Primary Vote Is Largest Ever Cast in Eastland County

CANVASS OF COMMITTEE SHOWS 6,700

The largest vote ever cast in a democratic primary election in Eastland county was canvassed at Eastland yesterday afternoon by the democratic executive committee of the county. The canvass showed a total vote in excess of 6,700. Mrs. May Harrison, running for re-election as county treasurer, received the highest vote cast for any candidate in the primary last Saturday, with a total of 6,701.

The canvass showed that Eastland county voters favored Tom F. Hunter, of Wichita Falls, over all other candidates for governor. He received a plurality of 2,622 ballots. Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson stood second in the esteem of the voters with 2,050 and Gov. Sterling third with 1,772. There was a scattering of 185 votes in this race.

Allred was favored over Clem Colburn for attorney general with 3,758 votes to his opponent's 2,219. Thompson Favored. In the race for R. R. commissioner (4-year term) E. O. Thompson took the lead with 2,813 votes. W. Gregory Hatcher was second with 1,808. Lee Satterwhite led in the race for the six-year term on the R. R. commission with 2,459 votes. C. V. Terrell, incumbent, was second with 2,160.

Lawrence Westbrook led in the voting for congressman, place one; Joe Bailey, Jr., led in the voting for place two, with Cyclone Davis a close second; and Sterling P. Strong in the voting for place three, with Joe Burkett only a handful of ballots behind.

ODOR FROM GAS HARMLESS SAYS COMPANY

The peculiar odor which some residents of Cisco have recently noticed on their premises though perhaps a little unpleasant, is harmless and actually performs a valuable service. This odor, which faintly resembles the odor of manufactured gas, comes from a product called "Calodoran" which the Community Natural Gas company is introducing into the gas distribution and service lines in order to safeguard consumers against using gas through leakage.

The odorant is introduced into the gas by means of an automatic operating device at the city gate, but evaporates instantly as it encounters the gas in the mains. It does not affect the volume nor the quality of the gas and has no harmful effects on consumers. It will not corrode meters or piping. Because of the fact that the odorant is very penetrating it may be noticeable in some homes which actually do not have leaks in meters or piping. When the housewives turn on the oven, there may be a slight odor which escapes into the kitchen before the flames reaches all points on the oven burners.

Although the odor may be slightly inconvenient to consumers for a short time, it will be of real benefit in the long run. If there is a leak in the long run, it is a leak in gas, it can be easily detected with "Calodoran" and the consumer will save money by having it fixed now. "If you should detect this odor about your premises call the Community Natural Gas Co., and they will make a free inspection and an adjustment of all appliances" said H. L. Dyer, local manager.

Second Injections To Be given Tuesday
Second injections of diphtheria anti-toxin will be administered to children who have received the first injection Tuesday morning in the offices of the various Cisco physicians. Mrs. P. R. Warwick, of West Ward P.-T. A. again announced Saturday.

The University of Texas, at Austin, has launched a new building program aggregating $3,500,000 of which an outline is shown above. Among the nine buildings included in the project is the 27-story, $1,000,000 library which will set a new fashion in college architecture in the southwest. This airview of the campus shows where the new structures will go: 1, Engineering building; 2, men's dormitory; 3, geology building; 4, physics building; 5, library; 6, auditorium; 7, union building; 8, architecture building; 9, home economics building. The construction program will be financed from revenues from the giant oil wells on university land in the Pecos county of west Texas. University holdings there, where 100,000-barrel wells are common, amount to $40,000,000.

WASHINGTON IS CLEARED OF BONUSERS

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The bonus army was routed today and federal troops were ordered withdrawn from the capital. War department officials announced "normal conditions" had been restored in the capital. This ended the bonus war on the Washington front. It began at midday Thursday. It cost one life. Upwards of 60 were injured. It brought federal troops to the capital.

General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the army, ordered the troops back to their barracks. Troops entered the city at 3 p. m. Thursday. They are leaving after 46 hours of intermittent scattered excitement and disorder. The bonus army is moving north. It is occupying Johnston, Pa. The last of the stragglers were rounded up in night police raids on parks where bonusers, vagrants and jobless lay sleeping under the stars. Inspector O. T. Davis, who rounded up 502 veterans and others during the night said the drive would be continued until all parks and other public property had been cleared of loiterers.

BONUSERS MEET OPPOSITION.
JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 30.—A call for aid was sent to Commander Walter W. Waters of the bonus expeditionary force today by his chief of staff, Doak E. Carter, when opposition to the army's approach here was expressed. Carter said he was sending their airplane to Washington for Waters. "A lot of people here seem to be opposed to the veterans coming here," he said. The number reaching here by noon was placed at 1,000.

600 WITH PRISON RECORDS.
WASHINGTON, July 30.—The justice department announced today it had discovered that 600 members of the bonus army held under arrest here have previous prison records, including John T. Pace, leader of the so-called "left wing" element.

SAYS EFFECT OF ORDER LIMITED.
FORT WORTH, July 3.—The temporary order issued by Judge J. D. Moore, of the 98th district court, prohibiting attempts to keep the state from enforcing the 7,000-pound lead limit law trucks will not be effective outside that district, Sen. Frank Rawlings said here today. "Some district judge cannot enjoin another district judge," Rawlings, legal representative for several trucking concerns seeking injunctions against the law, said.

300 CARS IN OIL COMPANY BOOSTER TRIP

The biggest parade that ever left Cisco took a booster trip swung out on highway 23 yesterday morning shortly after 9 o'clock as the Humble booster trippers, augmented by numerous cars representing other businesses and organizations in this city, started its oil belt circling trip. At the start of the trip more than 200 cars were in line, decorated and bearing banners boosting the Humble company and Cisco. By the time the caravan had reached Breckenridge where it paused 30 minutes for lunch, the number had grown to above 300. More than 600 persons took part.

The trip started with a parade led by the Lobo band down D avenue. The Cisco fire department was escort. As the line halted to await the signal to move toward Moran and Albany over highway 23 the leading car stood at the intersection of D avenue and the Texas and Pacific right of way at Third street while a solid line of bannered automobiles stretched southward to Fourteenth street and beyond.

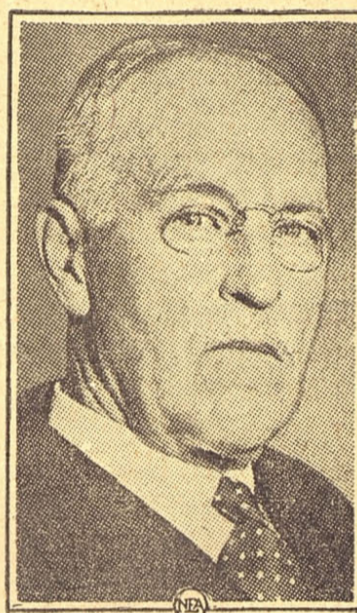

20-Minute Pause
At each city visited a 20-minute pause was made. The Lobo band paraded. Local police and fire departments formed escorts of honor and a brief program was held. Moran Albany Breckenridge, Caddo, Ranger and Eastland were visited. One of the most interesting exhibits was the airplane fuselage of "Dumpy" Pan local pilot and Humble employe which had been mounted upon a large truck and stripped of its wings. The parade returned to Cisco at 4 p. m. and disbanded on D avenue. The Humble employes and their guests then went to the country club where a chicken barbecue was served followed by a dance.

Very Successful
It was one of the most successful in fact the most successful booster programs that has ever been carried out by Cisco institutions. The Humble employes had spent several weeks in preparation and the results were more than gratifying. There was hardly a single firm or organization in Cisco which was not represented and the effectiveness of the program was apparent in the enthusiasm which it generated not only in Cisco but throughout the oil belt. Humble employes located in each of the towns visited had made preparations to give the trippers a great welcome and in their preparations they received the eager cooperation of the townspeople themselves.

Lone Star Company Employes Picnic
Employes of the Lone Star Gas company from several towns enjoyed a picnic at Lake Cisco Friday evening, with H. L. Dyer, Cisco manager of the Community Natural Gas company, acting as host. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baird, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hogan and children, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bearman, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. LaRoque, all of Cisco; Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hipp, of Strawn; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. McMillan and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Allen and son, of Albany; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coffman and children, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Williams, Milton Williams, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gage and children, Mr. and Mrs. F. McBee and son, Mrs. Clarence Keen and Ira Pittman, all of Eastland; Mr. and Mrs. George Nitschke and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cooper, of Baird.

Ford Celebrates 69th Birthday
DETROIT, Mich., July 30.—Henry Ford celebrated his 69th birthday today. No elaborate ceremonies were planned. An early riser, he was to take his customary two-mile walk, eat a light breakfast and then "circulate around the shop," as he terms the massive Ford plant on the River Rouge marshes. Tonight the Ford family will gather for dinner around a table on which a birthday cake, baked by Mrs. Ford, will have a conspicuous place.

F. E. WILLIAMSON

Prompt action on the Interstate Commerce Commission's plan for consolidation of 295 railroads into four giant systems appeared certain as the presidents of the four major carriers involved prepared to confer in New York. Simultaneously, Interstate Commerce Commission reports sent to a Senate committee, showed that the presidents of the four systems in the merger plan (pictured above) have taken salary cuts. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, now receives $121,500 a year; Bernet, of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company, $90,000; Willard, of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, $100,000, and Williamson, of the New York Central Railroad Company, $80,000.

MRS. McCRARY BURIED HERE FRIDAY AT 10

Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. Friday at the East Side Baptist church for Mrs. Vicy McCrary, 77, who died here Thursday. Services were conducted by the Rev. Newton Baldere, assisted by the Rev. Luther Pryor, pastor of the Nazarene church. Interment was in Oakwood cemetery with arrangements in charge of Green Funeral home. Mrs. McCrary was born September 8, 1854. She was 77 years, 10 months and 20 days of age at death. She was a native of Georgia, but had lived in this section of Texas for the past 40 years. The family home is at 705 East 10th street. Eight children survive.

Methodist Stewards Will Eat Melons

Stewards of the First Methodist church will meet Tuesday evening instead of Monday evening, it was announced today. Prior to the meeting they will enjoy a watermelon feed. Quarterly conference will be held following the stewards meeting.

ADJOURNED COURT
DEADWOOD, S. D., July 30.—Lack of funds has caused adjournment of Federal Court here, although the court has two weeks work to do. The interrupted term is the closing session of the regular spring hearings. Calls for jurors have been cancelled and the remaining cases will be carried over.

MAGNOLIA CO. EMPLOYES IN SALES PICNIC

Several hundred employes and guests of the Magnolia company gathered at Lake Cisco last night for a sales promotion picnic in connection with the intra-company contest to increase business. The visitors were here from nine or more counties in this section forming a portion of the Fort Worth district of which W. O. Gatton is manager. Mr. Gatton, brother of Art Gatton, local wholesale agent, headed a delegation of Fort Worth visitors to the picnic. W. H. LaRoque welcomed the group to Cisco, dwelling upon the advantage of Lake Cisco as a site for get-together meetings of the kind. W. O. Gatton responded.

After the chicken barbecue in the Lions-Rotary park, sales "pep" talks were made by various Magnolia employes, including Rigidon Edwards, of Cisco, Mr. Whitehurst and Mr. Wolford. "When that court decided that the candidates could not be required to pay the cost of receiving and tabulating the returns of said election, I consider it the will of the county executive committee that the question be not submitted and was governed in the matter accordingly," J. J. Butts, of the resolutions committee, announced withdrawal of the resolution with the statement that the facts as reported to the com-

Candidates Report Campaign Costs
AUSTIN, July 30.—Campaign expenses of the leading three candidates for governor in the July 23rd primary as reported to the secretary of state today were: Mrs. Ferguson, $4,614 with $1,216 contributions; Hunter, $4,362, with no contributions; Sterling, $3,441 with $1,450 contributions.

SHARP FIGHT ENGAGES DEMO CONVENTION

The Eastland county democratic convention at Eastland yesterday afternoon ended in a traditional burst of fireworks when a resolution endorsing the candidacy of Mrs. Miriam E. Ferguson was finally defeated by a parliamentary expedient of weighting it down with "tricker" endorsements.

Opponents of the resolution engineered its defeat after proponents had successfully dominated an apparent majority by forcing a vote by precincts, most of which operated under the unit rule. The Eastland bloc of 14 votes was a substantial nucleus ruled by the element supporting the resolution.

The resolution was introduced by Frank Judkins after all other business had been carried through with startling unanimity. It was seconded by Earl Conner. W. J. Armstrong's, Cisco, motion to table was forced to a roll-call vote of precincts and lost, 22 to 17, with seven precincts represented.

Oratorical Fireworks.
L. R. Pearson set off a storm of impassioned oratory when he declared that in view of the importance of Highway No. 1 "cut-off" and what had been done by the highway commission under the Sterling administration to build this project, such a resolution would be a "slap in the face" of Chairman Ely of the commission. Mr. Judkins took the floor with the assertion that "if Gov. Sterling was a type of candidate who would use public money to buy votes he was not entitled to support. Other speakers argued that it was out of the province of the convention to "elect a governor" but that its function was to elect delegates to a state convention to formulate the principles of the party.

With the resolution once more before the convention Chairman Millburn Moody sustained Judge Eugene Langford, on a point of order and ruled the resolution out on the grounds that it was not admissible as a pre-primary action. Judkins immediately appealed from the ruling and a vote by precincts overrode the chair.

Amended Resolution.
Whereupon Armstrong moved an amendment to the resolution endorsing the candidacy of Judge William Pierson for the state supreme court in opposition to Judge J. E. "Eckard" Eastland. With this amendment the Ferguson resolution went down to final defeat. The only other contest took place over a resolution censuring County Chairman Ed T. Cox for failure to supply precinct chairman with ballots for a referendum on prohibition ordered by the state executive committee. This resolution, however, was withdrawn by the resolutions committee when Cox's defense that he had acted under the instructions of the county executive committee was sustained by some of the executive committee men who were present.

Cox read a prepared statement which said in part as follows: "On June 29th, 1932, when the county executive committee met for the purpose of arranging the ticket and other matters in connection with the recent primary, the question was raised as to whether the submission question would be voted on in that election. "It was stated in the committee that the expense of receiving and tabulating the vote on the matter would have to be borne by the local candidates. It was suggested that since the matter was being tried in the courts of Dallas county on this question that the local committee be governed by the decision of that court. "When that court decided that the candidates could not be required to pay the cost of receiving and tabulating the returns of said election, I consider it the will of the county executive committee that the question be not submitted and was governed in the matter accordingly."

ANOTHER WILL ROGERS IN HIGH PLACE.

Will Rogers, the sage of Claremore, Okla., and Beverly Hills and the world, has a running mate in the picture. William Cornelius Rogers, unknown schoolteacher and never before a candidate for high office on the democratic primary ballot, is democratic nominee for congressman-at-large in his native state of Oklahoma. He won by a huge majority, and he defeated Mrs. Mabel Bassett, who has held many offices in Oklahoma and is admittedly one of the ablest and best qualified women who has ever been in the public service in that commonwealth where Alfalfa William is the ruler. Gov. Murray backed the school teacher. Mrs. Bassett has been the chief political thorn in his side. Now she is down and out and William Cornelius of the Rogers tribe is the victor. His election in November is conceded even by the republican politicians of the state. His name was on the official ballot as Will Rogers. He ran like a deer in the first primary. He ran like a scared wolf in the second and now he is topnotcher in the politics of Oklahoma. Fame and fortune and a job came to him in less than 50 days after the first filing of his candidacy as plain Will Rogers but he never mentioned Claremore or Beverly Hills. A wise hombre, this Oklahoma school teacher who put the feminine leader of the Oklahoma democrats under the political sod.

SIX LEADING AMERICANS FOR ECONOMY.

Six of the foremost men of America have accepted leadership of the National Economy league to war on waste in government which has been declared with the formal sanction of President Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt. The membership of the national advisory council is Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith, Elihu Root, Newton D. Baker, Gen. John J. Pershing, and Admiral S. Sims. This league has been formed to drive the fight against alleged excessive payments to veterans and mounting government costs. It is to be a nation-wide and non-partisan organization. It is designed to give persistent attention to keeping down governmental expenditures. Well, a nation-wide league is needed, but it is to be remembered that the great burden of taxation is local and not federal.

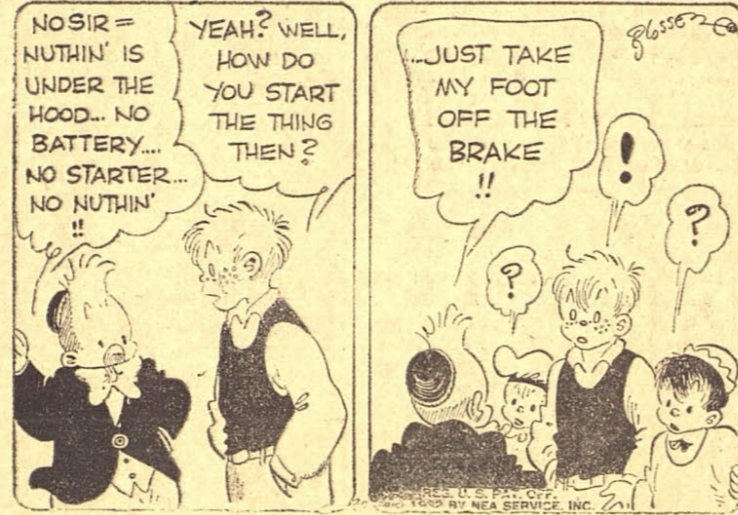

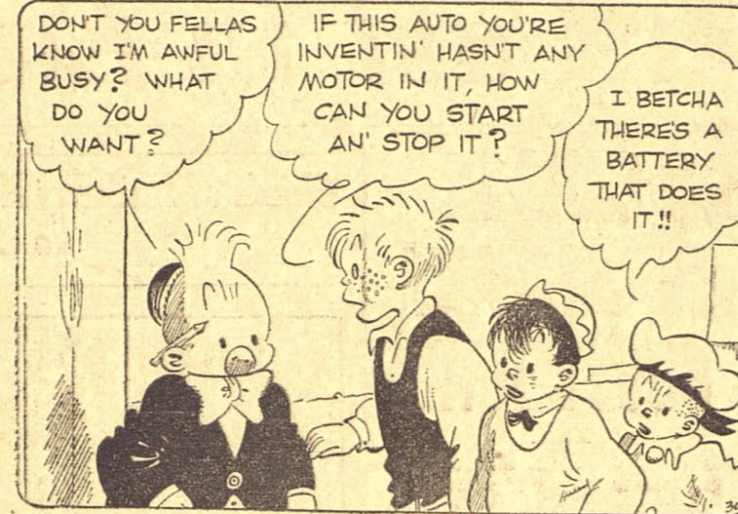

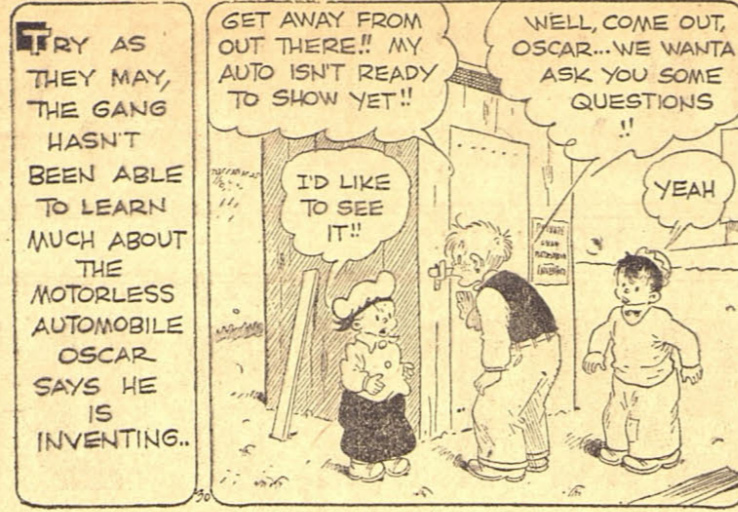

County governments have run wild in expenditures and high costs; city governments played the same game and now the taxpayers are groaning beneath the burdens. In Texas the county load and the city load together are responsible for the back-breaking conditions of the taxpayers. Really, the people are to blame. Whenever called upon, they voted county bond issues, city bond issues and independent district bond issues. There is always a payday. There is a day of reckoning. There is always a day when the musicians who have furnished the marching and dancing tunes must be given their back salaries or they go on strike. These are facts. Ninety per cent of the state revenue in Texas goes for the support of highways and public education. It is true that Texas has been lifted out of the mud. It is true that the cattle trails have been brushed aside and modern hard highways have taken their place. It is likewise true that the gasoline buyers and the cigarette smokers of Texas have contributed most of the millions of the cost of highways and education in recent years.

There are eight teachers' colleges in Texas, and the over-production of teachers, or so-called teachers, is almost as great as the over-production of the fleecy staple in the cottonfields of the commonwealth. Hard facts may be ugly facts but hard facts should be told the electorate instead of the flimsy bunk and outright falsehoods which have been hurled in the teeth of voters from every stump under Texas skies.

AMBASSADOR ANDY A STAND PATTY.

Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon is not going to resign. He loves the atmospheric conditions largely social which surround the Court of St. James, or to be exact, minister plenipotentiary from this republic to Great Britain. He is enjoying his brief visit on this side of the Atlantic. He was given the once-over by press representatives. He refused to discuss debts or reparations or anything official. He declined to discuss the coming political campaign. He handed out this Mellonish statement: "I will do anything I can but I did not come home for that purpose." Uncle Andy is a many-sided man. He is an American billionaire. He is a topnotcher among the financiers of the world. He knows the political game to a fare-you-well. He has been able to pull the invisible wires which have held the proletarian Vares on the trunk of the elephant and the aristocrats of finance and commerce and politics on the upper deck of the elephant, regardless of political upheavals or wet or dry rows the nation over. He is one great personage who always knows when to talk and how to say it. He is not a personage who is afflicted with that great human handicap known as "the sloppy tongue and the drooling mouth." There are republicans who pose as leaders and likewise many democrats who pose as leaders who are given to the sloppy tongue habit as well as the drooling mouth habit. Nature made it so. Did Uncle Andy name Pomerene? A fine political play.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

The most striking thing about the Humble's parade yesterday was its magnitude. Talk about people! They're still here.

The line of cars stretched bumper to bumper from the T. and P. crossing on D avenue to Fourteenth street and beyond. One could say there were 500 cars in the line and few would question the statement. Actually there were 200 or more, containing at least 600 people.

People are like money. The less they circulate the less there seems of them. A demonstration like that of yesterday is valuable for the enthusiasm it generates; if for nothing else. And enthusiasm means activity and activity means more prosperity. Let's circulate.

The art of fishing, if I may call it an art, is that to which the profession of the ministry is most often likened. Consequently it is logical that a preacher will go fishing for recreation. Fishing has its moments. The Rev. O. O. Odom, who pastors the First Methodist congregation, came very near losing a portion of his religion over one of them yesterday morning.

"I almost had to call the brethren together to pray for me," he explained.

The previous afternoon Mr. Odom had dragged an enormous catfish out of Lake Cisco. Joe Wilson, the champion fisherman of Cisco, granted approval, endured the pastor's gloating jibes for a few moments and then retaliated by dragging a three-pound bass out of the water. Things stood even until Saturday morning.

The two of them had been on the bank only a few minutes when Odom pulled out a nice bass. Excitedly he took it off the hook, laid it beside him while he rebaited his line. The fish flopped, escaped his wild snatch and regained its natural element. Startled and disappointed, the pastor threw his hook into the water again. Luck was with him. He pulled out a catfish. The same thing happened.

Odom didn't risk his religion any further. He rolled up his tackle and went home.

Reminds me of a brother pastor of the Methodist sky-pilot, the Rev. E. S. James, who ministers to the spiritual needs of the Baptists. James, who likes water mighty well doesn't fish. Recreationally he yearns for the dry uplands and the golf course. He also has his moments. He probably says less on the course than anyone, and when he concentrates undisturbed he can turn in a fair score.

When he is off and the balls are falling into the rough, he glums through three holes, zippers up his bag and patiently goes home to await a more propitious time.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

F. A. Weston advertising director of the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Sun-Telegraph, says:

"At a meeting of out-of-town merchants in Pittsburgh the other day I heard one of them say, 'I am going to improve the service in my store during this depression, and I'm going to pay for the improvement by taking the necessary money out of my newspaper advertising — we spend too much, anyway.'"

"If that merchant's newspaper advertising is doing his business so little good that he can make such a statement then he should stop all of his advertising, and at once. Let him spend that money to improve his store, his merchandise, his buyers, his salespeople. Then let his next step be to hire a smart advertising manager — one who really knows how to use the practically limitless force of newspaper advertising, which that merchant very evidently does not know.

"When once that advertising manager begins to turn on the power, the future of the business will be limited only by the size of the trading area.

"Newspaper advertising is just as much a part of retailing as buying the goods, and the merchant who doesn't know how to use the vital force — or to employ someone who does know — is only half a merchant."

Odorized Natural Gas

... To Help You Find Gas Leaks!

In order to supplement the careful inspection of gas piping in Cisco which is now in progress, we are treating your gas supply with an odorizing product called "CALODORANT."

This imparts a distinct odor. It does not change the quality of the gas in any way, but merely enables our customers to detect any leaks that may exist in the piping or appliances on their premises.

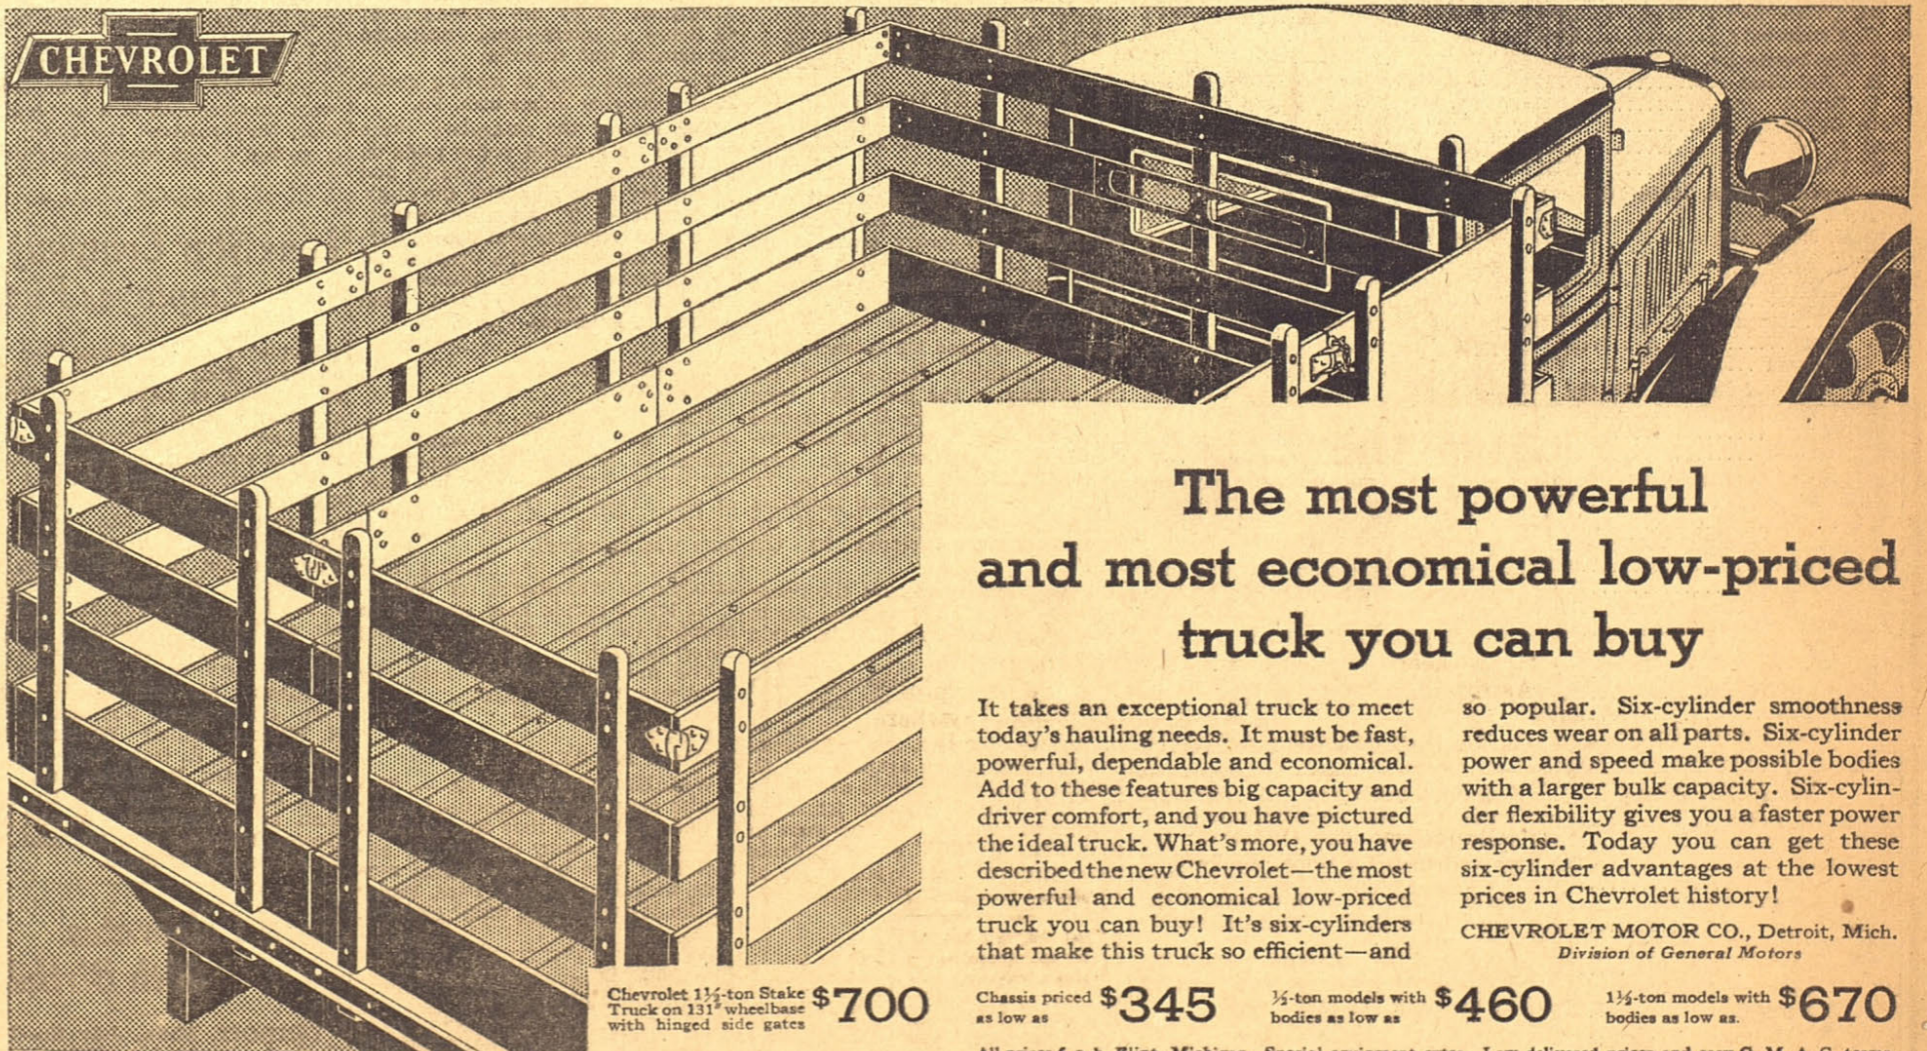

Leaks in the piping will cause gas bills to be higher than they should be and "Odorized Gas" will assist in locating any leaks.

Odorized Natural Gas is another effort on the part of Community Natural Gas Company to assist our customers in greater economy in the use of our product.

Dray Law Resolutions.

The convention adopted two other resolutions following out the actions of Cisco precinct primary conventions earlier in the week.

One of them directed that delegates to the state convention use their best efforts to secure passage of a resolution by the state convention urging submission to the voters of the state the question of the repeal of the prohibition amendment to the state constitution, and the other instructed delegates to use their best efforts to secure passage by the state convention of a resolution asking the legislature to amend article 667 of the state penal code so as to permit of the manufacture, transportation and sale of alcoholic beverages up to three and one-half per cent of volume.

A resolution endorsing the national candidates of the party and commending the Chicago convention for its work was likewise adopted.

The convention was opened by Ed T. Cox and Milburn McCarty, Eastman, L. R. Pearson, Ranger, was chosen temporary secretary.

Their elections were made permanent.

Upon motion the chair named J. J. Butts, Cisco, Frank Killoun, Eastland, and Mrs. R. Q. Lee, Cisco as the resolutions committee, and Will St. John, Cisco, M. H. Hagaman, Ranger, and L. H. McCrea as a committee to name delegates to the state and district conventions.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONA MORAN who supports her mother, invalid father, little sister KITTY, and her do-well brother, BUD, is determined to marry for wealth and position.

Steve's brother announces that her childhood sweetheart, STEVE SACARELLI, grandson of the ice and coal dealer, has returned home. Steve disappeared three years earlier and it was rumored he was in prison though Mona never believed this.

She meets him on her way to work one morning. Steve is handsome, well dressed and well-mannered. Mona does not wish to renew the friendship but accepts his invitation to dinner. Later in the day she meets BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent.

The truth about Steve is that he had been involved with gangsters three years earlier but broke with them and has gone straight since. With no thought of impropriety but wanting Mona to look her prettiest, he buys her a gown and wears she finds them in her room that night and finally decides to wear them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI

STEVE had pressed the bell three times, paused and then twice more. His old signal. He sat in the lean, low-swinging car, gloved fingers drumming on its wheel and hummed softly.

There was a dim light in the hall. The door opened, closed softly and swiftly. Steve could see the narrowing crack of light vanish above someone's head. Only Mona's hair could gleam with such a halo! He must learn to call her Mona now.

As she came into view, the glow of the street light touching her gently, he almost gasped. This childhood pal of his was beautiful!

Mona, moving toward him in that silent street, might have been a young queen. "Get out of sight and ear shot," she whispered when Steve was about to swing out of his seat to assist her. She climbed swiftly in beside him.

"Now drive like the fiend you are and let's beat the Caseys! I'm planning to tell you what I think of a young man who sends articles of attire to his young women friends."

The car glided forward but Steve's eyes were on Mona. He approved of her. Three years before she would have said "gentleman" and "lady friends."

"Well, you liked them, didn't you?" Steve asked. "You looked like a million dollars as you came through that door. 'Steve, I say to myself, 'is it Gloria Swanson? No. It's only that homely Moran girl!'"

Mona laughed in spite of herself. "I feel like a million," she acknowledged. "Maybe I looked it, but the door didn't, Steve. Nothing like it. And I belong behind that door. I'm only playing Cinderella tonight because we'll be because I thought it would please you."

"It does please me," returned Steve sincerely. "So it happened," Mona went on precisely as though he had not spoken, "that Mother had sent my one and only evening gown to Alice. She married Jim Halliday, you know, and lives up in the Dyckman section. I wore these because I had had, but they'll go back tomorrow."

"Do you like the dress?" Mona asked.

"After you've worn them?" Steve asked, a twinkle in his eye, yet with mock severity.

MONA smiled serenely. "You should see the prayer books and theater programs we've pulled out of 'unworn' returns at Pilgrim's," she averred.

Steve did not reply immediately. Then he laid a gloved hand over her own and spoke softly.

"Listen, Hon. Remember the Christmases when all I gave you was a candy box with holly on it or some 10 cent store perfume? Well, those days are over and I'm making up for it. Today (he could not quite keep pride out of his voice) those duds you're wearing don't mean any more to me than the pound of candy did in other days."

"But it's the spirit of the thing, the spirit behind the box of candy, Steve. It isn't the cost."

"Okay. Then it's the spirit behind that handful of clothes and not their value. So that's that!" It was not that at all but Mona decided on silence. She'd take the clothes back tomorrow and with Lottie's help see that they were received.

"I knew you'd feel—well, just right—in any rig Pilgrim picked for you. We almost had every dress in the place on the model before I found just the right one!"

"You went yourself, Steve? Did you see Lottie?"

But Lottie had not been in evidence. Probably she was resting up for tonight's date. Frequently Lottie strained her long connection with Pilgrim's to what Mona thought must be near the breaking point.

They were moving through the park now, driving slowly, and Mona enjoyed it. Too often she had walked (for lack of carfare), through that same park. It was luxury indeed to ride thus in costly furs, beside a handsome young man in such a car!

SUDDENLY he put his arm about her—they were in a deserted section of the park—and drew her to him. He kissed her, kissed her again and again.

"When I think of you working so hard, and that brother of yours not helping—" Steve's voice was trembling. "Lord, Min, I've been making money! Let me stand behind you if you need me. It must be tough going, Min, lots of times. Most of the time!"

Mona thought of the rent, the insurance, her father's small fee at the hospital, the quarters Bud borrowed and the bills handed every Saturday to Ma who stretched them somehow to last through the week. She thought of days when she had gone without lunch, pretending she had gained two pounds the week before and was fasting to keep slim.

Then she thought of the ermine cloak she was wearing. She thought of what Mrs. Callahan said to Mrs. Callahan if she caught sight of it. And she thought of Steve's kisses.

She could not admit—even to herself—that she had wanted Steve to kiss her. No, she had merely endured those caresses. Steve's sincerity was unmistakable. It would have been cheap to take offense. He was her childhood friend and, as in the old days he had brought her apples or oranges, now he was sharing his good fortune with her. Still it wasn't to be thought that this could lead to anything more serious. She wouldn't spoil his evening by telling him that now, though.

DEXTEROUSLY Steve swung the car between a pile of cobble stones and a rope hung with red lights. Then Broadway, gloomy in the automobile section but bright and garish in the lower forties.

He said, "I am going to take you to the Halcyon Club."

Mona knew the Halcyon Club. It had opened recently and was at the moment one of New York's most advertised supper clubs.

They left the car in the shadows of the side street into which Steve had guided it and walked the few yards to the supper club door. The doorman recognized Steve and answered his greeting effusively, springing to hold the swinging doors apart.

Mona and Steve walked down thickly carpeted steps into the tiny foyer lined with mirrors. Then through more swinging doors toward the insinuating murmurs of the orchestra.

Their table was near the space cleared for dancing. Mona tossed the priceless cloak from her shoulders and emerged like a sea nymph in her sea green frock.

"Like it?" asked Mona boldly as Steve's eyes registered the answer to her query. She went on, "Little thing I picked up this afternoon. Picked up in my room where it had no business—to-be!"

She emphasized the last four words with little stabs of her finger in the air. She was flirting with him! It was fate enough here where he could not kiss her again.

Steve's eyes, however, turned away and searched the room speculatively. "I'm expecting my partner," he explained. Steve stopped short.

"Great Guns, look who's here!" he exclaimed.

Presbyterian Men Enjoy Melon Social

Men of the First Presbyterian church, believing that men work together best when they play together, Wednesday evening held a watermelon social on the lawn of the church.

No special program was arranged. However, there was an appeal made by the pastor, Dr. J. Stewart Pearce, and several others for a closer cooperation by the men in the general work of the church and the Sabbath school.

After a feast on ice-cold watermelon, an interesting half hour was spent with those present telling where they were born and when, what their names were there, and why they left, how long they had been in Texas and in Cisco. The social was sponsored by the Men's Bible class.

Those present were J. A. Lash, Joe Clements, F. D. Pierce, W. R. Simmons, Geo. E. Fee, A. E. Jamison, G. B. Kelly, A. H. Hecox, H. McNeely, H. A. Bible, E. P. Crawford, J. H. GRUDGE GAME IN PROSPECT AT BALL PARK

This afternoon at 3:30 the Cisco Red Sox will meet the Simms Oilers in the second game of a three game series. In the first game the Sox came out on the long end of a 4-3 score. Mose Simms, Abilene manager blamed the loss on a run of bad luck and the umpire. Since then he has strengthened his team and through Frexy Anderson, Abilene sportswriter he has been making various and sundry cracks at the Cisco club and Cisco in general. He has announced that he will personally umpire the game to be played in Abilene in August.

Neither manager has announced a starting line-up. It is definitely known that Simms will bring the strongest team available in Abilene, and Manager Perry has intimated that some new faces may be seen in the Sox line-up. So far this season the Sox have failed to click as a hitting organization and the fielding has been nothing to brag about. If Perry succeeds in adding hitting strength to his outfield the Red Sox will prove dangerous to any club.

Preparing for Recovery

A visitor in a small town, annoyed by constant rain, said impatiently to an old settler, "Will the rain ever stop?"

"It always has," was the reply

Now, many people are asking, "Will good times ever return again?" We might reply, with equal truth, "They always have."

The seeds of prosperity are sown in days of depression. Business waste is being largely eliminated, making profitable operation possible on a considerably smaller volume than in times past.

Individuals are recognizing as never before the value of wise financial management. Many are building savings reserves in this bank in spite of reduced income.

Recovery will find this bank ready, as in the past, to play an important constructive part in every legitimate project, within the limits of sound banking.

Our first responsibility is always the safeguarding of the interests of our customers. To be trusted we must continue trustworthily.

Beyond this, in our years of service, it has always been our aim to be an active force for progress in the commercial and financial life of this community.

Supremely confident of the future, we invite forward looking business firms and individuals to advance with this progressive bank.
