PARKS CONVICTED OF DROWNING WIFE

Important Issues Await Legislative Action This Week

DECISION ON APPOINTMENTS IS EXPECTED

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—With both houses of the Texas legislature adjourned until Monday, important questions which held sway in recent sessions will be carried into next week. Final decision on nominees submitted by former Gov. Ross Sterling for the board of education is expected early in the week. The house of representatives oil and gas committee, headed by Rep. Bob Long, of Wichita Falls, whose accusations against the railroad commission hinted at impeachment, will meet Monday to set a date for their inquiry. The house passed late last night, a bill to repeal the "gin marriage" law which requires three days notice before the wedding. Texas retail merchants, meeting here to discuss the sales tax, took no definite action for their attitude on the measure although the proposed tax came in for sharp criticism. The house committee on constitutional amendments set February 7 to begin hearings on the proposed constitutional amendment for local option control of liquor.

Reich's Military Attache for U. S.

For the first time since the World War Germany will be represented in Washington by a military attache. Major General Friedrich von Boettischer (above) has been designated as the new attache.

Indians Ask His Appointment

A delegation from the Pueblo Indians has asked President-elect Roosevelt to appoint John Collier (above) as the new Indian commissioner. He is secretary of the American Indian Defense Association and a veteran crusader for Indian rights.

CAFE MAN IS FATALLY SHOT BY POSSEMEN

WELLINGTON, Jan. 28.—Charles Sullivan, cafe operator and 1929 Wellington football star, was fatally shot when he failed to stop at a road sign reading: "State officers in charge, halt!" Sullivan was killed by C. L. Hasie, special deputy sheriff, and possemen who were seeking the slayers of Sheriff John C. Mosely, of Tulla. Hasie insisted that a murder charge be filed against himself. Meanwhile authorities continued their efforts to locate the slayers' automobile in northwestern Kansas or western Missouri. It was believed the two men and the woman figuring in the shooting had fled in that direction. Rewards totalling $1,200 have been posted for apprehension of the killers whose identity is still undetermined.

RANGERS LEAD HUNT FOR RHOME KILLER

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—Texas rangers led a host of officers today in search for the slayer of Deputy Sheriff Joe Brown at Rhome and the slayer's mother and a man who were present at the killing. Identity of the slayer was believed definitely established. Sheriff N. B. Honsa, of Briscoe county, where the persons sought lived, was in Dallas aiding the searchers. He is personally acquainted with the men sought. Doyle Meeks, 25, who surrendered after the killing gave Texas rangers information which led officers to believe the hunted trio was hiding near this city. Meeks was brought to the Dallas county jail. Officers were close on the trail of the fleeing trio when the desperadoes invaded a Denton county farm house long enough to eat, change clothes and cut telephone wires.

Child of Scranton Pastor Succumbs

James Harold O'Brien, 3 1/2 year old son of Rev. and Mrs. L. B. O'Brien, of Scranton, died of diphtheria last week, according to information received here. The child was buried at Scranton, where his father is pastor of the Baptist church. Death followed only two days of illness.

Kirby Hall Lifts Ban On Dancing

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—Kirby Hall, last of the dormitories for girls at the University of Texas to retain a ban on dancing, has now lifted its prohibition. Kirby Hall girls had been forbidden to dance with boys in the dormitory building because of a national board rule pertaining to Methodist dormitories and because of a regulation by the founders. A letter from Mrs. J. W. Downs, Nashville, Tenn., secretary of the board, announced that chaperoned dances would be permitted on Saturday nights from 7 to 9 p. m.

REUNITED

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—After 25 years apart, Mrs. Ray Bates, of Big Springs, Tex., and her brother, W. C. McCracken, of Dallas, met here recently. Mrs. Bates located her brother through a sister living in Haskell county, Texas.

JUDGE HOLDS CAR KEYS

EL PASO, Jan. 28.—When Robert Ritter, high school student, was brought before him for driving an overloaded automobile. Police Judge Charles Windberg, Jr., took the keys to the car for 13 days—just so Robert could keep his promise not to take his friends riding during that time.

EARNED $312,910

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 28.—Harvard students through part-time work earned $312,910 during the academic year 1931-32—about $40,000 less than in the previous year.

EX-SLAVE DIED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 28.—Mrs. Charity Grant, negro, born in slavery at Keysburg, Ky., in 1825 and who lived eight years past the century mark, is dead here. A son and two daughters survive. Mrs. Grant's husband also lived to be more than 100 years old.

Considered for Roosevelt Cabinet

Two men being actively considered for the "liberal cabinet" which President-elect Roosevelt is expected to name before March 4, are O. Max Gardner, former governor of North Carolina, and Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico. Gardner, backed by secretary of the navy, would preserve a long line of North Carolina navy secretaries. There have been five from that state, the last being Josephus Daniels. Cutting, progressive republican who bolted his party to support Roosevelt, may be chosen secretary of the interior. Roosevelt is expected to recognize at least one of those progressive republicans who backed him.

CONVICTS DECRY TEXAS' CAGE ON WHEELS, BUT HAVE TO RIDE

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Jan. 28.—The state of Texas today won custody of two escaped convicts wanted there and incidentally obtained vindication of the celebrated "cage on wheels" used to transport prisoners back to the Lone Star state. Judge H. H. Wendorff, of district court, denied the men, Joseph Zito and Hayden Hales, writs of habeas corpus and ordered them given at once into custody of W. R. Crane, Texas penitentiary agent, for the long ride back to Huntsville. Zito and Hales recently were released from the federal penitentiary here. They had escaped from a Texas work gang before completing sentences for armed robbery, and the state of Texas wanted them to serve out the time. Crane came here driving the famous "cage on wheels" a barred cell mounted on a small truck, to return them. The prisoners protested against riding in the vehicle. "Cruel and inhuman, that's what it is," cried Zito, who weighs 235 pounds and stands 6 feet 3 inches. "Why, I can't even sit upright in that cage," he added. At today's hearing pictures of the truck were offered in evidence to prove the cell was not too small for Zito. The return trip to Texas was to begin tonight.

STEER TRACK TRAINING WILL START FEB. 1

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—The Texas Lighthorn tracksters, Southwest section champions of 1932, will start regular training February 1, Coach Clyde Littlefield has announced. Many candidates have been working out since the first of the year, but no competition has been held and the drill so far has been for development of form, muscles, and condition. Weekly intra-squad competition will begin the second week in February, Coach Littlefield said. The head coach will again be assisted by Shorty Alderson and George Harris. Twelve lettermen from the 1932 team are back. They are Captain L. L. Blakeney, Karnes City, two-mile champion for the last two years; Alex Cox, Corpus Christi, who set a new 440-yard record last year (48-8), and Sears (Dochie) Earle, Waco, finished just behind him; Oneal Archer, Brownwood, mile champion; George Adams, Beaumont, half mile; Edgar Meyer, St. Charles, Mo., dashes; Joe Holmes, Lockhart, high hurdles; Harrison Stafford, Wharton, low hurdles, javelin, and broad jump; Joe Storm, Austin, mile; Robert Sewell, Fort Worth, pole vault; Ed Blitch, Austin, quarter; Wilson Cook, Austin, shot. In addition two lettermen of '31 who did not win T's last year will be on hand, Bill Cohon, Fort Worth, Worth, mile, and J. R. Gunn, Austin, pole vault.

SMU Spends Over Million in Dallas

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—Southern Methodist university spends annually more than $650,000 in Dallas and expenditures of students and others connected with the school bring the total sum released to trade here each year to $1,250,000. The statistics were furnished by Layton W. Bailey, university business manager. Bailey said the university spends more than $150 for each dollar received from students. The extra money comes from endowments and gifts. Layton denied recently published reports that the expense of attending S. M. U. was as great as in 1928. He said tuition, fees, more living costs and other items have reduced the annual cost $100 or more.

Flags Not Properly Flown, Says Post

AMARILLO, Jan. 28.—The local Amarillo Legion post was quick to remonstrate when certain American flags were flown at fullstaff within a few days after the death of Calvin Coolidge. The flags should be flown at half staff until February 4, in accordance with the presidential proclamation of a 30-day period of mourning, it was pointed out.

CELEBRATED BIRTHDAY

BOSTON, Jan. 28.—Former Attorney General Herbert Parker celebrated his 50th anniversary as a member of the Massachusetts bar by appearing in federal court as associate counsel with his son, Assistant U. S. Attorney Haven Parker. It was the first time the Parkers had been associated in the trial of a case.

Woman's Body Found In River Identified

FORT WORTH, Jan. 28.—The body of a woman removed from the sluggish Trinity river near Dallas was identified today as that of Mrs. W. J. Rice, Jr., missing since New Year's eve. Relatives who had given the woman a home here identified her body. Mrs. Rice had been dead seven or eight days, according to undertakers. Scraps of clothing were the means of identification.

TWENTY-THREE OIL PRORATION SUITS ON TRIAL

HOUSTON, Jan. 28.—Twenty-three oil proration suits went on trial today before a three-judge federal court. Consolidation of the cases was effected after attorneys for the Texas Railroad commission agreed that testimony introduced at three former proration hearings might be considered in trying the present cases. Assistant Atty.-Gen. Maurice Cheek refused yesterday to accept the previous records. His reconsideration of the matter today brought a rebuke from Circuit Judge J. C. Hutcheson, Jr., who said it was "too bad" Cheek had not shown the same attitude yesterday. Cheek had asked the court to dismiss 22 of the cases on the grounds the complaints should have been lodged with the commission rather than taken into federal court.

Terrell Man Hangs Self With Cord

HOUSTON, Jan. 28.—C. A. Enoch, 45, of Terrell, committed suicide today by hanging himself with a window sash cord in his room at the Southern Pacific hospital where he was a patient. A note found in the room said Enoch could not stand the suffering any longer.

Farmer Convicted Of Killing Neighbor

WHARTON, Jan. 28.—George W. Stephens, 55, farmer, today was under sentence of 35 years imprisonment for the slaying of a neighbor over the ownership of a 12-foot log.

LOBOES DROP DEFENSIVE GO TO ELIASVILLE

Eliasville emerged from a defensive battle with the Cisco Loboes at Eliasville Friday night with a 15 to 9 victory. Cisco held the long end of a 9 to 3 count at the end of the end of the third quarter. The Loboes, greatly improved since the first game with Eliasville in the early part of the season, allowed their opponents only a field goal in the first quarter and a free throw in the second. They held them scoreless in the third period, but in the last one Cearley, suffering from a bad ankle, was unable to stop his guard, who ran up nine points. The Cisco guards, Ray and Latch, held their forwards scoreless throughout the game. For the Loboes Harrison was high point man with Captain Ray, who was high point man the last time the two teams met, was closely guarded and was able to score only two points. The other Loboes were unable to tally.

ESCAPED DEATH

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Jan. 28.—Irvin Sheppell escaped with only a cut hand when a locomotive demolished his automobile. He had stopped his car at the tracks and was waiting for the train to pass when Carl Bogeman, in another automobile, bumped his machine onto the tracks in front of the engine.

CITY CLAIMS WET 1932

ABERDEEN, Wash., Jan. 28.—While not exactly the wettest spot in America, this city can claim at least moderate dampness during the past year. At the end of the season the United States weather observer here had recorded more than nine feet some 110 inches, of rainfall.

25 YEARS IN PENITENTIARY IS SENTENCE

SWEETWATER, Jan. 28.—L. M. Parks, former school teacher charged with drowning his wife, was found guilty by a district court jury today and was sentenced to 25 years in the state penitentiary. Parks, 37 years old, and recently the operator of a bottling works here, was charged with murder in connection with his wife's drowning at Lake Trammel near here. The defense summoned witnesses to testify that Parks was unable to swim and had made futile attempts to save the woman's life. Parks was calm when the verdict was returned. "You'd better go home now," he said to his four brothers. "May I speak, Judge?" he asked the court. The request was granted. "I thank you for a fair trial, Judge Mauzey," Parks told the judge in the latter's private office. He questioned the jurist about his privilege of liberty under bond and when advised he must surrender himself to the sheriff said, "I thought so."

TEXAS SUPT. OF UNDERHILL TO BE HERE MON.

O. D. Milligan, general superintendent for the W. H. Underhill construction company in Texas, will be here Monday to assist in supervising work on the new post office building, according to E. Albert Jensen, superintendent of construction. Jensen said he did not know just how long Milligan will remain in Cisco. He comes here from Sioux City, Iowa. The plumbing and heating contract for the federal building has been let to the David Vickers company, of Sweetwater, Jensen said. With fair weather, the excavation work now going forward should be completed sometime next week, Jensen said. Work went along slowly, he said, when the men reached a layer of flinty yellow clay. At present the men are working on excavations for the basement windows. Each window in the basement is to have a concrete protected space to admit light, Jensen said and pick and shovel men are at work digging the holes for them. Each space will be approximately four by six feet, he said, counting the concrete. The south side and the west end will each have five basement windows and the north side and the east end three each.

FACULTY ARE PARENTS

BURLINGTON, Vt., Jan. 28.—Twenty-four students at the University of Vermont are sons or daughters of faculty members.

FAVORITE VEGETABLE

FORT WORTH, Jan. 28.—Fort Worth's favorite vegetable is the potato, the United States Department of Agriculture has found. Last year 676 carloads were consumed here. Apples crowded the potato lead during the Christmas season with only one car less.

PAID $1,147,000 DEBT

PENDELTON, Ore., Jan. 28.—Twelve years ago Umatilla County owed $1,050,000 in bonds and $97,000 in registered warrants. Today the county is debt free.

WEATHER

East Texas—Cloudy. Probably local rains Sunday. West Texas—Mostly cloudy, cooler in west portion Sunday.

Boy Violinist Wants To Be an Engineer

HOUSTON, Jan. 28.—Raphael Fiegall, a bright-eyed youth of 14 who is acclaimed as a genius by those who have heard him play the violin, would like to be an engineer. He considers it the tragedy of his life that he must spend long hours practicing for a career which he believes will not be half so thrilling as engineering. He is philosophical about it, however. "I'd like to be an engineer," he said, "but I guess I'll continue my musical career instead." Young Fiegall appeared as guest soloist Jan. 23 with the Houston Symphony orchestra. He came here several years ago from Chicago where his uncle plays the cello in the Chicago symphony. Fast-moving music with plenty of "noise" is Raphael's favorite type. His favorite composer is Bach and the greatest musician of all time, he thinks, is Frit Kreisler. One of his outstanding musical achievements is his knowledge of tone sounds. He will stand several feet from a piano, blindfolded, and immediately upon hearing a note sound identify it.

ACC WILDCATS STOP BADGERS BY 33-22 COUNT

The goal flinging of Lafferty, stellar Wildcat forward, gave the Abilene Christian college B team a 33 to 22 victory over the Randolph Badgers here Friday night. Lafferty was high point man, with a total of 16 counts. New Kemp led the Badgers with 10 points. Bert Ezzell, of Cisco, former Randolph man, held down a position at forward for the Wildcats. Except for the second quarter, the two teams played on even terms throughout the game. The lead has been seen from one team to the other in the early part of the game, until the Wildcats broke into shooting streak, taking the long end of a 24 to 15 count at the end of the first half. In the second half the Randolph men began to click again and allowed A. C. C. to increase the lead only one point in each quarter, the third period ending 28 to 18. Randolph was unable to work a pivot play under the basket for crisp shots when the Wildcat defense centered about Norred, tall center, holding down the scoring of the local college. Following are the starting lineups: A. C. C.: Ezzell and Lafferty, forwards; Hardegree, center; Owens and Riggs, guards. Randolph: Karkalis and Kemp, forwards; Norred, center; Swink and Powell, guards.

NAPOLEONS TO BE REUNITED IN THE TOMB

PARIS, Jan. 28.—The bodies of two Napoleons, father and son, will be reunited in death under the golden dome of the Invalides on the banks of the Seine. May 5, Prince Joachim Murat, Bonapartist leader, announced. Parted in life from his father, Emperor Napoleon I, the young King of Rome, Duke de Reichstadt, died in Vienna 100 years ago and all that time members of the family and Bonapartists have striven to have the remains brought to lie with Bonaparte's in Paris. Now all difficulties have been overcome, both on the part of the Austrian and French governments. Emperor's Birthday Prince Murat explains that the date, May 5, set for the ceremony of transference of the young Prince's sarcophagus to be laid at the feet of the porphyry sarcophagus of Napoleon I has been chosen because the day is the anniversary of the Emperor's death on the island of St. Helena. "The remains will be brought by train from Vienna to the Gare des Invalides in Paris," it is announced, "where military honors will be rendered. After a requiem mass in the Church of St. Louis des Invalides the bronze urn will be lowered into the well, to repose for ever more beside the dust of Bonaparte." As president of the committee for the celebration of the centenary of the death of the King of Rome, Prince Murat approached the French government for permission to have the boy's remains repose beside the father's hrievet skeleton. Special Decree Difficulty was expected because a special decree by Parliament was believed necessary; but this can be avoided, according to legal advice. Provided no new difficulty arises, therefore, Prince Murat's committee expect to arrange the ceremony for May. It will be the occasion for an imposing display of Royalist sentiment. The Austrian government has given the assurance that full military and religious honors will be accorded the passage from the tomb in Vienna of the "Aiglon's" ashes. Around the sarcophagus will be entwined the royalist colors, which royalists will come to salute from all parts of the country as the funeral cortège passes through the streets of Paris, from which the King of Rome fled with his mother on the abdication of Bonaparte.

BYBEE SAVED FROM CHAIR BY GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today commuted the death sentence of Hilton Bybee, sentenced to be electrocuted January 30, to life imprisonment. The commutation was made, James E. Ferguson announced for his wife, because Bybee was only 21 years old, and because the person he was convicted of attacking did not die. Bybee was sentenced to die on conviction of assault by violence and robbery with firearms of Ernest Slape, Cottle county merchant.

Savant Says That Religion Is Opiate

HOUSTON, Jan. 28.—Religion is a series of attitudes—fear, awe, love—that one generation transmits to another, and sometimes it serves as "opium" to the people. That opinion was expressed here by Dr. Horace M. Kallen, New York psychologist and leading exponent of pragmatism. When asked if he agreed with Karl Marx that religion is an opium for the people, Dr. Kallen said: "Religions arrive in times of crises and often function when nothing else will. Religion serves as an opiate when you have lost something dear, because it helps you bear that loss. If you fear death, it serves as an opiate on that dread. In calling it an opiate, however, you must think of the word opium only in its effect and meaning, and not in its derivation."

WEDDING FETE

HAVERHILL, N. H., Jan. 28.—Eight couples who had been married 50 years or more recently participated in a "golden wedding service" at East Haverhill Methodist Episcopal church.

CHINESE SECURE LICENSES

BOSTON, Jan. 28.—Six Chinese youths, students at colleges in the Boston area, have secured pilot licenses at Boston airport in recent weeks. Six others are studying for their licenses.

FUNDS FOR THE AMERICAN FARMER.

American farmers are reminded that the two branches of the federal congress approved the production loan bill making $309,000,000 of Reconstruction corporation funds available for advances to farmers in 1933. Now it is on the desk of the president. Farmers must be assisted in carrying on in a crop production sense. Their purchasing power has been reduced to the minimum. Their tax burdens are very heavy. Price levels for their products are the lowest since the year 1910. Now the loans are not gifts. Those who receive the advances give liens on their crops or their livestock. There is a legislature grinding here at home. Many bills introduced provide for new commissions or bureaus. This calls for a greater number of employes in the public service. Unless the appropriations are to be cut to the bone without crippling departments of government how will it be possible to give relief to the taxpayers of Texas?

ANNUAL DINNERS FOR HUNGRY HORSES.

Kansas is known as the Sunflower state. Well, the Sunflower state has given to the American world many queer characters beginning away back in its territorial days. Mrs. Emma W. Robinson of Kansas passed on to her reward. She left a will behind in which she set aside $10,000 in a trust fund to provide "annual Christmas dinners for hungry horses." She specified the amount of hay and grain that constitutes a Christmas dinner for the hungry horse. Yes, the departed one left relatives behind her. They were given $27,000 by provisions of the will, and not a dollar was set aside for hungry men or women or children. This is a free country. Many humanitarians die and in their wills specify that hungry cats or hungry dogs or hungry horses shall be given a food blowout from time to time while they are among the living things on the face of the earth. It must be true that the Lord provided that 2,000,000,000 human atoms should inhabit this earth and arrange it so that no two are alike.

SILVER PROPOSALS GIVEN A BLACK EYE.

A lame duck senate smashed a free silver proposal in the closing days of the session. It voted three to one to table a rider amendment to the Glass bill calling for free coinage of the white metal at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold. Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (d) of Montana, sponsored the rider. Huey P. Long of Louisiana sponsored a companion piece to the rider for the issuance of certificates backed by silver bullion. A reminder that the two proposals had been advanced by the liberal wing of the senate democrats as amendments to the banking bill. Their defeat was overwhelming. A recorded vote of 56 against to 18 for the proposals was interpreted as ending any possibility of inflation legislation at the lame duck session. Five republican independents and a new republican senator, Schuyler of Colorado, voted with 12 democrats against tabling the silver amendment. Tom Connally of Texas voted for tabling; Morris Sheppard, our senior senator, voted with the minority.

Kingfish Long has been a senator for a year. There is pending before the powerful rules committee of the senate an amendment to the cloture rule designed for no other purpose than to gag the Kingfish of Louisiana politics. Kingfish is growing weary. This is what he said to a United Press correspondent when asked if he enjoyed his first year in Washington as a senator: "No, I didn't. I am away from my family and my friends. I am very lonesome. The life here don't suit me. I am only staying here because I am damn fool enough to believe I am doing something for the people of my country." He admitted that the most important measure before the senate during his year in Washington was the Glass bill. He must have chuckled when he said "Beating this chain bank bill is the most important of the year." Regardless of his lonesomeness the Kingfish thinks the senate is worthwhile, "the only forum for free speech left in America."

Kingfish is mistaken. He should visit Texas. There is no gag on the Texas senate, and the house of representatives is not manacled or tongue-fettered by iron rules or gag laws. Incidentally, and so to speak, there are millions of Americans who believe that important legislation proposed for the relief of the people should be enacted regardless of long winded orators or the tactics of filibusterers.

RAILS STAND "ON THE VERGE."

Pres. Elect Roosevelt is at Warm Springs, Ga., hammering out a new international program. In other words he is holding a series of conferences on foreign and domestic economics.

Under the big dome in the city of Washington American railroads and their future is one of the important topics holding the attention of the national lawmakers. There is a house judiciary committee. This committee has filed its report on the La Guardia-McKeown debtor relief and bankruptcy bill. This paragraph taken from the report conveys its own message to the people: "The necessity for immediate enactment was stressed by the committee" which for months has sought a remedy for the pressing burden of unpayable debts confronting individuals and corporations. Well, the point is that the erstwhile powerful corporations, rails for instance, are traveling a very rocky road.

"Sock it to the rich" was the slogan in America. Corporations are large employers of labor. When ground into the earth labor is given the gate. There is no other way out of it. Really, the bread liners are better off today than thousands who have not been forced into the line but are on the verge of it unless relief is given to industries which are stagnant and a foreign market opened to the products of the farmer as well as many manufacturers of American mills and factories and mines.

Need for a One-Man Commission

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Many of you have read Nathaniel Hawthorne's story of the Miraculous Pitcher. Well, this is a story of a Miraculous Beanpot. The beanpot is hardly so supernatural as the pitcher but the results obtained are just as convincing and just as satisfactory as those of the fictional property.

It is located in an oil field shack in an obscure part of Brown county. The shack stands on W. W. Wallace's "ranch", which, more properly termed, is an oil lease.

The genius of the beanpot is that it is never empty. It stands upon the back of the stove, bubbling modestly from dawn to dark. A pinch of soda tossed into it occasionally preserves the sweetness of its contents against bacterial ravages. Wally and his companions in oil have not seen the bottom of that pot in so long that they could not tell you whether the bottom is concave or convex, round or square.

But the geometrical dimensions of the pot do not concern these boys. It would probably require a week, anyway, to get it in condition for measurement.

This is how it works. Wally gets up before dawn, starts a fire in the stove, sets the pot over the fire, and goes out to the well to start the pump. By the time the chores are done the pot is bubbling. He ladles out a handful of dry beans to make up the deficit.

The pot bubbles until noon when Wally comes in from the well and ladles out another plateful. He throws in a handful of dry beans to make up the deficit.

The pot bubbles all afternoon. At night Wally comes in from the well and ladles out another plateful. He throws in a handful of dry beans to make up the deficit.

So it goes and Wally and his companions are never without beans. As a side dish he has a salad of chunks of cheese and quartered onions.

Not much news, these days except the "sales tax" and crime. It is not so remarkable that these two apparently widely separated questions should be linked as foremost issues of the day. The fact that the "sales tax" is creating such a stir and stews testifies to the seriousness of an economic condition which necessitates a revision of the tax system. And the seriousness of the economic situation is what is contributing to the inflation of crime.

There are many people in our fair commonwealth who won't admit any distinction between crime and the "sales tax." They regard the latter as merely a new version of some of the many aspects of the former.

Yesterday morning I counted upon the front page of one morning newspaper no less than 13 items of graduated consequence relating to criminal acts or their results. Such news took up the great majority of space on the page. The rest was filled in with news of a passive character.

Many readers, of an idealistic turn of mind, condemn the papers for giving play to crime news. But suppose the papers said nothing of it? Nothing, except abolition of agencies of criminal investigation and prosecution would please the perpetrators better. They work best in the dark. Such critics fail to take into consideration the protective benefits of widespread, accurate information, and its value in the suppressing of unsocial activities.

Instead of condemning the papers, and adopting, per se, the character of the ostrich sticking his head in the sand, if such readers would become aroused over the crimes themselves and help to trace them to their tributary elements there would be less crime to print. The newspaper, for a selfish reason if for no other, would much prefer to print constructive news.

I wish I had for the banners in today's issue stories of thousands of men going back to work. But we don't make the news. We simply report it, as accurately as we can. If we did make it, brother, every person in Cisco would be drawing a large pay check every week and the pages of this paper would be crammed with advertising.

At least, honest newspapers don't make the news. I can't speak for a certain element of the press.

Letters From Our Readers

The following letter, written by Osta M. Underwood, an 18-year-old student in the Nashville Business College, Nashville, Tenn., to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, gives a sane slant on the "average girl" and the liquor question, declares Rev. E. S. James, pastor of the First Baptist church, who submitted it for publication.

Nashville, Tennessee
December 14, 1932.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt,
Governor's Mansion,
Albany, New York

Dear Mrs. Roosevelt:
An article in our morning paper saying that a statement of yours brought forth a "shocked protest" from a group of women leaders in Topeka, brings forth an equally shocked protest from me. You were quoted as saying that "the average girl of today faces the problem of learning very young how much she can drink of such things as whiskey and gin and sticking to the proper quantity." If you have been correctly quoted, you surely do not know the "average girl of today." I would not undertake to inform you were I not an "average girl of today."

I am 18 years of age, I was graduated from a standard high school a little more than a year ago, and I am now attending the Nashville Business College. I cannot remember one instance when I have seen a girl of my own age under the influence of liquor and I can remember seeing but three boys of my own age intoxicated, or even "drinking." I am a member of no dry organization. I am no prig. I am merely an "average girl" who is indignant at hearing girls accused of something of which they are not guilty.

Instead of drinking, we "average" young people are planning in due course of time to run our respective communities and the United States, while the drinking low-down-high-ups are reaping their crop of wild oats.

Drinking and such things went out of style with the "post-war" group of young people. Drinking and many other things of which we are accused are frightfully old-fashioned. The young people of today are interested in athletics and many other things that require a strong body, a clear brain, steady nerve and quick thinking, and all of those things drink destroys. The girls and boys of today enjoy sports and games that challenge the mind.

Girls of today are going into the business field because they like it. You can't be successful in the business field if you are in the habit of drinking. No stenographer can take dictation or do typing who has a "hang-over" head-ache, nor can she perform many other duties well. Our pride makes us want to do things well.

It is true that in some groups in thickly populated sections, in some large cities, in some communities, such conditions as you spoke of do exist—but you said "average." Some wet agitators have said they want legal liquor for the sake of the young people—that they are drinking any and everything now—that at least it would be pure if it were legal, government-inspected liquor. Let me tell you—we don't need liquor for the sake of the young people. We don't even like the taste of it. We don't like the effects it produces. If the older people want it, let them say so; but they should at least have the courage of say THEY want it, and not try to hide behind a false statement that it is for our sakes. If we, the young people, were allowed to vote on the question, the proposition to legalize alcoholic beverages would be defeated by an overwhelming majority. If the people of voting age can withstand the wet wave just long enough for us, the average boys and girls, to get our vote, you may be sure that alcoholic beverages will never again be legalized. We cannot afford to hazard our future for drink. We do not want it.

You don't know the "average girl," Mrs. Roosevelt. To get the average you must take all of us the country over, and doing that, you will find that we may not be saying much, but we have our opinions—and they are NOT in favor of legalizing alcoholic beverages, and they are not in favor of the illegal stuff used now. No, the "average girl" does not want to learn early how much she can drink, and she doesn't keep within that quantity because there is no need. We do not drink the stuff at all.

Sincerely yours,
OSTA M. UNDERWOOD.

For over half a century increasing numbers of people have been drinking Crazy Water for the wonderful benefits they receive. They have learned to drink their way to health. By modern methods the Crazy Water Company now distributes this water throughout the world. In new and up-to-date plants the mineral water is evaporated and the eleven body-building minerals are left. These minerals are known as Crazy Water Crystals. The standard size package of Crazy Water Crystals will reconstitute approximately fifteen gallons of water in your own home. It costs only 10 cents per gallon when you use the Crystals to reconstitute the water, and this economical price makes it possible for people everywhere to "Drink their way to Health."

Crazy Water Crystals are recommended for any ailment brought on by faulty elimination, such as disorders of the stomach, kidney, bladder and liver, rheumatism, lumbago, gout, high and low blood pressure. Remember, Crazy Water Crystals give perfect elimination without irritation.—Adv.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS, Jan. 28.—Dark colors never used to be considered very thrilling—toned us down too much and made us feel sort of drab. Something was very wrong however, with the lights and shadows in those particular dark colors we used to use because today the darker tones are by far the most alluring on the color chart.

Take that dark hyacinth blue of Madame Schiaparelli's for instance. Could anything possibly be more downright thrilling? It fairly pulsates with life and laughter when made up into an evening gown. This Italian-Parisian dressmaker wore it herself the other night at a dinner party at the Cafe de Paris. A clever arrangement of two scarves created a long line effect through the body. The scarves start at a "V" decolletage and are tied in padded folds at the back. With this she wore an amusing little ruffled bolero of shirred velvet ribbon made of row upon row of ribbon superposes one over the other. The bolero is one of the best examples of the short evening coat because evening coats, Schiaparelli says, are either as short a good joke or else romantically long and imposing affairs, via the moyen age influence.

My MARY KNIGHT United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS, Jan. 28.—The Countess Potocka recently has selected from Mme. Schiaparelli the number 423 in her last collection which is made in that smart shade of dark hyacinth blue jersey with a seam down the front and the material cut on the bias. The fulness in the skirt starts well below the knees, and a very high waisted effect is secured by the contrast of a beero of snow ermine. The shoulder line is broadened by two twisted bands of fur on each shoulder like tiny puff sleeves. The Countess Potocka also ordered a bolero of shirred velvet ribbon in that new pale straw color.

One of the most popular costumes from Chanel's recent showings to private customers is made of heavy dull-surfaced crepe. It has an openwork yoke with a V decolletage, and sleeves that are intricately knotted between shoulder and elbow and puffed just above the wrist where they finish in a narrow cuff.

Houstonian Talked Villa Out of Death

EL PASO, Jan. 28.—A modern version of Arabian Nights is told by George Millar of this city, thrice captured by Francisco (Pancho) Villa Mexico's bad man extraordinary. It took Queen Scheherazade 1001 nights to divert the sultan's thoughts from strangling her, but Millar talked his way from in front of Villa's firing squad in 10 days. When he faced Villa in 1920 as a captive mine superintendent for the third time in five years Millar told the bandit chieftan ransom to match a previous $50,000 release purse could not be raised. Instructed to prepare to die Millar called upon his creative talents to entertain and flatter the illiterate desperado. For 10 days he supplemented history with fiction in telling Villa about Napoleon, Caesar, Hannibal, Peter the Great, Alexander and the Great Khan. He ended each tale avowing Villa an exact duplicate of the great warrior described. Filled with pride Villa released the mining engineer and swore eternal friendship.

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY SHEILA SHAYNE, dancer, is discharged from a new play because MARION RANDOLPH, the star, is jealous of her. Sheila searches for work and finally secures a part in a musical show soon to go on tour. DICK STANLEY, rich and socially prominent, asks her to give up this job and marry him but Sheila refuses. Her idea of marriage is a home in some town far from Broadway.

THE gentleman whose money was backing the play in which Marion Randolph was starred was Craig Abbott. As it happened, Abbott was feeling weary. He was weary of financial responsibilities bringing practically no returns. He was weary, too, of Miss Randolph's pouting and petty tyrannies. When things went wrong—and they did frequently—Marion was quick to let everyone know it. Craig Abbott had begun to think of sailing dates and ocean liners. A long leisurely cruise, alone and unhampered, to parts unknown. For an indefinite period. That would be delightful!

He was rather new to this business of "angeling" plays. He was rather young. He was unfamiliar with the tempestuous whims of leading ladies but during the past weeks he had been learning rapidly.

What he had learned had considerably changed his viewpoint. Abbott realized now that he had been making mistakes. Numerous mistakes. There was that girl he had seen the other evening! Clever youngster. Talented. And he had allowed Mandrake to put her out of the show simply because Miss Randolph so desired. Yes, dropping Sheila Shayne from "When Lights Are Low" had been a serious mistake.

All this was in Abbott's mind as Marion Randolph spoke. He sat on a divan in the living room of her apartment. Marion, nearby, was standing because the lines of her tea-time pajamas were better when she stood. Marion might take little thought for the morrow but she took thought constantly for her appearance. "Blaine's no good in that part," she repeated. "Get rid of him, Craig, and find someone else."

Abbott looked up from the book he had been reading. He said, "Well, if you want him fired, fire him. Why not?"

She pouted. "I can't do it, Craig. You know that. But I'm warning you right now there isn't a show in town big enough for both of us!"

The man eyed her. "Then why not fire yourself for a change? You've already gotten rid of a good comedian, a cute little dancer, and half the chorus." She countered them off on slim fingers. "You ruined two expensive costumes for no reason at all. Spike heels," he paused to allow his change of tone to sink in, "aren't awfully good for velvet frocks, are they?"

"But I want Blaine fired!" "Darling, why didn't you say that before? I'll go and see him right away. Where does he live? It would be too bad to drag him way down to the theater tonight when he won't be needed."

HE rose and was half-way to the door before Marion stopped him with a hand on his arm. "Go back and sit down," she begged, trying to laugh. The venom had drained from her eyes and at that moment she looked innocuous. Her skin, as she well knew and frequently announced, was flawless. Her hair, without that last gold rinse, would have been lovely. Its curl was fairly natural. And the tilt of her head was superb. Even at that moment Abbott would have agreed to all this.

None of these facts, however, interested him. He was thoroughly tired of Marion and Marion's petty whims.

"What is the chap's number? We'll get the business over," Abbott went on. "Marion named Blaine's hotel. She was looking worried. Somehow she didn't like this mood of Craig's. She had never seen him quite like this before.

"I'll call him," the man was saying, "and take him out to dinner."

"But I thought you were having dinner with me?" For answer Abbott gave the operator the number. A moment more and he was asking for Jim Blaine. There was a pause and then he said, "Blaine? This is Craig Abbott speaking. You don't know me but I'm interested in 'When Lights Are Low.' Wonder if you'd dine with me this evening? I'd like to suggest a few changes."

HE winked at Marion who quickly recovered her composure. This was going to be all right. How Blaine would write! Still—hadn't he a contract? She wrinkled her forehead a moment over this, then decided that he was probably too new to the show business to think of a detail such as that. In that case everything would be fine!

"Well, it's settled," Craig remarked as he replaced the telephone. He did not return to his seat. Instead he closed the book he had been holding and replaced it on the table.

"I'll leave this—or have you a book?" he asked dryly. "Do you know any more old jokes?" Marion retorted. But she flushed. The old story of the book and the chorus girl had never amused her.

Craig smiled as he let himself out of the apartment. "And now," he said to himself, "I wonder just what inducement I can offer to get an introduction to that little girl who looked as though she liked red geraniums. Let's see—when was it I saw her—?"

Four hours later they were seated at a dinner table. There were places for three at the table but Jim Blaine had had to leave early to reach the theater. Abbott leaned forward, looking directly into Sheila Shayne's eyes.

"To think," he was saying "that Jim and I have been friends all these years and I didn't recognize him in the show!"

"It was nice of you to let him bring me," Sheila said. "I'm afraid you and Jim had a great deal to talk about." She hadn't been told that Craig Abbott was interested in "When Lights Are Low."

"So have you and I." "But we're to meet Jim after the show. And—"

"Just a minute! How would you like to drive around the park until Jim can join us?"

"In one of those funny old carriages?" "In anything you say—an airplane or a wheelbarrow. Make your choice, Madame. I am at your service."

They drove through the park until 10:30 and then returned to the hotel where they had dined. There Abbott sent a bellboy to Jim's theater with a taxicab. He didn't care to risk meeting Marion Randolph that evening.

Jim met them promptly at 11. "Now," Craig suggested, "let's go to Harlem. It's my treat."

They set out for Harlem in a cab. "Do you know another girl we could add to the party at this highly impossible hour?" Abbott asked.

Sheila shook her head doubtfully. "There are the Samper sisters," she said finally. "There are five of them and they all look alike. When one is busy you can always ask another."

Two of the five Samper sisters were at home. One of them would have to remain with Mama but the other would be glad to join them.

"Toss a coin and see who stays and who comes," Sheila advised. The Sampers lived on Washington Heights and the cab detoured up Fort Washington avenue. Tessie, radiant, met them at the door. She was petite and blond. The other four sisters were dark, so on the stage Tessie wore a wig. Their mother didn't approve of dyed hair but with a wig Tessie looked exactly like the others. In street clothes she was the only one Sheila could distinguish from her sisters.

The four "did" Harlem. Tessie had never been there before, she confided, but Mama was willing to let her go with Sheila. They found a supper club where the music was gay and the entertainers skillful. Abbott's party was a complete success.

Sheila slept late next morning. She was not needed at rehearsal until late afternoon. She stirred in bed, hearing a commotion outside the door. Footsteps, Ma's voice, something bumping against the wall. Someone knocked and Sheila opened the door.

It was Myrtle who came bounding in. "A ton of geraniums!" she exclaimed. "With your name on them! Your young man isn't out of his head, is he, Sheila?"

They strolled up Fifth Avenue together. Craig said, "Remember when I told you that I was sure you liked red geraniums? What's Hodges Sam Allred, Sterling Drumwright, Ralph Smith, Byron Clements, Gene Abbott, Ocie Chisholm, Claud Wilson, Marvin Knight of Dallas, and Grady Coats.

RIISING STAR CLUB HONORS MRS. ROBERTSON.
 The Saturday club of Rising Star entertained on Thursday afternoon with a seated tea at the clubhouse in Rising Star, honoring Mrs. Lexie Dean Robertson upon the occasion of the publication of her prize-winning volume of verse, "I Keep a Rainbow." This delightful affair was attended by a number of club women from Cisco. Mrs. Willa Ray McDonald was program chairman, and welcomed the guests. Mrs. J. R. Bucy rendered a vocal solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Skikman. Mrs. Martin Joyce was introduced, and in turn presented Mrs. M. H. Hagaman of Ranger, who spoke on the literary activities of Mrs. Robertson, telling of the publication of her most recent volume as well as the publication of "Red Heels." She spoke of the poem, "Texas," quoting Judd Mortimer Lewis' poet laureate of Texas. "It sounded a note so entirely new that it augured a future for the newly acclaimed poet." Mrs. Hagaman spoke of Mrs. Robertson as "our poet laureate," and expressed that hope that someday she may be Texas' poet laureate.
 Mrs. Robertson preceded the reading of her poems with a story about each. Of special interest was the title "I Keep a Rainbow," which she explained she took from an outstanding poem, "Neighbors." Included in the poems read by Mrs. Robertson were "Neighbors," "Nor Iron Bars," "The Penitent," "A Romany Charm," "Mountain Adventures," "My Sorrow," "Sandstorm," "Texas Memorandum," "Bluebonnets," "Galveston Beach," "Pecos River," "A Young Mother in Heaven Speaks With the Lord," "The Believer," "Alabaster Box," "This For Remembering," "A Christmas Carol," "Spendthrift," "Adventures," "Gist to Pamela," "The Seeker," and "Traveller." Upon the special request of Mrs. Hagaman, she read "Boom Town."
 The sixteen pictures, which compose the Sixth District Art exhibit, were artistically arranged to an advantage in decorations for the club house. Lovely bouquets of sweet peas suggested a color theme of pink and orchid, which was given emphasis in the dainty refreshment course, consisting of pink and orchid sandwiches, pink and orchid macaroons, mints, and tea.
 Both Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Hagaman were presented with corsages of sweet peas. A corsage was also given to the Cisco group to be presented to Mrs. R. Q. Lee, who was unable to attend. Mrs. Wm. Reagan was appointed to make the presentation, and to convey the best wishes of the clubwomen to Mrs. Lee.

Eliminate Expense and Drudgery With This Electric Ironer

To finish an average ironing, with the ordinary iron, you perform the unbelievable task of pushing your iron a distance equal to twelve miles and lifting a cumulative weight of over 2000 pounds! This old-fashioned procedure is not only back-breaking but expensive.

Eliminate the expense and drudgery of this arduous task. Seat yourself comfortably before a modern table-height ironer . . . guide the pieces through smooth-running rollers . . . and complete your weekly ironing in one-third the time and with but a fraction of the effort required by old-fashioned hand methods!

When you can save two hours out of every three—and get much finer work in the bargain—surely it is wise economy to purchase this remarkable "Electrical Servant."

You will find the new Thor Ironer unusually inexpensive to own and to operate. A small down payment will place this important time, labor and money-saving appliance in your home without delay—and the savings will aggregate an enormous dividend on your small investment. Investigate TODAY!

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?
