CISCO GARDEN CLUB UTILIZES ODDS AND ENDS TO MAKE PARK

By FRANK LANGSTON Using odds and ends for building material and taking advantage of opportunities to secure free labor, the Cisco Garden club is converting a vacant lot into a municipal park and playground.

The project began to take form about the same time work began on the new federal building. When J. H. Latson took the excavation contract for the building, he needed some place to dump the earth removed from the hole. Quick to take advantage of the situation, the Garden club made an arrangement with him to place the dirt on the half block adjoining the post office site, on West Fifth street between E and F avenues. The arrangement was satisfactory to both parties concerned.

PLEDGE REDEMPTION.

Leaders, enthused over the spirit in which the public has accepted the emergency banking restrictions, set to work on a program of permanent reorganization. The public, equally enthused over the aggressive leadership of President Roosevelt, is confident that the end of the depression is in sight.

The next step is to redeem the pledge for a 25 per cent reduction in government expenses made to the people by the new administration. Roosevelt is ready to proceed. He has shown a determination to carry out his promises. No dilly-dallying; no waiting upon political expedient, but a straight home thrust toward fulfillment. A bill to give the new chief executive dominant powers to achieve this purpose is before the congress.

There is only one way to effect the economies promised and that is to cut to the bone. It is foolish to argue that the government cannot cut its expenses when business and individuals everywhere are slashing costs to conform to deflated commodity prices that exist in the wake of the boom day prosperity. It is foolish to argue that the revenue will be forthcoming from these deflated sources to maintain the same government overhead required in the flush period.

The president, as a candidate, pledged himself to a program and it was approved by an overwhelming popular vote. That popular approval demands that he be given the necessary authority to carry out his pledges.

NATURAL GAS TAX.

A bill to levy $1,750,000 new taxes on natural gas exports from the state of Texas has been laid before the Texas legislature as a substitute for the Lotief gas tax bill now in the house revenue and taxation committee. The substitute bill would adopt as a basis for reaching the huge export of Texas gas to northern and eastern points without doubling the tax load of Texas users of natural gas a West Virginia law which has already been sustained by the United States supreme court.

Texas is one of the great natural gas and petroleum producing states. Statisticians at Austin say that the state is now obtaining about $60,000 annually from its present gross production tax on natural gas, amounting from one-twenty fifth to one-eighth per cent per 1,000 feet. For the year 1930, 81 per cent of the 79,654,000,000 cubic feet produced from Texas fields was exported. The substitute bill would not be tapping new sources of revenue, but it would be tapping an old source and turning into the general revenue fund of Texas some of the profits arising from the exportation to other states of the treasure wealth of this commonwealth.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, March 10.—As statesmen and financiers wrestle with the complex task of restoring America's banking system, the demand for a federal guarantee of deposits has become intensified and insistent.

For years regarded as a scheme of the radicals, deposit guarantee has at last come up for serious consideration at the White House and in the treasury where men who control the country's immediate destiny have met in secret conference to try to find a way out.

tection and supervision of the billions of dollars of existing deposits now tied up. These are gigantic tasks.

WITH banking paralyzed in 48 states and government forced to handle the situation, the old argument that deposit guarantee would mean complete government control has lost some of its force. That is especially true in the popular mind. Chairman Henry B. Steagall of the House Banking and Currency Committee says "one hundred million Americans" have been besieging Congress for some such plan as his guarantee measure, which was passed by the House, but buried in the Senate.

Many limited forms of deposit insurance have been proposed and some senators who object to any general guarantee or to the Steagall bill are willing to consider such a plan for savings deposits. Senator Vandenberg of Michigan would create an insurance fund in the Federal Reserve System which would pay any "time depositor" 75 per cent of his deposit within 30 days of the closing of a bank. The fund would be created by an annual tax of one-eighth of 1 per cent on all time deposits in Federal Reserve member banks plus contributions from non-members desiring to participate. He would make the savings affected contract deposits rather than demand deposits. He says the limited guarantee would still leave the depositor with a 25 per cent responsibility for choosing his bank wisely.

Carrying Out the Moratorium Idea

BURDENS OF DOUBLE TAXATION.

Double taxation, meaning taxation by the federal and state government "is a crime." This was the conclusion of the report submitted by the house ways and means committee of congress on double taxation. A reminder that the committee began its study last year in an effort to determine what the state and the federal government might do about the duplication and overlapping of levies.

For illustration: The federal government for some time solely occupied the income tax field. Likewise, the tobacco field. At the present time 23 states and territories have income statutes—the majority of which are of recent origin—and 133 states have entered the tobacco field.

On the other hand the report said the federal government recently entered into the gasoline tax field already held by the states. Between the federal government, states and territories, "there are approximately 326 duplications of levies," and added that "the heavy tax burdens upon various commodities means diminution of sales with consequent lower revenues, particularly on gasoline and tobacco."

Other fields of double taxation included income levies on individuals and corporations, death and inheritance taxes, cigars and electricity, and towns and cities now are levying on gasoline sales.

All this calls for a tremendous cut in appropriations in nation and state. It calls for a reduction in the high salaries of the servants of the people. It calls in sweeping reductions for the support of all departments of government until the tax-payers of country and commonwealth have been given an opportunity to crawl out of the ditch. Pres. Roosevelt recognizes this fact. He is going all the road—that is, if the congress, overwhelmingly democratic, gives him a free hand. If given a free hand, confidence will be restored and a gradual flow of prosperity will return to the American people.

In the Political Arena

DANIELS PROSPECTIVE MEXICO MINISTER

Josephus Daniels of North Carolina is under serious consideration as ambassador to Mexico. Just the other day the Washington correspondent agreed that Col. Daniels "has been in the Roosevelt mind for head of the unified national transportation agency which the president plans."

Josephus Daniels has been a leader of North Carolina thought and direct action for 40 years. He began as a printer boy in the little town in Wilson county of that state. He fought on and on until he became the editor and publisher of the leading daily newspaper of the Tar and Turpentine commonwealth. He was secretary of the navy for eight years by appointment of Woodrow Wilson. He has ever been an outstanding pro and an outstanding regular democrat. He would be a big man in any nation or under any flag.

While secretary of the navy he saw to it that the naval oil reserves were not looted or transferred to any other department of government. After he returned to private life and Warren G. Harding became the successor of Woodrow Wilson, these reserves were transferred to the department of the interior. Albert B. Fall was its head and in time followed in a most scandalous transaction in American history.

Josephus Daniels followed Franklin D. Roosevelt first assistant secretary of the navy. This was not a Wilson appointment. It was a personal appointment of the North Carolina publisher who was the close friend of Bryan and who has ever been a champion of the masses as against the gold grabbers and gold raiders of America.

CHOPPING SALARIES AT OKLAHOMA A. & M.

NEBRASKA COURT RULES ON FORECLOSURES

Readers are reminded the supreme court of Nebraska in a most important ruling held "that mere inadequacy of price in a foreclosure sale would not justify a court in refusing confirmation." Indeed the court held that inadequacy must be SO GREAT AS TO SHOCK THE CONSCIENCE OF THE COURT OR TO AMOUNT TO EVIDENCE OF FRAUD. Moreover, the high court of the commonwealth of Gov. Charles W. Bryan said a court order confirming the sale of land under foreclosure proceedings "would not be disturbed unless it has been shown a subsequent sale would realize a greater price for the land."

An attempt to celebrate the wedding of a couple in the boisterous fashion of the charivari here last night came to grief with the filing of charges and counter-charges in the corporation court. It seems the celebrants became too enthusiastic in their sport and departed from the traditional charivari which is confined to a savage beating upon tin pans, and other producers of unholy noise, and mixed a few rocks with their enthusiasm. The honorees manifested a resentment which found its way into city court where the groom admitted that one charivari was all right but a second was too much of a good thing. Charges of abusive language lodged against him by the merry-makers were dismissed while six or seven of the latter left the judicial atmosphere sadder but wiser in the knowledge of the rights which surround a home. Probationary fines were assessed.

Cisco merchants, far from being depressed, are waiting reopening of the local bank with confidence in a stimulation of business. The local atmosphere, like that over the nation, is one of sincere optimism. There is no wild enthusiasm, but rather a firm belief that within the next six months things are going to improve. Like the rest of the country they feel that business will shortly be on the upgrade, that a lot of hard pulling is ahead but that there will be a sense of progress to make the toil bearable.

Henry Drumwright illustrates the amazing reversal of sentiment over the nation by recounting incidents told by a prominent radio commentator last night. March the 3, he said, people were rushing to get their money out of the banks and into hoarding. Today reopened banks are pressed to take care of customers rushing as eagerly to return it. Up to the front of the federal reserve bank in New York the other day, so he

BUCCANEERS TO BE PILOTED BY LEAGUE NOVICE

By STUART E. JONES
United Press Staff Correspondent
GALVESTON, March 14.—With playing managers the general order, the 1933 Galveston Buccaneers will sport in Billy Webb a pilot who has never tasted Texas league pitching, although he is a veteran infielder who began his career back in 1916.

Webb is not a neophyte at the managing game, for he piloted the Buffalo Bisons of the International league in 1925 and bossed the Birmingham club of the New York Pennsylvania loop in 1930.

This year will mark his Texas league debut, Webb having taken over the Buccaneer management to succeed Del Pratt, now at Lubbock.

With prospects of 30-odd players turning up for spring practice beginning March 11, Webb has cast himself tentatively for second base, Dick Goldberg, first base, and Charlie English, third base.

The latter two are counted by Webb as among his most valuable men. Both are new acquisitions, Goldberg coming to the Bucs from Baltimore Orioles and English from the Chicago White Sox.

Other infield prospects include Larry France, Ray Rogers, Joe Tasse and Carroll Burrows, rookies; and the following holdovers from last season—Molesworth, Allday and Fawcett.

New pitching material includes Bill Chamberlain, a purchase from the Chicago White Sox; Orville Jorgens, bought from Montreal; Hubert Vinson, Houston Yarbrough, John Welsh, Fay Couch, all rookies and Thormahlen, Darrow, Cramer, Tubbs, Moore and Taylor holdovers.

Catchers on hand will include four newcomers—Jack Menley, Sam An-tonio; Hi Czuzensky, Northwestern university; Ralton, inexperienced, and Jack Allo, another recruit.

"After the usual spring eliminations," said Webb, "I expect to have a 75 per cent changed ball club outside the pitching department. I also expect to get some more help from the majors but will be forced to wait until they break camp before delivery."

The Galveston club has no confirmed holdouts, Webb said.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE

Newspapers do not cater to a chosen few. They work for the whole community.

Our present position is far from hopeless. The fact that the whole world is worried and working to find a way out is laden with hope. If only a sincere effort is made to build up and not tear down, a wave will be started which will traverse the whole country and sweep away the fear that has been caused by the present economy aye and once again money will circulate so people can work.

The man who thinks he knows it all and won't cooperate with the other citizens of the home town is just a mistake and it's a mistake to have him around.

We are living in an era of fast road traffic and all indications point to the fact that it will become faster as road surfaces are improved. Therefore it behooves all traffic, wheeled or pedestrian, to acquire a highly developed sense of regard, not only for their own safety but for the safety of others.

In writing ads, business men should make them plain so every one can understand them. They should not skimp in space for the sake of a few cents or leave out any essential point. After they write them they should read them over from the standpoint of a possible customer.

It seems a pity, but nevertheless true, that in human affairs it is the prophecies of misfortune that come true more often than those which create hopes and appear for the good of humanity.

Most of the diplomacy of high finance seems to be shrouded in mystery.

A newspaper is not a luxury in a home. It is a necessity.

Janet sat in the shadows and tried to tell herself she should be glad things had happened as they had.

BRUCE HAMILTON was back at his desk Monday morning. He came striding into the office with a buoyant, swinging step and within five minutes the place was a-hum with activity.

He would mean several hundreds of dollars for Every Home. On the train returning he had made negotiations which he wanted transcribed at once. There were several long distance calls to be put through. Half a dozen times he sent Janet hurrying down the hall to find Mr. Douglass or Mr. Cressy, to deliver messages or bring back papers.

The Monday morning rush continued into the afternoon when Hamilton had an appointment outside the building. During his absence the long distance call he had been expecting all day came through and it took almost 20 minutes of determined effort before Janet was able to locate him.

Then as soon as Hamilton had finished talking to the out-of-town agency he called Janet back and reversed earlier instructions. A large part of her afternoon's work had to be done over.

To add to her trials Janet was obliged to change a typewriter ribbon—a small task which for some reason she had always found extremely distasteful.

She was just getting at work again, with the new ribbon in place, when a small, round-faced girl wearing a blue dress appeared in the doorway. When she saw that Janet was alone she entered. It was Pauline Hayden who worked in the downstairs office.

"Well, did Simon Legree get back?" she asked. Janet smiled. "You're not talking about Mr. Hamilton, are you?" "Who else? That slave driver—"

"But he isn't!" Janet objected. "Oh, is that so?" Pauline snickered. "Say, didn't I work for him during your vacation last summer? I guess I know! He's the world's worst. I don't see how you stand it!"

"But Mr. Hamilton isn't hard to work for. He's considerate—" "Sure, like a steam roller! But I should worry—he's not my boss. How about slipping down to the lunch counter with me for a cup of coffee?"

Janet glanced at the clock. "I'd like to," she said hesitantly, "but I'm afraid I can't." Pauline's head bobbed knowingly. "Lегree wouldn't like it, I suppose! I'll bet you don't get out of this place until six o'clock tonight—"

As it turned out it was almost that time when Janet boarded the car to ride home. Fortunately it was not crowded and she found a seat. She had been glad to be busy all day, glad that there had been work to do but now she realized how tired she was.

EMPLOYMENT REPORT MORE OPTIMISTIC

AUSTIN, March 14—A second increase in average weekly wages per worker and a smaller decline in workers than usual characterized the report on employment conditions in Texas for the month of February, as indicated by reports from 946 establishments to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research and the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics.

"As of February 15, there were 61,865 workers on the payrolls of the 946 establishments, a decline of 8.5 per cent from the number employed by these same firms on February 15 a year ago," the University Bureau's report said. "Although the number of employees still continues to decline as compared with a year ago, the comparison is much more favorable than has been the case in preceding years. For example, last year, the number of employees was 15.1 per cent smaller than on the corresponding date in 1931, and the total for 1931 was less by 15.2 per cent than that for February, 1930. The decline as compared with January was smaller than usual—only 1.5 per cent, whereas in previous years the corresponding drop from January to February has been as much as 5.4 per cent."

"Average weekly wages per worker increased from $21.34 in January to $21.43 in February. Because of the decline in the number of workers, however, total weekly income to wage earners on the payrolls of the reporting firms was 1.1 per cent smaller than for the corresponding period a month earlier, having declined from $1,341,000 in January to $1,326,000 in February. There was also a small gain in average weekly wages per worker from December to January. Except for these and two other occasions, average weekly wages per worker have been declining since October, 1931.

"Austin, Waco, and Wichita Falls showed gains in the number of workers on February 15 as compared with a year ago, while Austin, Galveston, Waco, and miscellaneous small towns had more workers on payrolls on February 15 than on the corresponding date a month earlier.

"Of the employment groups, three increased both wages and the number of workers: Men's clothing manufacturers, electric railway car shops, and saw mills. Seven groups enlarged forces but cut wages: Confectionaries, pure food products factories, beverage plants, laundries and dry cleaning plants, brick factories, cotton textile mills and newspaper publishers. Twelve groups cut wages and reduced forces too: Bakeries, ice factories, cotton compresses, women's clothing manufacturers, foundries and machine shops, structural iron works, furniture manufacturers, paper box manufacturers, cement mills, wholesale stores, and hotels. The largest number of workers was affected by those groups which reduced the number of workers but increased the average weekly wages: Ice cream factories, auto and body works, flour mills, meat packing and slaughtering plants, cotton oil mills, railroad car shops, petroleum refining, lumber mills, quarries, public utilities, retail stores, and the small miscellaneous group."

Cisco and Eastland Net Rivals Split Tournament Championships Here Sunday

Cisco and Eastland split a pair of first places when the tennis teams of the two cities met on the Humboldt courts here Sunday. In the doubles F. B. Altman and Rice Forman, Cisco, defeated Bayard McMahon and L. A. Harrison, also of Cisco, 6-1, to take first place, all the Eastland teams having fallen before Cisco in the first round.

In the singles, however, Eastland fared better, Alan Key, former University of Texas star, taking the final match from Altman, 6-love. The outstanding feature of the meet was the smooth play of Key, whose high bouncing service was more than any of the Cisco men could handle. He covered the court easily and well, and was the drawing card that held the spectators until late in the afternoon to see the final match.

Much interest has been shown in tennis in both Eastland and Cisco, and plans are being worked out for a future meeting of the two teams in Eastland and for an Oil Belt tournament.

DRUM AID TO DEAF CHILDREN IN SPEAKING

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—Fated by inheritance or accident to live in a world of silence, 120 deaf children of Philadelphia are being taught by methods of scientific education to speak words they never can hear.

Facilities for the special training, designed to make a minor handicap of a terrible affliction, have been provided by the Board of Education in an effort to save from a life of isolation those whom deafness otherwise would make objects of charity or pity.

Some of the boys and girls at the school were born deaf, while others lost their hearing through illness or accident. Unable to hear the spoken word, they are being taught to enunciate by an intensive training in vibration.

Though systems of lip-reading have been in use for years, officials pointed out, they do not help a deaf person to acquire accent values.

"During the last few years a remarkable device has come into use," Mrs. Serena F. Davis, principal of the school, said. "It is a microphone which rests on the teacher's desk and is connected to a pair of earphones for every child. When the instructor sings, talks or plays a musical instrument the children feel the vibration and recognize the sounds after repeated repetitions. In case of speech, they learn to recognize words without resorting to lip-reading."

In addition, she explained, the children are taught light and heavy accents of words by placing their fingertips against a bass drum while the teacher speaks words against the drumhead, just as one would speak into a "mike."

De Mille Vets First Choice for Jobs

Work for Cecil B. DeMille once, and you work for him all the time.

Several thousand Hollywood extras, well aware of that fact, hailed with delight the announcement, some eight or nine months ago, that the noted director was about to produce another spectacle—"The Sign of the Cross," which, now completed, comes to the Palace theater Sunday and Monday, March 19-20. For they had worked for him in the past, and knew he would make it a point of giving them jobs in preference to competitors who have never been in one of his pictures.

The result was that half of the 7,500 extras used in the picture had seen service under DeMille when he made "The Ten Commandments" 13 years ago, and two-thirds had worked in "The King of Kings" six years ago.

Freddie March, Elisa Landi, Claudette Colbert and Charles Laughlin play the leading roles in "The Sign of the Cross," a colorful story of the events in the life of Nero, sixth and last of the Caesars, at a time when his profligate career was reaching a fateful climax.

Taking the Chase Out of Purchase

ADVERTISING benefits the man who buys as well as the man who sells. It is part of the Golden Rule of Business and it works both ways.

Don't miss the advertisements in this newspaper. Many of them are interesting just because of their news and educational value alone.

But more than that: Advertisements take the chase out of purchase and make every penny do its full duty.

This last statement is one particularly to be remembered when common-sense economy is not only a national duty, but an individual necessity.
