RAIN BEGAN falling in Cisco early Tuesday and weather forecasts called for it to change into snow, with one to three inches forecast for the area. The temperature in downtown Cisco dropped from the 40's before 8 a.m. to the upper 30's by mid-morning as the cold front entered the area.

AN INTERESTING "Thought" published in the November edition of The Electric Times states as follows:

Inspector Is Due At City Airport

The beginning of applying base material in a runway paving program at the Cisco Municipal Airport was awaiting an inspection of dirt work that has been completed, City Manager R.J. Turpin reported Tuesday. TAC engineers had planned a visit Tuesday or Wednesday.

Christian Church Minister Resigns

The Rev. Donald R. McClenny, pastor of the First Christian Church in Cisco for more than two years, has resigned effective at the end of the year to return to college at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth.

Rev. McClenny, who submitted his resignation to the congregation recently, plans to enter Bright School of Divinity at TCU in January to complete work for a master of divinity degree. He holds a bachelor's degree from TCU.

The McClennys plan to move to Fort Worth early in January. He said he hopes to obtain part-time employment in the Fort Worth area during the two years he needs to complete his studies.

"We have found our ministry in Cisco very rewarding and we leave with heavy hearts," Rev. McClenny said. "We love Cisco and the people of this fine community."

Both Rev. and Mrs. McClenny are natives of Amarillo. He is an Air Force veteran and worked for the U.S. Department of Commerce before going into the full-time ministry.

The McClennys have three children — Koleen, a third grader; Mrs. Alton Hallmark, Moran; and Vince McClenny, who is with the U.S. Air Force at McCord Field, Tacoma, Wash.

Standlee McCracken, chairman of the church's official board, is expected to recommend members of a pulp committee to elect a successor to Rev. McClenny at the regular Dec. 14th meeting.

AARP Meets For Fifth Birthday Celebration Thurs.

The AARP Chapter 2447 of Cisco met at the Corral Room at 6 p.m. Thursday, November 20, for a fifth birthday celebration.

Gid Bowers, president, called the meeting to order. Bob Greer brought the invocation, followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag led by Sue Taylor.

The panel of new officers was voted on and they will be installed in the December meeting, following a Christmas dinner of turkey and dressing. The turkeys will be furnished by AARP and cooked by Mrs. Leslie Greer.

Lela Lloyd presented AARP tie tacs to Jack White, Bob Greer and retiring president, Gid Bowers.

Jack White was the first president of this local chapter which was organized in December 1975. He worked faithfully, recruiting members and serving in every way.

Bob Greer came to the chapter as a second president. He brought efficiency and a knowledge of parliamentary law which helped so much in steering the new chapter in the right way. Gid Bowers, the outgoing president, has served the past two years. He has helped the chapter to grow these past two years and was presented his tie tac even though he has one more meeting at which he will preside.

Velma Joyner, secretary, read the minutes of the first meeting at which this chapter was organized. Velma was one of the 121 charter members.

The American Association of Retired Persons was first organized in a small town in Arizona in 1960 but today it is nation wide with a membership of more than 11,000,000 members working to make life richer for the retired persons of America aged 55 and up. It is not necessary to be retired to be a member if anyone is 55 years old.

Cora Lee Thomas, the program chairperson, then introduced the Rev. and Mrs. Hallenbeck, the Rev. and Mrs. Larry Smith and daughter who brought a program of songs and a short devotion.

Bob Moore of the transport firm said the company is now being incorporated and plans call for expansion into oil well drilling about January 1, 1981. The company operates four trucks to haul oil, water and products and plans call for adding another truck.

Mr. Cagle has lived here since 1959. He also operates a livestock ranch and lives with his wife and daughter at their home on the Lake Road.

Nursing Center Volunteer Council Holds Meeting

The Volunteer Council of Cisco Nursing Center met the latter part of October under the chairmanship of Christine Reich.

Volunteer craft directors Betty and Stuart Cook reported on craft activities for the past two months. These involved the following: patchwork pillows, various types of egg carton flowers and Christmas decorations made from styrofoam. Mrs. Cook issued an appeal for donations of any length or shade of yarn, sequins, six-ounce orange juice cans, and coffee cans. These items may be left with Activity Director Mae Green at the Nursing Center.

Plans for the resident-family Thanksgiving meal were discussed. The meal established is noon, Thanksgiving Day, November 27. The families of all residents are invited to be guests of the nursing center for this meal.

Christmas open house hosted by the council will be held on December 6th and 7th from 2:30 until 4 each afternoon. The people of the community and especially families of the residents are asked to visit the nursing center at this time.

Any individual or group wishing to adopt a resident for special holiday remembrances and short informal visits is asked to contact Mae Green.

CJC Board Accepts Audit, Receives Rockwell Money

Regents of Cisco Junior College accepted the annual audit of the school books and records, acknowledged a $10,000 donation from the Rockwell Fund of Houston, named a new instructor for the law enforcement course and transacted other business at their monthly meeting last Monday night.

Condley and Company of Abilene conducted the audit and it was presented by a group from the firm headed by Charles Spicer, formerly of Cisco. The audit noted that CJC had a net gain in excess of $100,000 in all funds and that the school's assets exceeded liabilities by more than two-to-one.

Ladies Luncheon Club To Hold Christmas Gala

The Ladies Luncheon Club of the Lake Cisco Country Club will hold their annual Christmas gala on December 3, 1980, and all this festivities begin at 12 noon.

Entertainment will be furnished by the CJC Wrangler Belles who will present a preview of their Christmas concert.

The luncheon will be catered by Madrine Glenn. Reservations are $3.50 for members and $4.00 for non-members. Members may make their reservations by calling Rachel Smith 442-1259; Letha Schaal 442-2077 or Helen Heyser 442-1278. Non members may make reservations with Dr. Norman Wallace, CJC president, reported the receipt of a $10,000 check to the college "for high priority emergencies" from the Rockwell Fund. The Rockwell company is in the process of donating to CJC several acres of land in the vicinity of the Rockwell Bros. Lumber Co. Part of the land is a former railroad right-of-way. Dr. Wallace said the board expects to receive title to the land soon and that it will be cleared of debris before a decision is made on how to use it.

Ronnie White, former Eastland County Sheriff who is employed by Burgess Industries at the Cisco plant, was named to succeed Ken McCulloch as instructor of the popular CJC vocational school course in law enforcement. Mr. McCulloch has submitted a resignation at the end of the year to devote full time to his business interests here, Dr. Wallace reported.

Sale of several lots west of the Laguna Hotel to the First National Bank was completed. These lots plus two others owned by CJC will be hard-surfaced as a parking area and will be available to the Laguna after banking hours.

Regents approved plans for the college to hold an annual basketball tournament beginning Dec. 3-5, 1981, for area high school boys and girls teams. The event will be known as the CJC Classic Basketball Tournament.

A contract was awarded to Knight Carpet Company of Abilene to replace floor coverings damaged by water in the executive offices recently. The work will be done during the Christmas holidays. The Knight company submitted the best bid, Dr. Wallace said.

Regent L.D. Woolley was appointed by the board as their liaison representative to work with men from other junior colleges with the Texas Legislature committees during the coming year.

Locks had recently been changed and the identity of everyone having a key is known, according to Dennis.

Buy A Texas Grown Christmas Tree

Don't just buy any Christmas tree this year - buy a Texas grown Christmas tree.

"While the supply of Texas Christmas trees is still short, more and more of them are coming on the market," points out James W. Chandler of Overton, area forester with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Some 30,000 should be ready for market this year," he predicts.

"There are some 225 Christmas tree growers in Texas at present with about 1,350 acres in production. At 900 to 1,000 trees per acre, that's more than a million trees," he says.

Most trees are being grown in East Texas and are Virginia pines, notes Chandler. A few tree farms are also being established in central and western areas with the variety Pinus eldarica which is more tempered to drought conditions.

According to the forester, many trees were lost to drought this past summer, even where intensive management was carried out.

"Christmas tree plantations need plenty of care and management," emphasizes Chandler. "Trees usually reach market size in three to five years and may be sold wholesale to civic groups and other retail outlets or on a choose-and-cut basis."

Texas-grown Christmas trees offer a lot of advantages over those shipped in from the Great Lake States and the Pacific Northwest, says the forester. These advantages are mainly freshness, fragrance and novelty. Most trees shipped to Texas have to be cut about two months earlier while Texas trees can be cut only a short time before being offered for sale.

"Some 5 million Christmas trees are sold in Texas each year," says Chandler. "This represents more than $50 million in sales. As Texas production increases, Texas-grown trees will take a larger portion of these sales."

Reflector Trimming Can Save Lives in Darkness

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

As the youngsters settle into the school routine, the days are growing steadily shorter in all parts of the country. Soon, students on foot or on bikes will be going and coming to classes and school activities in semi-darkness. Visibility will be reduced and the danger of accidents will increase.

The National Safety Council and the American Automobile Association, both concerned with safety, are now recommending the use of reflector-trimming on outerwear.

While trimmed garments are now available in ready-to-wear, the reflector ribbons are available over the counter, so you can add your own safety trim to your youngsters' clothes.

For example, a reflective ribbon by C.M. Offray is offered in a wide range of fashion colors, in stripes and designs. By day, it is a bright and attractive ribbon trim. At night, thanks to a special reflective material applied to the ribbon it will reflect light brilliantly when automobile headlights are directed at it. It is packaged in one-yard lengths for about $1.50 — a small price to pay for your child's safety.

If you are sewing a jacket — perhaps a down jacket from one of the many kits — stitch the ribbon to the garment sections before joining sections or adding stuffing.

Be sure the ribbon is visible from all sides. Run it around the hem of the jacket, around the arms in a double strip and add an extra band across the back. The ribbon is easy to stitch on, with simple top-stitching down each side. For added decorative impact, the ribbon may be stitched on with a decorative machine stitch.

If you are adding trim to a readymade jacket, you may have to open some seams to be sure the ribbon is firmly stitched in place. Ribbon trim may also be glued to sneakers, run down the side seam of jeans, or stitched in form a design on a sweatshirt. If your youngster bikes with a knapsack, add some ribbon trim to the knapsack for extra visibility.

And if your pet goes out at night, tie some ribbon around his neck. It may save his life.

Bright reflectors

PROPER INSULATION...

Keeps in the warm air you've paid for.

The most effective defense against rising energy costs is proper insulation. Insulation keeps the heat in during the winter and out during the summer, so that both your heating and cooling costs will be less.

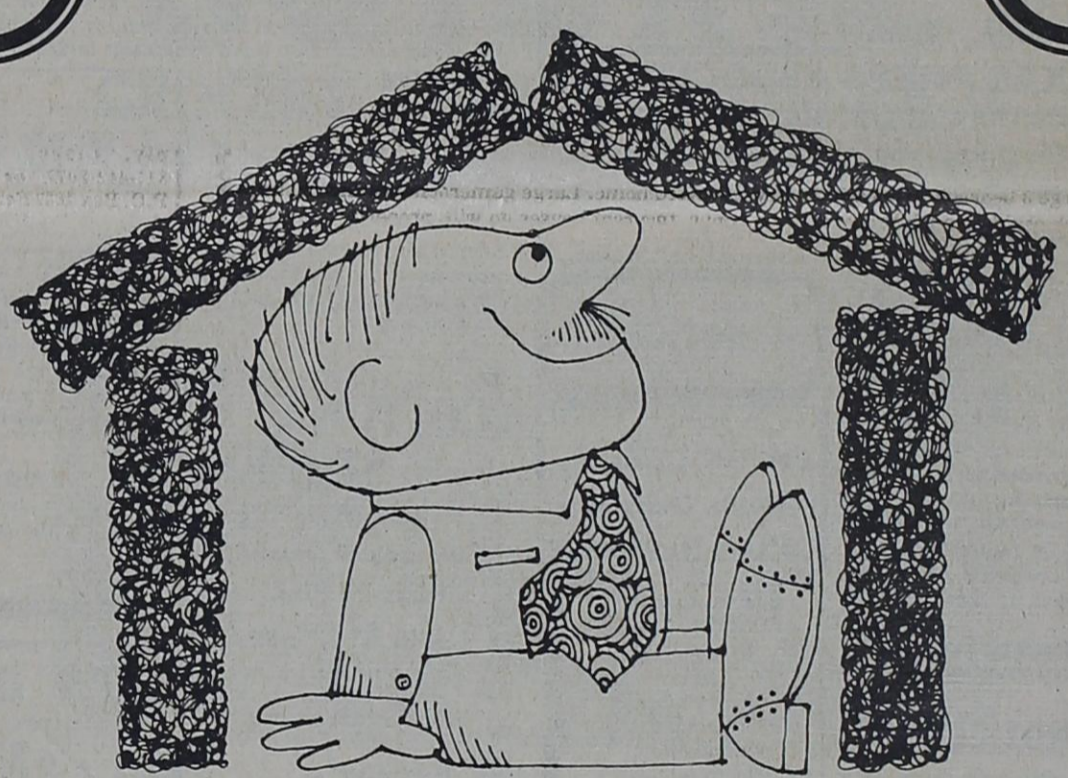

Insulation is measured in R-values and the higher the value, the more effective the insulation. R-values of R-30 in the ceilings and R-18 in the walls are now being recommended for new construction in this area.

WORD of GOD

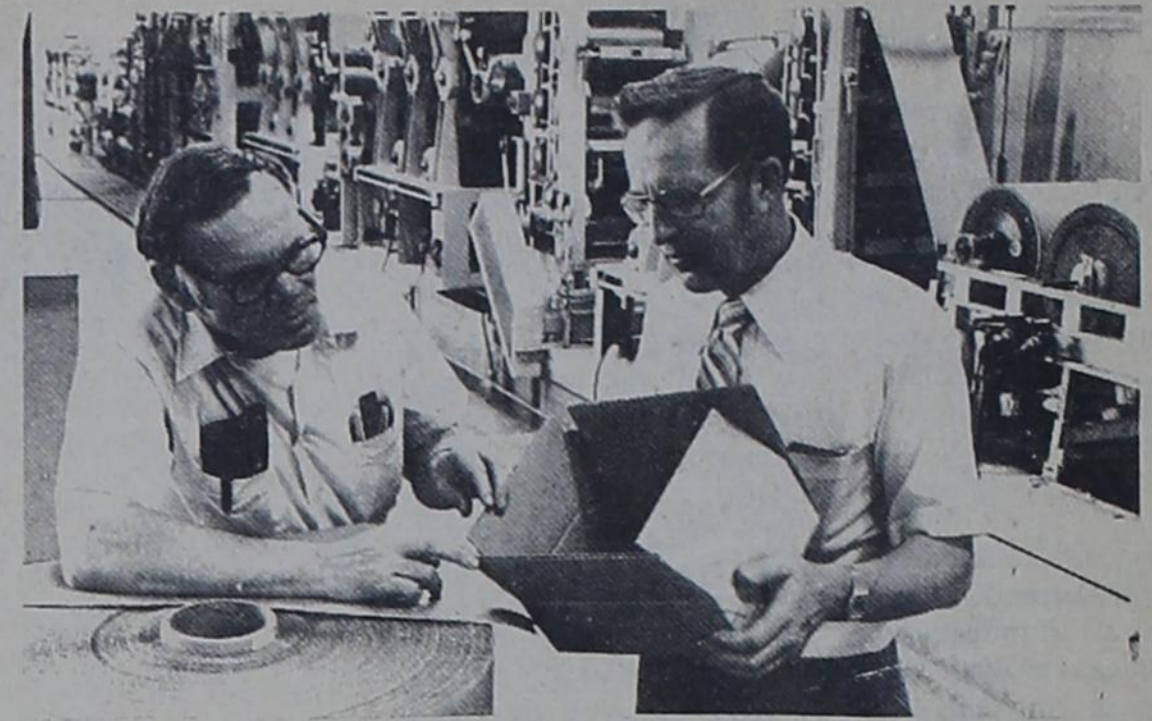

He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth.

When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest; and finding none, he saith, I will return unto my house whence I came out.

And when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished.

Then goeth he, and taketh to him seven other spirits more wicked than himself; and they enter in, and dwell there: and the last state of that man is worse than the first.

INTERNATIONAL COMPASSION

Thursday, November 27, 1980

by Viola Payne

Each year young people throughout the world travel to other countries offering the best opportunities in their professions.

Persons educated in the Health Care field have found a number of jobs in the United States, sometimes in hospitals such as the one in Eastland.

At the present time eleven Registered Nurses from the Philippine Islands—nine young women and two young men—are giving dedicated service in Eastland Memorial Hospital.

They are: Christina Briones, Victoria Montinola, Annette Abueva, Divinia Carroles, Oliver Vargas, Consuelo Fernandez, Marilu Baylon, Belen Mariano, Brenda Carrasco, Teresa Lazaro, and Francisco Felix.

They are attractive people, dark-eyed and varied in appearance, and generally smaller in size than the average American of northern European descent. They are from various parts of the Philippines—Manila, Quezon City, Victorias, Makati, and others. All are graduates of modern Universities, Colleges, and Teaching Hospitals in the Philippines, such as Far Eastern University, Arrellano University, and Saint Paul College of Nursing.

Some also had work experience in various hospitals before coming here. After their arrival in Eastland they all have passed Texas State Board Exams, qualifying them for work as Registered Nurses in Texas and many parts of the United States.

Mrs. Mary Lee, Director of Nurses at the 85 bed Eastland Hospital, works closely with the Filipino nurses and the 55 other nurses employed at the facility.

'We have eighteen Registered Nurses in all, so our Filipino Nurses are an important part of the group,' states Mrs. Lee. 'These young people are hard workers, loyal, and well trained. Patients in the hospital appreciate how courteous and respectful they are. And they all speak English—no problem there. Filipinos learn both Spanish and English in schools, plus some native dialects they use in their homes.'

'We are very pleased with the quality of care these people give,' agrees Mrs. Helga Tiner, Hospital Administrator. 'They are experienced with the very latest equipment and medical services.'

The recruitment of Filipino nurses for Eastland Memorial Hospital began in 1976, after unsuccessful attempts to hire enough Registered Nurses to staff the facility properly. The United States was short of nurses, with rural Texas having particular difficulty in competing with big city hospitals. The situation in Texas appeared to be due in part to a lack of Nurses' Training Schools.

'Applicants were being turned away from the schools, due to lack of facilities. Yet there was a shortage of eight or nine thousand nurses in Texas alone,' states Mrs. Tiner.

'The critical situation was recognized by the Government, which made it possible—through the Immigration Department—for foreign professional people to obtain temporary work Visas and enter the country.

After the decision was made to use Filipino nurses at Eastland Memorial Hospital, the local group contacted a Recruiting Service in New York. All applicants were screened, with only those considered most suitable chosen.

These came over on the HI (working) Visa, which is good only for one year—but renewable as long as the need for Registered Nurses is recognized.

Two of the nurses who came to Eastland with the first group have remained here. Two indicate they would like to stay here a 'Long, long time—but of course be buried back home.'

Those who have returned home or gone elsewhere to work have been replaced by new recruits. Only a few of these are married, and none have traveled outside their country until this experience. Many of them had contact with Americans, however, for a number of Americans are still living in the Philippines.

The Filipinos have come from a culture which is basically Spanish, yet a melting pot between the Orient and the West. Before Magellan 'discovered' the Philippines in the 1500's, and claimed the Islands for Spain, it was a place where travelers from China, Japan, and the Islands of the Pacific traded and mingled customs. After Spain claimed the territory, Spanish concepts, customs, and the Catholic Church became the dominant influences. The native people were baptised with Spanish names, and sometimes married Spanish people.

After the war with Spain, in 1898, America claimed this territory, and the Filipino people were generally friendly to their 'protectors'. Bataan and Corregedor sealed this friendship in blood, and then came the Japanese influence. After the Islands were recaptured the Philippines were given their independence in 1946 and they began to chart their own course in the world.

And what is life like in Eastland for the Nurses who have come so far? It consists of a great deal of work on various shifts at the hospital, with trips day and night to the modernistic complex. There are familiar corridors, with individual dramas in every room. For nursing has a certain universality, whether it be in Eastland or Manila.

Most nurses admit to times of homesickness—of longing for their families. Part of their life consists of sleeping at unusual hours in apartments, and trips to the grocery stores to look at many unfamiliar goods on the shelves. There they are amazed at the high cost of everything in America, but glad that one American dollar will exchange for eight Filipino Pesos back home.

There is not too much social contact with the rest of Eastland, and a little more difficulty in attending the Catholic Church more regularly than at home. But there are opportunities to travel to other parts of the country, sometimes to visit relatives who are working elsewhere.

One Nurse, when asked what was different about Eastland and her home, smiled and said:

'First of all, we want to thank the people of Eastland for being so kind to us for letting us come and work in this town. We do like what everyone has done for us.'

'But the difference? Everything is different! The temperature—the heat, and then the cold. In the Philippines it is never under about 70, or over 85, the year 'round. The snow—it was very strange to us—we have never seen it before!'

'We are amazed at all the space in this country where there is nothing! In the Philippines, all land is used in some way.'

'Our food is different too. Many Philippine Island meals are based on fresh fish, rice, and vegetables, which are not cooked to death! We have many coconuts and tropical fruit—but we like your apples and peaches. We do miss the ocean, and the warm rains.'

'The most difference, I think, is in the families. Over there, the family is the most important unit around. The old people—the grandparents and even great-

NO TRAFFIC RUSH... The streets — or lanes — of Tangier Island are no more than eight feet wide. Tangier Island is in the middle of lower Chesapeake Bay and is served by mail boat from Crisfield, Maryland. Streets are maintained by the Virginia State Highway Department. Transportation needs are met by boats, push-carts, wheelbarrows and bicycles. The economy is totally dependant on seafood.

grandparents, help manage the families, and you respect them when they tell you what to do. Young girls do not go out with young men as they do here. They live with their family and are under their control until they marry at around age 25.

There is no divorce on the Islands—only legal separation allowed. So the young people are very careful about a marriage which they know will last for the rest of their lives. American young people are more independent and families are more scattered.'

Then another Nurse spoke. 'But we came here for more independence, travel, adventure, our work, and better pay. So maybe we are more like you than we think!'

IWU Reflections In Perspective

By I. Will Ussery

'Eid al Fitr' is one of the holiest of holidays in the Moslem calendar. Commemorating the command by God to Abraham to sacrifice Isaac, in the absence of any other suitable sacrifice...and God's staying the hand of Abraham...you know the story from the Bible, it is a highly festive occasion.

Coming as it does at the end of the fasting month of Rhamadan, during the entire twenty eight days of which the devout of the faithful take no nourishment of any nature whatsoever, even water, from sunrise to sunset, Eid al Fiter's being something of a holiday of feasting and merrymaking can be understood. In most Moslem countries, the 'Eid' is a mandatory four-day holiday. Labourers may not be penalised for having taken an additional three days. So, one week of holiday.

It is a holiday of gift-giving, debt-paying, feasting and dancing. Children are without exception dressed in brand-new clothes, and the head of the household is expected to slaughter a ram for the centerpiece of a feast for all the kinsmen.

And the project on Das Island, eighty miles offshore the coast of Abu Dhabi had reached a point of teeming activity. We'd managed to weather it out through Rhamadan by simply curtailing the heavy labour activity during the daylight hours. Of course, this imposed something of a burden on the night crews, but everyone fell to in the spirit of observing the commandment of fasting as handed down from the Prophet.

But with a labour force which was more than ninety percent Moslem, and the majority of those in the lower echelon being from Abu Dhabi, a week of holiday would, while not amounting to disaster, slow the general progress of the project. We canvassed the labour force, offering double pay for the entire week. The majority accepted our proposition.

As the Eid approached, one Khalifa bin Hamad, a very hard-working, somewhat meek Arab came to me one day. 'Bill, Sahib, I have agreed to stay on during the holiday. And I am a man of my word. But, Bill, Sahib, I have stayed with the work for more than seven months. I do not need the money, I have worked, and I have saved my wages ($2.25 per day). I am a wealthy man, you know. And just before I came on this job I married another wife. I hardly knew her, but she is living in my home with my first wife. She is a fine girl, I am sure.

Now, Bill Sahib, I should like to be released from my promise to stay on during the holidays. And I shall be pleased if you will go with me to my home to observe the Feast of the Sacrifice. You will be as my father in my home. And you may have my new wife.'

I released Khalifa bin Hamad from his promise, but somehow had so many other things to do...things of infidel nature, you understand...that I simply could not accept his invitation. His generosity was appreciated, of course.

The work on the project slowed somewhat, but the completion delay was not appreciably noticed. And Khalifa bin Hamad returned at the end of the Eid...a very happy, loyal and hard-working man. He did inform me that he had found his new wife to be a very pretty girl.

We are inclined to make light of some of the strange customs which are encountered. But they are their customs, Khalifa was dead serious. And Khalifa bin Hamad was a man of his word. I never had the pleasure of meeting his family.

Holiday Tips On Mail Order Buying - From Postal Service

Thursday, November 27, 1980

1. Examine the offer carefully. If it sounds too good to be true, it often is. Beware of exaggerated claims on products or price. If the claims relate to your health or physical appearance, your family doctor may be a good source of advice as to the likely value of the product. Be particularly wary of claims by unknown sellers that they have achieved a "scientific discovery" that somehow eluded the big companies or established professionals. Read advertising claims for what they actually say rather than what you might hope they offer.

2. Do not rely solely on a picture of the item. Note the description, size, weight, color and contents. Be sure to completely describe the article or service you are purchasing in the order.
3. Give explicit instructions.
4. When ordering holiday gifts by mail be sure to do so well in advance to avoid heavy seasonal mail volume. If the company offers such a service, be sure to specify whether or not the gift should be sent directly to the recipient. Clearly indicate recipient's name and address and how the gift card should be signed.

5. Look for a company policy on returns. If the policy is not stated, ask for it.
6. If a substitute IS acceptable, indicate it.
7. Be sure to enclose shipping, handling, or tax charges with the order.
8. Do not send cash with the order. Pay only by check, money order, or, if acceptable, credit card.
9. Keep a record of the order, including the name and address of the company with which you are dealing.
10. If there are any doubts about a company, check it before placing an order. You might be guided on a company's reliability by inquiries to the Better Business Bureau and Chamber of Commerce in the area of the company, or you can consult your state or local consumer protection office. Because a product is advertised in a responsible newspaper or magazine, do not assume the claims have necessarily been verified by the publishers. In most cases, the publishers have no choice but to assume the advertiser is honest. Similarly, the fact that a product is offered for sale by mail does not mean the Postal Service has verified the advertiser's claims.

Lavene Stubblefield To Be 'Artist Of Month' For December At Eastland CofC

Lavene Stubblefield of Carbon will be 'Artist of the Month' for December, 1980. Her paintings will be on display at the conference room of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce.

Lavene was born in a small community near Brownwood, Texas, where she spent her first years. In 1943 she moved to Carbon with her family, where she attended Carbon Public School, graduating from high school in 1949.

Mrs. Stubblefield is the wife of Mack Stubblefield a retired business man. He was owner and manager of Carbon Trading Company for 25 years until its closing in 1974. He spends his time now tending to his farms and cattle. They are the parents of a son and daughter, Larry M. Stubblefield of Garland, Texas, and Mrs. Doug (Sherry) Bryant of Dumas, Texas. They have three grandchildren, Brian Stubblefield, Heather and Heath Bryant of whom they are very proud.

Although the desire to paint in oils has been with Lavene most all of her life she never attempted to paint until November 15, 1978, up to her first lesson with Jo Hubbard.

Some of her paintings are done with all brush, some with all pallet knife, and some with a combination of both brush and pallet knife. Her subjects range from old farm scenes, oil field scenes, florals, landscapes, and wild life.

Lavene has won numerous ribbons at the art exhibits in this area.

We extend a special invitation to her friends and to the public to come by and view these paintings during the month of December.

Lights From The Christian World

By Josephone Cleveland

David, the great king of Israel said, "O God, you are my God; early will I seek you, my flesh longeth for you in a dry and thirsty land" -Psalm 63. David hungered and thirsted after righteousness. He found what he desired. Later he wrote, "The heavens declare his righteousness and all the people see his glory."

Friend, you can find the same fulfillment for your life as David did if you too hunger and thirst after righteousness.

What can you expect to find? You will discover that you can become a new person in Christ. Old habits that have troubled you will pass from you and all things will become new; you will find guidance for your life; you will find a peace in the midst of conflicts; you will find encouragement in the crises experiences of your life; you will find deliverance from mind plaguing circumstances that confront you.

Ultimately you will hear the words from Jesus "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will

IWU Reflections In Perspective

By I. Will Ussery

LOOKING TO THE EAST ...

The timeless city of Baghdad, Iraq, is situated on the River Tigris. That river is a somewhat muddy, sluggish stream which passes through the city with not so much as a glance toward the mixture of splendour and squalor along its banks. It had been making its way toward the Persian Gulf for perhaps hundreds of thousands of years before the Hotel Baghdad was built in 1960.

The climate in Baghdad is somewhat typical of semi-desert areas the world over. During spring and summer, and into autumn the temperature drops noticeably with the setting of the sun. And it was to take advantage of the at least bearable change from the heat of the day that I was taking a lieurely stroll along the bank of the river from the hotel.

A short distance from the hotel, which is modern in every respect was a cluster of hovels constructed of mud brick and roofed with thatch from the date palms which grow along the river. And at the base of a wall of one of these huts there was what appeared to be a family, preparing its evening meal.

The woman, clad in the ubiquitous "aba" of black material was busying herself with a pan or two, while two small children hunkered alongside a charcoal fire which was glowing in a small pit scooped from the soil. Propped on green twigs over the coals was a fish, apparently a carp, about eighteen inches in length. That, obviously, was to be the principal dish for their evening meal.

Far, far away in Baghdad, the road from the international airport in Bombay, India winds through some of the most squalid scenery of abject poverty one can imagine. The concrete pipe, 60 inches in diameter, for a drainage system which was being planned by the Indian government was strung alongside the road. People of the "untouchable" caste had taken up residence in the most of the tiles, which were some ten feet in length. With the ends closed by the use of cardboard from packing cases, burlap, cement bags...and palm frond thatch, those concrete pipes were homes to literally thousands of people. Transitory, at best, but shelter of a sort. Many of the occupants would live to see bodies of some of their neighbours carried to the burning ghats from those places of squatters' residence.

Neither the people of Baghdad nor those of Bombay ever heard of the quaint (to some of our European kinsmen) American custom of Thanksgiving. Indeed; far too many of the residents of both of those cities have only a miserable life for which to be thankful.

We Americans are inclined to take the reality of our Thanksgiving Season for granted. While we celebrate the occasion, and observe the holiday with extravagant feasting and funmaking, we far too often lose sight of the basic purpose of Thanksgiving Day.

The poor of Baghdad, like the poor of Bombay are typical of the very, very poor the world over. The sight of such poverty gives one the not too inaccurate estimation that in fact the majority of the people of the world perhaps go to sleep each night just a little hungry.

We in America live in a Land of Plenty, indeed. We produce more food per capita than any other country in the world...and our consumption of that food is likewise high in quantity. Our general, overall standards of living are the highest in the world. Our flag, "and the Republic for which it stands" stands to attract the poor and downtrodden and to prove inspiration, hope and example to people the world over.

On this Thanksgiving, let us not causally point to the poor of Baghdad and Bombay and to their brothers-in-suffering in so many parts of the world with the pontifical observation "There, but for the grace of God, go I".

But let us, in a genuine attitude of thankfulness to God for the blessing of freedom found only under our democratic system gather together on Wednesday evening and pledge our thanks in worship of that Great God from whom all blessings flow.

Let us remember the source of all good gifts, and let us at the same time pledge our support and help for those so much less fortunate than we.

It only takes an hour of our busy lives...the tick of a clock in the measurement of the time of the poor and hungry.

A Sheriff's Office spokesman said that at least one shot was fired at each home by a long range large calibre rifle, and that it appeared to be the same calibre weapon in each of the incidents. The spokesman said however, that a ballistic's test had not been made and that it was not possible to make a positive determination at this time.

According to the Sheriff's Office report a bullet penetrated the outside door in one home and lodged in a wall. In the other home the bullet went through an outside wall, through a door, and finally was lodged in an inside wall.

In one of the homes, a bullet passed through a room where a young child was sleeping and missed the child's bed by less than five feet.

Give Thanks Unto The Lord

By Marietta Fuller

Thanksgiving was celebrated in 1621 by our Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth. They had just passed through a year of famine, of sickness and of death, and wanted to thank God for their many blessings and especially for providing food so generously in the Fall Harvest.

David, the Psalmist, who wrote the 23rd Psalm used so widely at funerals wrote the following priceless Psalm 100, which is one of Thanksgiving; 1. Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands. 2. Serve the Lord with gladness; come before His presence with singing. 3. Know ye that the Lord He is God: it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are His people, and the sheep of His pasture. 4. Enter into His gates with thanksgiving and into His courts with praise; be thankful unto Him and bless His name. 5. For the Lord is good, His mercy is everlasting, and His truth endureth to all generations.

Thank God for just being alive, for being able to walk, for being able to hear, to talk and to sit in a wheel chair and for being able to pray.

It is easy to thank God for good health, but in pain and suffering we are also supposed to thank God and to praise Him. This is showing trust in God's word which says, "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to His purpose." (Rom.8:28) And so we know that whatsoever comes to us in this life, God will bring good out of it and thanking Him and praising Him drives out the evil and sin and causes God's spirit to be greater within the believers heart and life.

It is easy to thank God for joys, but thank Him also in sorrows and tears for they draw you closer to Him and enable you to enjoy God's wonderful fellowship. Then you become a light unto the world for others to see Christ living in you.

It is easy to thank God for big things, but thank Him also for someones smile, for the sunshine, for a restful night of sleep and all the other things.

Thank God for unanswered prayer for He knows what is best for you.

And finally, "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift." (II Cor.9:15). Don't forget to thank God for His gift of Jesus Christ, our Saviour, who died for our sins so that we might be acceptable to a most Holy God. We have much to be thankful for at this season and throughout the year.

Wood - Burning Warning

In scores of American households this winter, the snug atmosphere around the family's wood-burning stove will be broken by a thundering roar, a shaking, red-hot stove pipe and immediate danger to family and belongings.

A chimney fire! It usually results from the build up of a sooty substance called creosote inside the chimney. "When a chimney fire occurs, three actions are crucial," advised Donald Mann, fire safety engineer for Aetna Life & Casualty. "Call the fire department. Close all air inlets and dampers. And don't throw water on a hot stove. That could crack the stove and cause a second fire."

Chimney fires, according to Mann, are only one of the risks of using or installing a wood-burning stove improperly. "There are a lot of mistakes the inexperienced stove owner can make," Mann said. "Like disposing of ashes in paper bags, or other combustible containers, putting your stove on an unprotected wood floor, using a stove pipe that's too small or cheaply constructed - those things might not cause a fire right away, but they probably will eventually. The risk is serious."

According to the National Fire Data Center, heating systems burning solid fuel (wood or coal), are associated with about 49,000 home fires each year, involving about 250 fatalities, 290 serious injuries and more than $130 million in direct property losses each year.

If you have a wood-burning stove - or are thinking about buying one - it's essential to consider proper installation. Check with local building authorities before putting in your stove, even if this is not required in your town. You will probably get cost-and time-saving advice on materials, space requirements, suppliers and workmanship. And arrange for an inspection after your stove is installed.

Mann emphasized that stove owners should follow installation instructions to the letter. "Above all, don't try to short-cut the manufacturer's directions, don't skimp on clearances from walls and floors, and don't count on word of mouth advice from other stove owners." Covering a wall with aluminum foil, for example, does not make it non-combustible.

Making the Stove Pipe a Good Connection

Stove owners should follow detailed instructions, available from the manufacturer or retailer, to be sure that stove pipe dimensions and materials are adequate. Ordinarily, Mann explained, the pipe should not pass through a wall or ceiling. "If you must go through a combustible wall, you'll have to allow an 18 inch clearance all around the pipe. Or, you can use a section of approved factory-built chimney."

As for hooking the stove pipe to masonry chimney, you'll need to extend the connector through the masonry wall of the chimney to the inner face of the flue liner (not beyond), and cement it to the masonry. It's important to use high-temperature cement.

Remember that every stove needs a damper or draft regulator to help control combustion. If yours is automatic, be sure it's installed according to the manufacturer's instructions.

The Chimney

Your chimney should be inspected before installing your stove and annually thereafter. If you are buying a factory-built chimney, be sure it has recognized testing laboratory approval. If you are connecting to an existing fireplace chimney, you must seal off the chimney below the stove pipe's point of entry to prevent toxic gases from coming into the room. Mann added that it's dangerous to connect more than one heating device to a single flue.

As for chimney maintenance, remember that creosote residue accumulates on a relatively cool chimney lining and, when ignited, causes an extremely dangerous fire. To prevent creosote build-up, maintain a moderate fire - hot enough to prevent a cool flue liner, but no so hot that it ignites creosote already formed.

Burn only dry, well-seasoned hardwood. (Green wood produces large amounts of creosote and is especially dangerous in an "air-tight" stove; trash is highly flammable and will produce a sudden, hot fire.)

Above all, never start a fire with gasoline, kerosene or other flammable liquids. And don't use artificial logs in your stove. The gases generated could cause an explosion.

To melt small amounts of creosote on your flue lining, burn your stove hot once a day, for about 30 minutes. Don't make this your first fire of the day - the sudden heat could crack your stove or ignite the creosote residue.

However conscientious you are in day-to-day habits, it's still necessary to have

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

One day the giants of goldfom got together on a green to putt. But the rising wind kept blowing them off balance.

Some played terribly, but Tony Jacklin shot a remarkable seventy-one. Surprised, a friend asked, "What's your secret?" "I used the wind," he explained. "I let the wind help me."

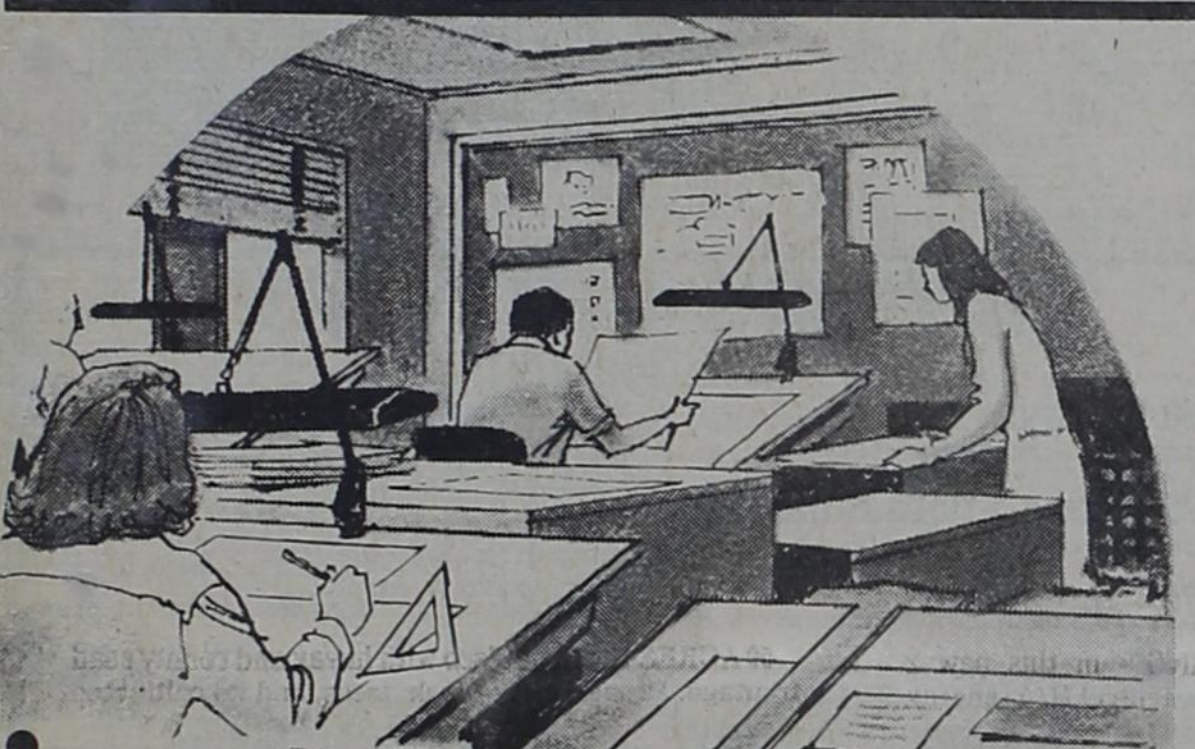

As in golf, so in growing, the winds of temptation and trouble can help you, if you use them.

St. James wrote in the Living Bible, "Is your life full of difficulties and temptations? Then be happy, for when the way is rough, your patience has a chance to grow. So let it grow, and don't try to squirm out of your problems. For when your patience is finally in full bloom, then you will be ready for anything, strong in character, full and complete."

The Lord will not allow anything to come into your life that He cannot and will not make it work for your good. So when the wind comes, use it.

Remember that the Living Bible says, "Always be joyful. Always be thankful."

Johnson Farm Celebrates Anniversary

by D. Gordon

1980 marks the one hundredth anniversary of farming in Eastland County for the Johnson family of Desdemona.

It was 1880 when Jeremiah (Jerry) Sanford Johnson, his wife Martha Elizabeth and children came from Tarrant County and settled northeast of Desdemona. The Johnsons had been farming in Texas for over 30 years before coming to Eastland County. In addition to bringing all their possessions they drove a herd of steel dust horses to provide the power for farming.

Jerry Johnson was born in Georgia in 1821 and his wife Martha was born in 1835 in South Carolina. Their oldest son, George W., was born in Alabama in 1845 before coming to Texas. After he family arrived in Texas five more children were born - Nany in 1851, Henerietta A. in 1871, J.S., Jr. in 1873 and the youngest, Toby Lee in 1875.

The Johnsons began farming by renting land near Desdemona, and two years later purchased the 160 acres of land they had been renting. This land is still owned by their grandchildren and great grandchildren.

The classification of plants and animals that is the basis of the modern system was devised by 18th century Swedish botanist Carolus Linnaeus.

The youngest son of Jerry Johnson, Toby Lee, stayed on the land and farmed it as did his son Doyl. Doyl's sons Paul, Roy and Clyde continue to farm in the Desdemona area and grandson Greg, now a student at Texas Tech, plans to continue in the Johnson tradition of farming.

Doyl and his wife Lucille, now retired, have five other grandchildren Paula grew up and knew farm work first hand, when she entered Tarleton University three years ago. Toni, Brent, Brad and Kristi continue to help with farm and garden work and will probably carry on the Johnson farming in the Desdemona area.

Other land was settled by the Johnsons in 1883 and is now owned by Doyl and operated by his son Clyde. Clyde is owner of Johnsons Seed and Fertilizer Store in Eastland County. Roy, another of Doyl's sons, is an outstanding farmer in the Desdemona area. Roy is a State Director Program Building Committee.

Today the Johnsons use modern, efficient methods to produce cattle, peanuts and other crops. These methods are very different from those used by Jerry Johnson and his family a hundred years ago. There were no grain threshers so Jerry and his family dug a trench in the ground, layed wagon sheets in the trench and placed bundles of rain on the sheets. Horses were walked over the bundles until the grain separated from the plants. On a windy day members of the family tossed the grain up permitting the wind to blow the chaff away and letting the clean grain fall to the ground.

The wives and children shared all the hard jobs of the early days. Martha split the rails for the first fence and probably helped build the four foot rock fence which is still standing on the homestead.

Mrs. Doyl (Alma Lucille) Johnson says everyone who eats is involved in agriculture, but only those who have actually tilled the land really know what it is like to be a farmer, farmer's wife or farmer's children. She says one must love the land that God provided if he is to be successful in producing food and fiber for the nation and at the same time conserve the resources for future generations.

Even today with the modern equipment and methods of farming it is no easy task. Now, as in the past 100 years, producers have to compete with such obstacles as drought, floods, pests, diseases and inflation.

Mrs. Johnson says that after years of working from sun up until sun down and sometimes all night to save the crops, it is rewarding to retire and just enjoy life. This gave her time to check the records and do research on the family history. Two other members of the family assisted her with the research. They are Mrs. James A. (Jenny) Hawkins of LaPort, Texas and Mrs. Lois Hawkins Dart of Hartford, Arkansas.

"Retirement means you have time to enjoy the grandchildren", Mrs. Johnson says and "take them on hikes through the woods, enjoy the beautiful flowers, birds, and animals such as wild turkeys and deer." "Also it gives us time to teach the younger generations to love the land that our forefathers fought and died for" she says.

With that kind of training there will probably be Johnsons farmers near Desdemona for the next two or three hundred years.

9-Digit ZIP Nears Approval

The Board of Governors of the U.S. Postal Service is expected to give final approval Dec. 2 to a plan for nine-number ZIP codes.

While there is widespread criticism of the plan from Congress and many big-volume mailers, the service points out that use of the nine-digit ZIP code will be voluntary.

Postal Service officials have said that they are required to seek every possible means to improve efficiency. They say failure to adopt the nine-digit ZIP code would violate that mandate.

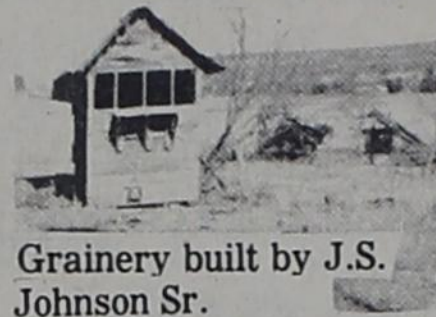

Congress has received numerous letters opposing the change.

As a result, the House and Senate adopted a resolution declaring that "the U.S. Postal Service should halt plans for its ZIP code expansion until such time as the service and the Congress have fully examined the cost to the postal service, as well as to mailers, the social consequences and the technical issues associated with the proposal . . . in no case should the U.S. Postal Service expand the ZIP code beyond its current five digits without first fully examining other means of improving productivity in the sorting of mail."

The postal service says that the nine-digit ZIP code will enable it to use machines to sort mail to a greater extent than is now possible.

County Youth Named To National Association

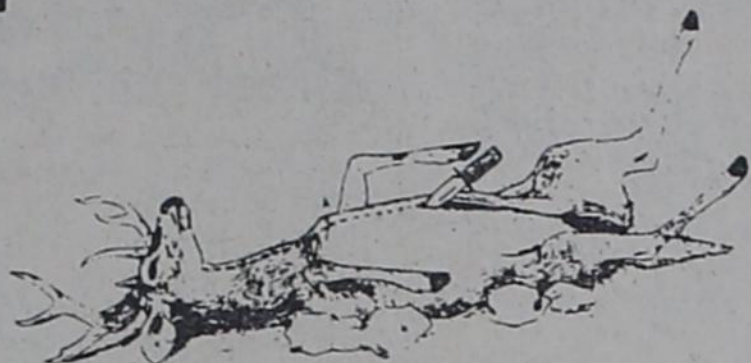

Truet Ray Hart of Eastland, Texas has recently been granted a Junior Membership in the Brown Swill Cattle Breeders' Association of America. According to National Secretary Evans Wright of Beloit, Wisconsin, junior memberships give boys and girls who have had their ninth birthday before January 1 of the current calendar year, and who have not had their 19th birthday before this base date, the privilege of registering offspring from Brown Swiss females, owned by them individually at national membership rates.

A 4-H or FFA member who starts with two registered Brown Swiss heifers today can own a registered herd worth thousands of dollars and be well on the road to success and independence in a few years. An investment of this nature can mean college education, self-sufficiency and the foundation of a successful dairy enterprise.

The National Secretary reports that Brown Swiss registrations have increased approximately 14 percent during the past year. He states that the reason for this growth is the fact that Brown Swiss have a wide range of adaptation and produce a large volume of an ideal market milk high in protein. He adds that registered Brown Swiss offer an advantageous challenge to a dairyman's abilities and provide a greater return on his investment in time, labor and money.

DRESSING TECHNIQUES

Beginning the field dressing process. Sex organs have been removed. Notice cut was stopped at middle of breast to salvage mount.

Full length cut method of field dressing.

Hanging deer after field dressing is completed. Dotted lines around inside of legs indicate where cuts can be made for skinning.

The end result. Buck is field dressed, skinned and hung to cool.

Letter to the Editor

Editor

So often we take without question statements that things have become—people are getting worse—this or that is new—and what of the "new morality"?

Is it not the centuries old immorality?

Consider "Tales of Sheherizad" or "The Thousand and One Nights" as it is sometimes translated. Centuries before psychologists and criminologists studied the sex and violence phenomenon the story told of a ruler who took brides and killed them the following day. Sheherizad found that the old boy loved stories and extended her days by never ending a story without leading into a new one for which the ruler had to wait till tomorrow night to hear the outcome.

As a child I too was entranced by the many adventures of Sinbad the Sailor. Little had I realized that those old Arabs had the original Soap Opera!

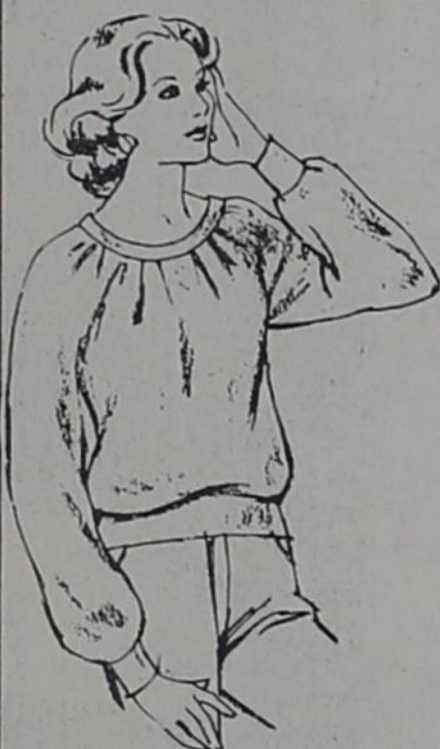

Some people think the worst thing they ever did was raise oil prices but soap operas are a worse export than hashish! Now the West is getting even.

We introduced TV and export TV shows to Arab lands to give them their own fantasies in modern form.

Truly it is written in Ecclesiastes "There is nothing new under the sun."

Yours Truly,
Gordon S. Clark

People Things

AT LEAST one Ciscoan has something to be thankful for this Thanksgiving season. Bobby Joe Prickett, who lives with his wife Beth and their four children on Beech Street, sustained quite serious injuries in a highway mishap on October 3 and he is recovering nicely.

The mishap occurred on the highway between Baird and Cross Plains when Mr. BJP's pickup was in collision with a truck. His injuries included a knee cap fracture, five ribs fractured and a lung injury. He spent 16 days in intensive care at Hendrick Hospital, Abilene. He underwent open heart surgery three years ago.

Mrs. Prickett, who is the daughter of the Carrel Smiths, works at City Hall.

IF YOU THOUGHT you saw a young lady driving a Cisco Police Department car you were right. She is Denise Northam, a veteran of some three years in police work with the sheriff's departments at Quannah and Wichita Falls. She is a police school graduate.

Mrs. Northam, 29, is the daughter of the Ace Prescotts and is the mother of three children.

Chief Bill Pence told us that "we're proud of our lady officer who has a very good record and who comes to us with fine recommendations." She is a full-time patrolman.

MR. BUFORD Hageman, who underwent brain surgery several months ago, tells us that his doctors have written down Dec. 8th as the date he can go back to work at West Texas Utilities Co. Buford is making steady progress in recovering from the surgery.

Buford reports that their son, David, 21, didn't kill a deer with one shot by an hour after sunup this year for the first opening day of the deer season in seven years. David's record of one-shot bucks started when he was 14 years old. He didn't make it this year because David is a junior at Texas Tech where he is studying electrical engineering. He'll be home Thanksgiving and will doubtless bag a buck.

MR. CLIFFORD Smith, local hunter and fisherman, shot an eight-point buck at the family farm last Saturday afternoon. Larry Campbell of Burgess Industries got a four-pointer south of town. Glad to see Harold D. Hendricks back on the job as manager at Thrift Mart. He was out several weeks due to a health problem. He has been deer hunting several times but hadn't fired a shot when we inquired Sunday. See by the papers that a nursery at Arlington has developed a plant that they call a "Reagan Bush."

HOW'S THE decorative egg business? Very good, thank you, answered Mrs. Morris White of our town. She recently attended craft shows at El Paso and Abilene with excellent results, and will be going to a craft show in Abilene very soon. Mrs. E.L. Callarman, who is making her home with her daughter Fay in Snyder, is a visitor at the home of her son David and family in Cisco. John Boland, former Cisco city manager who now has the same job in Electra, and his wife and their daughter visited friends in Cisco last weekend. Rancher Geep Mitcham has been turkey hunting, seeking one for their Thanksgiving table when relatives are expected.

CHS Senior Tracy Owens, who suffered a broken collar bone in a football accident, was due to get all the bandages off this week. He'll play on the CHS basketball and golf teams. He tells us his college plans don't include football. Bet he gets a golf scholarship.

CISCO COUNTRY Clubbers enjoyed a chili supper (cooked by Oscar) last Thursday night with a good crowd. Letha Schaal, who retired as club secretary, had been on the job since 1974. Her first job as the club secretary when she took over was to borrow $2,000 to pay club debts and expenses. When she turned the books over to Ilene Cotton, her successor, the club was free of debts and has some $7,000 plus the pro shop inventory.

Funeral Services For Howard Gary Held Tuesday

Funeral services for Howard M. Gary, 72, of

She did a fine job and, we are sure, club members appreciate her good work. The CJC Belles will be on the program for the country club ladies luncheon on Dec. 3rd.

GLAD TO HEAR that Mr. Henry Schaefer, Cisco radio and television sales and service man for many years, now has an oil well on the family farm south of town. And he is doing nicely following recent surgery. You'll be pleased that Mr. Frank Barrett of Thornton Feed Mill is now home and progressing satisfactorily following heart valve surgery in Big D some ten days ago. The Steve Austins of Abilene were weekend visitors in our town. Clinton Pierce of Cisco and Richard Rosslander of Eastland are the owners of the Buffalo Mud Company that has leased the old Cisco Livestock Show building on the lake road. Hear that Clinton might open a blacksmith shop out there as a hobby. The Wayne Browns wrote old friends in Cisco recently that they're planning a trip from their home in Florida to Cisco for the coming Christmas season. Kim Toler, daughter of the Travis Starrs, is the new secretary at the First Baptist Church, taking the position from which Ginny Taylor resigned recently. Kim is a graduate of CHS and attended CJC.

OLD J.R. found out who shot him but he sure has problems, huh? The Doug Frys weren't JR fans but they decided last Friday night that they should join the millions and find out who fired the shots. So they settled down in front of their television. After a time, the color left and the picture was black and white. A few minutes later, the picture disappeared entirely. So the Frys had to read the papers next morning to get the news.

Funeral services were held at the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints in Los Alamitos, California, on November 14 with interment following in the Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Cypress, California.

She was born October 30, 1927, at Nimrod. She was the daughter of Albert N. and Cora Mae Simpson and both preceded her in death.

She graduated from Scranton High School, Cisco Junior College and Texas State College for Women in Denton. Immediately after graduation as a dietitian she went to Los Angeles Veterans Administration Hospital and continued to work in various hospitals in that area being a dietitian consultant in a large hospital at the time of her death. She was married to Lyond

Cross Plains, were at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Higginbotham Funeral Home Chapel in Cross Plains. The Rev. Carl Halsell officiated. Burial was in Cross Plains Cemetery.

Mr. Gary died at 6:55 a.m. Sunday in Eastland Memorial Hospital after a lengthy illness.

He was born February 1, 1908, in Admiral. He spent his life in the Cross Plains area. He was a retired stock rancher and a Baptist. He married Werdna D. Lyon on July 13, 1929, in Meridian. She preceded him in death February 6, 1979.

Survivors include a son, Lynwood of Fort Collins, Colo.; a daughter, Mrs. Wanda Grable of Pecos; two brothers, Dale of Cross Plains and Weldon of Rowden; three sisters, Nadine McKinney of Burkett, Ruth Lusk of Cisco and Irene Martin of California; four grandchildren; and a great-grandchild.
