Liquor Bill Author Condemns "Wet" Lobbies in Austin

"CRUSADERS" CHARGED WITH COLLECTIONS

AUSTIN, Jan. 27.—In a resolution condemning collection of funds to operate a "wet" lobby in Austin, the liquor question again flashed across the house of representative's floor today.

Rep. P. L. Anderson, of San Antonio, author of one of the liquor bills introduced, charged "The Crusaders," national anti-prohibition organization, with collecting contributions throughout the state to conduct a lobby in Austin.

The resolution adopted 63 to 53, asked the organization to cease its alleged collection activities.

"I think everyone has the right of petition but not of collection," Anderson said. "I do not think it right when an organization gets out and collects amounts from 25 cents up. That gives the idea that to effect legislation the hat must be passed around to send a lobby to assist."

Income Tax Bill

A net income tax measure to replace ad valorem taxes on real estate, prepared by Sarah T. Hughes, of Dallas, and others, was introduced. The measure calls for a graduated tax ranging from one per cent on $1,000 yearly net income to 11 per cent on incomes of $11,000 for individuals and from 2 per cent on $1,000 to 6 per cent in excess of $4,000 for corporations.

Appropriation of four million dollars a year for rural school aid was proposed in another measure.

Rep. T. H. McGregor offered a bill providing that when real estate sold under mortgage does not bring the amount sufficient to cover the mortgaged debt the mortgage holder cannot sell other property to obtain the difference.

A bill to stop sale of mortgaged farms for less than the amount of the mortgage was introduced by Sen. W. R. Poage, of Waco. It would force mortgage holders who insist on immediate foreclosure to accept the land in full payment of the debt. Otherwise the mortgage holder would have to wait two years to dispossess the farmer and sell the land.

PRESS CLUB TO CELEBRATE ITS BIRTHDAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Plans for celebration of the 25th anniversary of the National Press club promise one of the biggest and most impressive programs in the history of American journalism.

The program will last through the entire year of 1933, consisting of various events, the first of which will be on March 20. Many of the world's most eminent men and women will take part.

March 29 will be the 25th anniversary of the adoption of a constitution by the club. Franklin D. Roosevelt and many high officials of his administration will be the guests of honor at a banquet to be held in the club auditorium.

Invitations are to be sent to Herbert Hoover, who then will have returned to private life as the nation's only living ex-President, and many notables of the world of journalism for another banquet to be held May 18.

When the club was organized in 1908 it rented unpretentious quarters on F street, above a jeweler's shop. As it grew in prestige and wealth it moved to larger space from time to time until it built the present 13-story National Press Building at F and Fourteenth streets, now one of the show-places of Washington.

The committee in charge of the celebration is composed of many of the best-known and most experienced newspaper men in the capital, with Donald A. Craig as its chairman.

CAMAS, Wash., Jan. 27.—The only injury in a football game here was to spectator George Wright. His right leg was dislocated.

Where League, U. S. Fear Japan's Grip

Scores of tiny islands in the Pacific, controlled by Japan through a League of Nations mandate, have become new points of friction between the United States and Japan and for the League of Nations. The islands are viewed as focal points in Japan's threatened resignation from the league over the Manchurian issue, the United States fearing that if Japan withdrew from the league she would retain and fortify the islands. Other quarters believe that Japan's desire to hold the islands would keep her within the league. As the map above shows, the islands are in direct line of sea travel and communication between the Philippine Islands, Guam and the Hawaiian group, all U. S. naval centers.

Japan has hotly denied to the league that heavy expenditures for harbor improvements in the Marshall and Caroline groups have been made with possible naval bases in mind. Japan specifically denied that harbor improvements at Seypan, close to Guam, were made to accommodate submarines. The Japanese fleet will hold its maneuvers in this island region next summer.

DEPT. STORE SALES DECLINE 25 PER CENT

AUSTIN, Jan. 27.—The 96 department and clothing stores reporting to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research experienced an average decline of 25 per cent in the dollar value of sales for the year 1932 as compared with the preceding year, the Bureau's report said. Some of the smaller cities included in the Bureau's report on sales made unusually good showings. Lubbock, for instance, had a decline of only 11.9 per cent; Abilene and Austin were only 14.4 per cent and 15.9 per cent behind the 1931 totals. Department and clothing store prices are according to the Fairchild Publications, approximately 15 per cent under the prices at the close of December, 1931. Women's specialty shops experienced the smallest relative declines in sales for the year 1932 as compared with the preceding year, while dry goods and apparel stores, that is, stores not including housewares or men's clothing, had the largest drops.

LOBOES DUE TO PLAY 2 GAMES HERE SATURDAY

The Cisco Loboes have two games scheduled for tomorrow night in the Cisco gym, according to Coach Willson Elkins this morning.

They will play the Wylie school team at 7 o'clock. Wylie is a small school, a suburb of Abilene, but is reputed to have a good team.

After the Wylie game the Loboes who did not get into it will play Putnam.

Tonight Cisco plays Elliasville at Elliasville in the first game of the second half of the Oil Belt race. Elliasville handed the Loboes a licking in the season opener here on Jan. 3, but the Elkinsmen have improved greatly since then and are out for revenge.

Coach Elkins has indicated that he will probably take nine or ten men to Elliasville tonight.

EX-KAISER TO CELEBRATE HIS 74TH BIRTHDAY

By H. A. PETERS
United Press Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II will observe his 74th birthday anniversary at House Doorn, Holland, tomorrow.

This year the celebration will be of especial interest to Germans, due to the marked growth of monarchist sentiment, which has made itself felt in recent months.

Nevertheless, there will be no official cognizance of the day in Germany. Business will go on as usual in Germany.

But at the House Doorn festivities will be in order. Guests will be received and the "court" will be held after the traditional form followed in the old days when Wilhelm was Emperor. In recent years, more and more royal visitors have been received at the exile castle.

Sons to Attend

Some of the ex-Kaiser's sons probably will be present tomorrow, in addition to a selected list of German ex-princes and royalty.

Princess Hermine, the ex-Kaiser's second wife, has succeeded in overcoming a large part of the prejudice which arose among royalist circles against her and Wilhelm following his re-marriage; this event was long considered an affront to the memory of his first wife. The ex-Kaiser's sons now are reconciled as well as the head of the house of Wittelsbach of Bavaria, Prince Rupprecht.

Ex-Crown Prince Wilhelm paid several visits to Doorn in 1932, and Prince Oskar's birthday was celebrated there in the fall, with the ex-Kaiser's aunt, the Duchess of Brunswick, in attendance. Both sons, with their wives, spent Christmas with Wilhelm.

Many guests from the Dutch aristocracy as well as members of leading Dutch families probably will be in attendance at the castle tomorrow.

Rumors of Plans

Rumors of alleged plans for restoration of the monarchy first began to become persistent in Germany shortly after the downfall of the Bruening cabinet through von Papen and the assumption by the latter of the chancellorship. Papen never made a secret of his monarchist convictions, or of the fact that he believed a monarchy the best form of government for Germany.

Another rumor which recurred repeatedly was that the establishment of the ex-Crown Prince Wilhelm as regent was being planned whereon, the Hitler forces immediately announced that only their "comrade" ex-prince August Wilhelm could count on their support in this capacity.

The attempt against the ex-Kaiser

SENATE DEMOS AGREE TO CUT TO 3 BILLION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Senate agreed today to attempt reduction of federal expenditures to the $2,949,000,000 which is estimated to represent the government's probable revenues in the next fiscal year.

The agreement was reached in caucus. More than $35,000,000 is to be pared off the treasury post office bill.

Two Small Fires Here Yesterday

Two small fires occurred yesterday afternoon, neither of which did damage of any consequence.

Wall paper at the home of Jim Mayhew, 408 West Ninth street, caught from a gas stove and was extinguished with nominal damage.

Later the fire department was called to extinguish a pile of burning brush and waste lumber at the rear of the Swindel Feed store.

Steam Siren Placed On Refinery Boiler

Members of the fire department were today erecting the old steam siren formerly used at the West Texas Utilities company's plant here on a boiler at the White Star Refining company.

This siren, used until the installation of the electrical alarm equipment on the city hall, has been in disuse for a year or two. Its thrifty roar will be set off in conjunction with the city hall siren and will assure ample alarm to all the city in the event of a blaze.

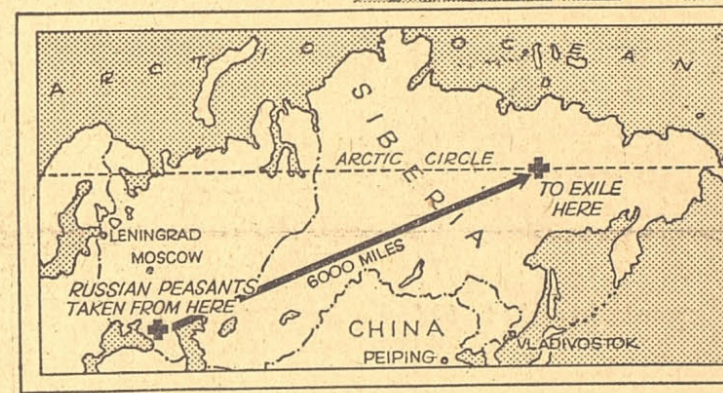

LEGION TO AID JOBLESS

ATWOOD, Kan., Jan. 27.—In a special effort, designed to aid the unemployed here, the American Legion board of directors announced it will build a legion hall to cost $5,500. The announced cost will include lots, building and fixtures.

Soviet Exiles 45,000 Farmers

One of modern history's great dramas is being enacted in Russia, where 45,000 inhabitants of three communities in the near-tropical Kuban area are being banished to near-Arctic Siberia. Soviet officials are carrying out the mass deportation as a disciplinary example, the Kuban inhabitants having failed to cooperate in the Soviets' collective farm plan. Men, women and children are being transported to lumber camps and mines in Siberia, while their lands are being allotted to "deserving" soldiers, veterans and "model farmers." One such "model farmer" is pictured above as he was presented a banner and a bonus for raising more cotton on his collectivized farm than his neighbors. The map shows the route of the wholesale banishment of Kuban's 45,000 recalcitrant peasants.

REVAMPED ICC CONTROL AIM OF ROOSEVELT

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Jan. 27.—Reorganization of federal supervision over public utilities was revealed today as one of the first objectives of President-elect Roosevelt.

From conferences with railroad experts in the last few days it was indicated there has emerged the framework of a program for unified transportation regulations with railroads, shipping, buses, trucks, aircraft and pipelines grouped under a central government agency which would be a perfected interstate commerce commission.

The next step in the Roosevelt plan, it appeared, would be the creation of a similar agency to regulate power and communication, including telephone, telegraph and radio.

State Headlight Law Seems Doomed

AUSTIN, Jan. 27.—The headlight law under which automobile owners pay $300,000 a year for headlight testing appeared doomed today. A repeal bill by Lon Alsip, blind legislator from Carthage, received unanimous approval by a house committee. Complaint of its operation and failure to keep glaring headlights, one-eyed cars and unlighted cars off the roads has been continual since the law took effect nearly ten years ago.

WINTER CONFUSED BIRDS.

MONTROSE, Colo., Jan. 27.—The mild winter, which lasted until recently, caused several English sparrows to become all mixed up in their dates. They started building their nests in a nook on the front of the Montrose Daily Press building. The cold snap which right in the midst of the building operations put the birds right and construction work stopped.

PENNSYLVANIA CUTS TOTAL OF BOND ISSUES

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 27.—In discussing today the reductions in annual totals of bond issues approved by the Department of Internal Affairs, Secretary Philip H. Dewey said they were a "mighty good indication that officials in various political sub-divisions of the Commonwealth are endeavoring to lighten the load of local taxpayers during these trying times."

Secretary Dewey pointed out that during 1932, bond issues for all local purposes were approved in the sum of $27,303,215, a decrease of approximately $10,000,000 when compared with 1931. The report for that year shows issues approved amounted to $37,167,098, and during 1929 which marked the beginning of the depression, $43,359,700, he said.

The three-year comparison also shows a decrease in the number of bond issues presented for approval: in 1929 the total being 338, against 273 in 1931 and 264 in 1932. Of the total amount of bond issues approved in 1932 the record shows 43 per cent covered the issues approved for the counties, the total of county issues being $11,835,000.

Issues for borough purposes were $5,590,700; for borough school purposes, $1,653,440; cities, $3,335,000; city school districts, $680,000; county poor districts, $48,000; townships, $2,825,875, and township school districts, $1,335,200.

Unable to Establish Identity of Woman

CORRIGAN, Tex., Jan. 27.—Polk county officers said today they had been unable to establish the identity of a young woman whose body bearing knife wounds and bruises was found near here Wednesday.

Mrs. Zella Dunn, of Houston, mother of a missing 16-year-old girl, examined clothing taken from the body but failed to identify it.

KILLED AFTER ARRESTING 4 IN OIL THEFT

(By United Press)

The automobile in which three fugitives were fleeing after the slaying of Joe Brown at Rhome was reported sighted this afternoon half-way between Rhome and Dallas on the new north-west highway.

RHOME, Wise County, Jan. 27.—Deputy Sheriff Joe Brown was shot and killed in his barber shop here today after he had arrested three men and a woman in connection with a theft of oil at Decatur.

The slayer, a medium-sized young man, escaped in an automobile with one of the men and a woman.

One of the three men identified himself as a hitch hiker who had been given a ride between here and Decatur.

The hitch hiker ran from the barber shop after the shooting. Later he returned and surrendered.

He was brought to Fort Worth for questioning, and revising his story, told officers he was employed by the woman sought at a Quitaque, Brisco county, Texas, tourist camp.

Brown had stopped the automobile after receiving a telephone call from Deputy Sheriff E. C. Chapman at Decatur that the trio had stolen a quantity of oil from a cotton truck near there.

Brown was killed while he was notifying Decatur officers of the capture.

One of the men cried "You don't want me" and jerked a gun out of his pocket.

J. E. Powell, another barber and eye witness, said the woman hid behind a desk while the smaller of the two men fired repeatedly into the deputy's body. The officer was shot nine times in the head and back. He died instantly.

Witnesses said the machine gun was concealed under a quilt in the rear seat of the automobile.

Brown, about 55 years old, was one of the best known officers in Wise county. He had been a peace officer for about 20 years. Fellow officers described him as a "cool man in a pinch" and said "He had been in a tight spot with outlaws" frequently.

Attorneys Seek New Trial for Hamilton

DALLAS, Jan. 27.—New trial for Raymond Hamilton, 19, became possible today through efforts of defense attorneys to reduce the 55-year sentence he received on conviction of two robbery charges here.

Hamilton and J. L. Stewart, also face indictments for kidnaping returned in Johnson county after investigation of the robbery of Henry and Oscar Lyles, farmers, whose automobile was taken shortly after the second robbery of the Cedar Hill bank.

Proration Trial Opens at Houston

HOUSTON, Jan. 27.—East Texas oil operators today opened their third assault upon state imposed oil proration before a three-judge federal court here.

The east Texas operators are fighting both the "market demand" oil conservation law passed recently by the Texas legislature, and the commission's method of enforcing that statute.

Injunctive relief was asked of the court.

CUT HAIR FREE

MINERAL WELLS, Jan. 27.—Two barber shops here give haircuts to a limited number of unemployed men each week. "We want to help, and we believe a man with a fresh haircut is more self-confident," said Managers J. W. Goodbar and H. L. Francis.

SHACKLED BY POLITICS.

It already is obvious little of permanent constructive type work can be done in this $400,000 session of the legislature.

And the legislature is not to blame. The blight of politics grips the people every other year, during elections, and then shackles the lawmakers and officials of Texas, to the injury to the people, the rest of the time.

What can be done to alleviate it? The overlapping board system has partially protected some agencies from baneful influence of politics.

Four-year—or longer—terms for elected officials will help, in some degree. If the chief political officers, primarily the governor, were barred from holding office in successive terms, that would lift an administration far out of the worst consequences of present-day politics.

As to lawmakers, four-year terms for house, and six-year terms for senators—instead of two and four—would help. Except for the danger of getting incompetent or unsatisfactory members, longer terms would help. Life-term appointments in a democracy are unthinkable.

Texas suffers in the failure of needed general legislation from the cumbersome system of tying up the legislature on local squirrel bills and the like, and in the fact that lawmakers have to spend half their time running for office and the other half building a record on which to run, if in office.

The present legislature reflects a trend to choosing abler members. In this, carried ahead constructively, is another partial remedy for politics.

But the government and the people alike seem to have in sight several years more in which the main part of constructive legislative programs will fall before the onslaught of partisan politics.

SHIFTING THE LOAD.

Back in 1931 a national survey of school finance was authorized and Paul R. Mort of Columbia University supervised the gathering of data from "a notable array of educators, economists and men of finance." This was the verdict of Director Mort: "Areas exist in the United States where schools are distinctly inferior and other areas where schools are ceasing to exist." As for the survey this is its indictment: "The present breakdown of traditional methods of financing public schools is depriving approximately 9,500,000 American children of essential schooling and threatening the welfare of millions of others." Splendid propaganda to say the least.

The survey of educators and economists advise a fundamental change. This is the proposal: "Transfer of the burden of support from local communities to the entire state." Hasn't this been accomplished in Texas? Away back in 1914 a democratic convention held in the city of El Paso recommended that millions should be taken from the general revenue fund for rural aid. The Texas legislature accepted the recommendation as a platform demand, and large appropriations have been made since the innovation was ordered.

Now the 43rd legislature is grinding. Sen. Julian P. Greer has introduced a bill to appropriate $4,000,000 for each year of the next biennium for rural school aid. In his introductory remarks the East Texas senator said the appropriation two years ago was only $5,000,000 for the biennium but that fund was running two millions behind and a larger appropriation was necessary to make up the deficit and maintain the school aid policy. Sen. Grady Woodruff of the Wise county district has a viewpoint. In his opinion "the present 40-page itemization of the educational budget is extravagant and indefensible." He advised his fellow lawmakers that the educational budget "should be in lump sums with a line only for each institution, placing the funds in the hands of the cluttering up both houses and represent a definite hindrance. And the only pleasant fact, while everybody indulges in what has been called "fiddling around while Rome burns," is that the states are rapidly ratifying the lame duck amendment, assuring that it will be put in the constitution and removing all future danger of those several factors which now gum up the works. Then there will be no more short sessions, no more four-month waits for a president-elect to take office—he will enter in January, no more filibusters—because sessions will be unlimited, and no more lame ducks. Congress may even regain some of its prestige.

SOME congressmen are active in all sorts of ways. The other night a couple of them and another fellow who is not in Congress were having a party in an apartment. Someone dropped a cigarette onto an awning below and the fire wagons arrived soon thereafter. So the congressmen began to holler and accuse the firemen of peeking through windows to see ladies in their nightgowns. Then they threw ice cubes down at the firemen. Policemen soon came to the apartment. The other fellow, meanwhile, had passed out from overstimulation. The congressmen pointed to his recumbent form and whispered: "Sh-sh! That's Senator—!" So the copper tiptoed quietly out.

institutions for the most economical possible handling." He predicted that his plan would abolish legislative salary fixing for faculty members, "though the cut in appropriations would level out an approximately general reduction of its rate of cutting."

Really, a lump sum appropriation for each institution of higher learning would be a master stroke at this time. Why should the president of a university or a president of any one of the minor institutions of learning be hog-tied by a legislative itemization of the salary to be paid to a faculty member? Is the head of a university or a college a dummy? If he is not, he should be fetterless and be given free hand. The 40-page budget report of the committee follows the custom of a past and dead age. If a lump appropriation seems unprecedented, let us remember 1933 is an unprecedented year and a suitable time for breaking the fetters of the dead past.

TEXAS TOPICS

AUSTIN, Jan. 27.—This is the oath that Rep. W. E. Pope proposes, in a bill he has offered, to require each college professor and school teacher to take:

"I solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support the constitution of the United States of America, the constitution of the state of Texas, and the laws of the United States and the state of Texas, and will, by precept and example, promote respect for the flag and the institutions of the United States and of the state of Texas, reverence for law and order and undivided allegiance to the government of the United States of America."

Among eight bills growing out of the senate fee committee investigations, designed to correct abuses and provide remedies for conditions found in it. Sen. Will Beck has offered a measure to stop the state's being an "angel" to the county treasurers and to the funds out of which officers' fees are paid.

In felony cases, the costs are borne by the state. In misdemeanor cases, the fees come from the county. Sen. Beck's bill provides that where a felony charge is tried, resulting in a misdemeanor conviction, all the fee officers shall return the amounts they received to the state. The bill provides their bondsmen shall be liable for the reimbursements.

Another of the bills requires the county attorney to represent the state in the absence of the district attorney, or shall aid the district attorney, when requested, and allows him all, or half the fees allowed the district attorney in such cases.

The veteran Capt. R. W. Aldrich, ranger quartermaster captain, is back at his old-time desk, after a two-year interval, and thoroughly happy in the job.

Former Rep. R. E. Sparkman of Italy, Texas, believes that the sales tax plan is "the greatest farce comedy ever presented to the people... the powerful land and real estate mortgage companies of America playing the leading role, and under the guise of relieving the home owner of a small state tax, are fixing to relieve their own vast holdings of the responsibility of paying any tax."

An elderly lady of Ranger is credited with the most pungent expression of the voters' wish in 1932 to swap for a new set of state officials.

BAD LUCK

QUINCY, Mass., Jan. 27.—For Policeman James H. Baker, bad luck comes in bunches. First, all six of his children had the mumps. Then all six had scarlet fever. After that, the family physician had to make three calls at the Baker home in a single day: Louis, 7, had the croup; Andrew, 11, cut his face in a tumble down stairs; and David, 3, required eight stitches for a cut on the head, suffered when he fell off his tricycle.

"Swimming" of the Head

"I used to suffer from spells of swimming in the head," writes Mrs. Carrie Brown, of Meridian, Miss. "Everything would go 'round and 'round. When I stood upon my feet, I would be almost blind with dizziness. My stomach was upset. These spells, I believe, came from constipation. I suffered torture from the effects."

"My mother had taken Theford's Black-Draught for a long time, and she suggested to me that I try it. While I was feeling so bad, I took half a teaspoonful, put it in some water and took it. I found it was just the thing to relieve the suffering from constipation. Now I always keep it in my house. I take it whenever I need a laxative."

"I have used Black-Draught in my home now for twelve years, and feel it is a great help in keeping my family in a healthy condition."

NEGLECT OF COMMON CONSTIPATION IS A SERIOUS MATTER

Prevent This Condition With Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

The first question your doctor asks is whether you are constipated or not. He knows that this condition may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. It is often the starting point of serious disease.

You can prevent and relieve common constipation so easily. Just eat a delicious cereal once a day. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this "cereal way" safer and far more pleasant than taking patent medicines—so often harmful? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FAMOUS TRICKS ARE EXPLAINED BY ADVERTISER

Our age-old interest in magic has been revived recently in the newspapers. The earliest human records show that our ancestors stood in awe of the high priests of magic who claimed to make it rain or shine, or cure disease, or produce boy babies, through their magic control of secret forces in nature.

In our own day, people still delight to hear the skillful patter-talk of the stage magician or conjurer, and watch him as he pretends to defy nature in performing his astonishing tricks.

People love to be mystified. Showmen have always known this. And people love to be taken behind the scenes and see how the trick is done.

This interest in magic tricks and their explanation is utilized as the background of a new advertising campaign just released by a cigarette manufacturer.

Featuring the fact that "It's Fun to be Fooled . . . It's More Fun to Know" the advertiser deprecates the use of "trick" claims in modern advertising and discusses the importance of making a high quality product.

"Sawing a Woman in Half" You have doubtless seen many of these magic tricks performed on the stage.

Their names are colorful. "Houdini's Milk Can Escape," the "Three Headed Woman," "The Human Cricket," and the famous "Sawing a Woman in Half," are only a few which are being dramatized in the newspapers. Some are modern tricks, invented by the great magicians of our own day. Some have been kept secret for centuries.

How does the Human Fly stick to the ceiling? How does the magician live in the Burning Oven? How did Houdini get out of the padlocked milk can? How is it possible to shoot an arrow through a woman, while she smiles—unharmful?

These and many more tricks which have become famous on the stages of Europe and America, associated with the greatest names in magic, are now explained . . . told in full detail so you will understand exactly the principles on which the tricks are worked.

So look at the Camel cigarette advertisement if you want to know how the mystifying tricks of magic are done and the Reynolds Tobacco people will tell you.

Beware the Cough or Cold that Hangs On

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SHEILA SHAXNE, 38, whose parents were well known vaudeville entertainers, is a dancer. After weeks out of a job she is hired to substitute for DAISY GLEASON, another dancer who has sprained her ankle. While rehearsing at JOE PARIS' song shop Sheila meets DICK STANLEY and FREDOR LANE, both rich, Dick is much attracted by Sheila and urges Lane to include her in the program of entertainment at a party he is giving. Sheila declines to come but later accepts.

At the party she meets GORDON MAYNARD, well known producer. She sees Dick frequently after that. Daisy returns to the show and Sheila again has a job. Then Mandrake offers her a part in a new play. Rehearsals begin in earnest. Sheila becomes friendly with JIM BLAINE, one of the principals in the play.

They go to Atlantic City for the try-out week. MARION RANDOLPH, the star, becomes jealous because of the praise Sheila receives from critics and therefore Sheila is discharged. She is out of work for some time. Then she secures a part in a show that is going on tour. When Dick learns the new job will take her out of town he begs Sheila to give it up and marry him. She refuses. They go to dinner and while Dick is talking to the proprietor of the restaurant a young man at a nearby table speaks to Sheila. He has seen her on the stage and praises her dancing. Sheila does not learn this stranger's name.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII

IN spite of all her protests Sheila was to need money before the rehearsal period was over and the play ready for the road. She needed it to buy clothes, for one thing—nice serviceable traveling frocks and shoes. Sheila thoroughly disliked the cheap, high-heeled pumps the frizzled chorus girls wore on the road, their silk dresses and bargain basement coats. The fact that the girls couldn't afford better didn't change matters. They could have bought better things for the same price. They should have learned such things just as Sheila had learned them. Instead they laughed at the trim, tweed-suited girls they saw getting into roadsters in small towns, laughed at their sport shoes, the plain, expensive traveling frocks they encountered now and then in dining cars. These girls in tweed suits were to Sheila the most enviable creatures in the world. She meant to show these members of small town aristocracy that she, too, knew how to dress. Perhaps some day she could live the life they lived.

have a home, a lawn, flowers, and her trunks and suitcases out of sight in the attic.

How Sheila hoped that some day she might buy something without wondering what to do with it when she packed.

Sheila needed money, too, to pay Ma Lowell. Of course, Ma would be willing, if she asked her, to let the rent bill wait. With a daughter of her own recently married out of the "Frivolities" Ma knew all about the difficulties of stage life.

The daughter, as a matter of fact, had not married. Dora's husband worked at something or other in the Village. Now and then Dora worked, acting as cashier in an art gallery or restaurant. Oh, there was no doubt that Ma Lowell had it in her heart for her daughter to make their way in the world. Sheila with a roof but there were other things. One of these was thought shameful. She should not have to go to a dinner invitation without a needed help. Oh, really fair to put it away. She went to dinner with the girls because she enjoyed being with them. The girls called being a dinner companion a cause one needed food, was to dine with Dick because she liked him was another.

OF course there was Jim Blaine. Frequently she dined with him. There were one or two others who called her occasional-ly. With two invitations from Dick, two from Jim and possibly one other each week Sheila had managed fairly well. Breakfasts were inexpensive and she never ate lunch. It was horrid to reckon in such a way but lots of girls did it. They had to.

Jim was making a hit in "When Lights Are Low." He had given her tickets and she had taken Ma Lowell to see the play. Ma had enjoyed it. It was seldom she obtained passes except to vaudeville houses for most of the men and women who patronized her rooming house were in vaudeville. Once they had attained the heights of a Broadway engagement they were sure to move.

Ma liked vaudeville or the pictures best but she wanted to take a look at "Sheila's young man." In Ma's fond imaginings it was Jim, not Dick, who held first place in the girl's heart.

"These play-writing young men!" Ma would sniff whenever Dick's name entered the conversation. "No good—any of them! Always behind in their rent, burning the lights all night, starving themselves or else moving off in a limousine too big to even speak to a person! They're all alike!"

Frequently Sheila saw Jim on Sundays when they would drive out on Long Island. The play closed at 11 each night and Sheila disliked late parties. Sunday, unrushed, calm and deliberate, was their day.

THEY would take a lunch and drive out along the green Long Island roads, lined with streams and ponds and waddling white ducks.

"There's the little home Glena Grayson built for her mother to keep her out of Hollywood," Jim remarked one day, motioning toward a house not far from the road.

"But mothers are in fashion in Hollywood now." "Yes, mothers of the duchess type. Glena's mother isn't like that. We stopped there once to inquire about the road and spoke to Mrs. Grayson. Thought she was the cook! She's a nice old lady, though. And she looked comfortable in her cotton dress and house slippers, sitting in a rocker out in the yard."

Sheila laughed. It was fun to be with Jim. It was less of a strain talking to him than to Dick. There was one subject that came between them, though. Jim was a success. Not only did he have a job but he was receiving $250 weekly. Jim was making good and not a struggler like herself.

"I want you to meet my mother some day soon," he told her soberly. They were seated beneath a tree near Long Island Sound. The splash of the water reached them and they could see the creaming of the breakers. The air held a faint salt tang.

Sheila looked dreamily toward a white sail far out on the horizon. "I'd love to," she said.

"She'd love to meet you," Jim's voice was nonchalant. "I've told her about you. She is at Montauk Point just now. I wonder if you'd care to drive down with me next Sunday?"

"That would be fine."

He looked at her steadily but Sheila, still gazing seaward, was unconscious of his scrutiny. Jim wondered if this girl knew what was in his mind—what meeting his mother meant. He wouldn't introduce every girl to his mother.

HE threw himself on the soft pine needles at her feet and, raising on one elbow, refilled his pipe.

"What did you think of Tillie Lee when you dropped in on the show?"

"What could I think of her—since she is my successor?" Sheila laughed a little unsteadily. "I think she just isn't too good-looking to suit Marion Randolph. Oh, I don't mean I'm such a beauty! Heavens, no! But I can dance and I can put over a song—better than Tillie Lee anyhow. Marion Randolph would rather have her in the company. She didn't like me."

"But, Sheila, that's rotten luck. I think it's the limit that you have to go with a road show. Just because a catty, jealous—"

Sheila held up a warning finger. She was grateful for Jim's loyalty but he was being reckless. "Be careful who hears you say such things," she cautioned. "Marion Randolph can cost your job just as she did mine."

"What makes you think so?" "Because I know! Don't ever say anything critical of Marion in the hearing of any member of the company. In the first place, it can't help me. In the second, whether you think so or not it can harm you. You never can tell what obscure chorus man is headed straight for her apartment with a lot of backstage gossip."

"She'd better not try to monkey with my job," Jim said, his eyes narrowing. "Why, only last night—"

"What about last night?" "She invited me to a party. I didn't go."

"You didn't?" Sheila shook her head. "Oh, Jim, that was foolish! You shouldn't have done that!"

And Sheila was right. At that very moment Marion Randolph was saying to the gentleman whose money was behind the play in which she was starred, "Get me another leading man, honey. I don't think I like Jim Blaine."

Correct Breathing Is Called Divorce Cure

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 27.—If persons contemplating divorce actions were to learn to breathe from their solar plexus, love and understanding would follow, and all thoughts of divorce would disappear. This is the claim of Dr. Herbert Sutcliffe, of Australia, who believes that the solar plexus is the thought center of the body and from it radiate impulses to the other parts of the body. He describes it as "Radiant Living" which is the harmonization of physical fitness, mental confidence, emotional understanding and spiritual faith.

Dr. Sutcliffe teaches his disciples to breathe from the solar plexus. "Otherwise," he says, "there is no difference from the breathing of man and the breathing of a cow or a dog. Breathing from the plexus is essential he claims, because this organ is the center of vitality, of being."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

THE MAXIMUM NUMBER OF ECLIPSES THAT CAN OCCUR IN ONE YEAR IS SEVEN!

FIVE OF THE SUN AND TWO OF THE MOON, OR FOUR OF THE SUN AND THREE OF THE MOON.

THE MINIMUM number of eclipses that can occur in a calendar year is two, both of which will be of the sun. A lunar eclipse frequently occurs two weeks after a total eclipse of the sun. Such was the case after both of the recent eclipses of the sun, visible in the northeastern U. S.

Antiseptic Costs Are Cut In Half by Vick Chemists

To all users of a mouth-wash or gargle — for halitosis (impure breath), oral hygiene, and other antiseptic uses—the makers of Vicks VapoRub now bring real economy. Vicks Chemists have introduced Vicks Voratone Antiseptic at actually less than half the price of other quality antiseptics.

Born in a depression year, Vicks Antiseptic is priced accordingly. The regular size is a large 10-ounce bottle—a usual 75c value—for only 35c. This new Vicks product can be tested, however, at even smaller cost. Cisco druggists have a limited supply of a special trial size—a 25c value—priced at only 10c, while the supply lasts.—Adv.

Six Women to Be In New Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A survey of women in public office has been compiled by the National League of Women Voters. It shows that there will be six women in the newly-elected 73rd congress. Mrs. Hattie Caraway in the senate and five women in the house.

Miss Kathryn O'Loughlin, Democrat, Kansas, and Mrs. Virginia Jenckes, Democrat, Indiana, will take seats in congress for the first time when the new body convenes. Four women, who are members of the 72nd congress, were not returned.

The report states that 132 women now are serving in the legislatures of 34 different states, 14 less than the number of women who served in 39 states in 1931.

Of this number, 12 are serving in state senates, while 57 were reelected. 61 were elected as Democrats, 60 are republicans, and one is a socialist. Three were elected on non-partisan tickets, and four received the support of both Democrat and Republican organizations.

Mrs. Minnie D. Craig, a member of the North Dakota house of representatives since 1923, was elected speaker of the house at the beginning of the present session.
