Cold Norther Brings Temperature Drop Over Texas

WEATHER IS FREEZING IN PANHANDLE

DALLAS, Oct. 25. — A norther which swept down off snow-covered Rocky mountain areas brought freezing temperatures to Amarillo today and sent thermometers downward in all parts of Texas.

The drop in temperature was accompanied by rain and mist.

As Amarillo and Memphis rainfall for the past 24 hours was reported to be one inch. Rain falling at Amarillo threatened to turn into snow.

The first snow of the season fell in Oklahoma today at Boise City and a light fall whitened the extreme northwest corner of the panhandle.

.8 OF AN INCH OF RAIN FALLS HERE.

Cisco and west Texas in general today got another taste of winter with the thermometer here falling to 40 degrees above zero. The cold wave rode into a balmy autumn evening on the wings of a stiff north wind yesterday.

During the night the wind had blown up a driving rain. Sleet fell during the forenoon here. The precipitation at 11 o'clock was .8 of an inch, according to the gauge at the city hall.

GARNER HITS AT "FUTILITY" OF PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Speaker John N. Garner struck back today at President Hoover's defense of government finances charging the chief executive lacks honesty, has practiced deception and cannot explain away his record of futility on measures to relieve the depression.

The democratic vice-presidential candidate, taking figures in the republican campaign text-book, said the Hoover administration had increased the cost of government $1,213,700,000 in the last two years.

Garner said Mr. Hoover "whips himself into a self-righteous fury because the democrats have promised a saving of a billion dollars in governmental expenses, and in the very breath in which he denies the possibility he says that he himself will save a billion and a half if allowed to remain in office."

Hoover figures justify every democratic accusation," the Speaker declared. "No matter how the figures of the past three years are juggled the record of futility and deception cannot be charged."

"The truth of the matter is that President Hoover and his associates have become so involved in apologies that they are no longer able to present their own contention logically or honestly."

Car Owner Presents Police with Cigars

L. W. Grayson, Fort Worth, owner of the stolen Studebaker car recovered here, claimed the car today, according to word received from the police department. He paid the cost of transportation and presented the police department with a box of cigars.

East Cisco House Is Damaged by Fire

A house in the 800 block of east Thirteenth street, owned and occupied by Jack Swindle, was damaged by fire last night at 10 o'clock. Fire Marshall O. Gustafson gave defective wiring as the cause of the fire.

Gustafson estimated the damage at $450 on the house and $150 on the furniture. There was $2,000 insurance, he said, of which $500 was on the furnishings.

82-Year-Old Pioneer Succumbs

DALLAS, Oct. 25. — Miss Sally Brown Irvine, 82-year-old pioneer, formerly of Mineral Wells, will be buried at Tyler tomorrow. Miss Irvine for many years a school teacher died here yesterday at the home of a niece. She had lived at Mineral Wells about 20 years, prior to coming here.

Wed? Charlie Merely Laughs

Smiling at persistent rumors that they soon will be married, and laughing aloud at reports that they already have been wed, Charles Chaplin and Paulette Goddard are seen together in Hollywood with increasing frequency. Here they are as they appeared at a recent movie first night. Chaplin neither confirms nor denies the reports that the platinum blond will be his third bride. Miss Goddard, recent divorcee, tells questioners she is "more interested in my movie work."

Europe's 550 Million Souls Anxiously Await Results of Presidential Election

By HERBERT MOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Oct. 25. — Europe's 550,000,000 inhabitants, many wondering where this winter's bread is coming from, are waiting with high interest for the outcome of the U. S. presidential election.

Somewhat, the people on this side of the Atlantic doggedly believes the world's immediate future is bound up in the struggle between Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Recovery from the long nerve-racking economic depression can begin only after Nov. 8th, they believe.

For months Europe has had but one thought: War Debt Cancellation. It is safe to say that two-thirds of the people over here sincerely believe that war debts must be cancelled, or scaled down, before world prosperity can be restored. On this account interest in the Hoover-Roosevelt contest is terrific. The average European scarcely knows who is the best man, who will make the best president. Little or no betting is reported, but the ruling classes appear to have definite preferences.

Popularity Divided
Hoover has many friends in Europe, has done several things very satisfactory to European interests, but there is no denying the fact that representative opinion over here prefers a democrat to a republican every time. History is supposed to show that foreign countries have enjoyed better relations with the United States during democratic administrations.

More than this, the democratic traditional policy of low tariffs always has been eulogized and admired by Europe for the obvious reason that it meant bigger trade with the United States. Because of the unemployment the prospect of lower tariffs in the United States is a tremendous attraction to European opinion and Roosevelt therefore is considered by many to be "the best man."

Hoover's Breathing Spell
It is recognized that Hoover displays courageous statesmanship when he gave Europe the one-year breathing spell by suspending all war debt payments from July 1, 1931, to July 1, 1932. It benefited everybody to some degree, but all that is gone now, half-forgotten. Cancellation or sweeping reduction should have followed. Europe felt and still feels. Precious time was lost but it is still not too late "to avert disaster," statesmen here assert.

Recent utterances by Hoover had about convinced Europe that cancellation is out of the question, but British Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald still is confident that the United States will give relief, that the American people are "waking up" to the Christian proverb that "it is better to give than to receive."

Easing of Interest
Nothing cabled over here has caused anybody to feel that Roosevelt will offer cancellation, or a further moratorium but if he were to be elected, readjustment, or at least some easing of the huge interest charges, would follow, it is confidently hoped.

On questions of monetary policy, it is probably a toss-up, although Roosevelt's clear-cut demand for a solution of the silver crisis is viewed here as an encouraging feature. Europeans also seem to feel that Roosevelt would be more likely to listen to their demands for reforms in the gold standard system and a redistribution of the world's visible gold supplies.

On questions of disarmament, Hoover outshines his opponent. His proposal for an all-round one-third cut in armament was hailed with enthusiasm by all European nations, although Britain and France frowned on it. In any case, the Hoover plan is the maximum that Europe will agree to and there is little room for Roosevelt to display his statesmanship in this field except perhaps to offer an alternative plan in case Britain, France and Japan reject the Hoover Plan.

Immigration Question
On questions of immigration, which is very vital to most European countries, because of their over-population problems, the choice is difficult. Opinion here is that Roosevelt would ease up on the restrictions sooner than Hoover, but no one expects that the U. S. ever

CISCO LEGION OFFERS CIVIC COOPERATION

The American Legion of Cisco last night offered its resources in membership and influence in cooperation with the city government, the chamber of commerce and other civic organizations upon a program of constructive enterprise for the good of the community. Declaring that in the past the Legion has been largely selfishly concerned, Crigler Paschall, chairman of the meeting, asserted that the Legion under its present leadership is determined to pay a debt of real service to the community, and, speaking for its officers, pledged the organization to cooperation with other civic agencies to the end that Cisco can go forward.

The theme of the meeting in which 75 legionnaires and guests assembled at the Legion hall, was "a unified citizenship under competent leadership." Numbers of talks were made, all of them upon this line.

The meeting was in line with the suggestion of the national commander who urged that each post of the national organization join forces with recognized groups in its community to promote a uniform program of community betterment. His idea, Mr. Paschall explained, is that much more can be accomplished by a unity of groups working to a common end. Where each group adopts an individual program community resources is disseminated and less is achieved in the aggregate, he said.

Looking for Program.
In calling the meeting the Legion endeavored to have present representatives of the municipal government, the chamber of commerce, service clubs and other civic organizations. Representing the city were Mayor J. T. Berry and Comm'r. J. T. Elliott. P. L. Ullom attended for the chamber of commerce. A. D. Anderson, president of the Lions club, represented his organization. President J. J. Collins of the chamber of commerce and Rotary club was out of the city. Talks were made by Rev. Stuart Pearce, J. M. Williamson, A. B. O'Flaherty, J. C. McAfee and others.

"The Legion," said Mr. Paschall this morning, "is groping in the dark for a program of real service to Cisco. We are trying to find something to do. Other community groups are in the same condition. If

F. F. A. AWARDS STATE DEGREES TO CISCO BOYS

Joe Bob Winston and Avery Holt of Cisco were elected to Lone Star degree of the Future Farmers of America in the convention held in Dallas last week. Ten other boys from the rest of the state were awarded the same degree. Last year three out of the eleven receiving the degree were from Cisco, according to E. H. Varnell, vocational agriculture teacher at Cisco high school.

Joe Bob Winston was also elected state reporter of the organization. This is the second consecutive year that a Cisco boy has held office, James Matthews being state secretary last year, Pat Stout of Stockdale is the new president.

This year's convention was the biggest and the best the F. F. A. has ever held in Texas, Varnell said. There were 2,170 boys from 130 schools from all parts of the state. In addition to the usual program there were a number of features, outstanding among them being addresses by S. L. Rogers, state superintendent of public instruction; Ollie B. Webb, assistant to the president of the Texas & Pacific railway; and R. D. Malby of Washington, vocational supervisor of the southern region.

Five boys made the trip with Varnell, in his car. They attended the convention in Dallas Friday and Saturday and returned at 2 o'clock Monday morning, bringing with them the county booth, which won eighth place, the open exhibits, the vocational and club exhibits. The boys were Albert Schoor and Alvin Wendt of the Word-Lutheran part-time chapter; Joe Bob Winston and R. L. Tucker, delegates from the Cisco chapter; and James Matthews of Cisco, state secretary of the organization.

COACH ELKINS DRILLS TEAM ON KICKS AND AERIAL GAME

By FRANK LANGSTON
Drilling his team on a passing attack and defense, Coach Bull Elkins put the Lobos through a light workout yesterday afternoon. Most of the boys were in good shape after the hard game with Terrill Prep Friday, though there was a noticeable decrease in the squad reporting for practice. Elkins said he intended to wait till today to start this week's hard practice.

The Lobos played a great game against Terrill in the last half Friday. They were slow in getting started and never did gain much ground on running plays, but they struck terror into the hearts of the visitors with their passing attack.

PRORATION TO BE ENFORCED BY STERLING

AUSTIN, Oct. 25.—Gov. R. S. Sterling this afternoon ordered more troops mobilized into the East Texas oil field.

Following requests by state railroad commissioners for military power to enforce oil proration orders he instructed Col. L. S. Davidson, of Kilgore, to call out a full company if needed and to enforce the commission's orders.

Troops mobilization probably will begin before nightfall.

AUSTIN, Oct. 25.—Gov. R. S. Sterling today said he saw no need for a special oil session of the Texas legislature and declared if physical waste is threatened in the east Texas oil field martial law will curb the situation.

His statement was his answer to pleas of independent oil operators for a special legislative session to revise oil conservation laws of Texas.

A federal court decision handed down at Sherman last yesterday held invalid existing proration orders of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Gov. Sterling declared that if operators in the east Texas field should begin flush production as a result of the federal court ruling the field would be threatened with destruction in 90 days.

"We have ample power under the constitution to prevent any such condition by an executive order. I certainly will not permit the field to be destroyed in any such way," the governor declared.

Gov. Sterling pointed out that troops still are in the east Texas field and that the force can be easily increased.

OIL HEADS NOT ALARMED

DALLAS, Oct. 25. — Heads of major oil companies today expressed the likelihood that the invalidation of the Texas Railroad commission's east Texas proration orders would not throw the field open.

Many expressed the opinion that the federal decision affects only the present order. They were confident new orders will be drawn within a short time to eliminate the portion ruled illegal.

The federal decision is not effective pending the signature of the judges. The decision holds that the commission acted beyond its jurisdiction in prorating the field for the purpose of checking economic waste of oil.

16 WELLS REPORTED OPENED TO FLUSH

TYLER, Oct. 25.—Sixteen wells in the east Texas field adjacent to this city were opened to flush production today upon receipt of the federal court ruling on proration orders Carl L. Estes, publisher, reported.

LIBBY MAY ESCAPE PROSECUTION.

Libby Reynolds, the torch singer widow of Smith Reynolds of North Carolina, heir to an estate of $40,000,000, may escape prosecution of the charge of murder which was returned against her by a grand jury following the sensational death of her husband. All the Reynolds family, including the brother and sister of the dead man, notified the prosecuting attorney "that the evidence fails to prove conclusively that Smith was murdered." Now it is up to the prosecutor. The torch singer widow has demanded a trial for vindication purposes. Now the widow and her unborn child should come in for a share of the Reynolds millions. If there is no evidence to sustain the murder charge, why should she be thrown in the discard?

BALTIMORE AND CITY SALES TAX PLAN.

Now the city sales tax plan in lieu of an ad valorem tax may be given a trial by the very important and fast growing city of Baltimore. According to Eastern newspapers Gov. Ritchie of Maryland has agreed to call a special session of the legislature to pass legislation which will permit Baltimore to set up the sales tax. Indeed the success of the state sales tax in Mississippi is a warning to all the practical politicians as well as the lawmakers as to what may take place later along in other states and in many American cities.

IMPORTANT DECISION IN REDISTRICTING.

All the 48 American commonwealths were given unrestricted freedom by a supreme court ruling to map out their congressional districts as they see fit. Indeed, the highest tribunal upheld the recent redistricting of Mississippi and declared that a regulation imposed in the federal reapportionment act of 1911 was no longer in force. The law in question stipulated that the districts must be compact and contiguous and contain as nearly as practicable, equal numbers of inhabitants. Texas lawmakers should be compelled to carve out 21 congressional districts this winter. Under the apportionment act, Texas gained three additional representatives. Lawmakers of the 42nd legislature failed to provide three new districts. This is the reason why three congress-at-large places will be filled by George B. Terrell, Sterling P. Strong and Joseph Weldon Bailey, Jr., who will be elected at large by the voters Nov. 8. It is said that Dallas will be given a district, San Antonio another and Houston will claim a third. All this is a reminder that the representatives from the smaller towns and rural districts will dominate the new house and they may dominate the new senate of Texas.

IMPORTANT DECISION CONCERNING LABOR.

Readers of this newspaper are reminded that the court of criminal appeals has rendered inoperative a section of the law designed to prevent women from working more than 54 hours weekly. This on the ground that the specific section of the statute applying to a case brought before the court on appeal did not fix the penalty. Codifiers of the criminal statutes, the court found, had failed to include a penalty in a section which specifically applied to laundry workers and directed how their working hours should be arranged. Labor Commr. R. B. Gragg holds that the prosecutor, in the county of Harris, drew the complaint under a wrong section of the law. Another important statute was held void. It was enacted by the second called session of the 42nd legislature. It placed an occupation tax of $150 on money lenders and charged a fee and brokerage. This statute was knocked sky high for the reason that it contravened the constitutional provision limiting bills introduced in the legislature to one subject.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—To the addict of the Senate galleries, no one thing in the campaign is more distressing than the possibility that the most famous of the old Republican wheel horses are about to be retired to private life. The Old Guard actually seems to be in danger of being wiped out. If we lose Reed Smoot of Utah, Jim Watson of Indiana, George Moses of New Hampshire and Wesley Jones of Washington hardly anyone will be able to recognize the next Senate when it convenes. All are said to be threatened with defeat, although it is not inconceivable that each one will pull through. They have been in the Senate longer than any other of the regular Republicans except Freddie Hale of Maine, who is not up for re-election this year.

SMOOTH, the serious-minded 70-year-old chairman of the Finance Committee, co-father of the present tariff act and famous foe of improper literature, has been in the Senate ever since 1903, longer than any other member. Now he finds Prof. Elbert D. Thomas, who teaches history and political science at the University of Utah and nominee of the Democrats, running ahead of him in the straw votes by a healthy majority. Silver mining is stagnant in Utah and prices on wool and other crops are down. Smoot consequently has a real fight on his hands and must convince the voters that the Democrats, if in power, would lower tariff rates and put them in a worse hole than they are in now. "Sunny Jim" Watson's chances are reported considerably poorer than Smoot's. Dispatches from Indiana have the veteran Republican floor leader dashing more or less frantically around the state in what appears to be a lost cause, after a career which carried him first to the House in 1894 and made him a senator in 1916. The Republican party in Indiana is said to be in bad shape and Jim, who won only by 11,000 votes in 1926, has a strong, progressive Democratic opponent in Frederick Van Nuys.

ONE would automatically assume that George Higgins Moses was assured of re-election in New Hampshire, but authoritative advices from the battlefield say he is rather more likely to be defeated by Fred H. Brown, who was nominated by the Democrats. George Higgins is the Senate's president pro tem, and also its champion wisecracker. He has been wisecracking through the campaign but has experienced difficulty in wisecracking off the depression or the charges that he raised the religious issue in the 1928 presidential campaign. Jones, author of the "Five and Ten" prohibition law and chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee, may win because of a tendency of conservative Democrats in Washington to desert his opponent, Homer T. Bone.

The Foreign Legion

matter. All this is a reminder that a new committee should be created in senate and house on "Legislation and Laws" in order that the work of the codifiers may be letter perfect and bills introduced and enacted into law be free from bloop holes.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE
One of those rare bits of humor or wisdom gleaned from the comic page:
"A fellow who hasn't a nickel is often worth a million to his firm, while often the fellow with a million isn't worth a nickel to it."
Which is sound gospel, even if it is gained from a comic strip.

Comes from Doc Graham away up the United States at Saint Louis a post card. "Doc," who is still pursuing his medical education, had a case of nostalgia when the card was written.

"Dear Jimmie" (I can't explain whether the "Jimmie" was deliberate or unintentional).
"Now that I am here I wish that I was back home. Every time I leave home the better satisfied I am to be back. If I ever get back I will never leave again."
Just like the home boy who goes off to college for the first time. He feels as if the world had turned topsy-turvy and he is doomed to an interminable exile. It is surprising to find Doc in that mood—Doc who has wandered over the face of the earth enough to make a veteran globe-trotter out of himself, visiting England and Europe as well as prying into quaint and curious corners of this dear land of the free and the home of the brave.

But it speaks well for Cisco, doesn't it.
The Cisco F. F. A. chapter, made up of boys who are studying to be farmers, gained more recognition at the state Future Farmers convention at the state fair at Dallas last week. Joe Bob Winston was elected state reporter and he and Avery Holt were elected to the Lone Star degree—highest of the F. F. A. Last year James Matthews, of Cisco, was state secretary. So Cisco becomes the first chapter to have members holding state offices in the organization consecutively.

Dr. F. E. Clark came in yesterday with the tips of his fingers stained a blackish brown. "Everything you touch becomes a part of you," he remarked quizzically. If that is true the doctor is part nut.
He had spent an hour or two of the afternoon gathering pecans. His share of the yield garnered from several of the trees on his ranch was 100 pounds.

I made bold last evening to call Chief Justice J. E. Hickman of the 11th court of appeals at Eastland for a belated congratulation upon the splendid race he ran for the state supreme court bench and incidentally inquire what action, if any, his court had taken with respect to Cisco's application for a mandamus to get back into the district schedule. The court had not acted, he informed.

"We will render a decision sometime this week. That is as definite as I can make it," he said.
Every time I go up the street someone casts aspersions upon my reputation as a newspaperman. Say they: "You're a newspaper man and you ought to know."
Well, ought to and know are two different matters. If the chief justice of the court doesn't know how can a newspaperman know. I believe a smart lawyer could make a pretty good case of contempt out of that.

I want particularly that Connie Collins should take cognizance of that.

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, Oct. 25.—The highway department's revenue from the gasoline tax for the state year ending Aug. 31 was $21,584,665, or approximately half of the expenditures of $42,795,910, its annual report shows. With the new division of one cent of its gasoline tax revenues to pay county bonds, and with the same gasoline use for the next year, a revenue of $14,389,776 for road purposes is indicated.
If the same ratio holds good, Texas, during 1932-33, should have a highway-building program of $35,000,000, including a six million dollar remainder of the $7,000,000 emergency loan from the federal government.
That ought to build considerable highway.

There have been many kicks that the state and people of the states have been "federalized" in having to go to the national government in respect to every financial transaction ad every sort of business.
The same sort of centralization is getting into effect in the state's relation to counties—witness the road

There is a new occupation in Texas, predicated on the belief of certain democratic victory a few days hence. It is postmaster-picking. . . . With every post office in the state of presidential appointment rank subject to being filled during the next four years, many democrats are looking forward to jobs; and, as in campaign races, many will put forth vast effort that will prove in vain.
There are federal district attorneys, inspectors and other appointments in almost countless numbers. . . . one draw-back to the plum-picking is that the salaries have been sliced and may be cut some more, and the democrats may bring nearer the ground by abolishing some of the multitudinous federal jobs.

All the expectancy about Speaker Garner's promise of beer in December is dulled in Garner's home state by the fact that if congress author-

Texans nailed down the steins in a constitutional amendment, separate from ratification of the 18th amendment, that made the state in theory and in law as dry as Tom Love's dustiest wish, unless and until 100 house members, and 21 senators vote to resubmit the proposition, and over half the electorate of Texas vote to repeal it. . . . CREATIVE USE OF FEDERAL FUND URGED

STAMFORD, Oct. 25.— West Texas cities that receive federal relief funds through the applications recently filed by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce with Governor Sterling are being urged to use part of the funds in the creation of work relief that would advance the West Texas beautification program.

President Wilbur C. Hawk, of the regional chamber and Chairman Houston Hartle of the Beautification committee have made such a suggestion in a communication to the directors and chairman of local beautification committees.

Quoting the letter: "Your city soon should receive the federal relief funds for which it recently made application through the West Texas chamber of commerce. The West Texas applications have been approved by Governor Sterling and sent to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for its approval.

will again have unrestricted immigration. The world economic conference is the outstanding future event as far as Europe is concerned and the outcome of the U. S. presidential election undoubtedly will influence its deliberations. In this respect, Hoover's re-election would not be preferable because he has excluded war debts and tariffs from the agenda and foredoomed the conference, in the opinion of many British observers.

Commentators warned against the possibility that the democrats if swept into office, might out of perverseness reverse the whole foreign policy, restore the "isolationist" policy and discontinue the close cooperation with Europe built by Hoover. Such a development would be bad for Europe but well-informed observers seem to think that the democrats would work together with the rest of the world's leaders to achieve a common recovery.

Apart from the considerations of policy, there are many who declare that a change in the U. S. administration would have a magic effect and start the wheels of recovery turning.

FREE FROM PAIN THANKS TO CRAZY CRYSTALS

For years I suffered agony with pains in my stomach, and with heart burn, caused from gall bladder trouble. It had been over fifteen years since I had been able to see the shape of my ankles they had been so badly swollen. About four weeks ago I started using CRAZY CRYSTALS, and now I am perfectly easy, and free from pain. The swelling in my feet and ankles has almost entirely disappeared. I would like suffering people everywhere to know about CRAZY CRYSTALS.

MINT BAR HAS LARGEST TRAP OF BAR FLIES

EL PASO, Oct. 25.— Harry Mitchell proprietor of the famous mint bar in Juarez, across the Rio Grande, and host at one time or another to most of the world's drinking notables, today rejoiced in the fact that trap No. 34, that of the mint, is the largest trap of international bar flies in the Western hemisphere.

With 4,221 "flies" enrolled, Trap No. 34 is exceeded in enrollment only by Trap No. 1, Harry McElhonne's New York Bar in Paris.

The Paris bar owes its superiority to the enrolling there of a couple of divisions of the American Expeditionary force, partisans of the Juarez trap charge.

The organization, which describes itself as "a secret and sacred fraternal organization devoted to the uplift and downfall of serious drinkers," now boasts 77 traps throughout the world, two official songs, a high sign and other equipment.

Some of the rules, now neatly bound in an illustrated red cloth-bound booklet, follow: "Any members of the I. B. F. caught cutting out paper dolls after a bad night must hand in their resignations."

"Those who come to the trap at 5 a. m. and are able to play a ukelele without a rehearsal are eligible for life membership."

"Members bumping their chin on the bar rail in the act of falling are suspended for ten days."

"Those seeing cerise cats with purple ears should keep it to themselves. Traps are not zoological gardens."

Side Quit Hurting, Got Stronger, Well; CARDUI Helped Her

Mrs. R. L. West, of Huntsville, Ala., writes: "I was weak and run-down. I had a pain in my side, and I kept losing weight. I grew nervous over my condition—this was unusual for me, for I am very cheerful when I am well and don't easily get nervous. I knew I ought to take something. My aunt told me I ought to try Cardui, which I did. I began to feel better. I kept it up until I had lost four or five pounds. My side quit hurting and I was soon feeling strong and well. Cardui is sold at drug stores here."

COUPLE LEAD SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON LIFE ON HONEYMOON

AUSTIN, Oct. 25.— For a novel and thrilling honeymoon try getting lost on the expansive Pacific ocean in a Japanese sampan and finally living a Swiss family Robinson life for 11 months on an isolated island.

Imagine, if possible, walking barefooted among hordes of lizards and hermit crabs and going to sleep with lizards crawling across your face.

That is what happened to Mr. and Mrs. William Meng who have returned here after 12 years of roaming, strange adventure and a honeymoon spent on the Palmyra islands, situated 1,000 miles south of Hawaii.

Mrs. Meng, formerly Miss Idely Singletary of Austin, met Meng on a visit to Hawaii shortly after the world war. Meng, manager of a sugar plantation of Kauai island, and Miss Singletary married and after a short honeymoon on Kauai, chartered a Japanese fishing boat and set sail for Palmyra.

The ship was manned by four Japanese sailors, a Japanese captain and a white skipper, Edward Benner, Jr., 18-year-old Honolulu boy, an assistant to Meng, another youth who was to return with the sampan, and the newlyweds made up the rest of the party.

En route the party lost its way and sailed blindly for three days. A threatened mutiny arose the second night. Adding to the situation a total eclipse of the moon cast an eerie shadow of gloom over the sea.

On the sixth day the Palmyras were reached. Four months later found the two men and woman nearing the end of their food supply. Their anxious gazes for a boat were futile. All three now were barefooted, their five pairs of shoes each having succumbed to the coral rocks and salt water.

The boat scheduled to pick them up, unknown to them changed its course. Finally an American steamer bound for Samoa came by. They obtained supplies but would not board the ship. Instead they arranged for another ship to pick them up.

Then came May, two months later and the newly arranged boat did not arrive. June and July dragged by. Their food supply was depleted. They lived on coconut milk, using heart of coconut leaves for vegetables and catching fish, lobsters and crabs.

Adding to the seriousness of their plight their canoe drifted to sea one night and they had to build a makeshift punt.

To top it all, Meng became ill. A medicine kit they had was useless since his illness was caused by a shrapnel wound received in the world war. Brenner and Mrs. Meng took turns nursing and watching the horizon for a ship.

Finally sighting smoke on the horizon they built signal fires and set out in the punt over a treacherous three miles of swells. The boat was an Australian freighter bound for San Francisco. They obtained supplies and sent wireless messages to Honolulu for rescue party to come for them. The freighter plied on.

Two months later the U. S. Eagle Forty, with a large survey plane aboard, dropped anchor along the island. Their side in Honolulu had been unable to hire another sampan after the Japanese captain had returned with weird tales of ketching lost in the Pacific. He appealed to the commander of the naval air service and obtained aid.

Meng now operates a small wood-working plant here, and he and his wife have sworn off adventure, but the bee is still there and an invitation to join friends in the Adventure club of Los Angeles for a big-game hunt in Africa is weighing heavily on their minds.

PENICK HOPES FOR STRONGER TENNIS TEAM

AUSTIN, Oct. 25.— Dr. D. A. Penick, famous tennis coach who has turned out such stars as Wilmer Allison, Davis cup player, expects a far stronger team for the 1932-33 season than he had last year.

Hal Surface, Kansas City ace, and Bertram Weltens, San Antonio both ineligible last year, are expected to give the veteran Sterling Williams, Austin Marjix Puxby, Miami, Fla., and Karl Kamrath, Austin, hard struggle for berths.

Carl Smalley, Yorktown, Gordon Pease, San Antonio, and Leo Brady, Abilene, of last year's freshman team all are capable netmen. Clyde Adams, Waco, also ineligible last year but who played in several tournaments in the east, is ready for action.

Texas university, however, will find strong competition in the Southwest conference, Dr. Penick believes. Addition of Wilbur Hess, former interscholastic champion and brother of Jake Hess, last year's conference champion, will bolster the Rice Institute team Dr. Penick said.

Doc Barr at Southern Methodist university, former interscholastic champion, will make that school dangerous and Mar-hall McCleary and John Hill, each first rank players, will again be at Baylor.

Although the conference schedule does not start until next spring, most of Penick's men are working out at intervals now.

Soviet Celebrates Airman's Birthday

MOSCOW, Oct. 25.— The 75th birthday of an airplane inventor whose achievements it is claimed, predated the Wright brothers, has been celebrated throughout the Soviet Union.

Fifty years ago Constantine Tsiolkovsky, a provincial teacher, began experiments and calculations on flying. Despite his advanced age, he still is actively at work on these investigations, with the full support of the Soviet government.

The press devoted much space to his work and the government loaded him with honors. In his laboratory in Kaluga the old inventor is busy perfecting two of his life-long favorites: an all-metal dirigible and a rocket for investigating interplanetary space.

Long before the Wright brothers announced their ideas, Tsiolkovsky had published a theoretical article urging the possibility of the airplane with detailed mathematical calculations which since then have been confirmed.

Grandees of Spain Fight Agrarian Law

MADRID, Oct. 25.— The grandees of Spain, who are to be affected by the enforcement of a recently voted Agrarian law, respect the decision of the government, although strongly protesting against it.

This attitude was expressed in a public statement by Don Mariano de Silva y Carvajal, Marquis of Santa Cruz, who was President of the Spanish Grandees organization.

"The decision to seize the lands of the Grandees," he said, "undoubtedly clearly represents the intention of vexing, humiliating and of destroying a given social class."

CALL of the WEST by R. G. MONTGOMERY

"Swergin would be a lot safer to play with than that man Ball," Dudley cut in. Dona did not answer but her hand slipped to her father's knee. She knew what Dudley was thinking about. He must have heard of her part in letting the killer escape. "Swergin is used to handling two-fisted men who are a hard lot," Asper went on. "I want you to quit Three Rivers. The Delo Timber Company doesn't need this cutting. You told me it paid poorly." Dona was very much in earnest. "And let that bully have the laugh on you!" Dudley put in sourly. "Dudley about sizes it up," Asper spoke slowly. "But were leaving Three Rivers for good day after tomorrow." Dona looked at Dudley and saw that he was gazing moodily into the sunset. She did not blame him for being out of sorts and gloomy but she was sure he would come around as he always had. Dudley was accustomed to having girls flatter him. He was more than a little spoiled. Somehow marrying Dudley had ceased to be distasteful. It seemed not to matter much. Asper arose and stretched his big arms. "I guess I'll go in and read a bit before I turn in." He bent and gave his daughter a kiss. "Don't hurry away on account of us," Dudley spoke deliberately. Asper smiled and tossed the short butt of his cigar over the rail. He realized that things were a bit ruffled between the young couple and figured that what they needed was a little time alone to patch things up. Dona waved him good night and sat with her knees drawn up. She was not eager to listen to Dudley's accusations and to make explanations to win him from his gloomy mood. Dudley sat looking away from her with a pouting frown on his lips. The red glow in the sky melted to steel blue and a single star appeared. The moon would be late in coming up. Dona looked at her watch. It was 8:20. She stirred and suddenly got up and walked to the rail. "If you must sit there and mourn I think I'll take a little walk." She knew this would only add to Dudley's fit of sulkiness. He grunted and settled farther into the easy chair. Without another word the girl walked down the steps and into the path that led down the hill. Dudley watched her go with a half smile but he did not move. Dona wandered along until she was swallowed up by the shadows, then she crossed to the path leading to the corral. She moved at an easy, swinging walk with her head up and her lips parted eagerly. At the main gate she halted and peered about her. A dark form detached itself from the black wall of the saddle house and came toward her. "O. K. Lady. You'll find her around the corner." Malloy's voice came to her softly. There seemed to be a reassuring note of approval in the cowboy's words. Dona walked around the corner of the saddle house with Malloy close behind her. "You could just turn her loose. She'd find him." Malloy spoke cautiously. "I think it would be safer to lead her to him," Dona whispered. The darkness hid Malloy's smile as he halted and waited for her to untie the black mare. The horse snuffed Dona's arm eagerly and pawed the soft earth. Dona led the horse away from the building. She made a circuitous approach to the clump of timber behind the main building. She knew Malloy would have a story ready in the morning to explain the loss of the horse. She wished she had asked him what he was going to say. Still there was no need of that as she would not know anything about what had happened. The far side of the valley was beginning to glow with the first rays of moonlight. The reflected whiteness lightened the gloom they were passing through and made Dona hurry. It would not do to be seen leading Ball's horse. They entered the clump of timber and were again enveloped in darkness. Moving slowly to avoid tree trunks, Dona led the mare to an open space where the light was clearer. She halted and waited, listening carefully. Ball might not come. He might have been waylaid or picked off by one of Swergin's men. A few moments passed in silence. Then the mare lifted her ears and nickered softly. She jerked at the bride reins impatiently. Dona flattened herself against the black's shoulder and waited. A twig snapped. There was a swish of grass and suddenly Stan Ball stood beside her. He was hatless and even in the dim light Dona could see that he was disheveled and his clothing torn. "You are prompt." He spoke in a low, even tone that made the girl's heart beat faster. "You are leaving?" Dona spoke swiftly to hide a tremor in her own voice. "Tonight, I'll break through," Stan promised. Their hands met as he took the reins. In that second both seemed rooted to the spot. Stan was the first to recover. He drew his hand away quickly and bent toward her. "I'll never forget my friendly enemy," he whispered. Dona swayed toward him and Stan bent to meet her. Suddenly a flame stabbed the darkness before them and a revolver barked. A second flame followed. With the second report Stan was on the black mare and had whirled. Like a flash he vanished into the night. Dona turned to find herself face to face with Dudley Winters. "So this is the way you work!" she snapped. Dona caught him by the arm. "Oh Dud, you can't blame me for wanting to get him out of the hills! They would hang him if he stayed." "And I suppose he doesn't deserve it? He didn't shoot your father or murder a man. That was all a bad dream!" Dudley spoke with bitter sarcasm. "He promised to leave," was the only defense Dona could offer. "You were giving him a proper lecture when I came up, I could see that," Dudley continued in high bad humor. "I asked him to go and not to come back." There was an honest catch in Dona's voice. "Well, I've had about enough!" Dona caught his arm. "Please, Dud, don't be angry! I'm willing to do anything you say now." Dudley was somewhat mollified but he was far from satisfied. His pride was hurt more than his heart and that required a lot of mending. He let her cling to his arm going down the hill and finally he spoke. "I suppose you want me to lie about this business?" he said deliberately. "Wouldn't it be better for both of us?" Dona asked simply. "I'll do it," Dudley promised suddenly. "But I'm to have some say around here from now on." Dona pressed his arm. "You may have all the say from now on," she promised. They walked on in silence for a space. "I'll hold you to that promise tomorrow," Dudley declared almost gruffly. (To Be Continued)

"HELLO GIRLS" COMPANY NOW BIG BUSINESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—America's newest and oddest business—telephone answering—has become a giant. Two years ago it was nothing. Today it owns property valued at more than $1,000,000, employs 500 persons, and has thousands of customers.

Three companies operate in Manhattan alone. There are other companies in 30 American cities. But already the prophets of the new enterprise are talking consolidations and mergers so the number is likely to be reduced.

This is the way the business works. Mr. Jones telephones Mr. Brown to find out when he will pay that $17.50. When Mr. Brown's phone rings a light goes on in the telephone answering station. Mr. Brown does not answer so a sweet voiced young woman answers for him. She has her instructions and tells Mr. Jones that Mr. Brown is out of town.

"The telephone answering industry has made remarkable progress," said Sherman Amsden, president of the oldest New York companies, "but we've got to have some stability. Right now, I'm working on a consolidation plan that ought to put the industry right up among them."

Amsden's company has a dozen exchanges in various parts of New York. He serves more than 3,000 clients. (The entire industry has more than 10,000 customers.) The telephone line of each client is connected with one of the exchanges, but "telephone secretaries." They will transact any business from awakening a client in the morning to ordering his groceries. The service costs $14 a month, $13.50 to the telephone answering company and $3.50 to the telephone company for additional wiring.

Doctors and professional men are the largest users, although the customers include many others.

A delicious cereal provides the "bulk" that is so important in overcoming common constipation.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin D to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is twice as rich in iron as an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. What a relief to enjoy an appetizing cereal instead of taking patent medicines.

BETTY JEAN SLICKER FETTERED ON 7TH BIRTHDAY.

Betty Jean Slicker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Slicker, was fettered on her seventh birthday with a party Saturday afternoon at her home on West Tenth street. Her mother's motif made an attractive theme for party decorations. A fishing pond, a contest for pinning the tail on the black cat, and a variety of games on the lawn were diversions for the afternoon. Later, guests gathered around a table which was centered with the lovely birthday cake, which was decorated in yellow and white, and made wishes before blowing out the seven lighted candles. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served and the chosen motif was further suggested in the guest favors.

Present were Ted Roberts, Hope Starr, Goldie Marie Warren, Gloria Martin, Mary Evelyn Varnell, Gloria Graham, Dorothy Jean Anderson, Rose-Ann Woods, Aline and Freddie McAfee, Helen Jones, Bobby and Martha Helen Brecheen, Jacqueline Ruppert, Doris Jamison, Polly Ann McDaniel, Virginia Lee McNeely, L. J. and Bobby Donohoe, Robert Reagan, John Earl Reynolds, Patsy and Yancey McCrear, Jr., Mary Goldwell, Betty Mae Davis, Jane Gilman, Ramona James, Bobby McGowan, Tommy Shook, Allen Woods, Brende Louise Warwick, Alice Louise Slicker, and the honoree.

OFFICERS AND TEACHERS HAVE DINNER AT CHURCH.

Officers and teachers of the Primary department of the First Baptist Sunday school were entertained last evening with a dinner. Decorations for entertaining rooms were unusually attractive, featuring a hallowe'en motif in every detail. Fortune telling and other games furnished amusement before the delectable dinner, consisting of fried chicken, cream potatoes, gravy, candied yams, rolls, fruit salad, tomatoes, pickles, pecan pie, and coffee, was served. Hallowe'en nut cups filled with jelly beans and peanuts, were guest favors.

Those attending were Mesdames Bertha Carmichael, Jaspur Daniels, G. B. Langston, and B. B. Gregory, Misses Letha and Mayme Estes, Lucile Hicks, Pearl Bryant, and DeAlva Graves.

Coach Elkins Drills---

Winborn passing to him, would be a real threat at anybody's goal line, college or otherwise.

St. John, substitute quarter, did a good job of running the team in Friday's game. He is coming along fast and bids fair to make a back of more than average accomplishments. On one play, just after Cism failed to complete a pass, John took a low one out in the flat zone, coming back for it. He was tackled as he caught the ball and did not gain an inch, but saved his team from receiving a five yard penalty for the second incomplete pass. It was one of the most difficult plays of the game.

More Kickers.

Elkins is trying to develop more and better kickers on his squad, having the whole team working at one kind of kick or another yesterday. McCall, Caffrey, and Bill McMahon show the most promise thus far. McCall is more consistent than Caffrey, though probably Caffrey gets the ball away faster. McMahon is developing into a quick kicker, taking the ball from center in a back's running position.

Coach Hodges has plenty of beef to work with in "Bad Red" Timmons, husky lineman from Gorman. He is new at this game called football and is still somewhat green at it, but seems to want to play and may develop into a good man before this season is over.

Need More Ends.

What Cisco needs, though, is not so much linemen and backs as is a couple more good ends. Van Horn is far above the average, and Rutledge showed up well in the Daniel Baker game, but they are about all the Cisco coaches have. Donald Moffett, a youngster, is the best prospect for a wingman, but he is light and has not had much experience. He will probably be used a great deal this year, however. Some others available for the flank positions are Johnson and Coleman Williams.

Good ends are almost indispensable to a team. It is said that Knute Rockne, great coach of the Notre Dame fighting Irish, used to pick out his ends and then build the rest of the team to fit them. Evidently he knew what he was doing, for his teams were the best in the country. Rockne, by the way, played end in his college days. The present tendency is to center most of a running attack against the defensive tackles, but a good end can take much of the burden off his teammate.

OIL INDUSTRY SCHEDULED FOR TEXAS MEETING

By STUART E. JONES United Press Staff Correspondent

HOUSTON, Oct. 25.—The petroleum industry, which has suffered more acutely from the depression than many other large industries, will be subjected to a thorough examination at the American Petroleum Institute's annual meeting here Nov. 15, 16 and 17.

W. R. Boyd, Jr., New York executive vice president of the institute, is working out programs for the divisional and general meetings. Some of the country's leading business men and industrialists will deliver addresses, Boyd has announced.

Forty working committees of the institute have been assigned quarters for meetings Nov. 12 and Nov. 14, in preparation for the general sessions. A large number of the committees held sessions at the organization's midyear meeting in Tulsa, Okla., last June.

Discuss Reports

Members of the committees have been grappling with practical problems of producing, refining and distributing petroleum products since last November, and in the meetings preliminary to the annual assembly will discuss reports to be submitted to the membership.

Typical committee topics are such topics as waste in all three divisions of the industry, fire prevention, corrosion of equipment, car service and freight classification, railroad and pipeline transportation, refinery technology and uniform laws.

The 40 committees represent about one-eighth of the more than 300 committees that have been constituted to carry out the institute's program. When the committee work has been concluded, three days will be given over to sessions of the institute: production, refining and marketing, and a general session.

Beatty President.

The annual meeting, which was held last year in St. Louis, attracts members from all parts of the United States. Amos L. Beatty, New York, is president of the organization.

In addition to the committee and general sessions, the institute board of directors, composed of 70 oil men representing all parts of the country, will hold its annual session. New officers will be elected and the 1933 convention city chosen.

Legion Offers---

We can all adopt a program and get behind it some good will be accomplished. What we can do has not been definitely worked out, but we are going to find something.

"The present administration of the Legion, headed by W. C. McDaniel, as post commander, and Lee Smith as adjutant, has announced that the post is going to pursue some course of public welfare, instead of a program dedicated solely to the interest of the legion. The legion is going to be a factor in Cisco. With that in view we are tendering our services to recognized organizations. If they don't do something then we are going to adopt a program of our own. We don't want to go at this single-handedly, but something has got to be done."

Market Problem.

Among the topics discussed at length during the hours from 8 to 10:30 that the meeting occupied, was the marketing problem. It was brought out at one time Eastland county was second in cotton production in the state while Cisco enjoyed an enormous farm trade. In contrast to that condition present day farm trade of Cisco is negligible while even that trade adjacent to Cisco and certainly logically belongs to this city is being drawn to centers smaller in size and by all measures less potentially adapted to its needs. "There are men living within a few miles of this city, it was declared, who are taking their trade to communities far from this."

This is not the fault of a person or an organization, it was explained, but it is due to the fact that Cisco, as a community, has neglected these people, neglected, in other words, its trade territory.

"If we can regain this trade, restore to Cisco its heritage of a trade territory in fact as well as name," it was declared, "this community will have sufficient support for its business and commercial institutions regardless of the condition of the oil industry."

ARMISTICE DAY RATES CUT BY T. P. RAILROAD

DALLAS, Oct. 25.—Unprecedented in the annals of railway passenger transportation, the Texas and Pacific Railway is offering drastically reduced round-trip rates for a mammoth Armistice Day excursion from all points on the T. & P., it is announced by Frank Jensen, general passenger agent. The reduced round-trip rates, representing but a fraction of the usual one-way fare, are entirely unrestricted, and apply on all Texas and Pacific trains departing November 11 and 12, with a return limit of November 15, allowing three full days at destination if desired.

"While there have been many requests for an excursion of this character, the ridiculously low round-trip rates are being offered purely in the nature of an experiment," Mr. Jensen said. "The experiment is based on the theory that a sufficient volume of business can be created to enable the railroads to earn a sufficient amount to justify such reductions."

From Cisco the round-trip rate to El Paso is only $4.00 and to Dallas and Fort Worth is only $1.50. Pullman car fares also have been reduced for this occasion and children will be carried for half the adult fare.

RELIC EXPERTS.

APPLETON, Wis., Oct. 25.—The five small children of George Overton, farmer living near Lake Butte des Morts, are becoming experts on Indian relics. Overton is an amateur archeologist and each of his children has made a collection of relics gathered from the lake shore farm lands. The youngest, Bill, four, picked up an arrowhead when he was three years old, and now has a sizeable collection.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.
