Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion makes the following appeal to Legionnaires.

"In hundreds of communities The American Legion and the Red Cross have cooperated in the past year in reaching the army of unemployed and needy. This fine cooperation has always been a cause of gratification to The American Legion.

The Annual Roll Call of the Red Cross, beginning on Armistice Day and continuing until Thanksgiving will provide funds for continuation of the work of the Red Cross. May I urge that good Legionnaires everywhere assist local erapters of the Red Cross in this annual Roll Call, and that thereafter Legionnaires and Legion Posts continue helping the Red Cross in its relief work. The need for mutual helpfulness this year is greater than ever before.

I make this appeal with full confidence that Legionnaires everywhere will respond to the call."

With a realization of the increased responsibilities of the American Red Cross in the last year and the knowledge that the organization is facing its busiest winter since World War days, local leaders are taking an unusually active part in the approaching membership campaign. According to Red Cross Chapter officials here, the Annual Roll Call will be conducted between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving, November 11-24.

Mrs. James E. Ross, who will direct the Roll Call this year issued a statement today, emphasizing the importance of the community's support to the Red Cross during the enrollment period. The statement follows:

"This year the economic emergency lends special importance to the annual Roll Call, or membership campaign of the American Red Cross.

"The Red Cross is the recognized relief agency throughout the nation. It is chartered by Congress, headed by the President of the United States and accorded the cooperation of the Federal government. In the unemployment crisis it has borne a great relief responsibility. It has been the authorized medium for distribution of wheat and cotton to those in need of flour and clothing. Its volunteers have been unstinting in devotion to the task of collecting and distributing supplies, and in production of finished goods from materials. Hundreds of thousands of gardens have been planted from Red Cross seed. In 2,200 communities Red Cross Chapters have participated in unemployment relief work.

"To unemployment have been added 95 disasters calling for Red Cross assistance in the period of one year. Drought in the Northwest, tornadoes in the Southeast, floods in the central South and a variety of other catastrophes have entailed mighty burdens on the organization.

"Our debt of gratitude is great. Our present and prospective dependence is impressive. Everyone who is able to take out membership, as a good citizen and a patriot, should do so."

COUNTY-WIDE DRIVE will be made on THURSDAY, NOV. 15th.

Returns from the general election in Texas continued to show a 7 to 1 landslide for Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner over the republican slate, as the tabulation was added up tonight.

Texas Election Bureau figures showed the democratic ticket was leading President Hoover and other republican nominees 346,587 to 47,220 in the last tabulation for today at 6 p. m.

In a hotly contested gubernatorial race, returns from 179 of the state's 254 counties, including 20 complete, indicated Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson would win her second term in the governor's office over Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, republican nominee. The last tabulation gave her 256,398 votes to Bullington's 162,823, a lead of 93,575.

Returns on nine constitutional amendments all had carried by safe majorities.

Callahan county went Democratic as usual. Baird went 500 for Roosevelt and 33 for Hoover. Mrs. Ferguson got 404 votes in Baird to 114 for Bullington. We were unable to get the full county vote as some boxes have not been received. Will give the full county vote next week.

Baird Bears Play At Clyde Today

BY PERCY KING

Baird Bears Play at Clyde today

The Baird High School Bears and the Clyde High School Bulldogs will meet on the Tabor football field in their annual Armistice Day classic. These teams are two of the most evenly matched to play in District 10 this year when they play Friday afternoon. On their records so far, this season, the two clubs are also well balanced and from a through examination of the "dope" a real fight is certain.

While line plays are going to be a big factor it is expected that there will be also many wide end runs, frequent passes and some nice broken field running.

In the Baird ball totting department Judson Atchison will do most of the passing and punting. However, Chrisma is certain to get the call at smash-ups through the line, while "Jap" Jackson and D. Melton are expected to do most of the blocking. "Jap" and Melton will also get many chances to carry the ball on line plunges and participate in many of the fakes.

For Clyde Pete Tyler will do most everything in the backfield. He does nearly all the punting and a great percentage of the passing. Klepper also does his part in making sweeping end runs and has done a great part of the punting. Pee, former back field man, has been shifted to a line position. It is uncertain as to who the other two backs will be as far as we know.

Baird may have the Clyde boys just a little out-classed on their size. This season however, they have been mighty weak on the defense.

The tickets have been on sale since Tuesday. Admission: Adults, 35 cents; School Children, 25 cents.

3,000,000 FAMILIES HELPED BY RED CROSS

Distress in All Areas Met by Giving Food, Clothing and Other Aid.

More than 3,000,000 families throughout the nation were given relief of various types by the American Red Cross in the past winter, to aid them in their distress caused by unemployment, disaster or other misfortune.

A major relief task, due to unemployment and other unusual conditions in the bituminous mining counties in twenty states, was met by the Red Cross chapters alone, or participating with other agencies. In these 143 counties, the Red Cross aided 90,000 families through giving groceries, school lunches, clothing, flour and other necessities to combat privation.

Flour, milled from government wheat turned over to the Red Cross by Congress, was given to 15,000,000 persons in the period from March 8 to June 20.

the close of the fiscal year. Flour will continue to be given through the winter of 1932-33, and Red Cross chapters also will give cotton clothing, made from government cotton turned over to the Red Cross for distribution.

"The Red Cross faces the busiest winter since the days of the World War," Chairman John Barton Payne said. "It is organized in virtually every one of the 3,072 counties in the United States, and will co-operate with all agencies to meet distress wherever found. The flour has proved of great benefit, and the cotton clothing will be given wide distribution."

While carrying on nation-wide these unemployment and other relief measures, the Red Cross also was engaged in its regular peace-time activities in public health nursing, service to ex-service men and their families, teaching home hygiene, life saving and first aid. The Junior Red Cross, composed of almost 7,000,000 school children, also rallied to the support of the society's relief efforts, and the children aided others of their age in practical ways, formed sewing and food canning classes, and were of great assistance in chapter relief work.

While the wheat and cotton were given by the U. S. Government, so money was provided to pay for the necessary work entailed. The Red Cross will meet this expense of almost $500,000 from its treasury. Citizens can aid by joining as members of the local Red Cross chapter during the roll call from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Clothes for the Needy

Women volunteers sewing for the needy under direction of the Red Cross produced 296,000 garments last year, and will produce millions of garments in the winter of 1932-33. These will be from the millions of yards of cotton cloth distributed by the national Red Cross from the 500,000 bales of cotton turned over to the organization by Congress. Cloth was sent to all chapters requesting it, and later it was proposed to send some simple ready-made garments, including trousers, overalls, underwear, stockings and sox.

Huge Task of Nurses

Red Cross public health nurses, who work in hundreds of communities, are meeting the greatest demands in history for their services, due to the depression. Visits in maternity cases, protecting the health of infants and children, and aiding mothers in distress due to unemployment of the bread-winners have taken them into thousands of homes. The nurses made 1,357,000 visits to or on behalf of individuals, and inspected 949,000 school children. More than 58,000 adults were instructed in home hygiene and care of the sick.

Blind Readers Get Books

Books in braille for reading by the blind are made by women under Red Cross direction. Last year 2,813 such books were produced in single copy, and 3,538 in double copies. Fiction, biography, history, economics and school books were among those printed in braille. The Red Cross gives them to libraries for free distribution to blind readers.

Truth About Artichokes

Jerusalem artichokes are not artichokes and have no connection with Jerusalem. Just poor relations of the sunflower.

Red Cross to Enlist Great Army of Members to Fight Distress

Last year 4,004,459 men and women joined the American Red Cross as members during the annual roll call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. A peace-time army even greater than this will be needed in 1932-33 to support and carry on the nationwide relief work of the Red Cross. There are 3,529 Red Cross Chapters and they have 10,000 branches.

Armistice Day

On November 11th the people of the whole world will celebrate the fourteenth anniversary of the end of the greatest catastrophe in the history of the world. When the order to cease firing was given at 11 o'clock in the morning on the eleventh day of November, 1918, there was hardly a human being on the face of the earth who did not join in the universal rejoicing. For there was no single human being in the world at that time and none who has been born since, whose life and whose future was not affected by the war.

We have called it the greatest catastrophe in the history of the world, and that is not an exaggeration. Who could have believed that the firing of a single shot in an obscure Serbian village eighteen years ago last August could have precipitated a tragedy that would involve the entire human race, and from the effects of which we have not yet recovered? For there is no possible question that the world-wide economic depression, the internal and international maladjustments and financial difficulties from which every nation in the world is suffering today, are all directly traceable to the Great War.

More than 65,000,000 young men, the best of their respective nations, were taken from their homes and occupations and sent into the battlefields to kill each other. More than eight and one-half million of them were killed or died of wounds; another twenty-one million were wounded or incapacitated. At the end of the war the survivors returned, most of them, to almost hopelessly impoverished homelands, burdened with impossible debts and crushed by unbearable taxes.

We cannot destroy millions of lives, billions upon billions of accumulated wealth, without paying for it. That we have made as much progress as has been made toward economic recovery in fourteen years is little less than miraculous. But let us not delude ourselves. We, the people of the United States, although our economic losses in the war, both in men and in money must continue for another generation and even longer to pay for the war with our labor and our gold.

It seems to us that those are the things to remember on Armistice Day. It seems to us that the eleventh of November should be the occasion for a solemn resolve on the part of every American that we and our nation people and governments of the world to help the people and governments of the whole world to find means for lasting peace and security.

Garrett Memorial Unveiled Sunday

The unveiling of the memorial erected to the memory of the Rt. Rev. Alexander C. Garrett, first bishop of Dallas and North Texas, was unveiled last Sunday afternoon in the presence of several hundred people. The monument was erected on the Trent farm some two miles south of Dudley in the south west part of Callahan county. Rev. Willis P. Gerhart was in charge of the unveiling service.

The unveiling was not wholly a Protestant Episcopal ceremony. Dr. T. S. Knox, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Abilene, read the thirteenth chapter of Paul's letter to the Hebrews. Rev. J. T. Griswold, Methodist pastor of Bairst, read the 23rd Psalm. Rev. Joe Mayes, pastor of the Bairst Baptist church read the 28th chapter of Matthew. H. B. Robertson Abilene, delivered a eulogy on behalf of Masonic bodies. Mr. Robertson, a 33rd degree Mason, was active in conferring on Bishop Garrett the Christian order of Knights Templar, "and I found him the most brilliant candidate I had ever heard."

As the choir sang the ancient hymn "O Paradise, O Paradise," a granddaughter of Captain Trent, Miss Mary Blackburn of Bairst, drew the silken cord that brought the monument's canvas cover fluttering down to the base. Miss Blackburn is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Blackburn of Bairst and a granddaughter of Capt. Trent.

The monument of modern design, 16 feet in height, rests on a solid foundation of stone where once stood the chimney of the double log cabin built by Capt. John Trent in the fall of 1875. The cabin was abandoned many years ago. It lies in ruins, picturesque with only a part of the foundation of heavy logs and a part of the roof remaining but the link of the past is still fresh.

In the fall of 1875 Mrs. John Trent's father, T. G. Anderson, his son Arthur Anderson, J. A. Anderson, Sr., his brother and two sons Jack and Jim Anderson and Squire Brown of La Grange, Tennessee, came out to his county and established the farm for Capt and Mrs. Trent. The log house was built by a man from Brownwood, from which place necessary material was hauled to the site of the new home which was then the frontier of Texas. All of the first party who came out to locate the home returned to Tennessee except Arthur Anderson and Squire Brown. Capt. and Mrs. Trent and three children and Mrs. W. I. Capps who was then Miss Cora Anderson, Mrs. Trent's youngest sister, came out to the new home in Jan. 1876, arriving there on the evening of Jan. 6th.

At that time there were very few people living in Callahan county. There were only two ranches in that section, the Smith ranch west of them and the Windham ranch to the south east, which was established by the late Dr. J. D. Windham and sons Tod and Tom Windham in 1874. Tom Windham was present at the unveiling Sunday. Capt. Trent died some years ago. Mrs. Trent, who is nearing her 91st birthday now lives in San Diego, California, as does also her two daughters Mrs. Fred Lane and Mrs. J. W. Duffus. Two sons John and Harold Trent live in West Texas, John at Fort Stockton and Harold at Clint; two younger daughters Mrs. B. O. Jones, Big Spring, and Mrs. L. L. Blackburn of Bairst, were the only members of the family who were present at the unveiling. Other relatives of the Trent family present were, B. O. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. E. Cooke and son, Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hensley and son Carlyle, L. L. Blackburn, Mrs. Taoli Blair and Miss Sadie Anderson, Dallas, Mrs. Sadie Brotherton of California.

Bishop Garrett was born November 4, 1832, Sunday's unveiling occurring only two days after his one hundredth birthday. He died in 1924, at the wonderful old age of 92, totally blind. He left two sons, two grandsons, two granddaughters and one grandniece. All of his descendants, except a granddaughter, Mrs. Maud Taggart of Eastland attended the unveiling. They were: Henry and Alexander C. Garrett, Jr., sons; Fred and Charles Garrett, grandsons; Miss Letitia Garrett, granddaughter; and Mrs. John Marley, grandniece. All live in Dallas. The sons bear close resemblance to their father.

The present bishop of North Texas, Rt. Rev. E. Cecil Seaman of Amarillo, preached the sermon, from St. Paul's Epistle to the Hebrews.

The monument will not be dedicated by the church, according to its laws, until the last payment is made. The fund for completion is still about $90 short. "There has never been any solicitation, and there will not be," said Bishop Seaman, "but if any person anywhere wishes to make a small gift, it will be thankfully received by the Rev. Mr. Gerhart at Abilene."

The monument will bear four inscriptions. Two are in place, on the north and west sides. That on the north says: "To the glory of God and in memory of Alexander Charles Garrett, 1832-1924." That on the west the Masonic inscription, is: "Erected as a loving tribute to the memory of a great and good Mason whose benign influence was a potent factor in the progress and development of the Fraternity for more than half a century."

Tablets on the south and east have not been placed. That on the south will bear the Scriptural excerpt from Hebrews XIII, American revised version: "Remember them that had the rule over you, of God, and, considering the issue of their life, imitate their faith. Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, yea, and forever."

On the east tablet will appear this excerpt from Bishop Garrett's diary: "I rode out from Dallas on horseback and failed to find them. A year later I returned in a buckboard. Captain John Trent's house was filled, and for the first time in these wild mountains the service of the church was celebrated"—and the added words: "On this spot, February 23, 1878."

It was in the Trent home that Bishop Garrett held divine services on February 23, 1878, driving out from Dallas in a buckboard.

The Trent farm is now owned by Otto Betcher who presented a deed to the one-acre cabin site to the Episcopal Church sometime ago.

Mrs. Trent and members of her family have cooperated in the monument and contributed to the financing of the erection of the memorial.

Legion Banquet

The America Legion Banquet given last Saturday night, was one of the most enjoyable ever held by the Legion. There were one hundred and fifteen in attendance. Judge Smith of Throckmorton, who is prominent in American Legion circles, was the principal speaker of the evening and everyone who heard him say he made one of the best talks ever made before a meeting of ex-service men in Bairst. Altogether, the occasion was a most enjoyable one.

County Teacher's Institute

The Callahan Teachers Institute will be held at the Bairst High School Auditorium on Saturday, November 19th, one day only. The law requires that teachers attend two days institute but the second day will be held sometime during the coming spring. Quite a number of teachers from this county are planning to attend the State Teachers Convention which meets in Fort Worth Nov. 24, 25 and 26th.

The above scene is a graphic representation of the home of two housewives—just before guests arrive for the evening meal. The woman at the left has been working in a hot kitchen all afternoon . . . nothing has gone off well . . . she is nervous, tired, irritable . . . and looks it. But the modern home-manager at the right is cool, fresh, lovely and unhurried. She has been away from home all afternoon, yet is ready to take a delicious, savory and attractive meal from her oven. Her meal will be an unqualified success . . . the success of the other housewife's dinner-party is extremely doubtful.

The difference is that the modern home-manager, at the right, has an Electric Range. . . The other housewife still cooks by old-fashioned methods!

You, too, should profit by the many advantages and superiorities of modern Electric Cookery. With one of the new General Electric Hotpoint Ranges in your kitchen you'll save money, work, time and food. You'll serve better, more healthful and more attractive meals. You'll be happy, cheerful and energetic. Take advantage of special prices and terms . . . TODAY! See one of our salesmen NOW. He will be glad to tell you the interesting and valuable story of Electric Cookery. There's no obligation, of course.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

YOUR RED CROSS NEEDS YOU

RELIEF WORK of the AMERICAN RED CROSS

Student nurses are taught Red Cross first aid and water safety methods.

Use of trucks was donated and unemployed men distributed free Red Cross flour in many counties.

A quarter million tons of free feed was given to save the livestock of the northwest.

Thousands of children come under care of Red Cross public health nurses.

Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross receives thanks of the northwest through Governor Shafer of North Dakota for drought aid.

By-products of Farm Board wheat given Red Cross—first, flour; second, bread; third, a dress for the little girl, made from the sack.

The American Red Cross gave unemployment relief to 3,000,000 families during winter, spring and summer of 1931-1932.

This relief included:

- Red Cross flour made from Farm Board wheat, distributed free to more than 2,500,000 families.
- Garden seeds to plant a quarter acre, given free to more than 315,000 families.
- Food, clothing, medical aid, school lunches and milk for children and other necessities to 380,000 families, including aid in mining communities.
- 2,200 Red Cross Chapters participated in unemployment relief.
- More than 400,000 war veterans and their families were aided by 3,118 Red Cross Chapters.
- 750 Red Cross public health nurses made 1,335,000 visits to aid the sick and teach health methods. Thousands of unemployed are dependent upon Red Cross nurses in times of stress.
- Red Cross volunteers made 336,000 new garments for the needy.

The Red Cross also gave relief in 60 disasters during the year—several of major proportions, including floods in Mississippi and Louisiana where 50,000 persons were led and a tornado in southeastern states where 368 persons were killed and aid was given 2,000 injured. More than $250,000 was expended by Red Cross in tornado relief.

In addition to these extraordinary demands upon its resources:

- 7,000,000 school children were enrolled in Junior Red Cross.
- 72,000 persons were enrolled as Life Savers.
- 69,000 persons received First Aid certificates.
- 38,000 persons took Home Hygiene courses.
- Aid was sent in 22 disasters in insular and foreign countries.
- Volunteers made 3,700,000 surgical dressings; transcribed 300,000 pages of braille; served 129,000 persons in canteens and made 54,000 motor calls.

Your membership in the annual roll call—November 11 to 24—will support this work.

GILLILAND'S

FUGITIVES

A Short Story by Paul Hawk

There was something peculiar about that young man in the apartment next to hers, Betty decided.

That was all she had to do now for eleven more days—decide things about people. She had already combed her hair until it shone like a new penny. She had already manicured her nails until they were like so many curves of celluloid.

Her face and she had been told this many times was too pretty to need attention. Her blue eyes, just so much sky fringed by long, dark lashes, were expressing violent resentment, for she was bored.

"Why are parents like they are," she inquired of herself. Hers, for instance, had ruined some perfectly wonderful plans for the next two weeks just because her father had made an agreement with his business partner twenty years ago that their children should marry.

Imagine anybody trying to tell people of today whom to marry! The utter foolishness of such a thought made her boil over every time she thought of it.

And yet that partner was coming all the way from the West just to bring his son along. Her father and his friend were to have a reunion, and in the general happiness of the get-together, she and Richard Montague were supposed to stage a childhood romance-come-of-age and marry.

As if she would marry a man who would let his father bring him to the bride of his father's choosing, as if he were still a boy and they were buying a new toy for him. She could see him: short, glasses, "mousy"-looking, always saying "Yes, father."

But her father didn't know his daughter! She, too, knew how to go about getting her way. So she had slipped away, taken this apartment three days ago, and now was settled for eleven more days. She had to stay in pretty closely, for her father probably had men out looking for her despite her note telling him why she left. She felt like throwing things.

As if in answer to her thoughts, she heard a "slam" and a "bang" in the next apartment. And that brought the young man to mind again.

The first time they had met, was soon after she had moved in. She had stepped out into the hall and backed directly into him. He had jumped as if shot. She could see yet the startled look in his brown eyes, a look that changed at once to admiration, however, as he saw her.

He had wavy black hair, and he was tall and broadshouldered. He had begged her pardon and gone on into his room.

The next time he had looked at her wry wistfully, but had only said "Hello." She had smiled at him. It was alright, that smile, she defended herself, for they were neighbors. And anyway, he was attractive, and she was darned lonely. He must be too. She wondered why he kept so closely to his room.

Again she heard a "bang." She decided that if another one followed, she would go see what was the matter. It did at once.

She knocked on his door. The sound of restless movement within stopped instantly. She waited several minutes; then she pounded again. The door was opened only wide enough for a crack and a single brown eye to appear.

"Oh!" he said, almost in a gasp. "I thought I'd like to come and help you tear up your room," Betty told him. "I feel like that too."

"Why, er— Come in, won't you, he pleaded. "I'm— I'm Dick Smith."

"I'm—er, Betty Brown," said Betty Westerly, "and I'm awfully bored."

"Well, so am I—that is I was," he added. "And I can't get out of this blasted room because—well, I just can't."

Betty wondered about him. "I can't either," she said.

As she slipped into bed that night, Betty didn't think at all about how bored she was. In fact, she didn't think of anything but Dick. She had never imagined before that playing cards with one person all afternoon could be so entertaining. And then he had ordered dinner for two set up, and how good that was!

They continued to lend each other magazines, to discuss books, to play cards, and to eat occasional meals together.

Then, several days later, Dick said, "Let's sneak out to a show to-night."

Betty said, "Oh, let's! But we'll have to be careful. There's somebody I don't want to see."

They sat close together in the show and Betty's more sophisticated side wanted to laugh when she discovered suddenly that they were holding hands—and that she liked it!

It was raining when they went out again. As they started to step from the curb, Betty slipped, seeing at the time a car coming at her that seemed to roar right in her ears. Dick snatched her to him, just in time for the car to screech by, the brakes locked.

Dick's face looked as if it had been dipped in whitewash when they were seated in the taxi.

Betty laughed jerkily. "Dick, you're so white!"

Some time later, when Betty withdrew to look for lipstick on Dick's collar, Dick said, "I've got something to tell you. My name's not Smith."

"Mine's not Brown, either," said Betty.

"I ran away to keep from meeting a girl," said Dick.

"I ran away to keep from meeting a man," said Betty.

They looked at each other again.

"You see, my father made some kind of foolish agreement with this girl's father that the girl and I should marry as soon as we were old enough. Naturally I wasn't going to let him pick my wife, and to keep the girl from embarrassment I hid here. It's a wonder the old boy didn't find me—he's a fighter."

"My father made an agreement like that too," Betty told him breathlessly.

They looked at one another a moment. "Say, what's your real name?" they demanded of each other in the same breath.

"Mine's Betty Westerly."

"Mine's Dick Montague."

They fell into each other's arms in a paroxysm of laughter.

"And after running away from you, you get me after all!" Dick moaned.

"Me too," Betty wailed.

"Well, let's go tell the folks the old, old story."

And they did.

Presidential Campaign Closed in Lively Fashion—Recovery in Industry Seems at Hand—Plan for Disposal of Farm Surplus.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

FAST and furious were the gyrations of the candidates and their active supporters during the closing week of the campaign, and every known argument was brought to bear on the 47,000,000 qualified voters of the United States, of whom the experts believed nearly 40,000,000 would go to the polls. The electors seemed loth to yield to excitement but were dogged and determined, and probably had made up their minds long before as to how they would cast their ballots. The results of the election will be known to most of the readers of this column before it reaches them, so predictions are not in order.

President Hoover's final effort in his campaign carried him to Springfield, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo.; Gary, Ind., and then up to St. Paul, Minn. On the route he made many platform speeches, but his main addresses were in the cities named. The tour constituted his last attempt to capture the 60 electoral votes of Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin; and his arguments were also directed to the agricultural vote of Ohio, Nebraska, Kansas, Michigan and the Dakotas. Before leaving Washington for the Middle West the President had spoken vigorously in New York city, Philadelphia, and other points in the East, and had made an especial appeal by radio to the voters of California, his home state.

Governor Roosevelt's main speech of the week was delivered in Boston. A driving rain storm and his desire to get back quickly to Albany led him to disappoint waiting crowds in Hartford, Bridgeport, and other cities of the New England area. The final days of the campaign were spent by the Democratic candidate close to home, but he did not cease to talk to the electorate. Since his nomination he had visited 37 states, the only ones omitted being seven in the solid Democratic South and Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota.

SPEAKING to his 300 associates on the New York citizens committee of the emergency unemployment relief committee, Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, declared that the general industrial situation was more promising than it had been for two years. He said it was quite evident "that recovery from the low point of last summer has appeared" and that this recovery "is definite and progressive."

His brief address was made at the committee's first meeting preparatory to the launching of the $15,000,000 drive for funds from the public for unemployment relief. Encouraging, too, was the news from Jefferson City, Mo., that the citizen's relief and unemployment committee of St. Louis told Governor Caulfield that mild weather and an upturn in industry made it unnecessary to use any of the $200,000 apportioned to St. Louis by the Reconstruction Finance corporation for relief in September. E. C. Steger, a director of the committee, said unexpected increases in orders, particularly in the garment and shoe industries and in railroad shops, with much highway work in progress, made available relief funds adequate.

JUST at a time when corn and wheat were selling on the market at the lowest prices on record, there was staged in Kendall county, Illinois, a demonstration of a plan that might wipe out in two years the entire surplus of farm products, according to the county farm bureau and J. J. Groetken of Aurora. It simply is the mixing of ethyl alcohol distilled from corn and other products with gasoline for motor fuel, the proportion of alcohol being 10 per cent. Besides using up the grain surplus, it was pointed out, the move would aid materially in conserving the natural supplies of petroleum in the United States, now being consumed at a rate that is "reducing the national supply at an alarming pace."

The demonstration tended to bear out research reports which have been compiled from several European countries and by the American government on the value of ethyl alcohol as a motor fuel.

Two and one-half gallons of alcohol are obtained from a bushel of corn, two and one-fourth gallons from a bushel of wheat, while barley, potatoes, beets, cantaloupes, and other surplus products produce high yields. At present the use of such alcohol, even when rendered poisonous and soluble in gasoline, is restricted by the prohibition laws as well as by the complications of state and federal gas taxes. Manufacture of the fuel could be done in rural communities with simple distilling plants, as it is done in Germany, the sponsors of the test declared. By adding one gallon of it at 25 to 30 cents for each nine gallons of gasoline, corn would be worth 40 to 50 cents a bushel and other crops in proportion.

CHARGES that private contractors on federal flood control projects along the lower Mississippi river were mistreating negro laborers, mentioned in this column some weeks ago, led President Hoover to appoint a committee of three negroes and one white man to make immediate inquiry into the situation. The men named were Dr. Robert R. Moton, president of Tuskegee Institute; Judge James A. Cobb of Washington, D. C., and Eugene Knicker Jones, executive secretary of the Urban League of New York, representing the negro race, and Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant, representing the United States army.

A White House announcement of the appointment said the Chief Executive had asked this committee "to make a thorough and impartial inquiry as promptly as possible" and report the results of the investigation to him immediately.

LONG and efficient service for the State department was recognized and rewarded when the President selected F. Lamont Bellin of Waverly, Pa., to be ambassador to Poland. He succeeds John N. Willys of Toledo, who resigned not long ago to resume his business duties. Mr. Bellin is a veteran in the United States diplomatic corps, having served in the embassies at Peking, Istanbul, Paris, and London, and as chief of the State department division of protocols and international treaties. He resigned the latter post in March, 1931.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made in New York of the engagement of Miss Elisabeth Reeve Morrow, daughter of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and sister-in-law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, to Aubrey Niel Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Morgan of Brynderwen, Wales. The date for the wedding has not been set. Miss Morrow and Mr. Morgan met while her father, the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, was attending the London naval conference in 1930. She and her mother had accompanied Senator Morrow to London. Since that time Miss Morrow has visited in England, having passed three months in the summer of 1931 in Europe.

STRICT censorship keeps from the world most of the news concerning the warfare between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Gran Chaco, but it is known that the fighting continues with increasing fury. The minister of war at La Paz has announced that Gen. Hans Kundt, German military expert who organized and trained Bolivia's modern army, has consented to lend that army against the Paraguayans. The latter appear to have competent commanders, also, and have shown no signs of yielding to their opponents. The Argentine war ministry at Buenos Aires stated that many deserters from the Bolivian forces operating in the Gran Chaco were entering Argentine territory.

GENERAL election day in Cuba was marked by many instances of violence, the worst of which was the explosion of a powerful dynamite bomb in a theater in Santa Clara. Five of the 600 persons in the building were killed and many injured. Investigators said the crime was committed by Conservatives in retaliation for what they claimed were government controlled elections.

President Machado's Liberal party candidates were returned overwhelming victors in the voting, in which two senators, 72 representatives, and officials of most Cuban cities were chosen. It was estimated that 80 per cent of the eligible voters did not vote, either through lack of interest or because they heeded the pleas of the opposition to boycott the election.

DEATH claimed two especially well known Americans. They were Horace Kent Tenney, Chicago attorney who was prominent in his profession, and Harold MacGrath, whose novels and short stories had pleased millions of readers.

IF THE disarmament conference, whose bureau resumed work Thursday in Geneva, does not wind up in utter failure, much of the credit will go to Norman Davis, representative of the United States. He has been exceedingly busy in European capitals, trying to reconcile the views and demands of the various powers. Especially was he interested in the new French plan laid before the bureau, which calls for the adoption of an army conscript system and the writing of new security treaties. In a conversation with Premier Herriot and Minister of War Paul-Boncour, Mr. Davis said the United States was unable to commit itself to the use of force in defense of the Kellogg pact outlawing war, though it accepted the idea of consultation in case of violation of the pact.

M. Herriot told Mr. Davis that his proposal for the substitution of professional armies with short-term conscript forces did not apply to the United States and was confined to continental Europe, excluding even England.

It was believed in Berlin that this proposal might induce Germany to resume participation in the disarmament conference provided the other powers agree that all agreements reached shall apply equally to all the signatories, including Germany.

On the naval side the French are again talking about a Mediterranean Locarno of France, Great Britain and Italy as a prelude to a naval understanding with Italy, which would complete the London treaty and possibly lead to further American, British and Japanese reductions.

JAPAN has its hands full with Manchukuo and the Chinese irregulars that are operating there in an effort to overthrow the puppet state. The situation in the northern half of Manchukuo was reported to be especially dangerous, the Japanese hold on the important city of Tsitsihar being imperiled. Two bloody battles were fought about one hundred miles north of that point and though the Japanese claimed victory in both, they lost a good many men, and were troubled by the discovery that Manchukuan troops were revolting and joining the Chinese. This revolt, the Japanese admitted, was spreading.

In addition to the thrust from the north, the Japanese control was threatened from the northwest by Gen. Su Ping wen and his Chinese irregulars, who for some weeks have occupied the city of Manchull on the Siberian frontier.

HAVING made only one campaign speech, over the radio, in which he made but one promise, to respect the constitution, Arturo Alessandri was elected President of Chile. Formerly a radical, he had shifted toward the right and was supported by the moderate elements. He obtained a large plurality over Col. Marmaduke Grove, radical candidate and three others.

Alessandri's victory was a very happy one for the veteran politician whose six year election in 1920 was cut short by a revolt and dictatorship in 1924 and who lost the next general election in 1931 to Juan Esteban Montero. Colonel Grove told his admirers that "we intend to continue the revolutionary activities, not only in Chile, but in other Latin American countries. We have sworn to unite our efforts for the formation of a Latin American Federation of Socialist Republics."

Martinez Mera, liberal, was elected President of Ecuador; and Tiburcio Carias Andino was successful in the Honduras elections.

SEVENTY-eight prominent Brazilians were sent into exile as penalty for participation in the Sao Paulo revolt that was suppressed only after three months of strenuous effort by the government. Included in the list were generals, political leaders and editors, most of whom probably will never be permitted to return. The men were loaded on a vessel at Rio and taken to another port for transfer to a steamship on which they left for Europe, most of them for Portugal. The deportation was carried out so the government might avoid long investigations and trials, and also to weaken the opposition party in the campaign preceding the assembly election next May.

POLICE forces of London had their expected troubles with the army of unemployed that gathered there to present claim to parliament. There were frequent clashes between the jobless hordes and the authorities and on one occasion the "army" tried to storm Buckingham palace. It also attempted to invade the house of commons and was driven back with difficulty after desperate fighting with the police, who are armed only with batons. W. A. L. Hannington, communist leader of the hunger marchers, and several others, were arrested and locked up.

Chicago also had a parade of the unemployed, but the unfortunate men there were orderly and were permitted to submit their needs to Mayor Cermak through a committee.

"The best music citizens of Waxahachie have heard in a long time," according to a dispatch in the Dallas News, was the sound of the whistle of the Waxahachie cotton mills, meaning that the plant was going back into operation and providing work for between 125 and 150 persons. It will operate for the present on a full day basis.
