Texas Senate Refuses Open Vote on Sterling Nominees

SESSION TO BE HELD AT 4:30 TODAY

AUSTIN, Jan. 30. — The Texas senate today refused to openly ballot on individual nominations for the state board of education made by former Gov. Ross Sterling.

HOUSE PASSES HEADLIGHT LAW REPEAL BILL

AUSTIN, Jan. 30. — The house of representatives today passed finally a bill to repeal the state headlight testing law. The bill, which now goes to the senate, retains the regulations against glaring lights, but kills the requirement for headlight test certificates and the payment of a testing fee.

A second bill proposed that cities and towns get a share of automobile registration fees which now are apportioned between counties and the state highway department.

The new bill proposes that an incorporated community receive the first $50,000 in fees from automobiles registered within its limits, and that it divide the rest up to $175,000 with the county, and all over that go to the state highway department.

BEER MEASURE APPROVED BY SENATE GROUP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. — The senate finance committee today voted 12 to 5 to report favorably to the senate the 4.05 per cent beer and wine bill.

Sec'y of the Treasury Ogden Mills told committee members the bill would raise between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000 in revenue.

"The report was favorable as to the revenue features of the bill," Chairman Smoot said, "because that is all this committee could consider."

The senate judiciary committee voted favorably on the beer and wine bill a week ago.

High School Exams Will Start Tuesday

Final examinations for the first semester will begin at the high school tomorrow afternoon, according to Principal H. Brandon. The examinations will be completed Friday afternoon, he said. Examinations will begin at the same time at the other schools of the Cisco system.

CHARGE R. R. COMM'N HURT OIL MARKET

HOUSTON, Jan. 30.—The Texas Railroad commission was accused today of destroying the market for east Texas crude oil, rather than holding the field's proration to the current market demand.

The charge was made in a summary of affidavits ordered by attorneys for 23 oil companies whose consolidated proration suits were on trial before a three-judge federal court.

The affidavits said in effect that oil men could find a market for from three to ten times the amount of oil they are now allowed to produce, and that that amount could be produced without waste.

Held for 13 Deaths by Fire

L. J. KAMONS

RAY I. TURK

Alleged conspirators in an arson plot that cost 13 persons their lives, four men are held and another is hunted on murder warrants after seven months of investigation. The warrants charge the five planned and set off an explosion in the Ellington business - and apartments block in Cleveland last June to collect insurance. Ray I. Turk, proprietor of a barber supply company in the building, is alleged to have hired "professional arsonists." L. J. Kamons, former attorney alleged "torch man" of the Cleveland fire, is a prisoner in a Pennsylvania penitentiary, convicted in another arson plot. Kamons, according to police, is the head of a firebug ring blamed for losses running into millions. Two Pittsburgh men, one an insurance adjuster, also are held.

Internal Revenue Bureau Puts Tax Act of 1932 Into Simple Language

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. — The Internal Revenue bureau today interpreted the Revenue Act of 1932 in simple language and illustrated it with clear examples in an effort to help millions of persons required to file income tax returns for last year.

Income tax levies, which affect the pocketbooks of many Americans, were explained along with exemptions, deductions, and valuable information pertaining to business and professional expenses, taxes paid, and depreciations.

Returns are required of every single person who for the calendar year 1932 had a gross income of $5,000 or more, or a net income of $1,000 or more and of every husband and wife living together, who had an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more, or an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more.

Personal Exemptions. Personal exemptions include $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families. In addition to personal exemptions, a taxpayer is entitled to a credit of $400 for each dependent, defined by income-tax law and regulations as a person under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

The term "mentally or physically defective" means not only cripples and those mentally defective, but persons in ill health and the aged, according to the bureau.

The normal tax rate is four per cent on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal exemption, credit for dependents, etc., and eight per cent on the remainder of such excess amounts. Surtax rates begin on net incomes in excess of $6,000.

"Deductions for business expenses form a large item in the return of many taxpayers and must have certain qualities to be allowed," the bureau said.

Excuse for Deductions. "Such deductions must be for an expenditure in connection with the maintenance and operation of the taxpayer's business or business properties; it must be an ordinary and necessary expense."

Typical business expenses of a mercantile establishment listed by the bureau include: amounts paid for advertising, hire of clerks and other employees, rent, light, heat, water, stationary, stamps, telephone, property insurance, and delivery costs.

"The farmer" the bureau has ruled, "may deduct all amounts paid in the production, harvesting and marketing of crops, including labor, cost of seed and fertilizer used, cost of minor repairs to farm buildings other than his dwelling, and small tools used up in the course of a year or two."

A professional man may deduct all necessary expenses incurred in the pursuit of his business. These include the cost of supplies used in his practice, expenses paid in the operation and repairs of an automobile used in making professional calls, office rent, cost of light,

WHO, WHEN AND HOW OF INCOME TAX REPORT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Internal Revenue Bureau today summarized the Revenue Act of 1932 under which individuals required to pay income taxes must file returns by midnight March 15.

Under the title, "Income tax in a nutshell," the bureau said: WHO? Single persons, who had net income of $1,000 or more, or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $2,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period began January 1 and ends March 15, 1933.

WHERE? Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? See instructions in income tax returns — FORMS 1040A and 1040.

WHAT? Four per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 in excess of the personal exemption and credits. Eight per cent tax on the balance of net income. Surtax on net income in excess of $6,000.

water, fuel, and telephone in his office, and the hire of office assistants.

Society Dues Deductible. Membership dues in professional societies are deductible.

Physicians and dentists who keep in their waiting rooms current magazines and newspapers for the benefit of their patients may deduct this item as a business expense.

Losses from casualties and theft are deductible if they are not covered by insurance.

"A loss arising from fires, storms, shipwrecks or other casualty need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business," the bureau has decided.

Bad debts constitute considerable item in the returns of many taxpayers and may be treated in one of two ways — either by deductions from gross income in respect to debts ascertained to be worthless either in whole or in part, or by a deduction of a reasonable reserve for bad debts.

To be allowed as a deduction from gross income, a bad debt must have been determined by the taxpayer to be worthless within the taxable year for which it is claimed and, where books are kept, it also must have been charged off within the same year.

(Editor's Note: The Daily News will present beginning with today a series of short explanatory articles on the income tax. These articles are supplied by the bureau of internal revenue and may be found under the title "Your Income Tax.")

TRIO CHARGED IN DEATH OF RHOME DEPUTY

DECATUR, Jan. 30. — Mrs. Ida Hunsucker, taken into custody at Childress yesterday in connection with the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Joe Brown, a Rhome, today was charged with murder.

Charges of accessory in the murder were filed against E. C. Hawthorne and Faye Pennington. Hawthorne declared he was from Memphis, Texas, a hitch-hiker given a ride by Mrs. Hunsucker at Vernon, Miss Pennington, 16-year-old Dallas girl, denied any knowledge of the Brown slaying and declared she was riding with Mrs. Hunsucker only as a guest.

Capture of the woman and her two companions was credited to the alertness of an unnamed prisoner in the Childress county jail. A deputy sheriff left a sick bed and almost contracted pneumonia in the chase that preceded their capture.

The prisoner saw an automobile in a filling station across from the Childress jail yesterday which resembled the description of Mrs. Hunsucker's machine. He aroused the jailer who set in motion an unofficial posse which captured the woman and her companions at Carey, 15 miles west of Childress.

Meantime 50 peace officers of four counties hunted two other men wanted for questioning. Their search centered about a wooded section in southwest Denton county in the vicinity of Lake Dallas. Shots were fired at a state ranger participating in the hunt about midnight last night.

Comanche Slaying Suspect Makes Bond

COMANCHE, Tex., Jan. 30 — A. M. White, of Comanche, was under $2,500 bond today waiting the grand jury's action on a charge of murder alleging he shot and killed Pink Milton here the night of January 20. White made bond yesterday.

The grand jury will convene in April. Milton was killed while standing beside a car in front of his home while talking to companions.

GROUP FORMED TO PREVENT FORECLOSURES

MIAMI, Tex., Jan. 30. — Permanent organization of a group of panhandle property owners, most of them farmers for the purpose of obtaining relief from mortgage foreclosures was expected here this afternoon.

The meeting will be the second of its kind in this prairie town within 7 hours.

A skeleton organization was formed when 300 persons, the majority of them farmers and cattlemen, met Saturday.

B. F. Jackson, pioneer cattleman of Roberts county, was named president of the temporary organization. He counseled against violence and advised that attorneys be consulted before any opposition to foreclosures in west Texas was made.

Hearing Called on Road Comm'n Bill

AUSTIN, Jan. 0. — A public hearing was called today to be held Tuesday night, February 7, on the bill before the Texas legislature to create a five-member elective highway commission.

Under the proposed bill there would be commissioners for east Texas, west Texas, southwest Texas, central Texas, and north central Texas.

CAUGHT FIRE. PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 30.—Portland's water wagon street flushing system might be "all wet" in every sense of the word, but it wasn't wet enough last night when one of the wagons caught fire and it was necessary to call out fire fighters to extinguish the blaze.

Texas Produced 40 Per Cent of Nation's Petroleum During 1932 Record Reveals

AUSTIN, Jan. 30. — The recorded production of oil in the United States for the year 1932 was 785,304,403 barrels, according to Elmer H. Johnson, industrial geographer in the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

"This recorded production is a drop under that of 1931," Mr. Johnson said. "In fact recorded production has been steadily declining for the nation's total since 1929, when total production rose to 1,004,266,723 barrels.

"The data on recorded production show that Texas in 1932 furnished 40.32 per cent of the nation's total; this was far in advance of the other major producing states. California 22.7 per cent, and Oklahoma 19.1 per cent of the nation's output. These three states together furnished 82.12 per cent of the output of the entire country.

"A large share of Texas production in 1932 came from the famous East Texas field, which produced 38.8 per cent of the recorded production of the state. It is of interest, however, to note that of the three pools comprising the East Texas field, only one—Longview—increased its production in 1932. The Longview pool increased from 26,257,287 barrels in 1931 to 45,725,947 barrels in 1932; the Jolmer pool decreased from 37,932,810 barrels to 37,131,836 barrels; the Kilgore pool from 43,537,815 barrels to 39,066,616. This makes a net gain for East Texas of 14,216,487 barrels.

Major fields. "Production data for 1932 continues to show the preponderance of major oil fields. It was noted that the East Texas field contributed 38.8 per cent of total Texas production; West Texas with four other fields, including Yates, Big Lake Hendricks and Van, furnished 61.2 per cent of Texas production during the past year.

"In California, five fields, Santa Fe Springs, Ventura Avenue, Midway — Sunset, Long Beach and Kettleman Hills furnished 57.4 per cent of that state's production in 1932. Three fields, Oklahoma City, Earlsboro, and Little River furnished 34 per cent of Oklahoma's production in 1932.

"Of all the major fields of the nation most registered a decrease during 1932; only four showed an increase: Longview and Van, Texas; Kettleman Hills, California; and the large area the Bradford-Alleghany which covers 105,500 acres in Pennsylvania and New York. The case of this latter district is remarkable in that the Bradford field and the Alleghany field reached their peaks of production in 1881 and 1882 respectively; in 1932 this area produced more oil than it did in 1897.

This increase is due to the operating of flooding practices; by increasing flooding, it is said that these fields are capable of producing more oil than they did at their peaks of 50 years ago. The Oklahoma City field fell off 11,424,971 barrels, a decrease of 25 per cent under its production of 1931. According to a statement in the Oil and Gas Journal, this was due 'not because of any natural decline, but because crude oil buyers preferred to purchase East Texas oil because of that field's more favorable geographical position."

200 P.-T. A. MEMBERS ATTEND MEETING AT CISCO SATURDAY

Loan papers and help on any subject pertaining to child welfare may be obtained from Mrs. Stephens Chamness, executive secretary, Capitol Station, Austin. The National official organ is the Child Welfare Magazine, and the state official organ is the Texas Parent and Teacher.

The slogan of the County Council is: "Know Your County." The purpose is to study and improve conditions affecting child life throughout the county, to organize new associations in all parts of the county, to bring into closer relationship all associations in order to unify and coordinate their work, and to gain the co-operation of all local units in matters pertaining to the welfare of the children of the county.

Like a state convention in miniature, it is an educational opportunity for those who attend with an open mind, willingness to learn, and an unselfish desire to give and receive information and inspiration.

The next County Council meeting will be held in Eastland on the last Saturday in March, at which time officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

SEEK SECOND AUTOMOBILE IN FATAL CRASH

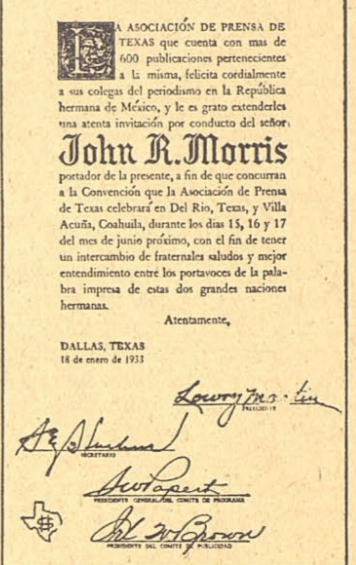

CANADIAN, Tex., Jan. 30.—Officers searched today for a second automobile which figured in a fatal collision here Sunday and then sped away.

D. E. Milson, of Perryton, an oil dealer was killed. His son, Billie Frank, 6 years old, sustained a fractured skull.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Milson, the oil man's parents, escaped with minor injuries. All four barely escaped cremation when their machine caught fire after colliding with the other car.

STOCK PRICES KEEP NARROW TRADING AREA

In its weekly review of business and financial conditions The Wall Street Journal says:

Stock prices clung to an ever narrowing trading area last week. Not even insistent selling in special groups was able to dislodge the list from its rut. Conversely favorable news failed to stimulate the list importantly although it was sufficient to bring about small recoveries. The market remains largely influenced by the day to day operations of speculative traders.

Throughout the week, railroad news attracted an ever-growing following to the carrier shares. Statements issued by some of President-elect Roosevelt's advisers, after conferences with him on the railroad situation, attracted wide attention. Walker D. Hines, one of those summoned to confer with the President-elect, laid particular stress on the necessity of curbing competitors of the carriers. He pointed out the fallacy of giving governmental financial aid to the railroads, on the one hand, and spending large sums for inland waterways, important competitors of the carriers, on the other.

Another development which attracted wide attention was the rejection by the Illinois Commerce Commission of applications from two trucking companies for operating buses in the state. The Commission's action was another move in the series taken by a number of states designed to curb diversion of traffic from the railroads to trucking companies. Already, drastic laws to restrict truck operations are having the effect of bringing traffic back to the railroads.

More important, from an immediate speculative angle, was the announcement from L. F. Loree that Delaware & Hudson Co. had acquired about 10 per cent of New York Central's stock. The average cost to the D. & H. was in the neighborhood of $21 a share.

Elsewhere, news was not stimulating. Business is showing little change. Utility output figures continued to record a drop of around 7 per cent from the similar period a year previous. Railroad carloadings are about holding to seasonal proportions.

Individual weak spots which cropped up were due to immediate development. Warm weather, which plays havoc with alcohol company earnings, brought some selling into United States Industrial Alcohol. A cut in milk prices, to the lowest level in 16 years, precipitated an-

GLASS, WALSH AND FARLEY ARE NAMED

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Jan. 30. — Three cabinet posts have been virtually decided upon, it was learned authoritatively today as President elect Roosevelt called party lieutenants into conference here.

It was understood Roosevelt had received acceptances from the following: Sen. Carter Glass, Virginia, for secretary of treasury; Sen. Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, attorney-general.

James A. Farley, democratic national chairman, for postmaster-general.

COUNTRY CLUB DETERMINED TO BE BIG FACTOR

The board of directors of the Cisco Country club, President J. A. Bearman said today, have worked out a program of refinancing the institution which will reduce the total indebtedness to a comparatively small figure and place it upon a financial foundation much more promising for its development as a factor contributing to the character of Cisco as a residential town. The financial program is coincident with a promotional program calculated to extend the recreational benefits of the club to a larger number of people, thereby fulfilling an important mission in community recreational life.

The directorate feels, said members, that the future of Cisco will in a large measure be determined by what advantages it offers as a home city, and it regards the country club as an important factor in making Cisco a pleasant, healthful, and convenient place in which to live.

A number of promising movements have been undertaken in connection with the improvement of the club and the recreational facilities grouped about it, and these will be announced in the near future. Meantime stress is being laid upon the financial program under Mr. Bearman's leadership with the prospect that it will be carried to an immediate and successful conclusion.

With this settled, an appeal will be made to Cisco citizens who are interested in the city's welfare to cooperate in the club's improvement. It was pointed out that the club has been largely responsible for the fact that many valued citizens of Cisco have maintained residences here when they could just as well have located elsewhere. This fact argues the theory that the institution can be used to draw numbers of other people of the same class to make their homes here.

This is the motive behind the interest of those taking part in the program, it was said. From the standpoint of a selfish purpose this interest would not be profitable, but viewed from the standpoint of community development it is well explained.

There are still many people in this depression ridden world who have money to spend and lacking other speculative advantages Cisco, through its opportunities for recreation, has a potential appeal that may well be profitable. F. D. Wright, a member of the directorate declared.

Cisco Cannery Open Today and Tomorrow

The Cisco cannery will be open this afternoon and tomorrow according to E. H. Varnell, vocational director of the chamber of commerce.

There is some canned goods in stock which the cannery wishes to sell, Varnell said.

CIGARET MAKERS GOING SLOW.

According to a bulletin issued by the federal internal revenue department a decrease is shown of nearly 10,000,000 in the number of cigarettes taken out of bond in the United States in 1932 as compared to 1931 as shown. In 1932 stamp sales were paid on 103,585,888,867 cigarettes as compared with 113,449,048,657 cigarette tax paid in the preceding year. All tobacco products were off during the 1932 year, with a heavy shrinkage shown in the cigar tax. There as snuff dippers in America. There is said to be a large army addicted to the practice in Texas. Well, there was a slump of more than 3,000,000 pounds, according to the tax showings, in 1932. Really, there must be a vast number of cigar smokers rolling their own.

COL. JONES MAKES LAST MINUTE PLEA.

Col. Jesse H. Jones made a last minute plea against making public Reconstruction corporation loans on the first five months of the existence of the corporation. Rep. Howard of Nebraska is a very aggressive democrat of the western brand. He is the author of a resolution calling for publicity. Col. Jones appealed to Rep. Howard for modification of the resolution "so that only members of congress would be permitted to see the amount of the loans and their borrowers." Col. Jones is one of the directors of the corporation. He explained to Howard and to the press representatives that he made his plea on behalf of those of the corporation who felt that making the amount of the loans and their borrowers known would do harm. "The gentleman from Nebraska" refused to modify. He is not of the modificationist type. Democrats are individualistic. They never work in harmony. They are all leaders. Like the standing army in Mexico there are 10 officers to one rank-and-filer. Perhaps Roosevelt will be able to hypnotize the brethren on and after inauguration day.

VALLEY FARMERS AND GAS TAX REFUND.

Farmers in the lower Rio Grande valley are organizing to defeat, if possible, a bill being urged in this session of the legislature which would eliminate the tax refund on gasoline burned in tractors and used in other ways on farms. They say that elimination of the refund would cost Hidalgo county farmers more than $92,000 annually. They have the official figures that show that Hidalgo leads the state in such refunds. Total refunds of $92,476.96 were made to Hidalgo county farmers during 1932. Refunds of $63,529.57 were made to farmers in Cameron county, or a total refund to farmers in these leading agricultural counties of the valley of $160,276.53. A reminder that 78,836 claims for gasoline tax refunds were made in Texas during the fiscal year in which $3,275,141.75 was refunded. Rep. F. C. Weinert of the Guadalupe district is an advocate of the repeal of the gasoline refund provision of the law. It is said that many representatives and senators agree with the Guadalupe veteran that the repeal should come before the adjournment of the 43rd legislature. Rep. Weinert has given his reasons why. Now the other side will be given an inning.

SEN. GLASS AND HIS BANKING ACT.

Sen. Glass had the satisfaction of scoring a victory when the enactment of his bank bill took place and the measure as amended was sent to the house. House leaders say that it is dead for the lame duck session but that it will bob up again at the coming special session of the new congress. Only nine votes were cast against the amended bill. As enacted it calls for more than 25 changes in the national and federal reserve act, "designed to curb bank failures, assist depositors of closed banks and stop the flow of federal reserve credit to speculative channels." As amended the act would give the comptroller of the currency power to reopen banks on petition of depositors representing 85 per cent of the deposits. Another amendment would make it a misdemeanor for any executive officer of a reserve member bank or his relatives to borrow from that bank. As amended it permits branch banking among national banks in the nine states authorizing this system among their own financial houses. These are the nine: Arizona, California, Delaware, Maryland, North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont and Virginia. Sens. Connally and Sheppard of Texas were two of the four democrats who voted against the amended bill. As for Long and Thomas, they won a world of publicity and they made it possible to confine chain banking to the nine states enumerated. Pres.-Elect Roosevelt is said to be an aggressive advocate of banking reform legislation and the rugged old senator from Virginia promises to renew the battle when there is a democratic White House and democrats dominate both branches of congress. Banking reform legislation is necessary. Of course, the horse may have been stolen, but there should be a padlock placed on the stable door just the same in the near future.

The only adequate, inexpensive and effective substitute for your voice is newspaper advertising. Instead of attracting only the attention of a minority, it will be read by the vast majority of your customers. It will sell them your products in their own homes where the decision to buy or not to buy is really made. Follow the lead of those who have tried it. Consistent advertising in your home town newspaper will bring you returns far larger than those obtained by any other medium.

DON'T QUOTE ME

if for no other, the man who goes out after business is the one who gets it.
There are several methods of "going out after it." You can stand on the street corner like any hawker and cry your wares. If 500 people pass by your store every day per-them. The guide explains how strong steel and heavy concrete are to be welded together, and how an intricate alarm system will work. The treasury department said it wasn't worried about cracksmen, no matter how long they might pore over the specifications. Within each vault, it developed, there will be a "progressive attention alarm device" to operate buzzers, bells and sirens whenever there are "disturbances of a type likely to be encountered in an attack upon the structure." "Under this condition it is expected that the guard forces will make an investigation of the cause of the disturbance and satisfy that the source of the disturbance has been eliminated." That explains all. The treasury department is banking on the fact that no burglar likes to be eliminated. Prof. Auguste Piccard took a ride in one of Washington's notoriously haphazard taxicabs. Whereupon the Swiss scientist exclaimed: "I prefer the stratosphere. It's safer." Charles B. Millholland, the playwright, has been stalking Washington for material to put into a new play succeeding his current success, "Twentieth Century." He wants to write a drama about international affairs, but he's not sure, he said, whether it is going to be a comedy, or a tragedy.

Your Income Tax

No. 1

HOW TO AVOID COMMON ERRORS.

The period for the filing of income-tax returns covering the calendar year 1932 begins January 1 and ends at midnight of March 15. Within this period are filed annually millions of individual income-tax returns, a large proportion of which report income subject to the tax. The latter contain a considerable percentage of errors, which if uncorrected by the audit would result to the disadvantage of the taxpayer. Many are errors of computation easily discovered on the face of the return, which usually is accompanied by a payment of more than the amount of tax due. In other returns it is readily discernible that the taxpayer has failed to take advantage of the personal exemption, credit allowed for dependents, or deductions from gross income to which he is entitled.

To avoid these and other errors, the Bureau of Internal Revenue urges careful reading of the instructions on the forms for filing the returns. Additional information, if needed, may be obtained at the office of a collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or an internal-revenue agent in charge. Also, as a further aid in the preparation of a further aid in the preparation of a correct income-tax return for the year 1932, the bureau has prepared a series of short newspaper articles, of which this is the first, advising the salaried man, wage earner, professional and business man—in fact, every class of individual taxpayer—of his requirements and privileges as interpreted under the latest regulations, rulings, and decisions relating to the income-tax law.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON.—It's little wonder that the Democratic leaders in Congress are anxious to toss the whole business of government reorganization into the lap of Mr. Roosevelt and give him full power to deal with it. They may be forgiven for turning down President Hoover's program for rejiggering more than 50 federal agencies, since no one could figure out that it meant any economy and its merit as a whole was hard to determine. But their own efforts at the job suggest that the sooner Roosevelt gets here the better. Reorganization in itself is admittedly a matter of efficiency, whereas economy means abolition of agencies, jobs and functions. So the one measure the Democrats actually have written into a bill reported from committee this year calls for abolition of the Bureau of Efficiency, which now has an appropriation of $146,293 among the four billion dollars of the national budget. THIS is the bureau which is supposed to save government money through studies and analyses of appropriation estimates in relation to the extent that work should be carried on in view of the government's financial situation and as regards the most efficient, economical organization and methods to be followed. It makes studies for the President, Congress, individual congressmen and other officials. It has figures to show that each year it saves several times as much money as is spent on it and there seems little doubt that it's worth more than it costs. And it

AUSTIN, Jan. 30. — Principal recommendations of the Graves legislative committee on organization and economy for the hospitals, homes and training agencies and penal institutions of Texas include:
Combine 20 almshouse institutions and the prison system under a new board of public welfare, include child welfare division of board of control, and relieve board of control of supervision of the hospitals, homes and schools.
Gradually move Austin insane hospital out of city limits to better location.
Discontinue school of nursing at Austin state hospital.
Prevent further expansion of San Antonio state hospital.
Transfer psychopathic hospital at Galveston to John Sealy hospital and pay for state patients treated there.
Repeal laws creating Dallas psychopathic hospital, the state cancer and pellagra hospital and Dallas State hospital as a combined institution.
Leave board of welfare to assign patients to any institution.
Reduce age of admission to Austin feebleminded school below 8 years to permit earlier training.
Relieve state health officer of any function in admitting patients to tuberculosis hospital, leaving that to the board and superintendent.
Abandon "fiction" of state hospital for crippled children at Galveston, and arrange for care of such patients in John Sealy hospital, the state paying the cost.
Pupils of junior high school grade be concentrated in orphan home at Corsicana, those younger in the Waco home for dependent and neglected children.
Abandon summer school training for adult blind at Austin state blind school unless attendance of satisfactory number is assured.
Provide for state printing and repair of state cars as training work in school for deaf at Austin.
Parsons from training schools be left to the school and department of welfare, rather than being left to "local influences and agencies."
Confederate home and Confederate Woman's home in Austin be united in former institution; and pensions be adjusted to take account of state support in these homes.
Rep. Lon E. Alsip has offered in the house a bill that would repeal an entire statute book full of special game laws and substitute a short, simple, clear law that will save the confusion and trouble to which now put by the multitude of local game laws.

Mr. Alsip's bill would abolish the statutory open seasons on game, and give the game commission power to fix open seasons in the few permanent zones to be fixed for the state, the seasons to be announced by August of each year for that year. The bill also empowers the commission to fix bag limits. That would give it the right to remedy the situation of over-abundance of does in some areas.
Two main effects of the Alsip law would be: first to allow the state to adjust its open seasons and bag limits to federal regulations, so as to protect sportsmen against failure of the two to coincide; and, second, against the uncertainty that now prevails. There have been instances in which men started hunting when they started, but where it was illegal when they got there—without means of knowing of the new law—and in which they were fined.
The Alsip bill is defective only in that it leaves the restoration of hunting rights in the class of clemencies required of the governor and favoring of persons in criminal cases. The game commission ought to have the power to revoke a hunting license, for statutory cause and the power to restore it. Fines for violation should continue as misdemeanors.
One of the real lobbies to be seen in Austin during the next few weeks will be that devoted to a fight against extension of the idea of federal regulation of the oil industry, and against the stripping of oil supervisory powers from the railroad commission. This fight against setting up a state oil board or against any kind of state sanction of federal control, will come from strong factors within and without the railroad commission.
The commission uniformly has won its tilt with various governors in the past. It is a three-member elective body, each member obviously having strong political alignments, of which his election is evidence. The commission can pull many strings, and has the inherent weight of having been elected by the people.
CLEVELAND, Jan. 30. — The X-Ray, now of immense value to medical science, may assume almost equal importance in the steel industry according to research experts here.
It is now being used to detect defects in metal castings, welded high pressure boilers and airplane parts.
John A. Victoreen, radio inventor, who inaugurated the new service here, pointed out that the X-Ray offers the only means of compliance with government safety specifications requiring strict examination of all welded high pressure boilers and certain aircraft parts.
"There are a million things you have to look for in foundry practice," Victoreen explained. "You've got to expect blow holes, cracks, shrinkage that causes porosity in the casting, and then find a way to eliminate them."
He said that his laboratories were just scratching the surface of research possibilities in industry and pointed out the X-Ray's ability to detect the effects of rolling on the crystalline structure of metals, the internal changes in structures during the cooling process, and many other facts.
With the new instrument, pictures may be taken through any assembled machinery units, and if the thickness is too great for penetration by X-Ray apparatus, pictures may be had by overnight exposure of the object to radium emanation.

IS IT FUN TO BE A PRINCESS?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series dealing with the world's young and marriageable princesses; how they are brought up; what fun they have, and what are their hobbies.
By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Jan. 30. — A prisoner in a penitentiary has more peace and pleasure than a princess in a palace!
This is the frank answer to the question, "Is it fun to be a princess?" by Infante Eulalie de Bourbon, princess of royal blood, daughter of Isabelle II, sister of Alfonso XII, and aunt of ex-King Alfonso XIII of Spain.
"The old order is giving place to the new," she said, "and modern princesses are bringing about a removal of at least some of the pressure that was brought to bear upon their royal education when I was a girl."
The Infante Eulalie is 67, has bright and sparkling blue eyes, short bobbed hair, and an intelligence and personality that equal each other in forcefulness and character.
"From the time a little princess is born in the royal palace, every moment of her life is in the hands of hundreds of people. Even the hours she is permitted to sleep are scheduled by a chart, and if she sleeps too long, or not enough, something must be done about it."
In this particular instance, however, Princess Eulalie admits that a "royal beginning" is not so different from that of a little "everyday child" whose mother has read her baby care books.
"Later on, though," continued Princess Eulalie, "her life becomes vastly different. The moments during which she can be alone, even in the privacy of her own apartments, become fewer and fewer. She has many governesses. They teach her languages, manners and customs of other nations, so that on state occasions she will portray the grace and dignity that is rightfully expected of her."
If she is a hot-headed little vixen, she must learn to curb her temper; if she is a shy and modest child, she must be taught to command authority; if she is bubbling over with life and enthusiasm, she must seek to suppress herself until the raging storms and desires for adventure that lurk within her youthful breast.

The Princess Eulalie, whose full and complete title is Marie-Eulalie-Francoise d'Assise-Marguerite-Roberte-Isabelle-Francoise de Paule-Christine-Marie de la Piedad, was born in Madrid on Feb. 12, 1864. She was married in Madrid on March 6, 1886, a month after her 22nd birthday to Prince Antoine of Orleans. She received much of her education in Britain and France, and has traveled extensively throughout Europe.
She was a thrilling figure at the Chicago World Fair. Attempts are being made to persuade her to attend the Century of Progress Exposition there this year.
Prince Antoine died in Paris on Christmas Eve, 1930, and the widowed Princess (she is barely five feet tall and it is doubtful if she tips the scales at more than 160 pounds) lives modestly in a Spanish convent occupying two beautifully simple rooms, surrounded by the souvenirs of a brilliant and happy girlhood.

Sewing a LIVING BODY
ILLUSION:
In this startling trick, the magician seemingly pushes a huge threaded needle through the body of an assistant, pulling the needle out the other side, followed by the thread.
EXPLANATION:
Under the clothes of the victim is a pipe, extending around one side of his body from front to back. The needle, which is flexible, is inserted in the front end of the pipe, is carried around the body and emerges from the pipe in back. This operation is performed so quickly that the audience does not notice that the needle and thread are momentarily shortened during the act.

It's fun to be fooled ... it's more fun to KNOW

We like tricks...but we prefer to keep them out of business.
Here's one that's interesting...The illusion that by some obscure magic certain cigarettes are "cooler" than others.
THE EXPLANATION: Coolness is determined by the speed of burning. Fresh cigarettes burn slowly. They're cool. Parched, dry cigarettes burn fast. They're hot.
Camels are carefully wrapped in moisture-proof cellophane...in the famous, air-tight Humidor Pack. Camels are cool because they're fresh.
A cigarette blended from choice non-irritating tobaccos also gives a cooler effect than one that is harsh and acrid. The finer the tobacco the less irritating it is, and therefore the "cooler."
It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is why Camels are cool and mild, non-irritating—full of flavor. This is why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made. It's the tobacco that counts.
Keep the famous welded Humidor Pack on your Camels. It assures you a fresh, cool smoke.

BIRT BRITAIN TO MAKE RACE FOR MAYORSHIP

Birt Britain, former county commissioner for the fourth precinct, including Cisco, today authorized the Cisco Daily News to announce his candidacy for mayor, subject to the will of the citizens in the regular election in April.

His announcement is: To the Citizens of the City of Cisco:

Through the solicitation of many of my friends of Cisco and after having given the matter my most earnest and careful consideration I wish to announce my candidacy for Mayor of the City of Cisco subject to the April election.

I believe that the city affairs should be handled in a business and economical manner, cutting down expenses wherever possible. I also believe the mayor of any city should preside over the commission and take the lead in city management, and if you see fit to elect me as your mayor next April you will find me continually on the job working in the best interests of the citizenship. I also believe that the commission together with the citizens should work out some fair and equitable adjustment of the bonded indebtedness of the city and submit it to the bondholders for a settlement so that confidence may be restored and the future of our city placed on a firmer basis.

If you believe that I have the qualifications to make you a mayor your support and influence will be greatly appreciated.

Yours very truly,
BIRT BRITAIN.

Jealous Rage Is Blamed for Deaths

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 30. — Officers seeking the motive of Jess Buckalow, 32, oil field worker, in shooting to death three persons wounding a fourth and committing suicide concluded today that jealous rage caused his act.

Carrying two shotguns Buckalow ran amuck at Pike's City, 28 miles from here, late yesterday. Before he finally sent a charge into his own heart, he killed Glenn Fitzgerald, 26 his neighbor; Flossie Buckalow, 32, his estranged wife, and Miss Ressie Webb, 30, her sister, and seriously wounded Percy Owens, 37.

Less Suffering After She Took Cardui

"Periodically I have a dull ache in the lower part of my back," writes Mrs. Ruth Hill, of Charleston, W. Va. "I get real dizzy, my head swims, and I have a weak, 'gone' feeling that keeps me from doing my work well. I have found that taking Cardui prevents this. I have been greatly benefited from its use." When womanly aches and pains are due to a weak, run-down condition, take CARDUI. It has been used by women for over 50 years. Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine and it cannot harm you. Sold at the drug stores here.

LOBOES DOWN WYLIE CAGERS IN SLOW GAME

The Cisco Lobos defeated Wylie Saturday night 29 to 22 in a slow game contest.

Neither team appeared to play at top speed throughout the game. Wylie, on the trip which included Cisco had played Scranton and Breckenridge earlier in the day, coming from the Breckenridge to Cisco. Cisco had lost a close game to Ellaville the night before.

The lead see-sawed back and forth until late in the game when Cisco forged ahead and held the advantage.

Buck Carley, forward, was high point man for the contest, with 13 points. Wood, mainstay of the Wylie team, had 11 counters to his credit. Harrison, Cisco's other forward, scored 7 points.

Following are the starting lineups: Wylie: Waldrop and Wood, forwards; Hollwell, center; Mitchell and Appleton, guards.

Cisco: Harrison and Cearley, forwards; Norvell, center; Ray and Latch, guards.

PUTNAM DEFEATS CISCO RESERVES

The Cisco reserves bowed to Putnam in a rough and tumble game Saturday night by a count of 24 to 16.

Little, stellar forward for the Putnam club, was high point man of the game, with 17 points.

For Cisco Coleman, Williams, at center led the offensive play, scoring 8 points and working the ball down the court. Barker, at guard, covered the court well and acted as a feeder to the forwards and center.

The starting lineups: Putnam: Sumberson and Little, forwards; Brown, center; Pruet and Edwards, guards.

Cisco: St. John and McMahon, forwards; Williams, center; Barker and Blackburn, guards.

RANDOLPH NEWS

About 50 Randolph students and faculty members enjoyed a picnic at Lake Cisco Friday afternoon. Leaving the college at 4:30, the group played games at the lake while wieners were roasted. Buns, pickles, mustard and toasted marshmallows completed the outdoor menu. Prof. James Dacus, Jr., had charge of the arrangements.

Professor James Dacus, Jr., was confined to his room Sunday with a slight attack of "flu."

Randolph college conducted the services at the First Methodist church Sunday evening. Dr. Lee Clark, president, made an address emphasizing the importance of the church school and the Junior college. He showed that Randolph college is in harmony with the moral, spiritual and educational ideals of the present day.

Preceding the address a double quartet composed of Mrs. Lee Clark, Mignon Clark, Margaret Barker, Miss Nina Watts, Myndert Gilbert, Mr. Grover, Lee Hardison and James Dacus, Jr., sang. A large crowd attended.

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SHEILA SHAYNE, dancer, is discharged from a new play because MARION RANDOLPH, the star, is jealous of her. Sheila searches for work and finally secures a part in a musical show soon to go on tour. DICK STANLEY, rich and socially prominent, asks her to give up this job and marry him but Sheila refuses. Her idea of marriage is a home in some little town far from Broadway.

Sheila is friendly with JIM BLAINE, another actor in the company from which she was discharged. When Jim offends Miss Randolph quite unintentionally she asks CRAIG ABBOTT, whose money is backing the show, to discharge Jim. Abbott, tired of Marion's demands and tired of her also, goes to see Jim. Through him he secures an introduction to Sheila. The three meet after the performance and with a friend of Sheila's, TESSIE SAMPER, go to a Harlem night club.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

THE new show, "Heigh-ho," was practically ready to begin the road tour when Jim Blaine telephoned Sheila one morning in great excitement.

"I want you to have dinner with me," he said. "I've some news for you."

"What is it?" Sheila asked, instantly alert. The news must be good news because Jim's voice was so cheerful.

"Well, for one thing, Marion Randolph's out of the show. Oh—it happened suddenly! She's on a train now going west as fast as the engine can carry her. A sudden release from contract, she said, because of an offer from Hollywood. Mr. Abbott was so kind! But you know the line they hand out when they're fired!"

"An offer from Hollywood?" repeated Sheila. "That wouldn't allow her to break a contract. And who is Mr. Abbott?"

"He's the fellow who put up most of the money for this show. Didn't you know that? He's a friend of Miss Randolph's—or was! I guess that's over now. It seems she insisted they should fire me and instead he fired her. Anyhow that's the story that's going around. The final crack-up was staged in her dressing room with the door ajar and half the cast heard it. She wanted him to get rid of me and Abbott said he would accept her resignation. So she's out now and I'm in."

"That's fine," Sheila told him. "I mean it's fine for you. Too bad for Marion to be out of a job because they're hard to get these days. Marion really was good in that part, too."

"Well, aren't you the sweet child!" Jim was grinning and Sheila knew it even though she couldn't see him. "Wasting sympathy on someone who made you lose your job!"

"I'm glad she didn't make you lose yours, Jim," Sheila said, laughing a little, too. "Even Marion can't get all the breaks and it never does anyone a lot of good to be so catty."

"You'll never know from experience," Jim said comfortably. "But what I called up to say is this. Why don't you ask for her job? It's with the same producers. Your contract would hold, I should think, and it would be great to have you in the show!"

"In half an hour I suppose half the actresses in New York who are out of work will be in the wings trying to get that role," Jim said.

"Then it's just as well for me to stay away."

They arranged to meet for dinner that evening. Sheila turned to go up the stairs when she heard someone call to her.

It was Myrt. "Drop in for a cup of coffee," she urged. "Did I hear you declining a job and did I hear you accepting a dinner invitation? Oh, to be young and beautiful again!"

Sheila followed Myrt into the room. She perched on the untidy bed while her hostess, with sleeves rolled back from her thin arms, busied herself about breakfast. With the percolator on a chair, the toaster on the dresser, and the orange juice squeezed on the window seat, Myrt presently assembled a breakfast that was most appetizing.

"You shouldn't complain," Sheila said. "You have looks and you're still young, Myrt. You're doing well enough." She accepted a cup of coffee, exclaiming over the real cream that went with it.

"George and I did some shopping last night," Myrt remarked blandly, seating herself with her own cup and rocking busily.

"George? Is he back?"

GEORGE was an old admirer of Myrt's. Sheila knew that "going shopping with George" meant ordering groceries at the delicatessen shop in George's presence on the chance that he would pay the bill. He had, of course, and Myrt, taking advantage of the situation, had probably increased her original order considerably.

It was an old trick but, if the victim were selected carefully, it seldom failed.

"Yes, George is back," Myrt agreed. "Guess you haven't been keeping up with the news around here. George has been back almost a month. Ma thinks he really means business this time but I'm not so sure."

"You'll get a job soon, Myrt," comforted Sheila, though privately she doubted this. And so, apparently, did Myrt. She grinned sardonically.

"Oh, sure—all the producers are looking for my type! Skinny, faded blondes, 1920 model. Sure they are! But, at that, I have a job. I'm starting work tomorrow."

"Myrt, is it true? Oh, I'm so glad! What kind of a job is it?"

The other girl arose, salvaged the toast from the toaster, buttered it extravagantly and offered a piece to Sheila, balanced to a nicety on the end of a knife.

"Listen," she said. "It isn't on the stage. It's in a lingerie shop—on Broadway. It's going to be steady, too. George knows the man who owns the place."

SO Myrt was forsaking show business—Myrt who had declared she would rather starve than quit! That was either very sensible or very tragic. Sheila wasn't quite sure which. She was silent and Myrt, helping herself to more toast, was silent too. After a little she said:

"I suppose this sounds funny, coming from me, but I guess my acting days are over. Anyhow, George wants to be able to take me out now and then for the evening. This way I'll be free every other evening. The shop has some swell little models you'd like, Sheila. Better come and look them over."

"I will, Myrt. I need some things."

"Did I hear you turning down a Broadway job?" Myrt went on warily.

"You heard me turn it down to someone who hadn't the right to offer it to me. He just thought there was a chance I might be able to land it."

"You're still crazy about going on the road?"

"I guess so."

"Well, you know your own affairs but I guess you're just like George when he bought that new car. Wouldn't listen to anything I said."

"A new car? Oh, Myrt, that's fine!"

Myrtle's and George's romance had begun years ago. Myrtle, having stage aspirations, had refused to consider marrying George, who played the role of patient, plodding sweetheart to perfection. George had reappeared as a solid, prosperous individual with just a touch of patronage in his air when he regarded Myrt, well past her first youth.

"You'd better marry him, Myrt," Sheila suggested. "You'd better say 'yes' when he asks you."

"If—you mean."

Myrt rose. "Is that the doorbell? I'm expecting the man from the cleaner's."

It was the doorbell and both girls hung over the balustrade with that cheerful expectancy a ringing door bell always arouses. They could hear Ma's plodding footsteps along the hall, feel the gust of cool air as she opened the door and hear her ejaculations.

"Glorry be! All those flowers? No, I don't know if she's home or not. Wait a minute. Sheila! Are you home?"

"I'm here," Sheila called. "Come on down, Myrt. Let's see who it is."

"I'll send them up," shouted Ma, red faced from bending backward to look up where the girls stood. Heaven only knows what you'd do with 'em! A basket of red geraniums as big as a tub! And there's a note with 'em!"
