Mid-Winter Blizzard Sweeps Across Midwest States

STORM DUE TO CONTINUE INTO SUNDAY

CHICAGO, March 7.—A mid-winter blizzard reached across the mid-west and southwest tonight. Winds of gale force whipped heavy snowfall into drifts three and four feet high in parts of Kansas. Telegraph and telephone wires went down one after another as the gale continued.

Towering waves were churned up on Lake Michigan and battered the shore lines in a damaging cannonade.

Scores of motorists were compelled to abandon their automobiles and seek shelter in farm houses. Temperatures dropped below freezing.

The blizzard swooped down from the north, striking the states of Texas, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri. Then it swept along into the prairie states of the midwest gripping Illinois and Indiana and even Ohio.

As the intensity of the storm grew the weather bureau warned of the likelihood that it would continue unabated until morning.

A cessation generally by midday Sunday was indicated with winds dying down and snowfall becoming local.

NEW TRIAL FOR ROBERT HILL IMPROBABLE

That a new trial of Robert Hill on charges of murder in connection with the death of Police Chief G. E. Bedford of Cisco during the raid on the First National bank here December 23, 1927, will be held had dwindled to an improbability Saturday as no action was taken on the part of the county attorney or other officials to press another hearing.

Hill's first trial on this charge a few days ago ended in a mistrial when the jury failed to agree on a verdict. The state sought the death penalty, asserting that Hill had violated an agreement to serve a 99-year sentence for bank robbery in connection with the holdup assessed at the time Marshal Ratliff and Henry Helms, his companions in the robbery were given death penalties. Hill was not tried at that time on the murder charges filed against him.

Hill was taken to the state penitentiary last Monday for safe keeping. With him Clyde Thompson, youthful convicted slayer of Lucian Shock, at Leary, in September 1923, was conveyed to the death house at Huntsville.

Vocational Boys Go to Fort Worth

About 15 members of the Cisco high school vocational classes, of which E. H. Varnell is instructor, left Friday afternoon for Fort Worth and the Fat Stock show in the Lee Diversified Farm truck. Mr. Blackburn, manager of the farm, drove the truck to Fort Worth where the boys were to meet Mr. Varnell and others of the class, assist in putting their livestock projects on display and do practice tests with the several hundred other vocational boys attending the show. The boys will return Sunday.

WOMEN BRAVE BAD WEATHER TO HEAR FINAL LECTURE

In spite of the inclement weather, one of the largest crowds that attended the Daily News Free Cooking school was present at the concluding lecture Friday afternoon. The house was filled to capacity long before the lecture started, and all standing room was taken.

The title of the lecture was "The Unusual Hostess." The first recipe was one of the most unique demonstrated. It was called rose leaf cake. The name was derived from the fact that one cup of rose petals was used to flavor it. Miss Rada Sue Garrett, the instructor, pointed out the fact that the French use flowers frequently for flavoring, and also cakes can be made very attractive by using a few flowers on the plate. Miss Garrett proved this statement by displaying the angel food cake baked Thursday which she had iced with green icing and decorated with salmon pink sweets.

She believes that if more decoration and care are used in every day meals, the meal will be much more enjoyable.

"Model Hostess"

Miss Garrett defined the model hostess as being the one who always planned her meals, and who is always ready for unexpected guests. She described her as being one who always smiles, regardless of obstacles, and who always makes her guests believe she is happy. She pointed out the fact that everyone has something to be happy over. She asserted that every day that she stayed in Cisco she found something else for the people here to be proud of.

In being a good hostess, Miss Garrett suggested that the feelings of the guest should be anticipated, so that she can provide the things which they like. "Do not let your guest think that you are blue," she advised. "The modern housewife worries over two or three guests, while it was not an unusual thing for the housewife of yesterday to have as many as fifteen or sixteen. One can be a smiling hostess even if there are many cares and duties. Put your guest at ease first in order to be at ease yourself."

Miss Garrett asserted that the housewives everywhere seem delighted with the rose leaf cake. They can be very cleverly used at a party or luncheon. She gave out did not demonstrate a recipe for Swiebach pie.

Many suggestions for the serving of meals were given by Miss Garrett.

ORGANIZATION FOR ELECTION IS COMPLETED

Organization for conducting the general city election to be held Tuesday, April 7, for the purpose of electing a mayor and two commissioners was practically completed Saturday morning by the two judges, A. E. O'Flaherty and Lee Owen. The following clerks were appointed:

Bob Winston, Henry Drumwright, K. H. Pittard, C. O. Pass, Fred Grist, J. B. Cate, L. A. Martin, P. J. Connolly, O. C. Cope, P. L. Ullum and Charles Hartman.

The judges considered holding the election in the Gray building but investigation revealed that the city charter provides that all city elections be held in the city hall. Both east and west Cisco will vote at one box, two boxes being used only in state and county elections.

In order to provide a maximum of conveniences for the citizens who vote the election board is having eight voting booths constructed large enough to accommodate one person at a time and built in such a way that complete and ready privacy is afforded while the ticket is being marked. Each booth will be equipped with a pencil and writing board. The board feels that these booths will make it unnecessary for the citizens to search the city hall for a private place in which to mark their ballots and thus expedite the conduct of the election and they urge the voters to use them.

Not all of those selected to serve as clerks had been seen Saturday by the judges and they request that those who cannot serve notify them immediately.

Mrs. Shackelford is a sister of State Rep. Victor B. Gilbert and Mrs. J. A. Clements, of this city.

ATTITUDE OF GOVERNOR ON CO-OPS TOPIC

AUSTIN, March 7.—March political interest in Texas will swing next week to Dallas where the Texas Cotton Cooperatives hold a convention beginning Tuesday. There the attitude of Gov. Sterling on the federal farm board and cotton marketing is expected to be a chief topic. Statements attributed to the governor in the cotton trade journals put him squarely against the federal farm board as an agency for marketing crops.

"Relief of the farmer," he was quoted as saying, "does not necessarily mean that the government should take the funds of all the tax payers and go into competition with private agencies."

When farm members of the legislature called on the governor as the result of the publication he assured them he favored farm cooperative organization. He did not, however, withdraw the statement attributed to him as opposing the federal farm board operation. The cooperative meeting in Dallas is that of cooperatives directly connected with the federal farm board's marketing plan.

There were 52 convicts in the stockade. Guard Owen Bainsburn played the chief role in saving 41 of the convicts. D. F. Nicholson was the only other guard on duty.

However, they were unable to reach the remaining 11 inmates, quartered in a cell near the kitchen.

Only three of the dead had been identified at 9 a. m.

PROPOSED ONE YEAR TRANSFER RULE TALKED

AUSTIN, March 7.—Copies of the March issue of the Interscholastic League, monthly publication of the University of Texas Interscholastic League Bureau, are now being distributed to member schools. Several articles by officials of the League and high school officials on the subject of the proposed one-year transfer rule, barring any athlete from participation in League football for one year after he has transferred from one school to another, constitute the leading contributions. Both sides of the question are discussed. Supt. M. H. Duncan of Lubbock, who proposed the proposed change in the League by a resolution passed by the Palestine school board designed to discourage delayed graduations by students ambition to insure another year of eligibility in inter-school contests is discussed by Supt. Eonner Frizzell of Palestine, while Dr. B. C. #### 1 OF 4 HELD IN INSURANCE PROBE FREED

One of four men in custody and named in charges of swindling in connection with investigation of alleged misrepresentation in the sale of automobile accident insurance in Eastland county, was released at habeas corpus hearings in the 91st district court at Eastland yesterday afternoon for lack of evidence. Another of the men had sold a policy, evidence brought out, but had refunded the money. Judge Davenport released him on his own recognizance.

Charges of swindling, naming B. Glick, S. Lieb, S. J. Snelman, Joe Baum, J. Slater, C. Kramer, and a man by the name of Bernstein, were filed Friday. Snelman, Baum, Slater and Kramer were arrested.

Judge Davenport ordered Baum and Slater bound over to await the action of the grand jury under $250 bonds. In ordering bonds set at $50 the judge said that the character of the charges against the men was questionable until a thorough investigation of the company for which they claimed to be working could be made by the attorney general. L. L. company was named as the American Automobile Protective association of Houston. This investigation was said to be under way.

According to evidence introduced at the habeas corpus hearing yesterday afternoon the policies allegedly had been sold were represented to give blanket coverage in case of an automobile accident but that the policies actually delivered only partially protected the holder.

Witnesses testified that they had purchased insurance which would pay $10,000 in case of death in an automobile accident, $15 per week for 24 weeks in case of injury, together with a contract to supply bond to the extent of $10,000 in case of court action growing out of an automobile accident and contract to pay towing charges in the event of an accident. They asserted that all who received was the contract to furnish bond and pay towing charges.

EXPERTS CLASH OVER INJURIES FATAL TO GIRL

VALPARAISO, Ind., March 7.—Medical experts clashed today over injuries that caused Arlene Draves' death in testimony before the jury trying Virgil Kirkland, 20-year-old ex-football hero, who is accused of first degree murder in her death.

Dr. E. S. Jones, Hammond physician, who was one of four experts appointed to perform a second autopsy on Arlene's body, testified that she was killed by injuries and shock of criminal act.

In contradiction of that theory Dr. Charles Fisher, Chicago laboratory expert, reported a microscopic examination of tissues from Arlene's body that he could discover no evidence that she had been compromised through violence.

Arlene's brother and sister, Elsie and Ed, testified that the party dress which a department store clerk had said was paid for by Kirkland was bought with $11 that Ed gave Arlene in Elsie's presence.

Only two witnesses, both for the defense, remained to be heard when Judge Grant Crumpacker adjourned the trial over the weekend and unless a surprise move is made Virgil's fate will be placed with the jury late Monday.

Opponents called for a record vote which forced McGill to withdraw the bill temporarily.

DALLAS GROUP SENDS APPEAL TO GOVERNOR

DALLAS, March 7.—An appeal to Gov. Sterling to order Texas rangers to investigate the abduction of George Clifton Edwards, prominent Dallas lawyer and socialist, and the flogging of two of his communist clients was made tonight by a committee of incensed Dallas citizens in a telegram to the chief executive.

Headed by H. Bascom Thomas, former state senator, and Alex Spence president of the Dallas public school board, the telegram was signed by more than a dozen citizens.

"We appeal to you as governor of this state," the telegram read, "to order rangers to investigate this infamous outrage and further ask that a reward be offered for the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties."

District Attorney Wm. McCraw, suffering from a serious attack of influenza in a hospital here was quoted in a statement in the Dallas Dispatch today as saying:

"If they catch the nigger-lovers' floggers I will be happy to let a good Dallas county jury pass on their crime."

Edwards was released by the flagging party before the two communists, C. J. Coder, 34, and Lewis Hurst, 21, were carried to a secluded spot outside the city and beaten.

"A number of citizens have called on me to ask the governor to aid in the situation and it is up to him," Thomas said this morning.

"I expect to call on these citizens to join me in sending the governor a message," Thomas declared, "and I intend following it with a personal letter. A reward should be offered for the arrest and conviction of every man connected with the kidnapping of Edwards and attacks upon citizens whose only alleged crime is that of exercising a right guaranteed to every American, freedom of speech."

TEXAS INDUSTRIES ON THE MARCH.

"It is great to be a Texan." It is important that Texans should know their Texas. It is the part of wisdom that they should keep their eyes on the development of Texas resources as well as the building activities of the commonwealth. The head of a Public Information Bureau lets it be known that Texas with 6000 of the 40,000 miles in the United States leads in gas pipe line mileage and also leads the 24 gas producing states in production. Texas has an Indian population of 2109 and is the home of one tribe, the Alabamas, who have a reservation in Polk county. Texas stands seventh among the states in lumber production. Texas has 579 incorporated towns and cities, according to the 1930 census, and 136 of them have been incorporated since 1920.

As for things industrial a new salt factory at Houston is expected to be in operation around March 1st, with daily output of 250 tons. A cheese plant capacity at Muenster in Cooke county has been increased from 25,000 to 40,000 pounds of milk daily. Oil refineries at Henderson and Longview, expected soon to be in operation, will have daily capacities of 4500 and 3000 barrels. A new refinery at Tyler with daily capacity of 5000 to 10,000 barrels is projected. Operation of the Orange crate factory is to be resumed. Marshall milk plant will open a $20,000 branch factory at Longview. Texas mills produced 54,204,000 yards of cotton cloth in 1930, according to the University Bureau of Business Research, a considerable reduction from the 75,465,000 yards produced in 1929.

Texas produced 2,560,197 tons of sulphur in 1930, increase of 202,653 tons over the 1929 total, value of 1930 production being considerably more than $30,000,000. The Texas output represents nearly all that produced in the United States and about 90 per cent of the world total. Grand Saline citizens are happy over the completion of the new plant of the Morton Salt company, which will supply salt to the Southwestern states. Indicative of the permanence of the supply, cores sunk to a depth of a thousand feet developed that it was salt all the way down and how much deeper the deposits lie is unknown.

According to the same correspondent, Will C. Edwards, Burnet and Llano and other towns in that section are feeling good over the early prospect of starting work on the 9000 foot dam on the Colorado river, to cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $6,000,000 and giving employment to 800 workers over the two and one-half years the construction is expected to require. Del Rio is said to be exultant over the expectation of early opening of three major mining projects in that section, including the reopening of the Shafter silver mines, which since they started in 1863 have produced nearly $20,000,000 worth of ore. This is the conclusion:

"Nearly every community in Texas has some recent new reason to feel good over the future, with new oil fields, new gas fields, new industrial prospects, new feeling of confidence in what the immediate future holds in store for them." It must be true that is is great to be a Texan. Think what it will be 10 or 20 years hence.

CHAIRMAN ELY IS HONORED.

Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene, chairman of the Texas highway commission, at the suggestion of President Hoover, has been named one of the three delegates at the meeting of Inter-American highway representatives in Panama City, Canal Zone, March 16. Other members for the United States are Thomas H. McDonald, chief of the United States Bureau of public roads, and Francis Drake. Judge Ely accepted the appointment and will sail from New Orleans in time for the meeting.

It is a high honor to say the least. As chairman of the state commission Judge Ely has been in charge of more federal road projects than any other state highway commissioner in the United States.

TEXAS AS A PRODUCER OF MERCURY.

According to an exchange, the mercury vapor turbine, the first commercial use of which was made in an electric generating plant in 1930, promises to make fuel cheaper than any other known means. Mercury is said to produce 50 per cent more power than any other agency. This is where the new turbine should be of interest to Texas for the reason given by the exchange: "Texas will be more interested than most states in the development of the mercury boiler because of the fact that Texas produces a considerable part of the mercury consumed in the United States and with a new and considerable outlet provided by development of the mercury turbine can produce much more than it has in the past."

SOUTHWESTENS RESOURCES SUSPENDS PUBLICATION.

Seven years ago Col. Milton Everett began the publication of the magazine known as Southwestern Resources. He made it one of the most interesting publications that Texas has known — for three years as Southwestern Mineral Resources at Austin and Fort Worth and four years as Southwestern Resources at San Antonio. Now he has suspended its publication. He made this confession of faith, "We have tried to do some service for Texas during these years. We have tried to make a business paper and an honest paper and it has always reflected the opinions of the editor and those of no one else. We have stood stoutly for what we believed was the best interests of our state and this editor has had much opportunity during the past 40 years, he has been a protagonist of Texas to know what is good for Texas." He added this to his suspension notice, "But we have failed to impress our work on those who buy advertising. We have lost money, for a poor man a great deal of money, and, after believing that 1931 would make some change for the better in our cash box which was a delusion, we have decided to quit. Maybe we will start up again in San Antonio or elsewhere; but at this writing we cannot say what the prospects are for the future."

Col. Everett published a virile and thoroughly up to date Texas magazine. He knows Texas as few men know it. He knows its natural resources and the possibilities of his Texas. Let us hope that he will start up again. His magazine filled a place in the state and it is one of the most readable and informative printed in the Lone Star Commonwealth.

OTHER OPINIONS

PIONEERS

What is happening to denational education time when it was not merely the best the country afforded, but all that the country afforded. The church established higher education in America, and for generations the church alone sustained it. Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Brown and nearly all the rest of the really old colleges were the outgrowth of the church's educational activity.

Today the churches and their schools have come to the parting of the ways. Many colleges have ceased to be denominational in order to obtain state grants or for other economic reasons. Others have been merged. And a number of denominations are having difficulty supporting their church colleges.

Has the church, then, lost its interest in the intellectual training of its children? It may be so, but there is another explanation that seems to account for present conditions without adopting so radical a hypothesis. That is the entry of the state into the field of higher education. The church held the line until the resources of the state could be mobilized; but now that the state has become interested it is able, with its larger resources to do the work better and more easily than the church could do it.

But to church colleges goes the glory of establishing and maintaining higher education in America in the days when no one else would attempt the job. So in a sense, they educated the nation to the value of education. — Paris News.

IN THE POLITICAL ARENA

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Millions of world war veterans are getting their loan advances on their certificates. A president of the United States and his secretary of the treasury were compelled by the American congress to eat humble pie. As for the 72nd congress it is as dead as a do-dod. Muscle Shoals goes over to the new congress. Its side partner the lame duck constitutional amendment, made the slide from the old to the new. As for the donkey, he is pawing an' ready to go. His trainers and lockeys held a conference in the city of Washington. Chmn. Raskob did not resign. He is not going to resign. In the month of June, 1932, there will be a standard-bearer named and the standard-bearer will pick the successor of Raskob. Col. Jed Adams gave his proxy to Maury Hughes of Dallas a lawyer and a politician who journeyed to Washington and is said to have obeyed his instructions. Mrs. Hal Sevier, national committeewoman for the democrats, could not attend. She was injured in an automobile accident and will not be able to travel for some time to come.

A reminder that in 1928, 200,000 democrats bolted to Hoover away down here in Texas. They were led by Dr. C. M. Besser. The winners were Love and Cato Sells. Thomas B. Love attended the meeting of the democratic national committee and had a lot to say to the Washington correspondent. This former state senator is a wonderful copy maker whenever he is able to get an audience. Down here in Texas regular democrats are doing a lot of talking, while the Hoover democrats are mum as to Hoover and which road they will take next year. There are a lot of stalwart regulars under the big dome of the Texas capitol and some few who are not stalwarts.

Sen. Charles S. Gainer of Bryan is a stalwart. He has been a regular since he jumped out of his democratic cradle. He directed the campaign for Smith and Robinson in his senatorial district in 1928 and it is said that the regulars not only swept the district under his leadership but rolled up the largest majority given the regular ticket in any of the 31 districts. This isn't all. The 16th congressional district which takes in some of the same senatorial district, rolled up the largest majority of any of the 18 congressional districts for the Smith and Robinson election. Sen. Gainer hasn't forgotten it. Whenever he thinks or speaks of Hoover prosperity he reminds the listeners of how hugely he is enjoying the prosperity that the successor of Calvin Coolidge handed on to the people of Texas.

Now what will happen in 1932?

Speaking of West Texas and west Texans, Judg A. B. Martin of Plainview was here the other day. He resigned from an $8,000 judicial job and moved from Austin to his old home. Judicial friends who are close to him say that his retainer fees for the first week after his resignation from the bench totaled $15,000. They say he is one of the very able lawyers of the west of Texas, enjoyed the active practice of law and would rather live away out in the plains country than elsewhere. This is one of the reasons why many able lawyers avoid office holding and prefer the firing line of practice to a place on the bench. Judge Martin is a wheat grower in every sense of the word. His father was a rugged pioneer of the West and the west is in the blood of the son.

What Is Wrong With Texas?

Nothing's wrong with Texas, except that entirely too many of us get up in the morning at the alarm of a Connecticut clock, button a pair of Ohio suspenders to a pair of Chicago pants, put on a pair of Massachusetts shoes, wash in a Pittsburgh basin using Cincinnati soap, and a cotton towel made in New Hampshire, sit down to a Grand Rapids table, eat pancakes made from Minneapolis flour spread with Vermont maple syrup, and Kansas bacon fried on a St. Louis stove. Buy fruit put up in California, reasoned with Rhode Island spices, and sweetened with Colorado sugar. Put on a hat made in Philadelphia, hitch a Detroit mule fed on Oklahoma gasoline to an Ohio slow and work all day on a Texas farm covered with a New England mortgage and our money to Ohio for this, wondering why Texas taxes are $2.75 per acre while Ohio farmers pay $1.00 tax and drive on paved roads, and at night we crawl under a New Jersey blanket to be kept awake by a bull dog, the only home product on the place wondering all the time, where in the hell all the money went in this wonderful state of ours. —Anonymous.

THE GOOD SAMARITAN

Text: Luke 10:25-37.
And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I DO to inherit eternal life?
He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou?
And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.
And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right; this DO, and thou shalt live.
But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbor?
And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.
And by chance there came down a certain priest that way; and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side.
And likewise a Levite, also, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.
But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was; and when he saw him, he had compassion on him.
And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.
And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.
Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbor unto him that fell among thieves?
And he said, He that showed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.
Z. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 8: The Good Samaritan. Luke 10: 25-37.
By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

The story that we call the Parable of the Good Samaritan is from every standpoint one of the richest, deepest and most beautiful in all human history. From a literary standpoint it is perfect. It compresses into small space a remarkable story, and tells it with unexcelled dramatic force and vigor. From a moral standpoint it expresses the whole challenge of duty in connection with human relationships and man's responsibility for the welfare of his fellow man in as pointed and compelling a way as it could well be expressed. And from a spiritual standpoint it reveals the sham and hypocrisy that often parade under the profession of religion and the insincerity and futility that go hand in hand with formalism, as these things have never been so vigorously set forth anywhere else.

Here, also, the parable has become known through its chief figure and its chief purpose. It is not the parable of the man who fell among thieves, or the parable of the priest who passed by on the other side, or of the Levite who did likewise. It is the parable of the good Samaritan—the man who is known to us not because we are told anything about his creed or profession, but who appears in all the glory of his kind and loving deed.

Story Told as Illustration. It should not be forgotten that the story was told, like many of the parables of Jesus, to illustrate a particular point. Jesus was answering the question, Who is my neighbor? The lawyer who was trying him out had asked that question when Jesus had defined religion as consisting of love to God and love to one's neighbor. It is instructive to see the way

In this parable, as in other places, Jesus reminds us that we make our own religious world and environment. We can make it as narrow as our own prejudices and as mean and circumscribed as ourselves, or we can make it as vast as the love of God and inclusive of all that great family of our fellow men who are comprised in that love of the Almighty Father. A Limitless Religion. The religion of the good Samaritan is a limitless religion. It is limitless in the largeness of its creed and profession for its creed is not formal but practical. It is limitless in its application of religion, for it does not inquire whether the man to whom one would be a neighbor is an American or a foreigner, or what is the color of his skin, or what is the particular cause of the affliction from which he is suffering. It is the religion that moves with instinctive action toward the help of anyone in distress. It is the religion in which love as naturally expresses itself in kind words and loving deeds as one's physical being inhales and exhales the air that is essential for life. The glory of such a religion is that the more one practices it, the more natural it becomes until it is almost second nature to behave in the spirit and in the manner of the good Samaritan; for the good Samaritan was simply acting in the spirit of the Master who gives wisdom and strength to all to act in the same way. America, in its present situation of unemployment and widespread suffering, offers a rich opportunity for all who are willing to be "Good Samaritans."

189 Charters Are Issued in February

AUSTIN, March 7.—Charters granted to Texas corporations during February numbered 189 and represented a total capitalization of $6,931,000, compared to 191 companies with a total capitalization of $8,276,000 in January and 182 with a total capitalization of $5,924,000 in February, 1930, according to the Bureau of Business Research at The University of Texas. "Oil companies formed the largest single group among the businesses chartered, in the number of domestic as well as foreign permits granted." The Bureau's report said. "Permits to out-of-state corporations included ten organizations directly connected with oil development or distribution, in addition to a large list of lumber, machinery or steel merchandising companies, many of which reported home offices in Louisiana or Oklahoma."

LIFE HISTORY OF CANDIDATE IS SKETCHED

Who is this J. R. Burnett and where did he come from? This question was asked one of my constituents recently, the inquirer hinting that no one knows much of anything about the past history of my life previous to the time I have lived in my midst.

However, I really wish the people to know my record, as I have nothing I desire to hide from them whatsoever. I shall therefore give you a brief summary of my life history.

My parents were Andrew Burnett, a farmer and school teacher of Madison county, Texas, whose ancestry we have traced back through the days of the American revolution, and Frances Day Burnett, whose ancestry has been traced farther than that, even to England in the early part of the seventeenth century when the name was spelled "Daye." A noble ancestry is of no benefit to a fellow who does not live a creditable life, however, and so I shall give you a brief summary of my own life.

I was born and reared in Madison county, Texas, receiving my education in the public schools of that county and in Baylor university, Waco, Texas where I spent three and one-half years, paying my entire expenses through my own efforts. Since that time I have taught school, serving as superintendent of public schools for five years in Bremond, Texas, and later organizing a bank at Reagan, Texas serving successfully as its president and cashier for several years, which place I gave up of my own accord. Later I traveled for the United States government, in the Internal Revenue department, with headquarters at Waco, Texas. I then went to Eastland in the employment of the State Banking department of Texas where I had charge of three defunct banks at one time, for nearly five years. I came from Eastland to Cisco, where I have lived for more than seven years.

I have been a member of the Baptist church for more than thirty years and belong also to the Masonic lodge and the Knights of Pythias lodge, my membership in each of these dating back through a period of years. I have never been called in question concerning any misconduct of mine either in private or public life.

I have been twice married and am the father of only one child, a married daughter who now lives with her husband in Washington, D. C. where they are both employed by the United States government.

There is nothing in my life that might not be found in the life of any christian gentleman. No doubt I have made a few enemies who would injure my reputation if possible, but I verily believe I have as few as any man who ever made this business of collections his main line. If there had been any stain on my past record, any person of reason and judgment would know that it would have undoubtedly been brought to light long before this time, since I have lived among you for the past nine years, including the time spent in Eastland, and never have had anything to conceal in my life. I AM IN THIS RACE TO STAY, and I respectfully take this method of soliciting your vote and influence.

(Signed) J. R. BURNETT.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The drys picked up a valuable new champion when former Governor Cameron Morrison of North Carolina was appointed to the Senate to succeed the late Lee Overman.

Morrison is the only senator on the Democratic National Committee which meets here early in March and he appears to have assumed leadership of the heretofore rather feeble opposition among politicians to the proposal that the Democrats become the wet party in 1932.

He is an able fighter, although explosive and impulsive. And he is very sincerely dry. He has been a teetotaler all his life and always an advocate of prohibition, state and national. He even contends that prohibition is reasonably well enforced all over the United States, except in some of the largest cities.

It takes no political courage to be dry in such a politically dry state as North Carolina, but the point is that Morrison is not merely one of those southern politicians who drink and who don't care a hoot about prohibition except as an issue on which votes may be gained or lost.

He's Convincing Orator

While a half dozen other new senators—including such strong wets as Morrow of New Jersey and Bulkeley of Ohio—have remained silent, Morrison, who has been here more briefly than any of them, has been positively noisy in defying the wets to take over his party. Already he threatens to become one of the Senate's more interesting figures and is likely to become one of the most important in the southern Democratic group. He is a fiery, eloquent orator and knows how to convince "the people" that he really loves them.

Morrison is 61 years old now. He was born a poor country boy, the son of a Republican and studied law in an office at Greensboro.

He is a kind-hearted and charitable man, despite his impetuosity, and they say he would travel across North Carolina to help someone in distress. He is rather good-looking, gray-haired, of medium height and build and always wears a black English cut-away coat with a wing collar and black cravat. People call him "Cam."

Made Good His Pledges

Governor O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, who appointed Morrison to the Senate, was one of the men Morrison defeated when he himself was elected in 1925. Morrison had some into Democratic politics and had finally become one of the chief cogs in the famous Simmons machine. He campaigned on a platform that called for good hard-surface roads and a large building program for state educational and charitable institutions.

After being nominated and elected, he put his promises into effect. North Carolina took a spur forward as a state with a fine modern highway system, modern school buildings and a famous university for which Morrison, although he had had no college education himself, recommended liberal appropriations.

During the 1928 pre-convention fight Morrison fought the efforts of Senator Simmons to obtain an anti-Al Smith delegation from the state and subsequently became Simmons' political enemy. He will soon become North Carolina's senior senator, although only appointed in December, because Simmons, denied renomination after 24 years in the Senate, leaves the Senate after March fourth to be succeeded by Josiah W. Bailey.

Always a Regular

Despite their political enmity, Morrison worked for and voted for a close friend of Simmons, Frank R. McNinch, when McNinch was appointed recently to the Federal Power Commission. Democrats who deplore Morrison's vigorous dry speeches and his promise to keep on fighting the wets in the Democratic party get some satisfaction in the thought that "he has always been regular." He was no bolter in 1928. And in the Senate the other day he referred to National Chairman Raskob as "the monumental mistake of our great candidate, Alfred E. Smith."

So perhaps Morrison will be careful not to injure the party in his attempts to keep it dry, even though he proves to be the Democratic dry who makes the ablest and sincerest fight until the demand for "regularity" overtakes him.

WEEK'S SERIES OF SERVICES CLOSE FRIDAY

The services for the week closed at the Church of Christ Friday evening with Rev. O'Dowd, of Breckenridge, preaching. A large congregation was present, considering the weather. Several came from the country as far as eight miles, come from Breckenridge and three from Abilene, who returned after services.

The subject for the evening was "The Business of the Church". In his remarks Rev. O'Dowd said, "When I think of the business of the church, the first thing that comes to my mind is the subject of giving. Covetousness was the besetting sin of the Israelites, and is the besetting sin of the church today. Paul said of some Christians that they were not able to bear meat, but still required milk, and we find them in that condition until this day. A new born babe does well on milk, but if you give it meat and bread it will have serious trouble, so if you feed some Christians on "giving" they can hardly digest it and it seems to give them serious stomach trouble. This is not a popular subject I realize," continued the speaker "but before I will soft soap, or sweeten the milk for you I will get out and toil for a living and help support a man that has nerve to tell you your duty. Covetousness is classed with theft and murder, and the elders that will look after the flock for theft, should look after them for covetousness, but too often the elders are gully, too."

"The Lord did not leave us in doubt, but gave a system of giving and if we neglect it we are sinning. He said every first day of the week, each one should give as they are prepared. Then every one is responsible and that each Lord's day, to the amount that they have been prospered. Cornelius' alms as well as his prayers were remembered by the Lord. Some of my brethren will find some of their prayers in heaven when they get there but their alms will be very scarce, I am afraid. The Jews of old gave a tenth of their income besides the other offerings, so we should give a tenth and then come. The tenth is the dividing line between covetousness and liberality" said the speaker, "and the Lord loves a liberal, or cheerful giver. If you do not give over a tenth of your income you are not a liberal giver, but when you give more than the tenth, you are classed as a liberal giver. One tenth is tithing, and less than that is covetousness. Some of us are like the darky who said he would give 100 sheep to the Lord if he had 1000 or 50 if he had 500, or 10 if he had 100, but when asked if he would give one if he had ten, he said "No sir." That is just what I have, and I can't spare one." That is the way we are, we think we would give if we had a lot, but when it comes to sacrificing a part of what we really have we don't want to do it."

"It's a surprise!" Gypsy explained. "Mrs. O'Hare wouldn't let me tell you. All of the other roomers are here."

Hasty introductions followed. The hostess led Alan to the head of the table. "You're to sit here, Mr. Crosby," she said. "Gypsy you take this chair on the left."

The young man hesitated. "I wonder—would you mind if I made a telephone call?" he asked. "Why, certainly not. You remember where the hopen is."

The others found their places and the seconds dragged as, with unusual formality, they stood waiting for two fiery circles burned in Gypsy McBride's cheeks.

It must have been nearly five minutes before the young man returned to his place beside Mrs. O'Hare.

"I'm terribly sorry," he said soberly, "but I must ask you to excuse me. Something unexpected has come up. It's—it's a business matter. I hope you won't mind!"

The young man smiled winningly. A minute later he was gone.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ON VET LOANS

Further information relative to obtaining loans on adjusted service certificates under the new law recently passed by congress had received by the John William Butts post of the American Legion.

The information sent by Read Johnson, regional manager of the U. S. Veterans bureau at Dallas, includes an appeal for more accurate and detailed certification of applications so that the bureau may be able to handle these more expeditiously under the announced administration policy of helping veterans actually in need of the money first.

"Since the announcement of this policy," says Mr. Johnson, "so many certifications have been received in the Dallas office that it is almost impossible now to determine whether or not we have more emergency cases than we do of the other class, and if the certifications continue to reach us in the great numbers that have been filed during the last three days the purpose of this policy will be defeated, because when approximately the entire load of loans are made special, there is nothing that can be done except put them in line for payment in the order in which they are received in the office. The officials of this office have no way of determining which ones of the emergency cases should be put first, inasmuch as the certifications in very few instances carry any information whatever as to the man's circumstances but just simply state that an investigation has been made and the man is in urgent need of his money."

"This matter is called to your attention not through any spirit of resentment or because it works any particular hardship on the bureau. It would be our desire to pay all of these loans immediately and get the work out of the office as soon as possible and get the money to the men who actually need it but it is brought to your attention in an effort to picture to you a situation that will defeat the purpose of special loan checks for those veterans who actually need their money for the necessities of life and will prevent the bureau from giving preference to those cases that are in actual need which we would like very much to do."

Bank Loans
The following information relative to securing additional loans from banks on certificates held as security for loans already secured was also supplied by the bureau:

Reference is made to the amendment to the World War Adjusted Compensation Act of February 27, 1931. Many inquiries have been received by this office from veterans and banks, as to how additional loans may be granted by the banks on certificates which are being held by them as security for loans, and how the veterans may receive the additional amounts they are entitled to under the above mentioned amendment. For that reason the following information is furnished and it will be appreciated if you will disseminate this information to the veterans, as well as the banks in your locality.

Under the amendment banks may make loans up to the full loan value, which now is fifty per cent of the face value of any certificate, two years or more must have elapsed since the effective date of the certificate before a loan can be made either by a bank or by the veterans' bureau.

"The rate of interest which a bank may charge may not exceed by more than two per cent the Federal Reserve Discount rate for ninety-day commercial paper for the Federal Reserve banks of the district in which the bank is located, but in no event may the rate of interest charged for loans made on and after February 27, 1931, the date of the amendment, exceed four and one-half per cent.

"If, while his certificate is held by a bank as security for a loan, a veteran applies for the increased loan value authorized by the Amendment of February 27, 1931, whether or not the loan has matured, the veteran should be informed of the provisions of this letter, and that the bank may make the loan for the additional amount, or, upon request of the veteran, may send the note and certificate to the U. S. Veterans' Bureau in Washington, D. C. The Bureau, if the loan has been made in accordance with the law, may accept the certificate and the veteran's note, and pay to the bank the full satisfaction of its claim, the amount of unpaid principal due it, and the unpaid interest at the rate fixed in the note, up to the date of the check issued to the bank, or up to the date of maturity of the loan, which is the later date. If the loan has not matured, the bank may waive its right to interest up to the date of maturity or any portion of such interest."

IS YOUR BABY PAID FOR?

A startling question perhaps! There is no event in the life of men and women that compares in importance with the arrival of his lordship-the-baby. Everything else pales into insignificance. Nothing else matters. And the promptness and skill of your physician at that event effects the entire future of at least three people.

At no time in the lives of most families is more thought given to the selection of a physician. He must be a kindly, capable member of the profession. And nothing places greater care on the physician. Yet the records show that a surprisingly large percentage of the physician's very modest fees remain unpaid for many months.

You cannot afford on such an occasion to take chances. Get the best physician you can. And show your appreciation of the importance of his services by at least showing him the courtesy of a reply to his statement. If you fail to get a statement see him and if you cannot pay cash tell him. He will never crowd you for payment and will be happy to aid you.

The physician could protect his interests in such cases by putting them on a cash basis. Perhaps that will come in the future, but not because the physician wants it. The public may force such action if it does not pay promptly.

No group of men do more for humanity than the physician and none are more entitled to fair play. If you can't pay cash at least pay your physician on the first of the month when you pay your other accounts.
