STORM DAMAGE IN VALLEY IS HEAVY

New Cuban Revolutionary Coup Is Successful Today

RESIGNATION OF CABINET IS RECEIVED

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 5 — The cabinet presented its resignation today to President Carlos Manuel De Cespedes.

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 5 — Another revolution overtook Cuba today in a swiftly accomplished, bloodless seizure of power.

While United States warships sped here to be on hand in case of violence, all members of the cabinet of President Carlos Manuel De Cespedes, which deposed the Machado regime only three weeks ago, gathered at the presidential palace apparently ready to resign.

They were awaiting the arrival of De Cespedes who was hurrying back from an inspection trip of the storm devastated regions.

Several members of the cabinet already had assured the revolutionists they would resign in a body as soon as De Cespedes arrived. The only danger of possible armed conflict which might lead to American intervention seemed likely to come exclusively from the ranks of the A. B. C. political organization, a majority of the members of which had not joined the movement.

U. S. WARSHIPS SENT TO HAVANA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 — American warships converged today on Cuba prepared to land armed men if necessary to protect American lives and property.

Military rebellion flamed on the troubled island at 10 o'clock last night and within 12 hours the first of four American naval ships steamed into Havana harbor.

KILL FOUR ACCUSED MACHADO HENCHMEN

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Sept. 5 — In the first bloodshed of Cuba's new revolt, soldiers today assaulted the civil jail and killed four men accused of having been associated with the deposed Machado regime.

MAN WHO PUT LOVE FIELD ON TOP TO RETIRE

DALLAS, Sept. 5 — Preston Sneed, the man who made Love Field here the nonpareil among airports which it is today, will retire as director of the port October 1 because the city can't afford to maintain his office longer.

In 1929 when Sneed took charge of the airport, the city had just a little money as few to spend on flying fields and the like. But Sneed had a knack of getting cash when there wasn't any and of borrowing "swiping," getting by hook or crook what he needed to develop the boggy, uneven plot of ground which civic leaders hailed as an "all-weather airport one of the finest in the land."

Love Field then probably was one of the worst airports "in the land." Sneed decided to make it a model which other cities would copy. He asked the city fathers for money but got none. He became a "chiseler," a pest to heads of the various city and county departments. But he got what he wanted. He borrowed equipments, labor and materials. He made the erstwhile rectangle of bog walks and hummocks into a smooth, firm place for airplanes to land and take off.

An innovation introduced by Sneed has since been widely copied, although at first the idea was considered dubiously by department of commerce officials. Instead of blanketing the field with light at

How Bailey Escaped Dallas Jail

Here is the jail corridor and the cell from which Harvey Bailey notorious criminal, escaped at the Dallas county jail in Texas. At the right may be seen the hole through which Bailey crawled after sawing three bars. On the floor of the corridor is the remains of Bailey's breakfast which a trusty was bringing him when the escape occurred. Below are Jailers Young and Morrow, locked in a padded cell by the escaping convict.

Nick Tresp, jailer, was forced to accompany Harvey Bailey in his own car, and was saved by Ardmore officers who captured the convict. He and Tresp were handcuffed together.

FORGIVENESS IS FREE SAYS DR. HORNBURG

"The reality of sin is universally recognized," Dr. W. R. Hornburg, evangelist who is conducting a revival meeting at the First Baptist church, told his audience last night in a sermon on the subject "The Price of Forgiveness." "The people of every nation recognize that there is sin," he continued, "but the Christian religion is the only religion in which forgiveness is without price. God paid the great price of forgiveness."

He said that sin is a personal matter, that the only person who can forgive is the person wronged. Pardon, he said, is a matter of law, but pardon does not mean forgiveness. "Sin is a crime against God, and, therefore, must be either pardoned or punished."

This morning Dr. Hornburg preached on "Shadows," a sermon that paid tribute to Dr. John W. Tyndall, president of Randolph college who yesterday afternoon was killed in an automobile accident near Altus, Okla. He praised the life and character of the dead educator and declared that the entire city is under the shadow of the tragedy.

Bids Called Upon Highway Projects

AUSTIN, Sept. 5.—Bids for the construction of $1,000,000 worth of highway projects in Texas under the national recovery plan were called for September 18 today by the state highway commission.

Fifteen of the 17 projects called for grading and drainage structures over approximately 140 miles of state highways.

Bandit Suspect Is Captured by Women

MEADE, Kan., Sept. 5. — Finger prints of a bandit suspect captured by two women armed with croquet mallets were telegraphed to Washington today in an effort to identify him. Officers believed he might be George (Machine Gun) Kelly, or one of the Underhill brothers, notorious southwestern outlaws.

Drag Medina Lake For Two Bodies

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 5.—Searchers dragged Medina Lake today for the bodies of L. W. Shauk, 38, and his son Deland, 9, who drowned yesterday when a boat in which they were riding with two others was overturned by waves driven by a high wind.

A. P. Surrudin was rescued by his son, Joe Surrudin, when they were thrown into the water with Shauks.

HEARING UPON PRORATION OF OIL SUMMONED

AUSTIN, Sept. 5 — The Texas Railroad commission today called a proration hearing for all Texas oil fields to consider daily production regulations for state conformity with the 975,200 barrels allotted by the federal oil supervisory board.

An eight-day gap between state and federal supervision of the fields appeared imminent. Federal allotments become effective September 8 and September 16 is the earliest possible date which the commission can legally consider the federal regulations. A ten-day notice for proration hearings is required by Texas statutes.

NO CHANGE IN PLANS TO OPEN COLLEGE TERM

There will be no change in the plans for opening Randolph college next Monday as a result of the tragic death of Dr. John W. Tyndall, president, in an automobile accident near Altus, Oklahoma, yesterday, Dr. Lee Clark, vice-president of the college said today.

"We feel that that will be as Dr. Tyndall would wish it," said Dr. Clark. "The school will open for the 1933-34 term next Monday, September 11, and there will be no change in the plans for conducting the school which were made before Dr. Tyndall's death."

He asked that all prospective students who had made private agreements with Dr. Tyndall in connection with their attending Randolph the forthcoming term make an explanation of these agreements at the administration office where efforts will be made to work out satisfactory arrangements.

"Dr. Tyndall really gave his life for the school," said Dean E. B. Isaacs this morning, "and we want to carry on as he would have wished it."

They said that no announcement would be made concerning the projects that Dr. Tyndall had been working on in connection with his program for developing Randolph into a large institution of learning. Some of these were undertaken in a private capacity and on his own initiative and what decisions are to be made on them rest with the family, it was explained.

But the school will continue without interruption, they reiterated.

University Fees Are Based on Reciprocity

AUSTIN, Sept. 5.—The University of Texas will close its doors this fall to the student who wants something for nothing.

The visiting student from Germany or Spain will find a fee bill of $100 per semester awaiting him. The student from Canada, Cuba, Mexico, or the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands will also find himself caught in an intricate web of fee schedules.

In effect, the amount of his tuition will vary with the friendliness shown for Texas students by his fatherland. The same rule applies to students from Missouri, California, or any other state.

The web of fee schedules was spun by the Texas legislature.

It required that students residing in Texas pay a registration fee of $25 per semester. Out-of-state students from Texas by similar schools in the respective home states of such students.

The rule applies also to students from Alaska, Canada, Cuba, Hawaiian Islands, Mexico and the Philippine Islands. Students from any other country will pay a registration and tuition fee of $100 per semester.

Methodist Stewards Will Meet Tonight

There will be a meeting of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Reagan this evening at 7 o'clock. A watermelon feed will follow the meeting.

Victim of Highway Accident

Dr. Tyndall Funeral Tomorrow at 9 A. M.

Funeral services for Dr. John W. Tyndall, 56, president of Randolph college, whose tragic death occurred yesterday afternoon in a highway collision near Altus, Oklahoma, will be held in Randolph college chapel tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, it was announced today. The Rev. Mr. Johnson, pastor of the First Christian church at Erick, Okla., close friend of Dr. Tyndall, will officiate. After the services the body will be shipped to St. Louis, Michigan, for burial.

Dr. Tyndall, en route to Altus and then to Erick to spend the night with the Rev. Mr. Johnson, died when his automobile collided with a truck at an intersection. Deves Davenport, 22, of Clarendon, Texas, riding with Dr. Tyndall and two others, was also killed.

H. H. Tompkins, of Fort Worth, formerly of Cisco, accompanying Dr. Tyndall to Altus on a business trip, suffered injuries to his chest and spine. He was not believed seriously hurt. Paul McDonald, of Clarendon, companion of Davenport, was less seriously hurt. Davenport and McDonald were believed hitch-hikers picked up by Dr. Tyndall and Mr. Tompkins.

Body Brought Here
The bodies of the dead and the injured were taken to Altus near where the accident occurred. A Green Funeral home hearse left Cisco for that city late yesterday and returned at 8 o'clock this morning bearing the body of the dead educator. Prof. W. F. Bruce, of the Randolph college faculty, went to Altus and returned with the body.

Dr. Tyndall is the second president that Randolph college has lost through automobile accidents. In both instances death robbed the institution before the terms for which they had been elected had opened. Dr. Joseph Keevil, of Marfa, was killed in an accident near Pecos two years ago the day following his election to the presidency at a meeting of the board here. Dr. Lee Clark, now vice-president of the school, was chosen to succeed Dr. Keevil.

Dr. Tyndall's death occurred while he was en route with Mr. Tompkins to Altus, Okla., in regard to plans for establishing a broom factory at the local school in which young men could work their way through the college. This project for which plans were practically complete, was expected to be carried out in spite of Dr. Tyndall's death if Mr. Tompkins is not too seriously injured to continue it.

Ambitious Plans
The educator's death cut short plans for the development of the school of a much more ambitious character. They included establishment of a paint factory on the campus under contracts with a large company in the east to supply materials and take all products, in which at least 200 students could work their way through the college. Plans for this, together with plans for various other enterprises, were undertaken in a private capacity by Dr. Tyndall and the school would make no announcement regarding them today.

It was emphasized, however, that school would open next Monday as planned and that there will be no changes in the plans for the session.

Dr. Tyndall became associated with Randolph college as dean of the Bible department, two and a half years ago. He was elected president, last spring and immediately plunged into an ambitious program which was aimed at making the school a four-year senior college within a few years. Little was said of the program he had in mind until it was outlined to a mass meeting of the citizens at the city hall during the summer. He was looking forward to the opening of the 1933-34 term with prospects of a great increase in membership, and only a few weeks before his death he and Mrs. Tyndall had returned from an extended tour of middle western states from which numbers of students had been promised the school this year.

Dr. Tyndall's interests were not confined to Randolph college. On the contrary the college was an intrusion into his life work, but an intrusion which he welcomed because of the great interest that he had quickly developed from his first associations with it during short Bible institutes which he conducted here beginning in 1928 and continuing until he definitely joined the faculty. At the time of his death he and Mrs. Tyndall were engaged in moving their home to the residence of the president on College Hill.

Known as one of the outstanding Bible authorities in the country, Dr. Tyndall was editor and publisher of a nationally circulated Bible magazine, "The Bible Expositor" which he edited here and published at St. Louis, Michigan. He also owned and conducted the largest Bible correspondence school in the United States "The Metropolitan Bible Correspondence School." The headquarters of this as well as of the publishing company he was understood to be planning to move here.

Born in North Carolina
He was born in New Bern, North Carolina, July 2, 1877. His father, James Z. Tyndall, survives him and recently visited here. Other survivors besides Mrs. Tyndall his second wife, include:
Two brothers, Dr. David F. Tyn-

HARLINGEN IS REPORTED TO BE WRECKED

CORPUS CHRISTI, Sept. 5. — Grave fear was felt here this afternoon that the tropical hurricane sweeping the lower Rio Grande valley had caused heavy property damage.

Meager reports indicated Harlingen, prosperous citrus shipping town, was almost completely wrecked. The citrus crop was reported totally lost. Authentic information on the loss of the crop, however, was lacking, due to demoralized communication systems.

The Missouri-Pacific dispatcher at Harlingen wired the town was wrecked, that food and water was needed. Relief trains were made up at Raymondville and Kingville.

Communications to half a dozen principal Valley towns went down about midnight last night and only scant reports of the storm damage were available today.

The telephone operator at McAllen told the United Press early today she had had no connections with Harlingen, San Benito, Brownsville or neighboring communities, since last night. They failed as the operator was describing damage done to the valley.

Plight of 6 Unknown
A telephone call to Brownsville was interrupted last night while the United Press was seeking information about the plight of Col. Sam Robertson, Brazos Island resort owner, and five other persons. The correspondent said Col. Robertson, four men and a woman attempted to reach mainland yesterday but mountainous seas beat them back to the resort.

Two passenger trains were reported marooned in the storm area. An army plane left Brooks field, San Antonio, to hunt for four coast guardsmen reported lost near Bay City northeast of Corpus Christi.

Corpus Christi had apparently weathered the storm with no loss of life. Meteorologist J. F. McAlliff, a noted authority on tropical disturbances, said at noon today the storm had reached its peak at Corpus Christi.

Meantime relief for the stricken Valley towns was prepared.

A train was being made up at Raymondville and Kingsville to be sent to Harlingen where less of life was feared. The railroad began relief preparations after learning Harlingen was almost completely wrecked. Food and water is needed, the Harlingen operator wired.

Southern Pacific headquarters in Houston received word from Edinburg that the southbound Houston to Brownsville passenger train was halted at Edinburg because of debris covering the tracks.

That report was the last heard from the little Valley town.

Auto Victim Not Former Cisco Girl

The Miss Mary Margaret Cutbirth, 21, of Quahab, who was reported in the state press as having been fatally injured in an automobile accident near Goodlett, Texas, Saturday, was not Miss Marguerite Cutbirth, formerly of Cisco, and now of Coleman, it was made clear today.

The former Cisco young woman participated in rodeo contests at Abilene yesterday.

A CHALLENGE.

The tragic death of Dr. John W. Tyndall near Altus, Oklahoma, yesterday afternoon provides one of those inscrutable instances of a divine justice upon which he, himself, would have been the best qualified to speak.

The greatest resource of any institution is the graves of its dead. Its greatness is measured by the sacrifices it has commanded. That which looks upon a hillside peopled with a silent tribute to the consecration with which it has been endowed, looks upon a well spring of living water that will nourish it as long as the traditions of that silent place remain with the minds to whom has fallen the task of carrying on.

Randolph college has come into a heritage that is greater than money or any endowment of physical wealth. The lives of consecrated men have been planted in its soil.

TEXAS OPPORTUNITIES.

Two public works plans promise much relief employment in Texas for their launching, and much continued work toward rehabilitation in their fulfillment.

The national government is now studying the establishment of something like 100,000 men in the forest camps in southern states during the winter.

This work will, in theory, turn the interests of thousands of young men to outdoor work, and afford training to permit these men to find future work.

The other step is the well-defined plan of the federal and state governments to establish not less than 12 farm colonies in Texas as the first step of returning misfit, jobless, marginal industrial workers back to the land.

This colonization would set from 1800 to 3000 families, whose jobless heads have no prospect of work in skilled labor classifications, upon small farms tracts, furnish them with homes, implements, farm animals, and furnish community facilities and equipment to make life in the colonies attractive.

The lower Rio Grande valley and other sections are planning toward acquisition of these farm colonies, as part of the rehabilitation work possible to the state out of its relief and rehabilitation money, and definitely a part of federal government planning.

The forest camps have proven their merit. Many hundreds of youths who got training in the first group are finding private employment. Others will attend a second camp, and new recruits will be added.

This proposal promised to arouse much interest. It will get its springs of action from the long controversies between those who have taken Texas gas and shipped it out of the state, paying the state from 1-25th to 1-20th of a cent per thousand cubic feet for gas that is sold to the homes of other states at up to $1.50 per 1000 feet.

SOMETHING ELSE TO WATCH.

In most Texas counties there has been tax reduction of some sort during the past two years. Either the rates have been reduced, or valuations have been trimmed partly to the new shape of property values.

Now the ready worriers see a new cause or opportunity ahead for apprehension. Even the more complacent may give it a thought or two.

It is the prospect that in many localities the valuations will be raised to higher levels for taxation, even though the county and city rates may be unchanged.

The reason for worrying is that under Texas' archaic present system, there's nothing anybody can do about it, if a local agency of government sees fit to impose a 10- or 50- or 100-per cent increase in the assessment valuation of property.

Some cities undoubtedly got so enthusiastic over tax reduction for 1932 and 1933—based on political campaign needs—that they cut their income severely.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Sept. 5 — The proposal will come from persons in public office, probably in the near future, to extend to the state the policy now followed by cities, of public ownership of certain utilities, particularly those which use up an essential natural resource.

The suggestion will be for the state to take over, own and operate the distribution of gas for fuel, heat and light.

Other similar state-operated utilities, tied to natural resource depletion, may be broached at the same time.

Power of a city to take over a private service, such as a sewer, water and light or similar utility, is unquestioned. Power of the state to regulate the conservation of its irreplaceable natural resources has been upheld.

Under the public welfare clause, it is contended that such resources as a state's supply of natural gas belongs to the public, regardless of private interests.

Any accrued private interest, such as ownership of a well or pipeline or distribution system would be recognized to the extent of paying for it on the state's valuation.

The oil business has been held to be "impressed with a public interest" as to conservation, but it differs from gas production in that oil goes into many various uses, and into an open market, while gas, in its distribution, runs to a monopoly, and becomes an essential public service, just like water supply to a city.

This proposal promised to arouse much interest. It will get its springs of action from the long controversies between those who have taken Texas gas and shipped it out of the state, paying the state from 1-25th to 1-20th of a cent per thousand cubic feet for gas that is sold to the homes of other states at up to $1.50 per 1000 feet.

An argument for public ownership, and state distribution at cost is that the state will be serving all its people on an equal basis, that it will be protecting present and future generations against the depletion of a natural resource under conditions that the state gets no benefits, and that the immense profits from various operations — pipe lines, wholesalers and distributors, tends to prove exploitation of the people; and lastly, that the state is engaged in many services of an allied nature and would be embarking in no untried experiment.

Six football games have been scheduled and two dates are still open for the 1933 season for the Hereford high school eleven. It has been announced by Coach T. M. McCollum.

De Valera's Ultimatum Barring Private Armies in Ireland Brought Break

By W. G. QUISENBERRY, United Press Staff Correspondent. DUBLIN, Sept. 5. — Tar barrels blazed over the countryside and torchlight parades wound through hundreds of Irish villages on a chill February night in 1932.

The victorious Irish republicans were celebrating the return to power of their idol, Eamon de Valera, after a dogged uphill fight of eleven years.

Sitting in his office listening to the ovations for his new chief, Gen. Eoin O'Duffy, commander of the civic guard, mused upon the irony of the situation. It was he who had crushed de Valera's power in the civil war of 1921 and driven the schoolmaster-rebel into exile.

Now they were political bedfellows. "Give-em-the-lead" O'Duffy, right hand man of Michael Collins, was responsible to de Valera for the high post he had won out of the sanguinary civil conflict. Equally uncertain of their fate were his large force of political police, created under the Cosgrave regime to keep an eye on Irish republicans.

Showdown Certain. Between these bitter enemies of the civil war, de Valera and O'Duffy, a showdown was inevitable.

Left-wing republicans demanded the immediate sacking of the general and his so-called GPU. But de Valera did not want to seem vindictive. O'Duffy stayed on.

A few months ago, after the defeated Cosgrave forces formed the "White Army," events began moving swiftly. General O'Duffy was dismissed by de Valera. No reason was given.

Almost immediately, O'Duffy took command of the "White Army," which had suffered continual ignominy at the hands of hostile republican mobs, and transformed it into the "National Guards," or Blueshirts — Europe's newest Fascist army.

The repercussions of General O'Duffy's first pronouncement were immediate. On the following day

Ulster's government officially banned the Blueshirts. "No ban can prevail against the people's will," replied O'Duffy. "We will organize the north anyway."

One night, a week later, de Valera issued an order revoking all firearms permits. When civic guards called to collect the revolvers of O'Duffy and other Blueshirt leaders, they refused to surrender them. A few nights later the civic guards called again and seized O'Duffy's revolvers forcibly.

Feelings rapidly mounted to a dangerous pitch. Members of the Irish republican army and other leftwingers were itching to get at the Blueshirts on their first public appearance. De Valera saw that the time for his long-awaited showdown with O'Duffy had arrived.

"We are not going to allow private armies in this country," he warned. "No new dictators will be allowed to rise against the people's government. We now have two rival forces, each being used as an excuse for the growth and increase of the other. This can ultimately lead but to one thing—civil war."

So a ban was placed on all parades or demonstrations of uniformed forces. Defiantly, the Blueshirts replied they would parade regardless.

Their rivals, the I. R. A., declared through the army council that they would carry on "until the nation is absolutely free and undivided."

Freckles and His Friends.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY. EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries DICK RADER, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City.

Unknown to Dick, Eve has been playing the stock market with borrowed money. She is certain that MONA ALLEN, blond copy writer in charge of making trouble for her at the office, one night advertising copy fails to reach a newspaper office and Eve barely manages to get it there before the deadline.

Charles was the office boy, who had entered the room. He brought several copies of the home edition of the evening newspaper which he laid on Eve's desk.

She spread the pages open, hoping fervently that Mona had made no mistakes in sending out the copy. First she turned to Bixby's advertisement, studying it to see that each cut accompanied the copy it was to illustrate.

When Mr. Bixby asked for an explanation Eve gave the details, briefly and frankly, making no effort to evade the responsibility.

Charles was called in then and explained that he had been unable to find Miss Gordon though he had returned several times to the department. He had asked Miss Allen, he said, if he should take the advertisement to Mr. Bixby for an O. K., and she had replied that she would attend to the matter herself as she had another errand on the fifth floor and it would be no trouble to take the proofs.

CHARLES was dismissed then and Mona summoned. She came, as Eve knew she would, looking very young and innocent.

"Oh, did I do something wrong?" she exclaimed, "I'm terribly sorry! You see, I waited and waited for Mrs. Rader to come back—she said she'd only be gone a half hour and I expected her any minute. Then when I was on the point of going up to your office, Mr. Bixby, as Charles had suggested I looked at my watch and saw that it was time for Mrs. Rader's lunch period. I knew she'd be back in time for that and would rather attend to the ad herself, so I thought it was all right for me to go to lunch."

"And of course," Arlene said when Eve related the story, "the big boss fell for all that—hook, line and sinker! The only reason she didn't grab the chance to go to Bixby's office was that some darned fool man called up and invited her to lunch. You'd think men would see through her wiles but they don't!"

"Well, he didn't come to me. Look up the copy and you'll see I didn't O. K. it."

MR. BIXBY entered the office at that moment. He, too, carried a copy of the same newspaper, open at the offending advertisement. His face was grim. Eve clutched at her vanishing courage. No matter who was to blame for this error, she would be held responsible because Barnes was absent.

The store owner opened the door of Barnes' office. Eve and Miss Gordon obeyed his unspoken command to enter. He followed and closed the door, for which Eve blessed him. She could not bear that Mona Allen should witness her humiliation. Mona must be at the bottom of this, of course. Eve had corrected the proofs that morning and then sent Charles to take them to the buyers whose departments were represented. Before Charles' return Eve had been called to Mr. Bixby's office—a summons she felt she must obey at once.

She had given Mona explicit directions about returning the proofs to the newspaper office. Mona had blundered in some way. Blundered purposely and maliciously, Eve was sure.

When Mr. Bixby asked for an explanation Eve gave the details, briefly and frankly, making no effort to evade the responsibility.

Charles was called in then and explained that he had been unable to find Miss Gordon though he had returned several times to the department. He had asked Miss Allen, he said, if he should take the advertisement to Mr. Bixby for an O. NEW 8TH CORPS COMMANDER IS ARMY FAVORITE

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 5 — San Antonio expects to like and be stimulated by Major General Johnson Hagood, recently transferred from command of the seventh army corps area headquarters here.

The outspoken general is a favorite with his army associates, and several of the personnel here have served with him in other posts.

General Hagood has gained national fame as a soldier of liberal leanings and fearlessness in expression of his convictions. Although not, his friend say, a seeker of publicity for his own sake, he does believe it does the army good for that reason he has not hesitated to air criticisms of the army's organization when he believed they were on the constructive side.

Recently before a congressional committee he declared the present organization of the army was top-heavy with its multitudinous divisions which he believes would break down under the pressure of war. He advocated its reorganization into a few major branches.

He caused a major sensation when he declared that any intelligent American youth could be equipped for trench warfare in 10 days of training, provided the century-old "squad right" school of drill was eliminated.

In another attack on red tape in the war department the critical general asserted army machinery is so complicated "that an archangel from heaven couldn't operate it."

"BellyWash" His criticisms have not always confined themselves to the army. When congress was solemnly debating whether or not to limit the alcoholic content of beer to 2.75 per cent the general exploded. Such a beverage, he declared, would be mere "bellywash."

At Omaha, Neb., where General Hagood has been in command of the seventh army corps area, he won the esteem of the community. His transfer becomes effective October 1.

General Hagood was one of the youngest brigadier generals ever appointed, his associates here recalled and is believed to be the youngest major general except General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff. He was born June 16, 1873, in Orangeburg, S. C. He attended West Point and was assigned to artillery upon graduation.

He was assistant to the chief of coast artillery when the World War broke out. He went to France to command the seventh regiment, C. A. C. General John J. Pershing appointed him to organize the Service of Supply, of which he was made chief of staff. After the war he was with the Army of Occupation as commander of the 66th Field Artillery Brigade. He received the Distinguished Service Cross for his work in the Service of Supply and he also holds the order of Commander in the French Legion of Honor and the same rank in the Order of the Crown of Italy.

General Hagood will be succeeded in Omaha by Major General Frank R. McCoy, commander of the first cavalry division at Fort Bliss, Texas.

JAZZ CAUSED INSOMNIA EL PASO, Sept. 5 — Asserting their wives were forced to take sleeping powders to obtain rest because of jazz from a lower valley dance hall, residents obtained an injunction from District Judge Ballard Goldwell restraining the orchestra from continuing its music.

The orchestra may play if its tones are so low neighbors cannot hear them.

HOW TO RECAPTURE BEAUTY

Good looks are often a matter of good health. Sparkling eyes and a smooth complexion are outward signs of an abundant vitality.

To be charming, conserve your health. Guard against constipation. It so often brings wrinkles, sallow skins, dull eyes, pimples.

Try the pleasant "cereal way" to protect yourself from constipation. Science has proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which helps build up the blood.

The "bulk" in this delicious cereal is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than abusing your system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

You can depend on the man who advertises

NINE times out of ten you will find that the man who advertises is the man who most willingly returns your money if you are not satisfied.

He has too much at stake to risk losing your trade or your confidence. You can depend on him.

He is not in business for today or tomorrow only --- but for next year and ten years from next year. He knows the value of good-will.

You get better merchandise at a fairer price than he could ever hope to sell it if he did not have the larger volume of business that comes from legitimate advertising and goods that bear out the promise of the printed word.

Don't miss the advertisements. This very day they call your attention to values that tomorrow you will be sorry you overlooked.

REGULATION OF TRUCKS MAY BE SECOND ISSUE

Continued from page one. The truck lines, and the motor industry generally, has many friends in the legislature; and regulations and restrictions, even to the present basis where as high as 200 people have been killed by trucks in a single season, have been extremely hard-fought.

Capitol comment deals with the campaign declaration of Gov. Ferguson in both her first and her second election will be revised in a message to the legislature. Those campaign planks were scorching denunciations of the use of highways, paid for by the public, as private revenue sources. Indirectly, other arguments insist the present lengthy restrictions and regulations against the common carrier and revenue trucks, may be modified in some respects, while perhaps putting in some safeguards for other drivers who venture upon the state highways.

Have Many Friends
The truck lines, and the motor industry generally, has many friends in the legislature; and regulations and restrictions, even to the present basis where as high as 200 people have been killed by trucks in a single season, have been extremely hard-fought.

Immense business interests are involved. Through truck lines operate over highways paid for and belonging to the public, and in which they can acquire no such vested rights as ownership of, say, a railroad line, the state permits for operation of trucks are property, subject to being bought and sold, and often represent large sums of money. The state can regulate the method of operating trucks, but it has been pointed out that after the creation of monetary value in the truck line permits, it cannot destroy that value, or "take property without due process of law," or paying for it.

If truck regulations is submitted, it is sure that the two active groups those for it, and those against it, will spring into their customary pitched battle during this session.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack. Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any store.—Adv.

Chinese Woman Is 77th in Line From Confucius

PEIPING, China, Sept. 5.—The tenacity with which China keeps her roots in the past and her pride in ancient lineage has been emphasized with the arrival here of Mrs. Kung Shao-wu, the 77th lineal descendant of Confucius.

As Miss Kung, the second elder sister of King Teh-chun, of the same generation in the descent from Confucius, she came to Peiping to marry the grandson of a famous Shantung scholar.

Since Confucius was born in 551 B. C. the family now is 2,484 years old. The most prominent member of the Kung family is Dr. H. H. Kung, former Minister of Industry and now governor of the Central Bank of China. He is the 75th lineal descendant of Confucius.

Mrs. Kung came to Peiping from Chufu in Shantung Province, the birthplace of Confucius for her marriage. She is proud of her descent from the sage whose teachings for 25 centuries have influenced the entire philosophical thought of China.

The descendants of Confucius trace their lineage back only to the sage, but Chinese scholars long have been attempting to establish the ancestry of Confucius himself. Many of the followers of Confucius trace his ancestry back to the semi-mythical Yellow Emperor who ruled in 2700 B. C.

Virtually every generation of the descendants of Confucius has produced an illustrious personage. The long line has a proud heritage of eminent scholars, warriors and politicians.

Until 300 years after his death Confucius was not officially recognized, but since his rediscovery under the Han Dynasty his memory has been revered and his descendants have been honored and ennobled. In 979 A. D. posthumous honors were conferred on all 44 generations of descendants and in 1233 A. D. the direct male representative was honored with the title of Widely Holy Duke.

EXTINCT VOLCANO.

BILLINGS, Mont., Sept. 5.—An extinct volcano, the first to be found in this section, has been discovered near McLeod, Mont, by the Princeton University geological expedition. The cone of the volcano probably was active between 65 and 100 million years ago, according to Dr. W. T. Thom, Jr, chief of the university expedition.

Tells How Cardui Stopped Cramping

"Several years ago, when I was younger, I was advised to take Cardui for cramping and irregular trouble," writes Mrs. Esther L. Dodson, of Lowry City, Mo. "It helped me and stopped the cramping. I feel that my good health is due to Cardui, and I can certainly recommend it to other women." When womanly aches and pains and cramps are due to a weak, run-down condition, take Cardui. Sold at drug stores.

A. and P. Aids In Butter Program

Secretary Wallace, concerned over the difficult situation of the dairy farmers upon whom the enormous surplus of butter is especially burdensome, has suggested that retail stores cooperate with the agricultural adjustment administration by moving butter into consumption as quickly as possible, reducing the price of butter to make it attractive to the consumer on the basis of two cents per pound above local wholesale market.

Recommend System
Government officials now urge other cities to adopt Sneed's lighting system, which will be installed at Fort Worth soon.

Sneed's traffic system at the airport, a model of simplicity, has reduced crashes at Love Field below the average at other ports.

His most recent work at the field was a beautification campaign in which hundreds of shrubs, trees and flowers were planted. Again he had no money to work with, but he got the shrubs and the necessary landscaping service from persons whom he inspired to give their talent and money to the project.

That Sneed has succeeded in his ambition to make Love Field one of the finest in the United States was attested when the government awarded the airport the A. T. A. rating for super-airports, held by only five other flying fields in the country.

Mrs. Burnham drove her hydroplane superbly over the 132-mile course... to flash by the finish line the winner... in the record time of 3 hours, 37 minutes, 53 seconds!

STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

"I never would have been able to hold my boat at record speed for hours," says Mrs. Florence Burnham, "if I didn't take every precaution to keep my nerves healthy. As a steady smoker, I have tried most of the cigarette brands. But for a long time I have been an enthusiastic Camel fan. Camels, being so much milder, never ruffle or disturb my nerves, so I smoke them all I want."

You are missing a new delight in smoking... an added safeguard of healthy nerves... if you haven't yet switched to Camels. Begin today. Your taste will quickly appreciate the natural mildness of Camels... and your nerves will confirm your taste—bringing overwhelming proof that Camel's costlier tobaccos do make a difference!

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Isn't this the most important statement ever made by a cigarette manufacturer? Consider what it means. Change to Camels and learn that it's the tobacco that counts!
