NRA Survey Shows Building of 800,000 New Residences Per Year Will Be Needed

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 8.—A public works allotment of $3,500,000 has been made for initiation of a national real estate inventory which may mean the beginning of a huge construction program to stimulate re-employment.

By H. O. THOMPSON United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright 1933 by United Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Construction of some 800,000 residences is required annually for the next several years in the United States according to an NRA survey of the possibilities of reemployment in the construction field.

A report of the survey outlines construction possibilities totaling nearly $14,000,000,000 over a two-year period. It was estimated that 4,250,000 could be given work in this manner.

Estimates of the amount which may reasonably be spent for housing were made in two ways:

- 1. The ratio of new residential dwellings units to the number of families during the highest consecutive five years of building in the 20's was found, and it was assumed that this ratio of residential construction to families could reasonably be initiated and maintained at the present time as a result of the current shortage.

WORLD "NEW DEAL" MAY BE DUE NEXT YEAR

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright 1933 by the United Press)

PARIS, Dec. 8.—Signs that the New Deal in world politics multiplied in European capitals today.

Activities in Rome, Paris, London, and Berlin indicated that such a new deal might involve the death of the Versailles treaty, the birth of the League of Nations and a disarmament treaty on new, business-like terms.

Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy was at the center of the work.

The United Press was informed on high authority today that Mussolini believed he has the pledged support of Great Britain and France for his long dream plan for reorganizing the League of Nations.

It would be a reorganization that would end the domination of Britain and France in the League council and would end the power of small nations to paralyze League acts by veto.

As a supplement to his plans for League reorganization Mussolini pictures the possibility of a seven-power entente to maintain peace among the great nations and enforce it on the small ones by moral pressure.

In such an entente might be embraced—he hoped—the United States, Japan, Russia, Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

The county relief headquarters also announced that it had secured an increase of 185 in the number of CWA jobs allotted the county. This brings the total number of CWA workers in the county to about 2,000.

VICTIM SHOT FROM STEEPLE BY OFFICERS

KOUNTZE, Texas, Dec. 8.—The body of David Gregory, negro ex-convict accused of attacking and murdering a white woman near here was burned in the negro section here early today by a bloodthirsty mob that had torn out the heart and had wrangled for hours before tossing the mutilated body on the huge pyre.

Gregory, hunted for the brutal slaying of Mrs. Nellie Williams Brockman near Kountze last Saturday was shot from a church steeple at Voth by officers late yesterday. He died en route to Kountze and a mob blocking the highway demanded the body.

For hours the snarling, shouting mob of 400 toyed with the body, slashing and kicking it as it was dragged through the streets. Then eager fingers tore the heart from the chest and handled it in ghoul-like glee.

The hired form was rolled before the door of Gregory's mother and she was forced to view it. "You done right, white folks," she said calmly as she looked unflinchingly.

Hours of argument ensued over disposition of the body. Some wanted to hang it in the negro section and leave it as a grim warning for others.

Another group shouted for a burning. Finally boxes and debris were piled high in the center of the negro district and the body tossed on the pyre.

Streamlined Train To Be in Service

FORT WORTH, Dec. 8.—A high speed electric streamlined train will go into service about February 1 between here and Houston and Amarillo over the Burlington lines, President Ralph Budd of Chicago, has announced.

After Gregory's body had been disposed of, the mob turned toward the jail and threatened to take two other negroes who were accused of aiding the hunted man in evading officers for five days. The idea was dropped however, and the mob gradually diminished.

SHOP EARLY, MAIL EARLY

It is by no means too early to call attention to the "Shop Early, Mail Early" appeal that has been stressed in past Christmas season. Most of us are too negligent of the factors involved for the other fellow in our Christmas buying and mailing, and therefore fail to incorporate any of the practical Christmas values in our preparations for that extremely happy season. When we pause to remind ourselves that none of our happiness in buying and our pleasures in sending gifts are devoid of the services of our fellows, we are bound to reach a recognition of the fact that those pleasures may be the means of making another's Christmas distasteful, if not a drudgery.

For various reasons, all of which contribute to the same old spirit of goodwill and cheer, we should do our Christmas buying and mailing early. The post office department makes its appeal as a means of better serving the patrons. It is recognized that early mailing prevents a clogging of the mail delivery channels, facilitates service to the patrons and makes the receipt of the gift a more convenient and pleasurable affair. The mailer has the humanitarian obligation, too, of realizing that the people upon whom he or she depends to transport the packages mailed are eager for Christmas, also.

A consideration of this character is a help to the whole field of Christmas enjoyment. For the world is made up, in the most part, of merchants and employes, clerks and working people, most all of whom have, in some way, a responsibility to the services upon which depend the fullest enjoyment of the Christmas season. There is no better time to put firmly in mind the wonderful truth of the Golden Rule. Get your presents early and put them in the mails early so that both store people and postal employes may enjoy Christmas too.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

The approach of the Christmas season revives an annual campaign that has come to be traditionally a part of the season—the sale of Christmas Seals. These seals are symbolic of the great movement that has for its object the stamping out of a dreaded white plague, the scourge of tuberculosis whose slow, dread march had claimed millions of lives for its grisly toll. The sale of these tiny seals for the decoration of Christmas mail and packages is the principal means of financing the campaign. A cent each, the cost of a hundred or so is nominal, which fact permits a mass sale in which everybody may participate regardless of financial condition. The method has worked happily in the past. It will continue to do so.

In Cisco where the plague is not so evident because of the healthful character of this climate, the need for this work is not emphasized. Again, it may appear that the contribution of a few cents is so negligible that there is no good in taking the time or trouble to place the small sum in the proper hands. But the sinews of the war that is being waged against the dread disease are made up principally of just such small sums, and should every person with such a nominal amount to contribute take a similar viewpoint the scourge would certainly ply its nefarious business of wrecking health and lives unchecked. A hundred of the seals so purchased today is as important a contribution as any that will be made. There may be larger gifts, but none so important.

LIFE INSURANCE PAYMENTS

Payments by American life insurance companies to policyholders and beneficiaries this year will exceed all records, according to a report to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents yesterday. At the end of the year, the executives were told, more than three billions of dollars in death claims, matured endowments, annuities, surrender values, dividends and disability benefits will have been paid. This sum is slightly larger than that paid out last year when all records were broken. Another significant fact is the disclosure that about 95 billions of dollars in life insurance will still be in force at the end of the year, compared to the 100 billions in force a year ago.

Regardless of hard times people still cling to life insurance. It continues the most dependable reserve for times of stress. American insurance companies have a wonderful record as a whole during the depression. They have remained sound and trustworthy. The test of the depression has been a severe one, but life insurance has a wonderful future.

MILLIONS OF TONS OF COAL FOR THE NEEDY

Col. Harry L. Hopkins, president of the federal surplus relief corporation for needy unemployed, reports that 8000 tons of bituminous coal and 2000 tons of anthracite are to be purchased and will be used during the winter months. Texans who are seeking relief will receive 300 tons. Local relief administration, according to Pres. Hopkins, will arrange with local dealers to supply the coal from existing stock. It goes without saying that "the forgotten" man is not being overlooked by the New Deal administration.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

The Cisco police department nearly had heart failure yesterday. The somnolent atmosphere of its morning peace was rent by what sounded like a south American opera bouffe revolution or a raid by Pretty Boy Floyd.

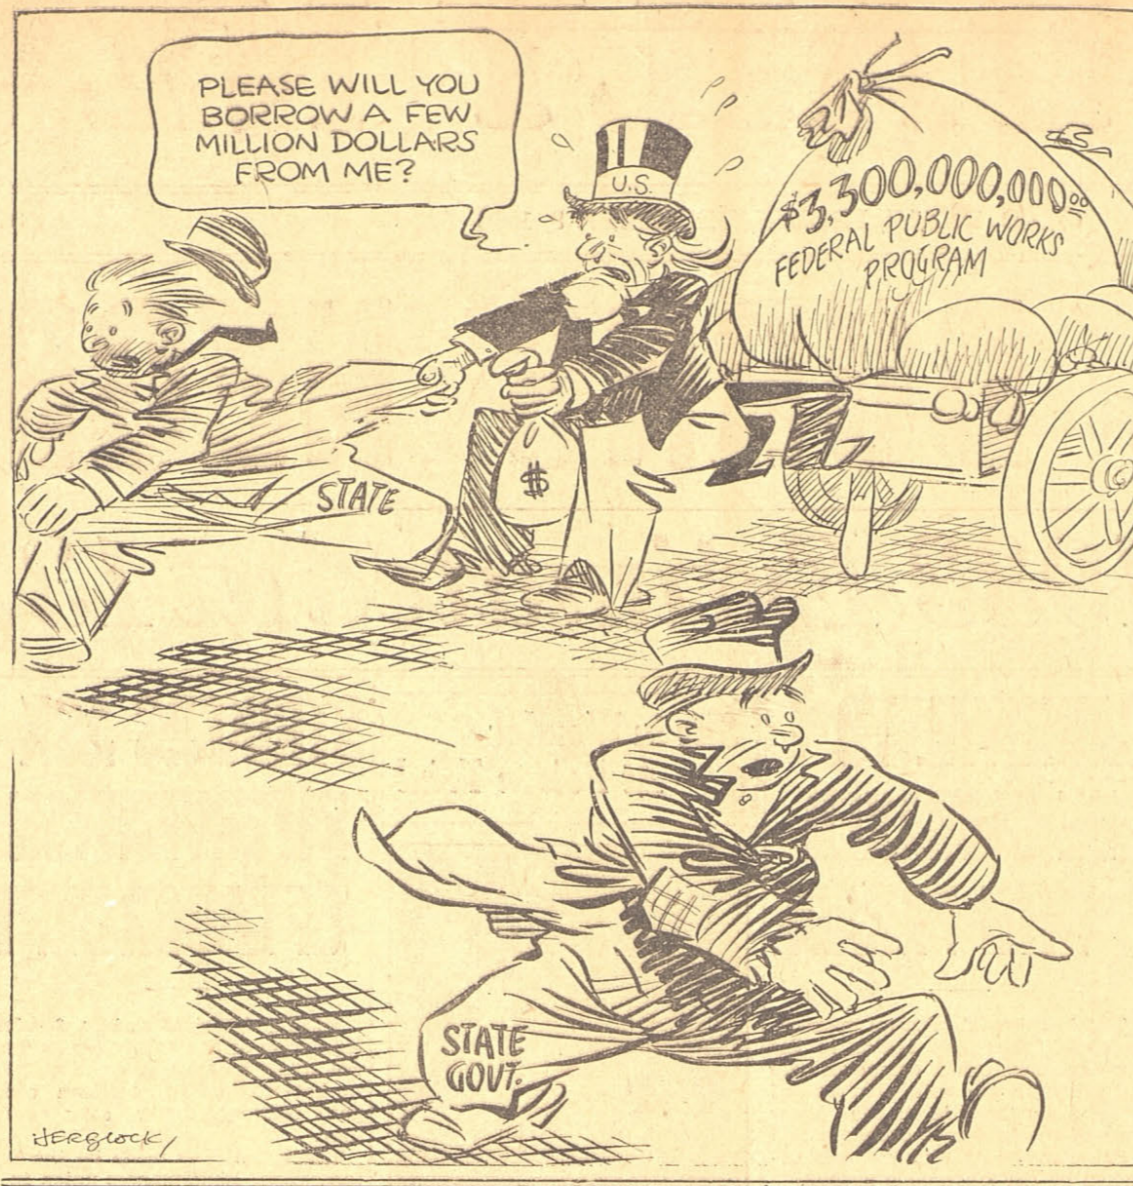

Henry Stubblefield rose from the desk sergeant's chair like a ghost at a nigger funeral. Chief Purdue almost swallowed his quid, and "Gus" Gustafson pulled two guns at once. The officers rushed for the intersection of Eighth street and E avenue, positive that a mass murder was taking place at the telephone exchange building.

But it was only the American Legion celebrating the opening of the Merchants' Carnival. Every time those boys have anything to do with an opening of some sort they have to fire off a few rounds by way of salute. As much experience as they had with guns abroad, and they can't let them alone in peace times.

The Breckenridge high school band and pep squad showed a mighty fine spirit in agreeing to come over here this afternoon and give the Lubbock boys the support the Lubbock school could not send so far. The spirit is all the more commendable because the youngsters agreed to pay their way into the game as will the Cisco peppers and band members. The Breckenridge chamber of commerce, to make the fine demonstration of inter-community cooperation the more complete, rustled around and provided transportation for the two units, so that Cisco would not have to send cars to bring them.

Cisco should remember that splendid spirit on the part of the folks in its neighbor city whenever Breckenridge needs assistance. I know that Orle D. Jacobs, to whom the game is dedicated, appreciates it.

Lubbock certainly should not be ashamed of their support. The Breckenridge pep squad is one of the most attractive in the state and the band is a humdinger. At the Cisco-Breckenridge game here this fall the Breckenridge Peppers put on one of the cleverest and prettiest stunts it has been my pleasure to see. It was simple, but it had a touch of genius, as pep squad stunts go.

The green-clad girls, marched upon the field in their bright uniforms formed the letters they wished to depict, and then reclined in a living chain that spelled out the initials perfectly against the darker turf of the gridiron.

Now, you wouldn't take that from the description as being so striking in its effect, but then, perhaps you didn't see the stunt.

Bobby Thurman, Cisco F. F. A. chapter member and student in the Cisco high school, has received notification of his election to the degree of "American Farmer" in the national F. F. A. organization at its convention recently in Kansas City.

This degree, conferred upon the basis of work done, is the highest in the gift of the national Future Farmers of America organization. Only about 70 youths received it at the Kansas City convention. A beautiful golden key is bestowed as a badge of the degree.

ing the rush noon hour for the operator to go for his lunch.

The senate, recognizing the inadequacy of elevator services, asked the board of control to install another set of equipment to handle freight and capitol porters. But it didn't vote any money for the purpose.

Quite a bit of hullabaloo was created over expert opinion on the prospect of a special session of the legislature in the absence of bids on state relief bonds, they provide a different funding plan for the bonds.

But all of it was the old story, repeatedly told since the legislature adjourned: That only unacceptable bids would be offered; that the bonds would be re-advertised; that there would be a lot of agitation; that the federal government would start criticizing Texas; that there would be a scare over withdrawal of federal aid that the whole thing will be smoothed out, on re-advertisement, and that there will NOT be a special session of the legislature before next spring.

Nobody got excited but the post-mortem experts. The inside story how Mrs. Roy C. Owens, Tyler teacher, came to Austin for the teachers' convention practically certain of election as president of the state teachers' association and how her campaign went on the rocks and she went down to defeat is a story of the same psychology that has denied women any substantial part in governmental politics, except has the figurehead through which men politicians have dominated situations.

Mrs. Owens had the misfortune of a campaign pitched on the theory of "women vs. men." That campaign issue doesn't work any better in association politics than in state politics. It alienated enough supporters who came to Austin intending vote for Mrs. Owens to elect her masculine opponent.

In her case, the demand for a woman—as a woman—to be made president was pointed with the demand that a woman should be elected every second year. Eighty per cent of the T. S. T. A. members are women; but they indicated that they are not so implacable in their politics as to back a campaign whose keynote is simply "Women against the world."

AUSTIN, Dec. 8 — Elevator service in the state capitol, already grossly inadequate, has been made still more terrible by an order of the board of control which closed the elevator doors on the morning to haul the swarms of porters, spittoons, floor-scrubbing machines and the like, with what passengers are crowded in among the trucks and freight and porters. It now is closed entirely to traffic through the afternoon. It already stops dur-

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON W. SHEARER

United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN, Dec. 8 — Failure to sell the Texas relief bonds may precipitate a special session of the Forty-third legislature. Issuance of the bonds was the chief purpose of the last special session.

Another special session could not ensure some of the features of the bonds, which are believed to have made them undesired by bond buyers. Provisions that there shall be no tax on real property to retire the bonds and that the bond debt shall become a lien on property, real or personal, could not be changed by another session. These provisions were included in the constitutional amendment permitting the bonds.

Another session could, however, provide some special tax to retire the bonds. This was not done at the session when the bonds were authorized. Instead, the state treasurer was directed to set up a bond retirement fund out of money other than that raised by tax on real property which came into the state general fund.

A provision that the bonds may not be sold under par and accrued interest and that no commission shall be paid for their sale also is a part of the constitutional provisions. It could not be changed by a special session. The interest rate could be raised at such a session from four per cent to four and a half per cent.

There is a general belief, however, that the Reconstruction Finance corporation or some other federal agency can be induced to invest in the Texas bond issue, and that any necessity for a special session to change the bonds may be avoided.

It will be no great surprise to those who keep close to political affairs if Earle B. Mayfield becomes a candidate in 1934.

Defeated for re-election to the United States senate largely because his original election was with Klan support, the former junior senator is said to have a desire to end his public career other than in defeat.

The 1934 campaign promises to offer him a fine field in two races. Prospects are that there will be a big field of entries for governor. That is an opportunity for any man who has polled as large a statewide vote as Mayfield.

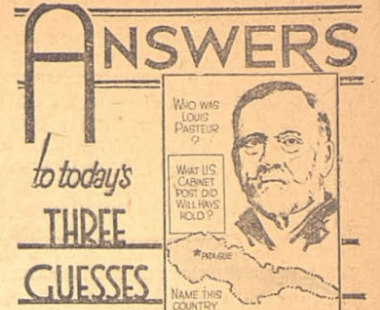

Should former Governor James E. Ferguson decide to mix it with Senator Tom Connally and Joe Bailey, that race also would become so scrambled that Mayfield might well enter it with fair prospects.

He is reported to have been successful financially in the east Texas oil field since his political retirement. He could enter either race with the sinews desirable for a campaign in a state the size of Texas.

Ferguson recently estimated that the governor's race would have 10 entries. His estimate seems to be panning out. Attorney-general James V. Alired is practically in. Sen. Clint C. Small believes that he has enough strength in other parts of Texas to add to his west Texas mandate following his entry. Small polled 139,000 for governor in the first primary of 1930, running behind Ross S. Sterling and Mrs. Ferguson. Tom Hunter, Wichita Falls, was third in the 1932 race between Mrs. Ferguson and Sterling. He polled 221,000 approximately.

Lieut. Gov. Edgar E. Witt with a vote record of approximately three quarters of a million is sure to seek advancement. Popular House Speaker Coke Stevenson seems about to vault into the saddle which his fellow house members gave him to ride into the governor's office in.

C. C. McDonald and John Wood, chairman of the state highway commission, both are unknown quantities as vote getters for themselves. Both have been remarkably successful in getting votes for their friends. If all these enter, it will need but

Some personalities. Roy Miller, chairman of the Texas national democratic campaign committee, once was a high-school football coach. Judge Walter Timm, San Antonio, former political power in southwest Texas and a district court judge at Corpus Christi helped train prizefighter Bob Fitzsimmons when he was in Texas. Capt. Jim Kendrick, injured when a tree-army camp truck overturned near Stephenville, was a player on the Second Texas Infantry team that won the football championship when national guardsmen from many states were assembled on the Rio Grande for watchful waiting.

AID TO FARMERS

MONTREAL, Dec. 8 — Conclusive evidence that Hungarian partridges are an asset, not a curse, to prairie wheat farmers is offered by M. H. Rowe, Saskatchewan farmer. A dispatch reaching here reveals that upon examining two dead "Huns" recently, Rowe found their crops stuffed with grasshoppers, eggs, with just three or four kernels of wheat. It had been previously thought that the birds fed mainly on wheat and were destroying crops.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY. DAVID BANNISTER undertakes to find out who killed Tracy King, orchestra leader, who died in his hotel apartment. Bannister, an author and former newspaper man, who, state investigator with GAINES, start reporter for the Post.

Among those suspected of the crime are JULIET FRANCE, blond and pretty, known to have visited King shortly before his death; HERMAN SCURLACH, who wrote King a threatening letter; and JOE PARROT, down-and-out vaudeville actor. It is also known that MELVINA HOLMES, middle-aged spinster, had quarreled with King recently. King was engaged to wealthy DENISE LANG, MATTHEW HOLISTER, Melvina's brother, tells Bannister, he has heard the truth about something she is keeping from the police. Bannister goes to dinner with PARKER COLEMAN, friend of Denise Lang's. They are driving along a country road when Coleman sees a dark object ahead and shouts.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVI

BANNISTER exclaimed sharply. "What is it?"

The roadster came to a halt, brakes grinding. Coleman jumped from the car. "Back here," he called and ran in the direction from which they had come.

Bannister followed, slower and more cautiously. He could make out now that there was something ahead. Something black and oddly shaped, lying at the side of the road just beyond the turn.

"Wait!" he called to Coleman, but the other did not wait. Panting, breathless, Bannister made the dozen yards. He knew now what it was ahead. An overturned automobile, slanting on the hillside, its wheels reared grotesquely.

"Is there anyone there?" he called.

"Can't tell. There's a flashlight in my car!"

Coleman was off again for the flashlight. Bannister searched his pockets for matches, found them and struck one. He had to move to the other side of the overturned sedan and cup his hands to protect the blaze. The match sputtered an instant and then died, but in that instant Bannister had caught a glimpse of a man's face—white and cut and bleeding.

When Coleman returned with the flashlight he found Bannister struggling with the door of the sedan. The car had fallen in such a way that the door could not be opened.

"There's a man in there!" Bannister told him. "We've got to get him out!"

Together they struggled with the door but it would not open. In the bright rays of the flashlight they saw that the man was alone in the car. He had fallen toward, his body pressed against the steering wheel. There was a good deal of blood on the man's clothing and some on the cushions of the car.

"Do you think he's alive?" Coleman asked.

"Don't know. We'll have to get him out and find out."

It was almost 20 minutes' work before they finally managed it. Coleman had stripped off his topcoat and laid it on the ground. They put the man on the coat. Then Bannister, down on his knees, bent over him touching his hands.

"They're warm," he exclaimed. And a moment later, "His heart's beating!"

man's eyes were closed. His hair was matted and there was a dark stain across his forehead and down one cheek. His upper lip had been cut and bled copiously.

Suddenly, with an exclamation that was both amazement and horror, Bannister drew back. "It's Drugan!" he cried.

"Drugan?"

"Al Drugan! He played in King's orchestra. He and King were friends. I was talking to him only the other night. Yes, it's Drugan, all right. We've got to do something! We've got to get him to a house some where, call a doctor!"

By the time they reached the nearest farm house Drugan's heart was still beating, slowly and weakly but nevertheless beating. It was still beating, weaker and more slowly, when the doctor arrived, but it did not beat much longer.

Not for one moment did the injured man regain consciousness. There was nothing that the doctor could do for him, nothing at all. At 23 minutes past nine o'clock that night Al Drugan's earthly cares were at an end.

The women of the farm house—one middle-aged, plump and gray haired, the other slender and younger—hovered near the door of the room where Drugan's body lay.

"What will we do?" the older woman asked. "You're not going to let him—?"

"I've called the police," Bannister told her. "They'll be here in a little while. No, they won't leave him here."

It was in a police ambulance that they took Al Drugan back to Tremont. But when the ambulance arrived at the farm house, besides the driver and his assistant, there were three other passengers. McNeal was among them and so was the police physician. The other man was from the detective bureau.

Five minutes later another, smaller car drew up in the farm yard and Sawyer, the Post photographer, stepped out. He found Bannister and asked, "What's happened? They called me at home and said there'd been a bad accident out here? I don't see any accident. What's it all about?"

BANNISTER explained briefly. He had called the newspaper office at the same time he had notified the police of Drugan's death.

While the physician made a hurried examination McNeal asked questions. He wanted to know where the wrecked car had been found.

"It's still there," Bannister told him. "Just as it was."

McNeal wanted to know how Drugan was lying when they found him. He wanted to know what time it was and asked a dozen other questions. Bannister left Coleman to answer them and walked away.

Presently the ambulance was on its way back to Tremont. McNeal and the other detective climbed into Parker Coleman's roadster. Bannister rode with the Post photographer and they followed the roadster to the place where the overturned sedan still lay.

Sawyer swore softly as he stepped out, surveying the wreck. The headlights of the two cars supplied light enough to show what had happened. The sedan had plunged from the road and fallen forward, turning completely over. It was lying with its wheels in the air and the hillside was gashed with deep, ragged furrows, showing the path it had taken.

"Some smash-up!" Sawyer exclaimed and repeated it, "Some smash-up!"

He became busy immediately, getting his camera from its case and rummaging for flashlight powder. Bannister moved on to join the others. He and Coleman tried to show the detectives how Drugan had been pressed in between the steering wheel and the side of the car. McNeal seemed interested in the tracks down the hillside and inspected them with his flashlight.

HE went back to look at the tracks a second time but before he did that he examined the interior of the sedan. It was large and rather cumbersome, a model six or eight years out of date. There were some road maps in the door pocket, a piece of cloth that had been used to remove dust, a circular letter from a musical instrument company, addressed to Drugan, and a can of shoe polish.

McNeal, poking about the upholstered seat, suddenly drew forth an object. "Ah!" he exclaimed. "Look at this!"

It was a quart bottle, almost empty of the dark fluid inside. McNeal held the bottle to his nostrils, removed it hastily with a grimace.

"What is it?" Bannister asked. "Smell it."

Bannister sniffed the contents of the bottle. It was whisky—whisky that was so vile-smelling it must have been among the cheapest grades the bootleggers supply.

Bannister returned the bottle. "So that's it!" he said. "Well, if he drank all that I'm not surprised he couldn't keep in the road."

Suddenly there was a roar like a gun shot and a flash of light. Sawyer, the photographer, called, "Crowd up close together, will you? I want to shoot another one."

Bannister managed to step aside before the second picture was taken. He did not fancy his likeness appearing in the public press. Besides there were too many in the group.

He turned and found Parker Coleman at his side.

"Say," Coleman asked, "what are these detectives doing? Why didn't they just send someone out to bring in the car? I don't understand it. It was just an accident, wasn't it? I mean they don't suspect—?"

"I don't know," Bannister told him. "I've been wondering the same thing but I'm going to find out."

It was not until they were back at central headquarters that Bannister got the answer. Then he said, "Look here, McNeal, just exactly what do you make of all this? Drugan's death was an accident, wasn't it? How could it have been anything but an accident?"

The captain's eyes were on the cigar he was lighting and he did not raise them as he spoke. "It could," he said, "have been murder. A murder cleverly planned to look like an accident."

NEW FORD V-8 TO BE PUT ON DISPLAY SAT.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 8 — The new Ford V-8 for 1934 is to be put on display tomorrow in more than 7,000 Ford dealerships throughout the United States, Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor company announced today.

As revealed here by Henry Ford and his son to several score newspaper correspondents, special writers and photographers, the new Ford has greater power, more speed, quicker acceleration, smoother performance, more miles per gallon, especially at higher speeds, and quicker starting in cold weather, plus refined body lines and a new built-in-system of clear-vision body ventilation.

The improvements in engine performance are the result of the use of a new dual down-draft carburetor and dual intake manifold which increase the engine's power approximately 12 per cent and provide a remarkable improvement in pickup.

The new Ford ventilation system, which is built into the body, permits clear vision, prevents drafts and provides the desired amount of fresh air in any weather. Individual control is provided for both front and rear side windows.

The distinctive lines of the Ford V-8 have been refined in the 1934 car by a newly-designed radiator shell, grille and other features. Interiors reveal new tufted upholstery and garnish mouldings, a cove-type head lining, new instrument panel, arm rests, door pulls and hardware.

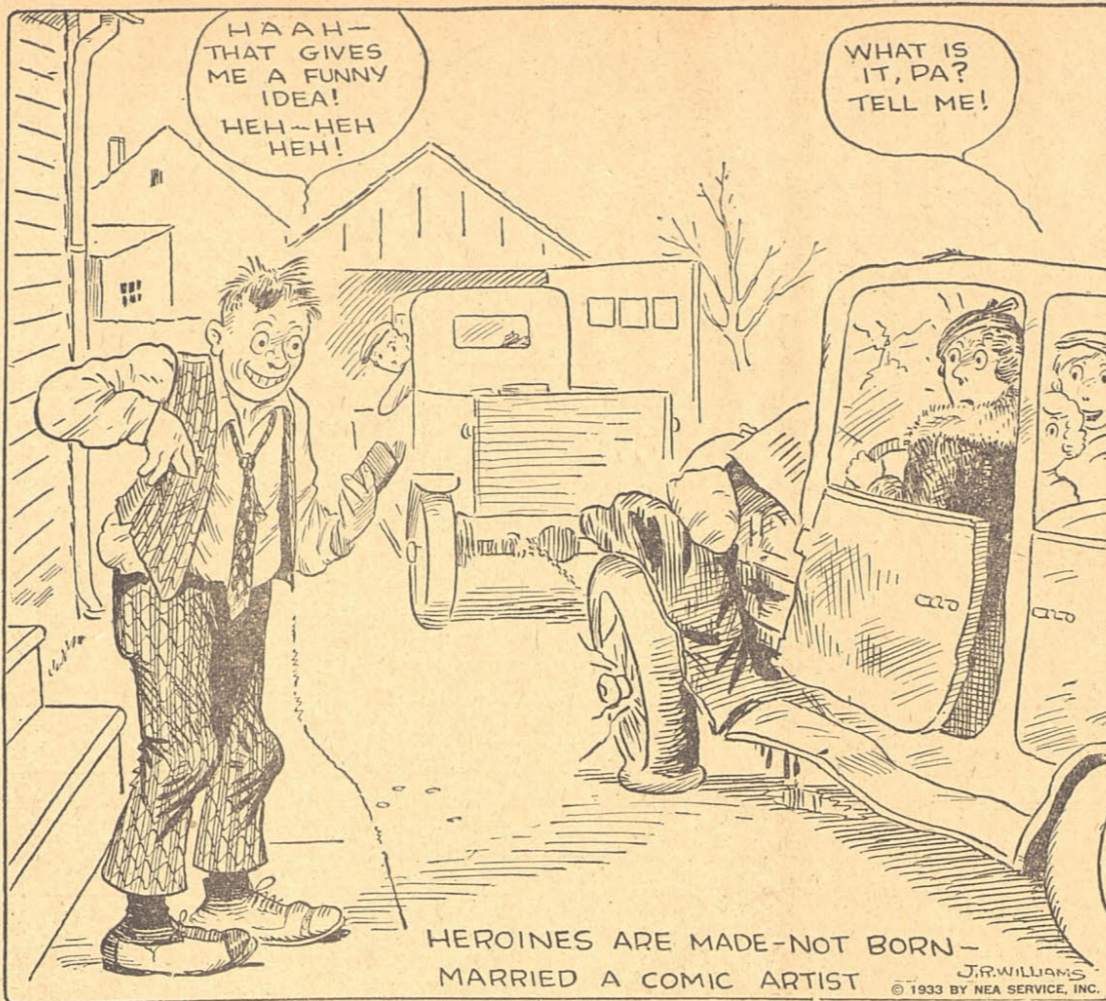

Fenders on de luxe cars now are in color to harmonize with the body colors. Wheel covers are optional. A new enamel finish is used on all bodies. This has greater wearing qualities, a more enduring lustre and requires only washing to restore its brilliance.

Eleven body types are available. Included are both standard and de luxe types of the Tudor, Fordor, 5-window coupe, the de luxe roadster, phaeton and 3-window coupe, as well as the cabriolet and victoria.

All body types are equipped with safety glass windshields, while the de luxe body types are fitted with safety glass throughout.

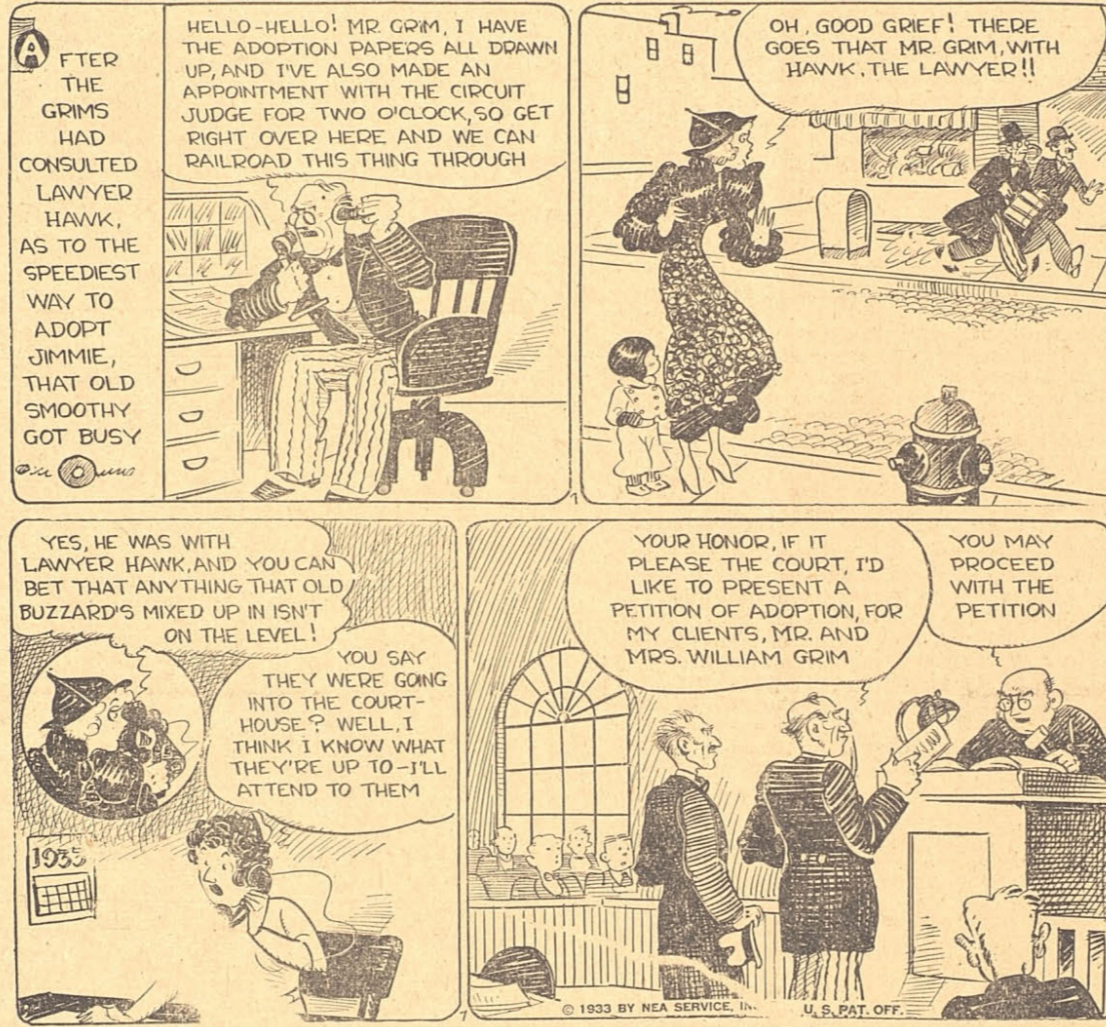

TO BE SHOWN AT NANCE MOTOR COMPANY The New Ford will be shown at the Nance Motor company sales rooms at the intersection of D avenue and 10th street, tomorrow.

DELICIOUS CEREAL OVERCOMES COMMON CONSTIPATION

ALL-BRAN Provides "Bulk," Vitamin B and Iron

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN meets a basic need of the American dietary. It supplies "bulk"—so helpful in correcting common constipation. In eleven years, ALL-BRAN has won millions of satisfied users.

New tests show added reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN. Laboratory experiments prove that, in addition to "bulk," it provides vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from constipation can be overcome by this pleasant cereal. How much better than using pills and drugs.

ALL-BRAN is mild. Its "bulk" is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Another benefit of ALL-BRAN is that it has twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. Tempting recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CISCO YOUTH IS PICKED AT CENTER POST

By MERRILL E. COMPTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
DALLAS, Dec. 8.—Tom Murphy, quarterback of the University of Arkansas football team, unofficial champions of the Southwest conference, and Harold Clem, stellar tackle on the Baylor university team, were unanimous selections of coaches and sports writers for positions on the all-conference team of United Press.

Two players each were selected from Arkansas, Baylor, Texas Christian university, and Southern Methodist university and the University of Texas. One Texas Aggie back was named on the team. Consensus of opinion of the voting coaches and newsmen was the determining factor in selection of the players.

Only Rice Institute failed to have a man voted to membership on the mythical All-Southwest conference eleven. Three Rice players, however, were named for second team. Arkansas and Baylor each placed two men on the second team and one each was named from the other conference members.

Murphy, senior and spark-plug of the victorious Arkansas eleven, was judged by the coaches and sports writers alike as the pick of the conference field generals. His handling of the Razorbacks throughout the season was the determining factor in their string of victories.

Bohn Hilliard, Texas halfback who was named last year to the United Press All-Southwest conference team, was named quarterback of the second team. James, Baylor end, likewise failed to receive enough votes to place on the first team.

The mythical all-conference team includes brilliance of backs; strength and power from tackle to tackle on the line; seasoned wing-men and a powerful man at center. The consensus team follows:

Player	School	Position
Ray Fuqua	S. M. U.	Left end.
Bill Smith (Cisco)	University of Texas	Center.
Eud Taylor	T. C. U.	Right guard.
Bill Benton	Arkansas	Right tackle.
Jim Tom Petty	Baylor	Right end.
Tom Murphy	Arkansas	Quarterback
Robert Wilson	S. M. U.	Left half.
Charles Casper	T. C. U.	Right half.
Clifford Domingue	Texas Aggies	Fullback.
Fuqua, lone senior on the S. M. U. first team, had a one point margin over Paul Rucker, Arkansas end for the first team position while his team-mate, Wilson, a sophomore, defeated Hilliard for a back-field position. Domingue was named as tribute for his playing in early season games, particularly against Tulane university.
The second all-conference consensus team follows:
Players	School	Position
Fred Lauterbach	Arkansas	Left end.
J. C. Wetsel	S. M. U.	Left guard.
Darrell Lester	T. C. U.	Center.
Fay Lagow	Rice	Right guard.
Wharton Jordan	Texas Aggies	Right tackle.
Frank James	Baylor	Right end.
Bohn Hilliard	Texas	Quarterback.
Ralph LaForge	Arkansas	Left half.
Joe Jack Pearce	Baylor	Right half.
Harry Witt	Rice	Fullback

Co. Cow Allotment Is Fixed at 46

By J. C. PATTERSON
County Agent

EASTLAND, Dec. 7.—The canner cow allotment for Eastland county has been set at 46 head. These cows will be delivered at Abilene by the producers and purchased by the government buyer. Permits are to be issued by the county agent to actual producers who will themselves deliver the cattle to the buyer at Abilene when notified that the canner is ready for them. Buyer reserves the right to refuse to purchase cows that are too poor or diseased or crippled. The prices to be paid will be Fort Worth prices for cutter cows, the lowest price being $1.75 and the top $2.50 per hundred. This beef is to be canned by the relief organization and distributed to the needy.

Farmers who wish to deliver cutter cows under these conditions should apply to the county agent for permits. It has not been indicated just when animals will be desired but it is understood that the canning plant will begin operations at once with a capacity of 12 cows per day.

Press articles have indicated that cotton producers who participated in the acreage reduction and accepted options are to be advanced $20 per bale by the government. Just as soon as necessary blanks are received by the county agent holders of options will be notified of necessary steps to be taken. Nothing can be done about disposing of the options until blanks are in the hands of producers and at that time the four cents per pound advance will be available.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—By playing both ends against the middle, the Roosevelt group hopes to get through a stormy session of Congress with its policies intact.

The rising strength of anti-inflation sentiment, it is figured, will help back the demands of the extreme inflationists in the next Congress.

The government bond market may have to be strengthened, but the administration's optimists think the Capitol Hill situation may prove quite simple. Won't the conservatives have to support Roosevelt against the radicals, and vice versa?

On one side there'll be a sound dollar group, including regular Republicans and such conservative Democrats as Senator Carter Glass of Virginia. On the other, the western and southern senators who demand outright currency inflation. In the center Roosevelt and a group bound to support him.

Silver senators presumably can be brought in line by purchase of silver for silver certificates. Roosevelt, insiders say, wouldn't mind that.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Inose Army Exams
WEST POINT is not such an easy school for an athlete to enter, a glance at the Army football roster indicates. Nearly all the fast-charging halfbacks and bruising linemen have had to prepare for the rigid army exams by going to prep school or college and brushing up on mathematics—and football.

This year, several young players on teams that played the Army liked West Point so well they are thinking of becoming sojers. Lee of Mercer, Pollocks of Penn Military and Hill of Coe are cases reported. But it may be several years—if ever—before you see their names in an Army lineup. It's those darned exams.

Buckler Sticks to It
TAKE, for instance, Johnny Tackler, one of the Army backs who probably will be named on most of the All-America teams this year. "Texas Jack" went to the Point from high school and failed in his first year as a plebe. He went to Texas Tech, came back for another plunge at that old mathematics line and failed again. So he went to Baylor. After a year at Baylor, he was appointed again by Rep. O. H. Cross, and managed to make the grade.

That is the story behind a great many of the experienced football players at West Point. Nearly all had to study at prep school or college before being sufficiently educated to pass the Army exams. Joe Stancook, star halfback, spent a year at Notre Dame where he won numerals in football, basketball and track. Bill Martz, another halfback, spent three years at Penn State (but he didn't learn much football there).

Pete Jablonsky, captain and star guard, who is playing his last year, was at Washington University, St. Louis, for three years before seeing the Point (excuse the pun, Pete).

Old Smarties
THERE are exceptions. Quarterback "Beany" Johnson spent only his freshman year at Ashland (O.) College before being West Pointed, and Jack Lawler was able to enter the Military Academy as a plebe after spending only one year at Harvard.

One of the notable varsity exceptions this year is Pete Kopsak, who went straight to the Point from Greensburg, Pa., high school, played a great game at end for three years and will be graduated with the class of 1934. Not only that but he's a color sergeant, member of the cadet choir, pistol sharpshooter, rifle marksman, first-class gunner in the field artillery and a Sunday School teacher!

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

This is the first of a series of six articles by Sister Mary providing choice food, candy and cake recipes, besides helpful suggestions, for your Christmas dinner.

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Staff Writer

TIMES have changed in many ways but Christmas customs and festivities remain much the same year after year. In fact, most families resent any marked innovation in the festivities and consider the Christmas dinner lacking in tradition to provide the traditional favorites.

Careful planning on the part of the home-maker will simplify the preparation of her dinner so that she may enjoy her own gifts and guests without overwork and worry. Several days before Christmas she will take stock of her staple supplies and be sure that all table appointments are ready for use.

The day before Christmas is usually a very busy day for the cook. The fowl should be cleaned and stuffed and trussed, ready for the oven. The pudding sauce can be made at least in part. The salad dressing can be made one or two days before wanted and kept on ice. The celery can be crisped and wrapped in a damp towel and stored in the refrigerator until wanted. The lettuce can be washed and crisped and kept in an airtight container. Consomme or bouillon should be made and clarified all ready for reheating. A cream soup can be prepared to combine with thin white sauce.

Fowl or Roast Appropriate
All this planning produces a schedule that will reduce the amount of work left to be done on Christmas day to a minimum.

Goose has been the popular Christmas bird for centuries but any sort of fowl or roast is in perfect keeping. A study of worldwide customs shows a great variety of meats from which to choose. The woman who has no maid may hesitate to serve an elaborate, many-course dinner, but if children are present it is best to start the meal with a clear soup. The hot soup steadies small nerves and is an aid to digestion.

Following are two menus that can be elaborated or simplified to meet individual needs. Keep in mind the necessity of serving foods that children may eat without danger of later trouble.

- Menu No. I
Bouillon
Radishes Celery Assorted Olives
Roast Goose with Prune Stuffing
Giblet Gravy

Blushing Apples
Glaze Sweet Potatoes
Molded Spinach
Stuffed Sweet Pepper Salad

Mrs. O. T. Griffith of Breckenridge was here Saturday, visiting old friends, and also paying school taxes for her mother, Mrs. J. W. Nash. Mr. and Mrs. Griffith formerly lived here and were patrons of our public school and are still interested in the welfare of our town.

Interest in football in Desdemona continues to increase as was demonstrated by the large crowd that attended the game Saturday afternoon. The team made up of star players of former years and some of this year's team played an all-star team from Stephenville and the score was 6 to 6. Several good players of former years who were expected to play were prevented for various reasons and it was necessary for Coach Weldon Rushing to fill in with boys of this year's team, some of whom weighed just a little over a hundred pounds but were splendid players in spite of their weight.

In the absence of Mrs. Hugh Poe who was ill Mrs. Moore asked the question the most interesting one being "What Two Battles Formations Used by Confederates?" Bales were then given. At the close of the program, the hostesses served lovely refreshments of chicken salad on lettuce, salsines, coffee and individual pumpkin pies topped with whipped cream to the following: Mmes. COME IN AND SEE THE MANY IMPROVEMENTS IN THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1934 ON DISPLAY SATURDAY, DEC. 9

An amazing automobile. New, yet time-tested, proved. The 1933 Ford V-8 was good --- but this is better. Dual Carburetion and Clear Vision Ventilation lead list of refinements. This 1934 V-8 is the finest car we have ever offered our customers.

BETTER PERFORMANCE. Greater power, new speed, quicker acceleration, smoother performance, more miles per gallon especially at higher speeds, and quicker starting in cold weather — all these result from the new Dual Carburetor and Dual Intake Manifold. New Waterline Thermostats enable the engine to warm up more quickly and to maintain an efficient operating temperature. Added engine refinements reduce oil consumption, further improve operating economy and reduce maintenance costs.

NEW VENTILATION SYSTEM permits clear vision, prevents drafts and provides desired amount of fresh air in any weather. Individual control for front and rear side windows. When ventilation is desired the window glass is raised to the top. Then the handle is given an additional half-turn. This slides the glass back horizontally to form a narrow slot, as illustrated. Through this slot air is drawn out by the forward motion of the car. This simple ventilation system maintains draft-free circulation, insures passenger comfort, prevents fogging windshield in cold or stormy weather. Both windshield and cowl ventilator can be

URGES SCHOOLS USE SANITARY DEPT. SERVICE

Urging county school officials and teachers take advantage of the sanitation service recently established in the county under the supervision of Fleming A. Waters, in conjunction with the CWA program, County School Supt. B. E. McGlamery, issued the following statement Thursday:

"Fleming A. Waters of the state health department has been designated as supervisor of sanitation for Eastland county and is now in the county with headquarters in the Judia building at Cisco.

"The civil works administration has set aside some $15,000 for construction work in this county. School officials may have the labor furnished for the construction of sanitary pit toilets on the school grounds. Private individuals may also have this work done. It will be necessary for both trustees and individuals to furnish the materials for the construction work. In most cases materials may be salvaged from old buildings in the neighborhood that may be used in construction of the toilets. The average cost of the material should be very small.

"Labor will be supplied from the local community where at all possible. Schools desiring this service should get in touch with your county superintendent, and individuals should communicate with Mr. Waters at Cisco.

"In addition to the above work, Mr. Waters has on his staff two trained nurses who are available for health inspection work in the schools of the county. Some work is being done in the rural schools this week. This is a mighty good time to stamp out communicable diseases in the county, and a careful inspection of the children with suitable recommendations to parents for the care of the children will go a long way toward doing this very thing. Similar work done in one community of the county during the month of October checked what might have been a typhoid epidemic in just a few days.

"Within a few days a deputy supervisor of sanitation will call at the various schools in the county and I urge that he or she may be given the fullest cooperation by all teachers and school officials."

"Point-a-Minute" Team Scores Once

GRENOLA, Kan., Dec. 8.—Again Grenola High school has a point-a-minute football team, but it doesn't arouse any hope in the hearts of its followers, for the points are on the wrong side of the ledger.

Last year, Genola scored 6 points to its opponents 340, an average of 1.88 points for the 288 minutes played. This year Grenola blanked four games and was defeated 102 to 0 once to earn an average that kept up its point-a-minute reputation.

Harrisburg Deputies Changing Rapidly

HARRISBURG, Dec. 8.—Deputies change rapidly in the office of Constable T. M. Kennerly here. When county commissioners received a request recently for another change in deputies, Commissioner W. H. Tautenhahn exclaimed: "Marvelous, that's the first time this week."

SISTER MARY

This is the second of a series of six articles by Sister Mary providing choice food, candy and cake recipes, besides helpful suggestions, for your Christmas dinner.

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Staff Write

AS Christmas nears it's time to think about making Christmas candies. Particularly fondant which is better for a period of ripening. There are many other candies, too, to be made for Christmas boxes, delightful gifts from our own kitchens.

There are certain precautions to keep in mind when making candy ready before beginning to cook the sugar.

First, always have all the ingredients and utensils at hand and ready before beginning to cook the sugar. Second, do not let candy boil until the sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Fondant is stirred until the sugar is dissolved and the boiling point is reached. After that do not stir. All candies containing milk must be stirred while boiling to prevent sticking and scorching. Stir slowly and use a wooden spoon.

Wiping Down Crystals

Be sure to wipe down crystals from the sides of the pan when making fondant. A pastry brush dipped in water or a bit of clean cheese cloth wrapped around the tines of a fork, dipped into water and the excess pressed out, either can be used. If the sauce pan is covered for a few minutes of the time the crystals should be wiped down as soon as the cover is removed. The wiping down should be done before the candy starts to boil and frequently during the cooking period.

Another precaution is to be sure to let the candy cool before beating it. This applies to all fine grained candies such as fudge, fondant and penouchi.

A round-bottomed, aluminum pan is best for cooking candies.

Two cups granulated sugar, 1-8 teaspoon cream of tartar, few grains salt, 2-3 cup boiling water. Mix and sift sugar, cream of tartar and salt into a smooth sauce pan. Add water and stir until sugar is melted. Put over a low fire and bring slowly to the boiling point.
