ASS'N PLANS ITS CAMPAIGN

J. A. Bearman, chairman of the finance committee and J. T. Elliott, general chairman, are shaping up plans this week for the annual appeal of the Cisco Charity and Welfare association campaign. These plans will be presented to the regular meeting of the executive board of the organization next Monday when a date for beginning a whirlwind campaign will be decided upon.

The need for relief this winter is going to be much more serious and insistent than was the need last year so ably met by the association through the cooperation and generosity of the citizens. The economy of grouping charity ministrations under the direction of one central organization composed of representatives of all institutions whose in terests include relief work, was clearly demonstrated in the work of the local association last year. Asking for $2,500 in contributions the association received almost $3,000 and this amount enabled it to take care of relief needs in the city admirably. Supplementing this fund were contributions of garments and shoes and other household necessi-

Harder Task.

But this year the task is going to be harder, the resources much less, it was pointed out. With less available funds and more requests for aid confronting the association its officials and members are concerned to inspire the citizens in a position to contribute with a realizaton of the need of the utmost in sacrifice to carry on during the winter. The magnificent response last year is taken to indicate that the response this year will be commensurate with the ability of the public to give, and that is all that the association tends to ask.

The drive is planned to occupy but a brief period. Every person in a position to contribute will be seen and the association is hopeful that every one will give this appeal setries of Cisco, Mrs. LeVeaux said rious thought and be in a position that when she came here this was a to make his answer when the work-

AUSTIN, Nov. 3. - Rumbling indications of a real "oil battle" before the fourth special session of the Texas legislature were heard here today as lawmakers assembled in answer to Gov. R. S. Sterling's call.

There were 40 of the 150 members of the house present when Speaker Fred Minor called the house to order. One hundred is a quorum. Ten senators were here at noon. A senate quorum is 21.

It was apparent that neither house nor senate will have a quorum today and that the session cannot start before tomorrow.

A committee of lawers had completed a first draft of a bill to carry out the purpose of the session. "Market demand" is written into the draft of the new bill which copies almost literally the noted Oklahoma oil law upheld by the supreme court of the United States. Any production in excess of transportation or marketing facilities is termed waste and is forbidden.

Gov. Ross Sterling told the former oil session he would veto a "market demand" bill. "We just convinced him that it is right," Charles F. SWINGING THE CLUB.

Sen. William H. King of Utah is a democrat and very active in his support of the standard bearers of his party. Sen. King is on the warpath. He charges that several Utah corporations are "brazenly and openly seeking to compel their employes to vote the republican ticket." There is a Utah law making such campaign tactics illegal and Sen. King has served warning that the law would be invoked unless the practice is discontinued by the heads of the corporations. George Dorn is the democratic governor of Utah. All this is a reminder that Mayor McKee of New York reports that more than 525,000 able-bodied persons are unemployed in that city, and dependent upon these are 460,000 persons, making a total of 985,000 dependent on the Greater City for the necessities or necessaries of life.

A job is a precious thing. There are millions of jobless in the city and country under the flag. Power carries with it responsibility. A reminder that prosperity has been "just around the corner" for three years, and "it might have been worse" is the explanation.

There were thousands of marchers. They carried nail studded clubs. They marched and they counter marched. They demanded food. They demanded employment. They demanded an extension of the dole. They were dispersed by the police. Many toughs or thugs joined the marchers. They were out for plunder and not for bread. All this in the capital of the empire upon which the sun never sets. Evolution is the order of life. Old systems and old methods are passing out. New systems and a new social orders are coming in everywhere under the shining sun. This is a great age in which we live. Those who are among the people on earth today saw more history made in 25 years than had been made in a thousand years recorded on the dial plate of passing time. Those who are in the land of the living today will see a mighty era and a more humane and intelligent civilization and peoples come out of the wreckage of the old civilization which began to crumble when mighty monarchs and their advisers and armies were first crushed and then buried on the battle plains of Europe.

FARMER SEED LOANS FOR NEXT YEAR.

It is announced that a survey of farmers' needs for credit is being made by Owen W. Sherrill, regional director of the farmers' seed loan office for the Southwest, of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, looking toward possible continuance of seed loans next year. Meanwhile, it is said, payments on 1932 loans and unpaid balances on 1931 loans are coming into the Dallas office at a rate, the total thus far repaid being $1,339,254.45. Many farmers are collateralizing their loans with cotton, on the basis of nine cents per pound for middling seven-eighths inch staple.

This from the pen of Arthur Brisbane should close the seed loan story: "Take away the farmer, who transforms the earth's fertility into food, and civilization would crumble. His farm, absolutely necessary to life itself, is the work most poorly rewarded. The whole world rides on the farmers' back and shows little gratitude for the patient efforts on which it relies. The farmer is the foundation of civilization and has been ever since human beings ceased their existence as nomadic tribes, wandering from place to place, looking fresh pastures and game supplies.

And the Old Alcade told it all when he said, "Civilization begins and ends with the plow." Perhaps the growers of things will write a new declaration of independence in the agricultural states of this republic on the eighth day of No-

Our transportation was furnished by the Texas Joy. Pacific Railway company, through Mr. Ollie B. Webb, assistant to the president of the company.

We left Eastland October 17th, at 10:34 a. m., arrived in Dallas at 2:30 p. m., were met by Miss Edwards and Mrs. Claytor, encampment committee, and then taken to the fair grounds. At the camp we were joined by 300 happy 4-H club representing seventy two counties of Texas.

Our chaperons were very sweet and helped us to see every thing and enjoy every minute of the time. Miss Ruth Ramey, our county home demonstration agent came Monday night, and we were especially glad to see her there.

The second day I had the honor of being hostess to Miss Alpha Lynn ssistant home demonstration agent Dallas County, and at the evening meal, hostess to Mr. A. L. WOMAN WRITER PLANS ANOTHER YUCATAN TRIP

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3.—It's a foolish wife who devotes her time to taking care of her husband, according to Mrs. Edna Robb Webster, whose book "Occasional Wife" was recently released.

"When a wife follows her husband around trying to make him happy, nine times out of ten she is making him "miserable," the novelist stated. And because she practices what she preaches, Mrs. Webster will leave her husband and children in February and sail to Yucatan on her second trip into the interior to seek relics of the ancient Mayan civilization.

During most of its trip, the expedition will study the primitive lift in the region, but Mrs. Webster plans to be in Merida, capital city of Yutan, for the annual carnival in

'We plan to study the contrast between primitive and cultural life in the region," Mrs. Webster said.
"Hotels in Merida are veritable palaces with Moorish columns and olonades. Contrary to general bein other countries, the higher citizens of Merida are well ed-ed, highly cultured people. There were more millionaires in Merida in 1915 than in any other city of its size in the world," she

Mrs. Webster is recognized as one of the few good authorities on the subject of the ancient Mayans in the United States. When she isn't in Yucatan or Guatamala, she constantly is doing further research wherever she can find any material related to the subject.

PARIS STYLES

PARIS, Nov. 3. - Details may be mall, but they are dreadfully im-Where clothes are concerned, if they are wrong they can and will ruin an entire costume: on the other hand, they can and will do a tremendous amount of good if they are skilfully and carefully chosen, even if the main portion of the frock or coat or ensemble is not of the first water chicness. Here are a few details of note from the heart of the fashion mart in Paris.

Molyneux trims a cape of black velvet with bright blue velvet Lelong uses as a shoulder strap evening gown, chiffon roses, graduating them in size from two large ones over the front of the shoulder to one very small one at a low revives the Grecian custom of leaves in the hair in the form of a bandeau for evening. He makes them of black velvet one overlapping the other, touching the tips of the ears and arching the forehead just over the natural hair line. It fastens obcurely at the nape of the neck.

PARIS, Nov. 3. - In the Victorian Age, the golden age of bourgeois society, fashion took away the priv ilege of the male sex of wearing jewelry other than the watch chain tie-pin and ring and he seems never anything more elaborate than these items, with the exception, of course of cuff-links, shirt-studs and wrist

These items, however, in the gentleman's jewelry box, have become increasingly important, and, simple as they may sound, they are known to cost upwards of several figures with a dollar sign in front. The reason for all this naturally is to act as a back drop, so to speak, for the woman who, by wearing costly raiment and being bedecked with jewis, thus proves to the world the wit of the husband whose business acumen has made them possible

Waistline is Moved To Create Business

PARIS, Nov. 3 -There always are easons for everything that happens in fashion circles - usually pretty good ones, too, if you take time enough to do a little figuring on them yourself. Everybody likes to ask "Why?" this or that, but few people have the patience, or the interest, to answer their own question. One of the biggest "Whys" in the present fashion season undoubtedly is followed by, "Why did Patou do such a radical thing as to bring the waistline down so far at a time like this?" He did it for the very best ing ceremony and Troop No. 1 with reason in the world — to stimulate

> No smart woman really would take the liberty of trying to change the natural placement of her waistline. She caters to it and builds up and below it is the ways that set it off to best adayntage. Patou's new low line has shown many womer their real waistline who never have been very sure about it before.

Hat angles cause another natural "Why?" It is personality's way of varying the fashion landscape so that the esthetic eye that longs for rakishness finds it in the little bere perched over one ear, and the sturdy eye that prefers the straight and narrow path to smartness, finds it in the brimmed hat poised with impartiality over both eyebrows with the mere hint of a backward tilt.

MOM'N POP.

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

BEGIN HERE TODAY STAN BALL accuses ASPER DELO, lumber king, of having men shot who attempt to check up on his activities. Ball says he is making a check. Delo says he will go in person and prevent it. Upon leaving the office Ball saves DONA, Delo's daughter, from kidnapers, He tells her he is STANLEY BLACK.

DUDLEY WINTERS, in love with Dona, goes with her to Three Rivers to get her father to give up the fight with Ball. Dudley gets a marriage certificate filled out, which he hopes to use. Ball is accused of killing a ranger and of wounding Delo from ambush. Dona has to show him the certificate and tell him she is married to Dudley to get him to promise to leave.

The office is raided of valuable papers and a posse headed by SWERGN, Delo's timber boss, surround Ball. Dona goes out and is captured after trying to shoot He takes her to a cave. Swergin finds the cave and rescues Dona. He waits for Ball, who is out, and captures him. Swergin's men start a lynching while taking him in. Dona stands them off with her gun and frees Ball. He lets her take his horse and promises to come for it that night. He says he is leaving the country. Dudley follows Dona and tries to shoot Ball. After his escape Dona promises to marry Dudley. Dona rides out to investigate queer workings over the rige. Her horse is shot from under her. She regains consciousness to find Swergin bending over her and accusing Ball of the shooting. Dudley has been riding a lot alone and cannot be found. Dudley comes in and Dona asks him to marry her. He stalls. MALLOY, Ball's friend, finds him. Stan Ball heads back to Three Rivers.
