About Our Friends
By STEP A. LONG

Well, finally were going to get Jewel Poe started on his vacation... promises faithfully that he and his family will head out for cool Colorado in the morning... not sure yet whether he will drive up the mountain or just sit and look at the snow on the top... From there he would not divulge his plans further... reserves the right to do as he pleases from then on out... Well, Good Bye... have a good time.

Ray Godfrey, just so safe and dependable that he can't get into our column, it seems... Doesn't farm, raise chickens, go swimming or run about at nights... Perhaps when his throat heals a little more he will live up a bit and get into live Nick Miller's class... and Geo. Boyd's.

Henry Drumwright and all the lady clerks busy fussing over the new piece goods for school... all the fast colors of the rainbow and the hundreds of new ones invented since old Noah first saw the seven primary hues of the rainbow, given to him as a promise that no more floods would come to earth... even the dry goods people have to look at the tags in order to know what color the goods are... well, they're there if you want them.

Izzy still checking up on us... we just can't seem to put anything by that young chap... Old Happy Davidson, at Moldave's, played too long with little Happy this morning... came down late... tried to slip in unobserved while the boss's face was buried behind the morning paper.

Con Collins wondering where Daddy is... had no breakfast at a late hour... wondering when the morning swim will end... Connie

HOPSON GIVEN SUBPOENA FOR SENATE PROBE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Howard Hopson grinned broadly at a senate lobby committee subpoena served today and accepted a summons, after his three-weeks game of tag with committee agents had brought him to the brink of a citation for contempt.

Shortly after receiving the subpoena, Hopson apparently defied the committee and Chairman Hugo Black announced the case would be turned to the senate committee for contempt action at 3 p. m. if Hopson is still missing.

Black said he believed the committee already had the power specified but questions of its authority had been raised and it desired to clarify the point.

The additional powers included authority to investigate corporate structure, interlocking directorates, capitalization, salaries, contributions, and other financial arrangements, most of which necessitates a scrutiny of financial records.

EX-STUDENTS OF SCHOOL AT GORMAN MEET

EASTLAND, Aug. 14 — Cyrus B. Frost and Earl Bender of Eastland, ex-students of the Hankins college, were elected president and vice president of the former students association Monday as approximately 250 gathered at Gorman for the annual reunion.

Founders of the school, organized in 1905 and which disbanded in 1912, J. H. and J. E. Hankins of Lebock and J. B. McIntyre of Dallas, addressed ex-students.

Ex-students of the school were present from over Texas and about 25 telegrams and letters were read from those unable to attend.

E. E. Layton of Eastland was elected vice president while Mrs. Loma P. McKnight of Gorman was elected secretary-treasurer.

Program for the reunion was as follows: Address of welcome on behalf of city of Gorman, J. W. Cockrill; address of welcome on behalf of ex-students, Earl Bender; response, Mrs. Millie Drake of Breckenridge; invocation, Cecil Bryant of Abilene; reminiscences, Claude Spratling of Fort Worth; address, Lester Richardson of Houston.

County Judge Clyde L. Garrett, retiring president, was toastmaster. A basket lunch was served at noon by women of Gorman.

Decision on holding a reunion next year will be decided by the board of directors. It was indicated it may not be held because of the the Texas centennial.

From Eastland attending were: Earl Bender, C. S. Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Layton, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Haley, W. J. Herrington, W. H. Mullings, Omar Burkett, Mrs. A. C. Simmons, Judge Garrett, T. L. Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Edmondson.

Freak Trout Are Placed in Museum

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14 — As a rule, one brook trout turns out to be about like every other brook trout. There is a gratifying degree of normality about them.

But it seems there is need of a psychopathologist at the Tahoe City hatchery of the state division of fish and game to determine just what some of the finny inmates are trying to do.

There is a tankful of fish freaks that would have delighted P. T. Barnum. Twin fish that are linked back to back, side to side, or tail to tail, albino fish that are almost transparent, fish that have necks so twisted that they swim through life always looking behind them — these are some of the weird specimens Superintendent J. C. Lewis has gathered.

Lewis noticed the first museum specimen about a year ago. They have multiplied many fold since then.

One pair is hitched together near the tails. After months of experience they still try to swim in opposite directions.

A second pair is joined tandem fashion, the side of one to the tail of the other. The result has been that the forward twin gets the bulk of the food and outweighs his brother by several ounces.

All the freaks are in good health. They are fed ground liver, beef hearts and curdled milk. But they kept separated from the normal trout. The normal fish would give him a quarter.

OLD FUNNEL FOUND PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, WIS. — An ancient underground rock tunnel, connecting historic Fort Crawford with a nearby stone building, believed to have been a powder house, has been discovered by workers grubbing out an old elm at historic Villa Louis.

Alabama To Prosecute Scottsboro Case Anew By Reindicting Negroes

SCOTTSBORO, Ala., Aug. 14 — The state will be forced to start "from scratch" when it resumes prosecution of the negro defendants in the famous Scottsboro assault cases here this fall.

The indictments against the negroes were quashed by the U. S. supreme court in the spring when it held in effect the indictments and convictions were illegal because no negroes had been impaneled for service on either the grand jury which indicted them or the trial jury which sentenced them to death.

The indictments charged nine negroes with criminally assaulting Mrs. Victoria Price and Ruby Bates, white girl "hoboes," on a freight train near here on March 25, 1931.

New warrants have been sworn against the defendants by Mrs. Price, but they must be re-indicted this (Jackson) county and then taken to Decatur (Morgan county), Ala., for trial, as that court is the one which was reversed.

All Judges Instructed The high court decision, which reversed the death sentences of Heywood Patterson and Clarence Norris, two of the defendants, created a furore in southern judicial circles. It brought a letter from Governor Bibb Graves to all trial judges in Alabama, urging them to make their jury lists comply "with all legal requirements."

Solicitor H. H. Bailey of Scottsboro announced shortly afterward that the Jackson county jury list was being revised and the defendants would be re-indicted as soon as possible.

The grand jury has not been called into special session, and it is believed no action will be taken until it convenes regularly this fall.

The negroes are held, pending preliminary hearing, on the warrants sworn by Mrs. Price. She came here May 1 from her Huntsville, Ala., home and swore to the warrants. Thomas E. Knight, Jr., of Montgomery, now Lieutenant Governor and special prosecutor in the cases, instigated the move. His office said it was merely a technical one to insure imprisonment of the defendants after the Supreme Court mandate reversing the convictions of Patterson and Norris reached the court.

Habeas Writ Denied They were sworn only a week before the arrival of the formal mandate. Defense attorneys have been denied a writ of habeas corpus in the cases.

Two of the negroes named in the warrants have been remanded to the jurisdiction of the juvenile court. They are Roy White and Eugene Williams. The others accused by Mrs. Price are Patterson, Norris, Charlie Weems, Ozie Powell, Willie Roberson, Andy Wright and Olen Montgomery.

Just before the warrants were sworn, Samuel Leibowitz, New York attorney representing six of the defendants, filed a petition for a complete pardon with Governor Graves. No action has been taken on the petition.

Attack Occurred in 1931 In the four years that have elapsed since the alleged attack the cases have gone through three Alabama court trials, resulting in convictions and death sentences which have been reversed twice by the U. S. Supreme Court and once by an Alabama trial judge.

In the fall of 1922 the U. S. Supreme Court reversed the death sentence convictions on the grounds they had not had sufficient time to prepare a defense. The following spring, Patterson was convicted a second time when tried at Decatur on a change of venue. Circuit Judge James E. Horton gave him another trial on the grounds of insufficient evidence.

Patterson's third conviction and Norris' second came in December, 1933, when they were tried before Judge W. W. Callahan at Decatur after Horton excused himself. These were the convictions reversed by the U. S. Supreme Court in its most recent decision.

Girls in Men's Clothing According to the story of the women, the attack occurred in the coal car of a Southern railway train in Jackson county between Stevenson and Paint Rock, Ala.

The two women, dressed in men's clothing, were riding in the car with seven white men. In the car ahead were 12 negroes. Taunts led to a fight, and all but one of the white men were thrown from the train.

The fight occurred near Stevenson. The men telephoned to Scottsboro, asking the negroes be arrested for assaulting them and carrying concealed weapons.

The train had passed Scottsboro, but a telephone call resulted in the formation of a posse at Paint Rock which stopped the train and took from it nine negroes. According to the women, between Stevenson and Paint Rock the negroes held them, intimidating them with a knife, and assaulted them.

At the first trial, Mrs. Price identified the negroes whom she said attacked her and those who attacked her companion. Each negro denied the charge, but gave evidence incriminating the others.

This testimony was repudiated by Ruby Bates at Patterson's second trial before Judge Horton.

'Out of Gas' Stunt Aids Hitch Hikers

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 14. — G. A. Fraser, former adjutant general of North Dakota, reports the latest in hitch-hiking technique.

He met a young, well-dressed man walking and lugging a gasoline can. Fraser offered him a ride. When they reached a town, Fraser asked the young man if he was going to get some gas.

"No," the young man replied; "I haven't a car."

"What's the can for?" asked Fraser.

"That's the only way to get a ride nowadays. I've toted this can all the way from Seattle."

LEGEND LINKS AGED U. S. MARINE, KIPLING'S 'PRIVATE MULVANEY'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. - The man whom the U. S. Marine Corps insists was the inspiration for "Private Mulvaney" in Rudyard Kipling's "Soldiers Three" lies ill here at the Naval Hospital. On the hospital register he is listed as Sergt. Owen Mulligan, retired.
But to the old-timers of the corps at Paris Island, San Diego and Quantico, it is "Mulvaney" who is in the sick bay.
It is known that Mulligan served as a British regular in India before coming to this country. It was about the time that Mulligan served in the Himalayan foothills seeking material for stories.
But Mulligan refuses to say whether he was Kipling's Mulvaney. One writer offered him $10,000 to write his memoirs. Mulligan refused, saying:
"(To say anything about the past would cause dire consequences. I have taken a vow to carry the story to the grave.")
The series of short stories known as "Soldiers Three" were centered around Lahore. Kipling introduces the three characters in the story, "Krishna Mulvaney."
Kipling, in response to an inquiry, said that Mulvaney had "never set foot in America and never will."
Nevertheless, the legend persists, nurtured by Mulligan's vow to carry his story to the grave, whatever that story is.
Mulligan was born at Kildare, Ireland, May 18, 1864. He came to this country in 1896 and about the time of the War with Spain enlisted in the 31st Michigan Infantry. In 1901 he joined the Marine Corps, and was retired in 1923.
VERSAILLES, Aug. 14 - Workmen who drained the Basin of Apollo, one of the famous fountains of Versailles, to repair the statuary group in its center known as the Foundered Chariot, were rewarded for their labor by a fine catch of venerable crawfish.
Without worrying about the two mysteries of how the crawfish came to be living in an artificial fountain and what they managed to feed on, the workmen prepared themselves a succulent meal, but antiquarians got to work and, if they failed to solve mystery number two, at least found the answer to mystery number one.
The crawfish of Versailles came from James Gordon Bennett. At one time the picturesque newspaper publisher lived at Versailles in a hunting lodge dating from the time of Louis XVI, known as La Lanterne. Through it ran a brook which shortly after leaving Bennett's property ducked suddenly underground to lose itself in Versailles' Grand Canal. Bennett who was fond of crawfish, and liked them fresh, stocked the brook with crawfish.
Through narrow underground pipes the shellfish worked their way into all the Versailles basins so that fishing for crawfish is a remunerative sport anywhere on the chateau grounds.

Musical Plank Is Put Into Platform

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 14 — A musical plank is going to play an important part in the campaign of Walter Kosbab, Springfield, for election to the Illinois legislature.

Kosbab believes there should be a band and orchestra in every public school as a means of "wiping out insanity and crime."

Kosbab also advocates a "State Bank of Illinois" wherein would be deposited $5,000 for every "deserving family in the state."

He favors immediate payment of the soldiers bonus, too.

Panhandle Geology May Be In Error

CANYON, Aug. 14 — The geology by which hundreds of millions of dollars were spent in drilling Panhandle oil wells may be faulty, according to Dr. E. C. Olson, University of Chicago paleontologist.

"The popular idea is that no Cretaceous age formations are to be found south of the Canadian river," Dr. Olson said. "I am examining evidence that there is definite Cretaceous strata in Palo Duro Canyon."

Experts Worried As Strange Fish Sold

HONOLULU, Aug. 14 — Entering Chinese fish merchants broke the scientific hearts of Bishop Museum researchers when they peddled steaks from two strange fish of a species never seen before in Hawaii.

The anonymous specimens, weighing 44 and 23 pounds respectively, were caught off the Kona coast, island of Hawaii. The fish had stubby tails and blunt snouts which made them strangely resemble hogs. Museum experts determined from photographs luckily taken of the specimens, that they slightly resembled fish of the Labridae family known as the Wrasse.

Soviet's Harvest Of Silk Greatest

MOSCOW, Aug. 14 — A record harvest of silkworm cocoons has been collected this year in the Soviet totaling 18,000 tons.

Sericulture is widely developed in Transcaucasia and Central Asia, and during recent years advanced farther north. At present about 800,000 collective farmsteads and 23 states experimental sericulture farms in the Soviet are rearing silkworms.

U. S. Mobilizes Army of 36,000 For First Peacetime Combat Maneuvers

By TED H. HALOY

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. — Uncle Sam's soldiers will get their first peace time mass training at field maneuvers to be held Aug. 17 to 31 near Watertown, N. Y.

The government will spend $370,000 assembling some 36,000 soldiers and letting them "fight" each other with blank ammunition for two weeks over a 100-square mile area around Pine Camp just to get a taste of actual combat. Infantry, artillery, machine gun detachments, medical regiments, an airplane squadron and other divisions will see service.

There has been nothing like it before, not even before the World War, high Army officials say. The concentration this summer is successful there may be others throughout the nation in the next few years.

MacArthur Envisioned Plan

General Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff, had the concentration idea in mind two years ago when he reorganized the Army into four field armies. He urged training maneuvers to acquaint soldiers with actual mobilization for battle to insure quick action at a given point in case of emergency. This is the first test of his plan.

The concentration and maneuvers this year are in the First Army. Not all the First Army can participate in the war games around Pine Camp because of limited funds. Besides the 36,000 at Pine Camp there will be 18,000 at Mount Gretna, Pa., and 1,600 of the regular brigade at Fort Devens operating independently.

Nolan To Be In Charge

Major General Dennis E. Nolan commanding officer of the Second Corps Area at Governors Island, will be in charge of the maneuvers. He will plan the sham battles, keep in touch with both sides through an intricate telephone system, and watch the tactical problems unfold on the field instead of theoretically on paper, as has been done in the past.

Divisional maneuvers will start Aug. 21 and last two days. A two-day intercorps battle begins Aug. 23.

Although the concentration is planned without actual hostilities men undoubtedly will be injured, sickness will have to be combated and everything that actual fighting would bring will have to be dealt with, officers know. Hospital corps and emergency squads are ready for action.

Follows European Pattern

The Army has been emphatic in its assurance that the concentration is not in anticipation in any fears of attack. It is training for American soldiers in peace time maneuvers such as France trains 50,000 each fall, and England trains thousands annually at Aldershot.

Japan's troops keep in battle form through actual activities, it was explained, and Premier Musolini thinks little of concentrating 50,000 at the Umbria Apennines.

The concentration at Pine Camp is attracting national and international attention. Out of it will come an indication of the U. S. troops' fitness for battle—a barometer that other nations will watch closely.

Prepare To Handle Visitors

Many citizens are expected to visit the area to watch the battles. New York State Police have organized in the Watertown-Carthage - Philadelphia area to direct more than a half million sight-seers during the two weeks.

General Nolan and his staff are closely guarding their plans of combat. They want the field training, the surprise attacks, to be as warlike as possible.

The battles will take the higher commanders into service. That was one of General MacArthur's main objectives when he launched his reorganization two years ago.

He sought in that plan to relieve corps area commanders of responsibility for defense plans and operations of combat forces so they could devote their entire effort, in war, to the administration of the mobilization and supply. Peacetime planning boards for various activities should be ready to take over active supervision if mobilization is ordered, General MacArthur believes.

Those reorganization orders have been out for two years. General MacArthur will get his first indication of how well they have been followed.

TURKEY DEFIES FIRE

SILVERTON, Ore. — Workmen burned a patch of tall grass near here. When the fire was out they discovered a turkey hen grimly sitting on the blackened turf over a group of eggs she was hatching. Her feathers had been mostly singed off, but she survived.

WATCH FOUND

ELKTON, Mich. — The gold watch his father lost 16 years ago was found recently by I. O. Kellerman, while cultivating corn. Except for a broken crystal and absence of hands it was in fair condition.

POSTCARD 6 YEARS LATE

SALEM, Ore. — A postcard mailed in Astoria Aug. 20, 1929, to the secretary of state's office, turned up in the morning mail here six years later. Earl Snell, who received it, was the third secretary of state since the time of the addressee—the late Hal E. Hoss.

HAWKS ROUT WOMAN

TOLEDO — When a night hawk darted and squawked at Mrs. Geo. Smith, she just ducked and continued cutting her back lawn. But when the bird came back with three companions, she left the lawn mower and ran for the house.
