Cisco to Have Two-Day Armistice Holiday

Through the Editor's Spectacles By GEORGE

Armistice day and brief surcease from the normal grind for most of us has just about arrived. The day before Armistice, incidentally—and please pardon me for a personal reference—is the anniversary of my arrival in Cisco seven years ago. It was on November 10, 1928, and A. B. O'Flaherty was publishing the Cisco Daily News. The eleventh fell on Sunday that year and we did not publish a paper the following Monday. Instead we went to Chesley field and watched the Lobos defeated by Ranger with a fellow by the name of Hammett chunking the ball in the backfield and doing exceptionally well about it.

The defeat was the expected thing, but it was later found that an ineligible man was in the Ranger ranks so the win was nullified and Abilene and Cisco played for the title here the following Thanksgiving day.

This Armistice we face a similar situation. The only difference will be that Armistice properly falls on Monday. There will be a couple of holidays in a row the Cisco Daily Press will not publish, and Ranger comes to Cisco to play the Lobos. I said the "only" difference. There will be another and material difference. Instead of fighting for the top, the two teams will be battling to keep off the bottom.

Armistice day, the women of the American Legion auxiliary here will sell poppies, the official American Legion flower, emblematic of the peace and beauty that blows over the fields of France where so many American boys sleep, and emblematic, therefore, of what they gave in that terrible struggle. The John William Butts auxiliary corps will be only a few of 100,000 women who will sell poppies on that day. One million dollars is expected to be raised over the nation to be used in taking care of disabled veterans.

No price will be asked for the poppies, each person being free to contribute as much or little as he chooses. Most of the money raised locally will be used in the work of the local post and auxiliary.

Cisco Methodists today were wondering who their pastor is to be next year. They have asked that the Rev. Frank L. Turner be returned, but the mind of the bishop and his cabinet is upon the good of the conference as a whole and in their judgment Turner may be needed elsewhere more than at Cisco. However, the wishes of the local congregation usually rule and the prospect is that he will come back.

An innovation in the method of announcing appointments will take place at the conference at Brownwood today. Usually the bishop reads the list as the last item of business at the evening session of the final day. There will be no night session of the conference today, however, and the appointments will be read immediately after a memorial service at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Methodists planning to go to Brownwood for the last session of the conference will be disappointed if they wait until evening.

The radio report of the Baylor-Texas game was coming in fine at the John H. Garner's department store Saturday afternoon. It was second down of the first series that the Longhorns had possession of the ball.

"You watch," said Henry. "They are supposed to fumble on second down. They always do. It's some sort of a custom. I'm doggoned if it isn't." Sure enough, Texas fumbled.

BULLDOG AND LOBO GAME TO BE FEATURE

Stores to Close Monday; Game Will Start at 2:30 p. m.

With all places of business except drug stores, service stations and cafes closed for the day. Cisco will observe Armistice in anticipated quiet fashion Monday.

A football game between the Cisco Lobos and the Ranger Bulldogs, traditional Armistice day rivals, will furnish the major entertainment.

The game will be played at Chesley field here beginning at 2:30 p. m.

The Cisco Daily Press, giving the staff an opportunity for a two-day vacation, will not publish Monday. The Sunday morning issue will be the last until Tuesday afternoon.

Ranger business district will also close, and a large delegation of Ranger fans is expected to follow the Bulldogs to Cisco for the game.

PRATT NEW MOBIL AGENT

The Magnolia Petroleum company's bulk station at North D avenue and the M. K. and T. tracks, closed for long, has been reopened. The Magnolia has a distributor in Cisco, after having allowed this territory to be served out of Eastland.

New distributor is J. B. Pratt, wholesale oil and gas dealer in this section since 1925. Pratt accepted appointment effective Saturday and will begin immediately the work of distributing a complete line of Mobil products, including Mobilgas, Mobiloils and the other well known products of the Socony-Vacuum company.

His assistant will be Claude Wilson.

The Cisco district will serve Baird, Putnam, Dothan, Nimrod, Cisco and surrounding territory.

PUSH SEARCH FOR AIRMEN

SINGAPORE, Nov. 9. (AP)—Desperate aerial searches for Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, missing nearly two days on his England to Australia speed flight, refused to abandon hope.

It was learned that the plane could remain aloft indefinitely if Kingsford-Smith and Co-pilot Tom Pethybridge were forced down on the Bay of Bengal where they were last seen fighting a monsoon.

Planes and ships searched fruitlessly through the day, however.

Honor Rogers by Supporting Red Cross in Its Mission of Relief, Says Writer

By MRS. P. P. SHEPARD To quote Will Rogers: "The Red Cross is the only thing I can think of in America that we couldn't possibly get along without. If the people only knew one-half of its worth, we could raise any sum of money in 24 hours. My membership this year is already bearing fruit. I've booked twelve benefits and I hope I won't disgrace the organization."

In 1927 Will Rogers was made a life member of the American Red Cross by vote of the central committee, and every cent raised by his programs and special trips in aiding stricken districts was turned over to the local Red Cross organizations, which were struggling to rehabilitate the farms and city homes. It was well known that Will Rogers shouldered all his own expenses as well as those of his flying pilot when touring any of the stricken districts in the Mississippi flood area last year. In his intimate contact with the Red Cross organization, he came to a fuller realization of the value of the Great American Mother in times of destitution, sickness and despair. He passed on his knowledge thus gained to the people who were not able to know of the vastness and completeness of the floods, fire and famine disasters. He gave himself, his money, his talents. Can you honor him by carrying on these deeds of mercy?

PILOT KILLED IN AIR CRASH AT FT. WORTH

Ship, Believed Lost in Fog, Barely Misses Residence

FORT WORTH, Nov. 9. (AP)—Cliff Maus of Waco, pilot with the Braniff Airways, was instantly killed early today when the Waco-bound mail plane crashed in a street of a Riverside suburb and was demolished.

It was believed that Maus became lost in a heavy fog and flew the ship into the ground. The plane fell in a vacant lot, narrowly missing a residence, and bounced 15 feet in the air.

It was estimated to be travelling 200 miles an hour at the crash. It was carrying no passengers or mail. The ship did not burn.

ITALIANS ARE 'DIGGING IN'

(By Associated Press) Italian forces "dug in" around Makale today and pushed advance patrols into the mountains along the southward path to Ambalaji, Ethiopian stronghold.

Around Forrahe, in southern Ethiopia, the Italians controlled all the caravan trails, and were working to consolidate their position en route to Harar.

King George of Britain today gave a ceremonious approval to the application of sanctions.

Thirty-six Italians were killed and 81 wounded, mostly native Askari, in the northern advance. Conceding the loss of Makale, Ethiopian officials asserted the Italians' hardest task was ahead, with Ethiopians massing in mountain positions 15 miles south of Makale.

A Rome communique reported the capture of an Ethiopian detachment between Aksum and the Takazze river. Fascist officials ordered vigilance committees to stop press and public anti-sanctions demonstrations.

Miss Mayhew Bride Of Mr. Henderson

Marriage of Miss Nona Mayhew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron L. Mayhew, to Mr. Leon Henderson, son of City Comm'r and Mrs. H. C. Henderson, took place at 10 o'clock last night at the Presbyterian manse. Dr. J. Stuart Pearce, Presbyterian pastor, officiated. The couple left for Mineral Wells and other points on a honeymoon trip.

STORM SPENT. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 9. (AP)—A weather bureau advisory "Storm dissipated" cheered Florida coastal residents today. All storm warnings were down.

Son of Mrs. Lane Is Reported Killed

Death of Doswell Lane, 41, son of Mrs. J. M. Lane, who was buried here last week; in an automobile accident Thursday near Almagorda, N. M., and his burial at that place Friday, was reported Saturday in a telegram to the Rev. Frank L. Turner, pastor of the First Methodist church here. Details of the accident were not known.

CLIPPER LANDS SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 9. (AP)—The Pan-American's China clipper landed in San Diego bay late today, completing a 3,100-mile stop flight from Miami, Florida. The elapsed time for the second leg of the trip, from Acapulco, Mexico, to San Diego, was 12 hours and 21 minutes.

The Nation Celebrates Armistice Day

WORK BEGINS THURSDAY ON ONE OF TWO HATCHERY JOBS

Work on one of the two state fish hatchery WPA projects here will begin next, Thursday with a force of 20 men, Fish Hatchery Supt. S. B. Wright announced. The force will be increased as rapidly as possible, he said. Employment of the men is through the NRS office at Eastland.

Cecil Prickett will be project manager, representing the WPA. The first project to be undertaken is that for rebuilding the water system of the hatchery. The second provides for prevention of erosion of hatchery lands by Sandy creek and the creek that follows the state park canyon.

Although work is starting upon only one of the two at this time, the second will be undertaken within a short time, Wright said. Together they call for an expenditure of $35,000 approximately.

Miss King Attends Academy Meeting

Miss Effie King, for five years head of the science department of Randolph college, is spending the week-end at the state science academy in the agricultural research laboratory of A. and M. college, College Station. She was elected a member of the academy five years ago and has taken active part in meetings with the leading scientists of the state. Last year sessions were held at the University of Texas.

Miss King obtained her master's degree at the University of Chicago and has spent vacation periods in study at the University of Kentucky.

Armistice Ceremonies Are to Be Broadcast

Armistice day ceremonies at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery will be broadcast at 11 a. m., EST, Monday continuing an hour, it was announced Saturday. The broadcast will be carried over the Blue network of the National Broadcasting company. The national commander of the American Legion and national president of the auxiliary will speak.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Goss, formerly of Cisco and now with the U. S. soil conservation service at Kaufman, Texas, arrived Saturday for a brief holiday visit.

'SHOWDOWN' IN RELATIONS SEEMS NEAR

Satisfaction Demanded For Slaying of Japanese

SHANGHAI, Nov. 10 (Sunday) (AP)—Nearly 2,000 Japanese marines marched into demilitarized sections of Shanghai today after assassination of one of their comrades, and a "showdown" in the critical Sino-Japanese relations appeared at hand.

Bayonets fixed, the battalion was mobilized from three Japanese warships in the harbor and hurriedly sent into the native quarters where the slaying occurred. They appeared prepared to enforce a threat by the Japanese embassy of drastic action unless satisfaction is quickly forthcoming.

The marine, Hideo Nakayama, was shot through the back of the neck. The Chinese were panicked as the Japanese marched through the streets.

Several suspects were reported to have been arrested. The Japanese embassy demanded the immediate apprehension of the killer, threatening drastic action.

The situation resembled the tense days of the 1933 hostilities. The Japanese asserted that the shooting was unprovoked, and said "it was hoped the Chinese authorities will make an effort to dispel the dark clouds that are seeming to hover Sino-Japanese relations."

Dance Tickets on Sale to Dean Drug

Tickets for the Armistice day dance at Lake Cisco will be on sale at Dean Drug store, it was announced Saturday by P. G. Berry, manager of the amusement company.

Glen Lee and his radio orchestra, now playing a longtime engagement at Dallas after a seven-month run at the Morrison hotel, Chicago, will play for the dance. A limit of 450 couples will be observed. The dance will begin at 9 o'clock.

PENSION BILL TO GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—Gov. Allred today received the first major enactment of the second special session, the old-age pension administrative bill which will be impotent without new taxes to pay the cost.

House drows last night forced the liquor control bill into conference with a majority of conferees pledged to permit the sale of liquor in unbroken packages only.

The drows kept the membership behind locked doors while sergeant-at-arms searched the city after several wets who, seeing their cause apparently lost, bolted from the hall.

Berry Returns With Family From Ohio

P. G. Berry, manager of the Lake Cisco Amusement company, returned Friday night from Middlepoint, O., with Mrs. Berry and their 11-year-old daughter, Gradyne. Mr. Berry assumed management of the resort about a month ago. In doing so, he returned to an old job, having opened the amusement place when it was established here.

The biggest entertainment event of his present management will be offered Armistice day night when Glen Lee, noted radio band director, will bring his musicians to Cisco for an Armistice dance, limited to 450 couples.

'MAN'S STORE' MOVES SOON

The Man's Store, Miller-Lauderdale, is expected to begin moving to its new quarters adjoining the First National bank, Tuesday. Moving, said Nick Miller, manager, is hoped to be completed Thursday.

The new location, twice the width of its present, has been refinished in modern theme, designed to make it one of the most attractive stores in west Texas.

The front will be of Carrara black glass. Entrance will be through a 15-foot vestibule, with terrazzo flooring, between deep show windows, floored in two-tone hardwood squares, with ceiling and backgrounds of natural fir. Interior of the building, with red cement under foot and light ivory finishing for the ceiling and wall, will be equipped with fixtures of the type now used, increased with additional cases to occupy the larger space.

Although the work was done by a Dallas contractor, ninety per cent local labor was used. The Pittsburgh Glass company is installing the front with expert workmen who, of course, were not available here. Painting and concrete work is being done by local men.

VISIT DAVISES

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Fussell and two sons of Ozona, Texas, arrived Saturday afternoon for an Armistice holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Connie Davis.

Weather

WEST TEXAS—Rains probably turning to snow in the panhandle Sunday. Much colder in the north Sunday with cold wave and livestock warnings north and temperature in the twenties Sunday night in the panhandle. EAST TEXAS—Sunday showers; much colder in the northwest Sunday afternoon and night.

Ranger Slated to Win Armistice Day Struggle Here Monday

LOBOES HAVE SMALL CHANCE FOR VICTORY

Some subtle, unspoken sentiment appears to be brewing at Ranger as the time for the annual Armistice day clash between the Ranger Bulldogs and the Cisco Loboes draws near. Suddenly, like the hush before a storm, football talk up and down Ranger's main street has ceased. Bill Mayes, editor of the Ranger Times, marvels at this unaccountable phenomenon.

"Last week everyone was talking football and the changes that were being made in the team," said he. "The talk almost supplanted every other topic of conversation, and even the weather was mentioned on rare occasions. Then came the Sweetwater game of last Saturday, and all football talk seemed to die, for no apparent reason. We heard no one discuss the game, which was very unusual, and no one has been talking about the Ranger-Cisco game, for the first time even in the memory of Bob Norman."

The Usual Thing.
Usually by November 8, explained Mayes, business in Ranger has about come to a standstill "because no one wants to waste time that could be used in discussing football for such foolish things as business, and if anyone should go so haywire as to want to make some foolish purchase like a pair of shoes," he couldn't get the clerk's attention long enough to make the transaction.

"The change has apparently swept over the entire town. The subject seems to be taboo and we haven't even heard anyone make a bet on the outcome of the game. It seems to be almost as forgotten as the Italian invasion of Ethiopia."

"We haven't been out to Lillard field, the local graveyard of forlorn hopes, in some time, but no doubt the Bulldogs are still maintaining a lively interest in preparations for the game."

Before game time, a frenzy of football fever is expected to sweep the town, said Mayes.

Bodes No Good.
And, no doubt, he is right. The unorthodox situation at Ranger bodes no good for the Loboes when the game is played here Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on Chesley field.

Predictions here are free that the Cisco team is due for another walloping, leaving them definitely in the cellar of the district, clutching a fragmen of percentage from their scoreless tie with the Eastland Mavericks as the single solace of their conference season.

Ranger, rejuvenated by the promotion of earnest reserves to the shoes of veterans who didn't give a cuss, is on the comeback trail for sure. They are due to win over the Loboes here Armistice day.

CHEAP BATHS FOR TARS
TOKYO, Nov. 8. (AP)—Barbers and bathhouse keepers cut their rates in half when the Japanese navy put into Tokyo Bay recently at the conclusion of two and a half months of maneuvers in the northwest Pacific. Some 40,000 blue-jackets swarmed ashore.

Theodore Roosevelt Among First to Realize Influence Rogers Later Had

Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt was among the first to realize the influence Will Rogers was to play in American life.

Albert D. Lasker, advertising genius, recalls an episode in the life of Will Rogers, indicating his honesty of opinion which was so definitely recognized by the American public.

Mr. Lasker says:
"The first time that I had the pleasure and privilege of meeting Will Rogers was in the last days of October, 1918—just 17 years ago. It was at that time assistant to Will H. Hays, chairman of the republican national committee.

"Late one afternoon, ex-President Theodore Roosevelt phoned me to come to his office. Arriving there he took me aside, and said: 'I have in one of my rooms a man to whom I wish to make you known. I met him but a few days ago. He and I are living at the same hotel. He is an actor who is performing in a midnight Ziegfeld show on the roof of the Amsterdam theater. His turn consists of a monologue wherein he makes comments on current events. The man has such a keen insight into the American panorama and the American people that I feel, in the course of time, he is bound to be a great factor in the political life of the nation.

"I have told him of the work you are doing. I want you to meet him, because his good-will can prove a great asset to our party."

"He then took me into the adjoining room, introduced me to Will Rogers and retired.

"I told Mr. Rogers what Colonel Roosevelt had said. We had a half hour together and as he was leaving Mr. Rogers said: 'I shall be glad to have you consult with me at any time, but I want you to know that I consider that I must ever hold myself an unbiased commentator on public affairs. I cannot permit myself to let my reactions become prejudiced. Even though, personally, I am a democrat, wherever I consider it in the public weal, I will be glad to cooperate with you; but when it seems to me that your party should be lambasted, I will join with the democrats against you as quickly as I would criticize them, if I felt they had it coming'.

"Will Rogers was little known then outside of certain circles in Manhattan. He was just coming. He had the courage in Colonel Roosevelt's office to candidly say what his attitude toward the republicans would be under certain circumstances. And he showed that he meant to keep himself unbiased in so far as a man could. To that resolve he adhered throughout his life.

"It was the honesty of his opinion that was one of the greatest holds he had on the American people.

"What he said to me that day was not said in bombast, but with the modesty that always characterized him. At that time neither he nor I dreamed of the extent to which his voice would some day carry—but Colonel Roosevelt prophetically appraised it.

"Only a week after Will Rogers' death, I was dining with Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, the second, and when Will Rogers' name came up he said to me: 'I want to tell you an interesting thing. I spent the evening with Will Rogers a few weeks ago and in talking of my father he told me of an incident that happened when he first met you.'

"Colonel Roosevelt then repeated to me, word for word, as coming from Will Rogers to him a few weeks before, what I have here recorded that Rogers said to me in 1918."

CISCO PEOPLE MAY CONTRIBUTE

Cisco people have an opportunity to contribute to the memory of Will Rogers. Famous friends have organized the Will Rogers Memorial commission. The First National Bank of Cisco will be glad to accept contributions to this fund so that the donor will have assurance that the contribution will be safely received by the proper authorities. Every cent subscribed will be used for memorials to be selected by Henry Ford, Herbert Hoover, Alfred E. Smith, Will H. Hays, Jesse H. Jones, Owen D. Young, Vice President John H. Garner and other men and women of national prestige and respect. The memorials will depend upon the number who contribute—but they will be used for charitable, educational, and humanitarian purposes. There will be no cold shaft to honor the memory of this warm, friendly man. They will be living, continuing memorials.

Supreme Court May Act Soon On Cotton Law

By WILLIAM S. WHITE. WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. (AP)—

Toward a life or death verdict in the United States supreme court, the beleaguered Bankhead cotton act is moving with gathering speed.

Already having consented to review one case challenging the law on half a dozen major grounds, the court has directed the government to offer, by November 11, arguments why another and more far-reaching assault on the measure should not also be heard. There is a prospect that if the nine justices decide to open the door to the second suit—that brought by the state of Georgia through Governor Eugene Talmadge—both may be heard together in December.

What Act Is.
The act, over which a legal storm for months has been brewing, represented the first effort in American history for federal government control of production of a major crop and upon it is based a law for the control of tobacco, another great "money crop."

The Bankhead measure empowers the secretary of agriculture to allocate to cotton growers, upon the basis of past yields, an allowed quota of production. He issues certificates representing this quota to each farmer, who may grow and sell that specified amount without the payment of any tax. Let him get above the quota, however, and a tax representing half the market value of the cotton is slapped on. Criminal penalties are authorized for handling uncertified cotton—a maximum fine of $1,000 and a six-months' jail sentence.

The first of the suits to reach the court, a challenge to the constitutionality of the measure made in the course of an action by Lee Moor, a Texas cotton grower, against the Texas and New Orleans railroad company, embodies most of the assertions made in the Talmadge action, but the latter covers broader constitutional ground and is regarded as affording a more direct test.

The Georgit suit comes directly to the court, whereas Moor's complaint went by way of U. S. district and circuit courts. On no less than eight constitutional grounds does Georgia attack the act. It is claimed to be:

An effort at production control contrary to the 10th amendment, which reserves to the states the power not delegated to congress. (It is contended that if any power exists for controlling production it is in the states and not in Washington.)

In violation of provisions authorizing the levying of taxes only for revenue. (It is claimed that the Bankhead tax is punitive in purpose, merely an "assessment" as a lever for controlling production and price.)

Not authorized under the clause giving congress the right to regulate interstate commerce. (The assertion is that production and even primary marketing of cotton is wholly intrastate, or local.)

In violation of clauses providing taxes shall be uniform. (It is asserted that the secretary of agriculture is allowed under the act to make different tax exemptions in different states.)

In violation of other provisions in that it delegates to farmers the right to decide whether taxes shall be levied in future.

Contrary to the fifth amendment, in that it brings about deprivation of property without due process of law.

The Moor case brought up the issue in a rather curious way. The railroad declined to ship Moor's cotton from Clint, Texas, because it did not bear the certificates. He sued for an injunction to force acceptance of the cotton. The processing tax, keystone of the AAA voluntary farm programs, is not at issue.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

SYNOPSIS: Anne Farnsworth hopes to straighten out the tangle that is her life with the help of Tecla Sorki, her old nurse, and Tecla's Finnish friends. Because Luke and Lucinda Farnsworth failed to adopt her legally, Anne is being kept from sharing their fortune by Luke's strange will and his stranger relatives. In addition, the Farnsworth fisheries and their fishermen are on the verge of serious labor trouble. Besides Tecla and her children, John Neuman is proving very helpful to her. Anne is now in a Finnish steam bath with the Sorkis.

Chapter 25. HOUSE-RAISING.

The water hissed on the stones, the steam rolled out in billows. The others were singing a Finnish folksong and Tecla was beating time with a bundle of cedar boughs, sending their spicy fragrance through the air.

Rob Crocker had loved Anne Farnsworth. Now he loved Sharlee. Anne sat up straight. Rob Crocker had loved the Farnsworth fisheries. She might as well face the truth. The quick pang of jealousy which had cut through her at the sight of the two changed to contempt.

Rob Crocker had seen Anne only in the reflection of the fisheries. Now that she was no longer connected with them and Lee was in control, he was turning to Sharlee, who stood in the spotlight Anne had commanded. "Time for shower," Tecla announced.

Anne, who had copied the others in flaying her skin with the boughs until it was rosy pink, gasped as the ice cold drops cut down from overhead. She could hear the laugh of others from their cubicles, hear them call in Finnish over the low partitions, but it all seemed very unreal.

Tecla appeared at the door of her shower with a sheet. "The towel is for your hair," she explained, "wrap in this."

"But I'm wet—" "Like velvet your skin when it dries of itself," Tecla promised, and with Anne feeling like a Roman senator, draped in the sheet, she preceded her to a little room lined with bunks.

Anne lay on one of these, smiled at Tecla's insistence she relax. She focused her gaze on the rough boards of the wall and pretended to obey.

She could feel the sting of Sharlee's triumph at having won her fiancée. She didn't love him, and yet... her mouth curved into a piteous smile as she thought of a caricatured scene, Crocker, his arms around the fisheries rather than around Sharlee.

The aching muscles were, easing, the gnawing hurt that the sight of Crocker had brought was dulled. Anne snuggled her head into the pillow. The blessed realization was coming to her that at least she didn't have to face others while she watched Sharlee and Rob; that she wouldn't have to watch them at all, here in this haven.

"Nice nap?" Anne opened her eyes. The others, fully clothed, were standing beside her bunk laughing. Lisa's top knot, triumphantly erect and gleaming with the strenuous brushing it had received, seemed to join in her amusement.

"Was I asleep?" she asked in surprise. They were still laughing when they left the bathhouse, and all about her Anne heard soft chuckling sounds of amusement, peppered with Finnish words.

Like a crowd of school-girls, they trooped to a coffee house built out over the water, sat on high stools at a long counter and drank cups of steaming black coffee, and munched on frosted cakes.

It was here the boys found them. Marching in like a triumphal procession they came, surrounded by friends.

"We've got her," Orvi announced, "she'll be the C F 54, but we'll call her 'Nikki'."

"And Monday, we'll go for a trial cruise," George assured them. "They mean the boat," explained John Neuman.

"You think it is a good boat?" Tecla asked him seriously.

"Fine," Neuman agreed and Tecla nodded with a satisfaction that was amusing to Anne, who saw in it perfect confidence in John's word.

The morning following came the house-raising, although to Anne it seemed more like a tearing down. John, at the request of the others, took charge and Anne understood why. It seemed to her that he was born to command. Under his direction the wall between the two front rooms was leveled. Arch-like stanchions were slipped in to brace the ceiling, the debris swept and the holes the partitions had

In the other rooms neighbors were tearing paper from the walls, patching holes and cracks, and when this was completed, painting wainscoting. Out in the yard a delegation cleared the weeds from flower beds, rebuilt walks and strengthened the long stairway.

Down in the Sorki kitchen the women gathered, cooking great pans of fish pudding, pots of vegetables, squares of berry cobbler and boilers of coffee.

It was, they explained, a festival. Anne caught the spirit of it and, though she understood but little of what was said, she found the laughter and gaiety infectious, and joined them.

John, seeing an inquiring look upon her face, joined her, interpreting their jokes and the folk songs they sang. "I'll bring mothe's books over to you," he promised, dictionaries, translations and her notes.

"You mean she isn't Finnish?" "No, as Irish as Paddy's pig, and my sister took after her, while I—"

"Took after your father. You are all Finn, John," interposed Tecla, laughing.

"No, Tecla, he corrected gravely, "all American."

"Yes," she agreed sobering, "so are we all though we cannot speak the language to let others know we feel so."

Anne awakened with thought of the all-American, the next morning. He was going on the trial cruise of the new boat with them, but she was sure he had nothing to do with trouble she took going through her trunks to find a scarlet sweater and Breton beret to go with her dark slacks. Besides she took equal care to provide Miina with a deft blue outfit.

It was a brisk day with a high wind piling waves into froth capped billows, piling cumulus clouds into downy white masses along the horizon.

Nearing the wharf, Anne noticed a group of men talking. Her attention was distracted for a moment.

Educational Exhibit to Be Here Nov. 18

An opportunity to see one of the greatest educational exhibits of all time will be given the people of this vicinity Monday, November 18, when the Eureka Whaling company of Long Beach, Cal., brings to Cisco their mammoth marine exhibit. The exhibit is transported on a specially constructed railroad car over 100 feet long and will be placed on a siding near the T. & P. freight depot. The feature of the exhibit is "Colossus," a 68-ton whale, over 55 feet long and in a perfect state of preservation, and just as it appeared when encountered off the coast of San Clemente several months ago.

In addition to the whale the exhibit will include over 40 other specimens of marine life such as the octopus, pilot fish, man-eating sharks, sword fish, the Seattle sea monster, a modern type harpoon gun used in the capture of whales.

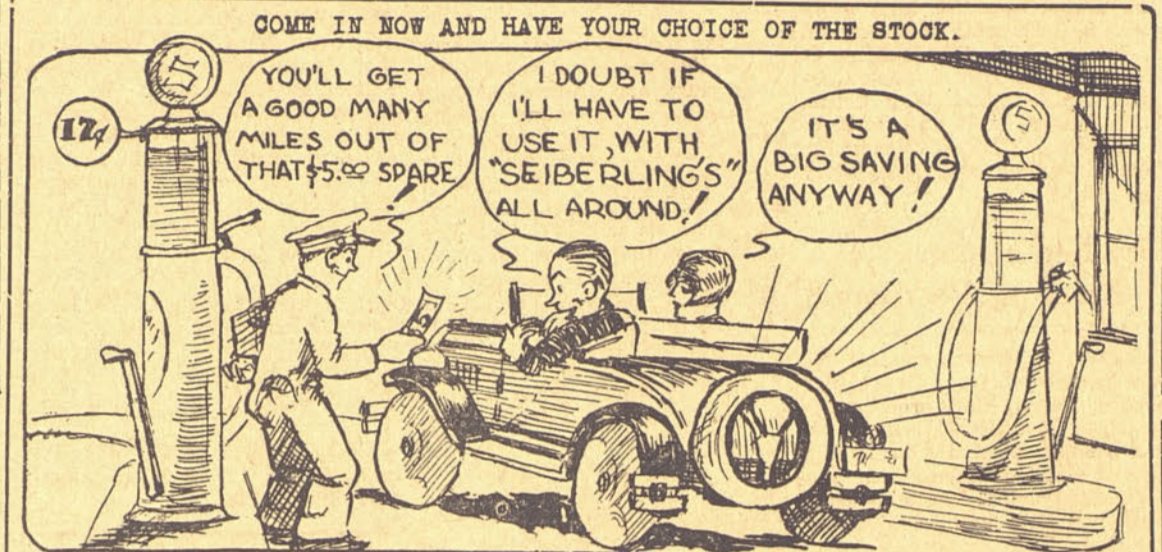

Another feature that accompanies the whale, is Madam Sirwell's flea circus and a family of real live Penguins from Little America. Captain David J. Barnett, veteran whaling commander, and a crew of 30 men accompany the exhibit car. The exhibit will be open to the public from 2 p. m. until 11 p. m. daily.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.
"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 10.

The Golden Text is: "Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? who shall dwell in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart." (Psalms 15:1, 2.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand." (Ephesians 6:13.)

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is true that a knowledge of evil would make man mortal. . . . Has evil the reality of good? Evil is unreal because it is a lie—false in every statement." (page 527.)

Mrs. B. A. Butler will present Misses Betty Slicker and Martha Jo Pass in joint piano recital Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church, assisted by Misses Ellen Reagan, Nanella Bible, Catherine Draganes. Miss Mary Louise Wood, pupil of Mrs. Ray Godfrey and Misses Daisy Wood and Julia Jane Moore, pupils of Mrs. Ben Krauskopf will also appear on the program. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Brice Is Pivot Bridge Club Hostess

Mrs. J. H. Brice was hostess to the members of the Pivot Bridge club Thursday at her home on West Fourteenth street. Chrysanthemums and dahlias were used as a decorative theme in the living room and library. Miss Mary Jane Butts won the high score prize. Refreshments were served to Meses. J. A. Bearman, A. C. Green, Charles Brown, Jack Cabaness, George Atkins, W. J. Leach, K. H. Pittard, E. P. Crawford, R. L. Ponsler, Charles Trammell, Yancey McCrea and Miss Mary Jane Butts.

City Federation Meeting Postponed

The City Federation meeting has been postponed from its regular meeting date, Monday, November 11 to Monday, November 18, at 3 o'clock. At that time it will have a joint meeting with the Music Study club. The state convention reports will be given at that time.

With Ciscoans at Texas University

By HELEN CRAWFORD.
AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—Another week has gone by and the Steers are still trying to get out of the Southwest conference football cellar. Their next opportunity will be in today's game against Baylor. The bears have the edge on Texas because they will be playing on their home field. For the first time since the early part of the season, Hagen McMahon is expected to play. Injuries have prevented him from playing much this year. If the Steers win this game, it will be their twenty-second victory over the Bears in 28 years.

As the football season progresses, so does the social season. Various clubs and fraternities have had and are planning formal dances for the near future. The Kappa Alpha fraternity had its dance last Friday, while the Pi Kappa Alpha and Chi Phi dances are to be soon. The Kappa Sigmas are waiting to sign up an orchestra to announce the date for their formal; last year Vincent Lopee and his orchestra were the ones selected. Plans for a dance were discussed at the last meeting of the Fort Worth club, while the Wichita Falls club is looking forward to a picnic.

The question of establishing a fine arts department in connection with the university is causing quite a bit of comment on the campus and in the Daily Texan. Questionnaires seeking to determine student opinion on the subject appear in the paper every day.

The first division in intramural sports is fast being completed. Final matches in playground ball and tennis are scheduled for men, and in tennis and deck tennis for girls. The next sports to be taken up are football for men and ping pong for women.

The Ashbel, Pierian, and Sidney Lanier literary societies honored their new members Thursday afternoon with a joint tea at the Faculty Women's club. Emma Lee Godbey, an officer of Pierian, was one of the hostesses. Betty Fee Spears and Pauline McClinton, both members of Pierian, were among the guests.

Sidelances — Sterling Drumwright, Mac Woodward of Coleman and Joe Shelton of Abilene are on the Brackenridge hall dance committee and have announced that the dance is to be at the Union building on November 15. . . . Pauline McClinton was at the Kappa Sigma house for dinner again last Sunday. She and J. W. Shepard are planning to attend the Texas-Baylor game in Waco Saturday. . . . Rosalie Leslie of Eastland takes time off from her duties as social director of Scottish Rite dormitory to go to school. . . . Emma Lee Godbey is never too busy for a card game in spite of her six or seven outside activities. . . . Charlie Spears, George Irvine, Eugene Lankford, and Jimmy Smith of Ranger could not resist the temptation to hear Benny Goodman's orchestra Saturday

Double-O Music Club Meets for Business

The Double O Music club met Saturday morning with Mrs. Clifford Yeager in a business meeting. Misses Elsie Pulley and Joan Kimmell played a piano duet. Refreshments were served to Meses Mildred Kimmell, Elsie Pulley, Joan Kimmell, Jacqueline Rupert, Joleen Hanrahan, Mary Caldwell, Helen Louise Lawson, Na-deen Huestis and Tylene Phillips.

Nationalization of Silver Ires Japs

TOKYO, Japan, Nov. 9. (AP)—The publicity bureau of the Japanese war department said today that Japan must oppose China's nationalization of silver. "We cannot overlook the social and political confusion that is bound to come to north China in making attempts to enforce nationalization there," it was said. It said such decisions "hinder the establishment of peace in the far east."

night. . . . Thursday afternoon radio station KNOW broadcast interviews with workmen from the 27th floor of the tower being added to the new library building. . . . Six weeks' exams are on their way and that means plenty of studying for everybody!

Miss Effie King is expected to return today from College Station where she attended a science meeting.

Wesley Harrell of Austin is spending the week-end in Cisco with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Harrell.

Fewer Aches and Pains More Health and Pleasure

PAIN drags you down—physically, mentally, morally.

Why continue to endure it? Try Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for Headache, Neuralgia, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic, and Periodic Pains. They seldom fail.

Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills are pleasant to take and prompt to act. They do not upset the stomach, cause constipation or leave you with a dull, depressed feeling.

Ask your druggist or any of the hundreds of thousands enthusiastic users. Probably you too can find relief.

I think all Dr. Miles medicines are wonderful, but Anti-Pain Pills are my favorite.

Mrs. Doc Blankenship, Stamford, Texas I have used your Anti-Pain Pills only a short time, but they have given me prompt relief. They did for me in a week more than any other medicine I had taken for a year. Phil Goller, Milwaukee, Wisconsin

I am never without Anti-Pain Pills. I think they are much better than anything else I have ever used. Sometimes when I am tired and nervous, and feel like I would go under, I take two Anti-Pain Pills and in a sort time I feel like a different person.

Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania Your Anti-Pain Pills have been used in my home with wonderful results. I recommend them.

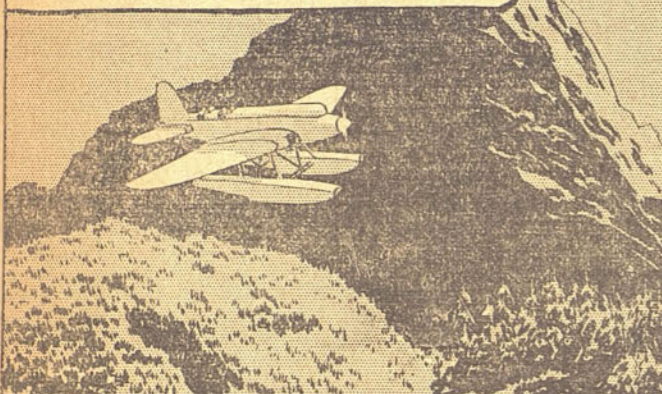

Maggie Belle Dudley, Vanceboro, N. C. Your Anti-Pain Pills helped me a great deal. I have used them for years. I carry them everywhere in my purse and always keep them in the house. They have saved me a great many sick headaches.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Say to them that are of a fearful heart, be strong, fear not: Behold your God will come. They shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow sighing shall flee away.—Isiah 35: 4, 10.

The great I AM, eternal Mind, Reveals to all the holy way, Unerring Truth, wherein we find Love's reign of harmony—today.

He is the happiest man who best understands his happiness; for he is of all men most fully aware that it is only the lofty idea, the untiring, courageous, human idea, that separates gladness from sorrow.—Maeterlinck.

Holding Company Bill

A FEDERAL district judge had held that the holding company act passed by the congress this year is invalid. Four reasons for the opinion are cited by the judge who ruled that a company, previously ordered in receivership, should disregard the act which requires registration with the securities and Exchange commission.

THE U. S. government appeared in the trial as a "friend of the court" and not as an interested party and will not appeal the decision which will have to be taken up by the losing side.

ULTIMATE supreme court pronouncement upon the constitutionality of the act is to be expected. The issue raises the question of how much of the New Deal's legislative "reforms" will be sustained. The NRA has been stricken down, and the gold clause upheld.

rious actual damage. Instead it will operate to maintain the status quo.

PUT the overturning of the act will do serious harm to the principles of the New Deal through which it is hoped to bring about a new order of things in the country. In combination with other New Deal fatalities it will have a tendency to strengthen the position of the antagonists and to weaken confidence of the public in the rightness of the program and the ability of the administration to provide the remedies it promises.

HOLDING companies may be practical and economical in their proper relationship to operating companies for which they are designed to provide the financing. But the fact has been uncovered that these companies, in the hands of shrewd men, form the opportunity for a small, compact group to control the resources of thousands of investors, and by certain manipulations to make them a medium for drawing large tribute to themselves.

THE holding company idea is a good one; but practice as proved the necessity of effective federal regulation to eliminate the abuses to which the system has been put.

IF the present holding company law is stricken down and no effective substitute provided, the administration at Washington will have suffered a worse defeat than the mere outlawing of its bill. It will have suffered a defeat in the prestige of its principles and have established more firmly than ever the practices it seeks to eliminate.

Keeping Rogers Alive

RESPONSE to the invitation for contributions to the Will Rogers Memorial Fund has not been of a character in Cisco to commend the spirit of the community in this worthy cause. Perhaps the matter has not been given sufficient publicity through the newspapers.

THERE may be further reason that many prospective contributors think of the fund in terms of Will Rogers' family and not in terms of the principles that Will Rogers lived. The money will not go to the Will Rogers' estate; it is not a contribution to the family. Mr. Rogers provided ably and amply for his family.

WHAT specific-shape the memorial takes is within the province of the committee to determine. It may be a hospital for crippled children, a foundation to make possible the elimination of serious diseases, an institution of training in which boys and girls may be fitted for useful tasks, or some other institution of culture or rehabilitation whose service will as nearly approximate the ideals of the man who "never saw a man he didn't like."

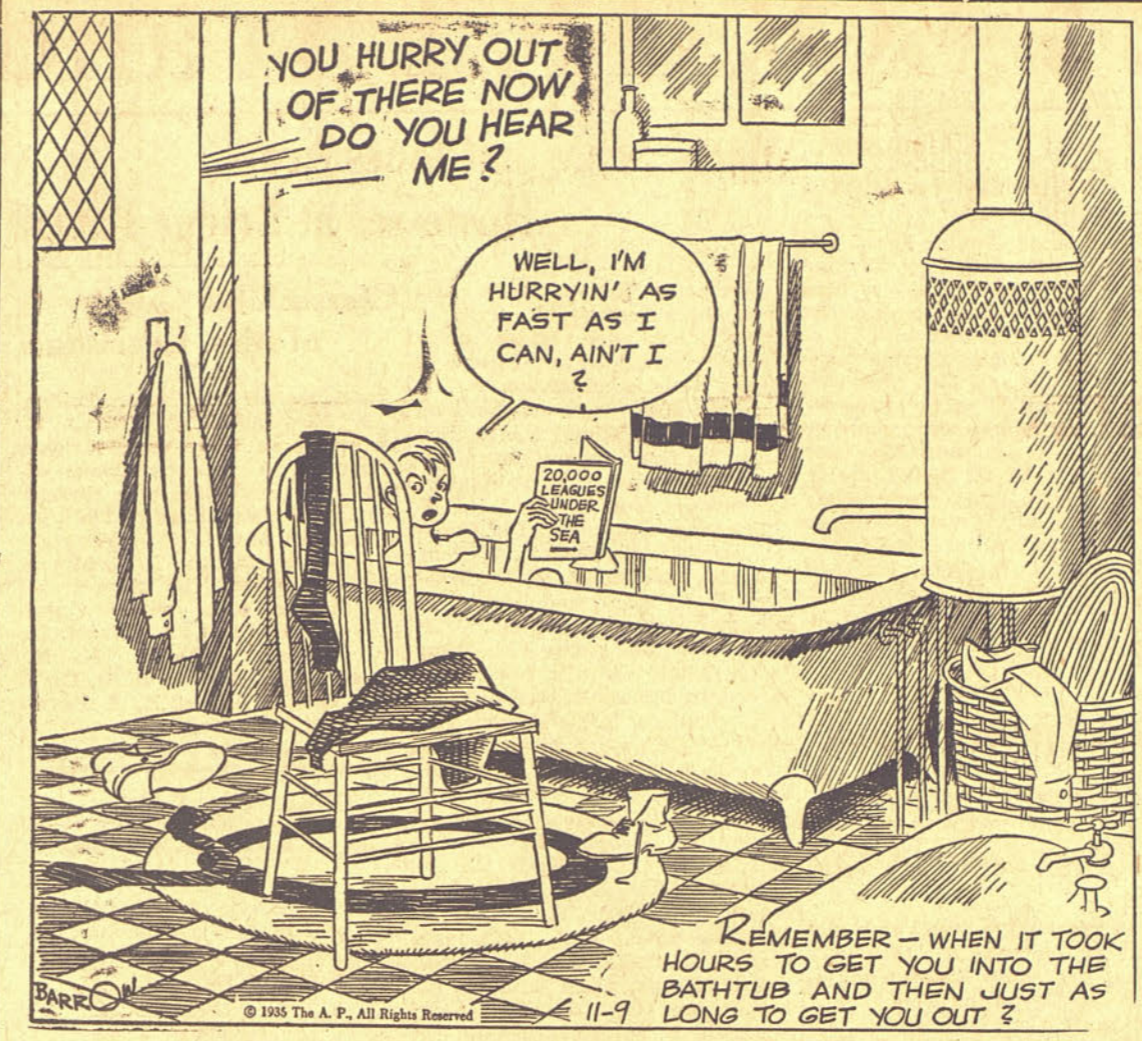

Cisco ought to have a part in this program.

income tax cases with the government. They're laughing at Arthur Mullen, who hasn't yet collected—and won't—the $175,000 bill he submitted to Secretary Ickes in a public power matter.

POWER — The only one who isn't happy over the situation is Secretary Morgenthau and he can't say anything—publicly. He figures his treasury is losing gobs of revenue through this method. Never a believer in compromise—he regularly rejects bootleggers' offers—he wishes the A. G. would give Uncle Sam a chance to fight.

But Morgenthau's hands are tied behind his back, though you wouldn't think so to see him rage. Formerly no income tax case could be compromised unless both the No. 1 financial man and the No. 1 legal man saw eye to eye. That system permitted all actions to be considered from the standpoint of both departments. One served as a check on the other. If they differed, the government went to bat.

THE GAY THIRTIES

these problems was conferred on the A. G. by President Roosevelt's executive order of June 10, 1933. The late "Willie" Woodin, then treasury secretary, was too tied up with bank reorganization to bother with tax troubles. Issued in the New Deal's feverish days, the order's significance escaped public notice. It makes Mr. Cummings a czar in many unsuspected ways. It authorized him to "decide whether and in what manner to prosecute, or to defend, or to compromise, or to appeal, or to abandon prosecution or defense."

ITALIAN — The neutrality sharks have rendered a curbstone opinion that the United States cannot join with the league in withholding raw materials—coal, iron, cotton, petroleum—from Italy. It would require fantastic stretching of neutrality legislation to classify these products as "implements of war," which is the nearest approach to a ban on such supplies.

GREASING—You don't have to squint at the calendar to assure yourself that another presidential campaign is around the corner. Political banners are flying from every official rooftop if you know the signal code.

Mr. Ickes has released impounded funds for PWA projects in Louisiana. Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania has gone to work as chairman of the senatorial campaign committee. The political machines in Philadelphia, Kansas City and Chicago have been well greased. Several patronage misunderstandings which irk ballot-box patriots are in the process of settlement. Jim is writing letters again. He's pulling all the tricks out of his bag.

EARLY? — GOP scouts report that Governor Landon of Kansas has taken the presidential pole position away from Frank Knox of Chicago. Although Senator Borah still runs first in popular polls beyond the Mississippi, political railbirds and business men show keener interest in the Kansas governor.

Landon is an avowed candidate, although he has not admitted even that much publicly. His newspaperman-secretary handles political writers who drop off at Topeka to look over the Calvin Coolidge of the west. They are generously supplied with mimeographs of the governor's speeches and reprints of newspaper biographical sketches, Mr. Landon talks freely to all callers at his office or at his home in the evening.

EXPENSIVE—Extreme anti-war elements are agitating for government acquisition of munitions plants. This subject may be prominent at the coming session. Theoretically it is logical to have the government own factories that produce the very first essential of national defense.

Practically, government ownership has many objections, principally that of cost. Plants must not only be of immense capacity but they must be kept modern—nothing is more worthless than obsolete arms. Private plants produce commercial goods in peace times.

Big naval guns are made by the government at the Washington gun factory. The cost of this factory is enormous. Complete government ownership of all munitions factories would call for staggering sums. The government has found that it cannot afford to monopolize warship construction.

NOTES — Senator Borah's famous saddle-horse "Idaho" strayed out upon a speedway the other day, was struck by a female hit-and-run driver, and had to be shot. . . . The new supreme court building has storage space sufficient for the next hundred years—its papers are now scattered in three deposits, practically inaccessible. . . . Owing to Roosevelt's absence the customary annual visit of courtesy was omitted by the supreme court this October. The court's visit to President Wilson in October, 1920, when he was lying ill, has history behind it. . . . Mrs. Roosevelt will ask, "Should Women Be Allowed to Work?" at the Town Hall meeting in February.

NEW YORK. By JAMES McMULLIN. FOIL—Major George L. Berry made a slight mistake in his letter to the labor unions if he wanted to enlist whole-hearted industrial cooperation in his conferences. He probably didn't intend it, but the letter (which requested information on labor's post-NRA trouble with hours and wages) gave away his strong personal predilection in favor of an NRA substitute. Conservatives also allege he was betrayed a pro-labor bias.

Many business men who had been on the fence about attending his meetings have now definitely decided to stay home. They claim there's no useful purpose to be served by "wasting time" at sessions where the cards are stacked against them in advance. Some anti-New Dealers believe a situation is being rigged to prove that industry can't agree with itself about what should be done (which is true) and that therefore the government must again be empowered to control it.

But the best-posted New Yorkers doubt that FDR has any such immediate objective in mind. They figure rather that he will use the Berry conferences as a foil for discussions of his own with business leaders at which the latter will be assured that no resurrection of NRA will be attempted in '36.

ASSETS — New Yorkers who are trying to appraise the political value to FDR of members of his entourage figure that Secretary Wallace, Chester Davis of the AAA, William I. Myers of the farm credit administration, Jesse Jones of the FRC, Joe Kennedy (if he can be induced to support his former chief actively) and—to some extent — Secretaries Morgenthau and Hull, will be political assets. Most of the other department, bureau and agency chiefs are frankly rated liabilities.

New Policy for Fish Hatcheries Is Undertaken

AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—All nine state fish hatchery superintendents were called Thursday to the office of the Game, Fish and Oyster commission by Executive Secretary W. J. Tucker and formally placed under the direction of Dr. A. H. Wiebe, who outlined a program for stepping up production of fish. The entire field of fish culture was gone over by Tucker and Dr. Wiebe, who already had done some preliminary work at the hatcheries and was familiar with conditions.

Policies Changed
In line with a policy announced at a former meeting of the commission, a new method of fish distribution was explained. The policy of stocking and restocking private waters is to be abandoned on the theory that the fish once supplied by the hatcheries are intended as brood stock and not to meet all the demands of fishermen. It is believed that when a lake is once stocked, with occasional exceptions, it will be self-sustaining if the fishery is properly managed. The tightening up on distribution is for the purpose of being able to supply more of the public waters with fish so that a greater number of people may enjoy fishing. The greatest good to the greatest number of people was the laconic announcement.

Overstocking of lakes was pointed out as an evil to be avoided because overcrowding means an exhaustion of the food supply in the lake, with the result either of starvation or little growth of the fish. Some lakes are rich in food elements, others relatively sterile. The food supply varies with the body of water and it has been pointed out that the abundance of fish is in direct ratio to the value of the land of the surrounding country and the food elements that are washed in from the drainage basin.

Vegetation Control
The problem of controlling an excess of vegetation in the hatchery ponds was discussed with the recommendation by Dr. Wiebe of certain remedies. One of the evils of too much vegetation is that in the later summer there is an excess of decomposition with the production of carbon dioxide and its twin sister, a depletion of dissolved oxygen in the water. Fish parasites were discussed and control measures recommended. In the case of bass, tapeworms which are acquired when the bass happen to eat a small fish so infested, it was suggested by Dr. Wiebe that a test be made by using artificial feed with only enough live food for conditioning purposes. The fish tapeworm, not the kind that afflicts human beings, takes up its abode in the liver and ovaries of the fish, rendering it sterile and useless as a breeder.

Another fish enemy, a parasitic protozoan, afflicts most warm water fishes. The scaleless catfish in particular falls an easy victim to the parasite and this is most apt to happen in stagnant water. Thus, to provide an artificial current, which is more sanitary than still water, a small circular pond, twenty to thirty feet in diameter, has been installed at three of the hatcheries to observe results. It has been found that the flowing water is not only more sanitary but that the current tends to wash away the protozoans. In one of these circular ponds 18,000 catfish of an average length of four inches were reared. The advantage of the small circular pond is that feeding can be controlled and there is no fouling of the water, and it is possible at all times to see what is happening to the fish, which is not the case in a large pond of the old style.

Made of a fibrous substance, a new tip is screwed on billiard cues instead of being cemented.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

The "sour grapes" parable of Ezekiel is not a contradiction of the "third and fourth generation" idea of the Decalogue. For Ezekiel as a prophet and a Jew loved the law and was a zealous advocate of it; hence he would not have been found discrediting it. Rather in his lesson in Ezekiel 18, directed to a correction of their misunderstanding of the statement in Exodus 20. It gave them an excuse for some of their wickedness. Then because a man suffered for some sin that his father may have done before him and that he took up in his own life, he claimed an unjust punishment and an unequal distribution of justice. "The ways of Jehovah are not equal," they would say.

The eating of grapes was common to the people of Ezekiel, and the teeth-edging effect of such eating was a familiar experience. Hence this way of stating their case was a very homely but apt illustration. Ezekiel was not denying the truth of their saying; it was evidently impossible to transfer the painful effect of grape eating to some one else who had not eaten; it was just as unreasonable to transfer the effect of wrong doing to someone who had not done the wrong. But their mistake was in thinking that the latter had occurred. If a man's tooth ached he had evidently eaten the grape; if a man was suffering for some sin he was the one who had sinned.

One of the common arguments against the idea of a Divine government of the world is the prevalence of evil and suffering, and especially an unequal distribution of it. It is true that rain falls on just and unjust, and likewise that drouth happens to both. Many times the innocent suffer terribly, while at the same time the vicious may appear to prosper. But as in the days of Ezekiel we may mistake in thinking that this is the case. Often the sufferer could have escaped his suffering. But I think the principal force of the argument rests in a belief that this life is all. If that is true then we cannot doubt that justice is not distributed. But the belief in God presumes a belief in an after life. What is done within the short span of a man's existence on earth is no basis for a conclusion of what a man gets of good and happiness. The suffering here will seem insignificant in the light of unending time. "Our little afflictions for a moment work for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory," says Paul.

Eastland County Women Cop Prizes for Bedspreads

Eastland county exhibitors in the bi-district Home Demonstration clubs tufted bedspread contest at San Angelo Friday and Saturday won first, second and third place in a field of 126 entries, affording competition of the hardest character.

Mrs. Elbert Ezzell won first place; Mrs. J. M. Dillon second and Mrs. Jim Bolding third. Eastland county exhibitors entered 16 spreads and one wool quilt, tying with Mitchell county women for third place in the number of entries. Ten counties were represented, and there were home demonstration agents from 15 counties. The Eastland county delegation was led by Miss Ruth Ramey, home demonstration agent.

Judging, by Mrs. Bernice Clayton, home improvement specialist, and Miss Maurine Hearn, district home demonstration agent, was based on the following:

Material, size (sufficient to cover mattress, springs, bedding and pillows; standard—90 inches by 108 inches), design, color, workmanship, laundering and finish.

The work done by the Eastland county women drew high praise from the officials and judges.

SIGREDA'S LOVE

THE LION ROSE ON HIS HIND LEGS AND FELL FIERCELY UPON HIS VICTIM; AND THUS DIED RABOLD THE VIKING.

BUT BEFORE THE BEAST COULD DEVOUR HIS PREY, A SUDDEN FLIGHT OF ARROWS RAINED FROM THE PLATFORM AND ENDED HIS LIFE.

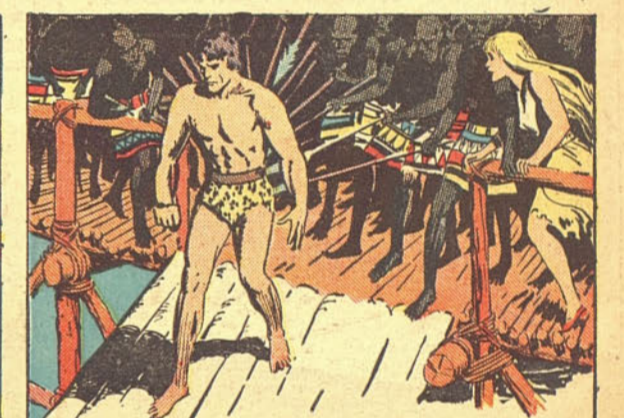

TARZAN TURNED TO THE CANNIBAL CHIEF, SURPRISED THAT THE VENERATED LORD SIMBA SHOULD BE SLAIN. MENG0 EXPLAINED:

"WE FAVOR SIMBA BY KILLING HIM AT THE HEIGHT OF HIS TRIUMPH. HIS HAPPY WORK IS DONE. HE HAS GIVEN US A VICTIM FOR OUR FEAST."

NOW MENG0 ORDERED THAT TARZAN BE UNBOUND FOR ENTRANCE INTO THE FATAL ARENA, FROM WHICH NO MAN EVER RETURNED ALIVE.

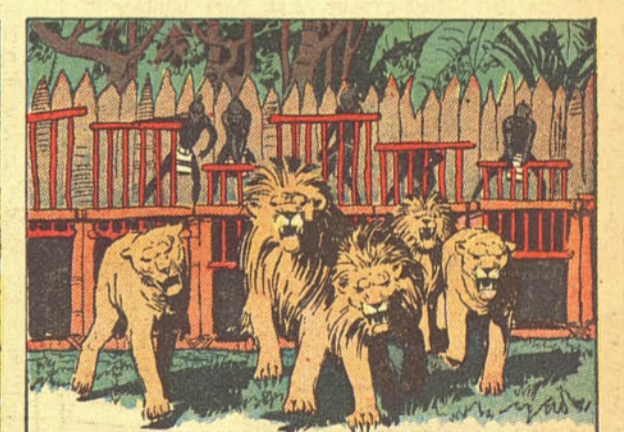

SHARP SPEARS WERE PRESSED AGAINST HIS FLESH. ONE FALSE MOVE, AND THE LANCES WOULD PENETRATE HIS BODY!

TEARS STREAMED NOW FROM SIGREDA'S EYES AS SHE WHISPERED: "FAREWELL, BELOVED, WE SHALL BE UNITED IN DEATH!"

MENG0 RETURNED TARZAN'S HUNTING KNIFE; BUT OF WHAT AVAIL WAS THAT SMALL BLADE IN THE COMING COMBAT?

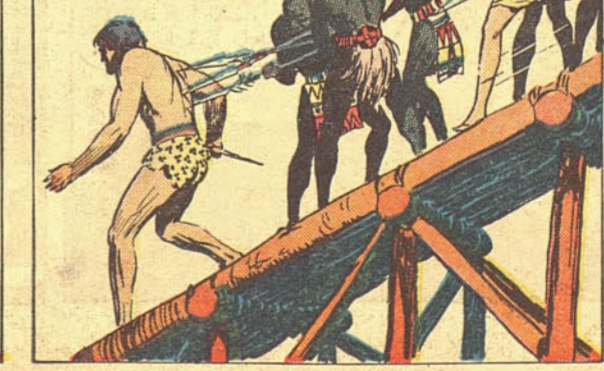

NOW THE CANNIBAL CHIEF SIGNALLED TRIUMPHANTLY AND FIVE RAGING LIONS LEAPED FROM THEIR CAGES.

"HASTE!" MENG0 ROARED. "THRUST TARZAN INTO THE PIT. OR THE LIONS WILL RUSH HERE TO ATTACK US."

AS THE SPEARMEN DROVE THE APE-MAN INTO THE ARENA, A CRY AROSE BEHIND HIM. IT WAS SIGREDA, SCREAMING!

"RATHER THAN WITNESS HIS DEATH, I SHALL DIE." AND THE DISTRAGHT MAIDEN RAN PAST TARZAN TO FACE THE RAGING LIONS!

"DAT LEF' ME WITHOUT PROTECKSHUN FO' MAH HAID! AH HAD T' GIT ME A HAT AN' GIT ONE QUICK!"

"SO AH BEGINS KNOCKIN' GUYS DOWN RIGHT AN' LEF' - AH MUSTA BEEN AWRUL MAD, TH' WAY AH WAS BELTIN' 'EM OUT!"

"DEN FO' AH KNEW IT, SOMEBUDDY STUCK A TOAD-STABBER AGAINST MAH BACK AN' TOL' ME T' START WALKIN'!"

"AH HAD TO EXPLAIN TO TH' ENEMY OFFICAHS HOW COME AH DID WHAT AH DID!"

"AH TOL' HIM AH DIDN'T MEAN NO HARM --- AH WUZ JUS' LOOKIN' FO' A TIN HAT TO TAKE TH' PLACE OF TH' ONE AH LOST!"

"DEY ASK ME HOW COME AH KNOCKS OVAH SO MANY GUYS, AN' AH TOL' 'EM AH HAD TO BEFO' AH COULD FIND A HAT DAT WUZ MAH SIZE!"

DID THEY PUT YOU IN A PRISON CAMP, BIGFOOT?

DEY SHO' DID --- AND FO' A WHILE AH THOUGHT DEY WUZ GONNA SHOOT ME!

BUT THEY DON'T SHOOT PRISONERS OF WAR, DO THEY?

NOT USUALLY! BUT DAT OFFICAH HE SAY, "GOSH, DAT MAN KNOCK OVAH SIXTEEN OF OUR MEN JUS' T' GIT A TIN HAT DAT WOULD FIT HIM!"

DEN HE POINT TO MAH FEET AND SAY HE BET TH' WAR WOULD BE OVAH IF AH EVAH STARTED LOOKIN' FO' A NEW PAIR OF SHOES!

HAWKSHAW the DETECTIVE

THE EPISODE OF THE CHIEF OF THE G-MEN. CONCLUSION

by WATSO

BUT WHO COULD STEAL THE CHIEF'S PAPERS, WITH EVERYTHING LOCKED, AND WE ON GUARD OUTSIDE?

AH! HE'S COMING TO, THANKS TO THE FRESH AIR!

AND DON'T STAND THERE AND DISPUTE A FACT, WATSO --- HERE, FAN HIM, WHILE I EXAMINE THE ROOM!

WHAT'S THIS IN THE FIREPLACE? A TOY BALLOON --- WEIGHTED DOWN WITH AN ARROW-HEAD!

AND HERE'S ANOTHER, COLLAPSED --- EVIDENTLY DROPPED DOWN THE CHIMNEY, AND PUNCTURED BY THE SHARP ARROW POINT, ON HITTING THE FLOOR!

LETTING OUT THE LETHAL GAS WHICH PUT THE CHIEF TO SLEEP --- GET IT, WATSO?

NOW THEN, BOOST ME UP THE CHIMNEY --- THE CULPRIT MUST BE UP ON THE ROOF!

HEH-HEH!

LOOK! IT'S BLACK PETE --- HENCHMAN OF THE PROFESSOR!

SO YOU THOUGHT TO STEAL THE PAPERS WHICH WILL SEND YOU UP FOR LIFE, EH? HERE WITH 'EM, YOU RAT!

AND WHO ARE YOU?

HAWKSHAW THE DETECTIVE!

BUSTER BEANS

By Robt. Dickey

GEE, FELLAS! LAST NIGHT MOTHER WAS TELLING ABOUT AN AWFULY POOR FAMILY

THAT DIDN'T HAVE ENOUGH TO EAT, NOR WARM CLOTHES, NOR NOTHIN'

I'D DO ANYTHING TO HELP RAISE SOME MONEY FOR THEM

SAY, HAVE I GOT A GRAND IDEA!

I'VE HEARD DADDY SAY THE END SOMETIMES JUSTIFIES THE MEANS

THESE OLD CLOTHES OF DADDY'S ARE JUST THE THING, AFTER I CUT OFF THE SLEEVES AND PANTS

I'LL JUST FIX THIS CARD AND BOY ARE WE GOING TO GIVE MOTHER A SURPRISE!

AND THEY DID!

SNUBBY!
