MIDWAY SCHOOL NEWS

April Fool Day will just come around every year and boys and girls will play "Hokey" so the teachers of Midway, Mr. Ben L. Graham, Mrs. Haynie Gilliland and Miss Bess Holmes played a very pleasant joke on the pupils by taking them to Fair Park in Abilene for an all-day picnic. The good eats were prepared by the patrons, who went along also. Every one had an enjoyable time. The swings, see-saws and merry-go-rounds were in great demand. Some one in the crowd had to go to town before the day was out to buy a new pair of trousers. It was hard to tell who was more excited and thrilled over the day. The Midway School children or animals in the Zoo. Thanks to the city of Abilene for the treat of good old "Joe Boys" and other courtships shown.

We were sorry not to have enough room in our building for the crowd that came last, literary but come back next time and we can give you a seat. The pupils rendered one of their best programs of the year. We will not have the regular literary program on April 12th as announced. We will have a play on Friday night April 19th, "Get your husband." Don't forget the date and fill the house. You will miss the fun and a good laugh if you fail to hear the great lecturer, "On What Women Wear, and why they wear 'em."

We came back with the Loving Cup for singing. "I told you so." Our boys and girls came out just fine at the Track meet, we won four first places and one second place in Literary events. We will send four from Midway School to the District meet in Abilene the 17th of April. Don't forget the play—it's free.—Reporter.

PARTIES SPENT $16,586,115

Total Includes Figures Of State And National Organizations

Expenditures of $9,433,604 on behalf of the Republican ticket in the last national campaign and of $7,152,511 for the Democratic ticket—including in both instances state and national expenses—have been reported by the Senate-campaign funds investigating committee.

The committee, in its final report, declared that the total amount this expended by both parties "acting through national committees, independent organizations and State political groups" was $16,586,115.

The committees also submitted recommendations for amendment of the corrupt practices act to tighten the regulations requiring reports on campaign expenditures.

Regulation also of the practice of borrowing of money by political groups was urged. No limitation on expenditures was recommended.

"Generally speaking," the report declared, "the responsible political organizations and particularly the national committee of the national committees of the Republican and Democrats have made full effort to comply with the Federal corrupt practices act."

Other Money Also Spent

The total expenditures did not take into account the money spent by district, county, city, ward and precinct organizations and because of this the report declared that "the total cost of the presidential election was much in excess of the figures shown in this report."

Any effort to determine the exact amount would be mere speculation, it was added.

Senator Steiwer (Rep.) Oregon, the chairman, submitted the committee report to the Senate without comment. The committee was created last spring and spent several weeks inquiring into the presidential primary campaign expenditures. Results of the national campaign expenditures were obtained through the reports filed by the committees and by separate investigating committee auditors.

Net expenditures of the Republican national committee were placed at $4,064,517 and of the Democratic national committee at $3,157,453.

Big Democratic Loan

The report showed that the Democratic national committee borrowed $1,600,000 from four banks and one individual on notes indorsed by John J. Raskob, chairman of the committee, and W. F. Kenny and H. H. Lehman, intimate friends of Alfred Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Contributions of $5,000 and over to each party were listed in the report. It showed one contribution of more than $100,000 to the Republican national committee—by E. C. Jameson of $172,000. There were three contributions above $100,000 to the Democratic funds—Raskob $129,583, Kenny $107,500 and Lehman $105,000.

The campaign committee of the Anti Saloon League was listed in the report as spending $165,326 for Herbert Hoover, and the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment $453,700 for Smith.

A detailed report was included showing the expenditures of $400,000 by George N. Peek of Illinois an agricultural leader who served as chairman of the Smith independent organization committee.

A LOVED ONE GONE HOME

Mrs. Bettie Taylor, age 53 years, heard the Fathers voice as he called for her, for He said, "My sheep shall hear, and know my voice," as He said, "Enter into the joys of thy salvation, thy good and faithful servant, well done, have been thy labors." Bettie was reared on Turkey Creek, Callahan County. She was the wife of Oscar A. Taylor, who is a brother of H. G. and John Taylor, who live on Deep Creek and C. E. Taylor of Potosi, Bettie was a sister to Jesse and Grover Gibbs and Georgia Burks, of Rowden, and Mrs. Jim Coffee, Cottonwood. She professed faith in the Lord Jesus when a small girl and was a true Christian. Her membership was with the Baptist Church at Redlands, California.

Miss Bettie Gibbs and Oscar A. Taylor were married 32 years ago. Eleven children were born to them: seven girls and four boys. All of her children were at her bedside when death called her, but two sons, Chester, who is with the Yuma, Arizona National bank and Bernice, who is manager for the Postal Telegraph in Yuma.

Mrs. Taylor was taken seriously ill Monday, Feb. 18th and was operated on Wednesday and went arm and arm with the death angel across the valley of death, Saturday evening, Feb. 23, who have no hope for in the resurrection 1929, but we do not grieve as those morning when those prison bars are broken, we shall rise, Hail, we shall rise, I can hear her say, "Weep not for me dear ones for tis in vain to call me to you again" She was a wonderful wife, mother and friend.

Oscar A. Taylor and family left Callahan county eleven years ago, coming to Arizona, and going from here to California, where they have since made their home at Merced, California, Rt. 3, box 134.

"Tis great to die in the Lord, We all have a mission here on earth, and when tis finished we are called to our reward, or eternal punishment. Our lives tell which will be our destiny for Jesus shed his blood for all those who will accept him and they will have eternal life, while those who refuse shall not see life, but shall come into condemnation. If you dear reader do not know Him please accept Him now, while 'tis day. "We know in whom we have believed and are persuaded that He is able to keep that which we have committed unto Him against that day."

We shall meet her beyond the river.

"EARLY DISCOVERY. EARLY RECOVERY"

"Early Discovery, Early Recovery." This is the slogan for the 1929 Early Diagnosis Campaign, being conducted in the United States during the month of April by the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated state and local associations, according to Louis E. Brey, Executive Secretary of the Texas Public Health Association.

The 1929 Early Diagnosis Campaign aims to continue last year's appeal to adults: "Let Your Doctor Decide," with an additional emphasis on children.

"Not that adults should be forgotten in the search for the child," said Mr. Bracy. "It is from them that the child becomes infected. But we must expand our view of tuberculosis to include the possibility of the very early stage of the disease in children—we must discover it in the antecedent condition during childhood before it becomes pulmonary tuberculosis at all. A long step forward in the control of tuberculosis will have been taken when parents become impressed with the significance of lung-gland tuberculosis, when general practitioners keep this condition constantly in mind, and when its importance is fully realized by those in charge of the health of children in schools."

The tuberculosis associations urge that everybody, children and adults alike, have a thorough physical examination by a licensed physician at least once a year, whether they appear to need it or not. In addition to which a physician should be consulted at the least indication of any of the "danger signs" of tuberculosis, which are: "Too easily tired, loss of weight, indigestion, cough that hangs on."

One Of The Wonders Of The World Is The Housewives Friend

PRESS the little button—and light floods your home. Commonplace to us yet one of the wonders of the world, one of man's greatest achievements.

TURN the switch—and the electric vacuum cleaner picks up dirt and dust from rugs, from draperies, from furniture, from mattresses. Commonplace to us, yet it means the emancipation of woman from the slavery of housework.

PLAG into a floor or wall outlet—and coffee magically begins to percolate on the table before you or toast is browned right at your elbow or crisp warm waffles are made before your eyes. Commonplace to us, yet a convenience, a comfort, a resplendent pleasure that not even kings could conceive years ago.

ELECTRICITY is One of the Wonders of the World; it banishes drudgery from the home, for it makes possible the use of scores of time and labor-saving electrical appliances. ELECTRICITY is the Housewives' Friend! Don't begrudge yourself this great convenience, for, after all, it costs so little.

FAMED SCOUT TO GET LAST WISH

"Yellowstone Kelly" to Be Buried in Boot Hill Cemetery at Billings.

Billings, Mont.—"I also desire that my body shall be buried in Boot Hill cemetery, Billings, Mont."

This codicil to the will of a famous early day character again calls attention to one of the unique cemeteries of the country. It is an institution having a peculiar fascination for pioneers of the Northwest. The provision above referred to was found in the last testament of "Yellowstone" Kelly, whose death recently occurred in Paradise, Calif., at the age of seventy-nine years, and who was one of the most famous Indian scouts known to the history of the West.

Boot Hill cemetery derived its name from the fact that every person originally buried therein died with his boots on. It was established in 1879, before the city of Billings was founded upon the construction of the Northern Pacific railroad, and the motivating cause was the need for burial grounds for characters who suddenly snapped out of an earthly existence in and near the town of Coulson, later the western terminus of the line. Later Billings was created as a municipality and Coulson, one mile east, became a ghost city.

"Yellowstone" Kelly was well acquainted with the underlying reason for the establishment of the cemetery, which, it is estimated, has a population of about forty bodies. Because of the historic incidents attaching to the cemetery, I. D. O'Donnell, of Billings, sponsored a movement providing for the fencing of the cemetery as well as the erection of a monument. Tombstones were not used in the burials, piles of stone serving as markers. The monument is of round boulders and stands about thirty feet high.

To bury Kelly on "Mountain." In order to perpetuate the name of "Yellowstone" Kelly, Mr. O'Donnell secured a small tract across the highway from the cemetery proper and named it Kelly Mountain. Mr. Kelly's body will be buried there in the spring.

An interesting story is told involving "Yellowstone" Kelly and "Liver-Eating" Johnson, another famous early day character of eastern Montana. Johnson gained the rather blood-curdling appellation from the fact that he was said to have pretended to eat the liver of an Indian victim, following a skirmish, to impress the captive redskins with his ferocity.

It seems that Kelly and Johnson were caught by a band of marauding Indians, and to save their lives decided to "ride it out." They mounted their steeds and made a run for it, being outnumbered to such a degree that a fight meant suicide. The Indians began a bombardment with both arrows and bullets, and the situation was critical indeed.

Kelly had a better horse than Johnson, but both managed to escape the missiles. The race continued, however, with Kelly gaining ground and Johnson barely holding his own. Kelly looked back and sought to spur Johnson to greater activity.

"Come on, Johnson!" he yelled. "If you don't speed up you'll get you." Johnson retorted: "You don't think I'm trying to throw the race, do you?"

White Men Win Out. The superiority of their mounts finally told, and they rode to safety after one of the closet calls either had ever experienced.

The Billings Commercial club has in charge the arrangements for the funeral of "Yellowstone," whose name was Luther Sage Kelly. Friend of the late Theodore Roosevelt and Gen. Nelson A. Miles, the old scout lived his last days in California, in memories of a career such as comes to few men.

A native of Geneva, N. Y., Kelly gained fame as one of the greatest Indian scouts in history while he was with General Miles, but his exciting experiences were not confined to this period. Two Alaskan expeditions found him a member. He saw service in the Philippine insurrection, and later was provincial treasurer of Suriago and was acting governor here when a contingent of insurgents kept him and a few companions surrounded for more than a year.

Fired with patriotism when he saw his former playmates marching as drummer boys at the head of a Union regiment, Kelly took advantage of a few days' vacation from school to seek admission into the army. He was under age and was rejected. But he continued, and finally was successful through the efforts of a friendly sergeant. He was a private, and then a corporal, in Company G, Tenth United States Infantry stationed near Richmond, to guard prisoners. He was discharged in 1868 following service at Fort Ripley, Minn.; Fort Ransom and Fort Wadsworth.

Braves Rampaging Sioux. The next seven years proved the most adventurous of Kelly's life, and it was in this period that he became known as one of the greatest hunters, trappers and Indian scouts. Against the protestations of Montana miners who ridiculed his plan, Kelly started alone to cross the Missouri on a hunting expedition, facing the dangers of warring Sioux. After an exciting experience with a war party of Sitting Bull's Sioux, he arrived at Fort Berthold, in the heart of a hostile Indian country. Here Mandan, Gros Ventre and Arikara tribes banded together for protection against the Sioux.

The following winter Kelly went to Fort Buford, at the mouth of the Yellowstone. He disposed of his horse and walked, reaching an unexplored section of the river region. He remained in that district several years, gaining a wide knowledge of its topography. In 1870 he attracted the attention of government officials by daring to do that which no other frontiersman would venture—carry dispatches unescorted.

Hearing that the last messenger had been killed, Kelly volunteered his services to the fort officials. He mounted a spirited mustang and started on what proved to be a thrilling adventure. He was attacked by two Sioux, one with a shotgun and the other bearing a bow and arrows. He killed one as he slid from his horse, and engaged in a duel with the other, finally shattering the elbow of the bow and arrow antagonist.

Indian Allies Elated. The Mandans, Gros Ventres and Arikaras were elated at his victory and acclaimed him "The Little Man With the Big Heart." Even the Sioux were impressed with the "strong medicine" of this "man who never lays down his gun."

Kelly engaged as a free trapper in the then mysterious Yellowstone country until he knew it as did no other man. It was because of his life as a wilderness hermit that he became known as "Lone Wolf" and "Yellowstone" Kelly. When in 1873, Gen. George A. Forsyth was sent to explore the upper Missouri and Yellowstone, he took Kelly as guide and Forsyth's report was invaluable when the Sioux war broke out three years later.

Kelly's services for General Miles, for whom he became chief scout during the bitter winter campaign of 1876-77, were invaluable, so General Miles testified. He remained with Miles until 1878 and from 1880 to 1883 was a scout for federal troops in the Ute country in Colorado.

Of the campaigns in which Kelly participated there were three that stood out prominently. The first was against Sitting Bull, who surrounded a wagon train. The "hostiles" were located by Kelly and his followers and routed by Miles.

In a second similar campaign, General Miles' troops defeated the Sioux, who sent several of their number for a conference with the general during which it was agreed that the Sioux should deliver three chiefs as hostages to insure that the tribe would leave the region.

Spokane Policewoman Gets Shooting Award

Spokane, Wash.—Mrs. Grace Amick, local policewoman, who totes a "police positive" on her tours of duty, has been awarded a medal for being one of the first four ranking marksmen of the force.

She won the class C snoot and was decorated by Col. Joseph K. Partello, commander of the Fourth infantry at Fort George Wright, who said it was a new experience for him, despite a long military career of citations and decorations.

The duties of Mrs. Amick lead her into dance halls and frequently into the necessity of arresting unruly men as well as girls, but so far her well-known ability with the revolver has enabled her to make arrests without difficulty.

Paris Guards Go Home After 57-Year Detail

Paris.—A detachment of republican guards, sent to help police headquarters fifty-seven years ago, has returned to its barracks.

President Jules Grevy, long dead, ordered the squad of mounted guards, the show troops of Paris charged with patrolling the Elysee palace, to aid the police in 1871 and the squad has been there ever since. All the original members are dead.

They were succeeded by several generations of recruits and when they left, after a farewell ceremony, there were none who ever had heard why they were there.

Spirits Fail Gabriel; Goes to Jail for 5 Years

Manila.—Alleged possession of supernatural powers on the part of Gabriel Valentin caused the mother-in-law of the dean of the college of liberal arts, University of the Philippines, to give Valentin $5,000 with which to buy land that he said would produce gold after he had performed incantations. By court decision, Valentin will now have five years, five months and eleven days in which to find out if supernatural means can get him out from behind prison bars.

Find Highest Waterfall in Marquesas Islands

Marquesas Islands.—The highest waterfall in the world has been discovered on the French island of Nukuhiva, one of the largest of the Marquesas. It is estimated that the water tumbles from a height of 1,100 feet. Ordinarily the width is about ten feet, but this is enormously increased during the rainy season. The fall is three miles from the sea.

IMPURE FOODS NOW OFF MARKET

Adulteration Curbed by Laws of Nation and State, Say Officials.

Washington.—Flagrant adulteration in many food products was widely prevalent before the enactment of federal and state food control laws, said officials of the food, drug and insecticide administration of the United States Department of Agriculture when their attention was called to a reprinted press report on the subject that had been originally published 50 years ago.

Instances of adulteration cited in the press report include the molding of chicory and of clay into the form of coffee berries colored and flavored to represent coffee; white stone ground into a fine powder and used to adulterate soda, sugar and flour; "terra alba," or white earth, for use in confectionery and cream of tartar, confectionery coloring material containing lead, mercury, arsenic and copper; cayenne pepper adulterated with red lead; mustard with chromate of lead; curry powder with red lead; vinegar with sulphuric acid, arsenic and corrosive sublimate; milk adulterated with water and artificial milk made synthetically which did not contain one drop of the genuine article.

Analyses Confirm Adulteration.

It cannot now be determined, say the officials, to what extent these and other forms of adulteration mentioned in the old account prevailed throughout the food industry 50 years ago, but official analyses made prior to and since the enactment of the food and drugs act in 1906 confirm some, if not all, of the forms of adulteration reported as being prevalent in 1879.

Imitation coffee berries made synthetically without a trace of real coffee are among the official samples collected before the enactment of the food and drugs act, but still retained by the food, drug and insecticide administration as an exhibit of what the cupidity of some few manufacturers would lead them to do when not restrained by the fear of the penalties imposed by food control laws. Artificially colored ground sawdust used to adulterate cayenne pepper is also among the exhibits illustrating the deplorable condition in the food trades in bygone days.

Fortunately for the consumers and the vast number of honest manufacturers who put out good products most of these forms of adulteration no longer are practiced, though some may occasionally occur in isolated instances, says the food officials. The marked improvement in the quality, wholesomeness and truthful labeling of food products that has been brought about in the meantime, they say, is due principally to the enactment and enforcement of federal and state pure food laws, and to the increasing realization on the part of manufacturers that it is good business to put out only sound, wholesome products truthfully labeled.

Decide to Be Good.

The exposure of adulteration prevalent 20 years ago, when the food law was passed, made sensational news stories. The spectacular contests between food officials and manufacturers who refused to clean up their factories to abandon profitable practices also resulted in widespread publicity.

As these sensational features became less frequent, and the food industries corrected their products and practices to comply with food control laws as clarified by court decisions and extensive scientific investigations, there has been a marked decrease in the news value of food control operations.

That constant vigilance by food officials is still necessary is evidenced by the fact that hundreds of seizures and prosecutions are made every year under the food and drugs act. The adulteration found today affects the pocketbook more often than the health, consisting principally of the substitution of a cheap substance for some normal ingredient that costs more. Only occasionally is the public health jeopardized by adulteration.

As the result of effective enforcement of federal and state food laws during the last 20 years, the food products sold on the market today are freer from adulteration and misbranding than ever before.

BYRD ANTARCTIC DISCOVERY MAY CAUSE OWNERSHIP ROW

Formation of International Arbitration Board to Settle Claims Probable.

Washington.—Commander Richard Byrd's discoveries in the Antarctic region may lead eventually to the creation of an international arbitration commission to settle the question of just how far ownership is established for a nation by the setting up of its flag in an uninhabited country.

This was indicated here following the announcement that Commander Byrd claimed a vast new territory in the Antarctic for the United States.

Records in the State department left the question hazy, as international law cited was to the effect that discovery such as Commander Byrd's establishes a claim for his nation, but not a permanent right to the country. "How far the mere discovery of a territory which is either unsettled or settled only by savages gives a right to it," one authority declared, "is a question which neither the law nor the usages of nations has yet definitely settled."

But another source asserted that "the ground taken by the British government, that a discovery made by a private individual in the prosecution of a private enterprise gives no right," cannot be allowed.

"There is nothing," this authority continued, "to support it, either in reason or in the law and usage of nations. To say the least, if a discovery so made confers no right it prevents any other nation from acquiring a right by subsequent discovery, although made under the authority of the government and with an express view to that object."

It was said unofficially that if the question of the validity of Commander Byrd's claim to the land for the United States did arise it probably would be settled by an international arbitration commission.

Though the Antarctic generally is looked upon as a land of little value, it might be used as a base for meteorological investigations.

Once a discovery long considered as unimportant suddenly assumed large proportions—the island of South Georgia, rarely thought of as a source of revenue, far in the south Atlantic, but during the World war it was "re-discovered" from another standpoint as a base for whaling expeditions.

BUT OH GOD, LET US LAUGH

By Richard H. McCarty In Albany News

The joy of laughter. Some one else said let me write a nation's songs and you can write its laws. (We would paraphrase that saying in this wise: Take the string off the joke smiths and let 'em flood the world with funny sayings—Laughter, I would rather have it said of me that I made the world laugh than anything else on earth. It's said that the great Irish humorist, Robert Emmet, sent a ripple of laughter around the world, and though he has been dead many years, yet the world is still laughing. Yes, he wrote immortality in the joke book, there is one thing that can be said of us Americans, we are a laughing nation, see the funny side of life. It was said of Abe Lincoln, that in the councils of state, when it looked like this Democracy was on its last legs—yes, Lee and Jackson were giving the Yankees a run for their money, southern valor was in the saddle, and Washington City could almost hear the Rebel yell, then it was that Abe would call a meeting of his cabinet to discuss grave matters, and in the midst of the darkness, the wrangle and uncertainties of a war torn nation, Abe would crack a joke, and in the midst of this hilarity of laughter, the veil of mystery would be rent, the star of hope would shine, then it was that they would see the light, and thus a knotty problem would be solved. Laughter, it is the deepest philosophy in the wide world, the wisest state of the human mind, nothing bad is ever done when men laugh. In the great World War, when it looked like the Temple of human freedom was staged for a fall, the darkest hour in the history of the world, Europe's armies were worn to a frazzle, but thanks to the God of Democracy this Republic cast its lot with England and France and rushed two million American soldiers to the aid of those war torn nations, and just as soon as the Doe boys stepped off the steam boat down there at the ship-landing and started up the streets of London, they did it laughing. O yes, it put hope and sunshine in the hearts of our allies. Then down there in the training camps, getting ready for the battle of all the ages, they played baseball, leap frog, staged boxing matches, and they just laugh and laugh and keep laughing while they were getting ready to die. Then when the orders came to march up to the battle line of death, they continued to laugh while marching, rolling cigarettes, eating candy, cracking jokes, patting the French kiddies on the cheeks and flirting with French maids. And down there in those muddy trenches, and in all the hell of carnage and death they sent a ripple of laughter up and down the battle lines, putting hope in the hearts of the French and English soldiers, and thus the glad tiding of American humor radioed the glad news—the Americans have arrived. And it has been said that the laughter of the Doe boys did much to break the morale of the Kaiser's Legions. Yes, it was news to them that men could look a cannon in the mouth, and in the midst of bursting shells laugh and die. O yes, a Doe boy actually made King George and Queen Mary laugh. They had come down to inspect an American "Y" hut, and during the inspecting, of course the boys stood at attention, for the reason that the king and queen of the greatest nation on earth, except that of this glorious Republic, was a visitor, hence a very grave occasion. But by me bye, in the midst of it all, a Doe boy who had just returned from a furlough came in, kinder gushing like. Then it was he slapped a gob on the shoulder and said by the way what's all this about, and who is that little fellow over there, the gob whispered to him, "why that is the king and queen of England. So to break the silence and the monotony of the occasion, this Doe boy walked over and slapped the king on the shoulder, grabbed hold of his hand and said why King George I am delighted to meet you, I have always heard that you were very democratic and sociable if one could break thru the lines of royal formalities. Then to cap the climax, he walked over and said hello Queen Mary, I am awful glad to see you. And notwithstanding, the destiny of the British Empire was hanging on a brittle thread, yet, a king and a queen actually laughed at the gushing address of an American soldier, Laughter! But Oh God let us laugh.

We have an old time friend, and every time he comes to town we hunt him up, that we may have a hearty laugh, because he's always loaded with a good joke. Yes, Charley builds roads, and laughs and scatters sunshine along down the work trail of life. He told us one the other day that fairly made our toe nails pop for joy. Laugh boy right good, and if you will keep at it usually you will never do anything very mean. You know Mark Twain made the world laugh, his deep abiding humor still lives in the hearts of the American people, and get this boy, the depth of his humor has never been fathomed. Not long ago we heard a great divine say, that every time he wanted to preach a great sermon he went back and re-read Huckleberry Finn. He said a thousand years hence the world will better understand the philosophy of Mark Twain.

PRESIDENT GIL AND THE PEASANT

President Gil of Mexico, when Governor of Tamaulipas, became noted as an ardent advocate of the rights of peasants. His policy was to see to it that as far as possible families be given lands, opportunities for the education of their children, and a stimulus to attain higher living standards. His success in these aims made him the logical successor Obregon and Calles to carry out similar reforms on a national scale.

The present rebellion, he believes, is the final attempt of filiaristic admirers of the old Diaz policies, and when suppressed, will permit Mexico to move forward in peace and prosperity. The newer policies for which he stands, initiated by earlier leaders after the overthrow of Diaz, aim to build up Mexico by throwing open to the peasants the lands that rightly should be theirs and by putting in every village a school.

Naturally, he and his predecessors in the presidential office have not had easy sailing. Exploiting capitalists and landed aristocrats are naturally opposed to policies that would reduce their wealth and prestige. Yet if they knew history, they would realize that they are fighting a hopeless fight, and that it would be the part of wisdom to co-operate in bringing about national prosperity by raising the standards of living and hence the purchasing power of the mass population.

Mexico needs at least fifty years of peace from wars and revolution. It needs to utilize its natural resources including water power, for its own benefit primarily, so as to develop its own capital, its own skilled workers and farmers, and to be able to educate its population out of their present dense illiteracy. When the Mexican peon has full meals instead of his present starvation rations he will become more intelligent, for there is a close connection between an empty stomach and mental stupidity.

President Gil is on the right track. The United States is wisely helping him to suppress the rebellion by furnishing military supplies, and Ambassador Morrow is a tower of strength to Mexico, backed up as he is by the support of President Hoover.

If the Federal troops win a definite victory by the complete suppression of the rebellion, the Mexican Government should be encouraged to continue by legal and orderly processes the policy of raising the economic and educational standards of the peasants and of safe-guarding Mexico's natural resources for the ultimate benefit of the people. The exploiting few must yield to the producing many and victories of peace should succeed to the clash of armed factions.—Dallas News.

TO THOSE WHO OWE US

For more than twenty years we have tried in every way possible to serve our friends and customers in the best possible way, and to extend to every one every courtesy possible, by carrying accounts month after month and year after year. We have never refused credit to the worthy and have stood by every customer when trouble came, and it is our intention to continue to extend every favor possible, but it is absolutely impossible for us to carry accounts and notes as we have been carrying them.

We want to urge every one who owes us to call and settle at once, as we must have the money. We feel like those who are loyal touswill make every effort to pay their account, when they know that we need it, and are urging that you attend to it at once.

It is our intention to make a deal with a COLLECTING AGENCY, to handle our past due accounts, after April 15th. After this is done it will be entirely out of our hands and we will not be able to help you out any in arranging your account in any way but the cash. We much prefer to have you settle it with us and thus save the annoyance and cost of collecting through an Agency, but we can't wait longer than the 15th, of April. If you want to settle direct with us please come in before that time.

We are also urging our friends to take care of all accounts every thirty days in the future and if you don't do this, we hope there will be no embarrassment if we refuse to charge more to your account.

We sincerely hope that our friends and customers will understand that conditions are getting closer and closer to a cash basis, and we have been forced to meet that condition. We will appreciate every cent spent with us and assure each and every one that your business will be appreciated.

Yours very truly,

Mr. C. F. Redlich, the successful expert says:

The "Perfect Retention, Shields" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief, contract the opening in a remarkably short time and strengthen the weak tissues (th real cause of rupture) so that they frequently recover their previous natural retaining power, needing no further outside support. Stomach trouble, backache and constipation often caused by Rupture promptly disappear. Truly remarkable and prompt results have been obtained not only with recent and not fully developed ruptures but also with old, long neglected ones.

Ingenious, recently perfected devices are now holding ruptures firmly which heretofore never had been retained. No elastic belts nor filthy legstraps are used.

I guarantee to hold the rupture and also the durability of my absolutely sweat and moisture proof, sanitary appliances.

75% of ruptured children recover completely through expert mechanical treatment according to statistics.

Do not waste your money on widely advertised mail order contraptions. You cannot fit yourself.

WITH THE BAPTIST

Last Sundays Sunday school ecord at our church was very gratifying. While there were not so many in attendance and that was because of the rain, yet the collection was splinded. $66.56 is not bad for our school to bring in on one Sunday for churchh expenses, well that is just what we did. Well that is fine, lets make it strong again next Sunday.

It will be necessary for us to have preaching service at our church next Sunday morning and we are asking our membership to come with us in that service we have some things we must see after. We will not have preaching at our church Sunday night, we will dismiss for the meeting at the Methodist church.

I will preach at Midway Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock will be glad to see you there.

SPRING TRAINING IS STARTED BY BAIRD BALL CLUB

Last Wednesday at 3:30 the gong was sounded for Spring training and thirty three men responded to the call out of these thirty three men will be picked a team that will show Baird a different brand of base ball they have been used to. There are some of the fastest amateur ball players in West Texas working out every evening. There are eleven pitchers trying to show the manager they have the stuff to stick, and its no mistake they have it. There are twelve husky lads bating for the outer gardens each one a classy fielder and a dangerous hitter, out of these twelve men will be picked three men and a utility man. The rest will be dropped. (Here is an excellent chance for the coyotes to get some good material)

The only worry at present is at third base, two men are working hard for that position, but they don't seem to please the manager, and it won't be surprising to see new faces battling for the hot corner. Every other position on the infield is being taken care of very nicely, and the boss is well pleased, especially with a youngster called Gardner, he ranges far and wide to get balls that ordinary go for base hits. He plays the short field and has class. He is a bit weak with the willow, but time will improve him.

There are two catchers working out, but its not likely both will stick, one is having trouble with his throwing arm, and the other has a better opportunity elsewhere.

Thursday two teams were picked from the whole squad, and engaged in a snappy 7 inning game. The score being 7 to 6 at the end of the seventh. The pitchers showed good control and plenty of stuff, and time will improve them lots.

This team has the corporation of all Baird citizens to make it a winning team, understand this isn't the coyotes, but a team that can play base ball and will. Every one is cordially invited out to watch the work outs, which starts every day at 4 and ends at 6 p. m., except on Sundays.

BASEBALL TIME

Some people call it Spring. We call it "Baseball Time."

It's marked by the growth of flowers, the songs of birds, and an irresistible impulse in every man's heart to "go out and do something."

Baseball Time is here! The big teams are all ready for their battles. Men everywhere are already on their local diamonds, batting dull care away. They are doing something. Strengthening their muscles, intensifying their love of fair play. Playing.

Just watch the excitement! Again we are to hear of the exploits of the heroes of the diamond, again we are to thrill to the news of this or that home run.

Again our minds are to be given to the healthiest, happiest pastime yet invented by man. We are a nation that knows how to play—which is the same as saying that we know how to live.

Government Loans Easy

Nearly every farmer or ranchman is able to get a 5% Government loan.

About $500,000.00 has been loaned through my office already, saving around $20,000 per annum for our citizens. Small expense, long time, low interest. Lots of money.

RED CROSS CHAPTERS STRENGTHEN FORCES FOR DISASTER RELIEF

Launch National Campaign to Perfect Preparedness Plans in Every Community.

A nation-wide campaign to strengthen plans for preparedness against disaster and for emergency relief has been launched by the American Red Cross through its Chapters. The program is intended to perfect disaster preparedness committees in the ten thousand communities reached by Red Cross Chapters and their branches.

When carried out, through committees of men and women in the communities, it will insure that should a disaster come, an organization for emergency relief, including every modern method science has perfected—such as the radio, the airplane, the motor car and watercraft—can be mobilized to bring assistance, with the promptitude applied by the Red Cross in recent major disasters, such as the West Indies hurricane and the Mississippi Valley flood.

These enlarged and strengthened plans for disaster relief are set forth in the revised Red Cross manual, "When Disaster Strikes," which has been placed in the hands of every Red Cross chairman throughout the nation. The plan to encourage adoption of these added disaster preparedness methods was begun at this time because Red Cross records—covering 48 years of disaster relief—show that the period of the greatest number of disasters, large and small, ranges from the early Spring through the early Fall.

The Record of 48 Years
A historical summary of Red Cross disaster relief since 1882, shows that the society was active in giving relief in 938 domestic disasters and its expenditures in those relief operations were $49,594,000. The three groups of calamities appearing most frequently were: cyclones, tornadoes, hurricanes and other storms, 231; fires, 131; floods, 126.

During this period, the Red Cross also has given assistance to distressed peoples of other countries in 153 disasters. Total expenditures for relief at home and throughout the world, in 48 years, amount to $77,354,000.

In the four most recent major disasters, among the greatest which have ever visited the American continent, Red Cross expenditures for relief totalled $29,188,908. Only in the event of large disasters such as the Florida hurricane of 1926, the Mississippi Valley flood of 1927, the New England flood of the same Fall, and the West Indies hurricane of 1928, does the Red Cross seek contributions from the general public for relief work; and frequently these are not ample, as in the four disasters listed, the Red Cross donated $1,338,291 from its own treasury to aid in the work. In the event of smaller disasters, the cost of the relief is met largely from Red Cross resources.

No Community Immune
No community is immune to great disasters of one type or another, the manual shows. One preparedness measure that can be adopted is a survey of the surrounding country, with the assistance of engineers and other experts to determine the type of disaster to which the section is subject. Hazards resulting from the presence of rivers and lakes, subject to overflow, of mines, munition factories, and other industries wherein dangers from explosion and fires may exist, are singled out for consideration.

Extension of existing disaster organizations in communities, and organization of men and women, trained in public health and community service, will result in the saving of lives and the prevention of extensive suffering, through privation, epidemic and other misfortune, should emergency arise through disaster. These organization plans, outlined in the manual, are similar to those now existing in most Red Cross Chapters, only strengthened in some particulars. They contemplate disaster preparedness and relief committees, under which function sub-committees on food, clothing, shelter, medical aid, registration of disaster sufferers and information service, transportation and communication and finance.

Co-ordination of all of the societies, organized groups and institutions in the locality is urged, so that all effort for emergency relief will be directed without conflict. Trained in advance, these committees can swing into action, and provide an orderly and systematic relief organization.

The following are expenditures made by the American National Red Cross for relief in the four most recent major disasters:

Florida hurricane, 1926	$4,477,170.07
Mississippi Valley flood, 1927	17,498,902.16
New England flood, 1927	1,399,772.93
West Indies hurricane, 1928	5,913,062.47
Total	$29,188,908.63
