LEERAY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BANQUET SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

Five Hundred Citizens, Including Those From Cisco, Eastland and Other Surrounding Towns Enjoyed the Hospitality of the Live Wires of the Live New Oil Town—Visitors Were Delightfully Entertained.

The banquet given by the chamber of commerce, of Leeray, last night was a most pleasant and profitable affair, it having been tendered with the desire to have a regular get-together meeting and this is what it was, to the full extent, barring a disposition on the part of some of the speakers from Eastland to say unkind things about one of its neighbors, Cisco. The Eastland speakers, or one of them, said Cisco was trying to claim Leeray as its child.

Cisco admitted the soft impeachment when Claude Wild, speaking for Cisco, said it was true; that it was dreamed of, founded and made to grow by Cisco citizens, who were still interested in its every step in the way of progress and Cisco would stand sponsor for it at all times.

There was a split manifest on the part of the Eastland visitors to nag Cisco, and this, too, was resented in kind by Mr. Wild. Replying to some "jabs" from Eastland, he said that town first claimed Gunsight as its child, but the brain was not born right, did not develop as it should and finally ceased to grow. He said Eastland was surrounded by some oil wells and a magnificent number of dry holes. He said Cisco was not depending on oil alone to make a great city, that its other resources had made it the best town in this section and it would continue to grow in population and wealth, oil or no oil.

MEETING TONIGHT OF BOARD OF DIRECTORS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and Production to have been held last night and which was postponed on account of many of the members going to Leeray, will be held tonight. A full attendance is desired as matters of importance are to come before the board at this meeting.

MEXICO ALSO MUST INCREASE FREIGHT RATES—BEGIN TODAY

HOUSTON, Sept. 1.—The national railways of Mexico today inaugurated a twenty-five per cent increase in freight rates. The foreign trade committee of the Houston chamber of commerce was advised of that action by Trade Commissioner T. L. Cunningham.

As the increase will not affect foreign goods consigned to Mexico City via Vera Cruz, it is expected much traffic that has been going into Mexico City through border points will be diverted to Vera Cruz, Pachuca and Puebla are exempted from the increased rates by government order.

NOT MUCH HOPE FOR CHEAPER CLOTHING UNTIL NEXT SPRING

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—"Are clothes gonna be cheaper this fall and winter?" Like Hamlet said on the "to be or not to be" problem—"that is the question."

And it is a question which is not only bothering the buying public, but the retailer, the wholesaler and the manufacturer as well.

Conditions right now are very unusual in many lines of merchandise and leading wholesalers and manufacturers when interviewed today in this city frankly admitted that they could make no prediction on the trend of prices although some hazarded the opinion that after the opening of the fall and winter season prices in some lines would have a tendency to sag downward, and there may be material reductions by next spring.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, on hunger strike since August 12th, in protest against his arrest by the British authorities, suffered a change for the worse last night in Brixton prison.

The king's private secretary said the king was going against the advice of his ministers if he released the lord mayor and the country at large might blame the king for creating a grave political crisis at a time of special stress and anxiety.

HUSBAND TELLS HOW HIS WIFE WAS KILLED AND ROBBED BY NEGRO

The officers are still searching for the negro who is alleged to have killed a negro woman, this side of Breckenridge, Monday night. He is reported to have been at two places at the same time last night. It was stated that he held up a road camp south of the city and demanded a supper, which he got. Three miles north he was reported as going through a similar proceeding. But he has not been caught.

Constable C. S. Looney said he was satisfied the negro, who was at the road camp south of the city was the one who is wanted for the murder of the negro woman, as his clothing corresponded with the description first given. He said the negro came with a six-shooter in his hand, demanded a supper and after getting it went through a window and took to the west. The constable was notified and once got there with Policeman Grimsinger and two other men within thirty minutes, but found no trace of the negro.

PRO OFFICERS NOW RAID HOMES AFTER RED LIQUOR STOCK

HOUSTON, Sept. 1.—War on the consumer of liquor, illegally possessed, particularly against drinking parties in high class apartments, has been declared by M. A. Moore, local prohibition enforcement officer, he said Monday.

In three raids conducted Saturday night by federal officers and local police three men, all well-to-do, and five women were taken into custody. Mr. Moore said Monday that charges will be filed against most of them Tuesday.

Two of the raids were in a Third Ward apartment house, two men and two women being arrested in one apartment and one man and two women in another. At a third place a woman was serving homemade beer to a party, Mr. Moore declared.

One of the men arrested is a vice-president of a Texas bank, not in Houston, according to Mr. Moore. All of the others have good positions with Houston firms, he said.

"It was decided at the prohibition enforcement conference at Austin," Mr. Moore said, "to concentrate our efforts on persons who drink. The situation is that a bootlegger doesn't mind being fined several times a year. He sticks to his business as long as it pays."

"But well-to-do persons who patronize the bootlegger will do anything to keep out of trouble. Our advice is to stop buying liquor because we are going after them."

SENATE COMMITTEE TURNS ATTENTION TO THE DEMOCRATS

Chairman White Admitted He Had No Evidence to Prove the Charges Made By Governor Cox But He Believed Them Because He Had Faith in the Nominee — Bayonets and Bullets.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—After two days' investigating, the republican campaign finances, with an occasional query toward the democratic contributions, the senate investigation committee turned its attention today to democratic campaign finances.

George White, chairman of the democratic national committee, and Wilbur Marsh, national treasurer, were the chief witnesses.

Chairman White told the senate committee he had no evidence to sustain any one of the charges made by Governor Cox about the republican campaign fund and quotas, or the alleged desire of the republican contributors "to have the bayonets of their puppets in office back of them in industrial centers."

He told the senators he believed the charges are true, because he had confidence in Governor Cox, but he had not discussed them in detail with the nominee and brought nothing from him to aid the committee in sifting them down.

Mr. White told the committee he thought a $2,000,000 fund sufficient for the democratic national campaign. He said this estimate was made as an individual and he had not appointed a campaign fund committee yet.

Senator Spencer, republican, chairman of the senate committee, brought out that the headquarters of the democratic national committee is in New York, with branches at Chicago, San Francisco and at Washington.

LEERAY SPIRIT

The new town of Leeray, a few miles northeast of Cisco, a town made possible in its foundation by the construction of the Cisco and Northeastern railroad, started and fostered by some of the leading citizens of Cisco, will ever have a warm place in the hearts of the Cisco people and those who attended a banquet there, given by the Chamber of Commerce of that place, had an opportunity of witnessing what real business ability, coupled with earnestness of endeavor and willingness to work, will do in town building.

The very enterprise of the Chamber of Commerce, only a few weeks old, was shown by the fact that they have progressed already to a point where they can send out invitations and have 500 business men about their board.

This new organization, composed of the best citizens, has done much and is doing more in town building and will do still more. The growth

"SHORT AND UGLY"

Were the lamented Col. "Teddy" Roosevelt one of the principals in the present campaign, it is very probable it would be about now that the "short and ugly" word would be snapped out and there would be no hesitancy in the snapping.

Governor Cox and Chairman Will Hays separate themselves about as far as is possible on one continent and the latter goes on the witness stand, before the senate committee and denies, under oath, that the former's charges that the republicans are raising a fifteen million campaign fund is true.

Governor Cox, at long range says, "Chairman Hays has deceived the people and at an official hearing denied the truth."

If that kind of talk does not call for the "short and ugly," what does it mean? Anything?

Is all this assertion and denial to go on throughout the campaign? Is it to be left to the people at last to guess who is right and who is wrong?

But Governor Cox' position has been wonderfully strengthened and a republican, too. Not in this one case referred to, but by a collateral one. Congressman Britten, of Illinois, a republican, made the bold assertion that Governor Cox' campaign was being financed by Great Britain, but when he was called to the stand, he had not a scintilla of proof and stands condemned, even before members of his own party, as being a falsifier of the first water.

If Congressman Britten can, voluntarily, lend himself to the making of such statements, what might not Chairman Hays be tempted to when he has been driven to bay by the charges of Governor Cox?

Then, too, Treasurer Upham, of the republican committee, testified to having in the war chest $700,000 more than Chairman Hays said they had. It is very easy to see, however, when these gentlemen are handling campaign funds in fifteen million bunches, that it is an easy matter to overlook one little item of about three quarters of a million.

The findings of this very interesting senate committee, inquiring into campaign expenditures, will be looked forward to with much interest. In the meantime, the people have a well established precedent to guide them in determining how the republicans always secure a campaign fund.

FIRE PREVENTION

The necessity for the best endeavor on the part of every citizen for fire prevention, should be impressed upon the minds of all by reference to a report coming from the state fire marshal, at Austin, showing that during the month of July, of the present year, there were seven deaths and twenty-eight deaths in this state, resulting from fires.

When it is noted that five of these deaths and twenty-one of the accidents were caused by fires resulting from gas or gasoline, it can but suggest a degree of carelessness unbelievable.

Constant use of any substance, dangerous in itself, brings a familiarity with it, on the part of those handling it, to a point becoming dangerous. It is more often the expert workman, rather than the novice through want of knowledge and training, who suffers from these accidents.

One great danger and one against which the law should be strictly enforced, if argument does not avail, is the careless and slovenly manner in which the inflammable substances are allowed to litter places where persons are employed. Where gas and gasoline are used, the utmost care is necessary.

As it is in these places, so it is everywhere. Inflammable substances allowed to litter the streets, alleys, back yards, premises generally, is a menace not only to the occupants' property, but it endangers that of the neighbors and increases the insurance rate of all.

The state recognizes this great danger and sets apart a Fire Prevention Day, when the people receive instruction as to fire prevention and the day is given to a general clean-up. But this should be an every day occurrence and then such a report from the fire marshal, as that for the month of July, will not be repeated.

THE SPEED MARVEL OF THE CENSUS

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)
 Census statistics a couple of weeks ago showed Woodrifer, Ill., as having made a gain of 4938.1 per cent in population, and the trophy was at once awarded that city as the country's champion scorcher by an overwhelming majority. The overwhelming majority was wrong. Woodrifer may furl its flag, muffle its drums, silence its ukulele and tip its tongue to a swifter rival.

The latest claimant for the national speed crown is the zinc mining town of Picher, Okla. This now has a registered population of 9,676 and, but for certain thrifty persons having to do with taxation, might easily have exceeded the 10,000 mark, according to rumor. As for the percentage of Picher's expansion in this second decade, the science of mathematics cannot calculate it at all.

Back in the lost world of 1910 Woodrifer may have been an unpromising infant, but Picher, Okla., had not been born. It was slumbering dreamlessly in the unsuspecting oblivion of posterity. It was only so much Indian bay land. It wore a simple but rather becoming gown of green in April and May, but that was its one brief essay at beauty.

THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE

(Ohio State Journal)
 No matter what may be thundered from the political platform as the paramount issue of the campaign, it is certain most listeners would vastly prefer to hear some practical recommendation for reducing the cost of living and lightening the burden of taxation. The belief in the minds of many people is that taxation burdens ought to be growing lighter, now that so many months have passed since the war was ended. It is not at all certain the public, all the millions of people of the nation, will agree to the choice of questions by the candidate, or be ready to accept the recommendations of the platform writers and campaign managers as to what is the real issue. If some speaker should appear during the campaign with a promising means for reducing living costs he would make himself and his plan immensely popular, and would be in demand everywhere, and the public sentiment he would rouse would definitely make and fix the paramount issue. There is a tremendous feeling in the hearts of people that taxation burdens ought to be lightened and could without injury to any governmental activity. There is keen disappointment in the hearts of consumers that governmental powers have not availed to protect the public from being plundered by profiteers, who are still squeezing their profits from the public. Thus far not a single definite rational plan for curing these troubles and righting these conditions has been given the public.

POWER UNDER FALSE PRETENSES

(New York World)
 Every voter knows what James M. Cox would do with the treaty of peace and the covenant of the league of nations in the event of his election to the presidency.

The treaty would be resubmitted at once to the senate, in accordance with Governor Cox's pledge that "the first duty of the new administration clearly will be the ratification of the treaty."

Mr. Cox would accept any reasonable interpretations that might be agreed upon by the senate, provided they did not impair the "essential integrity" of the covenant, but he would "stand against anything that disturbs the vital principle." There would be no crippling of the league on the part of the United States, no denial of responsibility for helping to maintain the peace of the world, no repudiation of the obligations assumed by all the other members, no refusal to finish the task for which 2,000,000 American soldiers went to France.

Nobody knows what Warren G. Harding would do about the treaty. He has never said. Senator Lodge admits that the republican platform "makes no promise for the future," and the speeches of the republican candidate are equally sterile. Senator Harding refuses to say whether he would favor ratification with the Lodge reservations for which he twice voted. He is committed to nothing except a separate peace with Germany along the lines of the Knox resolution and to sympathy with a fantastic "association of nations" that has no existence.

All attempts to obtain a definite statement of policy from the republican candidate have been unavailing. Mr. Taft insists that Senator Harding means one thing and Senator Johnson insists that he means another. While the republican friends of the league are trying to interpret the Harding speeches to square with their own belief, the republican enemies of the league are daily declaring that the candidate is in accord with them on the issue.

BAGGEMAN FINDS LIVE BEAR IN CAR
 DECATUR, Ill., Sept. 1.—With a sigh of relief a Walsh baggageman alighted here on his train from St. Louis. Shortly after the train had started out, it seems, the man discovered a bear in the baggage car—said bear having escaped from the confines of a crate.

He tumbled trunks down in front of the animal, and after considerable time blocked it in one end of the car. But he didn't assert much baggage during the trip.

MINERAL WELLS, Sept. 1.—Johnson for Cisco pitched his second straight victory Tuesday, 6 to 2, allowing only thirteen hits in the two games. RANGER 14, EASTLAND 3
EASTLAND, Tex., Sept. 1.—Ranger took the last of the series here Tuesday, 14 to 3, in the most ragged game ever played on the grounds. The Eastland players went up in the air and kicked the ball to all corners of the lot. The Eastland team made eight errors. Matthews pitched the whole game for Eastland, and was gotten to for fifteen hits. Carter pitched for Ranger, had everything and allowed only two hits up until the eighth, when he loosened up and allowed two more hits and three runs.

SYRUPS 12-2, ABILENE 0-1
SWEETWATER, Tex., Sept. 1.—The locals captured both ends of a double-header from Abilene Tuesday, 12 to 0 and 2 to 1. Monahan worked both games for Sweetwater, allowing six hits in the first game and five in the second. He pitched superbly and was complete master of the situation throughout. The second affair soon developed into a pitchers' battle, but Monahan was not to be downed, keeping his hits widely scattered.

Aside from his masterly hurling the features were two scintillating catches by Center Fielder Gressett and the throwing of Catcher Shaffer. Milam and Taylor also fielded well. The end of a perfect day was made possible by the excellent work of Umpire Wakefield.

AMUSEMENTS

Broadway Theater.
For a play of absolute human appeal it is doubtful if the past ten years has produced one that measures up in interest with "The Brat" which will be the offering by the Lewis-Worth Players at the Broadway Theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

The story narrates the whimsical romance of "The Brat," a nameless child of the charity institutions who drifts into the chorus of a cheap musical show, is insulted and then hated to night court on a trumped up charge. There an author who is seated on the bench with the judge sees in her just the "type" he has been seeking as the heroine of a new novel he is to write and he takes the bedraggled child woman to his home shocking his aristocratic mother and arousing the angry resentment of Angela his blue blooded fiancée. By reason of her simple faith the odd little "brat" eventually triumphs after heart breaking experience, heart burnings and sacrifices that make for one of the most interesting plays of the decade.

Victory.
"I have seen you on the screens of three continents, and always your successes was overwhelming," was the significant compliment paid by Vincente Blasco Ibanez, the famous Spanish novelist, to Pearl White on the occasion of his visit to the popular William Fox star shortly after his arrival in this country.

Ibanez, whose books—"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "Mare Nostrum," etc.—have created a sensation in the world of literature, expressed a desire to meet Miss White soon after he reached New York from Spain. The star, equally anxious to meet the famous novelist, invited Ibanez to visit her at her beautiful home at Bayside, Long Island.

Miss White, who is now appearing at the Victory Theater in her first big production, released by William Fox, "The White Moll," based on the famous story by Frank L. Packard, author of "The Miracle Man," greeted her distinguished visitor in French, knowing that he was not well acquainted with the English language.

"I want you to know how delighted I am with your stories," the actress said. "I appreciate very deeply your fine interpretations of character."
Ibanez, not to be outdone replied: "In Europe and South America your admirers can be counted by the million. It is my deep conviction that such admiration is well deserved. I am one of those millions."

Judia.
One of the pathetic situations in "The Family Honor," which picture will be shown at the Judia Theater today, is that in which a youth in his teens loses all of his money in a gambling hell, secretly run by the mayor of the town. Not only does he lose his own money, but some entrusted to him by his employer.

Fearing jail he pleads with the dealer to return his money, but instead, the dealer has him thrown out of the place. Desperate, he decides on burglary, and goes to the home of the gambling sharp. He is discovered by a small boy, however, and though the youth tries to strike the child, his better self stays his hand. Finally the sister of the gambler comes into the room and the youth

Actress Wife Asks Divorce

Mrs. Florence Huber Manville, wife of Thomas F. Manville, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Florence Huber Manville, wife of Thomas F. Manville, Jr., son of the millionaire president of the H. W. Johns-Manville Company, has filed suit in Pittsburgh for divorce, charging her youthful husband with cruelty. This young Manville gets into print again. He has been there quite frequently since he married one of the chorus of "The Follies of 1911," much to the annoyance of his father.

News of Manville's latest trouble became public through an inquiry into the following advertisement which he wrote: "Wanted—A position with an opportunity with a capital O by a young man with ambition, energy, experience and a newly developed sense of responsibility. MONEY NO OBJECT. Reply to Thomas Franklin Manville, Jr., West Hampton Beach, Long Island."

Manville is now a chauffeur for William S. Cooney, a New York cotton broker, with a summer home at West Hampton Beach. He gets $35 a week. Incidentally he has once more been disinherited, this time "for keeps," he thinks.

He cut off my monthly allowance of $500 and my salary of $150 a month as advertising man for the Johns-Manville Company's St. Louis plant in March, 1919. Since then I have had to go it alone." The cause of the latest disinheritance is due to a difference between the father and son, when Mr. Manville refused to help his son get a divorce from the wife to whom the father strongly objected at the time of the marriage. In fact, of the difficulties between father and son arose from the marriage. The disinheritance followed young Manville's refusal to quit his bride. Now the lady in the case, known Florence Huber to those acquainted with the chorus in the "Follies of 1911," bringing suit on her own account. Manville is advised that this suit bar her from pressing a claim against him for damages for alienation of son's affections.

NEGRO HAS BIG ROLL DIAMOND AND WATCH BUT LANDS IN JAIL

A negro was picked up at the railroad station last night by the police and is in the city jail. He is held on suspicion. He had a diamond ring, supposed to be worth $500, a gold watch and chain and $1,714.30 in money.

Part of this money is in a certified check payable to Roy Price and the negro told a reporter that was his name. The chief of police did not know on what bank the certified check had been drawn on nor at what town.

The negro does not talk much. He said he had been working as a cook on a ranch near Abilene and that his home was in Chicago. When asked the name of the man for whom he had been working at Abilene, he told the chief he did not think that was necessary.
