LUEDERS FLOOD DEFIES RESCUERS

Hearing on Cisco Case Due to Get Under Way at 1:30

JUDGE RULES ALL PERSONAL ACTION OUT

Cisco's suit for re-instatement in the Texas Interscholastic league for the football season of 1932 was due to get under way in 91st district court at Eastland this afternoon at 1:30. Judge George L. Davenport ordered the jury to report at that hour, after a ruling upon exceptions and demurrers argued by the defense...

"Fair Settlement." "I am frank to say," he said, "that what I want to do is to bring about a fair settlement of this case if I can. If with the assistance of the jury and you gentlemen who are interested I can succeed in reconciling this matter, I am going to do it."

"It is unfortunate," the court said in opening his remarks, "that you gentlemen had to apply to a court to settle a matter that should have been settled by people who are more familiar with the details. If the attorneys in this case had spent as much time in trying to effect a settlement as they have spent in preparing their petitions it would never have come into court."

"In the meantime I want all of you interested parties to assist me in bringing about a reconciliation. If with the assistance of you gentlemen and the jury I can succeed in reconciling this matter I am going to do it."

Misjoinder Urged. Defendant counsel, in asking dismissal of the suit, had urged misjoinder of action and asserted lack of jurisdiction of the court on the ground that the decisions of the state and district committees of the league were in the nature of quasi-judicial actions and binding upon the court because the committees acted within their proper spheres and within the powers and authority vouchsafed them by members of the league.

MONTSEANO, Wash., Sept. 8.—Here's a handy one for the housewife — another use for the family clothes wringer. In stalling peas for canning, put the peas, pods and all in scalding water, immerse in cold water and feed through the loosened wringer. The peas drop from the pods and the pods are rejected.

CURRENT TOO SWIFT; BOATS OVERTURNED

Floodwaters in the Lueders community as the Clear Fork river rose to unprecedented heights, continued at noon to defy efforts of rescuers to reach three persons marooned in the attic of a lodge on the banks of the river. Motorboats which attempted to reach the lodge were Col. R. L. Penick, his daughter, Lillian Penick, and a neighbor, Charles O'Brien were trapped by the flood met with disaster in swift currents. Occupants of the boats were able to swim to safety.

One 40-foot and one 50-foot motorboat attempted to make the dangerous crossing. Both were overturned.

Offers of help sent from Cisco this morning were not accepted. No boat on Lake Cisco, it was said, has the power to compete successfully with the powerful currents.

Penick, his daughter and neighbor yesterday had left no fear for the safety of the lodge and declined to leave it. The flood engulfed the building, carrying away windows and doors from the first floor and sweeping off all furniture. Watchers kept vigil throughout the night, with beacon fire burning to assure the marooned of their watchfulness.

The swollen river cut off Katy train service from Albany northeast, submerging about a mile of the right of way. Extent of the damage could not be determined. Katy officials here said. Trains were continuing schedule but making Albany the terminal point, so that Cisco continue to have Katy service from the south.

Rumors here that the rise in Lake Cisco water level had endangered the Katy trestle north of the Lake were laughed at. Water was reported to be more than 14 feet below the trestle and it was also said that the trestle might fill to the level of the tracks without endangering the security of the structure.

Hundreds of workers labored tirelessly today to save life and property in widespread sections of Texas as floodwaters spread over thousands of acres of farm land and inundated many towns.

The flood crest of the Rio Grande moved seaward today after lashing at levees and buttresses for hundreds of miles along its course.

North of Abilene rescuers sought to bring to safety three persons marooned in a lodge on the banks of the Clear Fork river where Col. R. L. Penick, his daughter, Lillian, and a neighbor, Charles O'Brien, were pinned in the attic.

The flood engulfed the building, carrying away windows and doors from the first floor, and all furniture. Rescue boats attempting to reach them met with difficulty when they encountered strong currents.

At Brownsville the flood moved southward over Mexico, minimizing flood damage on the American side. Efforts to save the $4,000,000 flood control system were abandoned and work concentrated about Mercedes and Weslaco.

Hundreds of men were concentrated at the levee curve which spills the water to the north and south of Mercedes. This important point was 25 feet thick and was being ballasted with sand bags to withstand the water's onrush.

Public officials at Harlingen today appealed for volunteers to guard levees about that city. The flood crest was expected to reach Harlingen within 24 hours.

Woman Evangelist To Preach Tonight

COMMUNITY FAIRS.

The season of community fairs has begun. Next Monday and Tuesday two such fairs will be held in communities adjacent to Cisco. They are at Dothan and at Reagan.

It is needless to point out that these community enterprises provide not only an opportunity but a responsibility for Cisco people. The movement toward improved agricultural conditions is nowhere more clearly exhibited than in the growing popularity of these fairs. They reveal as nothing else reveals how deeply the gospel of better products for a larger market coupled with a live-at-home program has penetrated the rural consciousness. By injecting the competitive motive into the rural atmosphere they have provided a stimulation otherwise lacking, an influence that is bearing tangible fruit in communities all about Cisco.

Cisco's interest in this improvement is obvious. And this interest can best be served by demonstrating it in personal visits to these fairs. It seems to us that the business men of this city and the chamber of commerce should concern themselves seriously with a program that will encourage the enterprising communities in their efforts and back up the work of the agricultural extension agents which is the leavening influence underneath this improvement.

COOPERATIVE STAPLES HELD OFF MARKET.

Washington announces that all remaining stores of stabilization wheat and cotton and approximately 2,000,000 additional bales of cotton controlled by cooperatives are to be held from the market until next year under an agreement made public by Chmn. Stone of the federal farm board. This was brought about by the Finance corporation. That concern allotted $50,000,000 as a loan to enable the cotton to be withheld. As for wheat the greatest stabilization corporation statement said it now held less than 3,000,000 bushels of wheat as compared with more than 250,000,000 bushels in July, 1931. As for cotton it is said the selling of 300,000 bales had been accomplished on the rising market. Watch the ticker. Its tickings may continue to plant joy in the hearts of the cotton belt and the wheat belts of America.

MEXICO HAS A NEW PROXY PRESIDENT.

President Ortiz Rubio gave the American as well as the Latin-Indian world a decided shock when he stepped down and out of the office of chief magistrate of the Aztec republic. He gave as a reason ill health. This was not the real reason for his retirement to private life. Rubio isn't a soldier. He is one of the noted engineers of the Latin-American country. He is a scholar and, as many statesmen, lacked qualifications. Gene Plutarco Calles is the real ruler of Mexico. He is the spokesman of what is known as the people's revolutionary party. He has the army behind him. Calles made Rubio president. They came to the parting of the ways on account of policies of government.

Rubio saw the handwriting on the wall. He stepped aside.

He will "seek restoration of health in the United States and later may visit France and Spain." His successor is a powerful military figure and has been close to Calles for years. He will continue the same friendly and cordial relations with the United States that have existed. Calles will continue to be the power behind the throne. There is unrest in Mexico as elsewhere the world over. There is poverty in Mexico. It is found in all lands. Mexico has had a stable government since the lamented Dwight Morrow ironed out the sore spots as ambassador from the United States to that country. Mexico has a heavy foreign debt. Mexico has a future. Mexico has many problems to solve. Mexico has vast natural wealth. Perhaps the day will come when its natural resources will be used for Mexico and the Mexicans.

COL. HEARST AND JIMMIE WALKER.

Col. William Randolph Hearst, speaking editorially through the New York American, handed ex-Mayor James J. Walker a neat trimming for "his bitter and wholly unjustifiable attack upon Gov. Roosevelt." Walker had it coming. He resigned under fire. He quit in the middle of the road, turned his political tail and ran away. For years Walker has been a popular idol. It is true he was placed on the rack by the republican investigating committee. It is true that Samuel Seabury, the chief inquisitor and cross examiner, is a merciless enemy of Tammany Hall. It is likewise true that the laws of the state of New York give the governor power of removal; and law is law, or it should be, in New York or Texas.

Walker is the ace of political ballyhoosers. They are found in Texas and everywhere else. They always dodge the main issues or main charges when they are placed on the rack of investigation or public condemnation. Naturally, Col. Hearst has his viewpoint. It should be reproduced "The whole investigation developed the unfortunate partisan political aspect of republican legislation endeavoring, on rather slim pretext, to put a democratic governor and candidate for the presidency "on the spot" by creating schisms between the New York City democratic organization and the democratic government." Col. Hearst should have said that the republican legislature that launched the investigation and named the committee voted down an amendment to the law which called for the investigation of crooked officials and scandalous grafting, or reckless expenditure of public money, in the republican strongholds. They voted to investigate Tammany officials but they voted down the resolution which called for the investigation of office holders elected in the republican stronghold up-state.

Of course practical politicians and their henchmen are partisan regardless of the party trademark they carry. Walker resigned under fire; he quit in the middle of the road; then he made a ballyhoo speech and posed as a saintly martyr to principle and the cause of the people. It is a political dodge and mouth harangue as old as American history. Let it go at that.

OUT OUR WAY

MUTUAL

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

There was some pretty well defined sentiment about the 91st district court room yesterday where Cisco's suit for re-instatement in the Inter-scholastic League for the football season of 1932 was getting under way. Talk that a compromise was more imminent than remote rather boldly intimated the thought of interested parties on both sides of the legal fence. One counsel for the defendant, a good and valued friend of mine, told me plainly he had worked and meant to continue to work toward bringing about a voluntary adjustment of the difficulty and a restoration of the Lobos to the League. "I spent two days trying to effect such a settlement," he said.

"We'd like to beat you in this case, Judge," I laughed at him as we greeted each other.

"I hope you won't have to," he replied, seemingly a little abashed by that tactless blurt of mine.

Then he declared his efforts in behalf of a compromise. I assured him the sentiment was one Cisco was looking for.

One frequent question put to prospective jurors by Frank Judkins was: "Did you ever win or lose any money on the Lobos?"

The question caused red faces, some squirming in seats, and in one case a frankly spoken admission that the venireman had. Whether chance had favored or frowned, the venireman did not say, but he admitted the experience had resulted in no prejudice against the Lobos.

But the honors for the most trenchant remark go to a prospective juror from Gorman — I believe he gave his habitat as Gorman. No doubt he had in mind a meaning quite different from the witty construction the remark permitted.

"Do you have any boys?" inquired Judkins.

"Yes, sir."

"Do they play football?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did anyone of them ever play on the Lebo football team?"

"No, sir. He's just sixteen and goes to high school."

A phenomenon that caused several court room spectators to marvel was the fact that out of the 24 veniremen examined only one or two knew anything about football, or had attended football games. One, whose son played with the Lobos four or five years ago, has seen one game. Those of us accustomed to drug store coaching naturally are amazed at that, particularly in consideration of the rather high order of intelligence the jury faces indicate.

But we would be as much amazed to discover how little most of those who live in towns where golf has come to be a necessity rather than a luxury know about that game.

It was rumored about the court room that one of the main obstacles to the drift toward a compromise was a resentment on behalf of some of the state committee at being "dragged all over the state" to appear in court. Counsel for the state committee conveniently or courteously—as you desire it—envisaged that sentiment in the argument that the dignity of the state committee had to be preserved.

There were enough attorneys present to make a good legislature. As best I could tell there were about 12 attorneys for the defendants and five for the plaintiff. The attraction of such an array of legal talent evidences the unusual character of the suit. No other of the character has ever been filed in the state, so far as I know.

Dr. H. B. Tanner drops a card from Eastland. (I must be careful what I say about Eastland.)

"Specs," says he, "that water moccasin-frog story is a classic." I shall pass the compliment on to Mr. John D. McCall, of Dallas, whose appetite for watermelon as well as capacity to indulge that appetite is one of those little discoveries in human nature that make life a continual adventure and its findings a source of amazement. McCall originated that yarn so far as Specs is concerned. Who originated it for him is out of the periphery of my knowledge.

"First thing you know," adds Dr. Tanner, "you will beat our Old Rip."

Impossible, Dr. Tanner. Impossible. If I were capable of the lengths to which mental fabrication must advance to conceive a rival to "Old Rip" I should resign my humble position as purveyor of gossip to the indulgent citizens of Cisco and move up in the class with the politicians and the rest of those stratagems and individuals who know how to skim the cream and leave the clabber to you and me.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma.

William Southern, Jr., publisher of the Independence (Mo.) Examiner, says:

"In a recent official bulletin, Jewell Mayes, secretary of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture, included the following paragraphs: 'Supporting your home newspaper is a combination of duty and privilege, one of the obligations of modern citizenship. No matter whether you live in city, town or country, your fellowship with journalism is the same, one of the responsibilities of every one hundred per cent progressive person. The newspaper is a true community builder, its editor a practical optimist. When you loyally pay your newspaper subscription in advance, you thereby add to the life-blood of your community.'

"Is a local newspaper simply another business, operating to make money for the publisher, or is it an asset to the community?"

"The answer to the question depends on the publisher of the paper and loyal community support, and I am glad that only in a few instances are local newspapers simply selfish commercial institutions.

"If the merchants of every city understood this and turned all their advertising and printing patronage to the newspapers, they would be helping make a better town, they would be bringing more business to themselves and would be cooperating from every business standpoint. Every dollar the merchant spends in handbills or in free papers is not only wasted, but it takes away from the real newspaper just that much money which would help to make a better paper, a paper better able to fight the battles of the town where it is published.

"A newspaper is of no value unless it is prosperous. A kept newspaper living from official patronage is of no value to a town. A pure advertising sheet is of no value to a community or to the advertiser."

Letters From Our Readers

Editor: Cisco Daily News, Cisco, Texas.
Dear Sir:
Exactly after our public elections, in speaking of defeated candidates, we often hear the following remark from people who have voted for them: "Well, I jest my vote in voting for him." This certainly represents a lack of understanding upon that part of our citizenship, for, if any candidate in our judgment represents sound principles, it is our duty to vote for him, although we may be the only one of the entire electorate to do so.

There is an old, old saying: "The minority is always right." The entire progress of our human race has hinged on the wisdom and activity of the minority. Every principle entering into the progress of mankind had its conception in the mind of some dreamer or poet. Taken up and retailed by the people it finally became a public question, ultimately becoming a part of our legal code when the majority was sufficiently educated to realize its value.

The right of suffrage entails a heavy responsibility upon each individual, and our action at the ballot-box should have our deep concern. Being satisfied that our candidates are honest and efficient, we should vote for principles rather than men.

With the approaching national election it is our duty to give this matter our deepest consideration. To those of us, who are religiously inclined I think it should be a subject of our prayers.

campaign in Texas for the job of congressman-at-large and won.

San Francisco is a dripping wet city and all the upstate counties are dripping wet. Lower California, known as the Los Angeles territory, has been regarded as ultra dry since the coming of nationwide prohibition. There were three leading pros from the Los Angeles section in the senatorial free-for-all. The Rev. Robert Shuler, a former Texan, ran on all three tickets - republican, democratic and prohibition. He won the prohibition nomination and received a surprisingly large vote in his three-ticket grab play. Regardless of this Shuler is one of the also-rans. And now McAdoo and Tubbs will go to the mat for the decision of the referees of the November election.

As for "The Happy Warrior" he is a very busy as well as very silent leader of his people. He is the general manager of the Empire State building. He is editor-in-chief of the Outlook magazine. He is getting to be a literary person of high repute and great demand. According to a Saturday Evening Post announcement Calvin Coolidge is to contribute to its pages at an early date an article giving the republican side of the campaign of 1932 while Alfred E. Smith has agreed to write a rejoinder for those of the democratic faith. If McAdoo should be elected to the American senate there is going to be a time-scared warrior under the big dome at Washington whose voice will be heard around the American world. Really it would be most fitting if the people of the Empire State should send Alfred E. Smith to the American senate. Then two famous gladiators of the party of Jefferson would make life interesting daily for the reading public.

AUSTIN, Sept. 8. - Two former Cisco athletes will be among the 70 gridders reporting to Coach Clyde Littlefield when the Longhorn training camp opens Sept. 10. They are Bill Smith, slated to be the regular center this year, and Dause Bibby, a leading end candidate. Both are lettermen.

CUCUMBER RESEMBLES SNAKE
WELLFLEET, Mass., Sept. 8. - A cucumber, two feet long, of peculiar shape resembling a snake with upraised head, was raised in the garden of Mrs. Charles Davis, here. The illusion was heightened by alternating dark and light green lines running its length and two brown spots, resembling eyes, near one end.

PREPARE GRAVE AND TABLET

etry by Brent, determined not to be caught unprepared when the inevitable occurs.

THE LIGHT given off by certain mushrooms and fungi seems to be of a phosphorescent character and is of a greenish color. Several instances have been recorded where birds have brushed against these objects and carried away particles of the light-giving material on their feathers, giving them a most ghostly appearance after dark.

THE FIRST POLICY of life insurance of which there is any trace was issued in London in 1538, insuring the life of William Gybbons.

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

William Gibbs McAdoo should have been christened "The Fighting Warrior" of democracy at the time Alfred E. Smith was named "The Happy Warrior" by Franklin D. Roosevelt. McAdoo was defeated for the presidential nomination after two of the fiercest convention battles ever held in America. Alfred E. Smith went down at Madison Square Garden and came back at Houston four years later as a winner of the nomination prize. He was defeated the following November by Herbert Clark Hoover, an adopted son of California. McAdoo like Smith, has been a fighter all his life. He has had to fight for every honor he has ever received and fight like a warrior of old. Now the primary election returns show that he won the nomination for United States senator in the California ballot by a majority over all rivals. Justin Wardell of San Francisco, for years prominent as a democratic leader, was the choice of the upstate wet democrats. McAdoo was the choice of the Los Angeles section where the drys have been in control for years.

In the wake of the Chicago convention adjournment McAdoo returned to California and threw his hat into the ring. Wardell was chief among the rival contenders and the two giants of democratic politics in the Golden state of the Pacific coast made speaking campaigns that covered the entire commonwealth. Wardell was the Roosevelt leader in the contest for delegates last summer. Marion McCarthy was the Smith leader. McCarthy was ambitious to be a senator. Well, McAdoo has taken down the prize. He made one of the aggressive sneaking campaigns of the year. At 67 he remains "The Fighting Warrior" he has been since his youthful days as the builder of river tunnels, as secretary of the treasury when Woodrow Wilson was the chief magistrate and in every field of endeavor that he has invaded as a master player of the game of life.

Samuel M. Shortridge, republican and present holder of the toga, went in defeat. Shortridge had ever been a dry. This year he switched and favored submission of the 18th amendment to a vote of the American people. He lost the republican nomination to state Senator Tallent Tubbs of San Francisco a dripping wet, a most eloquent orator and said to be a millionaire in his own right. Tubbs from every stump, declared for the repeal of the 18th amendment and the revision of the Volstead act. Now McAdoo of Los Angeles will be pitted against Tubbs of San Francisco and it will be a contest of grizzly bears from start to finish. McAdoo had ever been a dry. After the Chicago convention had named the standard bearers and declared for submission and repeal, the former secretary of the treasury made an emphatic declaration for the ticket and the platform. He is said to be personally dry but agreed that submission is the thing and that the voters of the 48 American commonwealths should be given an opportunity at an early date to return a verdict for or against the repeal of the constitution. Sen. Shortridge's defeat was a decided shock to the republican regulars. He had made a half-way advance into the camp of the repealers but the youthful Tubbs, who went all the road, snatched the prize from the veteran and will make his campaign for election on the repeal lines. Just as young Joseph Weldon Bailey made his cam-

ONE-MAN GOLD RUSH
WILLISTON, N. D., Sept. 8.—A one-man gold rush is taking place in Denbigh area, near here, with Leo Carpenter Williston staking out claims and washing gold-bearing sands with a machine he invented this summer. Basing his statements on trials, Carpenter says he can average $10 a day reclaiming gold from sands.

PAID BUS FARE
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 8.—When four negroes stepped A. B. Rodgers on the highway, near here.

As Piccard Soared Into Stratosphere

and robbed him of his pocketbook and automobile, they gave him two dollars and said, "Use this for bus money to go to Hot Springs."

HOME-MADE COFFIN
WHITESBURG, Ky., Sept. 8.—Thirty years ago, Henry Beggs better known as "Uncle," fashioned his coffin, in which he often demonstrated to friends how perfectly it fitted, by lying down "Uncle" Henry died recently and was buried in his self-made coffin. Had he lived a few days longer he would have been 100.

BANNER VANISHES.
ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 8.—A large Roosevelt-Garner banner which caused considerable comment because it bore an eagle resembling the republican party insignia rather than the star of the democrats, has disappeared from its downtown place. It was explained, however, that the wind had torn it down and that it was being mended.

TO OCCUPY MOUNTAIN.
PINKHAM NOTCH, N. H., Sept. 8.—Three scientists will occupy the summit of mile-high Mt. Washington this winter, for the first time since 1887. Weather, aurora and

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

ERIC THE RED

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by Harland Frazer... inspired by that marauding Viking chieftain whose vandalism branded him as the "Terror of the North" (975-1000 A. D.).

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in
