HEARING BEGUN ON CISCO GAS RATE

Two Roughly Dressed Men Rob Bank in Dallas County

CASHIER AND PREACHER ARE PUT IN VAULT

CEDAR HILL, Dallas County, Texas, Nov. 25.—Two roughly dressed men held up the First State bank here today and escaped with $1,500 after locking two people in the bank vault.

Carrying pistols, the two men forced R. H. Carrell, assistant cashier, and the Rev. L. B. Trone, pastor of the Cedar Hill Methodist church, into the vault, scooped up the money and fled. It was almost 15 minutes later before county officers were notified.

Carrell said he believed one of the bandits was the same that single-handedly robbed the bank on October 8.

Patrol cars were placed on highways leading into Dallas to prevent the me reportedly driving a tan-colored car, from entering any hideout there.

The exact amount of the loot will not be known until Cashier R. G. Brandenburg returns from Dallas where he was at the time of the robbery.

RANGER BEATS BUCKS FOR OIL BELT PENNANT

By FRANK LANGSTON

Seven thousand fans saw Corporal Jones and his cohorts stem a great tide of green as the Ranger Bulldogs turned back the Breckenridge Buckaroos 3 to 0 to win the Oil Belt championship for 1932 in Ranger yesterday. The only score of the game came late in the fourth period when Anderson kicked a field goal from placement on the 20 yard line. J. L. Jones, Ranger's great fullback had ploughed his way 22 yards to the Buck's 10 yard line on a quick opening play. Three attempts failed to penetrate the Breckenridge defense from there, and Anderson dropped back for the kick, with Lyon holding the ball.

Throughout the game Breckenridge, led by Pitzer and Wohlford, showed a superior defense, and amassed a total of 19 first downs to 9 for the Bulldogs. In the first quarter, after a fumble on the first scrimmage play given the ball to Breckenridge, the pair of green clad backs passed to the Ranger 8 yard marker. In the second period Breckenridge, took the ball to Ranger 5 yard stripe and in the third to the 18 yard line, only to lose it on a fumble.

The second half marked an improvement in Pitzer's running, and mixing his dashes with passes to Wohlford and plunges by his Hodges and Gibson, he kept the Bulldogs at bay until the closing minutes of the game. In the fourth stanza he got loose for a 53 yard sprint down the sideline for what looked like a touchdown, only to have the play called back and his team penalized 15 yards.

Ranger threatened seriously in the first quarter when a fumble gave the Bulldogs possession of the ball on the Breckenridge 14 yard line. Three plays picked up only four yards, though, and Anderson's kick was weak.

Ranger's utter lack of a passing attack allowed the Bucks to come in and stop the ripping line play of Jones and Anderson, while the Bulldog backs had to play deep for the high tosses of Pitzer to Wohlford throughout the game. Lyon, Ranger halfback, did much to offset the weak offense by his well placed quick kicks.

In the line Captain Martin showed up well for Breckenridge. Squint Williams, 155 pound guard, and J. Bray, center, were the mainstays of the Ranger line. Bray, injured in the first quarter, was game as long as he was allowed to stay on the field, and time after time stopped the Buckaroos' offensive thrusts by sheer will power.

The game yesterday decided the first championship Ranger has won since 1926. The Bulldogs won that title also on a field goal, Buster Mills kicking a lone field goal against the Cisco Lobos to send his team out of the district for more worlds to conquer.

Three Sisters, and Each a Genius

Anna, Dorothea and Julia Klumpke are sisters, and each is known as a world authority in a different field. They are now visiting in San Francisco where they were born. Julia Klumpke, left, is a talented violinist, trained by Ysaye and Auer. She recently published a folio of violin compositions, and heads the violin department of Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C. Dr. Dorothea Klumpke Roberts, center, widow of the celebrated astronomer, Dr. Isaac Roberts, has carried on his work on diffused nebulosity for the Paris Observatory. And Anna Klumpke, right, is an internationally known artist, pupil and biographer of Rosa Bonheur. Her portrait of Miss Bonheur hangs in the Metropolitan gallery in New York.

FRENCH READY TO WITHDRAW FROM SYRIA

By SAMUEL DASHIELL

United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 25.—After ten years of troubled rule, owing to nationalist agitation, France is ready to withdraw from Syria and leave that ancient country to independent rule.

In accordance with the terms of the League of Nations mandate, France considers that the government organized in Syria and Lebanon is sufficient stable and the mandates commission soon will be asked to make the required investigation so that the Council of the League of Nations will be enabled to report Syria "free and independent."

In connection with these mandated territories, Iraq was the first to be given its independence from British rule, and now is a full fledged independent member of the League of Nations.

The French regime in Syria and Lebanon has been marked by a consistent policy of colonial development such as has characterized all of France's achievements in Africa. Some of France's achievements particularly are impressive. Towns, villages, and settlements hitherto closed to the advantages of modern civilization have been put in communication by hundreds of miles of new roads. Railroad lines have been built, stone highways and durable bridges have been erected.

Cotton cultivation has increased from 800 hectares to 40,000 hectares.

Silk Cocoons. Production of silk cocoons has increased from 800,000 kilograms in 1921 to 3,500,000. Olive groves, fruit orchards, and grain have increased in abundance during the ten years mandate.

Industrial enterprises have kept pace. Two cotton gin establishments have been installed in Latakieh and Djable. A cotton spinning factory was constructed at Tripoli and oil distilleries have been installed.

Slight Damage Is Caused by 2 Fires

Two fire alarm occurred here Wednesday and Thursday evening, neither of which resulted in damage of any consequence. Wednesday soot in a flue in a building in East Cisco, used by negroes, ignited. It was extinguished quickly.

Thursday evening about 8:15 a truck on East Sixth street caught fire. It likewise was extinguished without damage.

Charges Filed in Raid on Still

Sheriff Virge Foster and Deputy Sheriff R. L. Wilson confiscated a 110-gallon whiskey still, ten gallons of whiskey and 1,100 gallons of mash in a raid late Wednesday afternoon upon a location five miles south of Scranton.

Charges were filed against one man at Eastland.

Three Fines for Drunkenness Here

Three fines for drunkenness represented the total of police activity here during a quiet Thanksgiving season. Two men were fined this morning for alleged drunkenness on the streets last night and another fine was assessed previous for one case of intoxication Wednesday.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

A son, weighing 7 pounds, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Sawyers on November 21. He has been named Lloyd Glen.

TO BE BROADCAST

LEICESTERSHIRE, England, Nov. 25.—For the first time in the history of fox-hunting, a meeting of the Quorn hounds is to be broadcast in February.

ANNUAL FREE COOKING SCHOOL TO OPEN HERE ON DECEMBER 6

The annual free cooking school of the Cisco Daily News will begin December 6 with Miss Zella Allen, noted kitchen economist, in charge. The school will last for four days.

Miss Allen has been conducting free cooking schools over the state under the sponsorship of Texas Newspapers, and has just closed a successful school at Breckenridge, going from there to Corsicana next week.

The Ideal Theater building has been chosen as the site of the school. The building was placed at the disposal of the Daily News through the courtesy of K. N. Greer, manager of the local theaters. Plenty of comfortable seats are assured through the use of this building.

The Community Natural Gas Co., will furnish one of their new automatic Roper ranges and a Ruud automatic hot water heater.

The West Texas Utilities Co. will furnish a Frigidaire and other electrical appliances, also the lights for the building.

Miss Allen will feature Ever-Lite flour, distributed in Cisco by the Bankhead Feed Mill.

K. C. Baking Powder, famous for many years, is used by Miss Allen in all her baking wherever she goes.

All Cisco grocers are requested to cooperate with foods to be used in the school, while all stores of whatever nature are invited to participate with prizes and in anyway that they may desire.

Other participants of the school will be announced from day to day.

G. W. COLLUM IS HONORED AT BAND BANQUET

Fifty members and guests gathered at the Lobo band banquet Wednesday evening at the Laguna hotel roof garden. A dinner was also served to Durward McClelland, a band member who recently suffered a broken leg. The banquet was made possible through the cooperation of the members' parents.

The group was called to order by Toastmaster J. H. Latson and the invocation given by L. A. Harrison, G. W. Collum, director of the band, spoke on what the debt parents owe to children, and John Wiley, replied with a talk on what the younger generation owes to the older. Frank Langston reviewed the educational aspect of public school music.

The musical program given consisted of a song by Pierce Thomason, a dance by Kathleen Collum, piano solo by Beita Elda Clark, cornet solo by John Miley, a male quartet, and a clarinet solo by Glen Collum accompanied by Kathleen Collum. G. W. Collum played two piano numbers.

At the close of the program the band presented G. W. Collum with a Thanksgiving turkey in appreciation of the work he has done in directing the band this year. In the round-table discussion that followed the program, the band expressed itself as being in favor of entering the state band contest next spring.

SAVINGS PAY BILLS

ORLEANS, Mich., Nov. 25.—Mayor Noddins is paying for her high school education here with savings which she began investigating in pure-bred livestock when she was ten years old. The girl has won numerous prizes on cattle and hogs she raised.

QUICK ACTION ON BEER BILL IS PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Passage of a beer bill by the house before January 1 was forecast today by Speaker Garner.

"I am hopeful that such prompt action will be possible," said the vice-president-elect.

From other democratic leaders it was learned that a "skeleton" beer bill was in the process of being drawn, with a view of hastening prompt action immediately after congress convenes.

The hope is to have the house ways and means committee report out such a bill about December 12. This would permit a vote in the house possibly before Christmas.

The most urgent problem is federal revenue. The treasury deficit promises to exceed $1,000,000,000 and may reach twice that figure. Unless a special session is to be called at least two months before the fiscal year ends June 30, it will be necessary for the short session to find additional revenue.

Gov. Roosevelt desires above all things a constructive agricultural bill providing possibly for the extension of farm credits, passed before congress goes home March 4.

PATMAN TO "EXPOSE" LOBBYING

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 25.—Congressman Wright Patman, leaving for Washington today, announced he would launch a campaign to expose and eliminate paid lobbying during the short session of congress.

"A most disgraceful situation has grown up," he asserted. "I am told that at Austin, even, the school children must have their paid lobbyists to see that they get what is coming to them."

"I see little chance for adoption of a beer bill at the short session," Patman said.

2 NOMINEES FOR PRESIDENT OF TEACHERS

FORT WORTH, Nov. 25.—H. W. Stillwell, superintendent of Texas state public schools, and Wylie A. Parker, principal of Forest Avenue high school, Dallas, today were in nomination for the presidency of the Texas State Teachers association.

Stillwell formerly was principal in the Amarillo school system. Parker was one time editor of the Plainview News.

Abolition of the "per pupil" system of distributing state funds to public schools was recommended today. Dr. B. F. Pittenger, University of Texas, declared "The only thing the per capita basis encourages is padding the school census."

A committee on resolutions decided "not to dodge" the liquor issue. A resolution protesting repeal of the 18th amendment will be presented to the convention. Another resolution asks that county superintendents be named by county school boards and the state superintendent by the state board of education.

MUSEUMS ERECTED

GLACIER PARK, Mont., Nov. 25.—Permanent museums will be erected at points of interest throughout Glacier National Park. Dr. G. C. Ruhle, naturalist, has announced. Dr. Ruhle said that complete success had attended establishment of exhibits to date and that a museum would be placed at Two Medicine camp ground.

STONE BEARS LIKENESSES

BELIOT, Wis., Nov. 25.—A picture stone bearing a likeness of the Goddess of Liberty and of Uncle Sam is among the collection of beautiful and unusual stones collected here by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar A. Burull. The "pictures" on this stone, found in the bed of a creek near here are in white set in red and have resemblance to cameo portraits.

SUN BLINDED DRIVER

LA GRANDE, Ore., Nov. 25.—Blaine Crandall, driver of a large oil truck and trailer, became temporarily blinded by an early morning sun near here and crashed into 2,000 head of sheep, killing 39 of the woolly animals. He was uninjured.

ROOSEVELT ELECTED

DEMOCRATIC GAIN IN STATE BREAKS ALL OLD RECORDS

Governor of New York Rides Crest of Mighty Avalanches

A new sort of campaign—within the ranks of the democratic party itself—has been launched by former Secretary of the Navy Joseph Daniels (right). When The Raleigh, N. C. News and Observer, which he publishes, appeared on the day after the election with a proudly crowing rooster on its front page (as seen above), the newspaper remarked editorially that it hoped this would "result in the re-adoption of the rooster" as the Democratic emblem. "Of course," it was added, "everyone knows that the crowing rooster is the emblem of Democracy, or was before the Democratic party let Nast (the cartoonist) supplant the rooster with the donkey."

SOVIET FINDS ADVENTURERS POSING AS FAMOUS AUTHORS

MOSCOW, Nov. 25.—The itch for culture, which has touched outlying districts of the Soviet empire, has tempted a good many adventurers here to impersonate authors. Until their game is exposed they manage to gather in the applause and cash of provincial admirers.

Two such cases of literary impostors recently were encountered by the Literary Gazette here, both with backward Central Asiatic cities as their setting.

A dapper young man arrived in Tashkent and introduced himself as Sergei Spassky, author of a novel, straight from Leningrad. Local officials, and cultural leaders in particular, put themselves out to pay him honor. He read extracts of the novel at literary evenings, participated in debates about his books and even defended political errors in its pages.

This went on for a good many weeks. Honors and royalties rolled in. Then two Leningrad writers of the genuine sort happened to visit Tashkent. They were surprised to hear that their friend Spassky was in town. They looked him up and revealed that the man was an impostor.

Another of the type, or perhaps the same one, imposed himself on the city of Alma-Ata, capital of the Kazakh Republic, as Boris Kushner, a writer from European Russia. He was dined and wine and eventually given a soft job in the Council of People's Commissars of Kazakhstan.

Unfortunately for him the newspaper Pravda reached Alma-Ata with an article on life in the Kuban region signed by Kushner. Unaware of this article, the impostor when questioned denied ever having visited the Kuban. This one slip proved his Waterloo.

"Hobo Scientist" Will Explain Creation

FORT WORTH, Nov. 25.—Albert Gamble, self-styled "hobo scientist," is going to write a book to clear up this creation business.

Although his theory of the origin of things leaves the world afloat in space, Gamble wasn't worried when he swung off a freight train with his "fire ball" theory of creation and plans to write.

"When the world was just an upstart," begins Gamble to anybody that will listen, "there were two suns. One sun got hotter and hotter, larger and larger, and blew up,—just like a balloon.

"The core left is what we call the moon. Pieces that flew off splashed into the other spheres, which is your earth," he believes.

EX-CLERK HELD IN SHOOTING AT EDINBURG

EDINBURG, Nov. 25.—Otis Pelt, of Pharr, was shot in the stomach in the corridor of the Hidalgo county house this afternoon. A former district clerk was held pending the outcome of Pelt's wound which was regarded as critical.

The trouble was understood to have arisen over a lawsuit concerning a $20,000 item in the estate of J. S. Pelt, late father of the wounded man. The shooting occurred after lawyers had offered a compromise settlement. Hundreds of persons in the building were terrified as the shots rang out.

45-YEAR-OLD WATCH

GRANT'S PASS, Ore., Nov. 25.—F. E. Gibson has carried the same watch for 45 years. It has always run perfectly.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT BY COMMUNITY

ABILENE, Nov. 25.—Hearing on a temporary injunction sought by the Community National Gas company restraining the city of Cisco from interfering with a new gas rate schedule for that city began today in federal district court here.

The city contends the new rate is a substantial increase. The new schedule calls for changing the present rate of 67 1-2 cents a 1,000 cubic feet to $1.60 for the first 1,000; $1.35 for the next 1,000; 85 cents for the next 3,000 and 60 cents for the next 20,000.

The city refused the company's application several weeks ago. The company, a distributing subsidiary of the Lone Star Gas company, appealed to the state railroad commission where its proposal was denied.

WAITRESS IS NEAR DEATH FROM BURNS

GRAHAM, Nov. 25.—Edna Eastertling, a waitress, was probably fatally burned in her room in a hotel here today. She was believed to have fainted and fallen against a stove where she was found when the proprietor investigated an odor of smoke.

The woman was crumpled with a smoldering woolen blanket wrapped about her. The lower part of her body was burned to a crisp and little hope was held for her recovery.

Filipino Stricken With Crazy Deed

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 25.—A slender little brown man from the Philippines quivered in his cell here today, stricken with the realization that he had gone " loco" and killed six men with a razor-edged knife.

Julian Marcelino, 30, ran amuck in Chinatown, killed six, probably fatally wounded a seventh man and slashed 11 others.

The Filipino sat on a stool at police headquarters today and said in broken English "I just loco. I know I done wrong I have only one life and I strike so many down, better for me to die now."

Believe Floyd Will Leave Oklahoma

SEMINOLE, Okla., Nov. 25.—Oklahoma officers today redoubled their search for Charles A. (Pretty Boy) Floyd, spurred by the belief he would leave the state after the death of his desperado companion, George Birdwell.

Officers scoffed at reports Floyd would seek to view the body of his dead pal. Birdwell was shot down by a negro bank employe during an attempted raid on a bank at Boley Wednesday.

HEALTH FAVORABLE

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 25.—Pennsylvania maintained a "very favorable record of health" during October, the state health department reported here. Diphtheria and typhoid fever followed a "normal course," infantile paralysis, after reaching its second highest point in 25 years fell off rapidly, and other communicable diseases were of average prevalence.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF CHRISTMAS SEALS.

The 1932 sale of Christmas Seals is under way throughout the nation. These bright little stamps, gummed to letters and packages express what has proven to be, during a quarter of a century, the most effective vaccine that has been developed to cope with a scourge whose virulence has cursed four thousand years of civilization despite all that science has been able to do against it.

In spite of those facts such has been the effectiveness of these little seals that the tuberculosis death rate has declined from 201 per 100,000 population in 1904 to 76 per 100,000 in 1929. Why?

Not that the campaign has resulted in a lessening of infection. It has not. The menace of the disease is still as great as ever. Its threat lurks in every home, by the bed of every child, in the air we breathe and in the food we eat. It is a threat aggravated by the crowded conditions of modern civilization, made the more perilous because of the very conveniences with which we have surrounded ourselves.

Simply because they have been made the means by which you and I and every other person can rally to a united front in a great preventive battle against it. Nothing but the genius of the race, inspired into a cooperative movement against those insidious factors through which this scourge works its woe has been found to prevail against it.

In what way, then, have these little seals, the idea of a Danish postal clerk in 1903 transplanted to America in 1907 by Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Delaware, been instrumental in counteracting the toll of tuberculosis?

Every time you place one of these symbols upon a letter or package you are not only contributing your mite to the financing of the campaign, but you are contributing to the spiritual force of a resounding challenge.

And the cumulative power of this challenge is that which has erected against the dread advance of tuberculosis an embattled public will, which slowly but surely is gaining ground against it.

Much has been accomplished since 1907 through the sale of Christmas Seals. As the institution enters upon the second quarter of a century of its existence we have much to look forward to. What has been accomplished is an inspiration for what can be. The fight has just begun.

There is no substitute in this campaign for personal cooperation, no nostrum upon which we can throw the burden of our individual responsibilities.

Humanity can prevail against the menace only to the extent that humanity rallies to the challenge of a united advance, and to that challenge you and I owe as much as anyone else.

That is the genius of the Christmas Seal.

NEW FARM PRODUCTS MARKET DEMANDED.

This is a swift moving age. Pres. Hoover has had his problems and troubles. President-Elect Roosevelt is facing as heavy a load as any chief magistrate ever carried. Louis J. Taber is the national master of the Grange. He thinks the war debts foreign nations owe the United States can be used to help "stabilize American agriculture."

GARNER WILL NOT MAKE CHOICE.

There is a wild row coming over the naming of the successor of Speaker John Nance Garner. It is now an established fact that Garner knows "where to find his political hat."

New Mascots For Old?

onstration of individual self control. As to the battle over the speakership, Garner will not take a hand in the contest. Place his words in the record: "I will give everybody here all the help I can until next March 4; but when it comes to the speakership, I expect to tell them, 'That's your problem; work it out to suit yourselves; and I'll bet that I'll be friends with the next speaker.'"

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Nov. 25. — Sponsors of the new market demand oil bill for which the recent special session of the Texas legislature was convened can now laugh over an incident that for a time seemed tragic to them.

The bill had passed the senate without enough votes to carry an emergency clause making it effective without delay. Reconsideration was ordered in an effort to get the two more votes needed.

Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, voting for the bill, was ill. He insisted he could not remain much longer. Senator Margie Neal of Carthage, also voting for the bill, rose to make an explanation of her views.

Holbrook got up to leave. Senator Tomas Pollard, floor manager for the bill, with the aid of Carl Estes, Tyler publisher, succeeded in getting Holbrook to "wait a minute." Miss Neal talked on. Senator Holbrook continued to threaten to leave. Pollard was afraid if Miss Neal's speech continued, Holbrook would leave with his badly wanted vote.

Pollard proved a diplomat. While Estes kept Holbrook in conversation Pollard apprised Miss Neal of the dilemma. She quit and the bill not only passed with the needed two votes but with two more to spare.

Senator Charles Gainer of Bryan and Rep. Holland Bradley of Houston are being mentioned for good federal appointments under the incoming democratic administration. Gainer's friends are boosting him for Internal Revenue Collector and Bradley is being urged for an Undersecretaryship of Labor.

The prize for the best practical joke of the recent political campaign goes to Max W. Hart of Nacogdoches. With the connivance of Justice J. C. Melton, he secured an "injunction" against Governor Ross S. Sterling betting the state democratic ticket. The "injunction" was sent in due form to Sheriff Coley White and served upon the governor.

R. L. Batts of Austin, proposed by Former Postmaster General A. S. Bursleson for Secretary of National Defense, in a combined Army and Navy bureau for the new national cabinet, was for many years a law partner of a cabinet member—Thomas Watt Gregory, attorney-general under President Wilson.

is the oldest member, nearing 72.

Mrs. Louise Snow Phinney, first woman to be chief clerk of the house of representatives, already has a big following in the race for the same coveted position in the 43rd legislature. A former resident of Raymondville, she and her husband Carl Phinney reside in Dallas. She was assistant chief clerk of the house when Carl, who was Chief Clerk, resigned to become secretary to Former Governor Dan Moody.

Necessary Health Protection

INVISIBLE bacteria are an ever-present danger to foods not kept at a constant temperature less than fifty degrees. When temperatures soar above that mark, bacterial action is encouraged and foods commence to spoil. Grave consequences may follow the use of such foods, for nothing is harder to trace than the damage done to tiny stomachs by slightly tainted foods.

The Modern Electric Refrigerator offers protection against this danger, for its automatic accuracy keeps the temperature in the cabinet always below the fifty degree danger line.

Additional Advantages

This constant cold is the most important feature of modern Electric Refrigeration. . . . Other appreciated advantages are its silence, dependability, wonderful frozen deserts and salads, and its proven ability to save money. Your home deserves one of these invaluable Electrical Servants. Get yours today! See the new models on display in our Merchandise Showroom, or call in at your nearest Electrical Dealer. Convenient Terms can be arranged for you.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

BOOM IS SEEN IN OIL FIELDS OF MONTANA

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Nov. 24.—Oil, trapped millions of years ago on the sloping shores of the great inland lake or sea which once covered now arid deserts of Montana, Wyoming, and Utah, is being tapped in this state for what operators hope will be the greatest development in the history of northwestern oil booms.

Dinosaurs once strolled along what are now oil bearing sands. Structure of the deposit in the Cut Bank Fields, northwest of Great Falls, resembles that of the East Texas strike, where more than 8,000 wells have been drilled.

Cut Bank Era

The Cut Bank era, extending for nine square miles, is the scene of great excitement with some 20 wells being drilled and operators planning to make further explorations to determine the exact extent of the producing area. High quality, sulphur free oil has been found in the field, with at least one well giving indications of sustained quantity production.

Near Kalispell, in the northwest corner of the state, the most extensive operations in the North Fork district since that region's discovery 20 years ago are planned for next spring, according to company announcements.

Retarded Development.

Structural formations and transportation problems have retarded development of the North Fork field. The Canadian Dominion government, however, has indicated its willingness to aid operators along its side of the border, and an exhaustive test of the field will be carried out. A British Columbia concern has announced.

Exploitation of the Soap Creek field, on the Crow Indian Reservation near Hardin, in the southeastern portion of Montana is another development expected to increase activity in northwest oil circles.

Keeping Up With The Boy Scouts

Executive Board Meeting.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Comanche Area executive board will be held in Dublin at the Sparks hotel December 6th at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Jewel Daugney, president of the Comanche Area council will preside at the meeting.

A nominating committee will be appointed at this meeting to nominate the council officers for the year of 1933. Objectives for the different committees will be worked out and plans for putting them into effect for 1933.

Courts of Honor.

Since the last report, Richland Springs held their first court of honor with a number of scouts up for awards.

Lampasas is due to hold one Friday night of this week.

San Saba is scheduled to hold one on Monday night of next week.

Brownwood will hold one on December 2nd.

Scout Rally.

Lampasas is scheduled to hold their first scout rally for the year Saturday, November 26th, where troops will compete in Scout activities such as knot tying, fire building, relay races, and first aid.

Scoutmaster's Pow Wow.

The Brownwood District scoutmasters pow wow was held at Blanket Monday night with O. E. Winebringer, chairman, in charge of the program. Topics for discussion were Good Turns that the troops might be able to do during Thanksgiving and Christmas. The Ten Year program, which starts off with the president's award during Anniversary week, the Eagle Scout camp which is to be held at Camp Billy Gibbons during the week after Christmas, and others.

A nice supper was given to all attending. The next pow wow will be held the third Monday in December.

TEXANS SPEAK AT CONVENTION OF TEACHERS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 25.—How the teaching of English is changing to conform to the trend of the times was studied at the National Council of Teachers of English, that opened a two-day session here Wednesday.

The dominant theme of the convention was integration. Speakers will show how sections of the country and nations socially can be integrated through wisely directed reading.

"The Integration of English Instruction and Radio Broadcasting," was the subject to be discussed by Dr. Levering Tyson, chairman of the advisory Council on Radio in Education.

"The Social Responsibility of Teachers of English in Contemporary American Life," was the theme of Stella S. Center, of New York, in her address as president of the council.

Hundreds of English teachers from all sections of the country are in attendance to discuss the change of the English language as times differ.

The curriculum commission is expected to make its report to the council on its report of an ideal curriculum in English.

Holding to its tradition, the council will give a luncheon the last day of the meeting at which the speakers shall be writers. At this luncheon, the poet, Mrs. Karle Wilson Baker, of Texas, will answer the question, "How did He happen to write it?" Charles J. Finger, Arkansas author, will discuss "How to tell good books from bad."

Dean Christian Gauss, of Princeton University, will discuss "The Teaching of English in 1950." Dr. L. W. Payne, of the University of Texas, is to speak on "The Amenities of Teaching English," at the dinner.

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Pennsylvania is one of the six states carried by the republicans. Pennsylvania in 1928 gave Herbert Hoover a 938,000 majority. Pennsylvania in 1932 gave Hoover a 162,000 majority. According to the Literary Digest poll, Pennsylvania was listed as a very doubtful state with sentiment strong for the New York governor, Boss William A. Vare of Philadelphia promised the republican standard bearers a 200,000 majority in his city alone. Well, the returns showed a majority of 75,000 Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are the great strongholds of the republicans. Roosevelt carried four-fifths of the counties of the state. He carried Allegheny county and the city of Pittsburgh by a 36,000 majority over Hoover. Pittsburgh is the home of Andrew W. Mellon and many coal and iron multimillionaires. Its political control was wrestled from the republican bosses in November. Now an investigating committee reports the grossest and most brazen frauds ever perpetrated in Philadelphia in the political history of a commonwealth and contests against republicans representatives-elect have inaugurated by the democrats who claim to have been counted out. The seat of Sen. Elect James J. Davis, republican, will be contested. Vare was shut out of a seat in the senate of the United States for using huge sums of money in his campaign for the seat "to corrupt the electorate of city and state." Now a most sweeping investigation is on. It will be for the new congress to award the prizes after contests have been ordered and the evidence submitted.

A SENSATION IN JERSEY

Trenton is the capital of New Jersey. It is not only the state capital but the local seat of government in and for Essex county. Republicans carried it by a sweeping majority. New the polling lists and books used in the recent election have been stolen. Many glaring frauds have unearthed. Intimidation of voters is charged. Assessment of office holders to a political corruption fund is alleged. Pennsylvania has an honest and courageous republican governor Gifford Pinchot is a man among men, who has ever believed and practiced the Cleveland gospel that "a public office is a sacred trust." New Jersey has a democratic governor, Arthur Harry Moore. He is said to be a man of the Pinchot type. Republicans control the Pennsylvania legislature, but a combination of the Pinchot republican progressives and democratic senators and representatives-elect may make life interesting for the Pennsylvania bosses when a new legislature convenes in the city of Harrisburg.

GOV. MOORE AND HIS LAWMAKERS

Moore has a republican legislature to deal with or will have in the near future. Rural districts of New Jersey, regardless of the huge majority given Moore a year ago and Roosevelt this year, control and have for years dominated the New Jersey lawmaking body. All this is a reminder that at the coming session of the lame duck congress the republicans, counting standbatters and progressives, will have a majority of one. This by the election of Karl C. Schuyler, republican, to the unexpired term of the late Sen. Charles W. Waterman of Colorado. Of course the short term senatorial election in Colorado has no bearing on the organization of the senate for the lame duck session. However, it decides the numerical control in favor of the republican party. Hence the lineup will be 48 republicans, 47 democrats and one farm-labor senator from Minnesota, who has consistently voted with the republicans for organization purposes. Alva B. Adams, democrat, was elected senator for the long term by the Colorado electorate. Unless a special session of the new congress shall be called by Franklin D. Roosevelt after the inauguration in March, Lone Eagle Borah of Idaho will continue as chairman of the committee on foreign affairs. As for the new senate there will be 60 democrats and 36 republicans, counting farm-labor Shipstead of Minnesota.

PASSING OF 'FIVE AND TEN' JONES

Death hurried its bolt and shot out of the Living Picture the fact of Senator Wesley Livingston Jones of the state of Washington. He had been in congressional life, house and senate for more than a third of a century. He was one of the outstanding leaders of his party. He was the author of the "five and ten law" which provided penalty of five years in the penitentiary as well as a fine of $10,000 for violators of the pro laws of the nation. He was defeated on Nov. 8 by Homer T. Bone, democrat and vet. That defeat broke his heart. He never recovered from the shock. Gov. Roland Hartley is a republican. He will name a republican to fill the Jones vacancy. This will not upset the situation in the senate caused by the election of Shnyder, republican, for the short term in Colorado. Well, the death of Jones makes almost a complete sweep of the old guard of republican senators.

BORAH SHORN OF POWER

Sen. Borah will be one of the minority. His state landed in the democratic column declared for Roosevelt by a large majority, elected a democratic United States senator, and a governor and all minor state officers. As for the Lone Eagle he voted the straight republican ticket from president down November election day. In this he ran true to term. He is ever an independent, ever against the regular order, except on election day. Then he grabs the trunk of the elephant and is carried to the polling place. He is the one grand, gloomy and outstanding survivor of the recent massacre of the G.O.P. elephant and its train—and as honest as Paul and said to be as poor as a church mouse.

Week-end MURDER

GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The story opens with a prologue in which a murder is committed by a homicidal maniac. Later he boards a train for Long Island, thinking of the pleasant week-end he is to have here. The name of the murderer is not disclosed. The scene shifts to the Long Island home of LINDA and TOM AVERILL, married three years and much in love. The Averills have five guests for the week-end: COUSIN AMOS, PEABODY, elderly, distant relative of Linda's; CAPTAIN DE VOS, handsome Belgian representing a European perfume manufacturer with whom Averill hopes to do business; MR. STANTLANDER, middlewestern manager of the firm Averill works for; MARVIN PRATT, former suitor of Linda's; and LIAN SHAUGHNESSY, Irish writer on a lecture tour.

Cousin Amos immediately makes trouble. He quarrels with Shaughnessy because the Irishman holds liberal political views; plays golf with Stantlander and infuriates him by criticizing his game; discusses prohibition with DeVos at the Country Club and declares DeVos is "no gentleman." It is finally agreed that Cousin Amos is to leave early the next morning. The others go to the Country Club dance. The dance is uneventful but when the others are ready to leave Stantlander can not be found. When he finally appears it is apparent that he has been drinking. It is nearly morning when the Averills and their guests reach home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI

TOM AVERILL frowned. "Oh, gosh, there we go again talking about the—what did you call them?—potential murderers?" "I wish I never had to see any one of them again," Linda said dejectedly.

"Oh, come, Binks! It isn't as bad as that. A few hours of sleep—"

"A few hours? How you do exaggerate! It's almost daylight and we've got to get Cousin Amos off early. Early for him—that's even worse!"

"How soon? It's after 5 now."

"In about an hour. He gets up about half-past 6 or 7 anyhow and he wants to take a 7-something train. That means 6 today."

Tom whistled silently. Then he began undressing. "Binks," he said, "go to bed. I'll see the old fellow off and tell him you're all in."

"Thanks, but that wouldn't do. It's my job and I'll send him away with a smile. I wouldn't sleep anyhow, Tom. I'd have him on my mind."

"Say—here's an idea! Get out of those things and into your bathing suit. This room's an oven and a cool dip'll do you more good than lying down. If you'll fling on a few clothes and see that he gets breakfast I'll run him to the station and you can go to bed then. I doubt if anyone else shows his face before noon."

She was already scrambling into the pert little red jersey suit that made her look so boyish and slim. "I'm with you, Tommy! It's a grand idea. Think any of the others—?"

"Leave 'em out. Two's company this time and they're all asleep by now, anyhow. Come on!"

"Wait—I can't find my cap! You go on—it's here somewhere. I'll be right behind you!"

The cap was found and Linda stopped to pick up the soft, crumpled, lacey dress which still lay where she had stepped out of it on the floor.

FROM somewhere down the hall came a light creaking tread—the hushed sound of one who walks quietly for fear of disturbing others. It was followed by a slight click and then to her ears came distinctly the wrak-wrak-wrak of Cousin Amos' defiantly opened case giving on the little porch. She relaxed. Evidently her cousin was already about, awakened by the light and the still, heavy heat. Also evidently he did not want to disturb any of them and Linda decided to pretend she had not heard.

From above came hurtling a figure—headfirst—turning in the air, not two feet from where she stood—to crumple at her very feet.

But in the hall, she relented. Cousin Amos hadn't had much pleasure from his stay and he had so enjoyed the water yesterday! Since no one else was coming, why not at least ask him? At his room door she stopped in surprise.

It was about a foot ajar. She remembered that he had not left it open during the night. Then she thought of the step she had heard in the hall. Curious he should go outside his room so early! He had his own lavatory and could have done without a tub for once in his life. If he had gone across the hall she hoped fervently he hadn't either met or disturbed Marvin or DeVos, both tired, sleepy and hot and therefore edgy after the Country Club affair. They were safely in bed by now and, she hoped, deaf to Cousin Amos' cautious, if inapplicable, rambling in the hall.

But, she wondered, had he gone back to bed or was he actually up and dressed so early? Hesitating whether to knock or not, she unintentionally pushed the door a little more widely open and could not help seeing the bed—empty, rumbled, the covers thrown back. Feeling very apologetic, she opened her lips to call him softly. Then, to her astonishment, she heard voices inside the room. Linda stood very still, puzzled. No, they were not exactly in the room. The sudden wrak-wrak-wrak of that beastly door placed them—just over the sill out on the little porch.

WHO could it be? Tom, probably, smitten with the same cernedly, would turn so that she could wave him back!

Over her head there was a quick jumble of steps, an exclamation, and suddenly a cracking, rending, tearing sound. From above came hurtling a figure—headfirst—turning in the air, not two feet from where she stood, rooted and horrified, under the projecting balcony—to crumple in sickening distortion at her very feet. A white head moved feebly, a face turned toward her. Cousin Amos! A step forward, and she was kneeling beside him, tremblingly smoothing that drawn, white face, breathlessly gasping his name. The eyelids quivered and the blue, childlike eyes looked up at her at first blindly, then with dazed recognition.

"Linda!" She bent down for the painful whisper. "Over—over—"

"Yes, darling—you fell over—"

"No, He . . . th-threw—"

"He . . . who?"

There was no answer, nor could Cousin Amos ever tell her more.

HORROR-STRICKEN as she was over the old man's death, Linda grasped the significance of those few broken words. He was trying to tell her something. He had told her—a little. "Over—"

"No—he-threw—"

"No—he-threw—"

She was sure she had caught that last faint gasp. Someone had been there—he had not fallen—!

Instantly she was on her feet. Grief and fury banished any thought of fear. She mustn't stay here—she couldn't help Cousin Amos now—or ever—except by finding who was up there. She was flashing through the central hall, a quick streak of crimson jersey and tanned flesh. Up the stairs—no attempt now to hide her flying steps. His door was exactly as she had left it, barely ajar. No one had come out! She pushed it open and went in.

A silent, empty room. Straight through Linda went, her mind on one thing only, toward the open casement. She glimpsed the green lawn and beyond the blue water of the Sound. She even noticed, subconsciously, that Tom had turned back and was almost to the float. But nearest of all she saw a broken, torn railing, the top bar wrenched apart, the narrow, graceful spindles careening drunkenly in every direction. She did not know whom she expected to see but there was no one on the balcony. The shock of it brought her to a rigid stop. She came to herself—she must go back, call Tom—

She started to turn and in that second caught a dark blur moving behind her. Linda had never consciously screamed. Now she could not—yet her throat constricted and her mouth opened in silent, awful pantomime which would have been a scream had breath been there to release it.

A cloth thrown around her neck from behind prevented the sound and, twisted tightly, prevented also her turning head or body to see her assailant. She jerked forward, clutching at the air. As she flung back her head, gasping for breath, she had a vague impression of seeing Tom, miles away, climbing on to the raft. Then water, air and land blurred and darkened and seemed to rush blackly at her with a horrible, dizzy roar. Suddenly, as the roaring grew unbearable, the tension was broken. Air came back to the gasping lungs—yet not quite in time. She swayed, unconscious, on her feet and pitched heavily forward into abyssal blackness.

Soviet Denies Tale Of Godless Matches

MOSCOW, Nov. 25. — A storm of protest and ridicule was evoked in the Soviet capital by a fantastic tale of godless matches shipped to Britain in coffins, published in a London newspaper. The London story in question alleged that "the Soviet government now is making mockery of the figure of Christ as a trademark on a match-box" and these blasphemous boxes were being distributed in Britain, having been smuggled into the country in coffins. No anti-religious match-box labels ever have appeared in Russia. The matches now sold carry innocent designs giving the name of the factory which produced them. The labels in fact, are most un-Soviet, for the most part. A few of them even have a nationalistic and religious flavor. The explanation for this, of course, lies in the fact that foreign imports of matches, including British firms, design their own labels. Some of the names among the scores used are Fair Play, Templevane, Ella, Orient, Grape, Elephant, Festival. Soviet match exports in the first nine months of 1932 amounted to 400,000 customs cases, valued at about 1,000,000 rubles. About one-third of the exports went to Britain. The total represents a sharp decline from the high mark of 1,500,000 customs-cases exported in 1929-30, but a considerable increase is expected for 1933. MAYBE YOU SAY, "Thirty miles-an-hour is fast enough for me. I don't speed and probably never will!"... Yet the oil you use should be the 100-mile-an-hour motor oil—GULF SUPREME! Why? Because the oil that is good at 100 miles an hour is a far better, safer oil at any speed—high or low! It is better able to conquer engine heat! Better able to halt wear! Better able to forestall repairs and cut lubrication bills! Gulf Supreme has proved its ability to take super-punishment! Proved it in two of the most gruelling tests an oil could get... In a great testing laboratory, Gulf Supreme successfully lubricated a roaring motor under nearly twice the heat of the normal speeding engine for 14 solid hours! And on August 8, 1932, it amazed racing drivers by out-performing specially-made "racing oils" on the famous Indianapolis Speedway! Under Official AAA Supervision, it lubricated a thundering Duesenberg racer for a non-stop one-hour run—at an average speed greater than 100 miles-an-hour! A speed which frequently reached nearly two miles a minute! Take this advice... Switch to Gulf Supreme! Prove its ability to take super-punishment—to cut repair and lubrication costs—in your motor!

TANK WILL NOT REPLACE HORSE IN MODERN WAR

(Copyright, 1932 by United Press) FORT OGLETHORPE, Ga. Nov. 25.—Out of the World War lumbered a new and dangerous fighting arm, a moving fortress that they call the tank.

Wadding across trenches and No Man's Land on the big drives the steel juggernauts, with their death-dealing machine gun fire, were an invaluable aid to troops.

Since the war the tank has been an object of experimentation. The speed has been improved until it has been possible to attain 50 miles per hour and more.

Accompanying these developments has been mechanization of army forces and impression among the public that these mechanical improvements will see the passing of a very valuable arm—the cavalry.

A discussion of this new development with Col. Gordon Johnston, commanding the Sixth Cavalry, brings out the fact that the tank is very helpful, but that the cavalryman is likely to be around for some time.

Many Changes Col. Johnston has seen many changes in its tactics. He knows about cavalry and he knows about tanks for they are one of the arms available for cavalry.

"In considering the tank for employment in battle," Col. Johnston said, "there must be taken into consideration its limiting factors as against those of cavalry and infantry."

"A tank can go no farther than its last drop of gas. You know that infantry can proceed across any sort of country at the rate of two and one-half miles per hour and cavalry at the rate of five miles per hour. Battles are fought and won on the knowledge that troops will be in a certain place at a certain time.

Live on Country "The only way you can stop these troops is to kill them. They can live for a while, off the country, as they proceed.

"Mechanized forces can move quickly along roads and across certain types of terrain, but they must have their gas supplies and also their machine shops to keep them in condition.

Now, we will get on to an actual engagement. A regiment of cavalry making a rough estimate, can fire 22,000 aimed shots per minute. That is from its light machine gun packed on horse and that can go anywhere cavalry goes and capable of going into action in 10 to 15 seconds; its heavier machine gun, requiring a few more seconds to get into action; one-pounders and rifle fire. This unit is extended along a considerable area and is extremely mobile.

"To get the same number of shots from mechanized forces would require one hundred and ten tanks, far more costly and offering a much more compact target, extremely vulnerable to the one-pounder.

Future Wars "There will be danger from air force is faced with the same mechanical limiting factors as mechanized forces. They are limited by fuel conditions. They are invaluable for observation of enemy troops and bombing purposes. But it is still necessary to have troops, with their feet on the ground, in a position before it can be held.

"The only defense against gas is masks. It will be most effective, however, in concentrated areas.

"Infantry and cavalry, however, able to proceed on their own, still are fundamental. The machine gun has increased the fire power of cavalry without decreasing its mobility. The day of mounted men charging with drawn swords across the battle field is gone, but the need for their mobility is still important to warfare."

LABORATORY TESTS CHECK EFFICACY OF KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Show Why This Delicious Cereal Overcomes Common Constipation

There are scientific reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN in preventing and relieving common constipation. Laboratory investigations show that it supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines; and vitamin B to promote appetite, and help tone the intestinal tract.

These two important food-elements aid regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action—much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming? Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FOUR-HORNED SHEEP ARE FOUND ON THE ISLE OF MAN.

THE FOUR-HORNED SHEEP, of the Isle of Man, is known as the Loaghtan, or mouse-colored sheep. These animals live on the hill-tops where the soil is very poor and consequently they are small in stature. But when put into rich pasture lands in England they increase in size. There is a tendency in the breed toward an increase in the number of horns, and sometimes there are as many as three pairs.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Governor Roosevelt's first term will be 46 days shorter than that of any other president, thanks to prospective ratifications of the lame duck amendment. Nevertheless, there is some compensation in the fact that he apparently will have an extra four months between election and inauguration in which he will wield more power than any previous president-elect.

President Hoover's summons of Roosevelt to Washington for a conference on the war debts was a recognition of that power. It is true that Hoover was in a bad fix because Congress had voted overwhelmingly against any more moratoriums or any more debt revision, and so needed all the help he might get to formulate an immediate policy. But other evidences of Roosevelt's power are more impressive than that.

Both branches of Congress this winter, even before the assemblage of the next Congress with its huge Democratic majorities, will be pro-Roosevelt and anti-Hoover. The Democrats already have a small majority in the House and there is a Roosevelt Senate majority as soon as you count the Republican progressives who campaigned for him.

THE situation calls for Roosevelt's guidance and there is little doubt here that he will be the dominant power in the short session. The Democratic leadership is nothing to brag about, in House or Senate, and the leaders will be more than glad to take their troubles to Uncle Frank. The progressive Republicans are an independent lot, but the most important members of the group are committed to the theory that they can't get anywhere now except by working with the next president, who they think will co-operate with them.

Hoover will retain his constitutional veto power, which probably would mean that no Roosevelt-sponsored measure could go through if he insisted on opposing it. On the other hand, Roosevelt is expected to have a veto power by virtue of the pro-Roosevelt majorities.

It seems evident enough, assuming that Roosevelt does not attempt to maintain a hands-off policy, that considerable co-operation between the president and the president-elect is essential if Congress is to function efficiently. That is due, however, to Roosevelt's status of power which appears to exceed that of any previous president-elect during a four-month interim in any critical period.

Before Congress meets, Roosevelt will have conferred with his congressional leaders to determine the party attitude on such controversial issues as debts, beer, sales tax and other taxes, economy, other phases of budget balancing, prohibition enforcement appropriations and others. He will still be governor of New York but he will also be part-president of the United States.

PARIS STYLES

PARIS, Nov. 25.—Princess Murat, the daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, has chosen one of the most charming of the Chanel velvet day models, in beige and bluish gray check simply made with a little turn down collar, high to the throat and a straight skirt with narrow knife pleating giving the necessary fullness at the hem.

extensive order with Mademoiselle Chanel including not only dresses and ensembles, but also the little hats and fur toques that are shown with the different models. She has a handsome afternoon coat in black cloth with a wide lei collar of silver fox and fox edging the wide gauntlet cuffs that reach the elbow. She also has an afternoon ensemble in mulberry red trimmed with sable and a brown crepe dress matching the fur.

Mrs. John Marriott, the attractive daughter of Otto Kahn, looked extremely smart when lunching at the Ritz the other day when she was wearing an ensemble in brown cloth with collar cuffs and pocket edges of leopard and wears with it a little leopard toque.
