in extra selling margin from 10 to 20 cents a bushel on all the grain they market. This is over and above the normal spread in price between the farmers' shipping station and the primary market, and is added by dealers to cover risks, delays, demurrage costs, and penalties for failure to live up to contract. The consumer receives no benefit from this loss sustained by the farmer. In the main it is not an extra profit taken by the speculator. It is simply so much to be charged to the inefficiency of our present transportation system.

An experienced grain merchant stated recently that with our present car shortage it was almost impossible to make a "wheat market" and that wheat selling and buying under these circumstances was mainly a matter of speculation in box cars.

If we fail to get cars enough to move the wheat and the farmers are thereby forced to meet extra interest charges, extra selling margins and sustain a loss through spoilage and if in the end the market should decline, entailing a further loss through no fault of their own,

THE TEXAS WAY

They raise lots of extraordinary things down in Texas. They used to raise hell; now they raise heroes. Waco, Texas, used to be a wild and woolly place; gun play was the order of the day and the pastime of the night. But, as I've already said, Texas is today raising heroes—at times; and the latest Texas hero to step into the spotlight and demand attention is little Roy Kennedy of Waco. A press dispatch from Waco says:

"Eleven-year-old Roy Kennedy is the hero of Texas today. His courage, presence of mind and little red sweater saved the lives of 250 passengers, including 125 delegates to the republican state convention, bound for San Antonio over the M. K. & T. road. "Torrential rains had fallen. The boy, anxious to watch Donahue Creek rise, left his home at Bartlett. There he discovered that six hundred feet of track had been washed away.

"Less than a mile away he saw the approaching flyer. He knew that the train would plunge into twelve feet of water, unless it could be stopped. "You biasc grown-ups, as you read the vivid description of this train—with its burden of precious human lives—rushing straight to certain destruction, don't your hearts beat just a little harder, a little heavier? Imagine, then, what must have been the feelings of little Roy Kennedy—when he gazed upon that torrent of raging, swirling, muddy water—and when he saw six hundred feet of the railroad track gone—when he saw the great train approaching at high speed—and when he realized the awful tragedy that must soon be enacted before his very eyes.

But what did he do? Lest his head—and scream idly and wring his hands frantically? He did not! "Pulling off his little red sweater, the boy raced up the track. Practically he waved the danger signal. The engineer thought the lad was playing. But when the speeding train came within a few feet of the boy who still remained on the track, his screams unheard, the man in the cab flung on the brakes. "And the train stopped—just in time. "And the passengers were saved—by a scant margin.

And out piled the passengers. They were typical Texans. They saw and promptly realized the averted danger; and they comprehended who had saved their lives. So they quickly dived down in their pockets—and raised a purse of $5,000 for their youthful savior. It's the Texas way, down there they do good things and bad things in a big way—and they do them right off the reel. "And what did little Roy Kennedy have to say about all the money and praise he received? Just this: "Gosh, I didn't do nuthin. I saw a guy do that in the movies, that's how I knowed what to do." Roy Kennedy is a Texan; it's the Texas way.—Marion (O) Star.

Resolute won the cup series on these points, and is the better boat, the better sailed. She wasted no time doing the wrong thing, which Shamrock frequently did. Nobody can say that in point of design, or cut of canvas, there is anything to account for the difference in sailing qualities between the two. If there is the handicap was supposed to overcome it. Yet there is a difference, and because it is impossible to say just where it is we have to say Resolute made the most of the weather and Captain Adams made the most of Resolute. That made just difference enough.

The landlubberly mind, was a little restless because the boats didn't make great speed. No, they didn't. They could have made much greater speed if they had had engines. Also there was a landly disposition to hoot because the boats didn't go out in a 25-mile wind. They are not that kind of boats. They are racers, lightly built, with delicate rig and spidery top lamp-er. They have been refined to that point purposely.

Sir Thomas Lipton has contributed everything to international yacht racing except a victory for his challengers, and deserves the best word America and sportsmanship can say for him. That word probably would be an invitation to come again with another Shamrock and dare to us to find another Resolute and another Skipper Adams to match her.—Kansas City Star.

HAIL, RESOLUTE!

It was plain pretty much from the start that, boat for boat, skipper for skipper and weather for weather, Resolute had Shamrock outclassed. Even in the concluding race in which Shamrock, by some very pretty handling, was put to the windward at the starting line, a berth she had not before occupied—it was demonstrated Resolute could give the challenger the weather and still out sail her.

That is saying the whole thing, for no yacht, defender or challenger, can rely on a single sailing point in Sandy Hook waters in July. Yacht racing is not a matter of going before the wind. It is finding the wind, and not too much. It is beating into it. It is quartering it. It is making use of tide and current. It is drifting and ghosting. And, of course, it is handling boat and sails in the way necessary to make all these things count to the greatest advantage.

Resolute won the cup series on these points, and is the better boat, the better sailed. She wasted no time doing the wrong thing, which Shamrock frequently did. Nobody can say that in point of design, or cut of canvas, there is anything to account for the difference in sailing qualities between the two. If there is the handicap was supposed to overcome it. Yet there is a difference, and because it is impossible to say just where it is we have to say Resolute made the most of the weather and Captain Adams made the most of Resolute. CORRECT SURVEY OF THE LEERAY FIELD SHOWING INCREASE

One Hundred and Fifteen Rigs on and Around the Townsite All Which Have Entered the Field Within Last Sixty Days - Production Largely Increased Last Week.

By J. B. Matt
Special to the News.
LEERAY, July 31.—A drilling report of the Leeray field shows that 115 rigs are located, erected, awaiting tools, spudding and drilling at various depths, practically all of which have entered the field within the last sixty days. Leeray, with a daily increase of production of over 5,000 barrels last week, has nearly a score of wells nearing the pay and due to come in during the first two weeks of August. Production will be increased by 10,000 barrels, according to every indication.

A complete drilling report of the field, including wells within the townsite limits, is as follows:
Ajax Hercules Oil company—Good No. 2, drilling at 1,850 feet; Good No. 3, drilling at 2,775 feet; Good No. 1, in 90 days, producing and cleaning hole; Good No. 5 is a rig.

Noell & Hawkins—Good No. 1, fishing at 400 feet.
Ardizzone-Braden—Good No. 1, setting six-inch casing and topping the line at 3,190 feet.

Smith & Burns—Good No. 1, drilling at 350 feet.

Southwestern Oil Development Co.—Good No. 1, drilling at 1,350 feet.

Mitchell Production Co.—Good No. 1, drilling at 650 feet.

North Texas Oil Co.—Good No. 1, spudding, 200 feet.

Lone Star and Gas Co.—Good No. 1, drilling at 700 feet.

The above wells are located on a 1,000-acre lease owned by the Helbeck-Whaley interests of Dallas, and are being drilled by the above mentioned companies on a 59-50 basis.

Root, Hupp & Duff of Eastland—Pyron No. 1, drilling at 900 feet; Ray No. 1, producing 20 barrels in shallow pay at 1,650 feet; Ray No. 2, 3, 4 and 6, producing 40, 80, 60 and 48 barrels respectively at same depth; Ray No. 5, producing 400 barrels following shot last week, in Caddo lime at about 3,200 feet; Ray No. 7, drilling at 3,000 feet; Ray No. 8, building rig.

Sterling, Nussbaum No. 1, showing oil in lime at 3,190 feet.

Transcontinental Oil Co.—Thorpe No. 1, fishing at 2,590 feet; No. 2, drilling at 1,500 feet; R. E. Thorpe No. 1, drilling at 1,800 feet.

Virginia, Thorpe No. 1, drilling at 2,100 feet.

White Oil Corporation—Good No. 1, drilling at 1,300 feet; No. 2, drilling at 700 feet; P. Thorpe No. 1, drilling at 1,300 feet; No. 2, drilling at 720 feet.

Gulf Production Co.—Thorpe No. 1, drilling at 980 feet; M. Baggett No. 1, drilling at 1,390 feet; J. W. Ray No. 3, derrick; White No. 1, drilling at 2,400 feet.

Higginbotham Drilling Co.—Higginbotham No. 1, drilling at 2,400 feet; No. 1, is a derrick and moving tools; No. 3, drilling at 900 feet.

Sun Co.—Higginbotham Nos. 1, 2 and 3, each drilling at 800 feet; No. 3 is a location; F. Thorpe No. 1, drilling at 190 feet.

Texas, Exall—No. 1 topping lime with show of oil and tools in the hole; No. 2, producing 150 barrels with 32 feet ofavings being cleaned; Tomlinson No. 1, drilling at 3,220 feet; J. T. Watson No. 1, drilling at 1,218 feet.

Empire, St. Johns—No. 1, drilling at 90 feet; No. 2, spudding.

Smith, Hess—Davis No. 1, drilling at 350 feet.

LARGE QUANTITIES OF LIQUOR COMING ACROSS THE BORDER

Associated Press.
CORPUS CHRISTI, July 31.—While federal officers are interfering cinco-crably with the rapidly growing liquor traffic between the border and interior towns, it is admitted what many cargoes of whiskey tequila and mescal, shipped from Mexico get by. It is reported to be increasingly easy to get "bootleg" if one is willing to pay the price, which averages around $19 a quart for mescal or tequila and twice as much for whiskey. Most of the liquor is said to be smuggled across the Rio Grande on burro's backs in goat-skin containers. If capture appears imminent, one ripping stroke of a knife destroys the evidence, a puncture in the skin allowing the liquor to run out on the ground. Roads are being closely guarded and a number of arrests have been made recently in this district where men in automobiles were endeavoring to make their way to San Antonio with several hundred bottles each. It is customary to travel by night and hide the cargoes in the brush by day, removing the contraband cargo and hiding it in a spot remote from the vehicle. For this reason any automobile remaining in the brush all day is regarded with suspicion and a watch placed on it by federal authorities, with the result that several important captures have been made. In each instance the cars and liquor were seized by the government officers and cars condemned and sold. The resulting funds are credited to customs house collections in the district in which the seizure is made.

MILLION AND A HALF DOLLARS LOSS FROM NEW ORLEANS FIRE

Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, July 31.—Estimated loss by the fire last night which destroyed a section of a mammoth warehouse is placed at nearly a million and a half dollars.
Approximately 30,000 bales of sisal, valued at $750,000 and other merchandise valued at $200,000 were destroyed.
The section of the building which burned was valued at $400,000.
Damage by smoke and water is estimated at nearly two hundred thousand dollars.
The officers of the corporation stated that all the goods stored were covered by insurance.

Associated Press.
EAGLE PASS, July 31.—Lumber and building material valued at $50,000 was destroyed at Camp Eagle Pass by fire.

Associated Press.
Philadelphia, July 31.—Police and firemen continued search of the ruins for possible victims of a fire which destroyed several factory buildings. Although only two bodies were recovered, it is believed several others lost their lives. More than 5,000 persons, most of them women, worked in the buildings.

Sunday is God's Day.

God gives you six days in the week for business, and He wants you to do your level best during those six days.

Sunday, however, is His day, and He would have you spend this day in rest and worship.

Go to the church of your choice today, take an active part in the services and you will be much better fitted for the resumption of your business duties on Monday.

Christian Endeavor.

Beginning at 7:30 tonight the Christian Endeavorers of the First Christian Church will talk about self improvement. Much interest has been displayed in C. E. programs and attendance has been good despite the heat and counter attractions. Tonight is also the regular consecration meeting of the society and every member is expected to be ready with a response to his name at the roll call. A report by the flying squadron of their trip to Eastland last Sunday will be given which will be very interesting. The program follows:
How may we begin our self improvement?—Otis Mahaffey.
Is it a crime to become self satisfied?—Theresa Weddington.
Vocal solo—Ala Gene Holmes.
Why is it unwise to leave God out of our plans for self improvement?—Alfred McAfee.
Open discussion—How does C. E. help in self improvement?
Song by society.
Attention is called to the fact that the program begins promptly at 7:30 and a cordial welcome awaits everyone.

Lutheran.

All Lutheran Christians are heartily invited to attend the gospel services that take place at the City Hall auditorium every other Sunday at 4:30 p. m. Those who have no church of their own or who are still without God and His grace are especially welcome to attend these services.

Infant's Finger Prints As Proof of Identity

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A plan to make available an infallible life-long method for providing identification, prevent the burial of a body as that of some other person, limit opportunity of fraud, and guard individuals is advanced by officials here, who suggest that physicians file infant fingerprints with birth certificates.

The fingerprint idea for babies was suggested by Deputy Police Commissioner Faurot, fingerprint expert of the New York police department and Acting Captain John H. Ayers, head of the bureau of missing persons, at an investigation into the circumstances under which an undertaker obtained a woman's body from the morgue and buried it without the knowledge of her relatives.

The case under investigation was the burial of Mrs. Julia Laute, a widow, who died in a furnished room February 18, and whose body was taken to the morgue. After it had been there for ten days it was buried by William J. Dargoon. Mrs. Elizabeth Lyons, a sister of Mrs. Laute, said she did not know of her sister's death until an insurance company notified her that a bill for $225 had been presented by the undertaker. She complained to the health department.

The baby fingerprint is thought to be timely considering the mistakes in identification that are being made from time to time. To have the system favorably considered by the public would require some education. The mention of fingerprinting suggests a criminal process, whereas fingerprinting often means safeguarding the individual and might mean the saving of a fortune.

To require the filing of infant fingerprints as part of the department of health record would require a change in the sanitary code.

The fingerprinting of infants would prove of incalculable value in many ways," said a physician. "We would have identification records that would stand a legal test. The ramifications of the system would be far-reaching and the benefits many.

"For instance, a baby is kidnapped. Months or years later a child is found in the south or the northwest and the authorities believe it to be the missing child. The kidnapers insist that the child is really theirs. The authorities of the other city call upon the health department here for the fingerprints of the missing baby. The child is identified beyond all question of doubt and restored to its parents.

"The plan appeals to me as feasible and of merit, but, as I have said, it would require education to bring many to that way of thinking. We have got to disassociate fingerprinting from crime."

Another suggestion to insure proper identification was made by Captain Ayers. He said every person, particularly if a woman, should carry some means of identification, as, for example, a name plainly marked on the clothing. The need of this sort of thing, Captain Ayers said, was shown by the fact that bodies of prominent persons have been held unclaimed in the morgue for several days as unidentified dead. The case of Tim Sullivan was recalled. Dr. Monaghan said such a requirement would be made part of the sanitary code, but he admitted the difficulty of enforcing such a law and collecting penalties for failure to obey it.

The Burden is Where the Fault Lies

IF YOU neglect to insure your home, office, factory and household goods against fire are you prepared to meet the burden of replacing the loss?

You know best what it means in actual dollars. You can conceive what it will mean in mental anguish to yourself, your family, your associates.

Is it worth while when the cost of protecting yourself is so trifling? Fire insurance is the cheapest form of insurance today.

When we write your insurance your interests are ours, and we protect them as we would our own.

Pleasant dealings—a feature we like to advertise.

PERSONAL MENTION

Beginning this morning, fifty copies of the Cisco Daily News will be delivered to patrons at Leary's daily, including the Sunday morning issue. This list will be increased from time to time, as demanded.

J. B. Hiatt, Leary's correspondent for the Fort Worth Record, Texas Oil Ledger, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Dallas News and Kansas City Oil & Gas Journal, arrived in Cisco last night on his way home from a business trip to Fort Worth and Dallas.

Among those who went from here yesterday to Eastland to attend the county democratic convention were Mayor J. M. Williamson, G. Fisk, county chairman, J. H. Garner, John L. Patterson, J. J. Butts, Walter Sipe, W. J. Barnes and D. W. Patterson.

C. C. Clifton of Humbletown, is spending a few days in Houston on business for the Humble Oil & Refining company.

Mrs. H. N. Carroll of Houston is visiting Mrs. J. B. Bartlett at Humbletown.

W. J. Armstrong, assistant superintendent of the Humble Oil & Refining company, is spending his vacation in Kansas City and other points.

Misses Marion Hallahan and Grace Lyons of New York are visiting Mrs. O. C. Holcomb, 709 West Fifth street.

The Masonic lodge held a busy, interesting session Friday night. A number received the first degree in Masonry.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Crawford and family of Fort Worth have returned home after a week's visit with E. P. Crawford.

The vote on the $250,000 bond issue for the public schools of Cisco carried at the recent election by three to one. The exact vote was 243 for and 44 against. The new high school building to be erected from this bond issue will be under way at an early date, it is expected, and will be erected on property purchased from Lee Owen, between Ninth and Fifth streets, in west Cisco. A ward school building will also be erected out of this issue.

Professor and Mrs. J. J. Godbey, who have been spending a month in old Kentucky, will arrive home Monday. They are spending the Sabbath in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Ella Goff of Taylor, Tex., president of the Rebekah assembly of Texas, arrived in the city Saturday to spend the week-end with Mrs. J. D. Alexander at her home on West Sixth street. Mrs. Alexander is secretary of the Rebekah assembly.

Mrs. J. J. Butts was called to Austin by reason of an auto accident to her mother, Mrs. Smith, and sister, Mrs. Arde Smith.

Mrs. Homer Bible left for Sipe Springs Saturday morning to spend the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Leasure.

Miss Inez McGuire left Saturday morning to visit her mother in De Leon.

Honoring Mr. Bible's mother, Mrs. Veal of Leander, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bible entertained with a 6 o'clock dinner Saturday night at their home on West Tenth street. Those present were Rufus Bible, Mrs. Veal, Mr. George, Mr. and Mrs. J. Alexander and the host and hostess Mrs. Bible excelled herself upon this occasion, it being her first dinner to guests since her home-making. The handsome dining room was brilliantly lighted and decorated. After serving a delightful seven-course dinner, delightful victrola music was furnished. The porch had been converted into a reception hall and swings, easy chairs and many other comforts afforded the guests a pleasant evening.

Mrs. Lilly Daniels of Mingus is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. W. Shepard, on West Avenue E.

G. E. Bekling, commissary manager for the Humble Oil & Refining company, left last night for Georgia to spend his vacation.

Mrs. C. C. Hendricks of Parks, Tex., has returned home after a pleasant visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hall. She was accompanied home by Misses Edith Hall and Christine Bowman.

Mrs. R. Q. Lee and son, Quincy Lee, will arrive home from Fort Worth this morning, where the boy was taken recently for a surgical operation. The operation was a successful one.

Mrs. L. A. Caradine has returned to her home in Memphis, Tenn., after a pleasant visit with her sisters, Mrs. E. L. Brownlee and Mrs. R. Q. Lee.

Misses Tot Sandifer and Mildred Paxton of Abilene, are guests at the home of Mrs. Thomas Brownlee on West Fourteenth street.

Miss Kathleen Fisher of Fort Worth is spending the week-end with Mrs. Ted Mullinax.

I. N. Rushing and family of Sheridan, Ark., who have been visiting at the home of J. B. O'Brien, left for home Friday.

Joe Whitesides, who was stricken with paralysis a few months ago at the home of his sister, Mrs. Holcomb, left for his home in El Paso Friday night. His condition is much improved.

Arch M. Culmore is spending a few days with his family in Dallas.

Cisco lodge No. 194, Knights of Pythias, held an interesting meeting Friday night. A number of excellent talks for the good of the order were heard and refreshments were served. The lodge is taking a new interest and Chancellor Commander Carter is hopeful of much better attendance and general interest in the future than during the past six months.

Mrs. Blankenbecker left Friday to spend the remainder of the summer in Colorado.

Too Dull to Die.

Associated Press. ABERDEEN, S. D., July 31.—Brown county boasts of a town within its borders that has not had a death in the fifteen years it has been in existence. Rimond is the town which holds the unique record. Not since 1905 has there been a death there. Clearmont, also in Brown county, is believed to hold another record, that being a municipality of five hundred population without a cemetery.

DENISON'S NEW THEATER. DENISON, July 31.—Denison's new play house, erected at a cost of a hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars in nearing completion and the opening will probably be about the first of August. It is, according to theatrical authorities, one of the finest theatres in the south. It will show vaudeville, road shows and moving pictures.

MOTHER WILLING TO SELL HER DAUGHTER ACCOUNT OF POVERTY

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Who wants to buy pretty two and one half year old Margaret McNulty for $250? Her mother, Mrs. Katherine McNulty, is too poor and too ill to take care of her.

The mother and her husband came to America from Ireland several years ago. McNulty has been dead three years.

The mother, pretty and twenty nine, has supported the children since. But a year ago she was attacked with influenza, which developed tuberculosis. She since has been unable to work and has been dependent upon friends. She could not improve and take care of the children, too. Martin was the eldest and the least trouble, and she thought she knew of people who would take care of him, but not the girl.

The dilemma led Mrs. McNulty to put this advertisement in the paper.

YOUNG WIDOW will part with lovely 2 1/2 year old girl. Irish parent age $250 absolutely necessary, as mother is in poor health.

"I have nobody," said Mrs. McNulty.

"My mother lives in Belfast. I have brothers in England. They want me to come to them, but they are poor, too. It is for Margaret's sake. I have seen it coming for a long time." Further than that she would not say and so it is that Margaret McNulty is for sale for $250.

MEETING TO DISCUSS CONSERVATION OF GAS.

Associated Press. AUSTIN, July 31.—Plans proposed by F. G. Cotrell, director of the federal bureau of mines, for holding a general conference on conservation of natural gas, at Bartlesville, Okla., during the month of August, have been approved by the Texas railroad commission and the public service bodies of the states of Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas. Mr. Cotrell stated in his communication to the Texas commission a similar conference was held on July 2 at the Pittsburgh experimental station and attended by public commissions of the states of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland, Western New York and Indiana. This meeting proved quite successful, according to the director, who added that a coordinated program was arranged for a uniform system for the conservation of natural gas. Major Butte, chief of the oil and gas division of the commission will attend the Bartlesville conference and also probably a member of the commission.

To Receive Back Pay. Associated Press. DENNISON, July 31.—Approximately $253,460 in back pay will be paid out to the thirty-eight hundred railroad employees of this city under the recent adjustment of the United States Labor board. The new wage scales were made retroactive to May 1. It will require a force of a hundred clerks and time keepers to compute the back time and it is hardly probable they will complete their task in time for the August 1 payday.

The Daily News will appreciate your next job printing order. The best equipment money will buy, with first-class workmen in charge.

Jack Johnson's White Wife Ready to "Quit"

Says She Might As Well Be Dead, Ostracized — Scorned by Both White and Negroes, She Throws Up Sponge.

(Jack Johnson, former heavy-weight boxing champion of the world, tired of being buffed about the world, chased from one country only to be made the laughing stock and ostracized in another, has decided to "face the music" and is in jail at Joliet, Ill. Johnson's wife, a white woman, also tired of her life with the former champion, has told her story to a few of the women who would condescend to converse with her.)

By W. Boyd Gatewood,
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

TIA JUANA, Mexico, July 31.—"My God, I might as well be dead!" That is the despairing moan of the woman who is the white wife of Jack Johnson, the negro outcast.

It is the wall of a woman in a surge of desolation, and Tia Juana today lays ominous speculation and recalls the tragic end of the big black man's first white wife in Chicago nearly a decade ago. She died by her own remorse-stricken hand.

Reports of a rift in the domestic mellancholy of Johnson, the modern "man without a country," are on every tongue.

Mrs. Johnson, whose life psychologists say must be in fact what "Les Miserables" was in fiction, gave voice to the expression, "I might just as well be dead," while discussing her situation and position of ostracism.

Sensational stories are being told here today, most of them based on evidence in the hands of the white wife's former maid. A reliable white woman in whom Mrs. Johnson confided, however, has also talked.

One of these stories is that with Johnson nearing the end of his trial, Mrs. Johnson is secretly glad at heart, feeling that thus her unenviable situation will be over.

She accepts his surrender with relief, seeing in it the safest way for her to bring about a parting of their ways.

Ask her direct, however, and she will tell you it is not so. But in the same breath she will imply that she wants to "get away," that she wants to go "some place where she isn't known."

Around Jack she acted contented, and when questioned concerning her marriage to him and his position just now, she invariably says:

"I would not trade Jack for any man right now. I include white men in that statement, too."

"What will I do. Oh, I can hardly say now. I'll go some place where I am not known and rest."

She looks as if she needed it in the worst way. She looks weary—wary of being a wanderer with her "black man" on the face of a scornful earth.

If she ever possessed any beauty or charm she has lost it now. She is of the blonde type and they break fast, scientists say. She has paid toll to the deadly ostracism and the weary shadow under which she has lived since her marriage to Jack Johnson in Chicago eight years ago.

She is a small woman, thin and pale—"washed out."

She is in her middle thirties. I should say. And though comparatively young yet, something deep, something stifling, has smothered out the soul in her eyes. They are empty, almost dead. They strike you at once as an index to every remorse she must have known.

Her intimates say she holds up remarkably well. They find she has schooled herself to try to accept unflinchingly her status in life, to try to make the best of it, feigning contentment. But on occasions her pose breaks, as for example, when she was quoted thus:

"Of course, I am not contented here. How on earth could I be? It is sordid and horrible. It is not like Paris, it is not like Vienna, London or Madrid. I have been nearly everywhere. Even Havana and Mexico City were a thousand times better than this."

But Johnson was driven out of those great capitals, and she with him, always running before public scorn. The records show that, and it is not hard to know how she was treated wherever she went with her black master, when it is so plainly seen how she is treated here.

"Nobody associates with her," a gambler stated, and a bartender and a business manager confirmed his words. "She sometimes has to sit at the cash register in the negro cabaret in order to get to talk to anyone at all."

She won't talk about herself to strangers, but she is said to be quick to confide in women who will associate with her at all, and it is from such sources that her story has been revealed.

"I don't let myself think about a lot of things," she told a certain American woman who sat with her in the cafe one afternoon. "What's the use—they're done. And, anyway, it is not good to brood. In the other day when I was nursing Jack's nephew in San Diego when the doctors thought he might die—had almost given him up, in fact—I couldn't help an awful depression. I just thought to myself: 'My God, I might just as well be dead.'"

"That may sound awful; but isn't it the truth? Some people weren't intended to live right anyway, and those people oughtn't to be scared of death."

"But Jack was scared of it—for his nephew. I thought I would nearly go crazy then, when Gus was so low. He was nearly wild. All he'd do would be to walk around and pull his hands and moan. 'My God, am I going to kill my own nephew like this?'"

"Under different circumstances, though, Jack is always good to me. That is, he is considerate and kind when I'm around. You know. But that can't make up for everything. And yet I wouldn't trade Jack for any white man I've ever seen—not now."

She tells that last story to every one. She is said to like to tell it in the presence of Jack who, beams. Yet it is said of her that she spends as little of her time as possible on the Mexican side of the line. She goes into San Diego—where her husband cannot go without being seized as a criminal—four days at a time, always, driven in by Johnson's white "man Friday," young "Brownie" Brown, the boy who says he was once in the glorious Argonne, but who is now valet and chauffeur to the black man and his white wife.

THIS HEREFORD HERD HAD GREAT HISTORY

By International News Service.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., July 31.—The livestock dispersal sale at the Moss Boyd Farm in central Saskatchewan marked the passing of a historic herd of polled Hereford cattle which was one of the original sources of that breed in America.

Mr. Boyd, who died recently shared with B. O. Gammon of Des Moines, Ia., the distinction of having originated this breed. Both were students of the Mendelian theory of heredity and began in 1898 a co-operative effort to breed a variety of hornless Herefords. In 1902 Mr. Gammon made a canvass of 2,400 Hereford breeders and discovered four young bulls which by a freak of nature had been born hornless.

Mr. Gammon bought two of these bulls and Mr. Boyd the other two and these four animals became the progenitors of all the polled Herefords in the world. They were bred to horned Hereford cows and a part of their offspring was hornless. By mating these hornless cattle the breed gradually was evolved. At the time of his death Mr. Boyd had a herd of 500 on his farm on the Canadian National railway near Prince Albert.

TWO CLERKS NEEDED TO HANDLE THE MAIL FOR EUGENE V. DEBS

By International News Service.
ATLANTA, Ga., July 31.—The campaign activities of Eugene V. Debs, socialist candidate for the presidency and a prisoner in the Federal penitentiary here, are little heard of by the public, but the prison personnel daily is reminded of it.
It's in the mail.

Two mail clerks are employed at the prison, and previous to Mr. Debs' coming had a "soft job." Now the mail for the Socialist prisoner is twice as much as that of all other prisoners combined.

The warden is said to contemplate the employment of another man to help the clerks.

Debs declines to comment on either the democratic or republican nominees, not desiring "to deal in personalities." He receives few visitors except his closest friends and henchmen.

HOOD SMELLS THE HOOD AND OWNER SAYS IT IS NO GOOD

International News Service.
AKRON, O., July 31.—A "moonshine" hunt was on.

A posse of twelve deputy sheriffs and marshals, directed by Sheriff Hutchinson and Mayor Decker, was industriously following up trails.

One trail led to the property of Joe Hoffman, East Liberty. An extensive search, however, failed to unearth evidence of illicit activity.

Finally the sheriff noted a dog sniffing and pointing.

Making friends with it, he whispered "raistn jack" into the "purp's" ears. When the canine pricked up his ears, wagged his tail and started on a trot for a thicket near Hoffman's home, Sheriff Hutchinson called to his men to follow.

The "whiskey hound" led the posse to a mound.

When the dog began scratching the officers followed suit, uncovering a big still in a dugout.

"That damn dog no good," exclaimed Hoffman, when the Mayor fined him $350 and costs.

HE COULDN'T STAY AWAY, THEN HE THREW BRICK

By International News Service.

DETROIT, July 31.—Droga Belstie, who is a steadfast if unwelcome admirer of Mrs. Stephen Welemira, cannot take a hint, like being shot through the arm, to stay away from the object of his desires, but he will not bother her for the next sixty days, at least.

Droga's latest expression of his feelings toward the woman of his desire took the form of a brick, which he is said to have hurled through the window at her husband. He was sentenced to sixty days in the house of correction.

He had annoyed her so much on a previous occasion, Mrs. Welemira said, that she had found it necessary to shoot him, the bullet going through the arm, but that he persisted still.

INCREASED COTTON CROP EXPECTED IN WEST TEXAS SECTION

Special to the News.

STAMFORD, July 31.—Questionnaires are being sent out by the West Texas chamber of commerce to unit directors of the organization in 175 towns in West Texas inquiring as to the number of acres that will be needed to handle the fall crops, as to the number of acres of cotton as compared to that of 1919 and a conservative estimate on the number of bales of cotton that will be raised in each county. When the information shall have been tabulated, it will be released to the public. At present the organization figures that the cotton acreage over West Texas has been increased in general at least fifteen per cent. Some counties have increased as much as 100 per cent, according to preliminary reports.

BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL OF DALLAS HAS QUIT BUSINESS

DALLAS, July 31.—The Dallas building trades council, the only body in the city employed to call a general strike of building crafts, was formally dissolved at a meeting of its members Wednesday night.

Unions which composed the building trades council will continue their affiliation with the central labor council, which call out strikes only after obtaining sanction of the American Federation of Labor and the international unions.

The council has been in existence for ten years and at one time had a membership of 7,000.

The building trades council was involved in a sympathetic strike against non-union linemen here last year. Several thousand members lost their jobs as a result. Since that time the membership has decreased until few unions were left.

TONBRIDGE, England, July 31.—There's an old saying: "God made the world and rested; God made man and rested; then God made woman—since then neither God nor man has rested. The cause of unrest has been discovered. Hear the words of wisdom from Councillor Clark, who thinks these are decadent times.

Holding up a sketch of a lady bathing which just escaped coming under the inventory classification "Picture—nude on rocks," Clark told the town council why mixed bathing shouldn't be permitted. Said Clark:

"The chances of a happy marriage, I repeat, are largely dependent upon the appearance of a woman not only in the bath, but coming out. Carelessness on this point will destroy the finer idealism of the love of the sexes.

"In this new age the 'revue' atmosphere has not only affected bathing costumes, but wedding dresses. When clergy refuse to marry scantily-dressed brides and high-born dames go to Ascot clad in a few ounces of lace, is it to be wondered at that men have lost their old-time respect for women?"

"Much of the grave unrest in the world is due to the barbarous license in women's dress and to the orgies witnessed at bathing resorts."

ROOSTER HOBO BEATS WAY THROUGH INDIANA

By International News Service.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., July 31.—The ridiest rooster in the United States has completed his last jaunt. When the Monon's night Louisville express arrived here from Chicago at 3:55 the other morning a lusty chanticleer's crow emanated from beneath the bumpers of the express car. Robert Gray, a brakeman, slipped up on the bird and captured him. The train crew explained that the rooster, Rhode Island red, had escaped from a coop in the Dearborn station and had gone to roost beneath the train. At every stop the bird was heard to crow, but he couldn't be located until he was caught here, none the worse for his wild 225-mile ride. Gray took the rooster home for eating purposes.

MEN WANT TO KNOW EVERYTHING, DON'T THEY?

TOPEKA, Kan., July 31.—There's not much "joy" in a woman voting if she is forced to give her "true age" to be enabled to do so, in the opinion of Mrs. Margaret M. McCarter of this city. Appearing at the city hall to register, Mrs. Carter gave her age as "over 31." Then the clerk in charge quietly but firmly informed her that under a new ruling women must give their correct age or forego registering. Mrs. McCarter refused to register. Mrs. McCarter spoke before the Chi-

FIND GIRL'S SKELETON IN BARN; SAY MURDER

By International News Service.
ONAWA, Ia., July 31.—The skeleton of a girl, probably sixteen or eighteen years of age, has been found here in a barn loft. Indications are she was lured to the loft and murdered.
The victim's bones were covered with quicklime and rested on a Sioux City newspaper bearing the date of September 7, 1917. Police records are being scanned to ascertain if they contain any record of a girl disappearing about that date.

LIGHTNING BOLT HITS BARN, KILLS 1,100 HOGS

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., July 31.—A small fortune in pork went up in smoke when lightning struck a barn on a large farm near here owned by C. E. Mahone.
Following the bolt, the structure which sheltered eleven hundred hogs, was totally destroyed by fire. Neither the building nor the hogs, which had been taken to the farm to be "dipped", was covered by insurance.

Those poor busts! They had to listen to every single word
that's been said about the treaty

In a wide, high room filled with rather dingy desks stands a man reading from a manuscript he holds in one hand. Occasionally he waves other hand in the general direction of the quarter circle of desks opposite. There are 48 desks over there, with the exception of a half dozen he is occupied. On the reader's side the room are also 48 desks. Near 11 of them are empty. But he reads on, his voice a monotonous, most maddening drone. No one is giving the slightest attention to him. A few desks behind him two men are engaged in conversation. Presumably they are talking each other up, for they smile broadly at frequent intervals and occasionally break a laugh. When this occurs a man seated on a raised platform near the desk before him and the noisemaker. But not the man reading from the manuscript. He goes serene, sentence after sentence, page after page. Nobody listens him.

Across the room another man bends over his desk, writing fly on big sheets of paper. As he finishes one a clerk takes it, bit, lays it aside. Next to him another man lolls in his chair, reading a magazine. At back of the room a number of lounge on wide, leather upholstered benches against the wall. Neither do they pay any attention to the speaker. They seem to do only to get up suddenly and leeward as one of their number, more awake than others, begin telling a story. Through a door opposite the raised platform a man enters, walks down the wide center aisle and engages in conversation with a clerk at a desk in front of the desks. Anon he crosses the room, stopping at a desk here or there to talk with the man seated there. He is a big, burly man with long hair, brushed away from his forehead, and cut square at the back—a style occasionally affected by musicians and artists and a few politicians. Ostentatiously he walks to and fro. He is there to see and be seen and he wants the spectators, in the quaint, vulgar phrase of the street, to "get an eyeful."

Still the man at the desk goes on reading. He refers now and again to the "royal American farmer"—but he offers no explanation of what such a thing might be. Even the Statues Yawn. Wide galleries surround the room and most of them are filled to overflowing with silent, attentive spectators. Possibly these people are listening to the man who is reading. In a large section of one of these galleries—that part reserved for the representatives of newspapers—two men sit and discuss the matter that has brought them there. One of them points to a row of marble busts against the opposite wall. "Well," he says, "I might make a picture of them yawning."

Swiftly he sketches an outline on the pad in front of him. He looks down at the tireless reader in the almost empty room, the drowsy figures at the end, the few men at the desks, reading, talking among themselves, writing, and back again at the man addressing the empty air. "Gosh!" he exclaims. "Just think of it! These boobies are running the country. Why, most of them ain't fitted to run a country store." Such is the scene that unfolded itself on the afternoon of Friday, March 19, in the senate of the United States at Washington—the afternoon preceding the evening when the senate refused to ratify the treaty of peace.

What is a "debate?" The next morning people all over the country read that "in seven hours of debate preceding the vote, Republican leaders declared themselves ready to take the issue to the people. From the Democratic side several senators bitterly assailed the President for his stand and declared the administration could not afford to carry the issue, as it presented itself today, into the campaign." "Seven hours of debate" brings up pictures of an assemblage of solemn, earnest men, zealously striving by words that seem inspired to bring others to their way of thinking. It recalls orators of the Patrick Henry type. It—oh, well, what's the use? "Seven hours of debate" means that a number of old men, one after the other, got on their feet and read speeches to empty desks. And they didn't even read them well. They droned along until the listener had difficulty keeping awake and wondered if it wouldn't be more exciting to take a walk—even though it was raining. In this manner did the senate of the United States "debate" the portentous document, the non-ratification of which, the President had said, would "break the heart of the world." And this old man, reading his monotonous way through many typewritten pages, was a senator! In spite of the fact that no one was listening to him he was addressing the senate on the subject of the peace treaty! With many references to that wearer of the purple, the "royal American farmer," for he came from an agricultural state and the "speech" that wasn't listened to will be read very earnestly back home, he slowly wound himself up in a cocoon of words from which he emerged at last with the declaration that he was going to vote for ratification.

Another Gets the Floor. The clock on the wall ticked away tedious minutes as he explained why he was going to vote for ratification, even with reservations. He was a Democratic senator who had hitherto upheld the administration and he felt he owed the senate an explanation—or possibly he was thinking of the voters back home. But finally he sat down and a senator on the Republican side was recognized as having the floor. He was a younger man, not long a senator. There was more fire in his speech, but never did it flame very high. He talked about Ireland and the reservation passed the day before in which the senate announced itself in sympathy with Ireland's desire for complete independence. He, too, held a typewritten manuscript which he consulted frequently. He turned to the Democratic side of the chamber and addressed himself to the dozen senators sitting there. They paid no heed. Senator Pomeroy turned to chat with Senator Walsh, of Montana. The latter, busy with the manuscript of his speech, making corrections, adding a line here and there, nodded brief answers to the pleasantries of the other. Read the Speech Next Day. Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, buried his nose behind the pages of a newspaper. Senator Myers of Montana, was deep in a magazine. Probably he had come across that rare thing in a magazine—a good story. But the gentleman on the Republican side read steadily on. He had something to say to the Democratic members of the senate and he used about five thousand words to say it with. He gave them some advice—and next day the Demohave the privilege of the floor of the senate. They sit at unoccupied desks, crowd senatorial clerks and secretaries on the benches against the wall. "They have come to listen to the debate," we are informed.

We wonder if all the movies in Washington have suddenly shut down. Certainly, if there was any choice in the matter, one would choose a movie. There the scenes are animated and the silence is golden. But perhaps they have come to wait for the vote on the treaty. That, at least, should prove exciting.

Senator Walsh of Montana, has the floor. An administration follower has begun a speech, in which he says he will vote for ratification, even with reservations. He objected to weakening reservations, he said, but was prepared to "accept what can be had rather than nothing."

He points out that the treaty should be ratified at this session because it will be impossible for the Democrats to elect enough senators this fall to give them a majority for the treaty without reservations. He, too, read his speech, and only a few besides the correspondents in the press gallery paid any attention.

He declared the Republican cry of "Americanism" the treaty was for campaign purposes. He referred to the Republican maneuvers against the document as a "fly-specky campaign." And on and on to nowhere.—Philadelphia Record.

Boiling Tincans. After trying many other processes of recovering tin from old cans, there is now, according to La Nature, a return to the old-fashioned method of boiling the scraps (well cleaned) in a solution containing an excess of free alkali and saltpetre. The tin is recovered as crystals of stannate of soda, and the alkali and saltpetre can be used over and over again.

NOMINEES IN PRIMARY FOR EASTLAND COUNTY

The Eastland News has carefully compiled sketches of the men winning nominations in Eastland county in the primary election and who will serve the people of the county and the districts, senatorial and judicial, in which this county is located. It describes the successful ones as follows:

State Senator

John A. Russell, at present district clerk of Eastland county, will represent this senatorial district in the state senate, defeating Jessie W. Smith of Breckenridge for this place. John Russell was born in Carroll county, Georgia, in April, 1888. When twelve years of age he moved with his father's family to Gorman, where John helped his father on the farm. He gained his education in rural schools and later taught school at Gorman and Cisco. He spent one summer at the University of Texas. In the year 1917 the office of district clerk was made vacant by the resignation of Eliza Beem and Mr. Russell was tendered this office by Judge Joe Burkett, at that time district judge.

This office Mr. Russell has successfully held since. Mr. Russell is a married man, having a wife and one daughter. He is an Elk and a member of the Woodmen of the World lodge. His friends largely attribute his recent success in the campaign for state senator to the efficient management of his campaign.

Representative

Judge Joe Burkett, who is to represent this district in the state legislature from this district, is the second son of J. H. Burkett, who resides at Clyde, Texas, being state nut expert. Judge Burkett was born in Llano county during the year 1885 and came to Eastland county shortly afterward, settling south of this city, where he has resided with the exception of seven years spent in Calahan county, where he served as a printer, a "devil" and farmed and taught school. The family resided in the Sabanna community. Judge Burkett received his education in common schools and began the practice of law when he was nineteen years of age, being admitted to the bar at Texarkana. He was elected to the office of district judge over Judge D. K. Scott of Cisco, Judge Mahaffey of Abilene and Judge Bell of Baird in 1916, and at that time was the youngest judge in this state. This office he successfully held until last year when he resigned from the 53rd district judgeship and engaged in private practice of law, forming a partnership with Messrs. Anderson and Orr and the firm is considered one of Eastland's strongest law firms. Judge Burkett is a Royal Arch Mason, Elk and an Odd Fellow. He is a member of the Church of Christ.

District Judge, 85th District

Judge Ed. A. Hill, successful in the election Saturday to the office of judge of the 85th district court, was born in Weakly county, Tennessee. His father died when Ed was a mere boy and it was a long hard struggle for an education that Judge Hill experienced, attending the common schools. During the year 1895 he moved to Eastland county and began reading law in the office of Davenport & Conner. Major Davenport was then a state senator and Judge Truman H. Conner, a brother of Judge Earl Conner, who is at present chief justice of the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth. Judge Hill was admitted to the bar in 1898 and was at the age of 22 elected county attorney for this county. He voluntarily retired from this office in 1899 and resumed the practice of law. He was elected county judge in 1905 and held that office in a satisfactory manner, retiring in 1914. When Eastland was in need of a judge, this office was thrust upon Judge Hill, and he retired from that position in 1919. When the 83rd district court was created, having previously consisted of five counties, it was up to Governor Hobby to appoint a judge for the Eastland county court. There were several applicants, but Judge Hill was not among them. He agreed, however, to accept the office should the governor tender it to him. It was while the judge was in Mineral Wells that the office was tendered him and several days before the judge knew he was to be appointed. Judge Hill enjoys the distinction of having never been defeated for any office. He is a member of the First Methodist church, South, and a Royal Arch Mason. A prominent attorney has said of Judge Hill: "A fairer judge never occupied the bench."

County Treasurer

E. S. Pritchard, successful candidate for county treasurer, is a native of Eastland county. He was born and raised in and near Gorman. Mr. Pritchard is 30 years old, married and has a wife and two children. He was elected to the office of county treasurer last term, defeating Walter Gray. He was unopposed for the second term. Previous to being elected to this office he farmed and taught school in the Gorman community. He comes from Eastland county's oldest and best families. The books of his office are open to public inspection and vouchers are paid off promptly.

Tax Assessor

H. A. Collins will on the first day of December, this year, assume the duties of tax assessor of this county, having been elected to this office over Oscar Lyeria. Mr. Collins has long been a resident of Eastland county, being born in the state of Georgia 43 years ago. He came to Eastland county, January 1, 1896, and has lived in Eastland city and just south of this city since. He was formerly tax collector of this city, serving two terms from 1912 to 1916, later serving as a deputy. He is married and has a wife and two children. It was a cold bad day in December, 1901, that Mr. Collins suffered the loss of his entire left arm and a part of his right hand in a gin accident just south of this city when he was caught in the machinery and came near losing his life. His friends claim he is fully qualified to handle the office to which he has been elected.

County Clerk

Earl Bender, successful candidate for the office of county clerk, is a native of Eastland county, being born in the town of Gorman. He has spent the larger part of his time in Eastland county. He was appointed to the office of county clerk on July 28, 1919, to succeed Miss Maud Crossley. Mr. Bender received his early schooling in the schools at Gorman and Carbon, later going to Tyler, where he graduated from the Tyler Commercial college during the summer of 1916. He has taught school at Pleasant Hill, Hankins and Normal School at Gorman and was later connected with the city school of Austin. He served two years with the 90th division, twelve months of which he was overseas; six months in France and was with the Army of Occupation six months in Germany. Mr. Bender is a young man and unmarried.

Tax Collector

John S. Hart will be the new tax collector of Eastland county when the remainder of the new officers will be sworn in on December 1. Mr. Hart is a young married man, and has a wife and two children. He was practically reared in this county, attending the rural schools, later earning his way through college. He lives northwest of Eastland on a farm. Six years he has spent in the civil service. This is the first public office Mr. Hart has ever held. He is a Mason and an Odd Fellow.

County Judge, Commissioners Court

Eastland county has two county judges, one of which presides over the commissioners and the other known as the county judge-at-law. Judge C. R. Starbuck was re-elected to the office of county judge to preside over the commissioners court of this county, being unopposed for a second term. Judge Starbuck was born near Georgetown, Texas, on a farm and is a graduate from high school and Southwestern University. For two years he was superintendent of public schools in Santa Anna. He attended the University of Texas. Following the death of his father he was made justice of the peace at Georgetown, shortly afterward being admitted to the bar to practice law in Williamson county. Judge Starbuck came to Eastland county and was appointed to the judgeship August 11, 1919. Judge Starbuck is married and is a member of the Masonic lodge.

County Superintendent

Miss Uslia Howard will serve Eastland county another term as superintendent of schools. Miss Howard is a native of the state of Arkansas, although she has lived in Eastland county since she was a small child. She has successfully taught school in this county for twenty years, part of this time teaching in rural schools and later in the Cisco city schools. The Howard family moved from Arkansas to Rising Star. Miss Howard attained her education in the city schools of Cisco and later attended the State University. She was elected to the office of county superintendent for this her second term, without opposition. She is a life-long member of the Baptist church.

YOUTH TURNS TOREADOR, KILLS BULL, SAVES MAN

By International News Service. INDIANAPOLIS, July 31.—With a brickbat in his hand and the tenacity of a toreador in his heart, a small boy played hero for a moment at the stock yards here the other day, killed a bull that attacked an old colored employe of the yards and then ran away. Stockyard officials are trying to learn the identity of the youngster, who apparently became frightened at what he had done and fled. The bull escaped from its pen and the boy, seeing the peril of the negro, Rob Williams, picked up a brickbat and hurled it at the beast. Struck between the eyes, the animal sank to the ground and died.

NURSES TO GIVE SKIN TO SAVE GIRL'S LIFE

By International News Service. WESTPLAINS, Mo., July 31.—If Florence Hays, four, in a hospital here, lives, she will owe her life to several nurses and her father, as well as to the institution's surgeons. Recently Florence upset a pot of boiling coffee and had all the skin burned from her shoulders and abdomen, making an extensive skin grafting operation necessary to assure her recovery. The skin necessary to prolong the life of the small patient will be taken from the bodies of the nurses and her parent.

CORPUS CHRISTI TO HAVE BREAKWATER WORK IS UNDER WAY

Associated Press.

CORPUS CHRISTI, July 31.—Construction of trackage from the line of the S. A. & A. P. railroad to the waterfront here is under way, the intention being to transport material for the $600,000 circular breakwater that will protect the business portion of Corpus Christi from storms.

The tracks will be carried approximately 2,600 feet out to sea before dumping stone begins. The breakwater will taper from 45 feet at the base to ten feet at the top, being of rip-rap construction. The stone will rise six feet above the mean low tide and later will be surmounted by a concrete cap, adding four feet to the total height. The breakwater, when completed, is expected to add considerably to the amount of pleasure shipping here, as it will form a landlocked harbor.

JAPAN WILL NOT BUY HEAVILY OF COTTON FROM PRESENT CROP

Associated Press.

GALVESTON, July 31.—Because of unsettled conditions throughout Japan, that country will not buy heavily of the 1920 cotton crop of this country, T. Hiroshima, head of the Galveston branch of the Goshu company, declared. Japan may even ship 200,000 bales of cotton back to this country to obtain the benefit of the higher prices paid here, he said. At present native merchants are overstocked, not only with raw material, but with large quantities of piece goods, he added.

DITCHES OLD COMRADE ON BASEBALL WAGER

Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 31.—No chance for the "Blues" to win. Billy Winstead, veteran city sleuth, told a co-worker the other day while the merits of this city's baseball team were being discussed.

"I'll say they'll win today," retorted Paul Weikam, to whom Winstead was talking.

"Well, if they win I'll ditch my mustache," Winstead volunteered.

Wonder! The Blues handed the victors—the Louisville club—a terrific wallop.

But Winstead was game, although the mustache had been a comrade for some twenty-five years. Next morning when he "showed" for work the "foliage was missing."
