ACTION ON RELIEF BILL SPEEDED UP

No Settlement Reached on Chamber of Commerce Budget

AGREEMENT TO BE ARRANGED BY COMMITTEE

Failing to come to any agreement in their joint session last night the city commission and the chamber of commerce concluded negotiations at a late hour and adjourned to leave in the hands of a committee from the chamber's board of directors and the commission itself the prospect of ultimate agreement upon reduced appropriations.

The committee was named by the directors in a brief session that following the audience with the commission. R. L. Poe, P. L. Ullom and E. P. Crawford form the committee. These three will take a matter up with the commissioners at an early date with a view to reaching a mutual agreement.

Meanwhile spokesmen for both the city commission and the chamber of commerce assured G. W. Colburn, band director, who was present, that his salary would be paid.

This was the issue out of which the present negotiations grew. The city commission, faced with the necessity of cutting down expenses to keep within an income seriously curtailed by the depression, cut the chamber's appropriation effective July 1 from $8,000 a year to $400 a month for the remainder of the term. Commissioner Henderson said last night that the chamber has already spent almost all of the two-month fund permitted it under the creative ordinance on the basis of 1931 taxes paid to the present date and the appropriation of $400 per month is considered an advance upon funds not yet collected but appropriated in an effort to keep the chamber alive through the present distressed period in the hope that conditions will shortly improve to a point where larger appropriations can be made. He urged that the chamber of commerce cooperate with the commission.

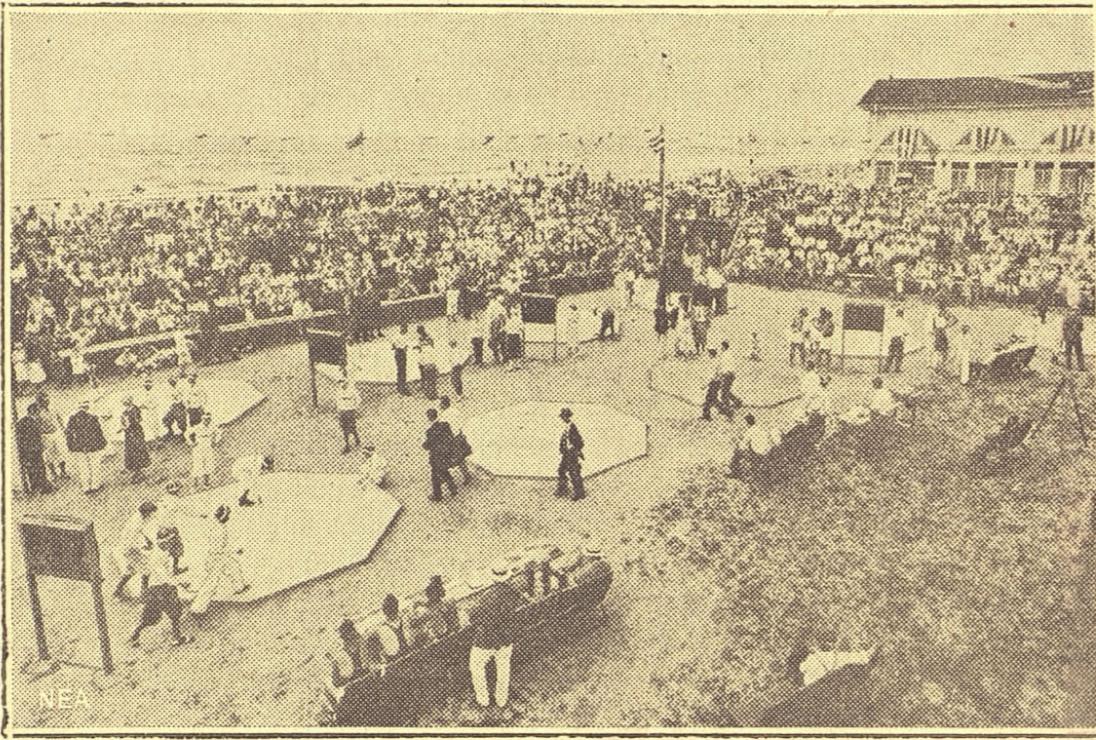

Commissioner Elliott, who had been delegated spokesman for the commission, appealed to the board to cut down its expenses to a point where it could carry on within the decreased appropriation and invited it to inspect the records at the city hall for evidence of economy measures introduced by the commission. Probability that the city would not be on a cash basis after October 1 was stressed by the commissioners. The board in an effort to bring its expenses within its allowance had eliminated the band from its budget, declaring that it could not carry on its work under the restricted appropriation and maintain the band at the same time. This act brought forth a great public protest and led to negotiations between the two bodies, the directors requesting a restore the band.

Commissioner Elliott, speaking for the commission, read a revised budget which he said had been prepared by the commission as a suggestion at the request of members of the chamber of commerce. This suggested budget, eliminating certain items of expenditure now borne by the chamber, notably the salary for a stenographer, and reducing estimates for a number of other expenditures provided for maintaining the chamber and the band at a total monthly expense of $425. He said that no formal action had been taken by the commission toward appropriating an extra $25 per month, but indicated that some tacit understanding had been reached, at least to the extent where the compromise could be suggested to the chamber as a likely basis for agreement.

Although statements of various members of the board indicated a willingness to meet the commission upon the suggested compromise their discussions tended to the contention that there should be a small margin of appropriation above the amount actually needed for operating expenses. Some suggested that the total appropriation be placed at $450 per month if the commission could possibly do so.

Red Cross Question. At this juncture a question was raised as to the economy of eliminating the stenographer's salary from the payroll, some of the directors taking the position that to do so would cripple the efficiency of the chamber by forcing the secretary to do this work. This, they argued, would be in effect employing a $150 per month man to do the work of a $30 a month stenographer. This question quickly injected the Red Cross issue into the discussion.

Here's Where You Have to Know Your Marbles

CHANGE TIME ON CONTRACT FOR GARBAGE

The city commission, meeting in regular session last night prior to the joint meeting with the chamber of commerce, decided to change the time for letting contract for garbage collection from November to August. This action was taken by unanimous vote in order to allow time for unsuccessful bidders, most of whom farm, to arrange their affairs prior to the beginning of fall. The change was suggested by Commissioner Elliott, of the department of sanitation and public health, who said that the holder of the contract this year wanted to farm in the event he is successful in retaining the contract next year and that if he had to wait until November to know it would be too late to make arrangements. The contract will still go into effect on January 1, as usual, however.

A report from Health Officer Dr. W. P. Lee showed that health conditions in the city are excellent. More than 450 injections of diptheria anti-toxin, supplied by the state department of health, have been given children in Cisco free, he said. Three hundred of these were given Tuesday a week ago and another 150 yesterday. He stressed the value of this preventive treatment in guarding against the disease.

He also requested that citizens take upon themselves added vigilance toward the detection of standing water in which mosquitoes might breed. He said that Commissioner Elliott and himself do not reveal the names of citizens informing them of the whereabouts of water, but that it is absolutely necessary to keeping down mosquitoes that such information be given the department. During the recent heavy rains, he said, it is a physical impossibility for them to locate all of the standing water and the cooperation of the citizens must be depended upon.

Matters of tax adjustments, approval of bills and other routine matters occupied the remainder of the brief session.

REPEAL BILL INTRODUCED BY SEN. GLASS

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Sen. Glass, D. Va., today introduced a resolution calling for repeal of the 18th amendment and substituting a plan whereby the sale of intoxicants in saloons would be prohibited throughout the country and other questions of liquor control placed in the hands of the states. Glass has been known as a dry, but recently stated he would vote for modification of the dry laws to legalize beverages of a non-intoxicating alcoholic content.

Sen. Norris, R. Neb., prevented action on the Glass resolution. Glass had asked unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

13 CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS IN PLACE ONE

By CORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN, July 13.—The democratic primary election offers the names of 13 persons from which the voters may choose their nominee for Congress at large place one. Many of the 13 are well known.

Among them, two women candidates stand directly for repeal. Mrs. Alex Adams of San Antonio in a platform pamphlet printed before the democratic convention in Chicago, said she was for the 18th amendment and law enforcement. When the democrats adopted their "dripping wet" platform, she exercised her woman's prerogative changed her mind, and is now "as wet as anybody."

Mrs. Ida L. Darden of Fort Worth launched her campaign for repeal of the amendment and pending that, modification of the Volstead act, long before the national democratic convention declared itself. Expressions from others are: George B. Terrell, Alto: "I am opposed to fusing over something to drink while people are starving. I have always opposed the saloons but prohibition is not a test of one's democracy and should not be injected into this campaign to overshadow great economic issues."

Favors Submission. Lawrence Westbrook, Waco: "I am in favor of submission of proposed repeal of the 18th amendment either to the people or to constitutional conventions, preferably the latter. If the matter is submitted, I shall advocate repeal of the 18th amendment and the substitution of some other method of control which would involve regulation within the several states individually and which would provide for such inter-state regulation as to make state control effective."

Weldon Reed, Austin: "I favor repeal of the 18th amendment as the only means of accomplishing the relief which I believe the people of the country want and should have. This does not mean that I would like to see the return of the open saloons, but it is my belief that the method of resubmission or referendum is an evasion of the issue and not meeting the situation squarely."

Chesley W. Jurney, Waco: "I favor or Congress submitting to the people through constitutional conventions, an immediate repeal of the 18th amendment. If Congress submits the matter, I will advocate immediate repeal of the 18th amendment. As repeal of the 18th amendment will require some time, I favor the immediate modification of the Volstead act, legalizing four per cent beer and fourteen per cent wine, and removing the present unnecessary restrictions on medicinal liquors."

"Let the People Rule." Sherman Nelson, Conroe: "I believe that the question of prohibition or its repeal should be taken out of politics. For this reason I will vote and work for any measure that will submit the matter to the people by referendum or otherwise. Being a

TOBACCO HEIR SLAYING IS MYSTIFYING

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 13.—Investigators tried to learn today why three persons who searched the room in which Smith Reynolds was shot failed to find the death gun until five hours later when one of the three stepped on the weapon lying in front of the door.

That is just one of several puzzling facts revealed in secret testimony in the investigation as obtained today by the United Press. Among other questions that confused the investigators and the coroner's jury, which ruled that the youthful heir to millions "died at the hands of a person or persons unknown," were these:

Why was Mrs. Reynolds bedroom slippers beside the bed of her husband's young friend, Albert (Ab) Walker, and her sweater in his bathroom?

How could the gun have been to the right of the bed near the door while the cartridge was found on the opposite side of the bed? How could the bullet range slightly downward through Smith Reynolds' brain from his right temple to below his left ear and yet pass through a screen door six feet two inches from the floor?

Why was there no bloody trail from the spot where Smith was shot to the place where he was placed in the automobile for the trip to the hospital where he died in one room as his wife and his friend Walker sat in another?

Possible Explanations. There are possible explanations to the last two questions not developed in the secret testimony revealed to the United Press.

Had Reynolds stood near the foot of the bed in the room where he was shot, lifted the gun to his right temple as his head dropped slightly forward the bullet would have coursed through his head and the screen door in accordance with the evidence. Testimony was to the effect that Walker and Libby Holman Reynolds, both under influence of liquor, carried the wounded youth to the automobile. Smith's head rested in the arms of one part of the time and on Walker's shoulder the remainder of the time. Absence of a bloody trail could be easily explained under such circumstances.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE ARE IN ACCORD

LONDON, July 13.—A cordial agreement between Great Britain and France on outstanding economic problems was announced in the house of commons today by Sir John Simon, foreign secretary.

It is a four-point accord designed "to promote the spirit of cooperation of Lausanne."

Official quarters took energetic steps to explain the agreement with France was not connected with war debts due the United States although reparations have a part in the agreement.

Charges of possession of intoxicants for purpose of sale have been filed against R. C. Adams, of Dothan who was arrested yesterday afternoon at Dothan by Deputies Sheriff Steel Hill and Loss Woods, accompanied by Chief of Police Daniels and Police Officer Gustafson. The officers reported finding approximately 200 bottles of beer. Adams was lodged in city jail awaiting transportation to Eastland.

LYNN SAYS CHARGES ARE RIDICULOUS

AUSTIN, July 13.—Statements of a gubernatorial candidate that the report of an audit of the state highway department is being suppressed and that a shortage of $100,000,000 exists in the highway department funds, were challenged by State Auditor Moore Lynn this week. State Auditor Lynn said:

"The statements being made on behalf of one of the candidates for governor to the effect that the audit of the highway department has been suppressed and that there is a shortage of one hundred million dollars in the highway funds are too utterly ridiculous to be worthy of consideration. Statements of this kind are based either on a lack of information or a contemptuous disregard for the facts.

MISS EARHART FAILS TO SET NEW RECORD

NEWARK, N. J., July 13.—America Earhart Putnam, who soared off the Pacific coast at 5:11 p. m. EDT., yesterday, spanned the continent successfully by plane and reached Newark airport at 12:17 p. m. EDT. today.

She has been forced to alight at Columbus, O. this morning to get more fuel thereby shattering her hopes for a non-stop flight. The elapsed time was 19 hours and six minutes, she thereby falling to set a new record for the coast to coast journey.

LIIONS DISCUSS PROGRAM FOR FRIDAY NIGHT

The program prepared for the Lions club today by W. J. Leach was shoved aside at the luncheon in enthusiastic consideration of plans for the business men's smoker which the club will sponsor Friday evening on the roof garden of the Laguna hotel. Ticket committees reported sale of about 95 tickets and 100 more ordered printed as prospects for an attendance in the neighborhood of 200 were reported.

The menu committee's report was received with praise for the character of food to be provided and all other committees reported satisfactory progress.

Rev. E. S. James and George Bryant, of Eastland, were guests of the club.

NEW DRAFTS PASSED BY BOTH HOUSES

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The new draft of the $2,122,000,000 unemployment relief bill was passed by the house today with record-breaking legislative speed.

The senate passed a similar measure last night and a speedy compromise was expected. This will produce a measure acceptable to President Hoover who vetoed the original bill.

WAR DEPT BILL IS PASSED

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Congress today completed the year's fiscal legislation when the senate passed the $389,000,000 war department appropriation and sent it on its way to the white house.

The house broke a deadlock on the bill which had existed for weeks by agreeing to elimination of a provision which would have reduced the number of officers by 2,000 in the interest of economy. The senate today yielded several points to the house in order to reach a complete agreement.

In brief the new bill provides: 1. A $300,000,000 Reconstruction Finance fund for loans to states to relieve distress. 2. An additional $1,500,000,000 corporation fund to extend loans for self-liquidating construction work. 3. A $322,000,000 appropriation for a government construction program. This building work can, however, only be undertaken with the consent of the secretary of treasury.

New Voting Box For East Cisco

Through the courtesy of Will Brown, the front part of the Home Furniture company, on D avenue, will be used as the voting box for the East Cisco precinct in the democratic primary July 23. It was announced. The upper story of the stone building occupied by the Cooper cafe has hitherto been used and the move has been made to eliminate the necessity of climbing the long flight of stairs to reach the box. West Cisco voters will go to the city hall, as usual.

TO LIFT MORTGAGE ON GERMANY.

Lausanne has spoken. Germany's post war reparations bill, fixed after the war at nearly $65,000,000,000, was cut to about $750,000,000 in the greatest single financial deal in history. This, according to the correspondents, who watched the proceedings in Switzerland, amounts to "about one cent on the dollar." Germany agreed to put up approximately $750,000,000 in bonds in lieu of further reparations payments. She dropped her insistence on deleting the war clause of the Versailles treaty and France accepted the compromise. Now, bear in mind credit for this mortgage lifting episode of history is given to Prime Minister James Ramsay MacDonald. Moreover, he is said to have finally cut through the persistent deadlock between Germany and France and paved the way for war debt negotiations with the United States.

Speaking of reparations, Germany has paid and paid and paid. Her foreign colonies were taken over by Great Britain and France and Italy and Belgium. Her incomparable cable lines were a part of the loot given to the European allies in the division of the spoils. Her merchant marine was taken over by the victors. Her navy was dismantled. Her army was demobilized and all that was given to the republic that came in the wake of the empire was the right to establish police protection for a new nation with a population of more than 60,000,000.

Place this in the scrapbook of memorable events. In the division of that loot the American people never accepted—nay, they did not even demand—spoils of the value of an American dollar. Since the signing of the treaty of peace in reparations the Germans have paid billions on the account. Now a compromise has been made and a guarantee has been given by the German republic that the reparations slate will be wiped clean by the payment sometime in the future of another $750,000,000 penalty exacted as the price of defeat in the World war. As for the American people they hold the bag. They floated and sold to their own people liberty bond issues which must be redeemed some day. Financiers say that the total amount, speaking of the present, principal and interest to be paid in the future will go beyond the $16,000,000,000 mark. "What price glory" for American arms? And did our participation in the affairs of European nations make the world safe for democracy or democracy safe for the world?

Cotton under cultivation July 1, as reported by the department of agriculture, totals 37,290,000 acres or 9.5 per cent less than a year ago when 41,189,000 acres were in cultivation.

European nations have lifted the mortgage ban on Germany. That is instead of being taxed in all the years to come $65,000,000,000 Germany must pay three quarters of a billion.

Now, having spent billions on the European nations while the World war was on and having loaned European nations and Europeans billions since the treaty of peace was signed, why not a smashing of tariff walls the world wide over in order that the staples of the American farmer may find a market under the skies of the world and the manufactures of America may be placed on the bargain counters of the world. Those who say to the foreigners, all foreign nations, "we expect you to buy from us but we will not return the favor by buying from you," should get the dust out of their eyes.

ROCKEFELLER AND "A BETTER WORLD."

John D. Rockefeller has celebrated his 93rd birthday. He is one of the most remarkable men that the American world has known. He began life without a dollar in his pocket. He discovered and developed the petroleum industry. He founded the greatest organization of his kind in existence. Passing his 93rd milestone he issued a birthday message expressing his faith that prosperity will return to the United States. His is not a doddering personality. He is not bordering on the brink of senility. He traveled a long, long road. He saw this nation grow from a tiny republic to the greatest in the history of civilization. He has had his critics and they were raw ones. He has contributed to the welfare of the civilized world and rich has been his contribution. He has lightened the load of millions the wide world over. Those who have the inside figures say that this first American billionaire in his time has given a billion dollars to the cause of education, to the cause of charity, to the cause of all welfare movements, to the establishment of foundations which have sent forth their scientists and sanitarians and surgeons and nurses to eradicate disease and rob humanity of its terrors. He hopes to live a hundred years. Why not? His message follows:

"These are days when many are discouraged. In the 93 years of my life depressions have come and gone. Prosperity has always returned and will again. And now on this, my 93rd birthday, I desire to reaffirm my belief in the fundamental principles upon which this country was founded—liberty, unselfish devotion to the common good, and belief in God. As a nation, looking proudly to our past where it has been noble, and recognizing with humility our mistakes of extravagance, selfishness and indifference, let us with faith in God, in ourselves and in humanity, go forward, courageously resolved to do our part worthily in building a better world."

A noble sentiment to say the least. A new civilization has been ushered in. An old civilization crashed and died on the battle-plains of Europe. This civilization will be greater and more human and less selfish civilization than time has known. On the brink of the grave the first American billionaire sent his message to his fellow countrymen. There are no birds in last years nests. There is a dead past.

There is a future and that future will be bright with promise for the boys and the girls, the young men and the young women of today who are facing the battles of life in the broad open highway of activities where all must travel "from the cradle to the grave."

What the Parties Need Most Right Now Is Treasure Detectors!

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Rising livestock prices stimulate enthusiasm throughout the agricultural belt and throughout urban districts which depend primarily upon the farmer for their support. Visions of increased purchasing power among the agricultural population offers prospect for a restoration of prosperous times. The farmer's buying power is the determining factor behind any general economic change.

Steers rose to a new high for the year on the St. Louis market yesterday. Best stock brought over $9 per 100 pounds. Hogs wavered but closed at a level far above the year's low.

Growers about Cisco who have swung onto their herds in a hopeless determination to salvage at least the hides had cause to be jubilant today. At the prices paid yesterday in the big centers they can make a profit on their stock, considering the low cost of calves and feed.

Rising livestock prices may be indicative of strengthening markets for other agricultural commodities. The reparations agreement between conquered Germany and the Allies of the World War at Lausanne last week is expected to have an encouraging influence upon commodity prices. It is a step toward restoring European purchasing power so that Europe can buy our cotton and other agricultural products. If a general smashing of tariff barriers were to follow the way would be further cleared toward a profitable international commerce. Other difficulties that stand in the way would dissolve in the strengthening flow of trade.

Farm crops this year near Cisco and over the nation at large have been produced upon a minimum price expense. Most farmers are living at home. They have stocked their larders with home-grown foods. They have plenty to eat. Their livestock has plenty to eat. They have gone down to rock bottom and established themselves on a stable, live-at-home program. With any reasonable increase in commodity prices they stand to glean a profit. A profit for them means a profit for everybody.

Perhaps, at last, we have a visible rift in the clouds of depression. Prosperity may be wrecked at the top, but it must return from the bottom. There is no such thing as manufactured prosperity. It must have a stable foundation.

Discussing the probable need for relief in Cisco next winter City Commissioner J. T. Elliott said there is going to be a comparatively light demand for food. The welfare association, which Elliott heads, considers its main problem will be one of supplying clothing and warmth. He quoted a remark he overheard which concisely sets forth the situation:

"There are going to be more fat naked folks in the country next winter than you ever saw."

That is, of course, in case the improvement in economic conditions foreshadowed by rising agricultural prices does not materialize. At that, however, it is going to take considerable time to ameliorate the consequences of three years of hard times. The country isn't going to zoom out of the doldrums like it zoomed into them. But if we feel an improvement we can stand a lot of slow travelling.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)
WASHINGTON—Big, bald, genial James A. Farley, the fast-thinking, fast-trading Irishman who is chairman of the New York Boxing Commission, has brought his man safely through the elimination bouts on his first entry into the arena of national politics.

Now come the finals with Jim managing one of the two contestants in what may be a presidential battle of the century—Roosevelt vs. Hoover.

He is sure to do some splendid work in his new high post as national chairman and campaign manager of the Democrats. He may make some tactical blunders which will tax his demonstrated facility for leaping quickly from his own messes, but he is a fellow with a flare for political success and he is likely to be the most popular national chairman anyone will be able to recall.

"Grand Line of Blarney"

NEARLY all the most important men in the Democratic party, along with the shrewd, hard-boiled, powerful machine bosses who usually dictate nominations, have just been licked, if not outsmarted, by this newcomer on the national scene who planned, organized and supervised the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Energy, alertness, directness, sternal good humor, square-shooting, quick political sense and a grand line of blarney which makes nearly everyone his friend were the chief qualities which enabled Farley to execute that superb performance.

More than six feet tall, only 44 years old, he has the build of a football player; blue eyes, white outlying hair, a boyish complexion, a boyish smile and the friendliest of manners.

Neither Drinks Nor Smokes

HE doesn't drink nor smoke, but he chews gum on any and all occasions—chews it ferociously and conspicuously, even on the platform as he brings his candidate Roosevelt forth to address the convention.

His extraordinary memory for names and faces was demonstrated a hundred times a day during the convention, as the important and less important Democratic politicians of the south and west poured into his headquarters.

After Roosevelt's re-election by 725,000 majority as governor of New York in 1930, Farley said

Roosevelt would be the next president. He began, as chairman of the New York state Democratic committee, to write thousands of letters.

30,000 Miles in Six Weeks

A YEAR ago this month the Democrats began to meet Jim in a big way. He traveled 30,000 miles in six weeks, once making 19 states in 20 days, giving everyone he met a plain heart-to-heart talk on why he believed Roosevelt was the best man to nominate and the easiest to elect. He built up a card index of six or seven thousand names of the folks he had met and undertook to maintain correspondence with them.

He worked with incredible speed and energy. And Roosevelt came to the convention with a substantial majority of delegates.

Farley was still green at national politics and sometimes he blundered. He let others lead him off on the wrong foot in the proposal to abandon the old two-thirds rule and he allowed certain of the party's loose-mouths, more loud than important, to grab too much limelight at Chicago.

But he delegated important work to some good men, such as Bruce Kremer of Montana, Dan Roper and Homer Cummings, veterans who wound up their job by pulling out all the stops on the old Wilson idealism in the critical drive for the Texas and California delegates.

The Chicago Strategy

FARLEY must have worried frightfully after that third ballot and adjournment. He had held the delegates all night, believing the band wagon rush would start. But the opposition was intensely bitter and W. G. McAdoo hated Roosevelt because of his management of Al Smith's 1924 campaign.

While those best qualified went to work on Speaker Garner and McAdoo, Farley was taking Cermak of Illinois, Tom Pendergast of Missouri and the Indiana bosses into camp on the representation that Roosevelt would eventually have Garner's delegates.

Through all that day Farley outwardly was his smiling, optimistic self. And as soon as the nomination was over Farley was out among the governor's bitter enemies, patting them on the back, trying to welcome them into the campaign.

the joint legislative organization-efficiency committee.

One part will bring in far reaching reforms, reorganization, regrouping consolidation and elimination of state departments, bureaus and agencies. Just how extensive this will be hasn't been realized yet; but the Texas reorganization system will likely resemble that of New York, where over a hundred agencies were reduced to less than half the original number. Such a comprehensive, scientific regrouping has been urged by Governor Ross S. Sterling. The committee has had the help of the Grifenhagen firm of efficiency experts. The other section will apply the same principles to the regrouping of county functions throughout the state, and will propose to eliminate some county offices entirely, and to consolidate others and rearrange the duties and jurisdiction of still others.

The organization-efficiency committee will have its report ready by the time of the prospective fall session of the legislature; and some of its proposals may go before the legislature in time to provide their economies and tax relief in 1933.

School people of every section of Texas will take advantage, while in the university summer school, to get acquainted with State Supt. C. N. Shaver, and to put their shoulders to the wheel for his election to the office he now holds by appointment. He was named a short time ago to succeed the late S. M. N. Marrs. He brought to the office the reputation of one of the state's foremost educators, and from his service in the legislature, a true friend of education all up and down the line.

Those who are working for public education in Texas have been greatly reassured by Gov. Ross Sterling's firm delegation that the $17.50 per capita state apportionment will be retained next year for public school instruction, regardless of the cutting and slicing of other public costs.

"To my notion a well known newspaper publisher has made a correct diagnosis of why business conditions are what they are today. He says, 'The minds of too many men are confused. There are too many leaders standing still, arguing, apparently waiting for some one to produce a magic formula, which will restore conditions to a sound basis.'"

AUSTIN, July 13.—Two reports will head up in Austin soon that mean many thousands of dollars' savings to the people of Texas in the future.

One is of reforms in the fee system of paying county officers. It follows work done by the senate fee committee already saving the state an actual $500,000 a year in lessened claims of the multitude of county fee officers.

The other is a two-fold report of

Allred Defends His Record at Granger

GRANGER, Tex., July 13.—"The attorney general is the people's lawyer. That office was created for the purpose of defending the people of the state against special interests and protecting at all times the interests of the state," declared James V. Allred in an address to a large picnic crowd at Granger yesterday.

"My public acts are a matter of official record. It is for the people of Texas to judge whether my record during the eighteen months I have held that high office justify my retention for a second term."

"The elements opposing my election are composed almost entirely of special interests whom by reason of my sworn duty I have had to prosecute in the courts. Infamous charges have been made by those seeking my defeat, and highly derogative statements have been made in campaign literature which has been scattered by truck loads throughout the country."

"I am confident that the people of Texas will disapprove the unfair tactics being used against me and ask an overwhelming vote of confidence and approval at the coming primary."

wants the job of Criminal District Attorney of Eastland County, Texas.

He has never before sought or held elective public office. He is 41 years old. He was a farmer 21 years; a teacher 6 years; a soldier nearly 2 years; and a lawyer 12 years. Eastland county has been his home for 26 years.

You are earnestly solicited to help, both by speaking a kind word for him, and by casting your vote for him on election day.

If you will help him get that job, he certainly will appreciate it.

ENJOY CLEAN, COOL ELECTRIC COOKERY THESE HOT SUMMER DAYS

During these hot summer days wouldn't it be glorious to spend just a few moments in a cool, comfortable kitchen—preparing your foods for cooking—and then entrust the tiresome "pot-watching" to an automatic servant?

When you have a modern Electric Range in your kitchen you can do just that! For once you've adjusted the electric Timer and oven Heat Regulator you can put your dinner on and forget about it... secure in the knowledge that your meal will cook steadily, evenly, until it is done to perfection—when the cooking will be automatically shut off.

Think of it... your meals ready at just the time you want them, cooked just as you like them... and your time your own!—And because electric heat is under absolute control, and applied only to its job of cooking, your kitchen will be clean and cool at all times, and your pots and pans will stay clean and glistening as new.

Ask for a complete and interesting demonstration TODAY. Our easy payment plan makes immediate purchase convenient.

Call us for an individual investigation of your use of electric service, to determine the cost of cooking by electricity in your home. You may be surprised to know that there are many cases where electric cookery actually decreases the total of electrical and gas bills.

PROMOTION IS SOUGHT BY GRADY OWEN

GRADY OWEN

To the Citizens of Eastland County. For the first time in my life I am a candidate for office, never having before either sought or held executive public office.

It is your office, and it is only through your kindness and votes that anyone can obtain that position. Before soliciting your vote and influence, I have earnestly tried to fit myself for the duties and responsibilities of the office I seek.

For the past three and one-half years I have been an assistant in the administration of your present district attorney. During that time I have, of course, had my successes and my disappointments. I am but human. However, I feel that I can justly be proud of the record I have made while serving as an assistant in the office I now seek.

My life is an open book before you. Eastland county has been my home for twenty-six years. My parents lived in Eastland county until called to a higher world.

I am an experienced lawyer. I think I know how to try cases, and how to prepare cases for trial. I have a record in the trial of both civil suits and criminal cases of which I am proud. I have prepared hundreds of indictments in criminal cases, and while I do not claim that all of them were correct, nevertheless not a single one of them has ever been held invalid or bad by the courts.

Asking Promotion. In seeking this office I am asking for a promotion. If I have done well as an assistant, I would now like to be promoted to the head position. I have observed the ideas and policies of the men with whom I have worked. I have made a study of the office, its duties and responsibilities. I feel that I am as ambitious as most men, and I would now like an opportunity to direct the office myself.

I have studied and trained myself for that purpose, having in mind that I would try to succeed the present district attorney. Someone is going to hold the office. I honestly feel that I am qualified for the job. And I will certainly appreciate it if you will speak a kind word for me, and vote for me on election day.

Respectfully submitted, GRADY OWEN.

George J. Schleicher, Cuero: "I am not a believer in statutory prohibition. I am opposed to the return of the saloon. I am a strong believer in temperance. I favor a referendum of this question to our people in such form as will ascertain their will and serve to prevent a return of the question at each succeeding election to confuse the discussion of more important issues."

Those who have failed to avail themselves of an opportunity to state their views on prohibition by responding to personal letters are: W. Eskine Williams of Ft. Worth; Pink L. Parrish of Lubbeck; R. B. Hood of Weatherford; E. G. Senter of Arlington; and Ernest C. Cox of Austin.

Williams failed to answer the inquiry of his home town paper on the question. This paper, the Fort Worth Press, lists E. G. Senter of Arlington and Ernest Cox as against repeal. It lists Hood and Parrish as unrecorded.

BUDGETS CUT

BOSTON, July 13. — Municipal budgets in New England total $12,900,000 less this year than last year, according to figures compiled by the New England Council. The survey was made among 145 communities, to determine to what extent cities and towns had cut costs in the face of hard times.

port containing the findings of this date, together with recommendations for improvements in procedure. It is expected that this preliminary report will be released during the next few days.

"The audit has disclosed no wrongdoing on the part of the highway commissioners or the general management of the highway department. In all cases where irregularities on the part of the employees were disclosed by the audit, the management has taken prompt corrective measures. Considering the number of employees involved and the volume of operations of the highway department, the number of irregularities has been comparatively small.

"The affairs of the department as a whole were found to have been managed in an efficient manner, but as would probably be true in the case of any business of equal size, many criticisms are offered and recommendations made concerning various methods of procedure and practices which are not considered to be for the best interests of the state."

It's the Cigarette that's Milder and Tastes Better!

That's why more and more Smokers are changing to Chesterfield every day

WHEN you are smoking a lot of cigarettes every day, you naturally want a mild cigarette, and smokers try Chesterfields and find out that they are milder and taste better.

Then smokers tell other smokers—"one smoker telling another"—that they find that although they smoke a great many Chesterfields during the day, they never tire of them; and that they have found out that Chesterfield is a milder cigarette, that it is a cigarette that tastes better, that it is a cigarette with a most pleasing aroma.

Some time ago, in a Chesterfield advertisement, there was a statement, "A $90,000,000 Reason," and this means that the larger part of $90,000,000 is invested in the right kind of ripe, mild Domestic and Turkish tobaccos to make sure that Chesterfields are milder and taste better.

May we ask you to try them?

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

PHOTOGRAPHING a snowflake requires a steady hand and nerve, for the crystal must be handled with the utmost care to prevent its being broken, and speed is required because a flake evaporates within a few seconds time. Expert photographers of snow crystals have learned to detect a flake's general characteristics at a glance, and do not waste film on those that show no unusual possibilities of design. The greatest variety of shapes fall at the end of a snowstorm.
