Beer in Texas by Next August Is Seen as Possibility

MEASURE TO REPEAL DEAN LAW DRAFTED

AUSTIN, Nov. 14.—Beer in Texas by August was seen as possible here today as state labor leaders gathered for a conference with Gov. Elect Miriam A. Ferguson.

Two state representatives from San Antonio have drafted a bill to repeal the Dean prohibition law and will offer it to the legislature in January. One brewery in San Antonio is equipped for immediate operation, if beer is legalized.

To legalize beer will require a state referendum and a constitutional amendment. The penalties for manufacture, transport and sale, however, all are contained in the Dean Act. By repealing it there will be no penalties not left in the federal law.

A poll of members of the new legislature is now being conducted by an organization headed by John H. Kirby, of Houston. Little hope of securing 100 members for repeal is expressed. Without the 100 members any legislation would have to wait 90 days after the legislature adjourns to be effective.

Held as British Mutiny Inciter

W. A. L. Hannington, above, originator of the British hunger marchers, who have clashed with police in London recently, has been held without bail on a charge of inciting mutiny among the police.

HEARING SET ON CISCO GAS RATES NOV. 25

BULLETIN
FORT WORTH, Nov. 14.—Federal Judge James C. Wilson today issued a temporary order restraining the city of Cisco from enforcing a new gas rate schedule.

Order was granted on the plea of the Community Natural Gas company. A hearing on the rate dispute was set for November 25 at Abilene.

The ordinance, passed by the city commission early this year, provides for a domestic gas rate of 50 cents per 1,000 cubic feet less 10 per cent for prompt payment, in contrast to the present rate of 75 cents less 10 per cent.

Meanwhile the Community has asked institution of a sliding schedule, beginning at a minimum of $1.60 for the first 1,000 feet and progressing in decline to 45 cents after consumption of 25,000 cubic feet.

Mae Murray Asks $29,000

Here is Mae Murray, blond film star, in her first public appearance in several months. She was photographed in court in Los Angeles where she is pressing a claim against Mrs. Elizabeth M. Stack for $29,400 damages and three pieces of property. Miss Murray claims she placed the property in the name of Mrs. Stack on the agreement it would be reconveyed at demand.

Roll Call of Red Cross to Start Thursday

The annual Red Cross Roll Call campaign will get under way in Cisco Thursday, November 17, to continue through Saturday, November 19, it was announced today by J. E. Spencer, county chapter chairman, and H. L. Dyer, local Roll Call chairman. The city's minimum quota is 500 memberships, they said.

Committees now being organized by Mr. Dyer will conduct a house to house canvass of the residential and business districts, bearing with them an appeal that Cisco people respond to this campaign liberally as the means of showing gratitude for the liberal response which the Red Cross has made to the county's pleas for assistance during the trying economic period of the past two years.

The membership price is $1 of which 50 cents goes to the national chapter, the remainder to remain for local use.

$30,000 in Relief.
In a statement reviewing what has been done by the Red Cross in Eastland county during the past two years, Spencer pointed out that in cash and supplies of various kinds, the Red Cross has distributed relief to the value of $30,188.91 in the county during that period.

His statement follows: "Within the past two years this chapter has received through the St. Louis Midwestern branch office of the Red Cross and distributed to the needy within its jurisdiction the following:

- $1,500 worth of field or grain seed.
- $2,125 worth of garden seed.
- $15,313.91 in cash with which was purchased groceries, medicine, clothing and so forth for needy families.
- 443,960 pounds of flour, which, valued at the current price of $1 per 48-lb. sack, equals a cash value of $9,250.
- 24,000 yards of cloth now being distributed, out of which wearing apparel will be provided, a conservative value of which is easily $2,000.
- This makes a total of cash and its equivalent in value of $30,188.91 which has been received from the national chapter.
- In addition to the above relief provided by the national chapter, the local chapter has spent out of its local funds for relief within the past two years, approximately $1,500.
- During the winter and spring of 1931 the chapter served approximately 1,200 families—or 6,000 persons—with groceries, medicine, clothing, feed and seed.
- 10,000 People.
- Beginning April 15, 1932, and up to this date the chapter has served 2,048 families, or approximately 10,200 persons, with flour. An average of ten 24-lb. sacks was given each family, some of course having received more and others less, depending upon the size of the family and the length of time served.
- The cloth distribution, as stated, is now in progress, and up to this date about 700 families have been given materials from which to make their garments.
- Requisitions for further supplies of flour and cloth have been placed with the national chapter's branch office in St. Louis and these are expected to be approved and shipped to us at an early date. We are further practically assured that flour

Pastor Returned

Rev. O. O. Odom who was returned as pastor of the First Methodist church here in the appointments announced by Bishop Sam R. Hay at the concluding session of the Central Texas conference at Waco Sunday evening. The Rev. Mr. Odom was sent to the Cisco church from a Ft. Worth charge April 1, 1932, as successor to H. D. Tucker, resigned.

RESPONSE TO HOOVER WIRE DUE TONIGHT

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Reports at the capital today said President-elect Roosevelt would make public tonight his reply to President Hoover's debt conference invitation.

Every effort to obtain a statement from the president-elect met with failure. The governor is opposed to outright cancellation of World war debts without reciprocal benefits to the American people.

Regarding war debts he has said, "We shall not have to cancel them if we are realistic about providing ways and means by which payment is possible through the profits arising from the rehabilitation of trade."

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE WANTS PUBLIC EXPRESSION

DALLAS, Nov. 14.—The board of managers of the Anti-Saloon league in Texas today indicated the organization would join in a movement for public expression at the polls on the prohibition question, rather than submit it to "boss-ridden" and "mob-controlled" state conventions.

The Anti-Saloon league stand was set forth in a statement.

"We demand of congress, first, to submit and amend to Article V of the federal constitution striking from it the words 'or by convention in three-fourths thereof' and writing in their stead the words 'or by popular vote in three-fourths thereof'."

"When this done then, and then alone, may the people have an opportunity to express their convictions at the ballot box," the statement read in part.

HIGH SCHOOL YOUTH TELLS OF KIDNAPING

DALLAS, Nov. 14.—D. E. Taylor, Jr., 15-year-old high school freshman, told police today how he was kidnaped and threatened by a negro and a white man before he escaped from his captors after a two-mile ride.

A woman, who saw the boy wandering about, bruised and with shirt torn to shreds, took him home after his escape. Police were notified and a radio description of the two abductors was broadcast.

Young Taylor was on his way to school. He said the white and negro man drove up beside him and offered him a ride. He accepted and stepped on the running board as the negro drew a pistol and ordered him into the car.

As the automobile slowed down to pass a gravel truck the youth leaped through the door to the pavement, bruising himself, and ran across bottom lands to safety.

Cisco Sportsmen Off For Deer Hunt

Dr. Charles Hale and Alex Spears have gone to the Davis mountains for a hunting trip. Several other Ciscoans are in Mason county, according to information received this morning.

Deer season opens Nov. 16, according to J. J. Collins. Each year several men from here spend a few days hunting, most of them going to Mason county.

BRITISHER TO ADDRESS OIL CONVENTION

By STUART F. JONES
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOUSTON, Nov. 14.—Sir John Cadman, internationally famous Britisher oil man, has been announced as one of the speakers who will address the assembled members of the American Petroleum Institute at the annual meeting here this month.

The meeting will be held at the Rice Hotel Nov. 15, 16 and 17, with oil men from all parts of the United States attending.

Other speakers will be Henry I. Harriman, Boston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Peter Molyneux, Dallas, editor of the Texas Weekly and economic authority on resources of the Southwest and Charles F. Roeser, Fort Worth oil man.

In addition, there will be the president's annual address delivered by Amos L. Beaty, New York. Papers on all matters pertaining to petroleum production, refining and marketing will be read during the three-day session by recognized authorities.

Approximately 40 technical papers will be presented before the institute's divisional groups in addition to the three general sessions at which the principal speakers will be heard.

None of the principal speakers' subjects has been announced.

President's Address.

The president's address will be delivered at the meeting's first general session the morning of Nov. 15. He will be followed by Dr. John W. Frey, of the U. S. bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, who will present the results of a study of the economic outlook made for the federal government by a committee of five oil economists headed by Dr. Frey.

The addresses of Molyneux, Harriman and Cadman will be delivered the following afternoon, in the order named. Roeser will be heard that night.

Cadman's Houston address will be his third to be delivered before the institute. In December, 1921, he addressed the institute at Chicago on "Great Britain and Petroleum" and again in December, 1928, on "Petroleum Products Outside the United States."

As His Britannic Majesty's petroleum executive, Sir John had charge of the distribution of petroleum supplies in England during the world war. He is chairman of the board of directors of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, Ltd. He will come here from London to be the guest of the institute.

The institute's annual banquet will be held on the evening of the final day of the meeting. The board of councilors will meet on the morning of the first day to nominate candidates for election as members of the board of directors.

Harry Bengt Crozier, former member of the Dallas News staff, is director of public relations for the institute and will come here several days in advance of the meeting to complete arrangements.

A. Wilkerson; Wingate, S. G. Freeman; supply; Winters, L. W. Seymour.

TICKET SALE FOR SMOKER BRISK TODAY

Sale of tickets for the Merchants' smoker dinner at the Mobley hotel tomorrow evening was progressing nicely today. H. L. Dyer, arrangements committee chairman, announced. A force of workers was busy in the business district this morning and by evening they expected to have the full quota of tickets sold with the prospect for another large crowd for the program.

An outstanding speaker, capable of injecting considerable humor into the program, is being secured, it was announced. The program is in charge of a committee headed by S. H. Nance.

Reports from committees on the marketing situation in Cisco will be heard at this meeting.

FUNERAL FOR C. A. BENNIE IS HELD SUNDAY

Funeral services for C. A. Bennie were held at the home, Sixteenth street and H avenue, yesterday afternoon at 1:30 with Rev. James L. Smart of the East Side Baptist church conducting, assisted by Rev. E. L. Miley of the First Christian church.

Interment services were at Strawn in charge of the Strawn Masonic order. There was a large crowd at the grave, and many beautiful floral offerings were sent.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. C. A. Bennie; two sons, Uric Lester Bennie and William Campbell Bennie, and a daughter, Miss Evelyn Elizabeth Bennie, all of Cisco; two brothers, Robert Bennie of Hot Springs, Ark., and James Bennie of Fort Worth; and five sisters, Mrs. Maggie Waugh of Strawn; Mrs. Adelle Bilson of Chicago; Mrs. Daisy Rashe of Chicago; Mrs. Florence Louise of Whittington, Ind., and Mrs. Jesse Smith of Whittington, Ind.

FORMER CISCO MAN IS ROBBED NEAR FT. WORTH

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14.—Robbed of $300 in cash and a collection of oil leases on the Fort Worth-Dallas Pike yesterday morning by two men who forced the car in which he was riding into a ditch, Dr. T. M. Dolan, former head of the Dolan Psychology Center in Chicago, last night still clung to his philosophy that "everything in life is beautiful."

Dr. Dolan said the $300 and leases were all that remained of a modest fortune drained by a bank failure and an automobile accident.

He came to Texas to sell his oil leases and was in Dallas trying to locate T. H. Tompkins of Chicago.

Falling to find him there, Dr. Dolan decided to come to Fort Worth. He met a man named Governor, he related, in the lobby of The Baker in Dallas Saturday, who planned to drive from Dallas to Wichita Falls, and invited Dr. Dolan to accompany him as far as Fort Worth.

The invitation accepted, they left Dallas shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning and had driven to a point between Rose Hill and Village Creek when a car approaching from the rear swerved and forced them into a ditch, he said.

Two men stepped from the car, informed Dr. Dolan and Governor that it was a holdup, and proceeded to search them. After taking about $300 from Dr. Dolan and $45 from Governor, one of the robbers got into Governor's car while the other returned to the automobile in which the robbers rode.

Both vehicles soon disappeared in the direction of Fort Worth. In the Governor car was Dr. Dolan's bag, containing the oil leases which he hoped to sell. What Governor lost in addition to his automobile and $45 in cash Dr. Dolan was unable to state.

Dr. Dolan asked the robbers to leave him some cash, but they replied that a man who carried so much money does not deserve to get any of it back. They promised, however, to send him his bag.

A passing motorist brought Dr. Dolan and Governor to Fort Worth. Dr. Dolan left Governor near the Texas and walked to the Elks club.

Dr. Dolan is a former resident of Cisco where in 1926 and 1927 he and his son maintained an oil brokerage business with offices in the Mancill building, it was recalled today.

GENUINE CORN JUICE IS "DOUBLE AND TWISTED"

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14.—A shortage of genuine "double and twisted" corn whiskey, which has won Georgia repute among connoisseurs, is causing a disturbingly large supply of "single-run" moonshine liquor, laden with fusel oil, to filter into the populace centers from the backlands.

Word from the distilling centers is that the low grade corn liquor is, in fact, produced in much greater quantity than the "genuine stuff."

A mountaineer, who set himself up as an authority, and bemoaned the prevalence of low-quality whiskey, termed the "single-run liquid" "terrible," but sang the praises of "double and twisted."

"The real distillers raise their own corn," he explained, "shell it by hand, keep it scrupulously clean, then place it in gunny-sacks for a 24-hour soaking in a stream.

"The saturated corn then is buried under a blanket of wet gunny-sacks, where it sprouts in about 40 to 60 hours. It then is ground in a hand grain mill, 'set up,' without sugar, and allowed to ferment, requiring about two weeks. It is then 'cooked' in the still, coming out of the first run as 'thumped whiskey.'

"It is then run through the still a second time, the 'double-running,' which in mountain jargon, is 'double and twisted.' This, he explained, drives out of the distillation most of the impurities.

"That," said the informant, "is the real 'Georgia corn liquor.'"

The low quality substitute for this "Georgia corn," it is explained, is made with hot water added, run once through the still after fermentation in barrels, then bottled and sold to bootleggers, who in turn "cut" it approximately 100 per cent. It is known as "thumped whiskey" and carries no repute in the mountains.

3 SUSPECTS IN COUNTERFEITING ARRESTED HERE

Arrest of three persons, two men and a woman, here yesterday for investigation in connection with passage of alleged counterfeit money at DeLeon and Gorman, was announced by Cisco police. The trio were taken to Comanche.

Cisco officers assisted Comanche and Eastland county officers in the arrests.

Prominent Ft. Worth Attorney Succumbs

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14.—W. M. Odell, 54, prominent Ft. Worth attorney, former regent of the University of Texas and member of the Texas Prison board, died at his home here today.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Odell was appointed United States attorney for the northern district of Texas by President Woodrow Wilson and served in that capacity until September 1919. His home formerly was in Cleburne.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—After observing the activities of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, it is not difficult to foresee the day when the wives of presidential candidates will be taking on important burdens in their husbands' campaigns.

Precisely the same thought is inspired by the ambitious speaking tour of Mrs. Dolly Gann, who is not the wife of Vice President Curtis but is, most emphatically, his official hostess and half-sister.

Wives have become increasingly conspicuous in presidential campaigns since woman suffrage was established, and 1932 is by all odds their big year.

Mrs. Coolidge was always regarded as one of Cal's prime political assets because of her lovely smiles and hearty handshakes. Mrs. Hoover goes along with the president now on his campaign trips, making her contributions in smiles, bows, waves, demonstrations of enthusiasm, receiving bouquets and occasional remarks. Her nearest approach to a speech has been a message to the Girl Scouts.

BUT Mrs. Roosevelt has been far more active in public affairs than the wife of any other candidate, and her part in the Roosevelt campaign has been unusually large. She hasn't actually made any stump speeches for her husband's campaign, but she has come close to it.

LaFollette joined hands, and they placed the Badger state in the democratic column and elected F. Bryan Duffy, democrat, to a seat in the American senate. Col. AUSTIN, Nov. 14.—W. A. Tarver, chairman of the Texas board of insurance commissioners, became "the most powerful individual figure in the insurance world" when he recently was elected president of the national convention of insurance commissioners, according to insurance executives.

This by reason of the fact that he heads "the most powerful unofficial regulatory body in the world." Insurance men have pointed out there is no national or federal regulation of insurance in any of its aspects; and that state regulations are widely divergent.

Call for this legislative session was limited to action on a conservation code for oil and gas. The governor's proclamation carried the usual proviso, "and such other matters as may be submitted by the governor."

The plea has been made for new legislation to deal with the soil and with crop planting. It is clean a supplemental subject will have to be presented by Gov. Sterling to the legislature to enable this matter to be acted upon.

The house at its last session adopted the policy of asking the speaker to throw out all bills, not local in nature, on subjects not within the governor's call. This kept out many general bills. Defect of the rule was that it permitted the house calendar to be filled with minor local bills, and much of the legislative time to be devoted to these measures.

Gov. Sterling has not intimated that any other subject is likely to get attention at the oil conservation session.

University regents who are sponsoring the constitutional amendment to stop further borrowing from the permanent fund for buildings point out that the $6,000,000 present bonds are to be repaid over a period of eight years beginning in 1937; and that up to that period, the university will receive enough revenues from its permanent fund to erect one building a year on either the university or the A. & M. campus.

There is wide diversity of opinion on this amendment, many friends of the university feeling that the best interest of the institution calls for its defeat and the later adoption of a limit upon the amount that may be borrowed at any one time.

FAIR HOUSES
CLIPPED WITH
"BOBBY PINS"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the final article in a series describing the "wonder city" of the Chicago World's Fair, now rising on the shore of Lake Michigan. Today's story tells how the architects threw tradition to the winds to evolve a style as new as tomorrow.

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, Nov. 14. — You know what "bobby pins" are those little crinkled clips of wire which women use to confine their shortest tresses. You know what cornstarks are: and old newspapers.

The "bobby pins," the corn stalks and the newspapers all have been combined with generous additions of paint — and genius — to make Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition a thing of such unique beauty that architects from the four ends of the earth already are coming to view it.

The fair builders noticed that the "bobby pins" held their wives' hair with a nary a strand out of place. So they ordered jumbo-size "bobby pins" to clip the walls of the fair buildings together.

The walls they made out of compressed corn stalks. For insulation they used a pulpplaster made principally of newspapers.

Some of the walls they painted silver; others they left a natural cream.

Nowhere did they cut any windows. They could have been expensive; would have ruined spectacular lighting effects; and would have been out of harmony with the super-modernistic architectural style.

The buildings themselves are long for the most part, and low, with sweeping vistas broken only occasionally with protuberances. Nothing is added to the buildings that isn't necessary for practical purposes. That, say the architects, is the essence of modernism.

These architects claim that the fair will have its effect on international architecture for years to come; that it already has influenced the night lighting of skyscrapers.

Panels of colored fabric, glass and reflecting metal, treated with radioactive substance, embellish great halls, rotundas and galleries. Pin prick holes in walls and ceilings floodlight whole rooms.

"It is astonishing how much light you can get through a pin hole — if you only know how to do it," commented Illuminating Engineer Edwin D. Tillson.

He has devised columns of realistic red fire for entrances; he has built gigantic color-organs and he has conceived for the first time the effects of ultra violet rays in outdoor illumination.

The fair opens on June 1, 1933 and will close 150 days later on Nov. 1. Sponsors hope that 50,000,000 persons will enter the gates, counting "repeats." The customers will pay a general admission price of 50 cents each.

CHAPTER II

"Cousin Amos would land here in five minutes it takes me to wash up!" murmured Linda rebelliously as a loud rarely heard front door bell reverberated through the quiet house. The crunch of gravel outside had warned her, but she had hoped it might be a belated delivery to the kitchen. "And he would ring that fire-gong instead of walking right in the open door!"

Frantically she mopped her hands and shook back the damp hair which demanded combing before she could decently appear in public.

"There goes poor Rosie! Upstairs, of course, and I told her I'd let in the people when they came. Drat! — I've spoiled that powder all over the dresser!"

But in the sketchy yet effective

modern manner Linda appeared combed, powdered and only a little breathless hard on the heels of the buxom Irish girl who admitted the first of the weekend visitors.

"Hello, my dear, how are you?" The rather pleasantly pink-cheeked, middle-aged man who had waited correctly on the doorstep outside the unlocked screen door turned and gestured to the chauffeur of a severely impressive limousine. The man brought into the entrance hall a handsome, if somewhat antiquated suitcase and one of those prime two-handled soft bags which seem to have been invented to fit the descriptive name of "Boston bag." A nod — on more — dismissed the chauffeur and in a moment the fine car slipped silently away from the broad colonial entrance of White Haven.

"Just leave your bags here!" urged Linda. "Tom will take them up-stairs. He's gone to the station, but he'll be back in 10 minutes or so."

"Nonsense!" Having bestowed a firm yet emotionless kiss upon Linda's cheek, Cousin Amos now hung a light overcoat over one arm and pinned it there by the crook handle of a neatly folded umbrella, picked up the Boston bag and was preparing to lift the heavier suitcase. "No child — I need no assistance. You would find this portmanteau difficult to lift. The crutch of gravel outside had warned her, but she had hoped it might be a belated delivery to the kitchen. "And he would ring that fire-gong instead of walking right in the open door!"

Frantically she mopped her hands and shook back the damp hair which demanded combing before she could decently appear in public.

"There goes poor Rosie! Upstairs, of course, and I told her I'd let in the people when they came. Drat! — I've spoiled that powder all over the dresser!"

But in the sketchy yet effective

achieved in the beautiful enclosed car of a commuting banker-acquaintance.

"Quite an establishment you have here, my dear — quite an establishment!"

In spite of his assurance of physical vigor, Cousin Amos had stopped at the top of the rounded staircase, ostensibly to catch the view through the long windows of a central upper hall. He was breathing a little quickly, but seemed to think that fluent conversation, properly spaced, would conceal the fact. "Now is that — I am sure it is — the Sound I see?"

"Yes," Through Linda's irreverent mind flitted the ancient chestnut of Long Island vintage. "On the other side, you know, you hear the sea!"

"Ah!" Cousin Amos turned to look out the windows over the stairs, and beheld only blue sky and the tips of trees beyond the entrance gate.

"Oh, the other side of the island — it's a—a sort of saying."

Cousin Amos evidently thought her unsuitably flippant, for the slightest indication of a frown crossed the baby-smoothness of his unlined face. He stopped to the handle of the suitcase which he had set down on the top step.

"This way —" Linda threw open the first door down a short hall. "You have a room where you can see the — er — the water."

Cousin Amos took possession.

"Very pleasant, my dear very pleasant. I'll open the windows if you don't mind. Fresh air can hurt nobody — Linda — I always have all I can let into a room, winter or summer."

Linda was pulling up blinds left shut to keep in the cooler early morning air.

"This room gets plenty of sun," she said. "It's been too hot today to open up. Oh, if you don't mind, Cousin Amos —" (as he approached a casement window at the end of the room) "I'd rather keep that closed. It gives on the little balcony — it's really a door, you see. The catch at the bottom doesn't work just right and once it's open it makes a horrid noise if there's the slightest breeze and it's almost impossible to shut it fast again."

Cousin Amos stopped, but his face reflected his disapproval.

"You have plenty of air," said Linda firmly. "The breeze off the water comes in these windows. You can leave your door open at night if you wish — the door across the hall isn't right opposite you."

"There will be other guests?"

Cousin Amos made no promise about the casement window but his pained look gave way to one of polite interest.

"Four others — all men."

"Four! I trust it is convenient for me to —? But I and my Thomas keep up a large establishment. He must be prospering — prospering mightily."

Linda kept her patience.

"We have a good-sized house," she laughed. "Tom's uncle left it to him last winter and as his mother lives by herself in a little house down the road we moved out from town to live here until we sell it. Then, too, Tom is salesman of a firm that has connections all over the world and he entertains people all the time. Instead of sending some of them to hotels we have them here — the firm allows us so much a month. It's pleasanter for out-of-town guests and it helps us swing the house."

"You — er — swing —" began Cousin Amos with his bland persistence when the sound of gravel impetuously ground below a motor's wheels brought a welcome interruption.

"There's Tom!" exclaimed Linda, stifling her relief politely. "And he has two of the guests with him. You'll excuse me, Cousin Amos! When you are rested join us down stairs. We'll have tea on the lawn. Go out the front door, on this side

Week-end MURDER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The story opens with a prologue in which a murder is committed by a homicidal maniac. Later he boards a train for Long Island thinking of the pleasant week-end he is to have there. The name of the murderer is not disclosed.

The scene shifts to the Long Island home of Linda and Tom Averill, married three years and much in love. Linda announces that instead of three guests over the weekend they are to have five. The guests will be Cousin Amos Peabody, elderly, distant relative of Linda's who was in New York on business and invited himself to visit the Averills; Captain De Vos, handsome Belgian representative of a European perfume manufacturer with whom Averill hopes to do business; Mr. Statlander, middlewestern manager of the firm Averill works for; Marvin Pratt, former suitor of Linda's whom she has not seen for several years, and Lian Shaughnessy, Irish writer on a lecture tour. Tom goes to the train to meet these guests.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Hello, my dear, how are you?" The rather pleasantly pink-cheeked, middle-aged man who had waited correctly on the doorstep outside the unlocked screen door turned and gestured to the chauffeur of a severely impressive limousine. The man brought into the entrance hall a handsome, if somewhat antiquated suitcase and one of those prime two-handled soft bags which seem to have been invented to fit the descriptive name of "Boston bag." That the business concerns of your city can meet your every requirement.

They take great pride in their ability to fill your orders and assure you prompt service.

When you buy from them you see what you buy and get it right now.

Your local dealers fully realize that their success depends upon satisfied customers and they make every effort to give you the quality and service that is necessary to keep you satisfied.

When you buy at home you see what you buy and take it home with you. If not as represented, you get quick adjustment.

When you buy from a peddler or a catalogue you get, some day, what they send you—maybe you will like it and maybe you won't.

If you investigate you will find you can get more for your dollar at home than you can elsewhere.

Local merchants offer you better quality at better prices.

Merchandise bought in the home city not only represents "good buys" from the standpoint of value received, but there is still greater value in the fact that you have kept the money at home working for the home city.

STOCK MARKET IS OPTIMISTIC AFTER VOTE

In weekly review of business and financial conditions The Wall Street Journal says: Optimism returned to Wall street two days after the presidential election of 1932 passed into history, and stocks staged a dynamic recovery as the week closed, pushing through the upper levels of the trading range which has prevailed since early October.

Renewed interest in the market was generated by a number of factors. The attempt of England and France to win reconsideration of their debts before the December 15 payments fall due was one major development. Others were the regular dividend declarations by Union Pacific and National Dairy Products and the better showing made by commodities, particularly cotton.

The industrial led the market upward. They were benefited first by the Steel Corp's unfilled tonnage report, recording the third monthly increase in the corporation's backlog. Another factor in the demand for steel shares was the return to the market of miscellaneous buyers.

Rails were quick to swing into line and some of them even outstripped the industrials. The October earnings statements of the carriers, which should begin to appear in volume within the next two weeks are certain to make good reading. The traffic level in October was substantially above that of September and, with expenses pared, the roads will carry almost all the increase in gross to their net income.

Late electric output figures recorded a smaller percentage decline from 1931 than figures for the two previous weeks. Utility stocks were good performers during the recovery in the latter part of the week, and were not unsettled by adverse rate decisions.

Brilliant performers during the week were stocks of companies which would be benefited by the return of beer. They celebrated the political victory of the wet by scoring wide gains. Owens Illinois Glass Crown Cork, United States Industrial Alcohol, Mack Trucks and a number of others all came in for marked attention. Owens Illinois Glass was the leader of the group. By the end of the week, the impetus for their upswing was somewhat spent.

The steel industry continued to feel the effects of pre-election caution in buying by miscellaneous consumers, but there was a resumption of demand by several of these users after the results became known and it was increasingly evident that the influence on business was negligible. It is still too early to predict that the orders for steel will increase again in the coming weeks, and much will depend upon sentiment among consumers as to whether they desire to replenish their depleted stocks. Meanwhile ingot production has held comparatively well, only a small fractional drop being recorded from the preceding week.

Jones averages follows:

	High	Low	Close
30 Industrials	$68.03	$61.67	$68.03
20 Railroads	30.58	26.94	30.58
20 Utilities	29.99	26.72	29.88
40 Bonds	78.96	78.34	78.96

Cisco's minimum quota is 500 members. May we not have a thousand?

National Red Cross has been unusually generous to Cisco and Eastland county, and although relief allotted is not based on membership or what is paid into the National organization from any given chapter or area, but strictly upon the need of the community, regardless of how the organization has been supported in that particular community, at the same time, due to the liberal assistance we have received within the past year or two, in no uncertain terms by providing a 100 per cent membership quota, which I feel confident the loyal citizenship of the Cisco community will do.

Thanking you in advance for a ready and willing response to the committees within the next few days, I am,

The FROST-FISH CAN BE TAKEN NEITHER WITH A ROD NOR WITH A NET!

ALL ONE HAS TO DO TO CATCH FROST-FISH IS JUST PICK THEM UP OFF THE GROUND. THESE MEDITERRANEAN FISH COME ASHORE DURING THE FROSTY AUTUMN NIGHTS, AND SOON DIE OF EXPOSURE. FISHERMEN WALK UP AND DOWN THE BEACH GATHERING THEM.

TWO EXPLANATIONS have been offered as to why the frost-fish casts itself up on the beach when cold and frosty nights appear. Some say that the fish does it in escaping from enemies. The more probable solution is that, since the fish is a deep sea resident, it distends its air-bladder in order to come to the surface to feed, and, because of the cold air, is unable to compress the bladder and return to the depths. Thus it founders about and is washed ashore.

NOV. 25 FIXED FOR E. TEXAS OIL HEARING

AUSTIN, Nov. 14.—A hearing today was tentatively set by the Texas Railroad commission for November 25 to fix the oil allowable for the East Texas field under the new "market demand" statute passed by the legislature.

The law became effective Saturday night when Gov. R. S. Sterling signed it.

The new act differs from the old law under which existing orders limit East Texas production to 40 barrels a well a day. The old law prohibited consideration of market demand. A three-judge federal court held that market demand had been considered and that the order was ruled invalid. Entry of judgment was delayed and the governor called a special session of the legislature to amend the law.

OUT OUR WAY

TEXAS P-T. A. WILL CONVENE AT GALVESTON

GALVESTON, Nov. 14.—The Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers will convene here Nov. 15 for sessions continuing through Nov. 18. The program, with its theme, the safe-guarding of childhood through the present economic crisis, will follow that of the national congress last summer.

Mrs. Hugh Bradford, Sacramento, president of the National Congress, and Mrs. C. E. Roe, Washington, national executive secretary, are expected to attend the meeting. Mrs. Roe has been scheduled to conduct a pre-convention conference.

Though the congress does not open formally until Wednesday, Nov. 16, the board of 75 managers will meet the morning of Tuesday, Nov. 15, and will be given a luncheon the same day.

After formal opening Wednesday with introduction of Mrs. Bradford, officers will make their reports. Mrs. Ella Caruthers Porter, Dallas, will present the trustees' report and Mrs. A. F. Wakefield, San Antonio, the report of endowment.

With Mrs. Bradford leading the afternoon session will be devoted to speeches on phases of the convention theme. Speakers will include Dr. J. A. Hill, president of Texas State Teachers' college, Canyon; Mrs. Flora Thurston, secretary, National Council of Parents Education; Mrs. Maggie W. Barry, special agent, Texas A. & M. college extension service.

Conduct Classes Thursday morning Mesdames

John M. Founts, Dallas, J. H. Moore, Fort Worth and J. M. Crain, Clyde, will conduct classes, respectively, in standards, parliamentary procedure and publicity. Mrs. L. E. Ledbetter, Austin, will conduct a conference on summer round-up work for pre-school children.

Speakers for the general sessions Thursday include Mrs. Violet Greenhill, director, child welfare bureau, Austin; Mrs. Thurston; Mrs. M. A. Taylor a state vice-president, Bonham; T. Alfred Fleming, fire prevention work, New York.

On Friday there will be a study of mental attitudes, with Mrs. A. C. Surman, state chairman and Dr. Titus H. Harris leading. Mrs. Mary Loving, treasurer, Austin, will report on finances and Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith will discuss the White House conference on child welfare.

The final session will be devoted to awards of prizes, adoption of resolutions and selection of the next convention city. Social activities of the congress include a banquet Wednesday night and a playwright Thursday with Dr. David K. Brace, state chairman in charge.

Chesterfields are Milder

Chesterfields Taste Better

To make tobaccos mild and mellow for Chesterfield cigarettes, just about four miles of warehouses are filled with mild, ripe Domestic leaf, stored away to age for two years.

The greater part of 90 million dollars is invested in these tobaccos. Is it surprising that Chesterfields are milder? That they taste better?

Everything known to Science is used to make Chesterfields right! They're mild—and yet They Satisfy.
