Cisco Will Inaugurate Trades Day Campaign Saturday

BIG EVENT TO BE HELD AT 7 O'CLOCK

Cisco will inaugurate its fall Trades Campaign with a big trades day event Saturday evening, September 19, in front of the Webster Wholesale Grocery building at East Seventh street. The Lobo high school band will present a concert and prizes donated by a number of merchants will be distributed to the people present. The hour for the program is 7.

This will be the first of a series of free entertainment features to be sponsored by Cisco, at a different location each time, these programs will be held. Entertainment features of a different character will be presented at each event.

The series will include every first Monday a grand rally and master program to be presented at 4 p. m. Cisco merchants, of every character of business, have determined to launch this campaign as a means of bringing more people to Cisco and to provide for their customers merchandise of such quality and of such prices that buying will be stimulated. Cisco business concerns know that there are reasons why people should trade in Cisco and it will be their purpose during this campaign to show their customers, and prospective customers, these reasons.

Fine Roads.

Cisco has a splendid hard-surfaced road system, with highways leading into the city from six different directions. These all weather roads are intersected at every few miles by lateral roads, which make it possible for out-of-town people to reach this city in any kind of weather.

Cisco has been the trading point for most sections within a radius of 30 miles for the past years and people of these sections are still friendly to Cisco business interests if these business interests will show a spirit of friendliness. If Cisco has failed at any time it has been a failure through neglect and not intention.

The present gesture is to show that spirit of friendliness and it will not be spoken merely in words during this campaign but in actions that speak louder than words.

It is understood that strong efforts are being put forth to widen the trading area of Cisco and top prices are being paid for cotton that is brought here. This is but one of the efforts that are being put forth to create a desire to come to Cisco and trade, and to show Cisco friendliness toward the rural population and Cisco's desire to cooperate in making the benefits of trading in this city mutual.

FATE PLAYS LAST TRICK ON J. W. CARRUTH

FORT WORTH, Sept. 17.—Fate today played its last trick on J. W. "Gog Creek" Carruth.

The man, who a few years ago made millions for some of his friends through the discovery of the famous Desdemona, or Hog Creek, oil field and then went to the penitentiary or trying to make more, is dead.

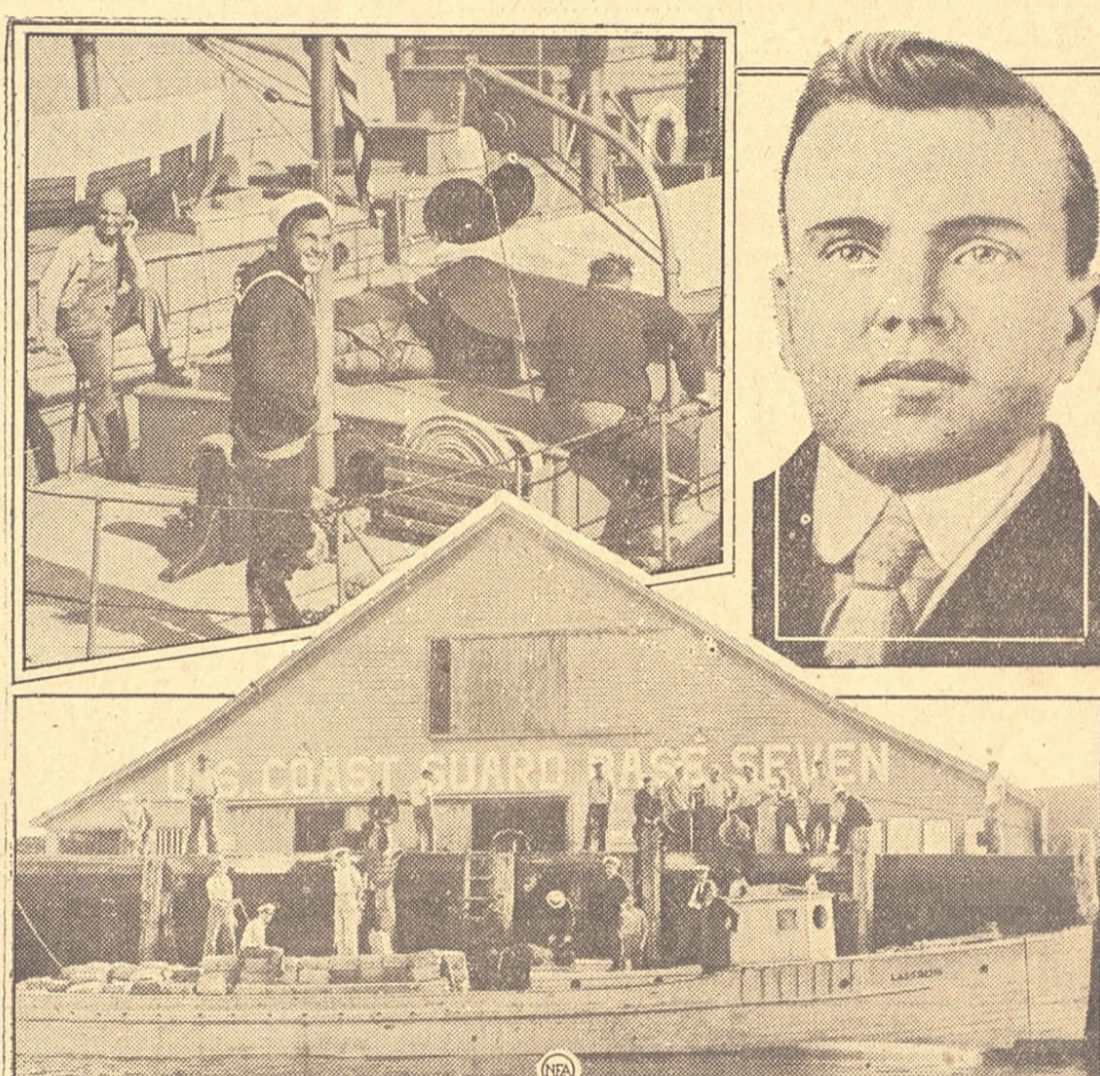

He died at his home last night after an illness of almost a year. It was the last blow of the jinx. A month after his trial his son, W. O. Carruth, 18, died and Carruth was permitted to come home for the funeral. There was double grief in the modest little home. Carruth served his years and paid his debt to society. Then he returned home and quietly transacted a loan business.

Then shortly after Christmas his son Paul, en route to a football game at Corsicana, was in an automobile accident. He lingered between life and death for days, finally dying January 16.

FOOSHIE GIVEN TEN YEARS FOR MURDER

FORT WORTH, Sept. 17.—Charles Fooshee was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment in the state penitentiary today for the murder of his wife December 14 after a fight in front of a dance hall. The case has been on trial here all week.

ELKS SEEK CLOTHING FOR SMALL BOYS

The Cisco Elks lodge today appeared for gifts of clothing for two boys, one nine, the other ten, whose mother is in the county hospital near death and whose father is out of employment. A sister of the boys has been provided for and has entered school and the lodge is endeavoring to equip the two boys with the necessary clothing so that they, too, may begin schooling next Monday.

The family has been found worthy the lodge officials said, and the father is endeavoring to take care of his family through odd jobs, proceeds of which he devotes entirely to their support.

Any official of the lodge will receive contributions for the welfare of the boys. Any garment suitable for children of the age will be appreciated.

King George Wears Tartan

BALMORAL, Scotland, Sept. 17.—King George and his sons were attending any public functions in Scotland. The tartan takes its name from the fact that it was designed for Queen Victoria by an old lady who lived in Inverness.

The King likes to maintain the Highland customs and directs that all those entitled to wear the kilt shall do so on formal occasions. Each morning that the pipers "pipe" the King, between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, the Scotch dress is worn in full detail.

Although the King wears kilts, he has not been seen blowing the bagpipes. The Prince of Wales can play the pipes and during his undergraduate days at Oxford university "ruined" many an otherwise peaceful evening by playing chants and marches.

At some of the dinner parties given here His Majesty appears in the kilt and the short jacket of Scotch evening dress. Sometimes the Queen wears a strain of Scotch ribbon on her dress.

MILK IS HALF AND HALF

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Sept. 17.—C. C. Casey owns a cow that gives milk which is approximately half cream. "Frances", the four-year-old 750-pound cow, is not given any special feed and grazes in the pasture with the rest of Casey's herd. The amount of the milk produced each day varies from 10 to 13 quarts.

STRIP PLANE

DONNER, Calif., Sept. 17.—Soviet hunters completed wreckage of plane which crashed near here, when all instruments and pieces of the plane were stripped and taken within a few hours after the accident.

It was a spectacular battle engaged in by Coast Guardsmen and rum runners off Gloucester, Mass., and these pictures tell the end of the story. Joseph Mello, upper right, died from wounds received when the crew of patrol boat 2394 directed machine gun fire at the fleeing smugglers. The latter are said to have laid down a smoke screen and a cloud of poison gas during the zig-zag chase, and one Coast Guardsman was overcome by the fumes. At upper left, some of the prisoners are shown with a guard on the deck of the patrol boat following the capture, and the rum boat is pictured below alongside the Coast Guard wharf. Some of the Lassehn's 400 cases of liquor are visible on her deck. A board of investigation has been named in the case.

Soviet Drives For More Coal

MOSCOW, Sept. 17.—All branches of the Soviet government are engaged in a furious effort to stimulate coal production, in accordance with instructions from the Central Committee of the Communist Party.

Without coal, the committee warned in a recent pronouncement, there is no hope of obtaining the 17,000,000 tons of cast iron scheduled for 1933, the last year of the Five-Year Plan.

To make possible the cast iron production, the Soviet Union will need 140,000,000 tons of coal and coke in 1933. That figure has, therefore, been set as the goal, considerably above the total previously set. The extent to which the industry must be expanded may be judged from the fact that last year the output was only 56,000,000 tons and the schedule for the present year—which so far has not been achieved—calls for 83,600,000 tons.

More intensive development of new coal fields and exploitation of local sources are, therefore, primary immediate tasks. Fifteen of the best machine plants in the country are being set aside exclusively for the manufacture of coal mining equipment and five new plants for the same purpose will be begun early in 1932.

Next year's investments in the coal industry will reach at least 900,000,000 rubles, the party instructions state, compared with 628,000,000 this year and only 259,000,000 last year.

Blankenbecker Named Receiver

F. A. Blankenbecker has received notice of his appointment as receiver for the Plainview National Bank, of Plainview, which closed its doors early this week.

He left last night for Plainview to look the situation over. He is on governmental leave of absence from the postoffice here of which he is postmaster.

Bandits Get $10,000 In Gems From Bank

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Two bandits during the early morning rush at Clark and Madison streets, invaded the Fidelity Loan Bank today and tied up three men, seized four trays of diamonds valued at $10,000 and escaped in the crowd.

The gunmen also robbed Sam Greenfield, owner of the shop, of $150, and Edward Dewold, window trimmer from whom they seized the diamonds, of $50.

BABY KISSING ASSAILED

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Baby kissing should be classified as a criminal offense, in the opinion of Dr. Charles F. Wilinsky, deputy health commissioner of Boston. He points out that 20 per cent of the deaths of children under one year of age are due to the so-called common cold.

CARTOON IS THRUST AT GOV. STERLING

AUSTIN, Sept. 16.—A cartoon, distributed through the capitol by messenger boys Tuesday aroused speculation among the lawmakers, but had not brought on any official effort to find who was responsible for it.

The cartoon apparently added criticism of Gov. Sterling to caricature of those opposing cotton regulation.

An emaciated woman and her underdressed children were portrayed as picking cotton near a farm shack. On the cotton sack dragged by the woman, were seated capitalistic figures labeled "brokers, insurance, storage, gins, compress, railroads, truck companies, steamship companies, cotton exchanges and cotton seed mills." The picture bore the caption, "free riders."

In an insert, Gov. Sterling was shown standing over padlocked oil wells, with troops guarding them.

Suspect in Avery Bank Holdup Held

TEXARKANA, Sept. 17.—With Clyde Peavy, 22, in jail at Clarksville as a suspect, officers of Red River and adjoining counties continued today to search for three bandits who yesterday took $1,500 in a daylight holdup of the First National Bank at Avery, Texas.

Mack Davis, a customer in the bank at the time of the holdup said the prisoner resembled one of the bandits.

Three Men Held in Amarillo Robberies

AMARILLO, Sept. 17.—Three men were in jail here today and two others, whose names police have, were being sought in connection with a series of hi-jackings and robberies here the last two nights. A robbery of a crowded sandwich shop here last night was the most recent event in the series.

Names of the men under arrest were withheld by police until they apprehended the pair at large but they said two of those held had been identified by robbery victims.

ENROLLMENT IN SCHOOLS ANNOUNCED

Total opening enrollment in the Cisco public schools was announced as 1,207 by Supt. R. N. Cluck today. This is about 140 less than the maximum of last year. The customary late entries will lessen this difference to a considerable degree; and the 1931-32 maximum is expected to be reached by about mid-term, as was the case last year.

Enrollment in the high school this year was greater than the enrollment at the opening of the term last year. The enrollment as announced by Principal H. Brandon today is 375 as compared with 360 at the end of the opening week in 1930.

Enrollment in other schools was announced as follows:

Grammar school, 150; West Ward, 445; East Ward 115; and South Ward 121. All were below the maximum figures for 1930-31 with the exception of the South Ward which had exactly the same enrollment on the opening day as the maximum for last term.

All classes in the high school have organized. The officers of each were announced today by Principal Brandon as follows:

Rally Day Will Be Observed

Rally Day will be observed at the First Methodist church Sunday and the pastor, Rev. H. D. Tucker announces that he will deliver the Rally day messages from the following subjects: Sunday morning "The Heart-Breaking Lock" and at 7:30 p. m. "Fence Straddlers."

All department superintendents are working for a large attendance Sunday in Sunday school and all members who have been irregular through the summer are urged to be in their place Sunday.

Letter Says Capone Ordered Killings

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Al Capone ordered the assassination of Alfred Jake Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, and Jack Zuta, a henchman, according to a letter signed with the scrawl of Mike DeTike Heitler in the hands of police here today. Heitler, a vice-monger, disappeared many months ago. A charred body found in a burned ice house in April was tentatively identified as that of Heitler by his brother.

Gang Vengeance Overtakes Racketeer

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Gang vengeance caught up today with Meyer Shapiro, chief of the Brooklyn alcohol racket.

Shapiro who with his brother Irving, incurred many enemies because of their activities in the Brownville section of Brooklyn was found shot to death, a bullet wound behind his ear in the basement of a squalid lower east side tenement.

Irving Shapiro, with whom Meyer was engaged in the slot machine and laundry racket before branching out into the alcohol racket was shot and killed last July.

In the street in front of the house were found two empty five gallon cans as usually used to contain alcohol.

He had apparently been taken for a ride and his body dumped into the basement. The body was discovered by a newsboy.

SEVEN EARS IN ONE

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., Sept. 17.—Mrs. W. T. Swink found one husk containing seven perfectly formed ears, in some corn that she bought.

Publishing House Men Interview Dr. Clark as Member of Textbook Committee

Dr. Lee Clark new president of Randolph college, is one of the five members of the state textbook committee, which investigates textbooks offered the state under the free textbooks law and makes recommendations to the state board of education. It became known when representatives of publishing houses came here this week for individual hearings before him.

An official schedule is prepared for these hearings by the committee and each bidding book concern is given an audience before each member of the committee and later appears at a hearing before the committee in a meeting at Austin after which recommendations are prepared for the state board.

Dr. Clark began receiving representatives of the publishing houses September 11. He will continue to hear them for about one week, September 28 his committee meets in Austin for final hearings.

The textbook committee was formerly a textbook commission with full power to select and purchase books. That was changed several years ago with the institution of a state board of education of nine members. The commission was made a committee of recommendation to the board. Dr. Clark has been a member of the committee for about one year.

Large numbers of textbook men have been in Cisco during the past week attending these hearings.

Teachers Heartily Endorse Hour Recitation and Honor Point Plan

The hour recitation plan and honor point system introduced this year into the high school in the place of a former plan for 40-minute recitation periods, have the hearty endorsement of the teachers, according to their statements.

"I have found that the hour plan is by far the better one, due mainly to the added time available for supervised study," said Miss Alma Wells. "It has other very desirable features." She also commended the point system as one of the "most definite means possible for stimulating effort and thereby gaining a higher quality of work."

"It gives the pupil an opportunity for instruction from his teacher who knows exactly what she wishes to be done," said Mrs. E. L. Hazelwood. "Under the old plan the teacher in the study hall does not know the plans of the teacher who has assigned the work and is therefore not in a position to give the needed guidance." Mrs. Hazelwood also commended the honor point system.

R. L. Jefferies said the hour recitation plan "helps the teacher to give individual attention." Leonard Hill declared the advantages of the hour period plan and honor point system are that they "give the student incentive to work and the teacher ample time in which to correct weaknesses."

Miss Elizabeth Dial finds several advantages in the hour recitation plan. Students can do their work or at least a part of it, in the classroom; each student can be given individual instruction; the teacher can discover the weaker or poorer students for extra attention.

The body of the boy, who was the ultimate heir to the largest Ohio fortune, was found hanging to the door of his room from a leather belt as a noose around his neck.

Man Near Death in Battle With Officer

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Sept. 17.—M. C. Poe, alleged bootlegger, was reported near death here today from bullet wounds suffered in a gun fight with Policeman Henry Cifre, after he had shot and killed Ralph Hamby, of Plainview, Texas, said to have been a federal prohibition informant.

Lindberghs Find Stowaway Aboard

FUKUOKA, Japan, Sept. 17.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here from Osaka at 4:02 p. m. today after a flight on which they nearly were accompanied by a stowaway.

Except for the discovery of a young Japanese shortly before the start, the flight of 3 hours and 5 minutes was without incident, the Colonel said. They planned to stop overnight before continuing to Nanking, seat of the national government.

The stowaway Umezo Fhimidzu, 17 year old newsboy, hid in the plane early this morning. He was found by Lindbergh when he opened the luggage compartment. He said he planned to fly with them to Shanghai to study Chinese conditions. He carried a bundle of hard candy.

BUT SENATE STICKS WITH 25 PER CENT

AUSTIN, Sept. 17.—The Texas house of representatives today refused to change its cotton bill calling for permissible planting of cotton on a third of all cultivated land. Proposals to allow planting on half the land and only a fourth of the land were voted down. Opponents of the bill do not expect to muster more than 30 negative votes on final passage. It is still possible, however, that a bill eventually will be passed limiting the cotton planting to a fourth of the tilled acreage, since the senate showed no inclination to change its vote of yesterday, providing for planting on only a fourth of the land.

Gov. Ross Sterling said today 25 per cent is the proper ratio to obtain a 50 per cent cut in the crop, and a number of house leaders are already urging that the house accede to the 25 per cent acreage when a conference committee meets with a senate conference committee.

S. C. SENATE ADOPTS LONG PLAN

LONG BEACH, S. C., Sept. 17.—Despite Gov. Huey P. Long's admission of defeat, the South Carolina senate today voted 21 to 13 to adopt the Louisiana no-cotton bill and sent it to the house where a similar bill was given second reading by a vote of 79 to 26.

MURRAY DRAFTS RELIEF BILL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 17.—Drafting of two bills intended to relieve the cotton and wheat industry was today by Gov. W. H. "Alfalfa" Murray.

The bills will embody plans for acreage reduction and the formation of a board of control to regulate production.

Two Burn to Death in Fire

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17.—Two men were burned to death and five others, including three women, were seriously burned when fire swept a small hotel here. Twelve other roomers escaped.

The fire broke out on the second floor of the three-story building, cutting off the escape of several persons on the third floor. The cause was not immediately determined.

The dead are George Fossell, 50 and Andrew Sansoulet, 65.

Sansoulet escaped from the combing room house and hotel but reentered the building to aid in rescue work, it was reported. His body was found on the third floor.

Gang Vengeance Overtakes Racketeer

"Oh, Yes! and about 15c worth of natural gas"

Suppose you could buy natural gas service "over the counter" like you purchase meats and vegetables. With such a daily opportunity to compare its cost with other values on your shopping list you would find that LONE STAR SERVICE is actually the least expensive item in your cost of living.

Fifteen cents a day will not go far in providing household necessities--yet 15c is the average daily gas bill, throughout the year, for cooking, heating and hot water supply on the Lone Star System. From boiling a kettle of water to heating an entire house this inexpensive convenience is always on tap--wherever and whenever you require it. The same quality service to every household, at the same price for the same quantity.

15c... The next time you "go shopping," compare the cost of Lone Star Service with other values on your shopping list. You'll agree that it is the least expensive item in your annual cost of living.

Of course, natural gas is never on your shopping list. This ideal fuel, like many other products, is of little value to any household until it becomes a useful service. For almost a quarter of a century LONE STAR GAS COMPANY has been building up this unexcelled fuel supply. Production, transportation facilities, compressor station capacity and all the other facilities for delivering gas to you have been carefully planned and maintained so that your gas service may be kept dependable. Each year has seen an improvement in these facilities which safeguard your comfort. Each winter finds us better equipped to serve you with natural gas--a clean, convenient and faithful fuel service that is well within the means of every household.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION NEWS

From the Office of the County Agent and The Home Demonstration Agent.

National Pecan Assn. Meets In Dallas The National Pecan Association holds its annual convention this year in Dallas, September 22, 23, and 24. The Texas members are putting forth every effort to make this the biggest and best convention ever held by the association.

It is purely an educational organization and its members include not only growers but shellers, dealers and others interested in the pecan industry from all over the nation. Every phase of the pecan industry will be covered by the program—the most elaborate ever attempted by the association—and it will be well worth while for every grower especially to attend.

President A. C. Easley of the Texas Pecan Growers' association is urging his members to attend this meeting offers to refund membership fee of any of his members who join the National Association and attend this meeting who are not thoroughly satisfied that their money has been well spent. Hon. J. Hill Fullilove, Shreveport, La., is president and J. Lloyd Abbott, Mobile, Ala., secretary of the National association. This is the first time in years it has met this far west and it may be several years before it comes this way again.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Perdue left last Friday for their home near Pampa. New Rye for Pasture and Cover Crop Rye, oats and barley sown on peanut land and other blow sands last fall proved so successful in combating drifting of sand, in providing winter pasture and as fertilizer when plowed under that farmers generally should adopt this practice. Rye is still recommended because it does not freeze out but due to making better grazing barley or oats may be mixed with the rye. Whenever possible this small grain should be sowed this month, as rye must be planted early to get a good start.

This may successfully be planted before peanuts are dug. May be sown broadcast and harrowed in or plowed with a cultivator or put in with a row drill. Small grain seed are cheap and with the prospects of all other farm crops selling at a very low price it is necessary that the very highest possible per acre yield be made. This cannot be done if the sand is allowed to blow away. Green pasture is a valuable asset for all kinds of livestock and poultry. It saves other feed and keeps stock in much better condition which is generally understood and requires no proof. That this crop can be plowed under at a profit has been proven time and again. It is known that commercial fertilizer yields are increased and the land becomes more like new land where this plant food is added to it.

Dairying is picking up. Cream was quoted at 24 cents last week and has been consistently advancing a cent a week for the past ten weeks. There is no question as to the value of winter pasture for milk production. Green feed or a so-called succulent feed is necessary for profitable dairying. The cheapest and most satisfactory manner of providing this green feed is through the planting of small grains. The rye mixed with oats or barley provides some pasturage when the oats and barley may be killed out by freezes. Procrastination is the Thief of Time, an old adage that certainly applies in this time. Many farmers plan to sow this winter pasture crop but never seem to get to it, or else they delay until a part of the benefits to be derived have been lost. Plans that are not carried out do not build up a bank account. Why not get at this job and do it rather than regret that it was not done. That section of the county that has had rains should be planted now, other sections just as soon as there is sufficient moisture to bring up the crop.

Desdemona The club was called to order by the retiring president who introduced the new officers and turned the gavel over to the new president, Mrs. A. C. Robert. The resignation of Mrs. M. P. Williams as an active member was accepted and she was placed on the associate list. She was the incoming recording secretary and after her resignation Mrs. Hugh Roe was elected unanimously for that office. Mrs. W. H. Davis acted as director for the program beginning the course of "Seeing America First." Mrs. C. M. Bratton read Edgar Guest's "When You Know a Feller," after which Mrs. C. W. Maltby talked on "Places of interest and historical facts about Oklahoma." "The Foremost Citizen of Oklahoma, Will Rogers," was the subject of Mrs. Davis' talk. Mrs. Bedford talked on "Scenic Highways of America." All members joined in reading the club collect at the opening of the meeting and in singing "America, the Beautiful" as a closing number. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. K. Barnes, daughter of Mrs. Griffin, served refreshments of frozen fruit salad on lettuce, angel food and marble cake and ice tea.

REST WITHOUT FRETTING:—Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him: fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass.—Psalm 37: 7.

WHEN MCGREGOR SPEAKS.

The eloquent oldish gentleman from Travis, T. H. McGregor, won his place, beyond a dispute, as the greatest orator of the 42nd legislature, in his philippic against Huey Long, delivered twice Tuesday. His appearance before the house was acclaimed a masterpiece, and the senate invited him to renew his invectives before it in a public session during the afternoon, that no little honor in itself. The Masterful T. H. "poured it on," as the galleries urged him to do, and again he was the hero of the hour. His speech was framed with all the tricks of passionate oratory, and whether his argument was valid or not cannot be measured by its effect on the audience. The hour was ripe for a denunciation of the Louisiana governor; and it seems entirely likely the enemies of Huey will declare the McGregor portrait a life-sized picture of the man who would hold two offices.

The smoke is cleared away. The oratory is past. Even as we measured the philippic we taste the ash of a fire that burned itself out. So far as Texas is concerned, Huey Long "has been put in his place." We recall the words of the Texas governor, whom McGregor defended so astutely, counselling "there is too much hysteria in Texas and in the South."

Whatever can be done for the cotton farmer should be done. On with the session.

HIT-OR-MISS REDUCTION.

Salary-cutting, if there is to be any official salary-cutting, should not be on a coercion basis, and certainly shouldn't be on any hit-and-miss principle to apply to some people and miss others getting the same amounts from the same public source.

It is a question that should be cautiously considered. If there have been some type of salaries artificially boosted above the proper level, one may be certain to find that these have been nailed up by statute. Thus a legislative act besides a budget change would be required to change them, and they would escape any so-called "voluntary" agreement for reducing salaries.

Eleemosynary employes are notoriously underpaid. Some of them get as low as $360 a year and board.

Unless its proponents could prove conclusive justification for salary-cutting, that would stand the scrutiny of the legislature, there should be no salary-cutting. If there is any, it should await legislative action, because on that basis alone will anything like uniformity or justice to all public officials and employes alike be secured.

The workers in some one department should not be penalized because the head of the department has to run for office, or seek reappointment, and therefore makes what might appear to be a popular political gesture. Arbitrary premiums should not be accorded those in departments that refused to go into such a so-called "voluntary" scheme.

Salary-adjustments should start farther back. The board of control has been given the duty of making an executive budget. It hires a man by the year to work on the budget, and its three members review every item of the budget.

The board of control recommends some few increases in pay this year, but no reductions.

Then both houses of the legislature have committees which review the budget, item by item. The house committee reduced board of control estimates, but did not apply any general salary reduction schedules before recommending enactment of the budget. The house itself applied "five and ten" per cent reductions, then abandoned them at a time when veto of the entire budgets seemed certain. The veto was expected because the budgets were too high, not too low.

It is a strange time now for department heads to be talking about "voluntary" reductions in the schedules of state salaries.

Every official of the Texas government is vested with "discretion" in handling important state business. Courts cannot even go behind the exercise of that discretion—you can in court compel an official to act upon a matter, but not as to the manner of his action.

That applies to all agencies save one—the most important, as affecting the financial welfare of all the people. Governor Ross S. Sterling, Treasurer Charley Lockhart and Compt. George H. Sheppard are the three men who now form the automatic tax board. The individuals holding these three offices are the tax board. As a tax board the only authority they have is to add up the state revenues, add up the appropriations, and divide one into the other to fix a tax rate, not to exceed 35 cents. This year, the board has needed more latitude. There is no reason why it shouldn't "use discretion" the same as any other agency of the government. There is no reason to hog-tie it in a way that it cannot do an act beneficial to the public, if the opportunity should come. In past years the board has attempted to lower the tax rate, after once fixing it, months before any taxes were paid, but the rigidity of the law forbade granting this relief.

In the Political Arena

By THE POLITICAL ANALYST
State salary-cutting, except upon a partial and incomplete basis, became impossible Tuesday of this week when several thousand state workers began their duties under contracts that could not be set aside by any law afterward passed.

Professors and instructors of the university of Texas and all the other institutions of higher learning are employed on contracts of one year or longer. All the teachers in public schools are on a strict contract basis.

These contracts became operative before the "voluntary" salary-cutting proposal, or legislative efforts to reduce the state budgets had either been made effective.

Governor Ross S. Sterling has informed Chairman Phil Sanders of the house appropriations committee that he will not submit the budget bills for trimming. The house had asked him to do it afterward; but made the statement. The senate asked him to do it afterward; but his declaration stood unchanged.

The fact that the educational system employes are on contract, and their compensation cannot be changed during the contract period, may have had much to do with the governor's policy.

It would leave for the so-called "voluntary" cutting—not voluntary at all except with a few department heads, most of whose salaries are constitutional and could not be lowered—only the clerks in some of the departments. The senate was told that the judiciary would not cut its own salaries, the ones particularly attacked by Representative T. H. McGregor of Austin. Senator Tom DeBerry said the legislature would not attempt to cut highway department, educational or judiciary salaries.

That left the low-paid workers of the eleemosynary institutions, and the clerks in some of the state departments.

The public school teachers are paid by the local governing agencies, but most of their compensation comes from the state in the $17.50 per capita apportionment for all children listed in the scholastic census.

Since probably three-fourths of the entire roster of public employes, including the public school teachers, were beyond reach of any salary-cutting law, the question was being raised among others whether an agreement by department heads not to pay the full amount appropriated by the legislature for specific jobs could stand up in court.

It was pointed out that many of the salaries are fixed by the statutes creating the bureaus and departments. No official could, it was claimed, withhold any part of the sum provided by law to be paid for a specific service.

The rest of the jobs, the usual run of stenographic and clerical places, are provided for by specific amounts in the appropriations bills.

Efforts to force an informal reduction of pay could only apply to these, it was claimed, and because of the obvious discrimination involved, were questioned as to validity, if attempted.

John L. Darrouzet, Galveston, a supporter of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York for anything that Smith may want, is authority for the statement that a statewide organization of democrats is being perfected to oppose instructing Texas delegates to the democratic national convention next year.

The organization shortly will announce a chairman for every county in the state, Mr. Darrouzet said. He is temporary chairman of the unstructured delegation group.

Mr. Darrouzet said the movement was not a campaign effort in support of Mr. Smith, in case Smith should come back for another effort at the nomination. He insisted it was to avoid a split within the party before or during the conventions, and to give a delegation a free hand in casting the Texas vote for the most available man.

Along with this, he holds the belief that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt does not stand a very good prospect of winning the nomination. He believes the nominee will be Newton D. Baker, Owen Young or Governor Smith, or someone else other than Roosevelt.

DIVIDEND CHECK
TO WEST TEXAS, Sept. 15, 1931

Pay to the ORDER OF YOU $ 60% REDUCTION
a 60% Reduction in Electric Service Costs
West Texas Utilities Company

These Annual Dividend Checks have reduced Your Electric Bill

60% since 1923!

AS an electric customer of the West Texas Utilities Company, you have received each year a substantial dividend—paid to you merely because you are a user of electric service! These annual dividends, in the form of reduced rates for electric service, have been made possible through efficient utility management, finance and operation. Since 1923, the year in which the West Texas Utilities Company was organized, these rate reductions have saved customers of this company a stupendous sum.

The West Texas Utilities Company has been in existence as a corporation for nine years—and during this time the average electric rate of the territory served has been reduced over 60%. You have reaped the benefit of this substantial reduction—by way of a lowered bill or through a greatly increased use and enjoyment of the comforts and conveniences of electric service.

In past years, many of you paid as high as 20 cents per kilowatt-hour for electric service in your home. Reductions made in the domestic or residential rate alone have amounted to 53%, and you now are receiving a more dependable and higher type of service at an average rate of less than 6.5 cents per kilowatt-hour. When you realize that this reduction has been accomplished in the short span of nine years, and that it has been made in a territory of small and widely scattered towns and communities, you will appreciate the magnitude of the task accomplished for you by the West Texas Utilities Company.

Electricity is your cheapest servant. It will work for you hour after hour—day after day—for an entire salary figured in pennies! Under the present modern rate schedule of this company, your additional use of service is billed at a surprisingly low rate, and adds but little to your regular bill.

Do You Know?

... that electric service is the only item in the household budget that has decreased continuously since 1913?

... that the cost of electric service represents less than 2c out of every dollar of the average family's household expense?

Dist. Supt.

Gorman to Initiate 1931 Lobo Season Friday Evening

GAME CALLED AT 8 UNDER FLOODLIGHTS

The Gorman Panthers, class B eleven which has claimed the privilege of initiating Lobo teams into new seasons for the past several years, will again perform that function when they come to Cisco Friday evening. The game will be called at 8 o'clock under the lights at Chesley field.

Against the unknown quantity of the invading team Coaches R. L. Jefferies and Leonard Hill will have an eleven with a line composed mostly of regulars of last year and a backfield drawn from 1930 seconds, one player of which is a this year's transfer from the Grammar school. This starting eleven as announced by Coach Jefferies today is just what the name implies. There is no promise of permanency. Indeed the reserve squad will number several players who are counted upon for regulars but who for various reasons will not be allowed to start the contest.

The starting eleven will be:
Player Pos. No. Wt.
Massengale lb 38 182
Norvell lb 82 170
Wade Masengale lg 86 185
Preston c 40 165
McCall rg 30 165
McMahon rt 99 195
Van Horn re 88 170
(capt.)

C. Ray lb 20 155
Wilkins rh 46 153
Caffrey full 66 173
Little quarter 24 143
Caffrey, who will start at full, is the player who came up this year from the Grammar school. The youngster shows to have the ability and if his attitude is right and his work continues there is every promise of his developing into a valuable man.

Others who will see service during the contest as Coaches Jefferies and Hill send their men under fire on the first time will be Charlie Shepard, 77, at center; Aycock, 26, and Forrest Ray, 42, at guards; Latch, 48, and Garrett, 34, at tackles; Rutledge, 58, and Blackburn, 98, at ends; Barker, 58, and Bryan, 44, at halfbacks; Jefferies, 55, at full, and Hightower, 33, at quarter. Jack Smith, 66, may also see service at half.

The squad was at sixes and sevens in its workout yesterday. The boys were sluggish and displayed a tendency to let down which Jefferies ascribed to the unusually hard sessions which he put them through the day previously. A scheduled evening workout under the lights was dispensed with and the coaches sent the boys home to bed to rest in preparation for a light workout this afternoon.

These let-downs are normal occurrences during the season, particularly the early part of the training period, and the coach is fortunate who has them to occur between games and not during them. Consequently the Lobo mentors expect the lops to have passed and the team to be on its toes again by Friday evening.

HORNED FROGS TO HAVE BOTH SPEED, POWER

FORT WORTH, Sept. 17. —Rival coaches of the Southwest will have to combat with the unique combination of speed and power when they meet the 1931 edition of Coach Francis Schmidt's Texas Christian Horned Frogs. The line, ranging from Townsend's 190 to Lon Egan's 223, will average over 200 pounds from end to end while the backfield, with Grassy Hinton's 170 pounds as a minimum and Capt. Green's 190 as a maximum, will average in the neighborhood of 180 pounds.

In addition to this extravagant display of tonnage the entire backfield, with the exception of Capt. Green at fullback, are of the 10-foot variety. Oliver is the fastest of the trio, stepping the century in 9.5. Spearman and Hinton cover the 100 yards in between ten and eleven seconds. The linemen are also exceptionally fast for their size, and there is not a man in Bear Wolf's forward wall who will slow down the offense.

To accompany his extravagance of power and speed, Coach Schmidt is working daily developing a squad of triple threat artists. To date Grassy Hinton and Vance Woolwine are the only real triple threats on the squad, but Red Oliver, Hubert Dennis, B. W. Spearman, John Kitchin, Paul Snow, and Otha Finer show possibilities of graduating from the specialist's ranks to double and triple threats.

The spotlight of the Horned Frog ment's attention is being focused on the giant form of Red Oliver, who will be remembered by the Southwest fandom as the sorrel-topped halfback that showed a clean pair of heels to the entire Southern Methodist eleven on the initial kick-off of the annual Horned Frog-Mustang game last year. With his speed and weight he has always been an excellent running threat, but previous to this year his passing has been a bit below the average, and his punting a fraction below zero. Since the opening of the fall camp last Saturday his passing has improved noticeably, and his punting has gone through a complete change, doubling his former distance.

The presence of Grassy Hinton at the signal-barking position will mean much to the Frogs. With seven years of experience behind him, most of which has been at the quarterback position, he is exceptionally smart as a field general. On his shoulders will fall most of the responsibility of punting and passing, and there are no better blockers and defensive backs on the team than this former Cebu star, who is playing his last year of collegiate football.

Spearman is larger and faster than last year. Most of his offensive value will be in his broken field running and extraordinary pass-snatching ability. He is also an excellent defensive back. Capt. Charles Green seemed to be at the peak of his already colorful collegiate football career. Tipping the beam at 190, he is heavier than he has ever been. His blocking, line-ramping and field goal kicking are due to pull the Christians out of many tough spots this year.

—The strength of rubber as it is produced today is such that a pound of rubber will absorb as much energy as a 50 pound steel spring.

Rubber From the World's Largest Farm Gives U. S. Exclusive Processes and Greater Uniformity

All other American rubber manufacturers combined produce less than ONE-FOURTH the amount of rubber grown by U. S. on its own plantations. In Sumatra and Malaya, U. # GUILTY LIPS

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Pretty Norma Kent, 20-year-old secretary, marries Mark Travers, real estate dealer, in spite of the father's opposition and threats to disinherit Mark.

The story opens in Marlboro, middle western metropolis. Mark sells his expensive roadster to get money for the honeymoon and he and Norma go to fashionable Blue Springs. There Norma meets Hollis Stone, and it is evident from the girl's manner that she has known Stone before and for some reason seems to fear him.

Their money is soon gone, partly due to Mark's gambling. With $500 borrowed from Stone the couple return to Marlboro. Mark sets out on a round of pleasure seeking instead of hunting a job. He introduces Norma to Natalie Price, a debutante who has long hoped to marry Mark. When their siddwinkle again Mark and Norma move to a cheap apartment. Mark begins to hunt work seriously. He gets a job as an advertising salesman and loses it. Then he becomes a floorwalker in Blossomdale's department store. On the anniversary of their marriage two months earlier he brings Norma roses. She is outraged at his extravagance and they quarrel. Norma threatens to leave him and rushes from the apartment.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXV

The other woman jerked back quickly, said "Excuse me" and murmured something else that was inaudible.

"Oh, I'm sorry!" Norma exclaimed. "This hall's so dark. I didn't know anyone was here. I'm afraid I startled you."

It really was a dark hallway. Nearly six and November was making the days shorter. There should have been a light glowing but the bulb had been out of order for three days now. Because it was so dusky in the passageway Norma knew she should not have rushed into it headlong without looking where she was going.

She chose to ignore the fact that the film before her was blinding her. Such objects as were visible had acquired odd, distorted outlines.

The other woman was older. She was an inch or two taller than Norma and rather stout. Her wrap hid her dark-colored, were indistinguishable from the dark background. Norma, rushing into the hall from the apartment, had most hurried herself at the stranger.

"Yes," the woman admitted. "I was startled but of course that wasn't your fault. I wonder—I'm looking for an apartment in this building and I don't seem to be able to locate it."

"What is the number?" Norma asked. "I live here." (Her heart nearly turned over as she said that because of course she wasn't living there any longer!) "I love here and perhaps I can tell you which way to go."

The girl didn't like delaying but a moment's courtesy was a small thing. It would help to ease the conviction that she might have upset this elderly, pleasant stranger by her hurried and hasty conduct. Really, Norma was ashamed.

"Why, that's very nice of you. It's apartment C-10 I'm looking for."

"C-10!" Norma said. "Why, that's where I live—it's right here! Are you sure that's the number?"

There was no answer to the question. "You live there?" the older woman exclaimed, as much surprise in her voice as had been in Norma's. "Then you must be—are you Mrs. Travers?"

"Yes, did you wish to see me?" The stranger named the girl's face in the half-dark. "I'm Mark's mother," she said simply. "So you're his wife! Yes, I was coming to see you. I've wanted to know you for a long time. How—how very young you are!"

Instinct prompted Norma to say the right thing. Her head was whirling. With a swift movement she brushed the tears from her eyes—part of the tears at least. In a voice faintly tremulous but showing a splendid effort at control she said, "You'll come in, Mrs. Travers? I'm delighted to have you visit us."

"Thank you—but you were just leaving. I don't want to keep you."

"Oh, it was nothing important! Just an errand that can wait. Mark's home and I know he'll be so glad!" She had turned and was fumbling to get her key in the lock. As she finished the words the door opened. Norma entered and stepped aside for the older woman to follow.

He was standing before the window, his back toward them. Not until he heard the girl's voice did Mark swing about.

"Norma—" he began, then caught sight of the other figure. "Why, Mother!" In three bounds Mark was across the floor. "Mother, how in the world did you get here? Where have you come from?" he demanded. "Why, I can't believe it's you!"

His arms held his mother closely. Beaming, at the same time, he pressed close to her, his hands full of emotion, Mark kissed his mother's forehead.

"Aren't you a great one!" he stormed, laughing as he said it. "Walking in on us like this! Why didn't you let us know you were coming? How did you know where to find us? What have you been doing lately? How've you been feeling?" The questions shot one after the other, without pause for answer.

"Oh, my boy! Oh, Mark—my boy, my boy!" It was as much as the mother could say coherently. "Mark!" she repeated a moment later. She clung to his arms, pressing her cheek against his shoulder. The woman's eyes were shut but there sharply. "I can't do it for you or anyone. He told me to get out and I did it. I won't come back until he asks me to! You can tell him that—for me!"

Mrs. Travers put a handkerchief to her eyes. "You're just like him!" she sobbed. "You're just as determined and stubborn as your father is. Oh, Mark, why will you disappoint me so!"

"Sorry, mother, but you've asked the one thing I can't do. What about Norma? She and I are married you know why I couldn't."

"I guess," Mrs. Travers was still clinging to her son. Apparently Norma might as well have been a thousand miles away. This husky youth—her baby son—was all the woman could think of. She was weeping but they were tears of gladness.

"See here, Mom, you don't want to take on like this!" Mark pulled a huge square of linen from his pocket. With an effort at tenderness he wiped the tear drops from her cheeks. "No more of that! I'll think you didn't really want to see me. I'll think you're sorry you came. O. K. now? Going to behave?"

There was teasing fondness in the tone. Mrs. Travers responded like a drooping plant to sunshine. "Of course I'm all right." She drew away, scrutinizing the young man. "Only it's so good to see you, dear! You're a little thinner, aren't you? Are you sure you're feeling well?" She put the question anxiously.

"Sure! Never better in my life!" The scene had given Norma time to study her mother-in-law's appearance. Norma felt she might have seen Mrs. Travers anywhere and never have dreamed that this was Mark's mother. Not a feature of the woman's face resembled her son's. On the other hand it would have been impossible to doubt that the visitor was of the ruling order in Marlboro society. In the clear light of the living room Norma noted the fine quality of the milk wrap, the contumacious that was automatic even in such a tender mood, the real lace, faintly ivory, showing at the opening of her coat. These were details that shrieked wealth and precedence.

"Well, Mom," Mark was saying now. "I guess you ran into Norma out in the hall. No use to introduce you two. Great girl, isn't she?"

Mother? And Norma knows what a brick you are. Well, say it's good to see you here. Stay for dinner with us, won't you?"

The words fell on Norma's ears with a perplexing sense of unreality. Mark was talking as though nothing had happened that afternoon. He was talking as though he and she hadn't come to the end of their life together. As though everything were over!

"I can't stay, dear." It was Mrs. Travers who was speaking. "I'd love to. There's nothing I'd like better but you'll understand why I can't. It's something else I've come to talk about, Mark—something I hope will make us all so much happier!"

Lucky for Norma they excluded her from the conversation. Her glance went from Mark to his mother. She had brought Mrs. Travers into the apartment because it was the only conceivable thing to do. Now Norma found herself acting a lie. She ought to have spoken up—told Mark's mother she could take her son home again—that Norma herself would never again come between Mark and his family. Somehow she couldn't do it no matter how much she knew she should.

These thoughts raced through the girl's mind as she heard the others talking. Evidently his mother's words had startled Mark. He looked up quickly.

"Just what was it you came to talk about?" he asked.

"But you must know, dear. It's about your father—"

"Did he tell you to come? Does he know you're here now?"

Mrs. Travers shook her head. "No doesn't know," she admitted.

"Not yet. But these weeks have been hard on your father, Mark. He misses you as much as I do. He's been worrying a lot lately. Can't sleep—poor digestion. I know it's because he feels he acted as he shouldn't."

"But if he isn't ready to admit it—"

"Now, Mark, dear, you're not going to disappoint me! Please say you won't! All that you have to do is go to your father and tell him you're sorry for what happened. Tell him you spoke hastily and that you've been thinking it over since."

"Oh, I see!" Mark's eyes were suddenly blazing. "You want me to go to Dad with an apology and ask to be forgiven! So that's it!"

Mrs. Travers cut in, deeply agitated. "You're taking it the wrong way, Mark! When it's such a little thing that I'm asking—just for you to tell your father you're sorry for your part of the quarrel. It will make everything all right. He'll forgive you. I know he's been trying to find an excuse to forgive you for weeks! And you can come home and we'll all be together again. Surely you'll do this simple thing that I'm asking! Do it for me, Mark! I beg you to!"

It was all like part of a stage play to Norma. She listened to what first Mark said; then his mother was saying. Difficult to believe that all this had anything to do with herself. Apparently the others had forgotten her.

Mark turned squarely toward his mother. "I can't do it for you or anyone. He told me to get out and I did it. I won't come back until he asks me to! You can tell him that—for me!"

Mrs. Travers put a handkerchief to her eyes. "You're just like him!" she sobbed. "You're just as determined and stubborn as your father is. Oh, Mark, why will you disappoint me so!"

"Sorry, mother, but you've asked the one thing I can't do. What about Norma? She and I are married you know why I couldn't."

Comedy and Charm Abound in Hit

A generous portion of the world's available screenland charm has been affixed to the latest effort of Eddie Dowling, brilliant young man who wrote, directed and acted in "Honeymoon Lane" on the stage in New York and other cities and who now appears in the same opus on the talking screen at the Palace theatre today and Friday.

"Honeymoon Lane" has been altered slightly as to time, place, action and personnel. But it is essentially the same charming story as that of the original—with an abundance of exhilarating comedy thrown in for good measure.

Dowling is seen as the employe in a luxurious summer resort gambling hall operated by Noah Beery, June Collyer, Noah's niece, is in love with Eddie, and Beery tries to upset the romance by accusing Eddie of crookedness in his duties. Dowling leaves in disgrace and goes to the broken-down hotel of Mary Carr, motherly old widow who gives him a job as manager. By exploiting mother Carr's famous pies, Eddie manages to build up a clientele for her place.

Meanwhile June has learned the truth about Eddie and their romance is mended. Good luck comes in the visit of a European king who stour at Eddie's hotel incognito. Later, when Beery appears and tries to put Eddie into disfavor with mother Carr, the king takes a hand and Beery is undone.

Dowling's first picture success was "The Rainbow Man."
