CISCO SCHOOLS.

The Cisco public schools will open next Monday to prospects of a larger attendance than last year and a markedly successful season. Last year's maximum enrollment of 1,175 students, exclusive of colored pupils enrolled, from a scholastic census of 1,294 promises to be considerably exceeded on the basis of a census total of 1,406 for the present year. This census indicates that there has been a quiet immigration into the district during the past year. A further fact to reflect optimism is that where not so long ago it was easy to obtain a residence, it is now difficult to secure any but the least desirable. While these factors are yet to be felt in increased business and spending power, they do give reason for belief that there has been a substantial turn in the conditions of which for the past three years we have been complaining.

The schools also report that the transfers into the Cisco district from outside districts are this year almost double what they were last year.

To handle the prospective increase in enrollment the schools have a faculty of 34 members, as compared with 48 members three years ago when the enrollment was only between 150 and 200 above what it was last year. This means that, although some of the activities have been eliminated, the load per teacher has been heavily increased. Supt. Cluck estimates that the 34 teachers are doing now fully 90 per cent of the work that the 48 teachers did three years ago. The loyalty of the faculty of the local schools during the trying period of the past three years, a loyalty that was given at the expense of salary cuts, slow pay and extra work, has been a principal factor in putting the schools in the excellent circumstances in which they now find themselves in comparison with other schools. The other has been the competent and conscientious work of the school board and Supt. Cluck. Financially the schools are in good condition, taking into consideration the fund impounded in the Cisco Banking company. Bond interest and payments have been met and salary deficits are being gradually wiped out. At the end of the year, assisted by the $16 per capita appropriation from state maintenance funds and the willingness of citizens to pay their taxes, the situation should be even more improved.

But under the conditions as they are now dictated by economy, particularly the heavy per teacher load that is required, the cooperation of the patrons and the tax-payers is vital if the schools are to maintain the high standard that has been set in more prosperous years. The schools are competently and earnestly directed and taught, and they should be patronized as considerably.

RAIL REVENUES INCREASE.

The condition of American railroads has shown much improvement since mid-summer of 1932. Operating revenues, a recent report reveals, increased 420 per cent over July a year ago. This comparison, however, is not as remarkable as it seems when it is considered that the revenues for the earlier period were the lowest that they have been at any time since the beginning of the twentieth century, it is pointed out. In other words, there is room for a great deal of improvement without yet putting the carriers in the enviable position of being able to earn net revenues after all deductions for interest and maintenance charges, et cetera. But the comparison is cheering, because it points to the logical conclusion that the low point of the depression era was reached a year ago and that progress since then and over the immediate future has been and will continue to be inclined in the right direction. Railroad receipts are a barometer of business and as long as the barometer is rising, no matter how exasperatingly slow, there is room for optimism.

The recent wreck of the Golden State Limited at Tucumcari, N. M., as well as several other serious wrecks of late dates, has been used by the Dallas News to argue the importance of permitting the railroads to earn profitable revenues. The News asserts that the wrecks, with their loss of life and injuries to many, are not an evidence that railroad travel is unsafe or that the railroads were careless in the operation of their trains. Quite to the contrary, rail travel is perhaps the safest of all. But the fault to which most of these accidents may be traced, as the News explains it, is a stringent economy enforced by shrinking revenues which does not permit the railroads to maintain their properties as they should be maintained for a maximum of efficiency and safety. In order to keep up their properties the railroads must have revenues.

Most of Former Texas Rangers Are Found In East Texas Oil Fields, Survey Shows

LONGVIEW, Sept. 8 — "Old soldiers never die, simply fade away," from an old barracks ballad. But what becomes of old time Texas Rangers?

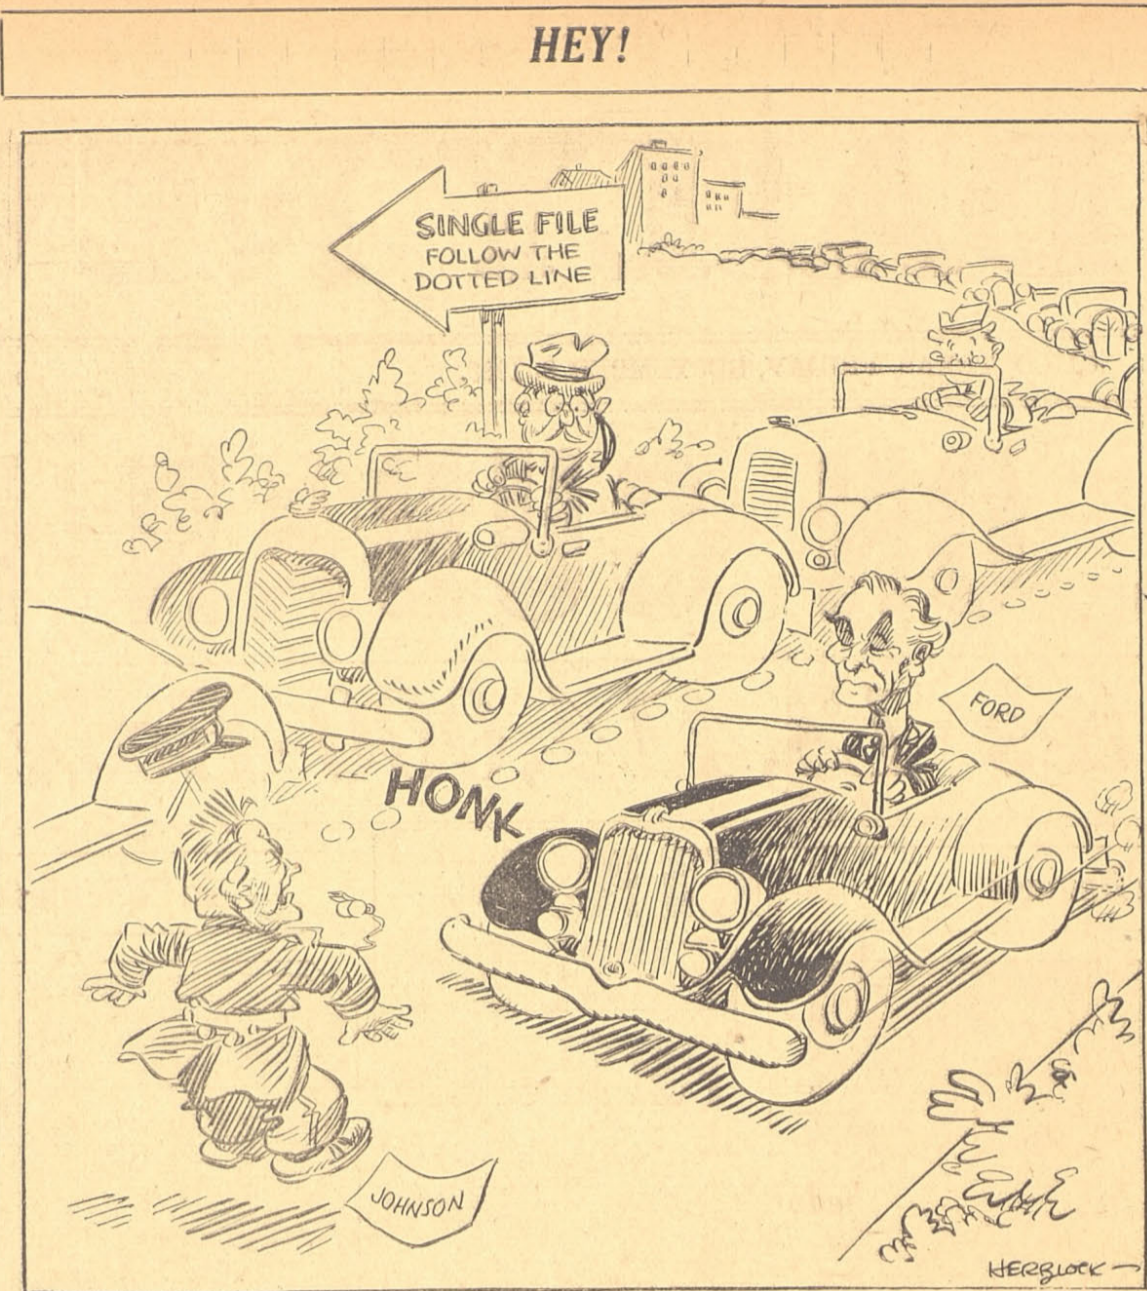

The answer is found in the east Texas oil fields where recent inventories establish more of the famous two gun, big hatted, high booted keepers of Texas' law and order than any other spot in the world.

Through the biannual turnover in the Texas Ranger force occasioned by political upheavals during the last three gubernatorial elections, numbers of men whose names were stanchions in the foundation of the pioneer state police force have been turned loose, badgeless. Most of them drifted by natural inclination to the spot where trouble loomed — the East Texas oil fields. Oil operators, fearful lest their vast valuable properties be pillaged, were happy to employ these men.

Dean of the historic Ranger force now in east Texas is Captain B. C. Baldwin of San Antonio. Instead of commanding a company of state officers he now commands a battalion of patrolmen, investigators and protectors of the Humble Oil company interests in several states. Baldwin achieved unheralded but recognized fame when he captured the first German spy interned in the United States during the World war. At this time Baldwin was in charge of department of justice agents on the Mexican border.

This spy, an experienced engineer, helped lay out Camp Travis. At night, according to Captain Baldwin the man posed as a priest. It was in the vestments of a cleric that he was captured after firing several shots at Baldwin.

Guard Pipe Lines Another former ranger, M. T. Gonzauilas former sergeant of the famous Tom Hickman's company "B", Texas Rangers, is chief special agent for the Atlas Pipe Line company. He has at least seven former rangers under his command, in addition to 20 other former peace officers. He guards the Atlas lines in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas.

Among the former rangers in his organization are John W. Sadler, former sergeant of the border company "D" at Falfurrias; H. L. "Bud" Johnston of company "C" at Uvalde, once former sheriff at Lubbock; M. "Red" Burton, formerly with company "B"; Tom L. Heard of Uvalde; J. L. Rehm of Falfurrias; Elbert Riggs of Falfurrias and Leo H. Bishop of Del Rio, also a border ranger.

Capt. J. W. Wheatley, formerly in charge of a west Texas ranger company, is now chief special agent for the Tyler Pipe Line company. Bob Goss of Honey Grove, formerly with Tom Hickman's company, is now chief of police at Kilgore; Bill Dial of Greenville, formerly of company "C" at Uvalde, is now special agent for the King & Andrews Oil company; George M. Allen, ex-ranger, is special agent for the Hayes county special agent for the Taylor Refining company; and J. H. Leach of Rains county, is with the Texas & Pacific company.

L. W. Hightower, formerly of "B" company, recently was elected sheriff of Liberty county.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER

United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Sept. 8 — When an error in typing made Former Governor James E. Ferguson appear in this column as 68 instead of 62, his wife, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson was first to note the mistake. Strangely enough she discovered it on "Governor Jim's" birthday August 31.

It started considerable discussion of ages about the state capital.

Former Governor Ferguson was born in 1871. He had supposed he was as old as United Senator Morris Sheppard. The congressional record shows Senator Sheppard several years younger. It gives his birth as May 28, 1875. He was born at Wheatville, Morris county.

Though he is generally referred to as the senior senator and Senator Tom Connally as the junior, there is really little difference in their ages. Connally was born in McLen-nan county August 19, 1877, the record says.

The ages of officials have occasioned some dispute in the past. Former Governor Pat M. Neff was erroneously aged in the manual of the Texas legislature when he was speaker of the house. His age became an issue of the campaign in which Neff defeated Former United States Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey for governor.

There has been much rivalry between friends of Dan Moody and James V. Allred over which was youngest attorney-general of Texas. Moody was by two months. He was born June 1, 1893 and became attorney-general in January, 1925. Allred was 31 years and nine months old when he became attorney-general. Allred is credited with having been the youngest district attorney in Texas. He held that office at 24.

The late Charles A. Culberson, who was affectionately known during his early political career, as the "boy governor", was older than either Moody or Allred when he became attorney general. He was born June 10, 1855, and became attorney general Nov. 4, 1890 and governor in January 1895.

Former Governor J. D. Sayers was the oldest man to remain in active public service in Texas. He was within a few months of 88 when he died, then a member of the state board of pardons and paroles. Gov-

Put Eve found Miss Leeds, who shared the third floor apartment with Miss McElhinney, most agreeable company. Miss Leeds seemed to have little time and devoted most of her evenings to work she had brought home from school or else to study.

"She's exactly the sort of person who should be instructing children," Eve told Dick. "She takes herself and her work seriously but at the same time she has a sense of humor. I like her."

For several years Dick had subscribed to a magazine devoted to pictures and stories of foreign lands. He offered to lend Miss Leeds his file of back copies and she was delighted.

"Always the bitter with the sweet, the thorn with the rose!" said Eve one night when she and Dick had folded their steamer chairs and gone upstairs to their rooms. "How happy we could be at the office if it were not for Miss Allen. And how happy our evenings at home would be if it were not for Dorothy McElhinney."

She was to remember that little speech a long, long time and to look back on those evenings that had been comparatively free from worry. Atlas Coupler, the stock Eve had bought, was being discussed generally now by those interested in the market and was highly recommended as an investment.

"I'm walking on air these days!" said Arlene. Eve felt similarly elated.

Both served in the house of representatives in the 37th and 38th legislature and both have been continuously in the senate since.

Ernest O. Thompson, state railroad commissioner never flies though he is an air pilot. He carries a $250,000 life insurance policy that has a clause against air travel.

Roy Tennant of Temple expected up to the last minute to be appointed to the state board of control when the term of Adrian Pool ended. He had delayed making other business plans in expectation that Governor Ferguson would again place him on the board where he served during her former administration.

"It's theirs to give," was Tennant's comment after the appointment of an another person was announced.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it.

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Use ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipe on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bisby's department store, marries DICK RADEB, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses. SAM HOLDRIDGE, an advertising man employed by another store, becomes infatuated with ARLENE SMITH, stenographer at Bisby's, but she favors her employer in love with GEORGE BLISS. Handsome THERON REECE has been forcing unwelcome attentions on Eve.

Unknown to Dick, Eve has been using the stock market on money borrowed from her mother. MONA ALLEN, copy writer, disturbs Eve and tries to make trouble for her. When an error costing the store $2,000, appears in an advertisement, Mon is really responsible but the blame falls on Eve.

DOROTHY McELHINNEY, pretty school teacher who lives on the floor above Eve and Dick, joins them one evening on the porch. Eve thinks the other girl is trying to play up to Dick and becomes angry.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX

AFTER that first evening when Miss McElhinney joined Eve and Dick on the porch she repeated every time they sat out of doors.

"My name is Dorothy," she confided one evening. "but I wish you'd call me Dottie."

"Never!" Eve told herself savagely. "I suppose the next thing she'll want to call my husband by his given name. I like her nerve!" And, sure enough, before long Miss McElhinney did assume that privilege.

But Eve found Miss Leeds, who shared the third floor apartment with Miss McElhinney, most agreeable company. Miss Leeds seemed to have little time and devoted most of her evenings to work she had brought home from school or else to study.

"She's exactly the sort of person who should be instructing children," Eve told Dick. "She takes herself and her work seriously but at the same time she has a sense of humor. I like her."

For several years Dick had subscribed to a magazine devoted to pictures and stories of foreign lands. He offered to lend Miss Leeds his file of back copies and she was delighted.

"Always the bitter with the sweet, the thorn with the rose!" said Eve one night when she and Dick had folded their steamer chairs and gone upstairs to their rooms. "How happy we could be at the office if it were not for Miss Allen. And how happy our evenings at home would be if it were not for Dorothy McElhinney."

She was to remember that little speech a long, long time and to look back on those evenings that had been comparatively free from worry. Atlas Coupler, the stock Eve had bought, was being discussed generally now by those interested in the market and was highly recommended as an investment.

"I'm walking on air these days!" said Arlene. Eve felt similarly elated.

AND then Atlas Coupler began to recede. The first day's slump of two points did not disturb Eve. Why, she thought, Pure Soap, Inc., had done that often in the short time she had had her holding. Even four days of decline did not frighten her because she had enormous faith in the issue. Charous, the office boy, had instructions from Eve to wait at the corner each day until the stock edition newspapers made their appearance and then to bring her a copy without delay. Arlene, tense and nervous, could scarcely wait until Eve handed the paper to her. Because of Mona Allen, the two girls had to assume a nonchalance they by no means felt.

Now Atlas Coupler was down 13 points and Eve wondered what would happen next. Each time it dropped Arlene figured her loss in terms of what she would have purchased had she not invested her money.

"There goes that Agnes hat I craved!" she said first. Then, "There goes that new three-quarter length lapin coat I counted on." Later, "My word, I've lost my trip to Georgian Bay today." And finally, "Gracious, I've lost a year's supply of shoes! I'll have to come to the store dressed like a native of Borneo."

Eve was glad Arlene took her losses so good-naturedly. She felt responsible. Atlas Coupler would surely recover within a few days, she felt, and then her fears would prove themselves groundless.

But Atlas Coupler did not recover. Eve was in conference with Earle Barnes at 10 o'clock one morning the following week. The advertising manager's telephone rang and, with a frown of annoyance, he lifted the receiver and clipped a brief "yes?"

"It's for you," he said, handing the instrument to Eve. "Stloan and Sanford Company speaking," boomed a stern, masculine voice. "Atlas Coupler has reached a new low and to all appearances is going lower. We must be in position to know that you will cover your interest or we shall be obliged to make other disposition of the stock."

EVE'S face blanched to the lips. Barnes must have heard, because the voice over the wire carried so clearly.

"Why—why?" she stammered. "What do you advise me to do?"

"If we can rely on you to send your check for $200 within the next 24 hours we can keep you on our books. Otherwise we will have to sell your holdings, which will mean a total loss to you."

Eve thought rapidly. Barnes must not get an inkling of this situation.

"I'll be in this noon to cover my interest," she promised.

Barnes looked at her quizzically. No doubt he was curious about what had happened. Eve thought, but so long as she did her work satisfactorily she did not feel that she owed him any information concerning her personal affairs.

Immediately she tried to concentrate on Barnes' plan for a June campaign featuring sports goods. He was talking about improving a log cabin on the third floor and having Mrs. Penney paint the scenery. "Heavens," thought Eve, "where will I get that $200 dollars?"

When the conference was over Eve departed, hoping she had missed no details of Barnes' plan. He sounded the buzzer for Arlene who passed Eve as she was leaving the office. The two girls exchanged stricken glances and Arlene raised her eyes upward.

Eve hurried to her desk telephone and called Dick's number. "Dick," Eve begged, "can you come down town and meet me at the City Bank at noon? It's very important."

"I'll be waiting for you in the lobby," he answered briefly.

Arlene finally reappeared with her notebook and pencil. "I'll never be able to read these hieroglyphics," she said as she sat down at her typewriter to transcribe the notes.

"Barnes is in a hurry for these letters and I'm as nervous as a cat! I'll see you later."

Eve gathered up several sheets of copy paper and a pencil and then went to the sports goods department to lay plans for the June campaign. When she returned Barnes was standing at Arlene's desk, taking up the letters as rapidly as she transcribed them. Eve Arlene! That act in itself was enough to make a stenographer nervous. It was just 12 o'clock. Eve hurried out of the building to keep her appointment with Dick. She would have to wait until later to talk to Arlene.

The front windows of Bisby's store were decorated with apple blossoms and there was a display of house and garden frocks, porch furniture and picnic equipment. But Eve felt none of the urge of the spring time. She hurried across the square, oblivious of all passers-by. In another minute she must face Dick and ask him to give her $200. Yet her plans were not formulated and she scarcely knew how to plunge into all the explanations that would be necessary.

She entered the revolving door of the bank. And then she saw him! Dick's face lighted with a glad smile but Eve's froze in horror. It was not because he was smoking his old briar pipe in a nonchalant manner. Here, in the midst of hurrying, well-groomed men and women, Dick had the temerity to be wearing his old slouch hat, baggy trousers and blue flannel shirt. And his coat had a streak of paint on one sleeve. What was more, he seemed entirely unconscious of his shocking appearance and was coming toward her.

"Dick!" Eve reproached him. "I didn't dream you'd come down in those old clothes!"

"Well," he said easily, "there was concrete to pour today so I didn't wear my tuxedo to work. Any how I didn't have time to go home to change."

BOOKS FOR BLIND

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 8 — R. B. Irwin, blind since childhood, has devised what he is convinced is a boon to America's army of sightless. The former director of the American Foundation for the Blind in New York City, has perfected a new phonograph record on parchment-like paper which may be rolled or bent. Using these records, the blind are able to read without learning the more arduous and inconvenient Braille system. From eight to 15 records are sufficient to transcribe an ordinary book.

SOUTH SEAS LURE TRIO

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 8 — Lured by desire to pen novels of the South Seas, two men, a woman and a cat named Maxie Baer, are on the high seas out of this port, bound for Tahiti. Despite veteran seamen's warning "old dabil sea" is soon to be at his winter's worst, the quartet sailed in a 27-foot lifeboat, cheeks and fur glowing with adventure.

"GOLD DIGGERS" SETS NEW FILM FARE STANDARD

A new type of film drama! That is what has been created by Director Mervyn LeRoy in the Warner Bros. production of "Gold Diggers of 1933" which opens at the Palace theatre on Tuesday for 4 big days. This type of picture had its forerunner in "42nd Street" but "Gold Diggers" is said to entirely eclipse it in the sheer force of its drama, in comedy situations, its catchy song hits and the novelty and beauty of its gigantic and spectacular dance ensembles. The most difficult problem that confronted Director LeRoy was the proper balance of music and drama so that each would be a distinct show in itself and yet blend together in such a way as to form an intrinsic part of an integral whole. He solved the difficulty by putting on the screen the entire theatrical production with its songs and dances and gigantic choruses, which the play could only hint at. LeRoy has succeeded in knitting a musical comedy spectacle with the powerful drama of Avery Hopwood's play so closely that every number and every bit of action coordinates a show within a show but an essential part of it. It is musical drama on such a scale as never before attempted.

The production carries an all star cast which includes Warren William, Joan Blondell, Aline MacMahon, Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Guy Kibbee, Ned Sparks and Ginger Rogers. Two hundred chorus girls are a part of the elaborate, mobile sets. The brilliant new dance and song conceptions were created and staged by the famous musical comedy producer, Busby Berkeley. The music and lyrics are by the famous team of Harry Warren and Al Dubin, who wrote the song hits in "42nd Street."

IS ART GALLERY

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 8 — At first it seemed a bit incongruous that an old power plant on the University of California campus was going to be converted into an art gallery. However, in this day of technocracy and other demonstrations of the machine age, art has taken on something of a mechanical flair. So university regents said, "Why not?" They have appropriated $2,500 for the transformation which is designed to relieve overcrowded hanging spaces elsewhere.

The Flag Goes Up---

This company has subscribed to the National Recovery Act, and accepts the moral and financial responsibilities that are involved.

The Price of Electricity Comes Down!

Beginning September 1st, the 3 per cent Federal tax on domestic and commercial electric bills will no longer be paid by our customers. Hereafter the tax will be paid by the company.

THIS IS A REDUCTION IN YOUR COST FOR ELECTRICITY.

But it decreases our earnings from commercial and domestic use by 3 per cent. . . . The National Recovery Act also subjects this company to additional operating expenses. Under the code for the industry which now governs this company, we are re-arranging personnel and working schedules which will result in increased payrolls.

These conditions create new, difficult and costly problems for us, but we approach them willingly, glad to contribute what we can to help the nation to better times.

YOUR PART

USE MORE ELECTRICITY In your business and in your home. . . . Your business will be stimulated, your home will become more livable, . . . and you will be playing the game.

As always, the real interest of the company and its consumers are identical. That community of interest is the foundation of the policy of the NRA. That spirit will insure its success.
