2 ESTRANGED YOUNG WIVES DIE TOGETHER

DALLAS, July 14.—Two young women, each estranged from her husband, were found dead in their room here today and notes addressed to their husbands explained the tragedy was a result of a suicide pact.

Mrs. Hazel Stockman, 25, in writing her husband asked him to look after the baby, a 9-month-old son. Mrs. Verna Fuller, whose pajama body was found on the bed beside her roommate, wrote her husband:

"Dear Rollie: "Sorry to take this way out, but have lived two years without you and can't go on without you. Hoping we can get together in the next world."

Business Booming For Cisco Concern

Business is booming for at least one Cisco organization. James Haynie proprietor of the Oil Belt Decorating company has contracts that will keep his organization busy until fall.

Among the contracts announced by Mr. Haynie are: Decoration of Tucuman, N. M., for the New Mexico state Legion convention on the same dates.

Decoration of Georgetown, Texas, for an annual county fair on the same dates; Decoration of Gallup, N. M., for the Inter-Tribal Indian Ceremonial, August 23-24-25;

Decoration of Enid, Okla., for the Texas and Oklahoma Kiwanis convention, September 3-4-5.

AUSTIN, July 14.—As expenses of the recent session of the Texas legislature are being compiled, it has been discovered that it costs the taxpayers approximately $10.36 a minute to enact laws.

OIL HEARING IS POSTPONED TO JULY 24TH

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Industrial Administrator Hugh Johnson today postponed hearings on the oil code from July 20 to July 24 to give members of the industry more time to iron out regional difficulties.

Requests to be heard at the session will be received until July 22. Public hearings on the code of fair competition were set for July 20 when the proposed agreement was submitted to the recovery administration yesterday.

Administrator Johnson, announcing that he would reserve judgment upon the proposed code, in whole and in part, asserted that the entire question of properly utilizing national oil resources and federal and state policies would enter into consideration of it, as well as the interests of all producers' factions and of labor.

The proposed agreement was presented in the name of the American Petroleum Institute which said that 95 per cent of the industry, while not in accord upon all terms of the agreement, was hopeful that all differences would be ironed out about the conference table and was thus in tentative accord to that prospect.

The agreement called for minimum wage scales ranging from 40 to 47 cents an hour and for a 40-hour week. Exempt would be executives, all office help, pumpers on stripper wells and all labor on "isolated properties."

Other provisions. Provision was asked for limiting exploitation of newly discovered pools by a system of presidential permits.

The code advocated minimum prices for protection to producers, including stripper wells which were pronounced "necessary to conservation of the national supply," and also maximum price limits to protect consumers.

Dumping at home or abroad would be forbidden. Restriction of production by mutual agreement, was called for whenever producers controlling two-thirds of the maximum production reached accord.

A committee of 26 members representing producers and 28 representing the refining and marketing end was proposed to act as a general "police" agency for the industry.

MRS. PIPPEN TO BE BURIED AT 3 TOMORROW

Cisco Scouts Are Enjoying Outing At Camp Gibbons, Boys Write News

Cisco Boys Scouts are having plenty of fun and exercise at Camp Billy Gibbons, near Richland Springs, say letters from two of the boys to the Daily News. The camp is an annual outing for Scouts of the Comanche Trail council.

Billy Wallace and Crandall Jones took time to write the News of their experiences. Here are the letters:

Cisco Daily News: We all arrived at Camp Billy Gibbons safely. The boys, Jack McMahon, Kessler Thomas, Crandall Jones and Billy Wallace, who went down on the truck had plenty of exercise fixing flats and eating watermelon.

Mr. Williams drove the truck while we rode on the back. The engine of the truck was not getting gas at the vacuum tank until we had it fixed in Rising Star. The truck left Cisco about four o'clock in the morning and arrived at camp about five o'clock that afternoon.

We have not had a bad accident in the whole camp. Troop One won first place in the first table inspection of the camp. The same troop also made 94 for second place in camp inspection.

Kessler Thomas caught a bass about fourteen inches long. Having good eats and everybody is well. All boys of both troops send greetings to the folks at home.

Yours truly, BILLY WALLACE (Troop 1).

Cisco Daily News: Twenty two Boy Scouts from Cisco are attending Camp Billy Gibbons. The boys are having a good time on the San Saba river fishing and hiking. All the boys are well and getting plenty to eat.

Mr. Quirl and his committee are doing all they can to make the camp what it should be. Frank Yager, Paul Gregory and James Waters are making tours to historic spots on horses. (James Waters is riding a donkey).

Coleman Williams is helping teach life saving this year and is making a lot of unnecessary noise. Luther Ponsler is having a general good time and is the most systematic boy in camp. It worries him sometimes to know how his box can get in such a mess.

James Spoon is making good friends with a lot of boys in camp and has a gallon canteen with which he provides the troop with ice water. Jack McMahon is having the biggest time of anybody in camp. Jack Lauderdale is enjoying the wild woods of the San Saba and is taking up beadwork under an Indian.

Troop 1 has won first place twice in table inspection in the contest which started Wednesday morning and made 94 in camp inspection the first day, taking second place. We miss the thirty other Boy Scouts of Cisco and wish they could be here.

Yours truly, CRANDALL JONES, (Troop No. 1).

COOLER AREA MOVING DOWN FROM ROCKIES

By United Press Hope for heat relief came today for Texans with forecasts from the federal weather bureau at Dallas for cooler weather in the panhandle and probably scattered showers throughout the state.

Cooler weather is advancing from Oklahoma and the Rocky mountain region, according to the Dallas bureau. There was no promise forthcoming that the low temperatures would extend over Texas but proximity to the advancing cooler area gave hope for widespread relief.

Rain fell in scattered places during the past 24 hours. An inch and a half of rain was reported at Kilgore. Palestine reported .6 inch, San Antonio .2 and a trace of rain at El Paso.

BLAME MURDER TWO YEARS OLD UPON STEVENS

DALLAS, July 14.—The Dallas Dispatch today said department of justice agents were investigating a report that O. D. Stevens, named as the leader of the gang which did away with three men in Fort Worth recently, had killed an associate two years ago.

The justice agents were advised by Mrs. "Curly" Woodruff that her husband disappeared two years ago after he had had some dealings with Stevens. The woman now believed to be a resident of Oklahoma, told the agents she was positive Stevens was guilty of the slaying at the time, but that she was fearful of advising officers.

VICTIMS ORDERED CHAPS, SADDLES FORT WORTH, July 14.—Three victims of a triple slaying here ordered saddles and elaborately decorated chaps and told them they were slain Sheriff R. Wright learned today as officers sought to trace the men's movements prior to their deaths.

According to the information given him by a bootmaker, Wright said, each of the three men, Jack Sturdivant, J. B. Rutherford and Harry Rutherford, Saturday ordered $85 saddles and chaps and told him they would have the money Monday.

Officers considered this bit of evidence important on the belief it would uphold their theory the three men were slain Saturday night when they made a last demand for $9,000 as their share of the $70,000 loot taken in a postal robbery here.

Meanwhile police went forward with questioning four men held in the slayings as attorneys for the four prepared to attempt to obtain their release from jail through habeas corpus proceedings. The habeas corpus hearing has been set for tomorrow afternoon.

Typhus Epidemic Rages in Santiago

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 14.—Typhus fever raged in the capital city today spreading relentlessly through the poorer quarters and reaching the tenement districts from the shanty villages where unemployed men and women have huddled during a two-weeks cold wave.

"Just a Kid," 80, Weds Nurse, 28

"I'm never going to be old—I'm just going to keep on being a big kid forever!" And Crosby Leonard, 80-year-old New York poet and capitalist, promptly proved his boast by marrying his pretty 28-year-old nurse, Miss Ida M. Clarke, though he had a little trouble kneeling for the ceremony.

State Gasoline Taxes Cost More Than Fuel, Survey of United States Reveals

NEW YORK, July 14.—When you buy a gallon of gasoline nowadays you are, in many states, paying more in taxes than you are for the gasoline, according to an interesting compilation of motorist information just gathered by the United Press for Cecil Hawley, director of Texaco national road reports.

Speed limits have shown an upward trend as well as taxes on gasoline. Eighteen of the 48 states have the so-called "universal speed law," with no maximum speed limit, but requiring careful driving at all times. Fourteen states have an official speed limit of 45 miles an hour, in some of these the law does not prohibit a greater speed flatly, but says that a "greater speed is prima facie evidence of careless driving," with burden of proof to the contrary on the driver.

One state, North Dakota, has a speed limit of 50 miles an hour, nine have a 40 mile limit and five a 35 mile limit. One state, Massachusetts, puts the burden of proof on a driver if he goes more than 30 miles an hour.

State gasoline taxes range from 2 cents to 7 cents per gallon, not including the new Federal gasoline tax, nor local taxes imposed by some counties or cities. Florida and Tennessee have the highest gasoline taxes, with 7 cents per gallon. Connecticut, Missouri and Rhode Island have the lowest, 2 cents. In some communities of certain states where there exists a city or county tax on gasoline as well as the state and federal tax, and in one instance a sales tax on top of it all, the driver will pay 12 cents per gallon in and probably 7 cents to 12 cents for the gasoline itself, depending upon freight rates. The gasoline brings around 6 cents per gallon at the refinery.

In Arkansas this year the comparatively high automobile registration fee charges were reduced drastically with the avowed purpose of encouraging use of older automobiles, increasing gasoline consumption, and thereby helping out the

Lobo Band to Play At Fee-Esta Park

The Lobo band will play a concert at Fee-Esta park Tuesday evening, Director G. W. Collum has announced. The concert will be given from the new rock bandstand at the west end of the recently constructed park.

Director Collum also announced that a band committee is to be appointed by the city commission at an early date. The band has been giving weekly concerts at Lake Cisco throughout the summer. The next one will be Thursday evening.

TAX OF 4.2CT PER POUND IS ALSO ORDERED

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today proclaimed the administration's drive to reduce this year's cotton acreage had proved successful and will be put into operation at once. Wallace also announced a processing tax of 4.2 cents per pound to be paid by all manufacturers of cotton goods. The proceeds will be used to finance the crop reduction plan.

COTTON MILL ACTIVITY HIGHEST ON RECORD

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Operating at the highest rate on record, American cotton mills during June used 696,472 bales of raw cotton, it was reported today by the census bureau.

This compared with a consumption of 620,909 bales in May and 322,706 bales in June, 1932, it was reported.

Consumption of cotton for the 11 months of the cotton season to June 30 amounted to 5,535,282 bales, against 4,587,448 bales last year.

The June consumption total, it was reported, was the largest for any month since the inauguration of monthly reports in September, 1912. The second largest monthly consumption figures on record are for March, 1927, with a total of 693,081 bales.

TEXAS QUOTA IS VIRTUALLY ASSURED

EXTENSION SERVICE OFFICIALS here today said Texas' quota of 4,493,000 acres of cotton for retirement under the government's acreage reduction campaign was virtually assured.

Reports from 212 counties showed a total of 4,155,665 acres had been contracted for retirement with five major and a small number of minor cotton growing counties yet to be heard from.

Abandonment of 10,000,000 acres was the goal set by Wallace. Observers believed he would proceed with the plan, however, if contracts signed by farmers cover only 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 acres.

BLANTON SAYS VETERAN WILL GET JUSTICE

The ex-service man is going to get a "square deal" was the assurance that Cong. Thomas L. Blanton, pausing at the Daily News office this morning, brought with him on a brief visit to Cisco.

"President Roosevelt has assured us all that the ex-service man is going to get a square deal," he declared. "All cases are being reviewed and each is going to get justice."

With characteristic abhorrence of extravagance, Blanton asserted that conditions had been found to exist in Georgia and a number of other southern states where "practically every Negro man" was drawing compensation for disabilities that often did not amount to the seriousness of a stubbed toe. He pointed out that it was easy for them to secure certificates from some examiners and, when their claims were allowed giving them a few dollars a month from the government, they quit work and lived in idleness off the bounty.

These conditions are being remedied, said Blanton, and the deserving ex-service man is going to get just treatment.

AN ADEQUATE NAVY.

The Roosevelt administration's apparent determination to build the United States navy up to treaty limits, placing it on actual parity with the famous 5-5-3 ratio of the Washington conference, seems quite in sympathy with the pronounced nationalistic character now dominating the American attitude to foreign relationships and domestic recovery. The American navy, vital as its functions are admitted to be, has been since the World War a sort of tolerated step-child, a convenient target for the economic snipe-shooting of politicians. From a dominant place in the world naval picture which it achieved during the Wilson administration, largely through the efforts of the man who now, as president, directs a new building program, it degenerated to a poor third in the quality of its maintenance. This was the consequence of an ill-fated pacifism inspired by hopes of a world agreement that simply did not materialize and will not materialize until the dawn of a more Utopian day of international relationships. Under the modest program of naval construction that has been followed since the war the navy has been treated like a patch-work quilt, units added here as there without serious regard for coordination in a basic plan. Indeed, criticism may be directed at this policy on the score that it was less economical than a more liberal program based upon a well-rounded organization, so that expansion would be necessary only in the event of war. The United States learned the lesson of unpreparedness during the World War. It is now paying the price of that unpreparedness and will continue to pay it for a generation to come. But the lesson, so far as the American navy is concerned, does not seem to have struck home with sufficient force.

What are the purposes of a navy? Sec'y Swanson, of the navy department, explains it in simple words. It is national insurance. It is of as much importance to the wheat and cotton growers of the hinterland as to the ports on either shore of the nation. It must be prepared to protect, not merely our thousands of miles of shore line, but the American floating commerce no matter into what part of the world it goes. It must embrace the Philippines, the Panama Canal, American Samoa, Guam, Alaska and every foot of American territory in the seven seas with the power of its protective forces. "We want to sell our wheat as a matter of right," Sec'y Swanson is reported as saying in a Literary Digest article, "not at the sufferance of a superior naval power."

Obviously this responsibility of the navy could not be discharged under present conditions. To bring the navy up to an essential strength the Roosevelt administration has undertaken a building program that calls for a total expenditure of $361,000,000. Included in that program is the construction of 32 vessels, ranging from air-craft carriers to submarines. In addition $77,000,000 is asked for modernization of battleships, $37,000,000 for rehabilitation of naval shore stations and $9,000,000 for airplane building. All of this means not only jobs for the jobless, but it means a long step toward making the American navy the power that it should be commensurate with the world position and the world commerce of the United States.

America is not expecting a war, but the foolishness of refusing to carry insurance on property because the owner does not expect a fire has been demonstrated. Fires and wars come with startling suddenness. Preparedness is the surest insurance. Reduction of armaments is an ideal, but it should not be permitted to interfere with the attainment of an actual parity that will provide adequate protection for this nation and the lives and well-being of its 120,000,000 citizens.

LIFTING A LOAD IN LOS ANGELES.

Los Angeles public officials, including the superintendent of charities, have perfected plans for the repatriation of 5000 selected Mexican families now living in Los Angeles by establishing a colony on the west coast in Mexico. Governors of three Mexican states are cooperating to make the plan a success. They only asked "to make their own selections from the Mexican indigents on Los Angeles soil." All of which is a reminder that Los Angeles county in 1932 repatriated approximately 12,000 Mexican families which were on charity in that city. In Mexico there is a large element of the population very proud of the slogan, "Mexico for the Mexicans." Los Angeles taxpayers appear to be willing to subscribe to the slogan.

PECORA ON TRAIL OF PROFIT GRABBERS.

Ferdinand Pecora is on trail of the officials of the Penn-road corporation. A certain president of a railroad company and a heavy holder in the stocks of anthracite companies made a deal which netted his family a profit of $12,807,500. Now Uncle Sam's income tax sleuths are wondering why an income tax was not paid to the government on these enormous profits realized on a single deal by the head of the family.

Col. Arthur Brisbane had a saying years ago. "You can't convict a million dollars." Perhaps, with the detective work of Pecora and the energy of the department of justice Uncle Sam may be able to convict a million dollars—some time in the near future at least. Why not the same law for all? Why not the same taxation deal for all?

GOLD HOARDERS DEFY UNCLE SAM.

There are 211 persons who have hurled defiance at Uncle Sam—to come and take their gold. A reminder that more than $2,000,000 of the metal has returned as a result of the department of justice campaign to force gold hoarders to disgorge. According to Atty.-Gen. Cummings the call of the government brought to $26,067,133 the total amount that had been returned from hoards, and 211 persons hold $1,207,067 of gold which they had refused to turn over to the government.

In these piping times of economic war recovery, unless the signs are misleading, those who are not for Uncle Sam are apt to find themselves listed as public enemies. Gold alone does not rule the world. That is, not in the new civilization with the New Deal apostles of prosperity in the saddle.

Another of These Cycles

Haskell Was Remarkable Man With Remarkable Career

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Charles Nathaniel Haskell, first governor of Oklahoma after statehood came, is dead. He was a remarkable man and had a most remarkable career. Born in the land of the Buckeyes, in his youth he received his training from Col. Oliver Payne, a Standard Oil leader and magnate of Ohio and the west. He came to Texas in his youthful manhood, really, in the beginning of the telephone age. He established independent telephone lines in sections of south Texas. He became an adopted citizen of the two territories. He played his part in the statehood organization. He was the first governor. He was a builder, he was a leader in statehood organization and later in the railroad and oil business. He made a huge fortune in the petroleum industry and had vast interests in the Mid-Continent field as well as the Oklahoma fields and the Osage rich diggings as well as elsewhere.

A democrat from his cradle up, he invaded politics. He was a friend and ally of William Jennings Bryan. It is said that when he left the governor's office in 1912 he was without a dollar. A lawyer by profession, he was the personal advisor for Harry Sinclair. He removed to New York, looking after interests valued at seventy million dollars.

TACKLED BULLS AND BEARS

He invaded Wall Street to teach the bulls and bears a lesson. He stripped him to the bone. He returned to Oklahoma and that Texas known as "the Mid-Continent territory." His closest associates were National Committeeman Scout Ferris, today and for many years one of the leaders of the Oklahoma democracy — and Capt. Reginald Stafford Healy a noted war hero on the staff of Sen. Haig. These men believed in Haskell, they they were loyal to the former Buckeye. The last but ill health came to this marvelous builder and high player of the game and he failed to score a comeback. He was one of the makers of the new constitution of Oklahoma. Gov. William H. Murray was another. The father of Will Rogers, the international humorist and playboy, was a third.

It must be true that many of the makers of great fortune in the East and the Far West, who invaded Wall Street after they had amassed their millions to teach the veteran bulls and bears how to do, things needed guardians. Josh Cosden was another. Was he trimmed? Yes, to a fare-you-well. Harry Sinclair, born in western Missouri and who began his business career as a clerk in a drug store has kept his head above the Wall street ebb and flow tide and his millions have been kept out of the coffers of the kings of finance who have ever dominated the street called Wall. Now why should a western or southern man of millions join the army of "singid cats?"

NEW FACES IN THE JUDICIAL PICTURE

There are new faces in the judicial picture. Judge Charles A. Leddy resigned as a member of the supreme court commission of appeals and plans to resume the practice of law in Houston. Judge Leddy is one of the leading lawyers of the commonwealth. His activities have been many. He was a legal advisor for the Houston federal farm loan bank for years. Before his appointment to the supreme court commission he was one of the voices of the young democracy upstate. A legislative cut in the salaries of judges compelled Leddy to retire from public service. He declared that a man owed his first duty to his family and that the reduction in salary made it impossible for him to continue as a member of the commission.
Another appointment announced is that of Judge Charles G. Krueger of Bellville as member of the commission to the court of criminal appeals. He is one of the leaders of the bar. He is widely known as a democratic leader. He has served as a member of the state committee several times. He is a popular and outstanding citizen of his section. His wife is a brilliant musician, a most charming woman, and the Krueger home at Bellville is famed for its hospitality.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

I have a kind word for the sophomore generation for introducing me to a method of improved physical radiation during these dog-days. The method consists in removing a superfluous layer of what convention decrees the properly dressed man should wear. It is quite a comforting experience, and one that does not sacrifice much of conscience to comfort, either.

I now go around with only one textile covering between me and the classification of a bantamweight stripped for action. I refer of course to the anatomical area above the belt. If this weather gets much hotter I may consider an extension of surface and qualify as a Hottentot bleached for his nigger heaven.

Received a card from W. H. LaRoque yesterday who, with Pals Bearman and Dyer and their three wives, is sporting himself in the rocco atmosphere of a St. Louis hotel whose picturization on the post card reminds me of the beglit and fretted lavishness of the floating Mississippi river parlors described by Irvin Cobb in some of his inimitable yarns. All spider-weby with arabesques and curlicues.

A post card is not a letter, but it serves the social purposes of a letter. It is expected to tell its own story without hographical effort on the part of the writer. Generally, that reasoning is utilitarian for the simple fact that it saves writer's cramp at a time when the sender of the kind regards is doing his cramping in other directions.

At any rate it is a happy solution to a social obligation by the simple device of giving it recognition and no more.

There is only one situation in which the device will not serve. That is when friend husband goes peregrinating and leaves wife behind. Any husband with temerity to write his love and affection for all the world to read would be the wiser to extend his vacation until the romantic maxim that "absence makes the heart grow fonder" does enough of its office work to guarantee the womanly generosity.

An anonymous news writer, treating of the oddity of the present heavyweight pugilistic situation, humorously remarks that Primo Carnera is the first champion who has had to see his lawyer before he could purchase a ham sandwich. If that is the case it would probably require a session of congress to provide the "man mountain" with a good meal.
Carnera and the current hair-apprants to the fistic throne, Max Baer, have achieved the ridiculous in high places by incorporating themselves and distributing the stocks on a depression market. Now that there are evidences of a boom in leather the watered securities are floating home and the two gladiators are discovering to their sorrow that their

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

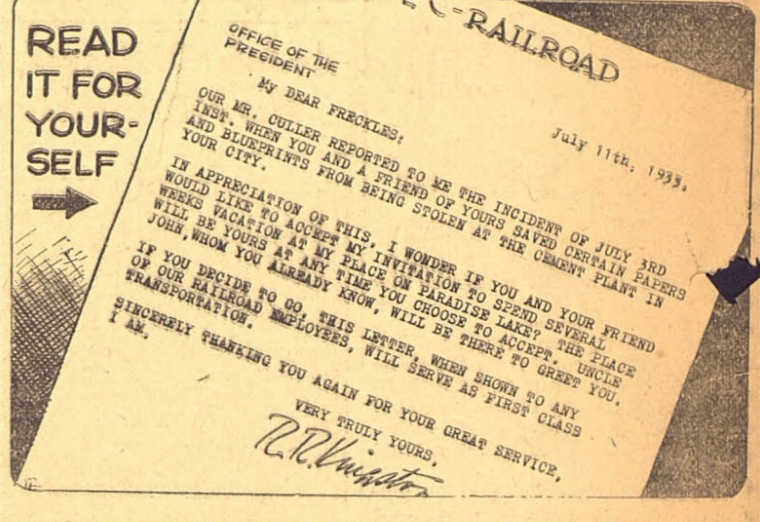

AUSTIN, July 14 — State Auditor Moore Lynn in a report to Gov. Ferguson has recommended that the state tax board determine the value of intangible assets, be given authority to determine the assessed value for state tax purposes of all property belonging to or under control of all public utilities.
"All companies now subject to the intangible assets tax should now come under this provision, and in addition thereto, there should be included all pipelines, including oil and gas, telegraph and telephone companies, and electric light and power companies. Value of the entire property subject to taxation should be determined and apportioned to the different counties."
The recommendations pointed out if this were done, the state tax board would find it possible to make use of the franchise tax reports and other reports filed by utilities and pipelines in the state departments, "as well as federal income tax returns, in determining for tax purposes the valuations of the properties."

Emergency employment needs throughout Texas displaced, in the selection of highway work to be put under contract August 8, the theory of completing a connected system of highways. Each county was given first construction of projects that most readily would provide for employment of large numbers of workers, and on which plans were ready for early construction. While most of the work fitted into the general program, and such main arterial highways as No. 2, from Hillsboro to San Antonio, were made primary projects in most counties it was only because the department had previously completed construction plans.

It is said the Texas relief and rehabilitation commission has jostled aside Chm. D. E. Colp of the state parks board, after Mr. Colp secured federal approval for $500,000 of park construction projects as the first civilian conservation camp work in the state, and has displaced many of the workers with which Colp started this employment program.
To Colp belongs the credit for starting this work. To his tireless energy is due credit for Texas having nearly two score of these park improvement projects. If he could get the federal agencies into action, while other Texas officials and agencies stowed around in a ferment of organization activities that failed to reach the jobless, it looks like poor development that some of agency should have elbowed in.

BARGAIN BRIDE

BEGIN HERE TODAY. Elinor Stafford, 26, falls in love with 35-year-old Barrett Sexton, who has returned to New York after years abroad. Barrett has made a name for himself as an archeologist.

CHAPTER XXIX. A SMALL night light was burning beside Elinor's bed and she was sitting up, curling hair framing her oval face and touching her bare shoulders.

"I can take money from you more easily," she admitted. "Well!" he murmured. His throat had thickened a little with her confession. His eyes stung.

"We made rather a mountain out of a molehill," he said. "I suppose we did but I couldn't seem to help it," she agreed with a deeply indrawn breath and a little smile.

"There's not a dark room in it!" Bessie would pant, shopping with Elinor. And Elinor would press her aunt's arm closer to her side, saying, "Barrett thinks it is a marvelous bargain!"

Bessie told Jim Senior that all Elinor's opinions were second-hand. "I never saw a child so much in love," she said. "I sometimes think she's a little too much in love. It puts every egg in one basket, you know," she pointed out.

Barrett next morning smiled bitterly to himself. How could he have been taken in so completely as to believe the girl really

FRENCH DAVIS CUP TEAM IN TRIPLE MEET

PARIS, July 14 — The French Davis Cup team, 1933 model, will go into action at the Roland Garros stadium tomorrow in a three-cornered tournament with the Davis Cup squads of Japan and South Africa.

It also will furnish an interesting line on the real abilities of the Japanese and South Africans, both of whom were eliminated from Davis Cup play by the strong Australian squad, three matches to two.

The French defenders thus will be able to try out their strokes under the very same conditions as in the challenge round. There will be the same slow surface, the excitable crowd and the customary "blind" linesmen, whose decisions have upset more than one famous player.

Many to Watch. Much of the interest of the meeting will center in Niumoi, who appears to be one of the most promising stars of the year. The young Japanese won his national title last season by beating the veteran, Satcho and made his debut in international tennis this year.

SUGAR BEET MEN MAY SAVE HUGE SUM FOR SEED

ST. GEORGE, Utah, July 14 — Prospects that inter-mountain sugar beet growers will be saved more than half of the $250,000 annual expenditure for importation from France, Germany, Russia and Belgium, was seen with the development of beets grown from Utah matured seed.

Experiments conducted by the Utah state farm bureau in Washington county, Utah, have resulted in sugar beets equal to the weight of those grown from imported seed, Joseph Anderson, president of the institution, said. Tops of the plants, sown last fall, grew seven feet high.

Should sugar content of the native seed beets test as high as imported seed, shipments from foreign countries will be cut off, Anderson predicted.

"We have about 250 acres planted with Utah matured seed now under cultivation," Anderson said. "This seed is being produced with the aid of a large sugar company and federal funds. It is a special type of seed that will reduce both blight and white fly, which have caused the farmer thousands of dollars loss in Utah, Washington and Idaho, during recent years.

"It is the purpose of this project to develop a seed that will be healthy and especially adapted to growth in the inter-mountain west," the farm leader continued.

Here's a Modern AUTOMATIC Way to Perfect Coffee EVERY TIME

In the average American home, the coffee percolator is one of the most frequently used appliances. Consequently, it should be one that will operate most efficiently at all times . . . and give you the finest quality of coffee.

Authorities agree, unanimously, that real French Drip Coffee is the most satisfactory of all brews. Heretofore, the only objection has been that its making required a laborious and painstaking process. Thousands of American homes, however, deemed it superior enough to warrant the added work.

But NOW, with the modern, efficient, AUTOMATIC "Electrical Servants" illustrated in this advertisement, the process of getting genuine French Drip Coffee is simpler than any other method of coffee-making!

You merely put in the correct amounts of coffee and water, snap the switch — and your French Drip coffee is automatically brought to perfection . . . and kept there!

Once you've tasted the superlative quality of French Drip coffee — easily and inexpensively made in the Manning-Bowman or Hotpoint appliances shown here — you'll realize how much you need one of these important kitchen accessories. They are inexpensive to purchase — and cost only a few pennies to operate. Get YOURS today. Any employe will be happy to give you complete information.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?
