Visitors Swarming Austin for Inaugural Ceremony

'MA' FERGUSON TO TAKE OATH AT NOON HOUR

AUSTIN, Jan. 16.—Visitors for the inauguration of Gov.-elect Miriam A. Ferguson here tomorrow were surging into Austin today.

Hotel reservations were exhausted. Visitors were advised to stay at Temple, Taylor and other nearby cities.

Although Gov. Ross Sterling has indicated he will remain in his office until the expiration of his term at noon it was expected the governor's mansion would be vacated late today.

Mrs. Ferguson will take the archaic oath of office, including the affirmation that she has not fought a duel, at noon in the house of representatives. Chief Justice Curerton, of the state supreme court, will administer the oath on the same Bible used when she was inaugurated six years ago.

At its conclusion the governor's salute will be fired by Battery D of the 132nd field artillery.

Square dances, such as were used in the early days of Texas settlement, will open one of three balls to follow.

For the day inaugural ceremony Mrs. Ferguson's dress will be a black, crinkled crepe with button trimmings. She will wear a black spring straw hat and black accessories. At night she will wear a dusty pink crepe trimmed with pink and a large 'velvet bow'.

ALLRED RULES FOR FERGUSON NOMINEES.

AUSTIN, Jan. 16.—Att.-Gen. James V. Allred today notified the state senate that the incoming administration has the legal right to name three regents of the University of Texas.

Retiring Gov. Ross Sterling had sent in nominations for the three vacancies. The senate withheld confirmation pending a ruling on whether the or Gov.-elect Miriam A. Ferguson should make the appointments.

Gov. Sterling later withdrew his nominations from the senate. The house session today was brief in order to permit workmen to prepare the hall for the inauguration. The senate refused to accept a free conference report recommending salaries of $10 a day for house members and $8 for senators. The vote was 15 to 11.

55 UNEMPLOYED PUT TO WORK BY COMMITTEE

Employing funds appropriated by the R. F. C. for emergency relief in Eastland county during January and February, the Cisco Emergency Unemployment Relief committee today put 55 men to work at various projects.

The largest single project now under way is the construction of a road about the west end of Lake Cisco making that portion of the lake more accessible to fishermen, hunters and others. Brush is being cleared, rocks removed and a roadbed constructed.

Other workmen are setting back fences to widen the right-of-way on the Leary cut-off, now a state highway, while still others are employed in cleaning and improving drainage channels in the city.

The entire county was given a check for $32,000 to be used in such relief work during the remaining two winter months. The money was delivered through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Fort Worth last week. J. E. Spencer, county chairman, received it.

Cisco will receive about the same proportion of this fund as was received of the earlier appropriation spent during November and December. J. T. Elliott, is chairman of the local committee in charge of expenditure of the local fund. Other members of the committee are F. E. Harrell, secretary-treasurer, J. Collins, H. S. Drumwright and Philip Pettit.

REMOVE WOODEN INDIAN.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 16.—A wooden Indian which went to college has been removed from the campus of Washington University here by police, who expressed the belief college students removed it from the front of a cigar store and placed it there.

He'll Tell U. S. Japan's Stand

Count Aisuke Kabayan, above, has been named by the Japanese government as an official envoy to come to the United States and explain the Japanese attitude on the Manchurian situation. He is a member of the House of Peers and vice president of the Japan-America society.

RADIUM RIVAL IS DISCOVERED BY SCIENTISTS

BERLIN, Jan. 16.—The development through big voltage of a ray which may prove a substitute for radium, and in much stronger form than that possible with the present radium supplies, is described in a recent issue of the "Umschau," a scientific and medical weekly.

Professor Lange and Brasch, working in the laboratories of the A. E. G., German Electric Company, recently succeeded with a machine which sends 2,400,000 volts through a special vacuum tube, in breaking up atoms in six different elements, among them lead. The rays generated by this current were found to be similar to radium rays, but they had a much greater strength, corresponding to 10,000 kilograms of radium.

The effect of these "artificial radium" rays is quite different from ordinary X-rays. The magazine reports that tests were made by Prof. Ludwig Halberstadter of the Institute for Cancer Research of the University of Berlin, on mice, and it was found that whereas X-rays penetrated only one-tenth millimeter into the membrane, the "artificial radium" rays produced by the high voltage, reached a depth of six to seven millimeters.

Tests first were made on bacteria, blood, and then on mice and finally cancerous growths in mice. The magazine reports, with thousands of a ray lasting one thousandths of a second succeeding in halting progress of the growth, and when reported from four to six times, completely killed it.

Similarly Success. Similar success was reported from exposing the blood to the rays where results were obtained which would have required 12 to 18 hours radium treatment.

It is emphasized that while the experiments with animals has shown encouraging results, it still will be a long time before such experiments could be attempted with a human patient, and that at least five years observation would be necessary to determine whether the effect of the rays is permanent enough to establish them as a practical treatment.

Real Estate Sale Is Announced

Sale of a five-room residence and two lots at B avenue and 20th street to Mrs. A. V. Moseley for an unannounced cash consideration, was announced today by H. S. Stubblefield, as agent for B. C. Daniels, owner of the property. The transaction, Mr. Stubblefield said, was consummated last week.

SEN. SHEPPARD UPHOLDS 18TH AMENDMENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Senator Morris Sheppard, democrat, of Texas, co-author of the 18th amendment, today marked the 13th anniversary of national prohibition with a plea for the nation to uphold the constitution "in one of the most critical decisions of all history."

He said he would oppose resubmission of the amendment. The slight, gray-haired dry leader made his customary anniversary speech to a senate fast turning toward modification and repeal.

He argued prohibition is "the loftiest peak the march of man has reached" and its repeal "would be the beginning of the dismemberment of the soul of America" and would imperil economic recovery.

"Shall this nation retreat from an ideal?" he asked. "Thirteen years ago America planted the ideal of prohibition in the organic document of its being, the federal constitution. It is now called upon to reverse its action. A nation cannot trifle with its ideals," he said.

'WIRE TAPPING' CASES TRIAL BEGINS.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 16.—Trial of 14 persons on charges of conspiracy to violate prohibition laws filed after "wire tapping" by federal agents here last summer, began today in federal court.

Federal Judge Robert Irvin overruled without comment a motion to quash the indictments because the 18th amendment is "unconstitutional" and only a "noble experiment." "Whispering wires" of the liquor traffic here furnished federal agents sufficient information to crush three liquor rings in the southwest, authorities claimed after listening in for 26 days.

New Baseball Loop Tentatively Formed

LUBBOCK, Jan. 16.—Formation of a professional baseball circuit to include cities in West Texas and New Mexico, was tentatively agreed to today by representatives of four cities.

Wilbur C. Hawk, Amarillo publisher, was named president of the proposed West Texas-New Mexico league at yesterday's meeting here. The initial membership includes Amarillo, Albuquerque, Lubbock and El Paso.

Invitations probably will be extended San Angelo and Roswell, N. M., to make the league a six-town circuit. A second meeting will be held February 26th.

Of peculiar significance is the program of old square dances Dean Taylor has arranged to be staged prior to the inaugural reception. These dances have come down from Texas revolution days from the old Hog Eye community in Bastrop county. The story is told of a strolling fiddler who dropped in at the Lytton home in Bastrop county back in 1832, just one hundred years ago, and was persuaded to play for a dance. After the young people had been dancing for hours, they inquired if the fiddler couldn't play some other tune. He replied that "Hog Eye" was the sole selection in his repertory. Since that day, the community has been known as the Hog Eye community. On the night of the inaugural reception, dancers who are descendants of the original settlers of the community and who have inherited the square dances of a century ago from the fathers of the Texas republic will portray them for a modern generation. Elmo Newcomer, the cowboy fiddler from Bander, will bring his string band to play the old-time tune of "Arkansas Traveler," "Cotton-Eyed Joe," "Turkey-in-the-Straw," "Natches Under the Hill," "Billy in the Low Ground," "Money Musk," "Buffalo Gals," and others.

FORMER CISCO CITIZEN DIES IN LOUISIANA

Any citizen of Texas outside of Austin may obtain a free ticket to the reception and ball by applying to the desk clerk at the Driskill hotel or to the Austin Chamber of Commerce, Dean Taylor explained.

Dollar's Widow Is Threatened

Threatened with bombing unless she paid $5,000 to extortioners, Mrs. Margaret Dollar, above, is in seclusion with her family, under police guard. She is the widow of Captain Robert Dollar, Millionaire shipping magnate. Both her home in San Rafael, Calif., and the Dollar building in San Francisco would be blown up if demands were refused, a letter threatened.

SQUARE DANCE WILL FEATURE AUSTIN BALL

AUSTIN, Jan. 16.—In order to accommodate the large number of visitors who have signified their intention of attending the inaugural reception Tuesday evening, January 17, the doors of Gregory gymnasium at The University of Texas will be thrown open at 7 o'clock, with the old square dances which will feature the entertainment program scheduled to begin at 7:30 o'clock, according to T. U. Taylor, dean of the University College of Engineering, who is chairman of the reception committee.

In view of the fact that the governor and lieutenant governor will receive guests for only an hour, Dean Taylor has requested that those who expect to pass down the receiving line make their greetings "short and snappy." At 10 o'clock, modern dances will be started at downtown hotels, and the governor will go to greet guests at these places.

Of peculiar significance is the program of old square dances Dean Taylor has arranged to be staged prior to the inaugural reception. These dances have come down from Texas revolution days from the old Hog Eye community in Bastrop county. 20 DEGREES TEMPERATURE IS PREDICTED

DALLAS, Jan. 16.—Forecast of sub-freezing weather by tonight brought warning to Texas stock men to prepare for the second cold wave of winter that is sweeping southward from the Dakotas.

Temperatures of from 10 to 22 degrees were forecast for the panhandle tonight with 26 degrees predicted for lower west Texas by late Tuesday.

Colder weather which swept into east Texas today is expected to drop temperatures to 20 degrees by Tuesday night.

SECOND BODY LIFTED FROM LAKE WORTH

FORT WORTH, Jan. 16.—Grappling hooks lifted to the surface of Lake Worth today the body of Jack Webb, 37, Saginaw rural mail carrier, one of two persons drowned late yesterday when an overloaded boat capsized.

Howard Meggs, 23, a refinery employe, was the second victim. His body was recovered an hour after the boat overturned.

Three other persons were rescued as they clung to the craft. The party had set out in a motor-ed rowboat for a pleasure ride. About two miles from shore the boat tipped and began to fill with water. On the shore Sidney Moore, 25, and Russell Fitzgerald, 24, were scanning the lake with field glasses.

They saw the boat riders bailing frantically with a tin can and cupped hands. Moore and Fitzgerald rushed out in a motor boat but the smaller craft overturned before they arrived.

World's Fair Will Display Air Advance

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—A quarter of a century's progress in airplane construction and design will be shown in contrasting exhibits in the Hall of Fame at the Century of Progress.

Selected as the modern plane for this display is the new Boeing twin-engine monoplane, a fleet of which is being developed for coast-to-coast being completed for coast-to-coast by other mail passenger and express airways.

Of all-metal construction, the new transport carries ten passengers, 400 pounds of mail and crew, and crew of two pilots at a cruising speed of 155 miles per hour and top speed of 175 miles per hour.

The transport is able to fly five times as fast as the early type "flying machine" representing the pioneering days of aviation. The "first" plane is equipped with an engine of 16 horsepower, while the new transport has two Wasp engines developing 1,100 horsepower. The monoplane can carry 16 times as much as the old plane and is 16 times heavier. The 1933 type transport can reach an altitude of three and one-half miles above sea level, while the early day plane reached an elevation of less than 100 feet.

For the first time, people will fly to a World's Fair this year, and as one of the busiest air centers in the world, Chicago will be served by air lines operating in all directions. No major point in the United States is more distant than 24 hours from Chicago by scheduled air transport service. Travelers flying to Chicago from the East, West or Southwest will ride in sister ships to the 1933 model transport being displayed in the Century of Progress, for United Air Lines is placing a fleet of these new air liners in service.

Country Club Party Plans Are Made

Sharp reduction in commission rates on the sale of livestock at the Fort Worth market became effective today.

Rates of 18 per cent cattle car were reduced to a maximum of 15. Similar reductions were made for livestock driven to market pens.

The new schedule would mean a saving to Texas stock men of more than $25,000 annually on a normal market.

MITCHELL AND THE DOLLAR.

Stabilization of the American dollar in terms of foreign currencies is the recommendation passed out by a noted New York banker as a means of easing price pressure. Charles E. Mitchell is chairman of the National City bank of New York. He is said to have sounded "a moderately hopeful note at the annual meeting of the stockholders." He expressed his belief that the economic structure of the United States is essentially sound and that the integrity of the standard of values should be maintained. He advocated the re-establishment of a stable relationship between the dollar and foreign currencies, "thus relieving our price structure from the most destructive of all kinds of competition, namely, that of depreciating currencies of competing nations." He would not adopt either the course of attempting to withdraw behind Chinese tariff walls or that of entering into a competition in currency depreciation "of which the end is zero for all." Banker Mitchell has begun to realize that for the first time in the American history the growers of things between the Allegheny mountains and the Pacific ocean on the West and from the Canadian border on the North to the Mexican border on the South voted a second declaration of independence Nov. 9. All these American producers of farm wealth ask is justice and a fair share in the division of profits. In other words, to be placed on a parity with the maker of things. They were angry in November. They are ugly in January. They cannot be bluffed or cajoled.

DECLARE FOR "AMERICA FIRST."

"Buy American" is a slogan that appears to be marching around the American world. William Randolph Hearst is its foremost champion. George Horace Lorimer of the Saturday Evening Post is pushing the cause along. There are thousands of advocates of the plan. Of course, the plan is "buy American goods in preference to all others." The argument is that the European nations have banded against American products of ranch and farm and mill and mine. Texas is the Empire state of the West—of the American world for that matter; New York is the Empire state of the East. New York is the home state of Alfred E. Smith, Pres.-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, and of their successor in the office of governor, Herbert H. Lehmann. Well, the New York legislature is grinding. Democrats control the senate by two votes. Republicans control the house by two votes. Sen William T. Byrne, democrat, introduced a resolution endorsing the buy American plan. With a roar of applause the resolution was adopted. Then it was sent to the house. Without a dissenting vote the assembly adopted the Byrne bill and now the plan is on the way across the continent from the Canadian border to Mexico. This is a new era. There is a new civilization. Those who are moving with the procession of the live people now on earth are going to make history. Those who refuse to move with the procession are going to the graveyard.

OIL MAGNATE BOOSTER FOR ADVERTISING.

Advertising makes trade, and legitimate publicity spreads the news around the world. In California the head of the Associated Oil companies has made an announcement that he will spend $750,000 in advertising during 1933. He attributed much of the company's sales gain in 1932 to newspaper advertising. He declared sales showed an increase of about 10 per cent. His company has budgeted about $6,000,000 for additions and improvements for the new year. A splendid method for increasing sales is to go after the business. Printers' ink is the loudest talker in the world.

GOV. HORNER CALLS FOR SALES TAX.

Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois is a democrat. He defeated Republican Len Small by a huge majority. He swept into office the members of a democratic legislature. He has recommended to his lawmakers the sales tax plan as the most equitable of all forms of taxation. Gov. Mike Sennett Connor of Mississippi is swinging around the Lone Star commonwealth telling of the virtues of his tax plan. Lame duck lawmakers grinding away, and buck-passing most of the time, smashed the sales tax proposal. They do not know where they are going, but they do know they are on the way.

FRENCH ARMED FORCES BEST EQUIPPED IN WORLD TODAY

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN

United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Jan. 16.—France is the most peacefully-minded nation in the world today, yet at the present time she has the best-equipped army in Europe and the most formidable chain of fortresses—bristling with gun and bayonet—in human history. She has just placed an order to build the last word in naval death-dealing weapons, the 23,000-ton pocket-battleship Dunkerke.

This apparent contradiction towards disarmament so puzzling to the foreign mind, is quite simple and understandable to every Frenchman.

"The gold we are piling up in the Bank of France will be used to fight Germany," a Frenchman who had fought and been wounded in the World War, told me. But neither he nor anyone else in the country wants to be at war again with the hereditary foe across the north-east frontier.

Why, then, does the Republic go on training and preparing for the possibility of war?

It would be more accurate to say that France is preparing for the possibility of war.

World War Results

France emerged from the World War blood-drenched but satisfied. She had defeated her only enemy, snatched back the lost provinces of Alsace-Lorraine secured her share of the spoils of the German colonies, whereby she became the second biggest Empire in the world. Her devastated region, razed to the ground by four years of warfare, has been rebuilt in modern style and Germany has had to pay the bill. Germany money, too, paid for the destruction of the coal mines and factories in the North all now equipped with up-to-date machinery enabling them to compete with Germany.

Spirit of Peace

The spirit of peace reigns in the thoughts of the people but the powder factories, the steel works the dockyards clang and rattle as tanks, guns, aircraft, war vessels are hammered into shape and ranged up in readiness for action. The very reasons which give France cause for satisfaction make her uneasy and determined to be prepared.

France's position in Europe today is much like that of a rich man living amongst poor, envious neighbors. France has nothing to gain but much to lose by a new war.

The French viewpoint, is that the instigators of strife in Europe now are not the French people but the nations defeated in 1918.

"Germany," says the French, "secretly is preparing to attack us in order to wrest back the territory she lost, to rejoin her dismembered East Prussia to the homeland by abolition of the Polish corridor and to fly once more the German flag on the high seas."

Persistent Nightmare

Efforts by American and British statesmen and even by Germans themselves to disabuse the French mind of this persistent nightmare have failed. The argument put to the French has been this:

"It was the armaments race before 1914 which was the direct cause of the World war. If France remains as powerfully armed as she is today an armaments race can be the only result. You cannot expect your neighbor to be forever deprived of what you call defensive weapons so long as you remain with guns and tanks and bombers. She, too, has neighbors against whom she might want to defend herself."

The French reply to this is unwavering. "We admit," they say, "we have been spending $450,000,000 yearly on our armed forces that our new forts on the frontiers are costing us $240,000,000; that they will be the most efficient and most heavily armed in existence, that we have 500,000 men under arms. But we already have made arms sacrifices. We have cut down our conscript army from three years' service to a year and our metropolitan forces soon will be less than half-a-million."

Protective Measures

"We cannot move our fortifications in order to attack another nation, therefore they are purely defensive; in the present state of Europe we cannot dispense with any more bayonets and we need our navy to protect our colonies. If war should break out, we should require to protect lines of communication by sea to bring our colored troops from our colonies to aid us."

Briefly stated that is the French attitude. The only means of security France can think of at the moment is her army, navy, air force and land fortification. No Frenchman, except of the extreme Left wing, would abandon a single one of these unless compensating assurances of safety were forthcoming.

"We are ready to go further in disarmament if you give us security" is the persistent French cry. The answer to this is that the League of Nations, in which France is assured as Germany, of assistance in the event of attack by an aggressor exists, and that there is the Kellogg-Briand Pact. France holds that these are not enough. The other nations reply they can give no more. There is the dead-lock.

What will be the way out of the dead-lock? The solution remains with France. It remains to be seen whether sufficient pressure can be brought to bear on her to give way.

PARIS STYLES

PARIS, Jan. 16.—For cocktails and afternoon parties, the Princess, who was Donna Sveva Vittoria Colonna of Rome, chose a black crepe marocain dress with an openwork yoke resembling Richieu embroidery and short sleeves with a border of the same design.

This lovely blonde bride also selected for her trousseau an evening gown on this same order in pale blue marocain. It had long sleeves low the elbow was trimmed with the fur in triangles, and there was also a straight, tailored collar of it. The evening gowns in this particular youthful trousseau were gorgeous and yet very simple at the same time.

PARIS, Jan. 16.—Worth's "Dutch Boy" ski suit is the pride and joy of the younger generation of active young women and is having a delightful time at many fashionable resorts for winter sports.

It is made of a heavy dark blue flannel with trousers wide at the bottom and caught in to give the Dutch effect—and also to prevent the possibility of any stray flakes of snow getting in where they are not wanted. The jacket is waist-length, double breasted, with a notched collar and small revers. It is worn with a bright yellow and dark blue thin wool pullover with a wide scarf of the same colors which can be worn with a big bow at the throat! It's even more exciting than it sounds.

Worth has a marvelous assortment of thin wool scarves, wider than usual and with fringed ends. They come in combinations of the softest colors such as blue, white and gray; black, gray and pale yellow; brown, beige and soft orange—you get the idea? And the new sports knitted frocks and suits here, gay handkerchiefs and new bags would just make your mouth water to look at them!

While other playmates ran for aid, Edith braced her feet in grooves cut by an ice-cutting saw and pulled Amber from the water, which was 15 feet deep at that point.

BUCKERS NOT TRAINED SAYS RODEO MAN

RAPID CITY, S. D., Jan. 16. — Bucking horses used in rodeos and wild westshows, contrary to public opinion, are not trained, but "spoiled," according to Russ Madison, South Canyon rancher, who has handled many rodeos in the Black Hills.

Midnight, Five Minutes to Midnight, and Steamboat, who have held their own with the best cowboys in the west are "spoiled," he said. In other words, the horses are fearful of riders and men. They fight saddles and bridles. They are not to be broken unless the person in charge knows what he is doing. In all the years that Madison has handled horses, he said he has not known a horse that could not be broken if the rider finally brought it under subjugation.

Naturally "Ornery" According to Madison most of the horses used in rodeos come from the range and are just naturally "ornery." Bucking horses have good blood or they would not have the fire and ginger needed in the exhibition arena.

The show horses are allowed to run wild on the range. They usually are a part of the stock of the breeder of bucking horses, who takes no consideration of their worth as broken animals.

The buckler tries in every possible way to conquer the man who is attempting to ride it. When ridden once, it becomes easy for the next man.

Thrown Every Man Midnight, famous buckler of the McCarty and Elliot string of Chugwater, Wyoming, has thrown every man who has attempted to ride him and crippled several. He probably never will be ridden, Madison said, until he is much older and quieter. One of the best horses in South Dakota was killed last summer at Custer when it suffered a broken blood vessel.

Rodeo associations in the Black Hills prohibit the use of artificial means of stimulating buckers as they come out of the chutes, Madison said. On a few occasions electricity was used but it was prohibited.

Detroit Seeks Conventions

DETROIT, Jan. 16. — Detroit, encouraged by the $50,000,000 spent by visitors during 1932, seeks 50,000,000 convention delegates during 1933 to aid its merchants to fight off the depression.

Estimates by the Convention and Tourists Bureau indicate that every tourist-visitor spends $100 during a four-day sojourn.

The longest convention on record here during 1932 was the American Bowling Congress, which brought 10,000 visitors and lasted 40 days. This month the Highway and Building Congress is expected to attract 40,000 visitors, who will spend $3,000,000. Ten thousand delegates came to the National Dairies Exposition last October.

When they departed, Detroit hotels and business houses were $1,000,000 richer, according to questionnaires filled out by the delegates themselves.

The records show that nine medical conventions were held in the Motor City during the past year.

Ancient Elm Real Pioneer of West

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 16. — A mighty elm tree was felled here recently, which was a real pioneer of the west.

A count of the rings made by the cambium layers revealed that it was 197 years old before it was felled. It was cut down because linemen said it endangered the trolley car power lines.

Forestry experts say that a count of cambium layers, which make the rings in the trunk of a tree, is not always an accurate method of computing its age, but if its age was computed reasonably correctly it was a healthy youth of 40 at the time of the Revolutionary War.

It survived most of its fellow elms because it was included in city park property.

MENUS FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer COFFEE cakes have a strong appeal for most people and can easily be made in the home kitchen. Eggs, butter, sugar and imagination and time added to plain, ordinary bread dough will produce the most delectable coffee cakes at small cost.

If the dough is started early in the morning, the cakes will be ready for baking by lunch time or early afternoon. An extra amount of yeast is used to hasten the rising process.

If you have a rule for yeast bread using the sponge method, which uses less yeast and lets the sponge rise over night, add the sugar, shortening and eggs after the sponge has risen until light. Inexperienced bread makers will find the rule and method below very easy to follow.

Coffee Cake

Two cups compressed yeast, 1 1/2 cups milk, 3 eggs, 1 tablespoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup shortening, 4 1/2 cups bread flour.

Scaid milk in double boiler and cool to lukewarm temperature. Sift yeast cakes in 1/4 cup milk which has cooled and then add to rest of milk. Add eggs, sugar and salt and beat with a dozer beater until smooth. Add butter which has been softened but not melted. Add flour and mix until smooth. Turn onto a floured molding board and knead 10 or 15 minutes, adding flour to knead. Put into an oiled mixing bowl and brush with melted butter. Cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. The temperature should be kept about 80 degrees F. It will take about two hours for the dough to rise. Knead "down" and let rise again for one hour. Now the dough is ready to shape in any of the rings or cakes wanted.

Philadelphia Cinnamon Bun

Put dough into a floured board and roll out into an oblong sheet about 1/4 inch thick. Spread with softened butter and cover with 1/2 cup granulated sugar mixed with 2 teaspoons cinnamon. Sprinkle with 2 cups cleaned currants and roll up like a jelly roll. Roll firmly but be careful not to disturb the sugar and fruit. When rolled press edge down to prevent cakes at small cost.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Canned or sliced pineapple, cereal, cream, buckwheat pancakes, country sausage, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: English monkey, shredded cabbage salad, cinnamon bun, milk, tea.

DINNER: Salt codfish pie, buttered beets, grapefruit salad, whirling rolls, baked peach dumplings, milk, coffee.

enrolling. Cut into slices about an inch thick. Place in an oiled and floured pan cut side up. Cover with a clean towel and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, about one hour. Cook two cups sugar and 1 cup water until the sirup forms a flame straw color. Pour sirup over bun and put into oven. Bake one hour in a moderate oven—350 degrees F.

Whirling rolls are made of the same dough but without the cinnamon and currants. Roll the dough into a rectangular sheet twice as long as it is wide. Spread half the sheet with creamed butter and roll toward the center. Then turn upside down and spread remaining half with creamed butter and roll toward the center. This makes two rolls, each one like a jelly roll. Cut through both rolls in slices about an inch thick. Place in a baking pan and let rise until double in bulk. Bake 25 minutes in a hot oven.

BRIDGE STOLEN

RED OAK, Ia., Jan. 16. — Bandits it seems, are now walking off with 60,000-pound bridges. Or at least carrying them away in trucks. Robert B. Drake reported to police here that a bridge belonging to the Hunter Bridge and Iron Works, of Omaha, had been stolen near Ashland, Neb. A check revealed that the bridge had been transported through here in sections on large trucks the day after the robbery. No further traces have been found.

BLIND ELECTRICIAN

MARION, Ia., Jan. 16. — Blind since he was 11 years old, Roy Stanton, 44, has become one of this city's most expert electricians and plumbers. He awoke Christmas day 1898, to find himself blind. He attended a school for the blind at Vinton, Va., but disliked the broom-making trade he learned there. So he came home and started to tinker with electrical and plumbing apparatus. He now operates his own shop alone.

HOOKS AND SLIDES Henry L. Farrell

Kid Gleason Was Much Older Than That!

THEY said Kid Gleason was 67 years old when he died at his home near the Philadelphia ball park. He was older than that. He lived 100 years during the baseball season of 1919 and 1920 . . . and died a thousand deaths.

He ruled with an iron hand the greatest ball club ever put together . . . the old White Sox that turned black . . . He had to have an iron hand . . . the pay was not so hot . . . which made it easy for the gamblers to work on the boys . . . The Kid used to have a standing order to any member of the team . . . "If you want to fight, come to me" . . . he used to say in later years. "I was no juvenile, but I could move in and go to work in any man's fight."

Joe Jackson, running a pressing shop now in Savannah, Ga., refers fondly to the Kid as "Mist' Gleason" . . . and still declares his batting mark in the series proved that he had no hand in the throwing of ball games.

Bewilderment

THE Kid sat in his little office in Comiskey park after the first few games of that 1919 series . . . "I can't figure out what's the matter," said he dependently. "My club isn't playing ball . . . the best team is losing this series."

He had seen his men playing out of position . . . and how he must have suffered when he saw Eddie Cicotte run to pick off a throw for the plate that would have cut out a run! . . . still he couldn't believe that these men were crooked . . . the idea was too tremendously grotesque for him to accept.

The greatest ball club that ever was put together . . . and in 1920, even while it was conclusively proved they were trying to lose the pennant, they almost won it . . . The Kid went down in a heap during a 1920 series with the Yankees at the Polo Grounds . . . nerves, heart, his whole body finally cracked under the strain of the awful burden he was bearing . . . two of the very men who had helped to wreck him carried him into the clubhouse . . . and helped to place him in a cab for the hotel . . . and the team that could have saved the 1920 flag with its eyes shut managed to lose . . . it broke the Kid.

Mack Helps Rescue

HE tried to put himself together again . . . but it was a bitter battle . . . he was an old man, sick and tired . . . when he finally gave up in 1923 . . . and went back to his Philadelphia home . . . he refused to eat . . . would see no friends . . . couldn't sleep . . . couldn't sit, but was too weak to stand . . . he told Eddie Collins, "I was in one hell of a fix."

Comie Mack helped him to piece together his shattered soul . . . in 1925 he took him along as coach of the Athletics . . . Mack's kindly confidence restored the Kid's hope . . . the old fire returned.

He watched Lefty Grove, then king of the wild men, and one day, as Lefty delivered a fast one in practice, the Kid shouted "Hold that pose!" . . . then he walked out to the mound . . . placed a finger on Lefty's forehead and pushed him to the ground . . . that was how Grove learned to shorten his stride . . . and to acquire the balance and poise that made him great.

Affectionate Assault

COLLINS used to call him "Waldo" . . . and just for that he took plenty of cuffing around . . . and biting . . . which were some of the Kid's signals of affection . . . a swift smack in the pit of the stomach. During the 1913 training season at Pasadena, the Sox were billeted in cottages . . . several of them started the habit of being late for breakfast . . . the Kid invaded the cottages with a razor strap . . . all were punctual thereafter.

Rough . . . tough . . . survivor of a thousand battles . . . it is hard to believe that when the rookies gather in the south . . . the Kid won't be there.

SHEILA SHAYNE, 18, whose parents were well known vaudeville actors, is in New York looking for a job. Sheila is a dancer. In spite of the fact that she has spent almost her entire life on the stage her ambition is to marry and have a home like those she has seen in small towns in which she has played.

On a few hours' notice she is hired to take the place of DAISY GLEASON, another dancer, who has sprained an ankle. She goes to JOE PARIS' office in "Tin Pan Alley" to rehearse. There she meets TREVOR LANE and DICK STANLEY, both rich. Lane asks Sheila to dance at a party he is giving but she refuses, knowing that after a day of rehearsing and the performance that night she will be too tired.

Sheila goes to the theater. The show begins and she wins applause with her dancing. Suddenly she discovers Dick Stanley in the audience. He waits for her after the show and again urges her to come to Lane's party. Somewhat against her better judgment she agrees.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

SHEILA heard that ripple of laughter. She did not turn and so she did not learn the speaker's identity. But the words brought a chill about her heart. "Dick's girls are always pretty," the unknown woman had said. Of course such a young man as Dick Stanley must know many girls. He must be in constant demand at parties and dinners where there were beautifully gowned, beautifully groomed young women.

And say what you would clothes did make a difference! Look at what they could do for a newly discovered movie star. They had changed Norma Seabury into one short year from a pretty, ordinary little Brooklyn girl to a suave, sophisticated beauty who knew how to walk and talk, to rise from a chair and sit down.

These girls who were Trevor Lane's guests were not like Norma. Their glamour was more natural, less affected. They had been born to this life of luxury. Sheila looked about her at the blond, black and tiffin heads, the gleaming white shoulders accented against the trim black coats of the men. Some were dancing, some chatting. Laughter broke forth and trickled across the room in gentle, well-modulated ripples. Then the brilliant rustle of voices was suddenly hushed.

"There's a clever little girl for you," Dick was saying, clapping his hand so. Following his eyes toward a Japanese screen which half revealed a door into another room, Sheila waited expectantly. She had not heard an announcement, which had prompted Dick's word. Another little dart of jealousy shot through her. Here obvious! was an entertainer of whom Dick approved.

A hush fell and the girl stood before them. She was slender, not very tall, dressed in flesh-colored tights and a jeweled bodice. A silken fringe circled her waist. Her dark eyes sparkled in the delicate, piquant little face beneath a lovely pink silk wig. She looked almost like a small hour-doll. It was Frances Barton, the eccentric dancer.

"Dick promised that he would try to make you change your mind," Lane said.

Frances was the best in her line—the originator of a dozen routines so difficult that only a few of her imitators could follow them. She had been in half a dozen Broadway shows and was in one now. Like Sheila, she had come to the party following the performance.

SHEILA saw Dick Stanley's eyes light and his smile flash. His gaze was as ardent, as eager as it had been when he had turned toward Sheila herself. Hotly she told herself that to Dick Stanley she was just another girl. How could she have been so foolish as to believe that he was interested in her? Just because he had taken the trouble to call for her at the theater?

"She's great, isn't she?" Dick was saying, unconscious of the tumult he had caused in Sheila's heart. "You must meet her. I know you'll like her."

"Do you know her well?" Sheila asked. "Know her? I should say I do. Let's move forward. You don't want to miss this bit."

"I know her, too," Sheila said, trying to keep her voice steady. "And she is good, isn't she? There's no one else on the stage who can touch her. Frances is in a class by herself."

Dick eyed Sheila almost tenderly. "That's generous," he said, "from another dancer. Darned generous. But of course"—hastily—"you aren't the same kind of dancers. You are about the best I've seen in your line, you know." Sheila laughed a little dubious out of sight.

Woman Solon Will Not Wed

HAYS, Kan., Jan. 16. — Miss Kathryn O'Loughlin, new Congresswoman-elect from Kansas, always has been a strong advocate of farm relief, but she didn't have in mind anything like what a Missouri farmer boy wrote to her.

His letter said: "Dear Miss O'Loughlin: I will come straight to my object in writing you. Will ask you to marry an impoverished farmer boy. I would be overjoyed to have any kind of a letter from you."

Miss O'Loughlin has had three other proposals for marriage through in Texas, a banker in her own district and a wealthy retired farmer. "The cowboy said: 'I have been a cowboy since I was old enough to discard my high chair, and I think we'd get along fine. Besides, you have such a good face. You look like my sister. Let me know immediately if you will consider my proposal.'"

The banker suggested that Miss O'Loughlin would make an ideal stepmother for his motherless 12-year-old daughter.

But Congresswoman O'Loughlin is too busy with important legislative matters to bother with matrimony.

STOCK MARKET PUSHES AHEAD DURING WEEK

In its weekly review of business and financial conditions The Wall Street Journal says:

Nourished by advancing prices for bonds, the stock market pushed forward early in the week, but eased off late under profit-taking and selling. There was little news to generate interest, and the advance was based more on technical position than on any developments calculated to indicate a distinct change in the business trend.

Developments at Washington were not stimulating. Inflationary talk continued in the senate. As yet, however, no clear cut measure has been brought forth for consideration.

The immediate business news was so mixed that it gave no definite forecast of the outlook. Commodity prices worked lower. Electric output figures, for the three weeks ended January 7, made a better comparison with the corresponding period a year previous than in a long time. Carloadings indicated little. Until figures for the week ended January 14 are in hand, there will be no clear gauge of the traffic trend.

As a group, the railroad shares did well moving to within a short distance of the mid-November high. Buying has been based on a number of factors. One is the prospect that Congress may enact legislation to speed up railroad receiverships. Another is the anticipation in some quarters that railroad traffic, by late May at latest, will be running ahead of the similar period of 1932.

The chemical stocks continued in demand throughout the week. Allied Chemical, which has been a consistent leader of the market during every advance, showed independent strength and reached a new high on the movement, just under 90. Others in the group met buying on all reactions.

Coin store stocks were depressed by the receivership action against McLellan Stores. Oil stocks were neglected during the week. Motion picture company issues were disturbed by the recent reductions in seat prices, and the distinct falling-off in earnings.

Steel production at the start of the past week averaged 15 1/2 per cent of capacity for the industry, with United States Steel Corp. at 14 1/2 per cent and the independents at 16 per cent. A week earlier the industry averaged 13 1/2 per cent, with the big company at 13 per cent and the independents at 14 per cent.

The week's range of the Dow-Jones averages follows:

- 30 Industrials—High $64.35, low $62.31, last $63.18.
- 20 Railroads—High $29.52, low $28.32, last $28.86.
- 20 Utilities—High $29.05, low $28.35, last $28.70.
- 40 Bonds—High $80.63, low $79.72, last $80.52.

FRENCH OPEN WAR ON HIGH LIVING COSTS

By WALLACE CARROLL
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Jan. 16. — Forty million Frenchmen are pre-occupied this winter with one big problem—how to reduce the price of bread, butter and "biftek."

The people of France, almost alone in escaping the economic depression, have discovered they still are paying pre-depression prices for almost everything.

Prices in France are higher than in any other European country except Switzerland. With a few exceptions they also are above the level in the United States.

Much Profitteering.

Research by government experts has revealed widespread profiteering in the retail food trade, especially among butchers. One Paris neighborhood butcher, for instance, estimated his 1931 profits in his income tax returns at $100,000.

Veal roast in Paris costs 45 to 55 cents a pound, beef roast 65 cents, rumpsteak ("biftek") 50 cents, lamb roast pork 35 cents. An entire lamb can be bought for $2 on a farm, but a leg of lamb weighing a little over four pounds costs $2.16 here.

Bread costs about four cents a pound, butter over 50 cents, eggs 64 cents a dozen, milk seven cents a quart, and that other necessity of life—beer—seven to 20 cents a quart. Ordinary table wine is sold for 12 to 25 cents a quart.

Fruits Costly.

Apples and pears, of the inferior domestic variety, cost 13 cents a pound, oranges 15 cents. Spinach is five cents a pound, carrots five cents, tomatoes 10 cents, French beans 14 cents.

Flour sells for six cents a pound, sugar seven cents, salt three cents coffee 55 cents.

BIG DAM CHATTER

By FRANK LANGSTON

I might have known I ought to keep my nose out of girls athletics. In Friday's column I mentioned some of them, which was what got me in trouble.

In Saturday's mail came a letter from a Lobo Queen of 1926 that said, in part:

"In mentioning the Queen Stars of yesteryear it seems rather odd that you should omit the names of Theo Burkett and Ruth Huestis, who if you remember were responsible for Cisco's victory over Atlanta.

In retrospect it seems that these two girls stopped many plays at center that would have been converted into points had the ball been allowed to reach the much discussed Allday sisters for on that memorable occasion our guards apparently were unable to function as is expected of a Lobo Queen."

Yes, it is odd that I omitted the names of these two stars, isn't it? I did not realize it myself until the letter came, and then I looked up the column to see if their names had been left off, and sure enough, they had.

A sports writer is always supposed to have an alibi for anything that happens—that's why he is a sports writer. I might have said that in the rush to finish the column and write a society column and get an ad for the business end of the paper I omitted the names. No, we're not fighting on the Daily News taking the credit, or discredit, for this column, I ought to create an appearance doing something to keep busy.

Not that that was the reason for omitting the two names. I simply missed them in checking over the list of Queens of former days.

In rummaging through the files of The Daily News for an account of the state girls tournament held here March 18, 19, and 20, 1926, I came across a story by another sports writer, who spoke of the "super-human efforts of Ruth Huestis" and praised Theo Burkett highly for her work at center.

Two such stars as these belong on the all-time honor roll of Lobo Queens. Indeed, Ruth, at side center, has been referred to as the most valuable players ever had.

My correspondent, who took me to task for omitting the two names from the list, ended her letter with the hope that Cisco will again have a team worthy of the name "Queens." So do we all. If we are going to have a team, let's have the best. Certainly the name of "Queens" represents that in Texas high school girls basketball.

By a unanimous vote, the committee decided that there would be no ribbons, medals, banners or trophies given this year. Winners will receive certificates of award in each event. This decision was necessary because of financial conditions and because the league is operating this year on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The following member schools were assessed as follows to defray the expenses of the 1933 meet:

Cisco, $10; Ranger, $10; Eastland, $10; Rising Star, $5; Gorman, $5; each class B school, $2.50; each rural school, $1.

Thanks are extended by Director General Henry Collins, personally, to the good people of Cisco and especially to Supt. R. N. Cluck, for their voluntary act of kindness and generosity in assuming the old debt which has been carried from year to year by the interscholastic league, thus enabling the league to start now with a clean sheet this year.

It is hoped that the track meet will be well attended and that every one attending will consider themselves the guests of Olden. Every courtesy and consideration will be extended to them by the Olden community, who feel honored and indeed glad to be the hosts to the visiting teams and contestants.

So Tired and Nervous She Couldn't Sleep Well

"I was in a very nervous condition," writes Mrs. J. S. Odom, of Waycross, Ga. "I did not sleep well at night. I would get up in the mornings feeling all tired and worn out. My appetite was poor. My mother-in-law thought Cardui would help me. After I began taking it my appetite increased. I rested better at night. I kept taking Cardui until I felt well and strong. I know it did me a lot of good. It is splendid for nervousness and other troubles that young women have."

Cardui is sold at drug stores here.
