

ROAD TO HILBURN MUST BE BUILT NOW

MINE STRIKE WHICH IS LIKENED TO FEUD NOT A WAGE DEMAND

In the Contest Between West Virginia Mines and Operators Twelve Lives Have Been Taken — Miners Evicted From Their Homes — Opposed to Mine Guards.

Associated Press. WILLIAMS'ON, W. Va., July 28. — The campaign of the United Mine Workers to organize the 5,000 mines in the Mingo county bituminous coal field has precipitated a situation which each side declares can only end when it has won complete victory.

"The men and the operators could get together and settle this thing were it not for the question of the mine guards," said Charles F. Keeney, president of District No. 17, United Mine Workers, who is in command of the union forces.

"But in their present temper these men are not to be fooled with. Right now this situation is a powder mill."

"There is not a mine guard in Mingo county, and there has not been for years," said George Hausewine, secretary of the Coal Operators' Association, of Williams. "Private detectives are employed as other corporations employ detectives for intelligence work in and around their properties. They are not used for guarding the mines."

The question of wage hinges on the scale paid in the Kanawha field. The union leaders declare that adoption of this scale would increase the earnings of the miners in Mingo, while the operators insist that their mines, under the scale now in force, are being paid more than it is possible for the Kanawha mines to earn.

The Mingo field includes all of Mingo county and the mines along the Kentucky side of the river, a shallow narrow stream which for miles in this region forms the boundary between Kentucky and West Virginia. High mountains rise abruptly on each side of the river, their sides covered with a heavy growth of bushes. Along the mountain sides are the drift mines from which come the coal, and nesting in the narrow valley are the little towns where live the miners and their families.

July 75 per cent of the miners in the region are native born, many of them the descendants of pioneers who entered the country more than 100 years ago, and who are proud of their lineage. Some foreign-born miners can be found in the camps, while numbers of negroes are employed. Often the miners own a small acreage, for which

ANOTHER RAILROAD PROJECT FOR WEST TEXAS IS ADVOCATED

Special to the News. LOCKNEY, July 28.—Lockney and other towns in this section of the state have been asked to stir up interest in the proposed railway from Fort Worth to the plains section, according to word received by the West Texas chamber of commerce.

Lockney, Plainview and other towns in this section are vitally interested in a short line railway from the plains to Fort Worth to cut down mileage and time in marketing the plains livestock and wheat crops.

Probably no other section of the southwest is today prospering greater than this, nor is there any other region which is feeling the great tide of immigration flowing westward like Floyd county. Hundreds of acres of sod land are being broken up this year to add to the immense wheat crop expected to be harvested in 1921.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS IN NORTH CAROLINA STARTING CAMPAIGN

Associated Press. RALEIGH, N. C., July 28.—The first gun in the anti-suffrage campaign for North Carolina will be fired here Thursday by supporters under the auspices of the Southern Rejection League. A special session of the legislature is scheduled within the next two weeks when the question of ratification of the federal suffrage amendment will come up.

FIRST MAIL TO CROSS THE CONTINENT BY AIRPLANE OFF TODAY

Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 28.—Fleet three, all metal monoplane, are ready at the Long Island take-off to start for San Francisco, carrying the first bag of mail to ever cross the continent by airplane. The purpose of the trip is to map out a regular aerial route, expected to be opened the first week in September.

Amundsen at Nome. NOME, July 28.—Roland Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, arrived here today from the Arctic ocean.

in the planting and harvesting, he will abandon the mines. In some places the miners live in brick cottages, each having its garden plot and front porch. Such a village is Bordertown, where early this month miners were fired upon from the mountain side while going to work. In other villages the houses are of frame construction, each set in its own garden plot, and for which the miners pay at the rate of two dollars per month per room.

Williamson, the center of the region, is pleasantly placed in the valley, with substantial buildings and good stores. The Mingo county court house is one of the best structures, but the city hall also is a complete office building, while there is in course of construction a theater which will cost $250,000. The 5,000 residents of the town very generally enjoy the prosperity which has come to the coal trade in the past few years.

Early in the year the movement to organize the United Mine Workers was inaugurated by President Keeney from district headquarters at Charleston, and organizers were sent into Mingo county. They met with such a success that a demand was made upon the operators for the enforcement of the Kanawha scale and recognition of the union. This demand the operators refused, and the union called a strike. The order, mine operators say, was answered by from 1,500 to 1,800 miners, but the union officials put the figure higher.

The companies, through their lawyers, took the position that the houses built for the miners who had gone on strike reverted at once to the owners. The miners, in some instances, held that if the companies wanted the house of a man they must obtain possession of it by due process of law.

Numbers of miners were evicted from company houses, and it was for that purpose private detectives, "mine guards" the miners term them, were sent to Matewan, June 19, and where in the fight which followed the eviction of five families, ten persons were killed. Many miners, however, moved from company houses without protest, and the United Mine Workers established for such persons tent colonies along Tug river near the places of their former employment. There the strikers and their families live in army tents, and there they declare they will stay until the strike has been settled and they have returned to work.

SIR THOMAS SAYS HE WILL TRY AGAIN FOR THE AMERICA'S CUP

Not Worried Over His Defeat Yesterday — Resolute, the Winner, Will Not Be Sailed Again But Will Be Dismantled and Its Fittings Stored, Yacht Club Announces.

Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 28.—The Resolute, which decisively defeated the Shamrock, deciding the race for the defense of America's cup yesterday, probably will not run another race, it was announced by the New York Yacht club. It will be dismantled and the fittings stored.

Sir Thomas Lipton said he will issue another challenge in 1922. The Last Race SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 28.—The America's cup stays in America. This was decided shortly before sundown yesterday when the American defender, Resolute, complete the 1920 regatta here three to two by defeating Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV in the final race.

The defender outsailed the green sloop decisively, boat for boat, in the last contest of a tempestuous series, the closest and most hard fought in the history of the present trophy—crossing the line at 7:52:22, unofficial time, only about twenty-five minutes before expiration of the six-hour time limit.

CANADA'S TRADE BOOM SHOWS BIG GROWTH

By International News Service. OTTAWA, Ont., July 28.—Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, in his budget speech in the house of commons gave some illuminating figures on Canada's development. He said Canada's total trade amounted to $149,489,188 in 1879 and to $2,351,174,886 in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1920. This represents a growth in trade from $58.60 to $261 per capita in forty-one years.

Tomatoes Paying Crop.

Special to the News. RISING STAR, July 28.—One-tenth of an acre in tomatoes has netted J. W. Hancock, two miles northeast of town, the sum of $130, and by the time the crop is all sold he expects to have realized therefrom not less than $200. He also has a patch of Irish potatoes covering 560 square yards, from which he sold to the amount of $65 and kept $20 worth for himself. Rising Star truck opportunities are now great, says the West Texas chamber of commerce.

Great Millet Crop.

Special to the News. COMANCHE, July 28.—Eight and one-half acres of millet produced 938 bales of millet hay on the Charles McElroy place in the Shiloh community, according to a report to the West Texas chamber of commerce. SOUTHWESTERN AND SOUTH TEXAS SHOW EXCELLENT CROPS

Associated Press. GALVESTON, July 28.—Crop conditions over southern and southeastern Texas are excellent, according to reports received here. Cotton picking is expected to be within full swing in a week.

Reports from a number of towns follow: Ledbetter: A few farmers are burning sulphur at night to kill the boll weevils. Victoria: This section was visited by a heavy downpour of rain. Caldwell: Cotton and other crops are being injured by continuous rains in this territory.

Platonia: Boll weevils are numerous after recent showers. Corn is the best in several years. Willis: About fifteen carloads of melons have been shipped during the present season. Lockhart: Farmers are anxious for a spell of hot weather as the best remedy for boll weevils.

Edna: Cotton is fruiting in a way highly pleasing and prospects grow brighter every day for a good yield. Falfurrias: The watermelon season has closed here. Prices held up well during the entire season. Berclair: Hot, dry weather of the past week has caused the older cotton to open. Picking will be in full swing within a week. Angleton: Farmers are complaining of considerable damage by the boll weevil.

Alice—Weather for the past week has been dry and warm. Cotton is opening rapidly, and estimates place the yield at a bale and a half an acre. Alvin: Continued rains are damaging cotton seriously. Bellville: Cotton fields are snow white with blooms. Recent hot weather has checked the weevil ravages, and a good yield is promised.

Denton: Grain threshing has been resumed here after delay caused by rains. Cuero: New corn has begun to appear on the Cuero market. The cotton crop of Dewitt county is one of the best ever produced. Port Lavaca: Cotton is opening rapidly and ginning will soon begin. A large portion of this country's crop is young, but prospects for a good yield are good.

Brenham: Cotton has shown a remarkable growth during the past week, although considerable of it is not fruiting satisfactorily because of weevil ravages. Election in October Associated Press. DEMAND FOR HOUSES IN CISCO ONE WHICH MUST BE SOLVED NOW

Chamber of Commerce and Production Deals With Proposition — School Campaign Proving Success — Working for Hilburn Road — City to Have Exhibits — Excursion to Breckenridge.

At the regular meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce and production last night, many propositions for the betterment of Cisco were discussed and so great was the interest manifested that a motion to adjourn at an early hour was disregarded.

It was decided to have a special excursion of Cisco business men to Breckenridge on the first train which runs into that city over the Cisco & North-eastern. On learning that Waco business men are also contemplating a trade trip to Breckenridge, the body voted to extend an invitation to the Young Men's Business League of Waco to join them in making the excursion a rousing affair.

The following were appointed to assist in the solicitation of funds for the building of the highway from Cisco to Hilburn: John Sue, Criger Paschall, G. B. Kelly, Stuart L. Williams and F. A. Blankenbecker. The engineers of the Humble company will go over the proposed routes at once and select the one which can be improved with the least expense. The Humble engineers will probably supervise the grading and repairing of the road.

Exhibits of Cisco's natural resources, such as oil, coal, clay and refined oil products, together with a complete agricultural display, will be arranged for exhibition at the Dallas state fair and the Waco Cotton Palace. Stuart L. Williams and W. B. Starr were appointed to secure material for the exhibits.

The need of houses in Cisco is one of the new items, who are arriving here daily, was discussed, and while no solution of the house shortage could be offered, it was decided to appeal to every one who was able, to build at least one house. In this connection, it was stated that replies are being received daily from people throughout the excellent public school system which Cisco is maintaining and who are planning to move to Cisco this fall. One letter was read from a resident of Desdemona who has two motherless girls of six and eight years and wishes to place them in the kindergarten department if he can find a home in Cisco where they may be cared for.

It was generally agreed that the school publicity campaign is netting wonderful results. Mr. Gregory and Mr. Hertzog of the Gregory Moving Picture company, were introduced. They explained the "movies" which they were taking of Cisco this week and which they propose to display at a later date and then turn over to the city for display at the state fairs and other places. The chamber after considering their proposition, voted to endorse it to the business men of Cisco as a legitimate advertising scheme.

The resignation of W. E. Morris as national councillor to the United States chamber of commerce was read and accepted. F. A. Blankenbecker was elected to fill the vacancy. The attention of the body was called to the fact that the Fort Worth Star-Telegram of Sunday, August 1, would carry in its photograph section a full page of Cisco pictures, and it was suggested that every booster in Cisco secure extra copies of this issue for mailing to outside points.

THE PRICE OF BREAD

The bakers of Ft. Worth yesterday gave notice that immediately the price of a loaf of bread in that city would be advanced from 12 to 14 cents. Why this advance, in the face of the rapidly declining price of wheat and flour, cannot be accounted for outside of the general custom of profiteering.

It is true that the bakers explain that last May they were compelled to advance the wages of their employees. Also that the price of wax paper and lard have increased. The wax paper may be a big item, in the manufacture and sale of bread, but market reports tell that lard fell off $1. per hundred Saturday and that there was a still further decline yesterday.

The Ft. Worth bakers, in their explanation, also refer to the high price of flour. Again reference to the market reports will show that wheat declined Saturday in Chicago, 8 cents and that on yesterday there was an additional drop of from 11 to 14 cents.

The Ft. Worth paper telling of the notice given by the bakers that the price of bread will be advanced, says the price of flour is now $6.60 to $7, whereas a short time ago it was $8.

With this decline in the price of materials, entering into the manufacture of a loaf of bread, it is difficult to see how the advance in price can be justified, considering, too, that in nearly every case the loaf does not reach one pound in weight.

Two things the people must have, a place to live and bread to eat, and apparently there is nothing in which profiteering has gone to a greater degree than in house rents and now the bakers of Ft. Worth are going the limit on the staff of life.

There is a great crop of wheat just ready for market and it is always in order to break the price until the grain is safely out of the hands of the producer, but surely, while this low price and the resultant lower price of flour prevail, the consumer should come in for some consideration at the hands of the bakers.

Unfortunately, there is no new crop of houses coming on and the landlord is busily engaged in raising the rents wherever he can do so.

THAT HILBURN ROAD

It was generally supposed that all the money necessary for the construction or repair of a road from here to the Hilburn well had been contributed and everything was in readiness for the beginning of work on the road, but at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and Production last night, an additional committee was named to solicit funds.

This is a matter of such importance and one so calling for immediate action, that it should not be necessary to take up much time in finding the money. The demand of that locality for material, which Cisco alone can supply, is unlimited but without a passable road this material cannot be taken there.

The Humble Oil and Refining company has not only promised to contribute a sum equal to that given by the citizens of Cisco, for the repair or construction of the road, but it has donated the services of its force of engineers to locate the best route and to do and perform other needed engineering work in building the road.

This liberality should be met promptly by every citizen of Cisco. It is not a matter to benefit any one person, or class, but will bring to every citizen, directly or indirectly, good returns on the money. What benefits any community proves of benefit to all.

The remainder of the fund necessary for the road should not be raised today and there should not be a citizen of Cisco who will refuse the members of the committee when they call.

WHY A TRUNK MYSTERY?

Why is it that when a trunk enters into the news concerning a murder that it is always a "trunk mystery" and why is it that public interest is at once aroused to a greater degree than in an ordinary murder?

Inexplicable, but the fact remains that from the celebrated Maxwell case, in which a young Englishman was murdered and the body left in a trunk in a room of a St. Louis hotel, nearly forty years ago, there have been many murders in which the body of the victim was concealed and many times transported in a trunk.

Just as soon as news of this kind develops, the newspapers, realizing the taste and desire of a large percentage of the reading public in this direction, make an effort to meet the demand for all the details.

Why this interest and why the desire for this kind of news? Many times, if not all the time, it is revolting. Is morbid curiosity so dominant in the average man and woman that their desire to read this kind of "stuff" becomes almost a mania?

In the Detroit-New York case, just now filling the public prints, thousands and thousands of dollars has been expended by newspapers in paying reporters and telegraph tolls in the pursuit of a clue to this "trunk mystery."

And when the problem is solved, it will be forgotten in a day. Even a national election, an effort to feed starving millions in Europe, or one to advance religious thought throughout the world, even the assassination of a president, cannot cope with a "trunk mystery."

In the centers of refinement and education, equally as well as in the slums of great cities, a "trunk mystery" with its many times attendant disgusting and immoral details, holds the attention over all else.

BACK TO THE OLD FASHIONED DOCTRINE.

One more it has been demonstrated what it is that really counts for peace in the world. The soviet armies of Russia, pretending to make war for idealism, have taken no notice of the idealism of the League of Nations. Soviet idealism, or the force masked behind it, would have listened to no appeal from a voice speaking for an idealism as high as its own has pretended to be. Even the League of Nations is practical enough to recognize that. It has not considered the time favorable for addressing a word to Russia and has thereby saved itself considerable humiliation.

But soviet Russia is not beyond hearing a word addressed to it in the right tone and from the right quarter. While it could not bear a request from Britain, diplomatically expressed, that the Poles be granted an armistice, it did bear and promptly acted when Britain, dropping diplomacy, uttered in unmistakable language a plain threat of war unless the red armies halted instantly. The Russian government recognized that tone without any difficulty. It was not in the accents of idealism. That is admitted. It wasn't even in the hand-picked language of diplomacy, which the powers usually employ in addressing each other. Not a word was uttered about brotherhood, the vision of universal peace or the federation of mankind. Lenin and Trotsky would have snickered at those expressions—they invented most of them themselves and know what they are worth. But they also knew what the British government meant by war, and hastened to send wireless messages to the red commanders in the field to stop the brotherhood hosts in their tracks.

If the world is concerned in finding out how to guarantee peace this method seems to convey a fairly good hint. It is not only far more effective but considerably more prompt than the league method. If the league had been acting in this emergency it would have had to start with a formal representation from Poland. In due time the secretary-general would have received authority to write Lenin and call his attention to the complaint. Probably Lenin would be too busy setting up the soviet in Poland to answer the secretary-general any time soon, and ultimately that official would have had to refer the matter to the supreme council, which if unanimous agreement could be reached, would in course of time indicate to the Russian government the desirability of diplomatic conversations on the subject.

For some reason Britain rejected the league method and went back to the primitive procedure indicated. Perhaps she recognized that the immediate object was not so much to establish the league principle as to save Poland.—Kansas City Star.

WHY CITIES GROW

A natural human desire to elude the divine mandate, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread," has always been the seat of many of our earthly troubles. As interpreted to mean the kind of perspiration that accompanies tilling the soil, it may account for so many abandoned farms and the swarming emigration of the agriculture population to the cities—where, indeed, the sweating doesn't stop, but is in thousands of instances greatly intensified.

On the farm physical exertion well-nigh reaches its maximum. Stripped of the struggle with Nature, reduced to the merest remnant of clothing, the gladiatorial combat is carried on. There are no fat farmers, unless they have become "landed proprietors" and have delegated all violence of labor to other hands. It is the cry from Macedonia now, that the hired man is no longer to be hired; and all the racking toil of the farm descends upon one hapless pair of shoulders; no one is to be had for love or money, to share it.

The rendering of the soil into nature's hands again is quite accountable. And when the rewards of easier employments in the city are so great, even partial dependence on a sense of conscientious self-sacrifice is not to be expected.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

MR. CHRISTENSEN OUT ON A LIMB

By going to Ohio for a candidate for president the prohibitionists have shown a proper regard for ethics and the constitution as well as for the sensibilities of a great state. Their action makes more conspicuous the flagrant unconstitutionality of the farmer-labor party in nominating a candidate from Utah. Mr. Christensen must see by this time that the bold attempt of his party to smash one of the solidest traditions of the republic—to say nothing of its slap at Ohio—will not avail.

The farmer-labor party simply cannot get away with this sort of thing. Ohio has its rights and the country will stand by it. The republicans and democrats, powerful, confident and aggressive as they are, did not dare violate those rights. They showed their respect for the constitution and laws and took Ohio candidates. There may have been radicals in both parties who wanted to defy Ohio, but the calm, conservative common sense and high principles of the majority prevailed. The prohibitionists, after a moment of rebellious counsel, swung back to sound moorings and also went to Ohio. What's the use of Mr. Christensen trying to stand out? None, of course. After due reflection—for nobody will want to hurry him—he must see that the proper course for him is to concede his inelegibility and withdraw and let his party go to Ohio for a candidate of whose right to run there can be no question.—Kansas City Star.

BIG CHURCH DRIVE FOR MEMBERSHIP TO BE UNDERTAKEN SOON

Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 25.—A nation wide united evangelistic campaign of the protestant churches has been decided upon for the coming year by the leaders of 18 of the larger denominations, the Federal Council of the Churches in America, announced here today.

The directors of evangelism for the Methodist bodies, the Baptists, Presbyterians, Lutherans, Congregationalists, Disciples, the two reformed groups and other bodies have met here and decided upon the common program to be carried out during 1920-21.

The fall campaign will be opened by a series of all day rallies for ministers in a dozen strategic centers. A party composed of the directors of evangelism of the cooperating denominations will accompany Dr. Goodell of the Federal Council to Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore.

From September to December evangelistic committees are to be organized and trained in every local congregation. Each church will present the plan to its whole church membership at a church rally to be held early in the fall. Parish surveys will be undertaken to ascertain definitely the persons who shall be reached by each church.

From January to Easter, every Protestant pulpit is to be called on to sound the evangelistic note. The appeal of the church to personal consecration of life service is to be kept before the community in various ways. Extension of the habit of personal prayer and the family altar will be striven for, and the use of the Lenten daily prayer calendar encouraged. Pastor's training classes will be held for personal workers as well as confirmation classes or study groups for those who are to enter the churches.

CARDINALS MAY NOW USE AUTOMOBILES TO AND FROM ST. PETERS

Associated Press.
ROME, July 28.—One by one the last bulwarks of conservatism in Europe disappear. The Vatican which preserves in its life and ceremonials so many picturesque customs and ancient ways of doing things for a long time sternly forbade the use of automobiles by cardinals and other ecclesiastics. Funereal looking carriages drawn by black horses conveyed the cardinals to and from the functions at St. Peter's or to their visits to the Pontiff in the Vatican palace. Now several of the cardinals, including the English Cardinal Gasquet, have motor cars which convey them everywhere.

Not so long ago the attendants in Elizabethan ruff and doublet and sword who marshal the spectators to their places in the great Vatican functions, did not allow the use of opera glasses to watch the wondrous scene. At the canonization of Joan of Arc a body of photographers were permitted to be present who took a film of the whole ceremony, so that when these picturesque historic processions no more occur this reproduction will recall it.

TWO WIVES, PLENTY KIDS, ONE HOUSE AND ALL IS HARMONIOUS

By International News Service.
PITTSBURGH, July 28.—Pittsburg has a man who has two wives and two families, supports them both under the same roof and yet lives in perfect peace and harmony, while the law looks complacently on and feels that justice is being served.

The man is a Croatian steel worker. When he left his home country about twelve years ago he left a wife and three children. He had not been here long before he married again. Four children have resulted from the marriage.

Within the last year the man's wife in the old country expressed a desire to be with him here. He sent her the necessary funds, knowing full well his predicament.

"I want to do what is best for both wives," the steel worker told Alderman George A. Young, to whom he went with his confession. The magistrate consulted both wives, learned they were willing to live together in one big family and decided that would be best for all. And all the neighbors agreed, for tranquility, strange as it may seem, is the keynote of the home of the "man with two wives."

TO DISTRIBUTE FUND OF $50,000 IN IRELAND

By International News Service.
MANCHESTER, N. H., July 28.—Chief Justice John Kivel of the New Hampshire superior court, and Arthur G. Whitmore of Dover, a member of the governor's council, will sail from New York August 14 for Ireland to distribute a trust fund of $50,000 to the worthy poor of Dublin.

The fund was left by Mrs. Anna Sharpe of Dover, widow of William Sharpe, for years a wool buyer for the Amoskeag Manufacturing company in this city. Mrs. Sharpe was a native of Dublin.

Chief Justice Kivel and Mr. Whitmore have been named as trustees.

Chemist's Scales Are Big Enough to Weigh Milady's Frock Today

International News Service.
LONDON, July 28.—Bring out your chemist's scales, my dear, pile on your latest frock, hat and unmentionables, and let's see whether you are really well dressed.

The Ascot races set the pace. Delicately adjusted chemist's scales alone will register with precision and exactness the true degree of your progress in the race to keep pace with Dame Fashion.

It isn't many months since a scientifically keen but fashionably dull scientist averred in print and emphatically that folks aren't wearing enough clothes. He proposed a butcher's scale test. To keep properly warm and healthy—he didn't mention style—one must wear a pound of clothes for every "stone"—or fourteen pounds—of one's weight.

London discussed him seriously. Until the season of the society races of the year, those at Ascot arrived. And now, one gathers, the original "stone of weight" measure of clothes may still prevail, but the proportion perhaps, is less than one ounce of clothing for each fourteen pounds on the hoof.

Fortunately, Ascot week was a warm week. And there was only one mild shower. Fortunately, because: "More dressing and less clothing than war," was the verdict of a witty dowager. "They seem to be clad in a few ounces of lace."

A bright idea, ounces. Investigations were made with above-mentioned, delicately adjusted scales.

Actual laboratory experiments proved that one "white charmeuse dress, veiled with a drapery of blond lace" weighed eight ounces. It cost 25 pounds, or $39.

A tulle cloak worn with the dress weighed three ounces; an amethyst and silver clasp for the coat, 1 1/2 ounces; white tulle hat with large gauze rose trimming, 2 ounces; silken undergarments, 4 1/2 ounces; white brocade shoes and silk stockings, 10 3/4 ounces.

Add them yourself. Grand total 29 1/2 ounces.

Yes, you'll say that was a stunt, an exception. So did the scientific investigators. So they investigated further.

Another outfit, of which a black charmeuse gown with paniers was the chief visible token, weighed in at only 28 ounces, the gown itself being one-quarter of the total.

Still another Ascot costume was built around a dress of pale blue embroidered voile which weighed itself only 5 ounces. The miss who inhabited it was so forgetful of the "style by weight" test that she wore buckskin shoes weighing 13 ounces. But even then she followed the paniers carrying only a 30-ounce handicap in the clothing line.

And still one might believe the "ounce test" merely somebody's jest. But the dauntless experimenters adjusted their scales and examined a "heavy" outfit.

A dress of yellow net stitched with beads weighed, "thanks to its beads," all of 12 ounces. A hat of lace straw set the wearer back 2 1/4 ounces; a cloak of yellow taffeta meant a handicap of 20 ounces; corsets were worn in this case, we are told, and they scored 8 ounces and satin shoes were 9 ounces. This heavy outfit ran to an impressive total of 59 ounces.

Gloves, sunshades and bead chains, it was found, were usually heavier than the clothing worn.

Did mere man do his betting under these rules? Hardly.

All week long they cast envious eyes at the airy comfort of their women folk, and sweltered in black morning coats of material about as thick as felt, faced with heavy braid, the extremities being clad, respectively, in dark gray striped trousers and a top hat. Since the King and Queen were present, the toppers were likewise of a heat-absorbing black.

BLUE POLKA DOT TIES LATEST FASHION CRAZE

International News Service.
NEW YORK, July 28.—Blue Polka-dot bow neckties are mere man's latest fashion craze. Haberdashers report that the demand for dotted blue "bat wings" eclipses any run in recent years.

The craze is due, they declare, to newspaper photographs which show Sir Thomas Lipton, the famous Englishman, and Senator Warren G. Harding, the Republican candidate, wearing the tidy "bat wings."

Farmers' "Curbstone" Market Associated Press.

GALVESTON, July 28.—Operation of a "curbstone" market here, to which farmers of this vicinity bring their products daily, has served materially to reduce the high cost of living. Stands at the market place rent for twenty-five cents a night to the farmers, but no license fee is charged so long as they sell only their own products.

DIFFERENCE IN THE PRICE FARMER GETS AND CONSUMER PAYS

Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 28.—Unusual fluctuations in the price of dressed beef occurred during the first six months of this year, says a report of the United States bureau of markets. Starting with a top price of $21 for good grade beef in January, sharp and erratic price changes marked trading throughout the period, with the low top price of $17 recorded during the last week in May and the high point, $31, made on June 28, an increase of $14 a hundred pounds in 30 days.

A series of unavoidable events, most of them resulting from abnormal conditions produced by the war, contributed to the phenomenal price trends, the report says. Among the principal disturbing influences described are periodical releases by the war department of surplus stocks of beef in an effort to reduce living costs, higher stocker and feeder markets, high priced feeds, fruitfulness of producers' efforts to increase cattle production for war needs and anticipated foreign demands, labor troubles, decreased transportation facilities, embargoes, unsettled foreign credit and exchange conditions, decrease in beef exports, financial credit restrictions, declines in prices of hides, tallow, and other animal by-products and decreased or spasmodic consumption of meat.

In fact, the report says, every possible economic factor incidental to a period of reconstruction and capable of disturbing market conditions for these products of the farm and range had free and almost unlimited action.

Prices of livestock in the Chicago market and those paid for dressed carcasses as taken from New York quotations from 19 days to two weeks after the live cattle transactions also showed wide fluctuations, the report asserts. The difference of $2.25 per 100 pounds between prices for good beef steers and the corresponding grade of dressed carcasses in January was widened until it stood at $14.50 during the closing days of June. For the same period the difference between the low price of medium steers on the hoof and in the carcasses had advanced from $6.25 to $12.75.

A comparison of live cattle prices and prices on relative grades of dressed meats on January 2 and June 30 of this year with those of corresponding dates last year shows the top price for good beef steers at the beginning of this year at $18.75 and at the end of June as $18.50 with the opening top price on dressed beef from such steers at $21.00 and the close at $31. On January 2, 1919, live prices for the same grade were up to $17.75 and at the end of six months the top stood at $14.50, a decline of $3.25. Good dressed beef on January 2, last year, registered a top of $27 and on June had declined $8 to a top of $19.

IS BITTEN BY FISH, MAY DIE FROM POISON

International News Service.
RANDOLPH, Vt., July 28.—Oris Flint, of South Royalton, is at the Randolph Sanitarium, in this city, suffering a severe case of blood poisoning, contracted when he was bitten by a fish which he landed several days ago. Though one finger has been amputated, physicians have been unable to check the spread of the infection. His condition is regarded as serious.

WATERMELON SYRUP LATEST IN GEORGIA

International News Service.
WAYCROSS, Ga., July 28.—"Georgia cane sirup" is a product which is known from ocean to ocean and when its name is mentioned the state of Georgia immediately comes to mind. Another sirup which promises to make Georgia famous, according to farmers in this section, is watermelon sirup. This sirup is made from the juice of the watermelon in practically the same manner that cane sirup is made from sugar cane juice. Several farmers in this section have experimented with "melon" sirup for several years and they say that "it can't be beat."

DOZEN FINGERS AND TOES, WANTS THEM CUT OFF

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, July 28.—When Paul Anderson, eleven years old, of Riverdale-on-Hudson, was admitted to Bellevue Hospital recently the authorities discovered that they had in their midst a physical freak.

The lad had twelve toes and twelve fingers, the small toe and small finger having been duplicated by Mother Nature. He was admitted to the hospital to permit of the amputation of the superfluous members.

AUTOMOBILE THIEF STRUCK A BOY; CAUGHT

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, July 28.—Patrick Teehan, ten years old, was struck by an automobile while playing in the street. The child clung to the fender, his body under the machine, and was dragged 400 feet before the machine was brought to a stop.

He was uninjured. When the driver of the car was taken to the police station a resident accused him of stealing the automobile.

DIRECTORS OF WEST TEXAS LEAGUE HOLD BUSINESS MEETING

Eligibility of Mineral Wells Players Discussed — Attendance at All Cities With One Exception Proving Satisfactory — Continuation of West Texas League Now a Certainty.

(By John H. Kelly)
The directors of the West Texas League met in Cisco Tuesday, July 27, President Walter Morris of Fort Worth, presided.

Those in attendance representing the various clubs were: Herring for Cisco, Galloway for Ranger, Maloney for Eastland, Sablowski for Mineral Wells and Smith for Gorman. Abilene was not represented.

Among the different matters discussed was the question that has lately arisen over the eligibility of certain players on the Mineral Wells team, several games having been protested by opposing clubs on that account. Manager Sablowski of Mineral Wells, explained to the satisfaction of the other directors that the men were all now eligible and though they were not eligible at the time they were signed, the facts were not known to the Mineral Wells club, and later investigation showed that the suspension of the men by Texas League clubs had been made without sufficient reasons and that same were removed when this was shown.

Presidents of the respective clubs stated that although none of their organizations were making any large amount of money, all were very well satisfied with the gate receipts, considering the fact that this is the first year of the new league. One town was mentioned as not having the attendance necessary to support the club, but arrangements are already under way to transfer the franchise for next season should the situation not change for the better. None of the other clubs are showing any material losses, and the tightness of the present race assures not only increased attendance at all points, but better baseball for the fans.

LEGLESS MAN TRIES TO SAVE DROWNING BATHER

International News Service.
BALTIMORE, July 28.—Seized with cramps while bathing in the Patapsco River, Louis Fied, twenty-one years old, of New York City, was drowned. Charles Zimmerman, a legless man, seated on a pier watching the young New Yorker, plunged overboard and attempted a rescue. He located the body, but because of his physical handicap Zimmerman was unable to bring it to the surface. The legless man shouted for assistance and the body was recovered. Fied was said to have been engaged to marry Miss Sarah Sobel, of New York.

QUIJA BOARD ASKED TO LOCATE WEAPON USED BY MURDERER

Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 28.—Ouija boards by the score have volunteered to solve the mysterious murder of Joseph Bowen Elwell, turkman, card expert and "Don Juan."

Since the body of the gambler was found in his handsome residence here last month, with a bullet through the forehead, alleged clues, motives and revelations of the murderer himself have been gathered from etheral planes by the thousands and dumped upon an admittedly bewildered staff of the district attorney's office.

All of these occult communications are not discarded. While disclaiming any faith in Ouija's ability as a criminal investigator, the district attorney nevertheless admits that he has assigned a man to the special duty of reading occult contributions and to submit to him personally any conveying apparent by useful information. An anonymous communication purporting to be an occult revelation may contain a valuable clue. Mr. Swan believes his theory being that the criminal might use this method of informing on a confederate. Anonymous communications purport to reveal prelude, plot and climax of the crime.

The missing automatic pistol with which Elwell was shot has been located by Ouija boards or other "supernatural" means in every part of the Elwell home, from the sitting room in which the murder was committed down into the basement and up to the roof.

Until the murderer is apprehended, both the police and district attorney's staff say they expect no success from the persistent profligacy of occult assistance now being forced on them.

AMUSEMENTS

Judith Theater
Marion Davies' latest Cosmopolitan production, "April Folly," which is being released by Famous Players-Lasky corporation and will be shown at the Judith theater today, was adapted from Cynthia Stockley's story of the same name. As a magazine serial, it attracted unusual attention. The theme is a most novel one, relating how April Folly, played by Miss Davies, in search of material for a new novel, impulsively offered to exchange places with the daughter of an earl who was on her way to South Africa with a famous diamond. Private detectives and a pair of international jewelry thieves are trailing the gem. April has several thrilling encounters on shipboard and a pretty affair of the heart. The climax is startling, but entirely satisfactory. Conway Tearle is the leading man, and the picture was under the direction of Robert Z. Leonard. It is a Paramount Art-craft picture.

ONE LANDLADY WHO LIKES THE "KIDDIES"

By International News Service.
MANSFIELD, O., July 28.—"No one without children can rent this home, as I am not the 'kill your kid' kind." This striking sentence appears in an ad.

In these days of "no children" house renting the ad has caused quite a sensation.

The ad announces that P. B. Wise has a house for sale here, but it goes on to state that if not sold before August 1 he will offer to rent the house at $30 a month.

LITTLE RED ANTS NOT A MENACE TO HEALTH

Associated Press.
AUSTIN, July 28.—That the small red ants that infest residences during the spring and summer months are not inimical to health is stated by V. M. Ehlers, state sanitary engineer, who adds that there is no evidence at present that the ant acts as a host to causes of disease able to be transmitted.

Numerous inquiries are being received by the state department of health as to the most effective methods to employ in ridding residences of the ants. Among other methods of destruction suggested by the department is the application of bisulphide of carbon on or near the nest of the ants, although care should be taken, the department warns, not to permit the chemical to be ignited in any way as it is explosive.

She Helped Him To Succeed, Then Shuffled Her Into the Discard

Mrs. Helen De Bower

Written for International News Service
By MARGERY REX

NEW YORK, July 28.—Query—When does a man tire of his wife and seek love and diversion in the society of another woman?

Answer—Usually when his wife has "made" him, bogged him, economized for him and set aside her own interests in favor of his success.

And such is the contention in the case of Mrs. Helen De Bower, who was divorced from Herbert De Bower in Chicago in 1919.

Mrs. Daniel Bedell, wife of General Bedell, also was cast aside in the days of her husband's prosperity, became dependent, and finally cast her lot, her hopes and despair into the lagoon in Central Park the other day, leaving a note explaining her act.

Mrs. De Bower has shown better judgment. She has brought suit in the supreme court to gain an increase of alimony. According to her own statements, she believes her husband's income to total $10,000 a year, and her allowance from him of $150 a month is scarcely enough to maintain her comfortably in these days of high costs.

"I can understand the act of Mrs. Bedell," said Mrs. De Bower recently. "I often have had moments—no, whole days and nights—of the utmost despondency when reviewing in my mind the injustices I have suffered."

Mrs. De Bower is a beautiful brunette type, with rich coloring. She is slight and girlish in appearance, and, in fact, is little more than a girl in years. Tears often came into her eyes as she answered necessary but painful questions about her present litigation. She was reluctant to give an interview, but was prevailed upon at least to give her views about the situation.

"Sometimes I would wake up at night and think of what I would do if Herbert died. Then my alimony would stop and I am so unfitted to support myself. I wrote some time ago and asked him to please get me a little insurance. He got a five-year policy, and in five years, of course, it ran out. He didn't get another."

"Herbert's mother, brother and sister have been splendid to me throughout. They know I was a good wife. That sounds like bragging, but I feel justified in saying that now. I granted every request, even protecting the name of a woman to please him."

"I fear the power of his money. I cannot fight that. I hope he will see the justice of what I ask and not try to get around my demands."

"But as for the case of Mrs. Bedell, I know what feelings drove her to the lagoon. Poor woman! How foolish she was. I do not approve of such a course."

Mrs. De Bower told a tale of an early marriage, at sixteen years; of her luxurious home in girlhood and her lack of experience in financial management. In the first years of her life together Herbert De Bower was making but $50 a week.

"I managed very well after I got started. I planned, saved, economized. All of a sudden Herbert jumped from the small salary to an income of $50,000 a year. He began a correspondence school system. He was one of the pioneers of that work."

"I was so happy. If we were apart for a day or two he would send me a special letter and a wire every twenty-four hours. He was devoted itself. His income kept going up fast."

"Gradually I sensed a change. I knew there was another woman, but I didn't announce my suspicions to him. He became very cold and uncommunicative. He never wanted to get anything for the house, although he wished me always to be dressed up, so that people would say: 'There goes De Bower's wife.'

"Finally I got word from a friend, after Herbert had deserted me, that he wanted a divorce. He asked me not to name the woman who was responsible for breaking up my home."

"I didn't like the idea of giving him up, for at that time I was desperately in love with him. But I realized that a man whose love has grown cold is beyond recall."

"I started suit and to please him didn't name that woman. I wrote saying I would grant his last request."

"Later Herbert married again. I left Chicago to get away from sad memories. Not long ago I heard Herbert and his present wife had come to New York. I imagine my chair in seeing them in all their glory of success while I was trying to get on with my $150 alimony."

"After we parted I went into a decline—my lungs were affected."

"I needed to stay in the mountains. My doctor wrote Herbert and told him I needed money. He replied that he didn't care—that I was dead to him already. Then he said worse things when I appealed to him."

"I was the partner of his early struggles. I was an unsophisticated girl not only at the time of my marriage, but later when I gave in so easily to his divorce plans, agreeing to what he wanted."

"Every luxury of expensive living marked our last years together. I shared the riches I had helped him gain. Then I had to step out of his life and go from a state of living with four servants and a fine car at my disposal to managing my own life on $150 a month."

"I love nice things—what woman doesn't? What right has a man to allow his wife to grow accustomed to finery and then tell her he wants her no longer—and that she will please oblige with a divorce suit?"

In her small, tastefully furnished apartment there is a little mahogany desk were repose bundles of letters, tied with faded lavender ribbon. They are extravagantly worded love letters written by De Bower in his early married life.

"Even eight and nine years after our marriage he was very much in love with me," she said.

"Not a younger woman, but one much older than I broke up our home. But to please Herbert as well as my own conscience, which told me two wrongs do not make a right, I would not name her in my divorce proceedings."

"I do not think I will ever marry again. I am thoroughly disillusioned. I have seen so much of the sort of thing that has happened to me."

"Young girls often marry young, inexperienced men, whose thoughts are fastened only on success. Later when wealth brings leisure, these men, who have had little to do with women in early youth, begin to look about for feminine friends. It is better for a man to have had his fling before marriage."

"Many men have affairs that their wives do not seem to know about. This is not right, of course, but at least this much can be said for that—the men do not throw out their wives upon a cold world to shift for themselves. In that case the unhappiness is upon the woman foolish enough to become involved."

"I have no training for any work or profession. After our parting my health was so poor that I could not have tried to do anything."

"A woman gives over her whole life,
