Once Flourishing Mining Town Wiped Out by Flames

FIRE FIRST DISCOVERED BY AVIATOR

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—The little railway junction town of Ludlow, California, was wiped out by fire today. All that remained standing of this once thriving mining community are two railway depots and a roundhouse.

Information as to possible casualties could not be obtained due to interrupted communication.

First reports of the conflagration were received here in a radio dispatch from a T. A. T.-Western Air mail plane pilot who was flying from Los Angeles to Winslow, Arizona.

His reports of the fire were confirmed several hours later when the Postal Telegraph company eventually got through to the town by telephone and learned that all buildings had been demolished with the exception of the Santa Fe railway depot, the Tonitah and Tidewater railway depot and a roundhouse.

Ludlow is a town of about 120 people and consisted of approximately 30 buildings. It is situated between Needles and Barstow. Some years ago it was a thriving mining town but when the mines played out it deteriorated into a mere junction point.

NEWS RADIOED BY AIRMAN. LOS ANGELES, May 23.—A T. A. T.-Western Air mail plane pilot flying from Los Angeles to Winslow, Arizona, radioed headquarters here late today that the desert town of Ludlow, California, was on fire and apparently doomed to destruction.

The aviator, C. W. "Bill" Coyle, circled the town for approximately 15 minutes before proceeding on his route, it was said.

Both Sides Rest in Kirkland Trial

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 23.—Prosecution and defense attorneys rested their cases today and an adjournment until Monday was taken in the second trial of Virgil Kirkland, former Garv high school athlete, charged with the murder of his sweetheart, Arlene Draves.

Kirkland's account yesterday of a strip poker party which he and Arlene attended led the state to call five rebuttal witnesses today. The defense had only one witness on rebuttal.

HEALTH UNIT DIRECTOR IS IN CISCO SAT.

Harvey Miller, in charge of sanitation under the five-county health unit plan now in effect covering El Paso, Shackelford, Stephens, Callahan and Palo Pinto counties was in Cisco Saturday in connection with the operation of the health program under the system recently instituted.

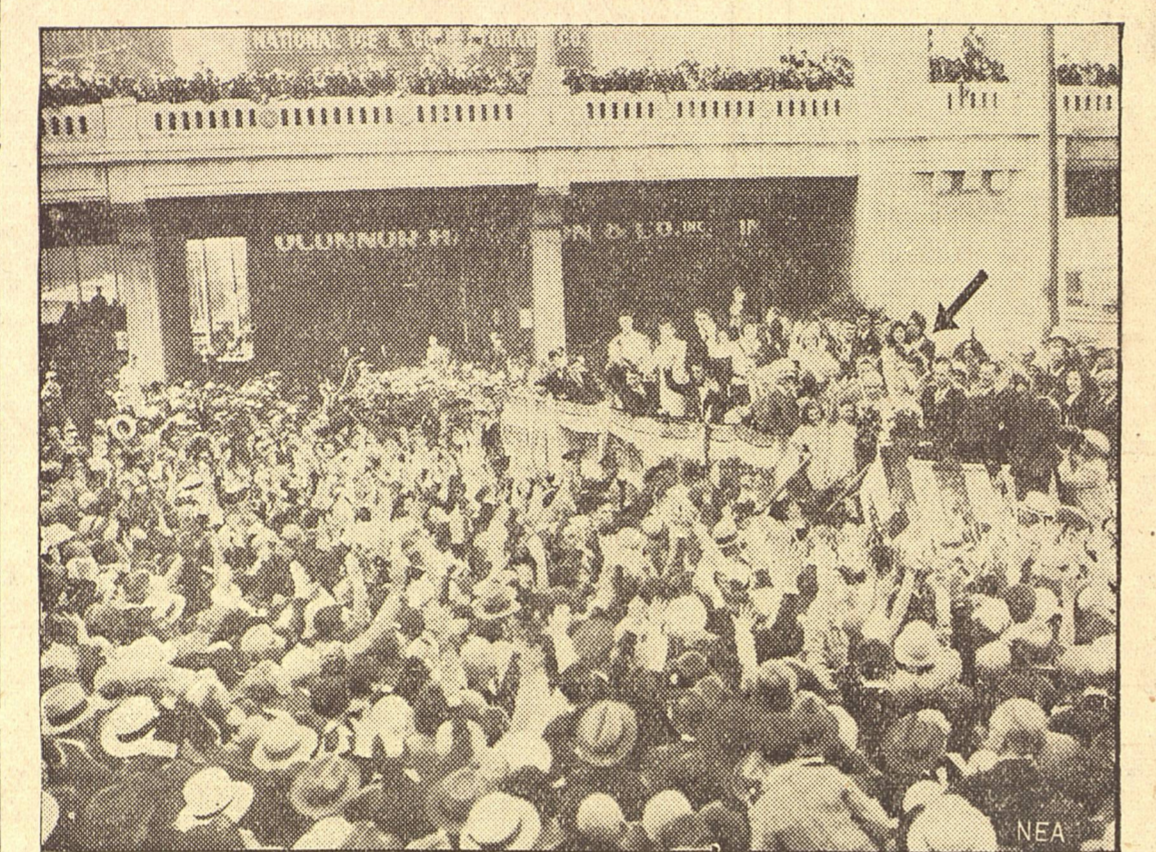

The work covers testing of water supplies, both rural and urban, safeguarding milk supplies, sanitary sewage disposal particularly about rural homes and so forth. Saturday, in company with Dr. F. E. Clark, city health officer, Mr. Miller took samples of city tap water which were sent to Austin for testing in the state laboratories. Next week he plans to inspect all dairies in this vicinity sending samples of milk also to Austin for testing.

Building of sanitary privies on farms to replace surface types is another feature of the work. Such a privy has been constructed at the Lee Diversified farm near here.

Working in connection with Mr. Miller is Miss Margaret Hassley, health nurse in charge of the immunization program. Serums for immunization against contagious diseases are furnished by the state and administered either by the county health officer or the family physician.

This work is made possible by the United States public service working through the state health department. Further funds for carrying on the work will be appropriated upon the basis of results attained. If the five counties show sufficient interest in the project to cooperate with those carrying out the work further and sufficient appropriations will be forthcoming.

Aimee Gets Ovation on Return to Los Angeles

A cheering crowd of Angelus Temple members pressed as closely as this to shout their welcome to their pastor, Aimee McPherson, when she returned to Los Angeles after a tour of the world. The above demonstration took place as Mrs. McPherson (indicated by arrow) spoke just after leaving the train.

The Lobo band left for Tulsa Wednesday morning. It is due back tomorrow evening, although it is possible the return will be started sooner since the band is not playing in the finals.

Marfa, Alpine Want Fort Retained

MARFA, May 23.—Because they believe the days of the wild west with bandit raids and cattle rustlers have not yet gone, citizens of Marfa and Alpine today were campaigning against the abandonment of Fort Russell here.

Fear of renewed bandit raids along the border and an outbreak of hostilities between cattlemen and rustlers has been expressed after the announcement of the war department that the fort with its 350 men will be abandoned in an administrative economy move.

At a mass meeting Marfa citizens voted to send a delegation to Washington to confer with Secretary of War Patrick Hurley.

Search for Girl Shifts to Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 23.—A statewide search for June Taylor, shifted to San Francisco today when it was reported that the attractive young brunette, wanted in connection with the slaying of Charles Crawford and Hubert Spencer in Los Angeles, had paid a hurried visit to the San Quentin prison cell of her associate, Albert Marco, one-time "vice baron" of the southern city.

The woman, police said, had been missing since Thursday night.

Gauge Prepared for Cisco Dam

City Engineer Reagan, who is also superintendent of the water department, is preparing a depth gauge to be painted on the face of Lake Cisco dam. The gauge will run to the top of the big concrete structure and will enable visitors and others to readily comprehend the depth of the big reservoir.

The gauge will be placed on the dam next week, he said.

3 SUSPECTS IN ROBBERY BEING HELD

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 23.—All three suspected members of the bandit trio who robbed the First National bank of Luther were held today facing charges of robbery with firearms.

Two of the suspects were in the county jail and the third member in a hospital. After a posse of 200 officers and citizens captured the men near Luther last night.

The wounded man, who gave his name as C. C. Gregory, 40, Bristow, was brought to a hospital here after shots fired by the citizens posse entered his leg as he attempted to escape them. He was captured 3 miles from Luther a few hours after Oklahoma county officers had arrested his suspected aides. The two men held in jail gave their names as Claude Fugate, 24, Coleman, Texas, and M. W. Bayne, 28, Sapulpa, Oklahoma. Most of the loot of nearly $1,500 was recovered, officers said.

CRUSHER IS MOVED HERE FOR PAVING

The highway department of the state has moved a rock crusher onto the Arthur Cone ranch about a mile north of the city presumably to begin crushing stone for the paving of highway No. 23 north of Cisco.

Several thousands of cubic yards of rock have already been quarried at this place, from which the calciferous material is being used to construct the base of the highway was taken.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST MOB ARE TAKEN

RICHMOND, Missouri, May 23.—County officers today took all possible precaution to forestall any repetition of a move to exercise violence against Paul Haman, 24, negro accused of assaulting a 13-year-old white girl.

About 150 persons, said to have been from the Hardin vicinity in which the child lived with her father and step-mother, milled about the city square and school yard last night muttering threats against Haman.

The child's mother, now separated from the father, mingled with the crowd uttering invectives against the negro and appealing for summary action.

NO PRESIDENT FOR RANDOLPH IS SELECTED

Trustees of Randolph college, meeting in a session that lasted from 1:30 until 5:30 yesterday afternoon, took no action toward choosing a president of the school in the stead of the late President-elect Joseph Keevil further than to select a committee of three business men and one preacher whose duties it will be to make plans for taking care of the financial problems of the school and the recommendation of a president and business manager.

Mr. Keevil was offered the presidency of the college at a meeting last week. He had not accepted the post and was en route to his home at Marfa when the car in which he was riding overturned Saturday afternoon, May 16, fatally injuring him. He was to have succeeded Dr. T. T. Roberts who retires as president with this session.

The committee charged with this responsibility is: Judge Henry L. DeBusk, of Abilene, chairman; J. T. Berry, J. M. Williamson, both of Cisco, and Rev. Walter Jennings, of Lubbock. No time was set for this committee to make a report to the board.

ECONOMY IS URGED TO PREVENT HIGHER TAX

Practice of strict economy in the administration of the affairs of their offices was sought of every county official in a letter from the commissioners' court to these officials recently.

Condition of the revenues of the county was set forth in the letter.

The average monthly expenditure out of the general fund of the county for the first four months of the year was reported as $6,922.57. This rate of expenditure promises a deficit in the fund, the commissioners court pointed out, revealing that the total income for the purpose is $62,671.65, representing 85 or 90 per cent of the potential total.

The court urges that officials make every effort to reduce expenditures of the county so as to bring them within the revenues to be obtained so that there will not be necessary a raise in the tax rate.

Economy Asked. To All County Officials of Eastland County: As county officials, to whom the citizens of Eastland County have entrusted the management of the county's affairs, we are all alike interested in maintaining the county's A-1 rating. We realize that under the present depressed conditions, with property values declining, personal property being removed from the county, and consequently tax collections decreasing, the task of handling the finances of the county so as to maintain its good standing will require the earnest co-operation of the entire official family in an effort to reduce the expenses of county government in proportion to the decrease in revenues. Our bonded debt is fixed, of course, and there is nothing we can do about it but to meet the payments as they fall due, if possible. In order to do so tax levies for this purpose will have to be increased as property values decrease. However, the total county tax rate may be held down by reducing the operating expenses of the county. A large per cent of these expenses are paid out of the General fund which is now carrying the maximum levy allowed by law, namely, 25 cents on the $100 valuation.

GRADUATION EXERCISES TO BEGIN TODAY

With practically all churches in the city dismissing their morning worship for the union services, the commencement exercises at the high school auditorium this morning at 11 o'clock will open the commencement season for the high school graduating class.

The sermon will be preached by the Rev. E. L. Miley, pastor of the First Christian church. Ministers of other churches will take part.

The final event of the season will be the commencement address Friday evening at the high school auditorium to be delivered by Attorney-General James V. Alfred. Diplomas will be presented to almost 60 members of the senior class.

Examinations for students of all the schools—excepting members of the senior class of the high school—will begin Monday. These will conclude Thursday afternoon.

RANDOLPH COMMENCEMENT.

Commencement exercises for Randolph college will begin with the baccalaureate sermon this evening at 8 o'clock at the First Christian church. The Rev. Joseph Keevil, president of the college, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident near his home at Marfa last week, was to have delivered the sermon for this occasion. Dr. John W. Tyndall, Jr., of Oklahoma, will preach in Mr. Keevil's stead.

The commencement exercises will take place Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the First Christian church when Dr. T. T. Roberts, president of the school, will present diplomas to 18 seniors and four graduates of the high school department of the college.

CLAIMS NEW WORK RECORD CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 23.—

William E. Love, 65, claims a record which anyone might envy. In 49 years' service as a master carpenter for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, Love has not missed a pay day. He was retired on pension for this hour.

EDUCATIONAL FISCAL BILL FINAL ACTION

AUSTIN, May 23.—The Texas legislature today ended its 42nd session which was begun on January 13. Intermittent ruffling between house and senate continued almost to the end of the 131 days. House members freely predicted that if the educational appropriation bill agreed to by conferees had been available a few hours earlier it would have been sent back to the senate.

It was the last bill to be finally acted upon. Voting down a proposal to reject a $925,000 building program re-inserted in the bill by the senate, the house finally accepted the entire bill.

A final effort to agree on congressional redistricting failed.

$51,400,000 APPROPRIATIONS

AUSTIN, May 23.—Work of the 42nd session of the Texas legislature was completed shortly after noon with the adoption of the last of the conference committee reports on appropriations.

Appropriations are roughly estimated at $51,400,000 for the two years. Whether the governor can trim them to come within the revenue will be threshed out in the next few weeks.

The educational appropriation bill was the last one to be adopted. Appropriations allowed are: School for Deaf, Austin, $35,000; School of Mines, El Paso, $150,000; San Marcos Normal, $150,000; College of Industrial Arts, Denton, $40,000; Nacogdoches Normal, $150,000; Denton normal, $175,000; College of Arts and Industries, Kingsville, $125,000; and John Tarleton, Junior Agricultural college, Stephenville, $100,000.

STERLING HINTS OF EXTRA SESSION.

AUSTIN, May 23.—Texas lawmakers had their kits all packed this morning ready to go home as a session of 131 days that began January 15. Gov. Ross Sterling left ahead of them, sending a farewell message in which he said the parting is easier to bear as he may call them back in "twenty or thirty days."

Reading of this message in the house last night brought to an end plans to stay through the night to get out the appropriation bill conference reports in time to fight the senate increases over house totals. Although the members had been told by Representative Holder, when they agreed to postpone adjournment until noon today, that Governor Sterling would primum the appropriations to keep them within the revenue if they would stay and pass the bills.

His message a few hours later was taken as an indication that he will veto the appropriations.

No Short-Measure Merchants Here

Some of the pumps and scales used by Cisco merchants vending commodities which are weighed or measured were over but none were short, declared B. E. Owen, state weights and measures inspector who was in Cisco Saturday.

No pumps or scales were condemned. This is an unusual finding, he said, commending the city for the exceptionally honest character of its merchants.

Ordination at Presbyterian Church

This evening at 8 o'clock an unusual ordination and installation service will be witnessed at the First Presbyterian church. Deacons-elect A. E. Jamison and F. D. McMahon will hear an ordination sermon by the Rev. B. C. Boney, who will take their ordination vows, and by the "laying on of hands" by the elders of the church will be ordained deacons, after which their installation will take place with the membership taking part. Mrs. G. B. Drake will be at the pipe organ. The minister in announcing this service urged all officers and members to be present for this hour.

SUSPECT SHOT AND KILLED BY DETECTIVE

AUSTIN, May 23.—Carl M. Campbell, 26, Austin, was shot and killed this morning by City Detective Ike Lightfey. Campbell was under a two-year suspended sentence for theft, court records show.

Sheriff Coley White said Lightfey was looking for Campbell at his request. At an inquiry by City Attorney Rector this morning City Detective Ted Klaus said Campbell and two others were seen rolling an automobile wheel down an avenue near the University of Texas. A wheel had been reported missing from a car.

Campbell alone ran away when accosted, officers said. He was fired on and the one shot killed him, they said.

BEST NINE IN ABILENE WILL OPPOSE SOX

Pitching for the visitors will be Harmon, south-paw whose twirling caused the fast-travelling House of David club great difficulty. Registered that game this youngster registered 14 strike-outs which is a feat in any man's game.

Cisco has played 12 games undefeated this season, tying the House of David nine in a nocturnal battle on the local lot.

Manager Dave Perry is undecided whether he will use Bryan or "Satch" Hensen, ex-Texas leaguer, on the mound. Both boys are in good condition and have won games this season.

The Cisco line-up will probably be: Van Horn, ss; Pippen, 3b; Chapman, cf; Thornton, 1b; Glenn, lf; Eucy, rf; Hill, 2b; Bryan, c, and either Henson or Bryan, p.

STEARL FURNERAL EXPENSES. BELLEVILLE, Ill., May 23.—

Shortly after Adam Boehley drew $300 from a bank to pay funeral expenses of his mother, bandits held him up and robbed him of the entire amount.

NEEDS OF OLD MAN TEXAS.

Out at Lubbock the 13th annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention has completed its session. Establishment of new markets by ranchers and feeders was urged by speakers and to a man they declared that "banks must support the breeder-feeder movement if it is to be successful." The speakers declared Texas was the largest livestock producing state but marketed few finished animals. A Marfa breeder said the goal of the movement two years ago was 200,000 cattle under feed in West Texas by the close of the fifth year, that more than that number was fed in the second year attesting the popularity of the movement.

Chairman W. R. Ely of the Texas highway commission addressed a group of men from the Panhandle, where the largest highway building program is underway and told them that legislators had left the wrong impression with the people by describing the commission as an autocratic body. Of course, the legislative critics of the commission are advocates of an elective and not an appointive commission. If the people of Texas are wise they will never adopt the suggestion of the critics.

What are the demands of the Panhandle group addressed by Chairman Ely? They resolved for a continuation of the federal plan; federal designation of more West Texas highways; final passage of the $25,000 appropriation for the Panhandle Plains Historical society museum at Canyon and endorsed a program for the restoration and preservation of old fort sites and other points of historical interest in the West Texas section. West Texas has the most powerful regional chamber of commerce in the American world. Its leaders and directors have a program. They know what they want. They are not backward in fighting for their demands, or so-called needs, in or out of legislative halls. Their senators and representatives are ever battling for the demands of their constituents. It is an established fact.

COUNTY HOME RULE RESOLUTION PUT AWAY.

In the closing hours of the session the Beck county home rule resolution was put away by a majority of the grave and reverend senators. Although defeated for the time being it is a magnificent proposal for the relief of taxpayers the state over. It is not dead. It is enjoying a little nap and will come to the fore again in the winter of 1932. County home rule, which calls for the consolidation of county-city governments (optional with the voters) and a sweeping reduction in the cost of county-city government, is certain of submission in coming years and it does not require a political prognosticator to go on record as predicting that it will become a part of the organic law of Texas.

HAMILTON READY TO BACK PRORATION TO A FINISH.

William B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls, an outstanding figure in the petroleum world and president of the organization of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce last year and chairman of the oil and gas committee, was one of the speakers at the Lubbock convention. He declared most emphatically that the chamber should continue in its support of proration and that "the East Texas situation was presenting the greatest problem ever known in the oil industry in Texas."

It certainly is. East Texas is close to tide water. East Texas is said to be potentially the greatest petroleum field ever brought in in America and East Texas independent producers are battling for what they call their own. Self-interest is very appealing. Self-preservation is very appealing. It is ever the viewpoint and the pocket shapes the viewpoint to a very great extent. Why foreign crude on the free list? If protection is a good thing, why not shower its blessings on the oil producers of Texas?

STERLING SIGNS THE WEINERT BILL

Governor Ross Sterling signed the Weinert bill allowing suspended sentences for first time offenders under the state liquor law thus permitting enforcement of liquor laws on the same basis as other offenses. This rounds out the remarkable humanitarian record of Former Senator F. C. Weinert. He is the author or co-author of all the humanitarian prison laws. He would have one law for all. He would show mercy to first offenders. He would salvage those who are willing to be salvaged and he would place the incorrigibles behind the walls and keep them behind the walls or down on the prison farms. He is known to thousands as "The Grand Old Man of Texas" and he served under Hogg and may close his legislative career under Sterling. He was the unanimous choice for representative in 1930 of the voters regardless of party in the district composed of the counties of Guadalupe and Comal, and if he cares to return next year it is said he will be their unanimous choice for another term as representative.

He was born in Comal; all his activities have been in the county of Guadalupe, he is a life-long democrat and he has been drafted for more positions of trust, in a political sense, than any follower of Thomas Jefferson under the big dome.

WHAT YOU ARE GOOD FOR

The new psychology tests which will probably be used more and more to influence children and young men and women in their adoption of a permanent line of work, are an indication of a radical change of attitude toward even such a thing as man's destiny. These tests and the attitude they indicate will undoubtedly work a valuable improvement in the general process of learning, producing and living.

The tests, as they are beginning to be applied and perfected in schools and factories, are for the purpose of classifying individuals according to their natural abilities in a given field of work. The individual is rated as inferior or superior to a standard average, and the variety of tests to which his intellect is subjected is expected in time to bring out qualifications for a certain kind of effort. There is always the danger in a thing of this kind that it will develop into a repressive formula, by which individuals will be pigeon-holed without any opportunity to exercise their own desires. A certain classification in his early years in grade school might possibly lead an individual and his teachers to ignore latent qualifications that otherwise would have developed forcibly.

Furthermore, it is possible to see how a ruthless employment system might become the sole beneficiary of this test system, through a use of it to save employers the expense of wasted industrial training. Efficiency at the expense of the individual at the expense of the variable human factor in even the industrial life of a people is ultimately a loss to the system that institutes it. However, the very attitude that the institution of the test system indicates and stands for is probably an insurance against the system's misuse. This attitude is primarily human and secondary scientific.

This psychological test is forthcoming as a substitute for the old sacred notion that what Gods will is somehow going to make itself known. It is the attempt of the new philosophy to take hold of things. It is the beginning of man's effort to decide things for himself with the intelligence God has given him. — Paris News.

that something has happened; the world has not yet realized that the Russian revolution has taken place."

Journalist Shaw urged newspaper men not to deal with world events like an old-fashioned governess in an old-fashioned cathedral town. In classifying himself solely as a journalist, he said: "I am not one of those men of letters who devote their lives to saying things beautifully without any particular regard as to what they are saying. What I have got to do is to tell people about life and about themselves. There I stop. I am a journalist."

A free press, an honest press, an intelligent press, a press that voices as well as defends the ambitions, the prayers, the hopes and the heart throbs of the multitudes and ever stands, as a builder, in community, state and nation is a newspaper that may have a rocky road to travel at times but it ever holds the respect as well as the confidence of a liberty-loving and appreciative people steadily marching forward to a higher plane in this existence of ours.

STORAGE FOR CARS

And light trucks in a tight building on E avenue and third street, five dollars per month each, pay five dollars when you put in your car or truck and five dollars at the first of your month thereafter so long as you store it in this building; no free storage for cars here. In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Col. Robert P. Scripps of New York is the editorial director of the Scripps-Howard papers. He spoke before journalism week audience at the University of Missouri on the subject: "The Liberal Press." He said the first responsibility of the newspaper is to tell its readers, without fear, favor or prejudice, everything within the range of possibility and human ingenuity "and everything of interest that is going on in the world, the nation and the community." And then the colonel told his audience that it is a serious crime when an editor does something to interfere with the precise functioning of the newspaper which he describes "as an elaborate, beautiful and publicly subsidized machine." That is, subsidized to the public interest and for the good of all the people, moreover, this editorial director of a great chain of American newspapers said the modern or truly liberal newspaper must not only rot be an organ but also an open forum.

metropolitan center or a small city, is a newspaper which is guided by the constitutional guarantees of the rights of the people and ever plays the game for all of the people and not a few of them.

All this is a reminder that George Bernard Shaw entertained the British Institute of Journalism. A very witty Irishman is Bernard Shaw. A very cutting tongue is directed by the famous writer and playwright. He remarked that one of journalism's difficult problems is to eliminate the time law — the inability to recognize that "a thing has happened when it has happened. Most people, said the irrepressible Shaw, "take about 20 years to realize

FREE WHEELING IS PRAISED BY NOTED AVIATOR

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—"Free Wheeling is a very important contribution to modern driving safety."

That was the declaration made here a few days ago by Emory Bronte, famous as the navigator of the first civilian plane ever to make the hop to Hawaii. Bronte is now manager of the aviation department of a large western oil company.

Bronte's comments, interesting because of their background in commercial aviation and because of the trying tests to which he put the 100 horsepower Hupmobile eight, follow:

"The safety of instantly available power, together with the smoothness of gliding, makes Hupmobile anything I have ever experienced. Free Wheeling is safer, chiefly because it eliminates the old uncertainty of gear shifting for the average driver. With Free Wheeling there is never any question about positive shifting—on a hill or anywhere else. The driver doesn't even have to use the clutch. A mere flip of the shifting lever and it is done, without objectionable gear-grating or unnecessary loss of speed. In traffic especially Free Wheeling is to be appreciated since the car may be driven in second gear smoothly and silently, with a reserve of power that makes traffic driving actually enjoyable.

"Hupmobile's Free Wheeling gives exactly the same sensation of security that the airplane pilot gets when, after gliding down toward a landing field, he suddenly observes some obstacle in his way or finds that he is going to overshoot his mark and gives her the gun to rise safely and surely again to a level of safety. In traffic in open country, the Free Wheeling driver has the same power instantly available at the touch of the throttle in spite of the fact that he has been soaring along on momentum. Under conditions of congested traffic this immediate response is often vitally necessary. Free Wheeling, in my opinion, is a great step toward safer driving."

Cisco Girl on Yearbook Staff

AUSTIN, May 23.—Memories of the year for University of Texas girls who reside at Scottish Rite Dormitory have been perpetuated in the Sardinie, dormitory yearbook, which has just been issued by the editorial staff. This year's publication is the ninth annual which has been prepared by the dormitory. A sardine motif has been followed throughout the book this year, from the title page, which pictures an open can of the small variety of fish to the last page, which shows a feline sitting beside an empty can of sardines and licking his chops with a satisfied mien.

Favorites of the dormitory, given recognition in the Sardinie, are Mary Elizabeth Kelsey of Gainesville, Dorothy Rose of Dallas, Minnie Lee Spies of Olinham, Beatrice Katz of Dallas, Katherine Marshall of Quakam and Elizabeth Wimberly of Quakam.

General Increase in Retail Sales

AUSTIN, May 23.—Only two cities in Texas failed to share in the general increase in retail department store sales during April, according to the Bureau of Business Research at The University of Texas. The increase, amounting to 5.6 per cent over the figures for March, was fairly well distributed over the state. The total dollar volume of retail turnover was 14 per cent less than during the corresponding month of last year, however, Corpus Christi being the only city not showing a decline from 1930 levels, the Bureau's report showed.

Business for the first four months of the year, on a dollar basis, was 11.9 per cent less than during the corresponding period of last year, with Corpus Christi, San Angelo and San Antonio the only cities in the list not included in the general decline.

Sales of 89 comparable stores during April amounted to $5,143,000, compared to $4,760,000 in March and $5,981,000 in April, 1930, the Bureau's report indicated. Sales for the first four months of the year amounted to $17,763,000, compared to $20,184,000 in the corresponding period of 1930.

SCOTLAND YARD RELENTLESS IN ITS PURSUITS

By ARTHUR F. DEGREVE
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, May 23. Patience is as important a weapon to a Scotland Yard man as a gun in the hands of an American gangster.

The burly, hard-boiled detective of the screen who browbeats servants, puffs nervously on large, black cigars and flashes his badge repeatedly, would be treated with contempt by the type of criminals the "Yard" is called upon to deal with.

Patience Wins

It was patience that finally brought Billy Carter, a Cockney thief, to prison for seven years as a result of a mis-step which is still well known here today although it happened 31 years ago. First, Carter disregarded the practice of most thieves here and stole something the nation treasured — hilts of swords presented to the great Lord Nelson, England's greatest sea hero.

Part of the loot he disposed of to a "fence." Scotland Yard was called. The chase began. Carter decided a change of air would be especially beneficial so shipped as a sailor on a craft bound for Australia.

He had been in jail before and knew the dangers of disposing of stolen property so three years later he still had the loot with him. Scotland Yard waited patiently. One day it receives a letter from Australia saying a party there had information as to the stolen Nelson treasures and would like to claim the reward of £1,000.

The Yard Acts.

With startling swiftness the "Yard" moved into action. It instructed Australian police to arrest the man who called for the answer to the letter it had written. But, Carter had changed his mind. He decided to negotiate the matter at closer range and returned to London. Calling at Scotland Yard he declined to give his name or the name of the man he "suspected" of stealing the hilts.

He inadvertently placed his hands on a piece of glass, at least he believed it was by accident, and went into another room for further questioning. A few moments later the fingerprint expert had found his entire prison record. The rest was merely routine.

Scotland Yard had waited and won.

In addition to fingerprints, expert photographs which often build a link of evidence necessary to solve a crime, the "Yard" men have an invaluable helper in the famous "Who's Who." In it one can find data on law violators as far back as 30 years ago, and the details include such minute observations as the convict's favorite cigarettes or food.

Another plague of the London criminal is the feared "flying squad" which doesn't fly but appears everywhere in various disguised motor trucks and small motor cars. Even the uniformed police are not kept informed of the movements of the squad but any of the squad cars can be reached by wireless from Scotland Yard within three minutes.

Mobile Squad.

This group of mobile detectives cruise about the city all day and night and have proved one of the most effective arms of the police system. They trail limousine and truck alike and their information once resulted in the arrest of six richly gowned women on charges of shop-lifting.

Scotland Yard men are picked from the uniformed ranks. After a year's service any man may apply for plain-clothes duty. Before he receives his promotion, however, he must pass two severe mental examinations. Officials claim this system has resulted in the "Yard" having the best pick of the police brains in the service.

Men who cannot pass the examination but are recognized as being excellent "thief catchers" often are placed on temporary duty with the "Yard" during times of emergency.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON JESUS PREPARING FOR THE END

Text: Luke 22:1-23.

Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the passover must be killed.

And he sent Peter and John, saying Go and prepare us the pasover that we may eat.

And when the hour was come, he sat down; and the 12 apostles with him.

And he said unto them, With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer.

For I say unto you, I will not any more eat thereof, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and divide it among yourselves.

For I say unto you, I will not drink from henceforth of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come.

And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me.

Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you.

But behold, the hand of him that betrayeth me is with me on the table.

And truly the Son of man goeth, as it was determined; but woe unto that man by whom he is betrayed! And they began to inquire among themselves, which of them it was that should do this thing.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 24, Jesus Preparing for the End, Luke 22:1-23.

Editor of The Congregationalist
By Wm. E. GILROY, D. D.

The contrast which we noted in comment on the last lesson between the story of the triumphant entry and the closing scenes in the life of Jesus is fully apparent in the incident of this lesson.

Whatever has happened, the worshipful and cheerful throngs are cut of the picture, and Jesus appears with his disciples quietly making provision for the celebration of the Passover with them, and later surrounded by them in the upper room. Already the clouds are gathering. Where yesterday all was bright and hopeful, Jesus now in his words to the disciples portends his coming sufferings.

The meaning of his words is not altogether clear. Perhaps the disciples themselves did not quite understand what he meant by saying that he would not eat of the Passover until it be fulfilled in the Kingdom of God. It might be that Jesus himself had a feeling that the Kingdom of God was coming in a different way than through that experience of death, and the experience worse than death in feeling that he had been forsaken of the Father.

Definitely in his mind, however, was the realization that in some way the crisis of his earthly mission was at hand. The solemn beauty of the Passover celebration could not have been more appropriate to the occasion and the experience, the Passover relating to the far off deliverance of Israel in bondage and the sense of God's providential call and guidance.

Disciples Didn't Understand

The record as we have it of all that occurred in the upper room is full of mystical meaning, as is the Communion service in which the Christian church has perpetuated the fellowship in the upper room and continued the remembrance of the Master. It may probably be said of this service in the upper room, as it may be said of the Communion service in our modern day, that each one derives from it what he brings to it. It is a service full of mystical meaning for those who can approach it in the spirit of faith and mysticism. It is a service which is touched with little meaning for those who have little of the spirit of Christian imagination or devotion.

The disciples manifestly did not understand the events in which they were participating, and it is quite possible that the story of the upper room has been somewhat colored by the fact that it was written long after the event when the agony and death of Christ, as well as the Resurrection, had given the incident the meaning that was withheld at the time. We read the record with this same advantage of the revelation of further events. We read it not only in the light of the later experience recorded in the New Testament, but in the light of the progressive Christian centuries. As we move farther and farther from the historic events, the commemoration of the Master's earthly life and sacrifice becomes more and more needful.

His Teachings Still Live

There is no reason why the remembrance of the Master, even at the ages we live on, should become in any way less clear. His teaching is as fresh as his life and his example. But it is above all things necessary that we should enter into communion with him and with the company of those who share a common faith in him and a common purpose to live according to his teaching and in his spirit.

In this sense the upper room must always be a reality in our lives. It is not enough to walk with Jesus in the streets and in the fields; it is not enough even to go with him into the house of prayer, in the synagogue and in the temple; we must enter into the sacred and mystical experiences of breaking bread with him, of partaking of the bread that is his body and the cup that symbolizes his blood. There are those who see in these symbols and references the adaptation in the Christian religion of wider and older manifestations of the religion of folklore. But that is no reflection upon their Christian meaning and significance.

The fact that there has been among many peoples and in ancient times some form of a blood covenant does not make any less real or vital the cup of covenant as it is set before us in the New Testament, and as it has come down through the ages to symbolize the reality and devotion of the soul to Christ, and his presence among those assembled in his name.

was an exultant, even triumphant note in the girl's voice. She was singing unconsciously and Beryl thought that if only her sister were content to sing without striving for operatic effects she might succeed professionally.

Professionally! She herself would sing professionally the next night. The pain in her throat—Beryl trembled as she got into bed. A little throat trouble... but what if she were going to be seriously ill?

As she lay there trying not to think and failing in her effort Irene too was crossing bridge un-built. She was wondering how she could induce Tommy to postpone their marriage just a little longer than the date she had set without arousing his suspicions.

There was something on her mind, something she turned over and over in her thoughts as miser turns his gold. It was something with glittering possibilities but she was not sure of it. She would need time for that. Meanwhile...

SHAVED 14 GOVERNORS

750 BARRELS CRUDE USED DAILY BY WHITE STAR

An industrial institution which has eminently justified the faith of its organizers is the White Star Refining company which will shortly complete two years of operation here.

Manufacturing light oils, from which gasoline, kerosene and so forth are made, and lubricating oils this refinery processes 750 barrels of crude daily, all of this purchased locally. Four stills are operated. When it began operation in August 1929, refining lubricating oils only, one still was used. Capacity is present to refine 1,000 barrels of light crude daily.

The White Star Refining company was incorporated in 1929 by E. M. Corah, R. P. Lightfoot, J. O. Pratt and R. T. Pratt. The latter two have since sold their interest. Mr. Corah is president and Mr. Lightfoot vice president.

Manufacture of illuminating oils—gasoline and kerosene and other by-products—began in the fall of 1930. Five hundred barrels of light oils and 250 barrels of lubricating stock are processed daily and this is distributed over a radius of 175 miles from Cisco by J. L. Lightfoot, wholesale agent for the company.

The company boasts that its products are second to none and it has a host of satisfied customers many of whom have been using White Star for a year and a half and White Star gasoline for six months and are ready to certify that these oils are equal in quality to any they have used.

Six men are employed at the refinery, four on trucks and as many more in the distributing system. These are in addition to the office force. Thus the White Star company is an instance of what local industrial units mean in the provision of employment as well as the provision of a market for a local raw product. As it grows, as its present flourishing condition promises it will, the number of employees will increase.

The investment in the plant at this time is placed at $35,000. The gathering system by which crude is brought to the plant consists of a pipe line and trucks.

In the treatment of lubricating oils the most advanced methods are employed. The contact system, in which Palex clay is used to absorb impurities from the oil, is employed as it is employed by all large companies. With this system the lubricating oils are made clear and foreign matter removed.

Straight run gasoline is produced and blended with about 5 per cent of casinghead.

That the White Star company is filling a recognized need is demonstrated in the increasing use and popularity of its products. As a Cisco institution it is increasingly meeting with the support of local people who recognize that any legitimate project which contributes to home prosperity is worthy of unified recognition and support.
