31 More Bills Are Signed by Gov. Sterling Today

FISCAL AND TRUCK BILLS STILL WAIT

AUSTIN, May 29.—Thirty one more bills of the recent session of the state legislature signed by the governor today leave but a few remaining on his desk. Among those still unsigned are the motor truck regulatory bills, the appropriation bills and those creating new courts.

The new Confederate pension bill became a law with the governor's signature. Under it all married veterans will receive $50 a month. Under the old law those who married since 1900 have been getting $25 a month. Single veterans and widows of veterans continue to get $25 a month.

WORMS INDUCE EARLY HARVEST ABOUT MORAN

MORAN, May 29.—Much damage is being done to grain here by an army of worms, approximating an inch in length. These pests are eating the farmers of this county thousands of dollars a day, according to report from farmers. The pests were noticed more than a week ago, although no considerable damage was expected to materialize.

Many of our farmers are cutting their oats and wheat green in order to prevent further damage by the worms. Some will use the green-cut grain for feed.

These worms begin on the leaves. When they are gone, the grain is next attacked, and in many instances the grain is cut from the stalk. The worms are so numerous that handfuls can be raked up in the rows. Considerable damage can be done in a very short time.

Farmers whose fields are infested with the worms are speeding up harvest in order to save the grain, and incidentally will cut down the weight of the yield.

County Agent O. G. Tumlinson prepared a poison mash last week and with the aid of C. C. Duff and Mr. Hubbert, tried it out on half an acre of Mr. Hubbert's wheat. The following morning the worms could be found dead by the hundreds, and a very small percentage were still able to crawl. The poison is the same used for grasshoppers, and proved to be very effective, although the cost, considering the price to be paid for grain, will run high. It was estimated that the cost of the mash will be approximately 75 cents an acre.

Mr. Hubbert states that the worms continued to work on his oats after they were cut.

Wheat and oats are being cut in all parts of the county, and the yield is generally good. The fields being infested with worms will be greatly damaged, but it is understood that they have not appeared in the majority of fields.

GOVERNOR IS CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

WASHINGTON, May 29.—An first count in impeachment articles against Gov. Henry Horton presented to the state house of representatives today charged the governor entered into a conspiracy with Rogers Caldwell, financier, and Col. Luke Lea, newspaper publisher, whereby the chief executive "was to be perpetuated in office."

Chairman John Tipton, of a special house committee, introduced to the state house of representatives today a bill which consisted of 65 type written pages. It was based on alleged violation of the criminal conspiracy laws of the state.

BACK BETWEEN TERMS

Miss Louise Trammell, formerly society editor of the Cisco Daily News and now a senior in the college of Industrial Arts at Denton, is here for a stay of about a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Trammell before resuming her studies this summer. She expects to graduate from the college next August.

HIGH SCHOOL EXERCISES AT 8:30 TONIGHT

With an address by Att.-Gen. James V. Allred and the presentation of diplomas to 58 graduates in exercise at the high school auditorium this evening the 1930-31 session of Cisco high school will become history. The program has been announced for 8:30.

Diplomas will be presented the class by F. D. Wright, past-president of the school board.

Last night more than 70 graduates of the Cisco grammar school were presented certificates entitling them to enter high school next fall in exercises held at the high school auditorium. Supt. R. N. Cluck made presentation of the certificates.

The address to the grammar school class was delivered by W. F. Bruce, of Randolph college.

FORT WORTH IS INDICATED FOR NARCOTIC FARM

WASHINGTON, May 29.—An announcement as to selection of a site for the proposed farm for narcotic addicts to be located west of the Mississippi river will be made later today by Sec'y of the Treasury Mellon, it was disclosed after a final conference on the matter today.

Fort Worth, Texas, was indicated, is to be selected for the site. Parsons, Kan., also made a bid for the proposed institution.

Texas Guinan Is Barred From France

PARIS, May 29.—The ministries of interior and labor, definitely decided today to refuse permission for Miss Texas Guinan and her troupe of show girls to land in France. Previously there had been an indication that the group might not suffer the fate of being barred.

LE HAVRE, France, May 29.—Texas Guinan, her white horse and her troupe of show girls were barred from France today when they arrived on the liner Paris.

Unless they can persuade the government to relent they will be shipped back on the Paris.

As the French detective left the ship Miss Guinan screamed at them from the top deck.

"Hey, suckers, I've been thrown out of better places than this."

ROERICH PACT WOULD PROTECT ART TREASURES

NEW YORK, May 29.—World-wide adoption of the Roerich Pact and the Roerich Peace Banner is the aim of an international assembly to be held next August at Bruges, Belgium, and which is being organized by M. Camille Tulpinck, a member of the Royal Academy of Archeology, of Belgium. Both projects are favored by the Roerich Museum, of New York. The first is designed to establish the inviolability of art museums and treasures, their sites, buildings and personnel by belligerents during any hostilities, and the second project provides for a distinctive flag to be flown over such institutions to identify them readily.

MAN DEAD AS LOVERS ENTER SUICIDE PACT

DALLAS, May 29.—Unable to bear separation in life, Mrs. Fannie Anderson, 24, Graham, Texas, and Thomas E. Davis, Verona, N. J., entered a suicide pact here early today that ended with the death of the man and critical injury to his lover.

Davis, 23, was found shot through the heart in his hotel room. Mrs. Anderson was shot through the abdomen by a bullet from the same gun.

Bleeding from her wound the woman staggered to an elevator shaft, pushed the starter button and swooned. When the elevator door opened a bell boy found her clad only in under clothing.

She screamed long enough to moan, "We couldn't stand to be separated. He is in there. I took the gun and shot myself."

Both boys found Davis' body clad only in underclothing lying face up on the bed. His under clothing was powder burned near the bullet hole in his chest.

Pictures of the two lovers taken in affectionate poses littered the dresser top. Two letters were found, one addressed to Gus Anderson, Graham, the woman's husband, and the other directing that relatives of the dead man be notified.

Young Minister to Preach First Sermon

Rev. J. Hollis Clark, who was recently licensed to preach by the Cisco district conference of the Methodist church, will preach his first sermon Sunday night at the First Methodist church.

Clark was recently graduated from the Randolph college and received his high school education in the Cisco high school where he was valedictorian of his class. For some time he has been district secretary of the Cisco district Epworth League and was for several years president of the Epworth League of First church. He is the son of J. Q. Clark, of the Apex Printing company.

In making the announcement, the Rev. H. D. Tucker, pastor of the First church, extends an invitation to the former classmates and friends of Mr. Clark to hear his initial sermon Sunday night at eight o'clock.

Post Office to Close Saturday

The Cisco post office will be closed all day tomorrow in observance of Memorial day. There will be no rural or city delivery.

DIRECTORS OF ROAD ASS'N TO MEET HERE

A meeting of the directors of the West Texas division of the Broadway of America Highway association will be held in Cisco Monday, June 1, at 10:30 a. m. on the roof garden of the Laguna hotel. L. B. Campbell, vice-president of the organization has just been informed in a letter from W. L. Stephen, president. There are about 15 directors of the association.

Business men of Cisco, particularly service station and tourist camp operators, are invited to attend this session. Important matters relating to tourist traffic over this section of the Bankhead highway will be taken up and plans for encouraging this traffic considered.

Invitations are being sent out to the directors of the division and to others who are interested in developing highway traffic through this section.

Luncheon will probably be served the visitors at noon.

Athletic Meeting to Be Held Sat.

Postponement of the general citizens athletic meeting called for this evening at the chamber of commerce offices to Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock was announced this morning to avoid conflict with the graduation exercises at the high school this evening.

J. T. Elliott, announcing the postponement, urged every Ciscoan interested in athletics to attend the meeting tomorrow afternoon.

Blazing Patrol Boat Is Drifting

NEW YORK, May 29.—The customs patrol boat, Atlanta, took fire in New York harbor today and after her crew of three men had been rescued, started drifting toward a scow with more than a ton of dynamite aboard.

The Atlanta was bound for the Battery from Ellis Island to take on 40 persons when mid-way between the two points a short circuit developed and flames enveloped the craft.

CISCOANS BACK FROM HIGHWAY ASS'N MEETING

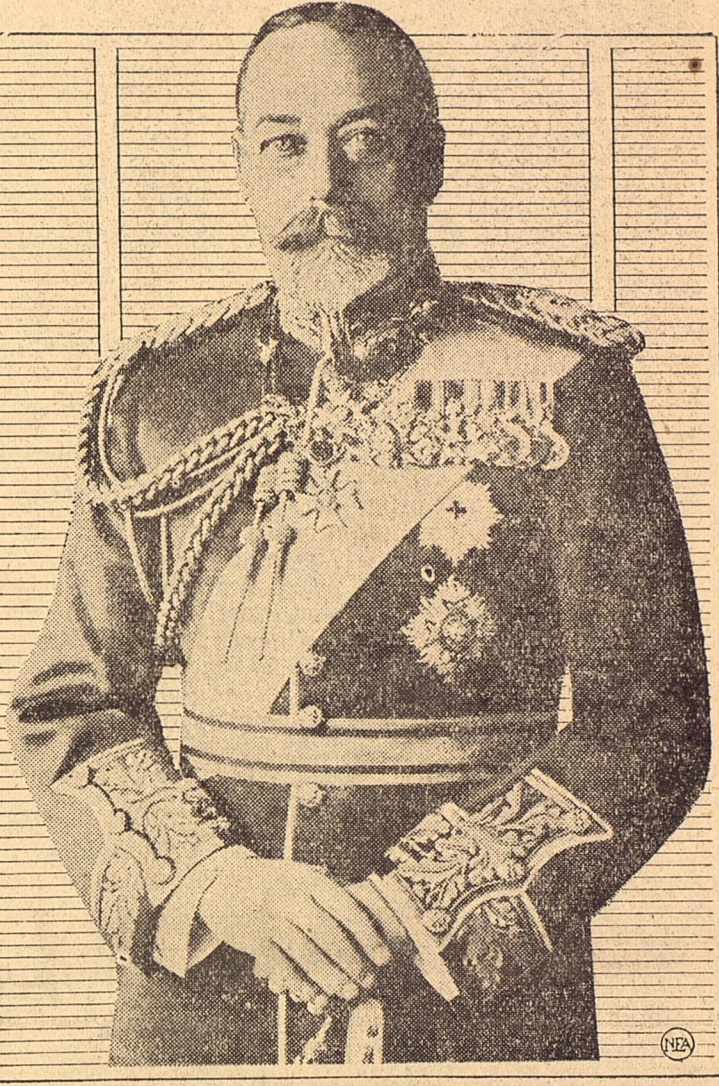

J. J. Collins, president, J. E. Spencer, secretary, and L. B. Campbell and W. J. Armstrong, directors, of the Cisco chamber of commerce returned last night after attending a meeting of the Canada to Gulf highway association at Seymour yesterday in which impetus was given the movement to secure federal designation for the north and south national route. The route follows highway 22 through Dakota and a federal designation would give this city two United States highways.

The Canada to Gulf highway extends from the Canadian border adjoining North Dakota in practically a straight line to Corpus Christi. Designation by the federal board, which meets in Chicago June 3, requires endorsement of such designation by the highway commissions of the states through which the road passes and the purpose of the meeting yesterday was to insist upon this endorsement by the various commissions. Those of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas are understood to have favorably expressed themselves while designation by the federal board has already been made through North and South Dakota and Nebraska, it is understood.

Delegates were present from as far as Norton, Kansas, 500 miles away, and great interest was shown by both Kansas and Oklahoma representatives. The Cisco delegates reported.

Mr. Spencer was chosen alternate delegate to the meeting of the American association of State Highway Officials, the organization which determines federal designations, in Chicago, and E. P. Crawford was chosen a director of the highway association.

England's King Nears Birthday

Here is the latest official court photograph of King George V of England, the first taken since his serious illness of two years ago, who reaches the age of 66 on June 3. He has occupied the British throne for 21 years, having ascended on the death of his father, King Edward VII, on May 6, 1910.

TWO BOYS ARE HELD IN CAR THEFT HERE

Two boys, sought by Cisco police in connection with the theft of a car belonging to T. C. Williams, principal of the West Ward school here, were arrested at Itasca and confined in the Eastland county jail yesterday. The boys, who face charges of car theft, are Robert Thompson, under suspended sentence in Callahan county, and another by the name of Brock, paroled after conviction on charges of burglary.

They were arrested by Itasca officers in possession of a car alleged to have been stolen at Ranger and which was stuck in a mud hole near Itasca. Witnesses reported to officers that two boys driving the Ranger car were unable to get it out of the mud and attempted to set fire to the machine, wrapping a coat around the carburetor. The car did not burn and information obtained from the coat caused charges to be filed against the two youths.

Thompson was identified by a Cisco filling station operator as the youth, driving Mr. Williams' car, who attempted to secure gasoline at his station the evening the Williams car was stolen. Charges have been filed. Location of the Cisco car had not been revealed this morning Chief of Police W. M. Miller said.

Clerks Due to Talk Marriage Law

DALLAS, May 29.—Discussion of the Texas "gin" marriage license law, requiring three days notice of intention to wed and physical examination of the groom, was expected to be brought into today's session of the annual convention of the County and District Clerks association of Texas.

Clerks of border counties, who have lost enormously in fees since enactment of the law due to couples clipping to adjoining states, were expected to have their spokesmen in Orville Beale, Tarrant county clerk, a bitter foe of the law.

PETE SLATTON HERE

Pete Slatton, well known in Cisco as a former Lobo football star, and formerly connected with the Green Funeral home, was here today after an absence of six weeks spent in Dallas and San Antonio. He was due to leave this afternoon.

FUTURE OF RESTRICTION IN BALANCE

TYLER, May 29.—The future of proration in the East Texas oil fields hinged precariously today on a meeting of the East Texas central advisory committee of 11 men who met to decide what increases should be made in the allowable flow of oil for the next proration period.

Charles F. Roesser, of Fort Worth, presided over the session as chairman. Carl Estes, Tyler, and Ed A. Landreth, Fort Worth, were invited to attend the hearing by Roesser. As the committee began its deliberations Estes declared that the future of the "whic" proration problem might be determined when the meeting ended.

After conferring with bitter opponents of proration, Estes said he believed that unless the allowable was raised to between 200,000 and 300,000 barrels daily at today's meeting proration would become a thing of the past.

SPECIAL MEETING EXPECTED

DALLAS, May 29.—Dr. N. D. Eulie, president of the East Texas chamber of commerce, today was expected to call a special directors meeting to vote on a plan devised by the chamber's oil and gas committee here Thursday in an effort to restore order to the East Texas oil fields.

SLAYER BLAMES INTERFERENCE FOR SHOOTING

FORT WORTH, May 29.—Family interference in his married life was blamed by E. W. McMurray, 29, for the killing last night of W. M. Poole, 41, at Euless in the northeast part of Tarrant county.

McMurray is in jail here having surrendered two hours after the killing of Poole, his wife's uncle.

McMurray, holding his two-year-old child in his arms at the district attorney's office Thursday night, told the details of the killing.

"Ever since we were married they have been after her about me," McMurray declared. They have been married three years and besides the two-year-old boy also have a small baby.

McMurray said when he stopped in front of the general store Thursday night Poole came out to his car and after a few words grabbed him by the collar. He said it was then he fired the first shot with the pistol.

Poole then fled into a garage but finding the back door locked came out again and started into the H. H. Fuller store. As he was about to enter it he was shot with a shotgun with McMurray only a few feet behind. He died en route to the hospital.

TESTIMONY IN KIDNAP CASE BEGUN TODAY

CORSICANA, May 29.—Currie Caldwell, alleged to be the "master mind" in the $16,000 kidnaping of Robert Cerf, last December pleaded not guilty to charges of assault with a knife this morning as the district court here began the trial of the first of five men under indictment in the abduction plot.

First testimony in the cases tended to prove that Caldwell was one of the men who forced the ransom car of N. Suttle Roberts, vice-president of the bank headed by Cerf's father, to the side of the Corsicana-Dallas highway and nervously demanded of him the release money.

WEATHER

West Texas—Cloudy and probably thunderstorms in southeast portion tonight and Saturday.

East Texas—Cloudy, occasional thunderstorms in north and west portions tonight and Saturday.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

MORE THAN CONQUERORS:—All things work together for good to them that love God. If God be for us, who can be against us? Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us.—Romans 8: 28, 31, 35, 37.

AN EDUCATOR LOSES HIS SCALP.

Removal of Dr. John G. Mitchell as president of Central State Teachers college at Edmond, Oklahoma, was voted by the state board of education. This is the way the members registered their verdict: For removal, four; against removal, three. Gov. Murray is wearing the scalp as a belt ornament. He demanded the removal of the worthy doctor, not for cause but for the reason that the educator flouted the recommendations of the chief executive. It was a case of the monkey fooling with the buzzsaw. Governor Murray is the buzzsaw. He is making sport for the millions. He is said to have the farmers of Oklahoma behind him. He may slip a cog some day and then another popular idol will be thrown in the discard.

HOUSING FACILITIES FOR COLLEGE GIRLS.

A bulletin sent out from the college of education, federal department, lets it be known that more housing facilities are provided for college men than for college women. Of the total students residing in college dormitories a survey showed 13,000 were men and 8000 women. An unusual shortage of housing facilities for students, both men and women, exists on the campuses of the 52 land grant colleges of the nation. This group includes many of the leading institutions of learning of the United States. There is a reason for the shortage: "Universities have been waiting for state legislatures to make appropriations to provide needed housing facilities." Lawmakers are unresponsive. Taxpayers growl at the high cost of civilization. In the industrial world it is a case of passing the buck from one organization to another. Dormitory building is at a standstill the nation over.

THEY ASK A SPECIAL LEGISLATIVE SESSION.

Directors of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce held a session. They sent an appeal for further consideration of the proposed oil proration bill. James D. Collett and Charles F. Foster, prominent oil operators of Fort Worth, predicted radical cuts in crude prices in the East Texas field "which sooner or later must be reflected in price of oil produced in other sections of the state." They declared that the state's revenue from gross production tax had been reduced to 40 per cent and that a similar reduction in University of Texas oil revenue would result. On the other hand Lieut. Governor Edgar E. Witt expressed the opinion that "a cursory examination of the appropriation bills" do not justify their being vetoed in whole or a special session called for the single purpose of enacting new money measures. An immediate and exhaustive study of oil proration will be made by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

OKLAHOMA COTTON GROWERS ON WARPATH.

Oklahoma cotton growers, at their tenth annual convention, adopted resolutions unanimously endorsing the federal farm board and the agricultural marketing act. They appealed to their senators and representatives in congress to stand behind the act. They urged members of the state organization to keep cotton under control until it reaches ports of shipment. C. O. Moser, well-known in the cotton co-operative world, urged the cotton farmers of the country to back the marketing act and the farm board. Organizer Moser said: "Big business has never been in favor of organization of farmers. There is a conflict of interests. It depends on whether the farmer or the cotton merchant is to benefit." There is a carryover of millions of bales. There may be another bumper crop this year. Leaders in the textile world report ever increasing activity. There is a greater demand for cotton goods. Regardless of all this the surplus fixes the price. Now, where will a market be found for the surplus?

SPEAKING OF THE MANUFACTURING STATES.

States of the nation leading Texas, in a manufacturing sense, are for the most part located in the industrial East and the middlewest. Texas has all the natural advantages. These advantages are natural resources, rare materials including wool and cotton and mohair; cheap oil and cheap gas and cheap lignite. Why should Texas be haulers and drawers of water, so to speak, for the industrial East where manufacturing it at its height. Now is the time for Texas to come out of the trance of decades and advertise to the world its advantages and its possibilities for an expansion into an industrial empire.

EXCITING TIMES UNDER THE BIG DOME.

Governor Sterling is a very busy man. He is pouring over the huge appropriation bills. He is in doubt whether to use his broad ax or veto broadsword. He warned the lawmakers time and again that the appropriations made should fit with the revenue in sight. He has many advisers. Optimistic chaps who dread a special session are telling the governor to delete and trim items and let it go at that. Other advisers who would welcome a special session tell him bluntly it will be wise to use his veto power and summon the lawmakers to Austin in the very near future. He must cut the garment to fit the cloth. He has a very puzzling job and he realizes it.

Coming of the rich oil fields in East Texas has played havoc with the petroleum industry in the southwest. Many East Texans fought proration. They fought it in and out of the halls of legislation. They are fighting in the courts. It is an ugly situation at best. Now the big oil companies and pipelines are using the big stick. A reduction of 30 cents per barrel in the price of East Texas crude oil has been ordered. To make it emphatic East Texas has been quoted as a separate field, divorcing it in the price schedule from the Mexia and other fields. It is said no change will be made in prices for other producing sections of Texas "in the hope that orderly production may yet be established in East Texas in time to forestall the necessity for such revision."

Hold the Fort, for I Am Coming!

As for the railroad commission it appealed for better cooperation in enforcing proration in the field and "threatened to abandon the whole proration plan in Texas unless the East Texas situation were cured promptly and effectively." Will there be a special session in June? Ask the governor.

Will the state railroad commission abandon the proration plan? Not if the cure prescribed by the major companies works promptly and effectively. It may work.

OTHER OPINIONS

SOME PUZZLING FIGURES.

The people of the country are being regaled just now with a mass of statistics about the amount of booze that is being consumed during this Volstead era. Mr. Woodcock, the government superintendent of prohibition enforcement, put the amount of money spent with bootleggers at $385,000,000 annually. The Association Against Prohibition has figured it down very close and puts the amount at $2,848,000,000. That's a pretty large sum but the Woman's League for Temperance Reform (the woman's branch of the Association Against Prohibition) go their brethren a much larger sum. The ladies do not attempt to figure out the vast sum that is being spent but states with a woman's finality that the profits alone received from the illegal sale of intoxicants amounts to $3,000,000,000. The brothers and sisters in this great crusade should get together on their figures.

There is quite a difference in other figures being given out. Mr. Shouse in a recent speech (not in Texas, no bless you) in his efforts to show that more liquor is being consumed now than before prohibition uses the figures of the Association Against Prohibition that claims we are spending $2,848,000,000 for liquor and that before the Volstead act we only spent $2,224,000,000. Unfortunately for Mr. Shouse the estimate of the Internal Revenue office puts the amount that was spent before prohibition at almost exactly the amount stated by Mr. Shouse. The estimate of the Internal Revenue office puts the amount spent for liquors in 1914 at $6,800,000,000. Of course the little difference of four billion dollars is as nothing to a man fighting for star-eyed goddess of liberty.

And there is another point about these figures that evidently Mr. Shouse did not consider, and that is the high cost of bootleg liquor. The best of it is said to command a price of not less than $12.00 per gallon. Before prohibition this same quality of liquor sold for $4.00 per gallon. It is clear therefore that taking his figures that the country is now spending $2,848,000,000 for liquor, yet it is only buying one-third of the amount the same sum would have purchased in 1914. Therefore from his own figures of the amount we are now spending and the amount the Internal Revenue says we were spending in 1914, it would appear that the actual liquor consumed is less than 18 per cent of what was spent before prohibition. If we take Mr. Woodcock's figures this is reduced to 11 per cent. But we would really like for the

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Governor Sterling has indicated that if circumstances or conditions demand it he will call a special session of the 42nd legislature some time in June. Hundreds of bills cited on the calendar. It will be for the 43rd legislature to tackle the state highway bond issue, the county-city local government issue and perhaps the congressional re-districting issue. These three outstanding proposals are as dead as a dead mackerel for the time being. Two will be thrashed out in the primary election campaign the coming year.

As for the congressional and senatorial and legislative redistricting as well as judicial district redistricting it will be for the governor to name these proposals in his call for a special session—that is, if a special session should be deemed advisable. As for the educational appropriation bill the house economy bloc was smashed by the refusal of the senate to accept the slashing of salaries and the elimination of buildings for the biennium. Indeed, the bloc was given a stinging defeat—giving joy unalloyed to educators who faced salary slashes and to those responsible for the building program for the coming two years.

Governor Sterling is a business man. He has sharpened his pruning knife. He knows how to use the weapon and he may delete many items from the appropriation bills passed on to him for consideration—or execution. It was an extraordinary session to say the least. Regulation of motor freighters was the one big battle from start to finish and the regulators won. Regulation of public utilities was recommended by the makers of the Galveston platform and submitted to lawmakers in the initial message of the governor. All three bills introduced died on the calendar. An oil proration bill was sent to the morgue. A state conservation bill turned its little toes up to the spring daisies before final adjournment day.

Many bad bills were slain and a number of most excellent measures were enacted and signed by the governor. From start to finish the governor gave the lawmakers a free hand. He did not rob them of their prerogative as exclusive makers of the laws of the commonwealth. He recommended and then he urged—and that is all. All measures looking to reform of the primary election laws were given the ax. As for the revenue measures cigarettes and sulphur and cement were touched and made additional producers of revenue for the support of the commonwealth. For the protection of life and property Chief Phares was given 120 men to patrol the 21,000 miles of state roads and a special committee was named to give certain departments of government a thorough overhauling for the purpose of uncovering extra-ordinary fee-grabbers in violation of the statutes and all those responsible for the issuance of forged warrants which have cost the state as far as disclosed $300,000. Now, the lawmakers will face their constituents at home. They will put their houses in order and, perhaps, look to holes made in their political fences during their sojourn under the big dome. As for the special session—Governor Sterling holds the scepter and it is for him to say the last word.

OUR PRESIDENT Wrote this Advertisement

AS STRANGE AS IT MAY SEEM, I am sometimes asked why we advertise. This question has never been asked by the great majority of people who have learned to depend upon advertising as a source of news and information. But in order that our customers and the general public will know specifically why we advertise, I shall briefly give the four principal reasons. They are:

1 To tell our customers and the general public about the company itself, its policies, its methods of doing business, the men and women who work for it, and its plans for development.

2 To gain public co-operation by directing attention to that which will encourage thrift, to promote safety, to build up industrial enterprises, and to make this community a better place in which to live.

3 To sell the service of the company and to keep our customers advised of the facilities that make this service possible. To assist our customers in saving gas and reducing their gas bills. To sell our fuel in competition with other fuels.

4 To give us a means of expression when misunderstood and unjustly attacked.

We use, principally, newspaper advertising because it has proven to be the most efficient and economical way to reach all of our customers, and the greatest majority of the general public. An advertisement in the newspapers actually costs less than it would to mail the same information to each of our customers by letter. Advertising is the voice of your gas company.

STAR TO VOTE ON MUNICIPAL GAS QUESTION

RISING STAR, May 29. — At a meeting of the city council the past week a resolution was passed ordering an election for June 30 at which time the property owning citizens of Rising Star will vote whether or not they wish to have the city to issue bonds in the sum of $35,000 for the purpose of drilling a gas well and installing a municipal gas system. The bonds would extend over a period of 15 years at 6 per cent interest.

Some 60 days ago a preferential election was held on the question and the vote was 110 for and 46 against the proposition of the city owning and operating its own gas system. In calling the election the council is giving the people an opportunity to put into effect their preference as indicated at the polls in April. Mayor W. E. Tyler states that upon careful investigation that the Council has decided that it would not be practical to buy gas from other parties and that ownership of its own well is the only feasible plan for the city to follow. In view of this fact the city has entered into a tentative contract with E. M. Howard for the drilling of a gas well on the Watkins farm adjoining the Lee well on the north. The Lee well, which is owned by one of the major oil companies, is said to be making plenty of gas to take care of the needs of Rising Star and it is believed an equally good well can be secured on the Watkins tract.

FOUR MINERS ARE KILLED IN EXPLOSION

MT. CARMEL, Pa., May 29. — Four miners were killed and six burned today in an explosion of gas in the Richards tunnel of the Susquehanna Colliers company.
The interior was badly wrecked and rescue workers had difficulty in reaching the dead and injured miners.
Ambulances and doctors from all nearby mining companies were sent to the top of the shaft to await arrival of the injured and of the bodies of the dead at the surface.

HUGE MAGNET
ST. LOUIS, May 29. — One of the largest surgical electromagnets in America, unique because it is silent is now in use at a hospital here for removing steel splinters from eyes.
Dr. P. I. Chandeyssen, designer of the magnet, said its success is certain, as previously magnets of that type disconcerted patients because of the noise when the current was turned on.

SLUGGISH FEELING

"I have used Theford's Black-Draught off and on for twenty-five years," writes Mr. Dave Stewart, of 1912 E. 2nd St., Austin Texas. "They used it in my father's home for many years and it was our general family medicine."
"My health was good, and that is about all I ever took. I used it for constipation and bilious sick headaches. It is a fine medicine to take when a man gets up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish. After a course of it I feel fine. It rids the system of poison which comes from constipation."

TEXAS MUST HAVE INDUSTRY TO HOLD PLACE

AUSTIN, May 29. — If Texas is to hold its place among the other progressive states, it must have industrial development — particularly the kind that will meet the demands of agriculture, but as many other kinds as can be brought into existence.

This today was the consensus of opinion of scores of business men, educators and civic leaders as given to Progressive Texans, Inc. The state development body has just completed a survey of opinion as to the steps most necessary to fulfillment of its plans, which call for stimulation of the sale of Texas products and industrial development.

"The best brains of Texas," one prominent educator wrote, "must get to work on this important question. The very future and destiny of our state depend upon its problem solution. The outstanding need of Texas is to develop her industries to stand over against her agriculture. It is better for the well rounded development of agriculture if there is a development of a great variety of industrial concerns."

Progressive Texans, Inc., proposes, through a five year planned program of advertising, educational and research work, to create an attitude of industrial mindedness throughout the state that will result in Texas becoming conscious of the fact that it should develop as a manufacturing area. The organization, born of the cooperative efforts of the three regional chambers of commerce, is endorsed by business interests throughout the state.

The program calls for industrial promotion not at the expense of agriculture, but on a scale designed to balance with the far-advanced farm development of the state. The work is designed to progress in such a manner that agriculture will receive full benefit from the results of inducing new industry to come into Texas and the development of existing industry.

To this end, one of the chief steps in the program is regarded as that which seeks the cooperation of farm co-operators, demonstration agents, extension workers and other agencies in securing uniform packing, marketing and distributing standards for agricultural products. This phase of the work will coordinate with and aid in the successful completion of the industrial effort.

ORGANIZATION OF SCHOOL FOR FIREMAN BEGUN

COLLEGE STATION, May 29.—Standardization of drill evolutions and fire fighting operations by all fire departments of the state will be the aim of the new firemen's training school to be established at the Texas A. & M. college as a result of recent legislative appropriation. Practically all money appropriated will be used to purchase equipment to put the school on a permanent basis.

Plans for the new school call for short courses to be held from two to four times a year. One man from each fire department in the state will be eligible to attend, and this man will be given training to enable him to instruct other men in his home department.

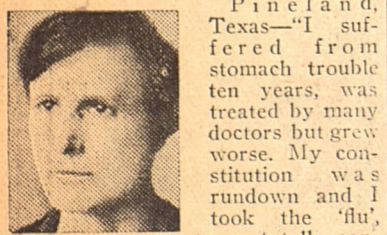

Fire department equipment recently has been standardized all over the state. H. R. Brayton, professor of inorganic chemistry at A. & M., who has had charge of past firemen's short courses at the college said, "and it now is our purpose to standardize the training and drills also in order that one department may aid another in time of emergency with the least amount of confusion."

"It will be necessary for us to write our own textbooks and develop our own instructional methods at first because there is nothing in this line available in the United States right now."

The first firemen's short course was held at A. & M. in May 1930, representing with 190, 76 towns in attendance. Registration for 1931 jumped to 315 from 107 towns.

ANCIENT GAME IS REVIVED BY PIUTE INDIANS

RENO, Nev., May 29.—Picturesque gatherings of Piute and Washoe Indians have been congregating of late on the outskirts of Carson City to revive the ancient Indian game of "Passing the Stick."

Drawn by the colorful scene, hundreds of palefaces visit the Indian village every day to witness the game.

"Passing the Stick" is a guess game peculiar to the redskins of Nevada. A stick about three inches long and of the diameter of a pencil is used. The contestants from two parallel lines, distant about three feet from each other, with fifteen to twenty Indian bucks on a side. The leader of each side is in the center of the line and the players kneel and fold their arms over their chests.

Like "Button Button" Agreement is made as to the side starting the contest. The leader of the side taking the offense places the tiny stick in his right hand, then conceals both hands behind his back and rapidly changes the trophy from hand to hand. Finally he brings both hands to the front, tightly clinched, and folds his arms stolidly.

The opposing players then guess in which hand the stick reposes, the first call deciding the issue. Ofttimes seven or eight braves will call out the winning hand, or fail to guess correctly. Should the first guess prove right the stick changes sides, and the leader of the opponents has an opportunity to demonstrate his shuffling abilities.

From time to time other Indians among the players are given the honor of holding the vital stick and endeavoring to outguess the other side. The Indian is aptly termed "poker face," since his expression remains the same and he gives no hint as to the stick's whereabouts.

Big Gambling Game Points are scored on the basis of correct guesses, and during an afternoon considerable money changes hands. Blankets, saddles, bridles, and even horses are won or lost.

During the time the game is in progress the Indians keep up an incessant chant. The tribal musician accompanies this chant by beating on the tom tom.

The tom tom used here is an ordinary wash tub of the sheet metal variety, bottom up on the ground. A stick with notches about an inch

Nebraska Bees Aid Apple Crop

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., May 29.—Size of the big red apples depends on the activity of the bees, some of the orchardists of the southeastern Nebraska fruit belt have become convinced.

So they are installing hives of bees in their orchards, or renting their neighbors' hives for a part of the apple blossom season. The bee, gathering nectar from the apple blossoms to make its honey, aids in the process of pollination. Thus, on his activity depends much of the success of the apple crop.

More and more orchardists of this section are discovering that bees placed in the orchards under the trees aid production. The Joy Morton orchards here have installed 35 hives this season.

Many of the growers here not wishing to bother with bee keeping, rent the insects from their neighbors for the blossom season. Many bee fanciers make it a business of raising bees just for rental purposes, hiring out their bees to growers in one section and then moving to another where the season is just a little later.

THE MELODY GIRL

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 Beryl Borden, secretly in love with Tommy Wilson, delays his elopement with her sister, Irene Everett, but fails to convince him that it is his duty to finish college.

Irene wants to be a radio singer and is furious when she fails and Beryl succeeds in securing a contract. Beryl's debut wins applause and new friends but she cannot forget her hopeless love even though she goes to gay parties with the wealthy Prentiss Gaylord. Irene attempts to win Prentiss' interest when Beryl becomes ill. He is deceived by her pose of childish innocence. Irene uses every wile to force him to a declaration, as she has promised to marry Tommy in a week.

Tommy's aunt dies and leaves him less money than he had expected from the family estate. Her husband loses some of this in unwise investments, but permits Tommy to keep his job as manager of his theater. Then Hoffman tells the theater and tells Tommy to look for another job.

When Tommy tells Irene this bad luck she breaks their engagement. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVI

To the studio Irene went with Prentiss Gaylord, son of the big soap manufacturer, to meet the two radio celebrities of the hour. When first Prentiss asked her to go with him she had been doubtful about accepting. The hour they would need to start coincided with that in which she had promised to go for a ride with Tommy. But since Prentiss was showing increased fondness for her now her engagement to Tommy was broken, she thought he could see that she had a right to go about with whomsoever she pleased. If he didn't... well, she was satisfied that Prentiss was seriously interested. Even if the romance came to nothing she had a good talking point if she wanted Tommy back. It was only fair for her to go about with other men and test her love for him, she would tell Tommy. At worst it could only be a matter of begging his forgiveness.

She was quite easy in her mind about Tommy even in regard to Prentiss' jealousy of him. Yes, Prentiss had been jealous the time he had called for Beryl and met Irene entertaining Tommy.

Tommy, she had explained when Prentiss asked about him, was a boy she'd known since childhood. He practically lived at their house. She expected Beryl would marry him some day. Oh yes, Beryl was in love with him. Prentiss believed this because he felt so certain Beryl was in love with someone. Irene didn't believe Tommy had quite made up his mind about it yet—but he would. Beryl always got Irene sighed with this remark.

"She went with me to the station for my voice test," she went on in a tone of gentle tolerance, "and came away with a contract."

She laughed. "It's a funny world, all right, isn't it? I've tried so hard—and for Beryl it all came so easily."

Of course Prentiss had felt sorry for her. Her acceptance, without bitterness, of a situation that would have filled most girls with envy, was so pathetic that he had been impelled to do something nice for her. It was then he had invited her to meet the two radio celebrities whom everyone was clamoring to know.

One of these celebrities—both were men—was Tommy. Irene was vexed with Irene but Prentiss didn't like him anyway. The other fell for her with a boom. This naturally did her no harm in her campaign to win Prentiss.

All evening she was demure. The attention of the great comedian did not seem to mean a thing to her, and that pleased Prentiss. Of course the comedian was married but Prentiss couldn't know that Irene had thought of that.

When they were ready to leave he told Irene that he would drive his roadster to the garage where his father kept a closed for his use when in New York, and if he could get a chauffeur to drive them out to Long Island he'd leave the roadster in the garage and take the other car.

Irene knew what that meant. When a man wants to give his undivided attention to a girl—and get her home at a respectable hour—he doesn't have time for driving in city traffic to reach a much-traveled country highway.

Prentiss had said something about supper at a club and though Irene had said she'd love to go she thought she'd better not. She could see he was eager to talk to her, and she was just as eager to hear what he had to say. Prentiss was glad she vetoed the supper club.

They found a driver for the Gaylord limousine. Mr. Gaylord preferred to travel long distances by train, and he was now in Oakland, but he always took his chauffeur with him.

As Prentiss helped Irene into the car she thought of the night Beryl had been driven home in this limousine. Her sister had been in her glory that night.

Prentiss lost no time in making love to her. Irene's little flutter of pretense was completely submerged in his armorous embrace. He kissed her eagerly and declared he was going to marry her. Irene did not remind him that he had not asked her if she would be his wife. Prentiss forgot his Victorian attitude and made love in the twentieth century style. It wasn't any longer. "Would he dare?" It was "Do." But Irene remembered. She wasn't quite ready to drop her pose of sweet simplicity. She insisted that Prentiss ask her mother before he demanded an answer from her.

It was a good start, she thought. She'd heard Beryl talk about life on a 50-50 basis, but for her part she'd rather have a man regard her as being of a more delicate species than himself and treat her as a superior. She'd even liked it when Prentiss had seemed a little in awe of her, as though he found himself in the presence of someone too fine for common words and everyday life.

Irene didn't want him to think he could change because they were going to be married. She still wanted to be, in his mind, remote from association with mundane thoughts. She liked her pedestal and was determined to remain perched upon it. It gave her distinct advantages. For instance, she would suspect an angel of seeking revenge? She was thinking of the influence she intended to bring against Beryl. And suppose Prentiss was such a silly that he'd expect her to act as though he were the only man in the world? There were any number of interesting men in the world. As a matter of fact she cared a great deal about Tommy and would like to keep up a friendship with him. How much easier if Prentiss thought her too unworshipful for subterfuge?

She wished, even as she sat beside him during that drive, that she liked Prentiss better than she did. Sometime when Tommy had kissed her strange little delights had thrilled her. Prentiss left her cold. But of course she couldn't think of marrying Tommy if she could have Prentiss. That would be too ridiculous for words.

So Prentiss talked and Irene thought all the way to her home. She planned a lot of things on the way. Thank goodness Prentiss wanted to be married right away. It would save the questions of many surprised and speculative friends. Further to escape them she'd have to forego a church wedding, unless they went away for it, or simply invited no one at all. What a nuisance family friends were. They expected to share every event of your life.

Perhaps it would be best to engage a suite of rooms at a hotel—the Ritz or perhaps the new Waldorf—and have a quiet ceremony with just the family present. Would Prentiss' father come on for it? She was glad she wasn't going to have a mother-in-law. She supposed she'd be very important socially in Oakland.

Frequently Prentiss interrupted her pleasant speculation with a renewal of his plea for an early wedding day. Invariably she chided him gently with a question of her own. "Prentiss, how can I promise that before you've even spoken to my parents?"

Once or twice Prentiss felt like saying, "Oh, hang your parents!" but feared Irene would misunderstand. He liked her full attitude. "Good to your parents—good to your husband." Why wasn't that as good an axiom as the one about a son who is good to his mother being good to his wife?

Still he didn't like the idea of Irene's parents interfering with his plans. He was accustomed to having his own way. But he couldn't blame them, and told himself he owed them a vote of thanks for having a daughter as sweet as Irene.

She wouldn't let him keep her long to say good-night, nor would she let him come in. Irene was afraid that Tommy might be hovering about the premises. He was such a fool at times! She would have to tell him that she was going to marry Prentiss but she didn't want Prentiss around when she did it.

Besides, she was in a fever of impatience to tell Beryl about it. She wouldn't wait until morning. All the injury she'd felt at having Beryl suddenly become the outstanding member of the family welled up afresh and she wanted to show her that she had captivated Prentiss.

"Just one more kiss," Prentiss pleaded. "I never knew that anything in the world could be as sweet as you, Irene," he told her.

She said, "Didn't you?" and there was a touch of assentment in her tone. It was no novelty to Irene to thrill with her kisses. And just at the moment her attention was attracted by the big news Prentiss was more engrossing than compliments.

She did not deny Prentiss the caress. She took it with shy acquiescence. Satisfied—or was it dissatisfaction?—he let her go.

As she drew herself up from the street and caught a glimpse of a familiar figure in the gate. It was Tommy!

4 REASONS FOR ADVERTISING BY UTILITIES

Why do the gas utilities advertise? This question is frequently asked by people who believe that gas utilities are monopolies, and sometimes the question contains a note of criticism.

The Lone Star Gas company and its affiliated companies are publishing an advertisement over the signature of L. B. Downing, of Dallas, president, explaining why his companies use newspaper advertising. Newspaper advertising represented 74 per cent of the total advertising expenditure of representative natural gas companies of the country last year. The companies in the Lone Star group show a much higher percentage than this average, as they used about 98 per cent of their advertising expenditures in the daily and weekly newspapers of their territory. Mr. Downing said:

The advertisement gives the following four principal reasons why the gas companies advertise in the newspapers: To tell their customers and the general public about the

Army Increases Alfalfa Ration

EL PASO, May 29. - The U. S. army mules and horses in the 8th Corps area should give three hearty cheers and neighs for the El Paso chamber of commerce.

As a result of the ceaseless work of the chamber of commerce, the mules and horses, starting July 1 will have their alfalfa rations increased 100 per cent.

Before the chamber succeeded in arguing war department officials to the feed situation of the animals, hay rations for the mules and horses consisted of 75 per cent prairie hay and 25 per cent alfalfa hay.

But after July 1, each mule and horse will receive 14 pounds of hay a day, seven of which will be alfalfa. Proponents of more alfalfa argued that on account of its high protein content the government would save on the oats bill.

At the same time, it is expected that the horses and mules will cooperate in eating all the alfalfa, and thus increase the price, which is now at rock bottom.

Representatives of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona cooperated in making the more alfalfa campaign of the chamber a success.

Use of Canned Foods Increases As New Standards Are Enforced

Public Said to Be Responding to More Rigid Restrictions by Increasing Its Purchases

By DR. P. B. DUNBAR
Assistant Chief, Food, Drug and Insecticide Administration,
Department of Agriculture

THREE decades ago—before the passage of the Federal Food and Drug Act—when the housewife donned her poke bonnet and went to the store for, let us say, a can of tomatoes, she was entering into a deal that had some of the marks of the long chance. She asked for what she wanted and she put her money down in good faith. Maybe she got what she wanted—maybe she did not.

I am afraid that I cannot say the whole canning trade in those days was notable for the quality of the foods it was putting out. And this sad state of affairs was not limited to tomatoes. There was at least a popular feeling that buying almost any kind of canned food then was an interesting diversion for people who also liked to try to beat the shell game at the county fair. In too many instances this feeling was well founded.

But, in 24 years' enforcement of the national pure food law, a change has come about. An amazing change for the better in the quality of canned foods on the American market. And the public long-suffering, it is true, but highly appreciative of a good turn, has fallen to and bought more and more of these foods that come in cans. The Food and Drug Act specifies that foods be unadulterated, wholesome, and honestly labeled. The canning industry as a whole has supported this law admirably. The law has helped the public. The law has encouraged ethical and profitable business.

That you will get just about what you ask for and pay for. But there are many kinds of canned tomatoes. Some cans contain better tomatoes than others. They may all be wholesome and good to eat. But some are better than others—and the buyer has a right to know just what kind she is getting.

The same general principle naturally applies to other canned foods: Corn or cherries, peas, pears, peaches, sauerkraut, shrimp.

Everybody knows that there are different qualities of canned foods, just as there are different qualities of fruits and vegetables and the other good things that go into cans. There are also superior and inferior methods of designing the canning. This amendment, then, authorizes legal quality standards for all canned foods that are enclosed in hermetically sealed containers and sterilized by heat—with two exceptions. The exceptions are canned milk and canned meat and meat products—not fish and poultry.

Quality Requirement Explained

The value of the canners' bill to the housewife, to the consumer, will be the assurance that the canned foods she purchases meet a definite, minimum quality requirement established by a Government agency. The amendment will not constitute a bar to the manufacture and sale of wholesome canned food of a quality lower than the standard, but such products will have to be labeled so that if the buyer wishes a less expensive canned food, she will be able to buy it with full knowledge of its character and, it is presumed, at a lower price. We in the Food and Drug Administration feel that a housewife with a limited budget should be enabled, under the terms of the canners' bill, to buy a substantial product within the reach of her pocket-book which will carry the nutritive if not the aesthetic value of standard canned foods—provided she reads intelligently the labeling required by the amendment to appear on the can.

Substandard Product Wholesome

It is not the Food and Drug Administration's conception of the purpose of Congress in enacting this bill, that the labeling for substandard foods was intended to stigmatize unduly the article to which it is applied. The amendment makes it very clear that its purpose is to let the consumer know what goods are below the standard, but the substandard product will be wholesome and edible, even if not so palatable or so attractive as the standard product. If the food were unwholesome or inedible, its distribution would be illegal under the terms of the national pure food laws.

Meaning to Buyer

Now, what will the enforcement of the canners' bill mean to the buyer? It will mean—

First, that quality and condition standards for practically all classes of canned foods except meat and meat-food products, and canned milk, will be eventually set by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Second, that a standard fill of container for such products will be enforced. This standard of fill has been drawn up already, thus guaranteeing the housewife protection against slack-filled cans.

Third, that the buyer of canned foods will not have to worry about slack fills, and as standards for each class are formulated and promulgated, about getting an

Deficiency Corrected

There was a loophole, however, in the Food and Drug Act in so far as canned foods are concerned. That loophole has now been plugged through the enactment of an amendment to the law, the so-called canners' bill. The President signed the bill that amended the pure food law July 8 last. And the canning industry itself was the power that put that bill through. The canners, not satisfied with existing standards for canned foods, fought for a bill that imposes more rigid restrictions upon themselves. It is not going to lighten the task of the Federal Food and Drug Administration to have to take up the burden imposed by this amendment. But that task will be carried on, as effectively as personnel and working funds will permit.

New Measure Commended

I believe that enforcement of the canners' bill will do the consumer and honest business a lot of good. This new measure is going to make it much harder for the purchaser of canned foods not to get her money's worth. That will mean that more buyers will get their full money's worth. How? Well, suppose we go back to tomatoes.

You go to the store and ask for a can. If you are one of the many who buy with discrimination—one of those who read labels—who accept no substitutes for what you really want—the chances are that you will get just about what you ask for and pay for. But there are many kinds of canned tomatoes. Some cans contain better tomatoes than others. They may all be wholesome and good to eat. But some are better than others—and the buyer has a right to know just what kind she is getting.

The same general principle naturally applies to other canned foods: Corn or cherries, peas, pears, peaches, sauerkraut, shrimp.

Everybody knows that there are different qualities of canned foods, just as there are different qualities of fruits and vegetables and the other good things that go into cans. There are also superior and inferior methods of designing the canning.
