Hotel Men Choose Cisco for Convention, Report Says

MEETING TO BE HELD IN SEPTEMBER

According to a brief, unconfirmed report received by the Cisco Daily News Saturday night, Cisco was chosen as the next meeting place of the West Texas Hotel Men's association which closed a convention in Wichita Falls yesterday. The association of hotel men, its membership comprising managers and proprietors of the leading hotels in West Texas, will meet in Cisco.

All Quiet Along Red River Front

DENISON, July 18.—The "battle of Red River" tonight reached a state of watchful waiting. Entrenched at the Texas end of the free bridge across the sluggish stream here, four stalwart Texas rangers with guns strapped to their waists, maintained constant vigil. They were on guard against a possible foray from the detachment of highway department employees, Gov. W. H. Murray, of Oklahoma, sent into the field in open warfare on three toll bridges across the stream.

FORD SCHOOL IS SOUGHT FOR CISCO

W. H. Kittrell, noting some time ago the proposal of Henry Ford to erect technological schools in various sections of the United States for which Mr. Ford is said to have appropriated many millions of dollars for expenditure through the Edison Institute of Technology, has taken up with that institute the possibility of securing one of the schools for Cisco. His first letter in which a description of Cisco, its location, environment and resources was enclosed, was acknowledged with the information that the institute was just then in the process of organization and that the first school at Dearborn would first be placed in operation.

Bandits Taken After Thrilling Man Hunt

WATSEKA, Ill., July 18.—Fearing mob violence, officials of Iroquois and Ford counties maintained a heavy guard to guard the Watskeka jail where they were holding three bandits who robbed a bank at Buckley, killed a deputy sheriff and were captured after one of the most exciting man hunts in the history of eastern Illinois.

Mrs. Burette Patterson has returned from Houston where she visited her daughter, Mrs. Dave Carlton. Mrs. Carlton returned with her for a visit.

NEW TRAFFIC REGULATIONS ARE ENFORCED

"Stop" on the new traffic signs on Cisco streets means what it says, said Chief of Police W. M. Miller Saturday, in asserting that many of the motorists merely slow down and change to second gear in passing the signs, if they make any pretense of observing the signs at all. He said that this is construed as failure to obey the signals and that it will mean being summoned into corporation court as much so as if the motorist disregards the signs altogether.

Two Small Children Overcome With Monoxide Gas Poisoning Saturday

Two small children, riding in the turtle-back of a small roadster, were overcome with monoxide gas poisoning on the street here Saturday morning. The children, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Simmons, of Baird, and Ruby Carson, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Carsons, also of Baird, were treated at a local physician's office where they recovered.

Position in Opposing Cancellation of Amusement Contract Misunderstood---Fee

TEXAS HAS MORE PEOPLE THAN COWS.

Bascom N. Timmons writes that the day when Texas has less than a cow per capita has arrived; that in 1930 for the first time since Texas was a republic, there were more people in Texas than there were cows on the range. According to the figures made public by the census bureau, there were 5,824,715 in Texas in 1930 as compared with 5,567,175 cattle. Moreover in the decade between 1920 and 1930 the number of people in the Lone Star state increased by 1,360,487 and the number of cattle decreased 589,530.

Speaking of dairy cattle Correspondent Timmons says Tarrant county which supplies the Fort Worth and Dallas milk market led but barely pushed Harris county, which in part supplies the Houston market, out of first place; Tarrant county having 21,150 and Harris 21,031. Dallas was third in milk cows with 17,005; Bexar which supplies the San Antonio milk market was fourth with 16,486, followed by McLennan which supplies the Waco market with 12,805, and Grayson, which helps supply the Dallas market, with 12,354; Travis, which supplies the Austin market, had 10,068, Fayette, which gets into both the Houston and San Antonio markets, had 16,097; Jefferson county, which supplies the Beaumont and Port Arthur markets, had 5874; Potter and Randall, which supply the Amarillo market, had 1605.

Bascom N. Timmons is a Washington correspondent who knows his Texas, its people and its history, and why not? He is a native of the Panhandle country. He grew to manhood in the Panhandle. He invaded the newspaper business in the Panhandle. He won his spurs in the office of a country weekly, moved on to a Texas daily in the city of Fort Worth, had his try out and then marched on to Washington where he fixed a place for himself in the newspaper sun.

COL. GAW OF CHICAGO

Col. George D. Gaw was born in Kentucky. Twenty-one years ago he invaded Chicago with only a puppy dog and a stick of licorice to kill his appetite. Now he has been named by Mayor Anton Cermak as an official greeter. Gaw must have been a quick traveler. In Chicago he piled up a fortune and a vast deal of popularity. He was made a colonel by a former governor Edwin P. Morrow of Kentucky. There are more colonels in Kentucky than there are oil stock sellers in Texas. Col. Gaw will have at his disposal as official greeter a snow white automobile and two white motorcycles for police outriders to escort the distinguished guests of the city. Col. Gaw is loaded to the muzzle with argument. It is his viewpoint that Chicago is the world's best city. Chicago has 700,000 school pupils. Chicago has nearly 35,000 acres of forest preserve. Chicago has 18,000 acres of city parks. Chicago has 1700 churches. Chicago has 18,000 school teachers. Chicago has put away Col. Alphonso Capone. Now Col. George D. Gaw is to be in the headlines of the American press. He is a democrat and he has been named as the first official greeter of the Wonder City of the Lakes.

COST OF GOVERNING AMERICAN CITIES.

Cost of governing American cities amounted to $39,000,000 in 1929, driving the municipal debt $304,000,000 upward. This covered financial statistics for 250 cities having a population of over 30,000. Total net municipal debt was $6,130,289,500 or a 5 per cent increase over 1928 and over one-third the public debt of the federal government. Education took 33 per cent of the general operating expenditures.

STUDENTS PAY THEIR DEBTS.

Oklahoma is known as the "Sooner State." It is Dr. W. B. Bizzell, a former Texan who is president of the Oklahoma university. He has let it be known Lew Wentz student loan foundation at the University has operated for five years, and all this without a single student's note being charged off the books as being uncollectable. This is shown by the report of the university auditor. Loans totalling $50,992 were made to 207 students during the last school year. Records of the Wentz Foundation, established for the aid of deserving students, now totals $134,600.56.

Lew Wentz is an oil millionaire. He is one of the generous patrons of the university. He is a republican. Governor Murray does not fancy Wentz either as a personal friend or a political enemy. While the legislature was on the governor handled the university without gloves. Now the olive branch seems to have been accepted by all concerned. Governor Bill has other fish to fry. It is petroleum this time. He believes that there should be a shut down of all oil wells in the Southwest and he is patiently waiting for Texas to lead the way. Where is Cicero? In the not remote past he was in oil up to his ears. Now crude is selling as low as eight cents in the East Texas field and Texas lawmakers are invited to solve the cross puzzle which affects the interests of ten states and the pockets of thousands who are engaged in the petroleum game.

WATCHING THEIR THREE BILLIONS.

According to Washington advices American business with three billion or more at stake is keeping close watch on the German financial situation. Half this sum represents long term investments in Germany, acquired since the world war. These figures compiled by the department of commerce do not take into consideration short time credit estimated at one billion dollars. Americans hold a half billion dollars worth of bonds of government guaranteed corporations including banking and public utilities, and another investment to private corporations of all kinds totals $400,000,000. Americans own an interest in 78 German concerns and the International General Electric company, the General Motors company, and Henry Ford are said to be in the three largest investors in Germany concerns and branch houses. There is no means, it was said at the department of commerce, of ascertaining with any definiteness the amount of short term credit allowed German firms and banks by American banks and individuals, but this may run anywhere between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000. Before the coming of the World War men talked in millions. After the war they talked in billions. And the gold mines of the world are said to be decreasing in output from year to year. As for silver, it will be as cheap as copper unless Senator Key Pittman of Nevada forces the restoration of the white metal and places it on a par with gold. Senator Pittman is on his way to China to bring about its resurrection. What is needed just now is a market for the surplus cotton crop of the South. Foreign buyers are needed and in the "good old days" Germany was one of the largest takers of the fleecy staple.

Some of the new movie heroes have no assured future, and others are hated by every man who sees them.
The honeymoon isn't over if she mentions the change she found in the cracks beside the cushion of his easy chair.
A cynic is a man who accepts the word of nobody except an outlaw who can get $30 a case more by lying to his patrons.

OTHER OPINIONS

THIS GREAT TEXAS.

The writer once stated that all the people in the world could live in Texas—if they were friends. If they were not friends they would find the condition rather congested. But the man who made the statement was printing out the vastness of this area which wears the name of Texas. Every now and then someone in the East arises to ask what Texas is like. It is no more possible to answer that question than it is to tell what the United States is like. There is just as much diversity in Texas as there is in the United States as a whole. Texas might be described as a piney-woods country, a land of soft balsam and sighing boughs; a land of red hills, and winding roads, and old picturesque farmhouses. That would be East Texas, and it would be Texas. Texas might be described as a land of black prairies, undulating, flower-strewn, dotted with farmhouses and pretty villages; a land where one may look for miles across green cotton fields where the bells are bursting into snowy blooms. And this would be Texas. The writer may tell of bread, treeless plains sweeping into the sunset; of ranch houses with their windmills, of herds of cattle roaming over the fields, of cowboys and "broncho-busters" and big-hatted

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Mr. Raymond Benjamin of California came to Washington late in 1930 and is still here.

When Mr. Benjamin came it was widely heralded that he would serve as a political advisor to President Hoover, would be the real brains of the Hoover effort for renomination and reelection and very likely would be the next chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Subsequently all such suggestions have been pool-pooled at the White House and by Republican leaders here and by Mr. Benjamin himself, who now has a law office in the Transportation building. This building, incidentally, is close to the Barr building, headquarters of the national committee, is full of Republicans and at campaign times large parts of it are hired for G. O. P. national activities. Mr. Benjamin at first was having an office in the Barr building, but changed.

Those White House Calls

Considering the denials of Mr. Benjamin's political importance, his success in avoiding publicity and the general ignorance of what his activities for Mr. Hoover consist of, if any, you may be surprised to hear that he is now rated as the big mystery man of Washington and is even believed by some to be the unofficial directing force in the Republican party organization.

Anyone who believes that Mr. Benjamin is here just to practice law finds no encouragement for this belief when he finds Mr. Benjamin showing up at the White House simultaneously with some of the party's most practical working leaders. It does appear, however, that he takes cases, because being a lawyer is his business as well as being a politician and he is not giving it up.

Mr. Benjamin is now regarded as among the few men from whom will be chosen a national chairman to succeed Senator Simeon Fess of Ohio who, if he is still chairman, when the next Republican convention meets, is found in the American Bar association Journal for July.

Grover Cleveland said that a public office was a public trust and not a private snap.

This is the canon of the Chicago Bar association which has been given wide circulation the country over.

"When a lawyer is elected to the legislature, or to an executive or any other public office of any kind, or holds any public employment, by election or appointment, his duty as a holder of such office or employment requires him to represent the public with undivided fidelity. His obligation as a lawyer (with which we are concerned) continues. As an example, it is improper for him to represent conflicting interests and therefore it is improper for him to act professionally for any person or corporation, including a municipal corporation or for any other private or public body which is actively or specially interested in the promotion or defeat of legislative or other matters proposed or pending before the public body of which he is a member or by which he is employed or before him as the holder of a public office or employment.

"The principle is not that these interests do necessarily conflict but that they may conflict; no lawyer (says the canon) having duties to perform of a fiduciary nature, shall be allowed to enter into an engagement in which he has, or can have, a personal interest conflicting or which possibly may conflict, with the interests of those whom he is bound to protect. There are other applications of the code of legal ethics to the special case of a lawyer in public office, but it is unnecessary to detail these. These are over and above the duties which are not peculiar to lawyers, but which apply equally to laymen in public office; such as the duty to preserve the legislative branch free and independent of control by the executive an independence which can scarcely be maintained if a considerable number of members of the legislature are in receipt of salaries from employment in the gift of public offices or boards, local, state or federal for it is to them that the member may feel responsible for his conduct in office and he may look to them for direction and advancement passing over the public, the true and ultimate source of his authority.

"These are considerations which the lawyer in public office, above all men, should have at heart and in failing to observe them he is recreant not only as one in public office or employment, but also to his professional obligations as a lawyer."

It appears that the Chicago Bar association in its adoption of this canon on the lawyer in public office has blazed a new trail.

Grover Cleveland must have rang the bell when he said, "A public office is a public trust and not a private snap."

WICK-WICK OF BOO-BOO ISLAND

When I spied those foot-prints in th' sand I knew we'd be in for it. Then I saw a big savage armed with a war-club watchin' us. We lit out for th' jungle, ducked into th' brush and crawled into a hollow stump. But that feller was smart. Before I knew what was up a big brown hand reached down, lifted me out and dropped me down on top of th' stump. Wow! that big brown warrior looked fierce. "What name you?" he growled. When I told him he glared at me like he would nip my head off.

Kangy and Singoot were mighty scared, and when th' savage pointed to th' jungle and roared "Skibooch," you can just bet we skiboached, with him pokin' me along with his war-club. Pretty soon we came out into a clearin' with a grass house in th' center of it. Then all of a sudden th' big feller commenced to laugh, told me he was a joker, and that he wouldn't hurt me.

Then he told me his name was Wick-Wick and introduced a fat, brown woman and a little fat, brown youngster as th' Missus and little Wick-Wick. Pretty soon we were th' best of friends. Wick-Wick then told me that another white man lived on a little island close by. I wanted to see this white man so my brown friend paddled my pals and me over to th' island. Right then was when trouble started for us. Don't miss your next yarn!

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Social Service in Religion

Text: Acts 4:32-35; 6:1-4; 2 Cor. 9:1-7.

And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and of one soul; neither said any of them that aught of the things which he possessed was his own; but they had all things common.

And with great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus; and great grace was upon them all. Neither was there any among them that lacked; for as many as were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold.

And laid them down at the apostles' feet; and distribution was made unto every man according as he had need.

And in those days, when the number of the disciples was multiplied there arose a murmuring of the Grecians against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the daily ministrations. Then the 12 called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, It is not reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve tables.

Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business. But we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word.

For as touching the ministering to the saints, it is superfluous for me to write to you.

For I know the forwardness of your mind, for which I boast often to them of Macedonia, that Achaia was ready a year ago; and your zeal hath provoked very many.

Yet have I sent the brethren, lest your boasting of you should be in vain in this behalf; that, as I said, ye may be ready.

Let them happily if they of Macedonia come with me, and find you unprepared, we (that we say not, ye) should be ashamed in this same confident boasting.

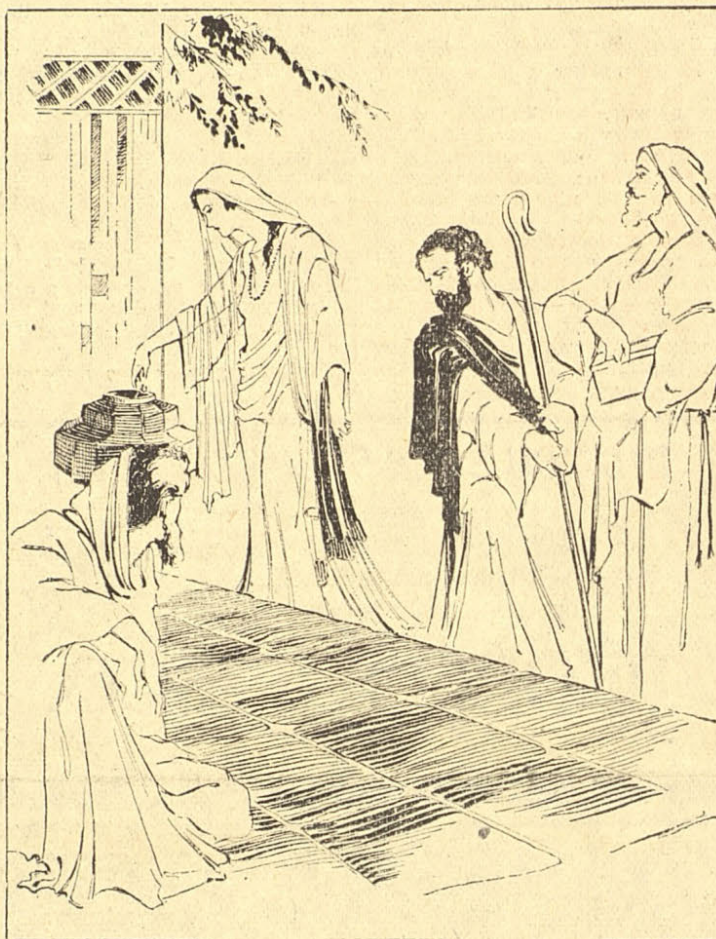

Therefore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, that they would go before unto you, and make up beforehand your bounty, whereof ye had notice before, that the same might be ready, as a matter of bounty, and not as of covetousness.

But this I say, He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly, and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully. Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity; for God loveth a cheerful giver.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 19 Social Service in the Early church. Acts 4:32-35; 6:1-4; 2 Cor. 9:1-7.

By W. M. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist The expression "social service" belongs to our own age, and in some measure the social outlook and practice of religion which are so commonly emphasized at the present time are of recent development in the modern world. There was a long period when religion was thought of as relating largely to individual character and habits with rather secondary reference to matters of elemental right and social justice. But that period of emphasis on individual religion, with a corresponding but entirely unwarranted lack of emphasis upon social religion, was not in harmony with the great expressions of Christianity, for the religion of Jesus, and the religion that Jesus bequeathed to his disciples, was a religion that very quickly and very definitely manifested itself in what we call today social service.

Laying Foundation In the Parable of the Good Samaritan Jesus laid as clearly and definitely as it could be laid the foundation for social religion, and he indicated the necessity of social religion if religion was to have any real meaning at all. The devout individuals who passed neglectfully by the man wounded and bleeding on the highway, whatever their individual earnestness may have been, were not exemplifying true religion, which in its very spirit is based upon love and brotherhood, flowing from the love of God himself. The late Dr. F. B. Meyer once exemplified the change that has come in the emphasis upon social religion by a reference to his own experience. He said that there was a time when he thought his whole duty was fulfilled if he helped to rescue some poor man who had been beaten and robbed and left by the wayside. But he had discovered that his duty was not fulfilled when he had done that. He had come to see that it was necessary, also, to stir up the authorities at Jerusalem to go down and root out the whole gang of thieves and robbers and make the highway safe for wayfarers.

Here in our lesson the forms of social service in which Christianity became quickly expressed were elemental. The first section of the lesson describes something very much like what we should call Communism today, though it was a communism not of force and violence but a communism of love and of willingness to share what one had with one's less happily situated fellow Christians. Most assuredly, this small group of Christians established something that typified an ideal society in attaining conditions where nobody lacked for food or the necessities of life. However, it requires real religion to initiate a system like that and to put it into effect.

Even in these ideal conditions also, there were those who were trouble-makers. It is not easy to satisfy everybody and, as our lesson puts it, "there arose a murmuring of the Grecian Jews against the Hebrews because their widows were neglected in the daily ministrations." These complaints, however, had a very effective and valuable result, for they led to the appointment of deacons to adjust such matters fairly, and Stephen, who was later to become the first Christian martyr, was also the first of the deacons. It is interesting, also, to note the order of services in the early Christian church. Those who were capable of doing certain things were not so well adapted for other things, and so there arose the purpose, and assign to each one the task that he could best fulfill.

Paul's Example The passage from II Corinthians, which is attached to the two passages from the Book of the Acts, indicates the extent to which through the spirit and example of Paul, the expression of Christian faith and experience in social service became widespread wherever the church was established. The social manifestation of religion is so elemental in all that Jesus taught and in all that he and the early disciples practiced that the marvel is that anybody should conceive that there can be real religion that is not in its depth and

Mrs. Robert Dawley and little daughter of Caddo visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Henslee Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Williams and two children left on Wednesday of last week for Jonesboro where they will visit relatives for a month. We are glad to report that Mr. Williams is able to walk with the aid of a cane after having been seriously ill for two months.

Mr. and Mrs. Stemmmons of Dallas visited Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass Monday. Mr. Stemmmons was an oil operator here during boom days.

Mrs. R. A. Walker and daughter Miss Alline Walker drove to Caddo Monday to visit old friends.

Mrs. Edwin Toombes of Fort Worth was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. A. B. Henslee, Sunday.

Mrs. A. K. Barnes and children of Dallas arrived last week and will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Griffin for some time before going to Los Angeles where Mr. Barnes has a position.

Mrs. Guy Tidwell drove to Comanche last week expecting to meet Mrs. Roy Bullington who recently came from Corte Madera, California to visit relatives at Hamilton. She phoned Mrs. Tidwell the relatives from Dallas had come to Hamilton to see her so she would have to wait until later to visit her many friends in Desdemona.

J. W. Triplett of Cisco was here on business Friday.

W. H. Jobe of Putnam was a business visitor here Friday.

J. E. Derrick drove to Dublin on business Tuesday. He was accompanied by his daughter, Martha, who visited friends there.

Mrs. Betty Vestal went to Fort Worth last week for a short visit with Mrs. Bob Logan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Parks and their son and daughter, returned Monday from Liberal, Kansas, where they had visited her sister for a week.

The Methodist Missionary Society held a very interesting meeting at the church Monday afternoon. The subject was "Elihu" and instructive talks on the subject were given by Miss Nora Robert as substitute for her sister, Mrs. Brattin, who was ill, and by Mrs. W. H. Whitworth. Bible questions were led by Mrs. Bedford.

Last Sunday afternoon at Gorman two of Desdemona's popular young people, Richard Krapf and Miss Loveda Clayton, were married. Both the bride and groom have lived here since childhood and have hosts of friends who wish them the greatest happiness. Immediately after their marriage, they came back to Desdemona and visited with Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Krapf, parents of the groom, for a little while and then went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Clayton, parents of the bride, who visited for about an hour and left for Gladewater, Texas, where the groom has a good position with an oil well supply company.

Troy Murphy, formerly of Desdemona but now of Stamford, visited friends here last Sunday.

C. B. Rushing and family visited relatives here last Sunday.

Mrs. Simmons of Olney spent the weekend here with her two daughters, Mrs. Carl Law and Mrs. Claude Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Gallagher, formerly of Desdemona but now of Cisco visited friends and relatives here last Sunday.

Mrs. Ella Nabors Love is now assisting in the local telephone office having taken the place made vacant by the resignation of Miss Clyde Wilhite.

O. G. Lawson and two sons, Melvin and Victor formerly of Desdemona but now of Cisco, visited friends here last Sunday.

Weldon Rushing went out to Abilene Monday to play in a ball game. He has been playing on both the Desdemona and Abilene teams this summer.

Mrs. Tom Nabors and her daughter, Miss Irene Nabors are visiting Mrs. E. E. Setzer (nee Connie Mae Nabors) at McCamey.

Ben Holt of Stephenville was here last Sunday to attend the ball game. His brother-in-law, Cas Rawlston, and wife of Stephenville were also here.

Friends here have received newspaper clippings and cards announcing the marriage of Kenneth Paul and Miss Clyde Wilhite. The marriage took place at Randall, Kansas, on Friday evening July 3rd, 1931. Just after the marriage a reception and shower of various gifts was given at the home of Mrs. Gyle Green. The bride is very pretty and attractive girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Wilhite, who live just west of town. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Paul, formerly of Desdemona but now of Randall, Kansas, where the young couple will make their home. A large circle of friends extend best wishes to them.

Virgil Nabors left Monday for El Paso to re-enter the Veterans' hospital. His many friends hope he will soon improve and return home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Glass and son, Donald, left Monday for Carlsbad, California, where they will be their first stopping place while on their vacation.

Mrs. Joe Borden spent Saturday with Mrs. A. M. Harrison at Rancho. Mrs. S. T. Wilhite was seriously ill. Her daughter, Mrs. Joe Borden, Jr., arrived from Abilene this afternoon and is still with her mother. The Harrison's formerly lived in Desdemona and hosts of friends will regret to learn of Mrs. Harrison's illness.

Mrs. Obed Henslee entertained very delightfully Saturday afternoon with a miscellaneous shower in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Minor Wallace, who is a recent bride. Many lovely gifts were received by the honoree and the hostess served delicious refreshments.

The marriage of Miss Pearl Bruce of Desdemona to R. D. Hendrix of Gatesville, took place at Gorman, Tuesday morning July 14th, 1931. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Bruce and is a very attractive girl, of a very studious nature, having been the honor pupil in her class when she graduated at Desdemona high school and having made a fine record at John Tarleton college. The groom is a young man of a very pleasant personality, an ex-student of John Tarleton college and his home is at Gatesville, Texas where they will reside. Hosts of friends join in extending best wishes to them.

Mrs. J. H. Rushing entertained her Sunday school class the Baptist junior girls Monday night on the lawn at her home. Games were played and the hostess served delicious refreshments of cake, fruit punch, sandwiches and home-made candy.

THOROUGH GREASING

A thorough Greasing Job regularly is the most important thing for your car outside of crankcase service—WE DO BOTH.—But speaking of grease jobs—there are two kinds—one that applies the grease in an indifferent way—if it lubricates the joint, well and good; if it fails to penetrate as it should, just so bad for your car—

We do it differently—Care is taken to see that every joint is thoroughly lubricated—if a joint is "frozen" (stuck) we give it special attention until it works freely—inshort, we make it our business to take the same care as though the car were our very own—

"More cars are junked through lack of proper lubrication than through usage."

Party Honors Supt. Cluck on Occasion of Birthday Friday

Prominent among social affairs of the late week was a party given Friday evening at the Country club honoring Supt. R. N. Cluck the occasion being his birthday. Daises were featured in decorations, and their color of yellow and white was used in the color scheme. The large white birthday cake with yellow candles, attractively arranged and daises and ferns, centered the table. The affair was a complete surprise to Mr. Cluck, his first knowledge of being honored being obtained from a speech made by P. D. Wright after the guests had been seated in the dining room. A delicious three course dinner was served. A theater party completed this most enjoyable occasion.

Invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Wright and son, Billy, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ponsler, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Varnell and daughter, Mary, Dr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. H. Brandon, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Drumwright, Dr. and Mrs. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. P. Walker, and Dr. and Mrs. Graham.

GLAD GIRLS CLASS HAS ICE CREAM SUPPER.

Among the enjoyable out-of-door entertainments given during the week was an ice cream supper given Thursday evening at the West Texas Utilities park by the Glad Girls class of the First Baptist Sunday school. Many fascinating games furnished diversion for the evening. Cake and cookies were served with the ice cream.

SEWING CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. HICKMAN.

Mrs. C. E. Hickman entertained members of the Happy Thimble club at her home on Bullard avenue Wednesday afternoon. A lovely color scheme of pink and green was effectively carried out in the delicious refreshments, consisting of open sandwiches, olives, marshmallow pudding with whipped cream, punch, and mints. Favors were miniature ducks floating in the punch.

MRS. ROBINSON HONORED AT MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.

Mrs. Homer Henley and Miss Earlene Hageman were hostesses Friday afternoon at the home of the former in Humboldt at a miscellaneous shower given as a surprise for Mrs. Howard Robinson, a recent bride. The entertaining rooms were beautifully adorned with gladioli and other cut flowers. The afternoon was spent informally with Miss Hageman conducting many interesting games. The many nice gifts were opened, passed around for all to view, and the donors most graciously thanked. Punch and cookies were served throughout the afternoon.

These present besides the hostesses and honoree were: Mesdames J. A. Smith, W. H. Mayhew, I. W. Robinson, Clyde Williams, L. E. Robinson, Clarence Cleere, A. J. Edwards, F. W. Murphy, Henry Huntington, L. B. Campbell, and Misses Zona Miller, Marjorie Noell, and Nona Mayhew.

MRS. BARKER HOSTESS AT CIRCLE MEETING.

Circle 3 of the First Methodist Missionary society held its most recent meeting at the home of Mrs. J. D. Barker on West Ninth street. Mrs. Wm. Reagan led the devotional the subject being "Living the Approved Life Here and Now" and Mrs. M. D. Paschall led in prayer. Miss Marian Chambliss gave several vocal numbers, Mrs. L. Thomas rendered a piano solo, and Mrs. J. W. Triplitt gave a reading.

During the social hour, the hostess served heavenly hash and lady fingers to the following: Mesdames W. H. Hurd, Joe Lovelady, C. H. Parish, W. W. Manning, Wm. Reagan, J. W. Triplitt, J. W. Fryar, Joe Witten, Owen Clark, C. C. Greenhaw, M. D. Paschall Sr., and C. E. Hickman.

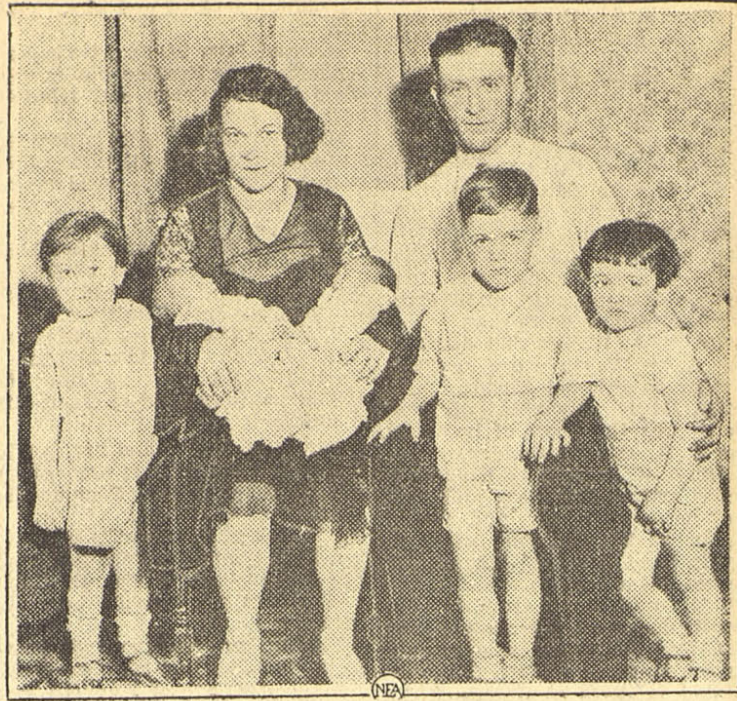

BAPTIST CIRCLE MEETS WITH MRS. COLE.

Circle 8 of the W. M. U. of the First Baptist church met recently at the home of Mrs. C. P. Cole on West 13th street. After a prayer by Mrs. Thomas, the devotional was read from the 6th chapter of Romans by Mrs. E. Clark. Two chapters of "Frenz Over the Border" were studied. Mrs. G. T. Huddleston led the dismissing prayer.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames B. Montgomery, Cole Thomas, Clark, Rey Morrison, G. T. Huddleston, and A. L. Miller.

FETED ON SEVENTH BIRTHDAY
Mrs. O. W. Shepherd honored her daughter, Betty, with a lawn party Friday afternoon, the occasion being Betty's seventh birthday. A very interesting impromptu program was given, each guest displaying his talents. Many amusing games were also played. At the close of the games, the little guests gathered around the table centered with the large white birthday cake with pink candles and sang the birthday song. The cake was then cut and served with frozen lolly pops and soda pop. Favors, which were suckers with

SOX DEFEAT RESORTERS SATURDAY

The Red Sox got off to a whirlwind start, scoring two runs in the first inning, in their game with the Mineral Wells Resorters here Saturday afternoon, but came near losing the game after the second inning when loose playing allowed the visitors to knot the count at four and four where it remained until the eighth inning.

H. Phippen got the visitors out with three pitched balls. The Red Sox came back with two more after Mineral Wells had scored one in their half of the second. Van Horn who had been injured was relieved at second base and Henson went in to the game. In this frame the locals went hay-wire and Mineral Wells scored three runs out of three hits and two errors. Hill went to second and Henson to right field while Bryan came in to pitch and H. Phippen took his place in center field. After this it was a nip and tuck battle until the eighth inning. Robinson got on base when Stoker, second baseman, fumbled his grounder, Hammitt was put on an attempted sacrifice, Henson got hold of one for a triple to center, scoring Robinson, J. Phippen walked and Henson scored when Alford flew out to deep center. Mineral Wells went out in order in the ninth.

Hill was the star of the game for the locals making a long running catch in right field in the first inning and came back in the third inning to throw a runner out at the plate after he had singled to right. He was then moved into second where he had nine more chances which he handled faultlessly, starting two double plays and ending the game with the fielding gem of the afternoon. Robinson fumbled Stokers grounder and Hill came in and covered first, taking the toss from Robinson and retiring the side. Outside of his work in the field he got a triple and two singles in four trips to the plate.

ALL-STARS HERE TODAY.

This afternoon at 3 p. m. the Red Sox will engage the Ft. Worth All-Stars in what promises to be one of the toughest battles of the year. The Ft. Worth club is composed of the star players picked from the sand-lots of Ft. Worth. In their line-up will be Cashion, former Shreveport Texas leaguer. He was one of the leading ten hitters in the Texas league last year. Grande, another out-felder hit balls over the fence for the Ft. Worth farm in the Cotton States league last year. Tarpley on second base looks like a combination of Hensby and Eddie Collins. Their pitching staff consists of Mooty, Ferguson and Hobbs. Anyone looking over their line-up will see names that are familiar in professional baseball from the lead-off man down to the pitchers. Neither manager has announced put your Telephone on Half-pay during Vacation

You'll save money... and spare yourself inconvenience when you return.

"Something should be done about this"

The Rumseys are going vacationing. The milk's been stopped, the ice man has been called off, and the Man Who Delivers the Newspaper has been instructed to bring no more until further notice.

But the telephone will be left at home, drawing full pay in an empty house!

Something should be done about this!

Vacation rates for idle residence telephones

One solution (provided you're planning a vacation of 30 days or more) is to place your telephone on vacation half-rates while you are away.

It's a convenient way to save money. And—this to folks who sometimes have their telephones taken out—it spares you inconvenience on your return.

That's because:

1. You pay just half the regular rate.
2. Service is reconnected quickly after you return—usually within 24 hours after you notify us.
3. You keep your present telephone number. (You'd lose it if you had your telephone removed!)
4. Your name remains in the telephone book.

If you wish, while you are away we will refer your calls to another telephone—that of relatives, for instance.

Vacation rates are available for periods of more than 30 days. They apply only to residence telephones—not to business or rural service.

To obtain them, mail the coupon below, or telephone the business office:

MAKING UP YOUR LIST

Perhaps you do your staple shopping by the week. Larger items you renew each month.

Household furnishings, automobiles, radios, and similar things are in the nature of investments, whether for months, for years, or for life. You buy these things at long intervals.

But no matter what you buy, you serve yourself best if you plan your purchases in advance. Every list you make is a budget in itself. Careful study of the advertisements will always help you in picking and choosing . . . in comparing prices . . . in weighing your needs and desires.

Making up your list is really a fascinating game when you play it against your allowance. The more careful you are in the preliminary study of the advertisements, the better will be your chance not only to get the best selection for your purpose . . . but also to find out in advance how much money you can save for unplanned extras!

Heart of Liane by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY When Liane Barrett and her mother, Cass Barrett, stock actress, go to Willow Stream, L. I., for the summer, Cass is alarmed to find Liane knows Van Robard, handsome millionaire. She asks the girl not see him any more. Muriel Ladd, debutante, is believed to have eloped with Chuck Desmond, reporter, and Liane accompanies Robard in a search. Muriel turns up safe and sound. Elsie Minter crushes Liane by telling her there is gossip about Robard and Mrs. Ladd. News comes of Muriel's engagement to Van. Cass Barrett goes on tour, leaving Liane with the rich Mrs. Cleespaugh at Willow Stream. Cass is taken seriously ill and Liane goes to her. Cass recovers.

But since my son has chosen," said here her old head went up, proudly, "since my son has chosen I shall abide by his choice." Liane thanked her. "You're very young," Mrs. Cleespaugh went on. "That's a point for you and against you. Clive is stubborn but he has a sweet nature if he's handled properly. You will have to learn that." She adjusted her lorgnette. "Now about details. I am preparing an announcement for the newspapers which I shall submit for your mother's approval. We had better see to that at once since Clive tells me you wish to marry before the first of the year." "I hope it can be a very quiet wedding," Liane said slowly. "My dear, you must allow me to see to your trousseau," Mrs. Cleespaugh said kindly and firmly. "Our mother has had a difficult time of it."

In her delirium the sick woman babbles of some mystery concerning the old lady, and Liane comes back to the Cleespaugh's home to convalesce. Clive Cleespaugh, good looking son of the house, asks Liane to marry him. She refuses at first but later accepts for her mother's sake. Fanny Amberton and Tressa Lord sisters, come to visit the Liane. Robard dines there and makes love to Liane. She tells him she is to be married. Tressa suspects an affair between Clive and Liane and determines to break it up. Fanny tells Tressa that Van is the adopted son of the man whose name he bears.

Now go on with THE STORY CHAPTER XXI Cass looked strange and unfamiliar in her old black frock. It sat loosely on her, with that curious air street clothes assume when donned by the convalescent. Her hair was nicely done, though, and in spite of her thinness and obvious air of frailty she looked well. Liane said, "Mother, aren't you smart! Walking around this way." "I've told Miss Nebbit you won't need her any more," Cass said firmly. "Mrs. Cleespaugh wanted her to stay on but it's nonsense. I'm well as well as can be. And so anxious to pay back my indebtedness."

Liane gave her a worried glance. "Dearest, you mustn't. The doctor says you're coming along splendidly but you're not able to get back into harness for a while." "Look here, honey," said Cass with something of her old, capable manner. "I've been taking care of you, lo, these 19 summers and it's too late to turn the tables. Besides, I can't stay on here much longer. You've heard of wearing out one's welcome! Mrs. Cleespaugh has been fine and I appreciate it but there's no reason I should become a pensioner of hers."

"Of course," Liane murmured. "Shan Williams, we must have," the old lady muttered, "and your mother and John Burdick, and Van Robard, of course, with that impossible girl. Then there will be Tressa and Fanny and we shall have to get men for them. David Lester and Hart Watrous are at the Hunt Club for the month. We can ask them. We shall be 12 with you and Clive. I dislike a larger party."

Liane, making notes, nodded gravely. If the pageant of formal parties opening before her dismayed her a little she gave no sign. "You'll be needing frocks, too," the old lady observed. "I shall open accounts for you at Handel's and Chez Lisette and we can go into town one day this week for fittings." "You are far too good to me," Liane murmured, turning to go. "The things I have will do quite well and I should be happier in my old things. This seems rather like sailing under false colors, doesn't it?"

"Nonsense, my dear," said the old lady decisively. "There's no point to that attitude. I should be very much displeased if you did not let me have my way in this." Liane passed Clive in the hall. "All set?" he asked in a low voice. "All set," the girl returned with a cheerfulness she did not feel. "Your mother's been so nice."

"What do you mean?" "Clive wants me to marry him. Do you mind?" "Clive!" said Cass, thunderstruck. "Young Mr. Cleespaugh? But you scarcely know him!" "I know him well enough," Liane answered. "He's—he's awfully nice."

"I knew she would when she'd time to get used to the idea," he said satisfied. "She was a bit emotional when I told her, but then Mother thinks family crises are things to get emotional about." "Is that what I am? A family crisis?" Liane asked smiling. "You?" Blue eyes stared into dark ones. For an instant his fair head was very close to hers. "Shall I tell you what I think you are really?"

Cass played with her strand of imitation pearls. "You love him, honey?" "I'm terribly fond of him," Liane told her honestly. "He's been splendid to me." "That would solve everything," Cass murmured as if to herself. Her brow cleared. "I won't pretend, darling, that I haven't been worried about you. It's a battle, this life of ours, and you haven't had all the advantages I might have wished for you. This—why this would be wonderful! You'd never have to worry again."

Liane, in the rose room, was being arrayed for the engagement dinner. The simplicity of her velvet gown, ivory in tone, accentuated the young purity of her profile, the innocent curves of her budding figure. Cass, magnificent in violet, was looking her up. "There. You're splendid," she observed cheerfully. "It's a sweet frock. It suits you."

"I suppose so," Cass agreed. "Although why it should honestly I don't know." "Clive wants an early wedding," Liane faltered. "I hope you don't mind." "Frightened of what for heaven's sake?" Cass' laugh sounded unaffected. "I don't know, quite."

Liane leaned back to catch her reflection in the mirror. "I'm—frightened," she said simply. Her great dark eyes were like limpid pools in the soft light. "Frightened of what for heaven's sake?" "Frightened of what for heaven's sake?" "I don't know, quite."

"The child talks of weddings and no engagement has even been announced," Cass laughed. Her color had brightened. She looked younger than she had in months. "By the way, does Mrs. Cleespaugh know of it?" "I think—I'm afraid, that—that Clive is breaking the news this morning," Liane said. "You're afraid? That's not a pleasant way to put it."

"I'm just staggered, I guess. Afraid of all these people." "My dear, they won't boo at you or throw things. Just make a good entrance, and the rest will be easy."

"I hope you're right," Liane said. Cass glanced at her anxiously. "Honey child, you're certain this is what you want to do?" she inquired. "You're not—just plunging into it without thinking?"

"It is simple. Take an old trouper's word for it. And remember you're every bit as good as any of them." "All right. Mother, did Mrs. Cleespaugh quiz you about the Barrett family tree?" "Cass colored. "Oh, we did have a little talk," she said vaguely. "I gave her our pedigree and she liked it."

narrowly watching, had seen her mother's color change. There was a flurry of talk as Nora entered with the tray. In the chatter Cass managed to slip aside. Liane made her way through the group. "Tired already, dear?" she wanted to know. Cass managed a strained smile. "Well, this is my first night out you know. I'll be all right directly."

EATING OUTDOORS

If you have ever traded dry meat sandwiches with a genial Alpine guide over the hospitality of the Swiss hospice; if you have rattled on the earthen stoop of a "travel light" cooking on a tin-can stove. Did you ever hear of one? A No. 3 tin can will make a sufficiently large stove, or you can use a lard bucket. Cut a four-inch square out of the side at the upper edge. Near the bottom on the opposite side cut another square hole, one and one-half inches. Turn the can upside down on the ground and build a fire in it. The large opening is used for refueling and the smoke comes out of the little hole. The top of the stand becomes hot for frying bacon, eggs, pancakes, or to set a saucepan on.

Some "Outdoor" Recipes

A MOTOR TRIP SANDWICH — Piquant Ham Sandwich: Spread between buttered bread the contents of a small can of deviled ham, one teaspoon chopped mustard pickles, one tablespoon chopped walnuts and one tablespoon mayonnaise.

A PICNIC FRUIT PUNCH — Coffee Punch: Mix one cup strong coffee, one cup orange juice and the syrup from two No. 2 cans of grapefruit (reserve the fruit for salads). Add one cup maple syrup and chill. Just before serving add one quart of gingerale and two cups of heavy cream, if desired. The cream may be omitted. This makes almost three quarts of punch.

MAIN DISH FOR CAMPING — Savory Baked Beans: Chop one onion, add one-half pound of hamburger steak and brown in two tablespoons fat. Add one can tomato soup, one can of oven-baked beans and salt to taste. Heat thoroughly and serve plain or over slices of brown bread.

A PORCH SUPPER DESSERT — Blueberry Charlotte: Remove crusts from eight or ten slices of bread, and butter the slices well. Heat to boiling one No. 2 can of blueberries (or use the fresh berries) and one-fourth cup of sugar. Butter a deep dish, and then arrange alternate layers of bread and hot berries, pressing down well, until all are used up. Let stand several hours in a cold place, turn out in a mold. Slice and serve with cream seasoned with sugar and nutmeg, or with whipped cream.

A GARDEN PARTY SALAD — Gingerale and Grapefruit Salad: Soak two tablespoons of gelatin in four tablespoons cold water, then dissolve it in one-half cup of boiling water. Add one-fourth cup sugar and one-fourth cup lemon juice and stir until the sugar is dissolved. When cold, add one cup gingerale and the syrup from one No. 2 can of grapefruit. About to set, add the grapefruit pulp and eight maraschino cherries; pour into a flat pan or into molds and let chill until stiff. Serve garnished at the side with sprigs of fresh mint and top with cream mayonnaise.

Picture Expose of Modern Youth

Is a man's love for a woman always great enough to overlook her past, or is her safest course one of secrecy with the hope that the skeleton can be kept locked in the cupboard? What girl can be sure that she is going to win forgiveness by confessing all? If she has made a mistake why not let it remain in the dim recesses of bygone days? She has realized the error of her ways and learned her lesson.

Alice Dunn was afraid of losing the love and respect of the man she was about to marry after a great tragedy and decided to keep silent. See what happened to this pitiful little figure in Rayart's new picture, "Should a Girl Marry?" an expose of modern youth, which is the featured attraction at the Palace theatre tomorrow and Tuesday.

Helen Foster and Donald Keith play the leads in this Trem Carr production.

Dr. Lee, a lecturer, will give his frank and true lecture for women,

"What Women Should Know" in connection with the picture Monday and Tuesday will talk to the men on "What Men Don't Know." Children under fourteen years of age will not be admitted either day. The picture will run for Monday and Tuesday at the Palace.

MONTGOMERY AGAIN

Robert Montgomery learned how to drop his H's from no less an authority than P. G. Wodehouse for his role of the English butler in "The Man in Possession," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which will be at the Palace theatre today only.

Wodehouse, who supplied additional dialogue for the picture, said that he is going to slice the H's off words on which they belong and taking them on where they have no business.

"That's the secret of English dialect," the noted British humorist told Montgomery. "Do anything backwards and you are sure to get a laugh."

Use of such Ficcadilly outbursts, as "Pip-pip," "Right-He!" "Sher-riot!" and "Chin-chin!" were suggested by Wodehouse to add emphasis to definite declarations.

"They add — well — er — they sound so bally — that is to say — well, bally — if you know what I mean!" advised Wodehouse, creator of Jeeves and other inimitable English fiction characters.

Montgomery is seen as a young Englishman who poses as a butler for the attractive but penniless young widow who is trying to entangle his brother into a marriage for his money. All sorts of complications arise. In the end he marries the widow himself of course.
