Construction of Lake Cisco Water Treating Plant Appears Reality

Construction of the long delayed water treating plant at Lake Cisco assumed tangible shape when the city commission Tuesday night employed J. G. Reagan, former city engineer, to assemble material men here to discuss with the commission the matter of supplying the necessary pipe and other material that will have to be bought outside of Cisco. If plans agreed upon can be perfected, and all seemed to believe they could be, Mr. Reagan will go ahead with the construction of a plant as an employee of the city at his stipulated salary of $150 per month.

Appearing before the commission Mr. Reagan proposed to build the plant by contract, stating that its cost complete, according to plans drawn for the purpose some months ago, would be about $23,750. But this could be reduced nearly half by eliminating the expensive machinery called for in the specifications, which could be added later. However, the contract plan was abandoned when it was seen that the city could not enter into a contract that necessitated the issuance of city warrants, which would be necessary if contracted through a financing company or financed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The entire membership agreed with Commissioner Elliott when he stated that drastic cuts could be made in the city budget to take care of the immediate cost the city would have to meet, and that the building of the plant would mean more to relieve the unemployment situation than any project that could be undertaken, as well as to stimulate business of the town. Commissioner Burnett favored going to work as soon as possible, but thought the commission should revise the budget and see just what funds could be made available from this source to augment the R. F. C. fund, before taking final action.

The matter assumed concrete form when Commissioner Clements moved that the city employ Engineer Reagan, at a salary of $150 per month, and instruct him to have the material men to come and meet with the commission as early as possible.

Remains of J. Lee Cearley Interred In Anson Cemetery

Accompanied by many of the Cisco friends of deceased, all that was mortal of Judge J. Lee Cearley, were conveyed to Anson for burial Wednesday, following the funeral services at the Cisco Church of Christ at 10:30 Wednesday morning. The services were conducted by the pastor, Reverend Moore, who paid a beautiful tribute to the character and life of deceased, as the casket reposed in front of the altar, surrounded by rare and beautiful floral offerings, mute emblems of esteem from those who knew and loved him while in life. The Green Funeral Home having charge of the burial arrangements.

Judge Cearley passed away just before the hour of 6 o'clock Tuesday morning from the effects of a malady with which he had been afflicted for nearly a year, and which confined him to his bed for his last 28 days.

Coming to Cisco from Anson, in Jones county, where he had formerly lived, and served as county attorney, Judge Cearley began the practice of law here in 1919, and soon won an enviable reputation as one of the best criminal lawyers in West-Central Texas. His practice included some of the most noted criminal cases in this section, and his ability as an attorney in the criminal courts was recognized by barister and layman alike. Though confining his practice principally to the criminal courts, yet his ability as a civil attorney was recognized, and in all of his practice he adhered strictly to the ethics of the profession, and never broke a promise or violated an agreement with an opposing attorney. His word was his bond, and as one attorney said, "I never asked a written agreement from Lee Cearley."

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Cearley, of Haskell, who removed to Texas from their home

Bullington Polled 393 Votes in West Cisco Voting Booth

While Cisco remained in the Democratic column in the landslide that swept the country for Roosevelt Tuesday, and that a majority of the votes polled were cast for the Democratic nominee for governor, yet the results showed that 423 scratched the name of Mrs. Ferguson and voted for Bullington. Mrs. Ferguson's majority being only 127 in the two city precincts. In the West Cisco box she had a plurality of only 15 votes. But practically the entire vote of both boxes were for Roosevelt, and only 86 straight Republican votes were cast in West Cisco box.

The election passed without incident, but the long ballot kept the clerks and election officials busy till 8 o'clock Wednesday morning before they completed the count.

West Cisco box results were as follows:

Roosevelt, 730; Hoover, 86; Thomas, (Socialist) 8.

Governor: Ferguson, 408; Bullington, 393; Edwards (Socialist) 21; Armstrong, 1.

The result in East Cisco box were: Roosevelt, 261; Hoover, 34; Thomas, 2.

Governor: Ferguson, 201; Bullington, 89; Armstrong, 1.

The only county box reported in Cisco was that of Dothan, whose vote, as reported by a Dothan citizen, (from memory) was as follows:

Roosevelt, 49; Hoover, 2; Thomas, 6.

Governor: Ferguson, 44; Bullington, 3.

Roosevelt's majority of the electoral college, it is predicted, will be the largest ever cast in a presidential election. A Democratic house and senate is believed elected.

All amendments carried in the Cisco boxes.

in Oxford, Miss., where Judge Cearley was born Sept. 20, 1880, whom he visited only a few weeks before he was compelled to retire to his home and from active life, which he never resumed. Returning from his visit to his parents he told the writer: "Both of my parents are getting old, and I know they will not be here long, so I thought it best to visit them before they were called away, and I enjoyed my visit to the fullest."

Besides his parents, the survivors are his widow and six children, these being Wray Cearley, J. Lee Cearley, Jr., Spoons Cearley, Maxine and Marjorie Cearley, of Cisco, and Mrs. Barton Abbott, of Robstown. Other survivors are four brothers and three sisters.

W. Va. Gas 7 Cents, Texas Gas Six Cents

Washington, Oct. 25.—West Virginia reaps a rich financial harvest from Ohio natural gas users, according to a report issued here today by the United States bureau of mines.

The state's bill for West Virginia gas is $61,000,000 annually, the report stated, and the value of the gas increases about three times between the fields and the ultimate consumer.

Ohio was listed as first among the states in quantity of natural gas used domestically and commercially. The bureau report set the value of the West Virginia gas at the wells at 18.9 cents per 1,000 feet and the average Ohio consumer price at 63.1 cents.

West Virginia and Louisiana are leading gas exporters of the nation. The report set value of Ohio produced gas at 17.1 cents at the wells and 56.9 cents delivered.

Gas use declined last year, it was stated, but the price of gas remained almost constant.

We would like for Texas owners of gas wells to read the above report from the United States bureau of mines, then compare their own receipts with those of the West Virginia well owners. Isn't it enough to make you want to get your gun? Parties familiar with the merchandising of gas in West Virginia tells the Citizen that the pipe line companies are begging for gas at 17 to 19 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, while Texas well owners are being robbed by the most conscienceless monopoly that ever cursed the state, who pay well owners from 2 to 6 cents for what takings they care to report.

But this is not all. Those people who pay 17.1 cents for gas at the wells pipe it through expensive pipe lines over mountainous country, and sell it for 59.9 to the consumer. Mr. Chester May says they are not making their "legal" profit at 67.5 cents when piped through lines laid over practically level country, for a distance of only two miles, while the West Virginia gas is piped hundreds, and in some instances, over 1,000 miles, and delivered at 59.1 cents per 1000. But we suppose the West Virginia pipe line companies do not have "flower gardens" like the Lone Star has, which is asking the consumer to pay 10 per cent net on their investment in "flower gardens" and shrubbery. It matters little to the people of Tex-

Preliminary Steps Advanced to Submit Charter Changes

After several months' delay the city commission Tuesday night made the preliminary move to submit the amendments to the city charter, petitioned for by the people of Cisco. With the mayor bringing the matter to the attention of the commission by placing before the body the referendum and recall petition, stating the same had been checked and found to comply with the law in such cases made and provided, Mr. Clements' motion was adopted that the petition be accepted and turned over to the city attorney with instructions to prepare the necessary notices for publication preparatory to calling the election. The three other petitions, which had been previously filed with the commission, were included in the action taken, and all will be submitted to be voted upon in one election.

This indicates that there will be no further hitch in the matter of allowing the people to express their wishes about the adoption or rejection of the amendments by not submitting them to a vote of the people.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And Moses said unto the people, fear ye not, stand still, and see the salvation of the Lord, which he will shew to you today; for the Egyptians whom ye have seen today, ye shall see them no more for ever. And the Lord said unto Moses . . . Lift up thy rod and stretch out thine hand over the sea, and divide it: and the children of Israel shall go on dry ground through the midst of the sea.—Ex. 14:13-16.

All's right with the world
God is in his heaven;
—Robert Browning

But the faith of Moses went deeper than that. He not only believed that "God was in his heaven," but that he was also on earth, and it was this thought that brought quietness to his heart. Moses' faith was rewarded; for God said to him: "Speak unto the children of Israel, that they may go forward." In a marvelous way God opened a passage through what seemed insurmountable difficulties. God never gives a command without imparting the power to obey.—C. W. Ken.

THE DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE

Results of the election Tuesday in which the country is again returning to the Democratic party, with the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner, means that the country is rid of the blight of Hooverism, which has been an eating cancer in the industrial fabric of the country for the past four years, is repudiated by the voters forever. Indications are that the Democrats have not only elected the president and vice president, but both houses of congress will be controlled by the Democrats.

With this political revolution the country is now looking to the Democratic party for that relief legislation that will, in time, restore some measure of prosperity to the nation. At least it gives the people new hope. The country was promised no changes under Hooverism, and therefore could expect only a repetition of his present administration, as in his campaign he promised the country nothing, and his party speakers promised no deviation from past practices, as every campaign speech was a defense of the Hoover administration.

But the work ahead for the Democrats will prove no bed of roses. Taking over the country in the most demoralized condition in history, to bring order out of chaos will be no child's play. The new administration is confronted with the most stupendous job in our history, and a failure will mean the defeat of the party in power in 1936. The Democrats have work to do, and the people want results, not excuses. The country has been fed up on that for the past decade. Industrial America must be reconstructed on more economic levels, and legislation must be enacted in the interest of the people to avert another revolution, and next time it will not be a political revolution, but one that may be fraught with bloodshed. The fatal day is not eliminated—only postponed. The election just gives the powers that be another chance to effect those reforms that the people have a right to expect, and will demand.

But the election of Roosevelt and Garner at least defers a more drastic step that might have resulted with the re-election of Hoover, for the country was restless, and had endured almost to the limit. Whether Democrats are successful or not in bringing about needed reforms, the people are patient, and will hope, will await results without violence. This is indicated by the political upheavals that have swept the Democrats into power, for the results of the election can be classed nothing short of a political upheaval. With Pennsylvania and other rock-ribbed Republican states going Democratic means only a political revolution, and a protest against Hooverism just as significant as the turn-over of Texas to the Republicans meant a renunciation of Al Smith in 1928. Only this year religious intolerance played no part, and prohibition was only lightly stressed in the campaign. But this also might have played a part, as the Democratic platform was open and above board on all political issues, and the candidates stood 100 per cent on the platform. But there was little choice to be made had the prohibition question been paramount, for both parties repudiated the Eighteenth amendment, only the Republicans attempted to straddle the issue.

But the political upheaval is significant, and unless the Democrats correctly read the handwriting on the wall of public conscience, and give the people relief, it need not surprise anyone should there be another revolution four years hence that would either result in the country turning to the Socialist party for relief, or resort to acts of violence that would make the French commune a mere holiday.

And the remarkable come-back of the Fergusons has no comparison in American politics. The victory of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson over Orville Bullington and the combined opposition of his Republican cohorts, special interests and disgruntled erstwhile Democrats, is little short of miraculous. But Ferguson's victory means the loss to the Democratic party of some very fine and brainy men, who, in a misjudged moment, abandoned the party that made them, the party of which they had been the beneficiaries, and men who had stood high in the councils of the organization.

But Mrs. Ferguson's victory was magnificent and wonderful, with her majority over the combined opposition of more than 200,000 means that the people are aroused and are not willing that the state should be turned over to corporate greed for another two years. The Citizen believes that the Fergusons are wise enough to see the portend of the magnificent endorsement given them by the people, and will use every effort in their power to give the people of Texas the wisest and most economical administration the state has ever known. The Citizen predicts that they have realized past mistakes and will avoid their repetition; their experience in the past has better equipped them for serving the people which will be a valuable asset in their efforts to administer the affairs of Texas more efficiently and economically than perhaps was possible under any other Texan at this time.

But as bad as Ferguson has been painted by his political enemies he is due credit for more constructive legislation in behalf of the masses than any other governor of Texas since the administration of Jim Hogg. Among these measures the third and fourth tenant law and common school aid stands out most prominent, but more measures of less magnitude can be mentioned whereby the masses were the beneficiaries.

THE TRAIL OF THE SERPENT

Every business enterprise should take a pride in the service it renders its customers. It should not ask for the patronage of the public unless it is willing to give in turn, merchandise and service commensurate with the price paid by the patron.

The chain octopuses—there being a few exceptions—do not seem to look at it in this light. It seems to be their policy to let "the public be damned," if their objective can be attained—the sapping of every cash dollar from the community in which they operate, leaving the credit customer for the home-town merchant to carry until such customer can rake up enough money to pay.

Let us illustrate our point in the action of the local "string" newspaper:

The News has been claiming a circulation of 3,500, with 1,500 in Cisco. It is an exaggerated estimate to say that there are one thousand occupied homes in Cisco. It is a matter of record that there are 575 families on the rural routes out of Cisco. Now, the News states that on Fridays and Sundays that paper will be placed "in every home in Cisco free," that advertisers in these issues "may be better served." Evidently an attempt to boost its readers to a par with the legitimate readers of the Citizen.

The question in our mind is, if there is not more than 1,500 homes in Cisco and on the routes, and if the News is not now going into every one of these homes, what happens to the extra copies that have been printed each day? How many additional circulation is given on the "free days?"

The fact is, the News has resorted to this camouflage in an attempt to "freeze out" the Citizen, the people's paper, owned by Cisco people, and whose increasing advertising patronage, and reader-popularity is encroaching upon the revenues of the "great metropolitan newspaper." Just another example of the "string" attitude of wanting "the whole hog or none."

We do not hesitate to say that a circulation of 1,500 will cover Cisco's trade territory, and that we do not claim to cover this territory "as the morning dew covers the grass," but do assert that our circulation will equal that of the News in Cisco's trade territory. And we will let you be the judge as to the popularity and civic interests of the two publications.

Patronizing the advertising columns of the Citizen means the building of a home enterprise, and giving to Cisco a representative news journal with the interests of Cisco and community first, last and all the time.

MRS. NEAL TURNER HOME GETS NEW PAINT COAT

New paint helps the appearance of any building, and one of the latest to be thus adorned is the apartment home of Mrs. Neal Turner, 402 West Broadway. A dead white with black trimmings is the color scheme, if white and black may so be designated as colorings for this description. Anyway, whether white and black are colors, is immaterial. The fact is the home has just been repainted, and the new coat of paint has improved its appearance. Joe Wilson started this foolishness, and others may help the appearance of their homes by following his example, which Mrs. Turner evidently thinks is worth while.

Loss of Life Was Narrowly Averted

The destruction of the home of Ervin Pippin, located two miles north of Dothan, on Calf Branch, narrowly missed being a holocaust of serious magnitude, became known in Cisco not until several days after its occurrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Pippin are a young married couple, the parents of an infant, and had as their overnight guests their brother, Clarence Pippin and wife, also recently wedded, and the two ladies and babe were still in bed when the fire occurred. However, all were rescued from the burning home in time to save their lives but clad only in their night clothes. The home was burned early Tuesday morning, Nov. 1, another conflagration credited to the deadly coal oil can.

The two brothers had left their beds to start a fire before their wives arose, but the fire was a little slow in getting started, so to help the fuel to ignite Ervin procured an oil can, intending to accelerate the blaze with its contents, despite the warning of Clarence. The fluid was ignited when the blaze was started, and caused the oil in the can to explode. With some presence of mind Ervin threw the can out of doors, but failed to see the automobile standing in front of the house, and the burning oil soon had a blaze underneath the car. This was extinguished with some difficulty, but gave the blaze in the house time to ignite the building. Then their attention was directed to saving the women and babe. Mrs. Clarence Pippin grabbed the baby and brought it safely from the burning house, clad only in her night gown, while Mrs. Ervin Pippin also escaped with only a bed quilt covering her nocturnal apparel. The house burned rapidly, with nothing of the household effects saved except some trunks and contents.

Mr. Jack Pippin, father of the two young men, gave the Citizen the information but not until last week's issue of the Citizen was published. He stated that he did not know of the disaster until some days after it occurred, but said that nothing was saved except the contents in the trunks dragged from the burning building by Clarence Pippin.

That the two women and the babe escaped without injury was almost a miracle, as all three were in bed and the rapidity of the spread of the flames precluded the possibility of the women saving a shred of their wearing apparel.

W. C. Westerfeldt Wins Laurels As Football Mentor

W. C. "Westy" Westerfeldt, who is none other than Cisco's own Wilbur Westerfeldt, former Lobo star and son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Westerfeldt, of this city, is winning his spurs as coach on the gridiron. Wilbur is coach for the Fredericksburg school, and has built up an unbeaten team, so far, and seems to have a clear field for the championship of his Fredericksburg Hillbillies in the district 12-B contests.

The most serious threat to the Hillbillies were the Llano Mountaineers, but this threat has already been met and defeated, and reports say nothing but overconfidence can prevent "Westy" from carrying his team to a successful finish when the final whistle is sounded at the district game.

Wilbur Westerfeldt not only was a star in Cisco track and field athletics, but maintained his reputation, only on a larger scale, when he starred for Texas University as one of the greatest quartermilers ever developed in Texas. His team mate, on the Texas track team, Frank Guffin, coached the Mountaineers in the game when these two Texas buddies met at the head of opposing teams, and although the Hillbillies had dealt the Mountaineers a severe drubbing last year, gridiron dopesters predicted a hard battle between these two teams when they met this season. But the Hillbillies' winning over their most formidable contenders virtually gives "Westy's" team a clear track for the championship, according to the sportswriter on the Austin Statesman, having previously won over all contenders, including the strong Mason Mavericks.

The success of this Cisco boy in making a football coach is highly gratifying to his many friends in Cisco, who see a most brilliant future for him on the gridiron in Texas.

Rising Star Will Be Host To Pecan Growers Nov. 18-19

BY J. C. PATTERSON

The three-in-one event of the West Texas Pecan Association at Rising Star November 18 and 19 makes this the premier pecan activity of the year. Combining the two days of program with its barbecue and banquet with the Pecan Show and the selection of material for the Texas Pecan Exhibit at the Worlds Fair in Chicago in 1933 should draw the attention of pecan men from all over this section.

Registration begins at 11 a. m. Friday morning in the exhibit building. Probably the outstanding feature of the mornings discussions will be the talk by W. J. Millican, of Bend, on "Personal Opinions of Some Pecan Growers," followed by a rejoinder by his running mate, Frank Moore. These two cowboys, who have turned pecan growers, are the hit of every pecan meeting they attend. Dad Burkett, of the state department of agriculture, is on the program as is the commissioner of agriculture, J. E. McDonald. H. G. Lucas president of the National Pecan Marketing Association will have something to say about the distribution of pecans.

Rosborough Judge. Jimmie Rosborough, of the A. & M. extension service, who judges the pecan show, tells how it is done, while Miss Sallie Hill, a district demonstration agent, will discuss pecans in the diet, Dr. Smith, of the U. S. Pecan Laboratory at Austin, is slated for some useful information on varieties to plant for maximum polonization. Ever have a lesson on identification of budwood of the various varieties? That will be among the many other subjects to be exhausted. Two days of program chuck full of useful pecan information.

Small premiums are offered on quart samples of named Western and Eastern varieties, with the more common varieties of each group listed separately. Seedlings are classed as the best commercial nut, the best seller, the heaviest nut, and the best quality meat. It is hoped that new varieties worthy of propagation will be discovered in this native class. Exhibitors of natives are requested to bring or send two pounds of each sample in order that one quart may be sent to the A & M College for compete testing.

Worlds Fair Exhibit The third feature of the event concerns the selection of an exhibit for the Chicago Worlds Fair. The Texas Pecan association, working jointly with the Governors

CHRISIAN SCIENCE CHURCH SERVICES

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Nov. 13, including First Church, Eastland.

Among the pasages to be read from the Bible is the following from I Corinthians 15: "Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption. . . . For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality."

The folowing citation together with orders from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy will also be read: "Mortals will disappear, and immortals, or the children of God, will appear as the only and eternal verities of man . . . Mortality is finally swallowed up in immortality. Sin, sickness, and death must disappear to give place to the facts which belong to immortal man. Learn this, O mortal, and earnestly seek the spiritual status of man, which is outside of all material selfhood" (p. 476).

Cisco Livestock Coop. Association Pooling Shipment

Saturday members of the Cisco Livestock Cooperative Association met at the chamber of commerce for the purpose of pooling their cattle and hogs for a shipment to the Fort Worth market. The offerings were 15 head shy of a car load, and the association postponed the shipment for another week to gather in the additional 15 head to complete the car. Those having cattle or hogs to ship should attend the postponed meeting next Saturday at the chamber of commerce, when it is expected the additional number will be pledged to go in this car the following Tuesday.

Those agreeing to ship, and the number of cattle and hogs, are O. B. Threet, 1 cow; H. H. Warner, 3 cows; Z. H. Been, 10 hogs; G. C. Stroebel, 1 cow; R. R. Bradshaw, 1 cow and 4 calves; A. Reich, 5 cows and 5 calves.

Be at the meeting tomorrow if you have anything you want to put in this shipment.

A local humorist handed the Citizen the following campaign doggerel that may create a kick in the minds of those who want another four years of Hooverism: "Hoover blew the whistle, Mellon rang the bell, Wall Street gave the signal, And the country went to H—"

Work Weary "NERVES"

Do they make you Restless, Cranky, Tired, Sleepless, Dyspeptic, Head-achy? Do they spoil your pleasure and interfere with your work?

Tens of thousands have found a way to get relief from over-worked nerves—a way so simple, so pleasant, so low in cost, that we are constantly receiving letters that say, "If I had only found Effervescent Nervine Tablets sooner." Simon Brandt writes:

"I was very nervous from over-work. I couldn't sleep well, appetite was poor, and I felt weak for a long time."

"Used Dr. Miles' Nervine and now feel fifteen years younger and I am working the same as I did before—fourteen to fifteen hours daily."

"Sorry I did not learn about this wonderful medicine sooner as I had tried everything I could hear of, without results, until Dr. Miles' Nervine put me back on my feet."

When you are nervous, try this—put a Dr. Miles' Effervescent Nervine Tablet into a glass of water. Watch it bubble up like sparkling spring water—drink it—enjoy the feeling of calm and relaxation that follows.

In Dr. Miles' Effervescent Nervine Tablets a splendid formula for soothing overwrought nerves is combined with bicarbonate of soda and citric acid which tend to correct hyper-acidity—a frequent cause of nervousness.

A Study....
...in Contrasts

The above scene is a graphic representation of the homes of two housewives—just before guests arrive for the evening meal. The woman at the left has been working in a hot kitchen all afternoon . . . nothing has gone off well . . . she is nervous, tired, irritable . . . and looks it. But the modern home-manager at the right is cool, fresh, lovely and unburied. She has been away from home all afternoon, yet is ready to take a delicious, savory and attractive meal from her oven. Her meal will be an unqualified success . . . the success of the other housewife's dinner-party is extremely doubtful.

The difference is that the modern home-manager, at the right, has an Electric Range. . . . The other housewife still cooks by old-fashioned methods!

You, too, should profit by the many advantages and superiorities of modern Electric Cookery. With one of the new General Electric Hotpoint Ranges in your kitchen you'll save money, work, time and food. You'll serve better, more healthful and more attractive meals. You'll be happy, cheerful and energetic. Take advantage of special prices and terms . . . TODAY! See one of our salesmen NOW. He will be glad to tell you the interesting and valuable story of Electric Cookery. There's no obligation, of course.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

Half Brother of Arch Bint Killed in Highway Crash

A most deplorable accident occurred last Friday afternoon, on the Bankhead Highway, about five miles west of Cisco, which resulted in the death of Arvell Moudy, 32, and painful injury of J. W. Adams, both resident farmers of the Dothan community.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the chapel of the Green Funeral Home, conducted by Rev. O. O. Odom, pastor of the First Methodist Church, who was assisted by Rev. H. D. Blair, county missionary of the Baptist denomination. Burial was in Oakwood cemetery. Mr. Maudy was a half brother of Mr. Arch Bint, Democratic nominee for county commissioner, of the Cisco precinct.

Young Adams, about 19 years of age, was driving the car when it overturned, and who was rather painfully cut and bruised, was picked up by Mr. and Mrs. Beardon, of Baird, who were passing the scene of the accident, assisted by a county health nurse, accompanying the Beardons. Adams was brought to Cisco and carried to the Graham Sanitarium where he was treated for minor injuries.

First reports reaching here stated that the death car was side-swiped by a car containing four negroes, who failed to stop. Officers who investigated the accident discounted this report, as there were no marks on the car showing it had been struck. Also, officers said that the negroes admitted passing the car about the time of the accident, but denied hitting the car. Others said the negroes' car showed no marks.

Supporting this story another party, trailing the death car, said that the car was not hit, but left the highway and striking the soft ground where the highway workers had removed the grass from the shoulders of the highway and left it in piles, caused the car to overturn with fatal results. Others who knew the young men, and the car in which they were riding, said the car was old, with steering loose, and that Adams, in attempting to make room for the passing cars, left the pavement, causing the left wheels to sink into the soft earth. A heavy rain was falling at the time of the accident.

Moudy is said to have died from loss of blood, and probably internal injuries, an artery of his leg having been severed.

Both men were unmarried, and were well known in Cisco, as they were members of old families of the Dothan community. Besides Mr. Bint, Maudy is survived by his mother, Mrs. B. F. Moudy, and a brother, Jack Moudy, of Dothan, and a sister, Mrs. White, living in Long Beach, Cal.

38 Students From Eastland County At John Tarleton

Eastland county is second only to Eath in student representation at John Tarleton Agricultural College, having 38 from this county on the rolls of that educational institution.

The initial enrollment of 911 this year is the largest in the history of the institution. The student body comes from 120 Texas counties, four other states, and two foreign countries, Denmark and Mexico.

GAS--

as whether these beauty spots exist or not. Certainly the poor devil with his family starving while he toils at $1 per day to get the money to pay for this 6 cent fuel at the rate of 62.5 cents per 1000 is not interested in Lone Star flower gardens.

The United States bureau of mines report says "West Virginia's annual gas bill is $61,000,000, and the value of the gas increased three times between the fields and the ultimate consumer." It is only natural to presume that the increase in Texas is just as great as it is in West Virginia. In fact a local oil man stated a few days ago that this increase is just as great in the Cisco fields. He stated that "gas leaving the well is registered under high pressure, and delivered under very low pressure, and gas in transit expands about in the same proportion as that mentioned in the report of the bureau of mines. Can you believe otherwise than the gas pirates are robbing at both ends—undervaluing the gas at the wells, plus expansion, and overvaluing it to consumers. The penitentiaries in the several states in the Union are crowded with felons whose crimes are but misdemeanors in comparison to such piratical practices.

Corrupt Legislators

While Texans are being thus exploited our beneficent legislatures in the past have consistently legislated in the interest of such unconvicted pirates, and refuse to repeal the statute "providing that in regulating utility rates cities and towns may not make such regulation that will not permit a net earning on the capital invested of less than 10 per cent." Ye gods! Our own elected officials serving the cause of greed while their constituents are being exploited by an aggregation of swivel chair pirates whose crimes, under the sanction of law, would put to shame the blackest deeds ever charged against Jesse James and his band of outlaws. Why, they were mere pikers in comparison.

Men got horses and guns and chased and shot down highwaymen when they held up a bank. These legal bandits are feted and honored as our most highly respected citizens.

The legal banditry now being perpetrated upon our people is bad enough, but there is still suspended over our heads the menace of still higher prices before the winter is over. The traffic, already higher than the people can pay, is not sufficient to gratify the greed of these legal pirates, who, like Oliver Twist, are constantly crying for more. And they will get it if the hearing now being conducted in Fort Worth does not give the people relief.

If the Lone Star and its polluted spawn would give the people some assurance that further exploiting would not be attempted, that they are satisfied with the present rate, there is a probability that our people would try to pay the present prices, though at least one-third higher than it should be, but they are holding the threat of a two-third increase over us.

Just a few days ago the mayor of Cisco notified the West Texas and Community utilities that early tax payments would be appreciated. The West Texas replied with a check. The Community, believing the city in financial straits, seeing an opportunity to wave the big stick of the hijackers, sent one of its chief hinders to force the increased rate proposed several months ago, and fasten a rate of $1.60 per 1000 upon a defenseless and impoverished people. They were told their check could be dispensed with.

Drain of Lake to Save Katy Tracks Has Been Rumored

A rumor has gained circulation that the water commissioner contemplates draining lake Cisco to low water mark in the event that future rains may endanger the Katy tracks, at the west end of the lake. Recent rains have raised the lake above previously contemplated high water levels, and there is every indication that the water will go over the Katy tracks should future precipitation raise the lake to a new level.

This rumor is not verified, and there may be nothing to it, we hope there is not, and no such action has been contemplated, for there is no authority, vested in even the city commission to waste the waters of Lake Cisco to save the property of the Katy road or any other institution.

Katy Had Its Day In Court

The fact is the Katy was put on notice when Lake Cisco was built that the waters might encroach upon its right of way, and the road has had its day in court, and should the waters of the lake endanger its road bed, the railroad can protect itself from the empounded waters, or build its track around the headwaters of the lake. Certainly the water commissioner, nor the entire commission has no authority to waste the waters that have been empounded by the big dam that holds these waters for the use and benefit of the city. The water in Lake Cisco is property, belonging to the entire city, and every man, woman and child has a proprietary interest in those waters. Then, surely, no authority is vouchsafed to the water commissioner to open the flood gates to let the water out simply because the backwaters are, or may be, encroaching upon the Katy road.

As stated above, the rumor is not verified, and it may only be a rumor, but usually rumors are founded on something more substantial, and this is only intended to serve notice that a waste of empounded waters of Cisco's lake will not be tolerated. In no sense does the 'Citizen' desire to criticize the commission, but is just sounding a warning that any attempt to release the waters of Lake Cisco are not in the interest of the public welfare.

May Demand New Viaduct

The Citizen has no grievance against the Katy road. In fact the Katy has always been a friend of Cisco, worked in harmony with the city administration, and we hope the waters of the lake may never endanger the railroad property, yet we are all waiting that time when Lake Cisco flows over the spillway, and when it does the Katy tracks may have to be set further west.

But Cisco, too, has been on friendly terms with the Katy. The viaduct across the company's tracks on East Broadway has been condemned for the past several years, and a new bridge has been requested. The city has not pushed the building of a new viaduct, but should the Katy make undue demands of the city, a new viaduct may be urged and demanded. There exists ample reasons why a new viaduct should be built, however, the city is not insistent.

Marlene Dietrich in "Blonde Venus" at Palace On Sunday

A new mode in eyebrows has been introduced by Marlene Dietrich.

In "Blonde of the Follies," her latest picture, which comes to the Palace theatre Sunday and Monday, she again displays the slanting, oriental eyebrow makeup that she wore in "Shanghai Express." Though originally she intended it only for the one picture, her own liking for the innovation was seconded so heartily by movie fans that she decided to retain it.

In "Blonde Venus" she is cast as the wife of an ailing scientist, whose only chance for life is in a visit to an expert abroad. To raise the money, she goes to work in a night club. There she attracts the attention of a wealthy young politician. He falls in love with her, and provides her with the money necessary to send her husband abroad. Meanwhile, she discovers that she loves him, and when the husband, cured, returns and discovers the situation, she faces a decision which leads to a dramatic climax.

Gary Grant, considered one of the most promising of the new crop of young male players, plays the role of the lover, with Herbert Marshall well-known star of the dramatic stage, as the husband.

Together Fourth Time "Guilty as Hell," murder comedy, based on a successful Broadway play, coming to the Palace for the Saturday night show, marks the fourth time that Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen have been costarred. "What Price Glory?" was their first film together, with "The Cock Eyed World" and "Women of All Nations" following. Richard Arlen is also in this picture.

Music by Experts

Music for "The Phantom President," political comedy featuring George M. Cohan, Claudette Colbert and Jimmy Durante, which comes to the Palace Tuesday and Wednesday, was written by Richard Rogers and Lorenz Hart, noted composing team. They won their first success with tunes and lyrics for "The Connecticut Yankee," Broadway hit of a few seasons ago, and their most recent for Maurice Chevalier's "Love Me Tonight."

"The Night of June 13," a drama set in the suburb of a large eastern city, and featuring Clive Brook, Lila Lee, Charlie Ruggles, Gene Raymond, Frances Dee, Mary Boland and Andrienne Allen, at the Palace next Thursday and Friday.

The story deals with the manner in which the lives of four families, living in adjacent houses on a suburban street, are tangled together.

Brooks is in the role of a young husband whose wife, Miss Allen, is hysterically jealous of him. When she suspects him of an affair with Miss Lee, their next door neighbor, she commits suicide.
