GIRL'S BRAVERY PREVENTS ROBBERY

Nine Jurors Are Selected in Hill Case by Noon Today

35 ADDITIONAL TALESMEN ARE SUMMONED

Special Venire of 160 Exhausted at 11:30 This Morning

Nine jurors to try Robert Hill, last survivor of the Cisco "Santa Claus" bank robbers, charged with murder in the killing of G. E. Bedford, Cisco police chief, had been selected at noon today in the 91st district court at Eastland.

The special venire of 160 had been exhausted and Judge George L. Davenport instructed the sheriff to summons 35 additional talesmen for examination this afternoon.

The state exhausted 11 challenges and the defense 10.

Questioning of veniremen began at 10 a. m. yesterday. Eight jurors were selected yesterday.

The court recessed at 11:30 this morning, after exhaustion of the venire until 2 o'clock this evening when examination of the additional veniremen was to be undertaken.

The nine jurors so far selected are:

S. G. Tomlinson, stockman, Cisco.

N. O. White, laundryman, Ranger.

S. C. Priggs, farmer, Nimrod.

J. W. Starkey, farmer, Rising Star.

J. J. Tucker, farmer, Ranger.

T. D. Stewart, manager of the Farmers Exchange, Ranger.

A. L. Stile, filling station operator, Ranger.

Ben Williams, farmer, Nimrod.

L. Waterbury, oil operator, Cisco.

Mother of Three Sets of Twins

For the third time in four years, Mrs. William Ehmke of Benton, Illinois, has given birth to a pair of twins. Mrs. Ehmke, who is 35, is the wife of an unemployed miner. She and her family are shown here. Mrs. Ehmke is holding the new twins, Joe and Jean; seated in front is the second set, John Carroll and Jim Carl, who are 2 years old; at Mrs. Ehmke's left is the third pair, Erma Jean (aged) and Erna June, who are 4. Behind the bed are Mary May 5, and Robert 7, while standing at the right are Mr. Ehmke and the oldest son, Emil who is 9.

EXECUTION OF THOMPSON SET FOR MAY 8TH

Sentence Pronounced in 88th Court This Afternoon

Date of the execution of Clyde Thompson, youthful convicted slayer of Lucian Shook, at Leary in September 1923, was set for Friday May 8, by Judge Elzo Ben of the 88th district court at Eastland this afternoon.

Judge Ben shortly before passing sentence on Thompson, overruled a motion by his attorney for a rehearing of Thompson's sanity case.

Thompson, apparently oblivious to what went on, heard the sentence of electrocution in the death chair at Huntsville pronounced upon him with a show of unconcern. His only hope of escaping the grim fate rests with Gov. Ross Sterling to whom a last appeal for the youth may be taken.

Thompson, who was tried twice for the crime, receiving the death penalty in each case, was pronounced sane by the jury in district court after a hearing which began December 29. His first murder trial verdict was reversed by the court of criminal appeals.

Hearing on his motion for a rehearing of the sanity case was delayed due to the illness of one of his attorneys.

Kerr County Begins Road Construction

KERRVILLE, Feb. 24.—Kerr county has started a $250,000 county highway system, with $200,000 more to be spent. Grading and bridge work has already started on a seven mile stretch of road, west of Kerrville, between Hunt and Ingram. Only $250,000 of an authorized issue of $400,000 road bond has been sold so far.

SPECIAL SHOW AT PALACE TOMORROW

Money with which to purchase milk for undernourished children in the Cisco public schools has not been dropping into the milk bottles, placed in the business district by the West Ward P. T. A., fast enough to suit K. N. Greer, manager of the Palace theater. So Mr. Greer has taken steps to remedy the situation.

A special midnight show, beginning at 10 o'clock tomorrow night, will be presented at the Palace theater and the entire proceeds will be turned over to the P. T. A. for use in purchasing the needed milk. The title of the picture which Mr. Greer has secured for the show is "Spring Is Here."

Valuable Livestock Will Be Exhibited

FORT WORTH, Feb. 24.—Livestock which will be seen at the Southwest Exposition and Fair Show which will be formally opened Friday night, March 6, will be valued at more than $1,000,000 according to John P. Lee of San Angelo, superintendent of the livestock division. The animals will compete for cash prizes in excess of $60,000. Many of them will be sold at the auctions where more than $300,000 will exchange hands.

In addition to the public auctions, there will be many private sales. The poultry show promises to break all records for entries, will be a quality show and will set a new high mark in sales according to officials of the show.

FOLKESTONE, Eng., Feb. 24.—A cat found a baby boy constructor three feet long, in a crate of bananas shipped here from the West Indies.

"Would Christ Hang a Woman?" Subject

Rev. H. D. Tucker, pastor of the First Methodist church will speak next Sunday night from the subject "Would Christ hang a woman?" he announced today.

A special invitation is given to members of the various women's clubs of the city, parent-teachers associations and all others interested in this subject.

This subject will be discussed in the light of New Testament teachings and promises to be interesting service, Mr. Tucker said in making this announcement.

OIL EMBARGO BILL KILLED BY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The house ways and means committee yesterday threw a block in the path of legislation designed to protect independent oil producers of the United States against foreign oil imports when it voted to postpone all tariff and embargo measures because "there would not be sufficient time during the remainder of the session for the consideration of such bills."

The vote was 13 to 7. With this vote the committee decided not to meet again this session, ending not only oil legislation but also the Burnett bill a temporary embargo on depressed agricultural products and Williamson bill for a ban on all Russian products refusing to accept the decision of the committee, representatives from independent oil territory planned a delegation before the unofficial republican steering committee tomorrow in an effort to gain the support of party leaders for a reconsideration by the committee.

This move will be preceded by a caucus of oil state representatives. In the morning Senator Capper, Representative Hoch, both republicans of Kansas, will carry the case of the independents directly to President Hoover with whom an engagement has been made.

When the general postponement resolution was offered, Democratic Leader Garner moved that an exception be made of oil tariff proposals. His motion was defeated 13 to 7. Committee members said six democrats were joined by one republican in favor of Garner's motion.

No direct vote was taken on the fledgling compromise substitute for the Capper-Garner bill.

ELECTION IS ORDERED BY COMMISSION

Mayor and 2 Commissioners to Be Chosen April 7th

An election to choose a mayor and two commissioners for the city of Cisco was ordered for April 7 by the city commission meeting yesterday at the home of Mayor Williamson, who was too ill to attend a session at the city hall.

A. B. O'Flaherty and Lee Owen were named managers of the election.

The commission met at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

The commission also ordered repairs to be made to the city hall, appropriating $500 for this work and that local labor, preferably men who are in need of relief and owe city taxes and water bills be employed for the work.

The building will be repainted and general repairs made.

Routine business, including the allowing of bills, was attended to. The city election falls on the first Tuesday in April.

VALIDITY OF PROHIBITION UPHeld TODAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The United States supreme court today upheld the validity of the prohibition amendment.

It reversed the decision of Judge Clark of the United States district court of New Jersey in which Clark held that the Eighteenth amendment was invalid because the method of its adoption was not in accordance with the constitution.

Associate Judge Owen J. Roberts who has served on the court only a few months, read the courts decision. He was emphatic in rejecting every argument upon which the attack on prohibition was based.

SENATE PASSES STATE DROUTH AID MEASURE

AUSTIN, Feb. 24.—The senate yesterday voted 30 to 0 to allow counties in drouth areas to buy up to $50,000 in feed and planting seed for citizens of their respective counties. The bill was introduced and sponsored by Senator Cunningham of Abilene.

Under the bill citizens thus aided would be allowed to give their personal notes in exchange. Each person would be sold enough seed to plant sixty acres, and feed for enough stock to cultivate the land.

Power Dam Attracts Many Unemployed

LLANO, Feb. 24.—Hopeful unemployed men have virtually overrun Llano and Burnet with the beginning of preliminary work on the Hamilton power dam, although it will be many weeks before additional labor will be needed.

Officials said the situation had become alarming, and even should the major portion of the work begin immediately hundreds of itinerant workers would not be absorbed.

Tourist camps, parks and even vacant lots and houses are furnishing places for the jobless to camp.

BREAD PRICES SLUMP

NEWCASTLE, Eng., Feb. 24.—Bread prices slumped to prewar level here recently when the price of the two-pound loaf was reduced to 7 cents.

Absence of Frost Is Anticipated

DALLAS, Feb. 24.—Though temperatures of from 34 to 48 degrees were predicted for most of Texas tonight the United States weather bureau was confident that wind and clouds would prevent frost and that the east Texas fruit crops would not be endangered.

HUGE WATER DISTRICT IS PROVIDED FOR

AUSTIN, Feb. 24.—A master conservation district for the lower Rio Grande valley with an ultimate view to irrigation power dams in the Rio Grande, is provided for in a bill offered in the Texas senate today by Senator Archie Parr.

The proposed district will take in Cameron, Hidalgo, Willacy and Starr counties.

Power to contract with the United States and its departments is provided for in the bill, thus opening the way to participation in international agreement for utilizing the flood waters of the international boundary stream.

J. B. Farmer Better After Operation

J. B. Farmer, agent for the American Railway Express here, was reported today to be improving after an operation for acute appendicitis performed at the Graham sanitarium Saturday evening.

Two members of the family of E. N. Thompson of Midland, Texas, severely injured when the car in which the family was riding because of faulty steering gear and overturned Saturday night six miles east of Cisco, were treated at the Graham sanitarium. Mrs. Thompson received a deep laceration on the head and her daughter, Geneva, a broken shoulder blade. Mr. Thompson and two other children were not injured.

The patients were able to proceed to Stephenville Sunday. C. R. Tomlin, 5-year-old Nimrod boy, is under treatment at the Graham sanitarium for a broken leg received when a companion at play fell upon him yesterday.

Mrs. H. B. Hackleman is a patient at the sanitarium.

TWO BANDITS FRIGHTENED FROM BANK

Leaps Into Room as Guns of Pair Menace Her

REDWATER, Feb. 24.—Presence of mind and bravery of a girl employee of the Guaranty Bond State bank here today prevented the robbery of the bank by two unmasked men. Posses from Texarkana and Redwater were believed closing in on the pair between here and Texarkana shortly after noon.

The men fled from the bank after the girl Miss Eura Langston, 20, leaped into a room and defied the bandits even after one of the men stuck his revolver through a window and threatened to fire.

Losing their nerve the two bandits turned from the bank and fled to their automobile which they had left with the motor running at the curb. They did not obtain any loot.

The bandits entered the village bank at 11 a. m. They leveled revolvers at Miss Langston and R. W. Hanks, cashier of the bank, who is recovering from pistol wounds received early in December from the guns of an abductor.

Door Locked "Stick 'em up! We want that money," Hanks said one of the men declared as they entered.

Hanks and the girl raised their hands. One of the men attempted to enter the cage, finding the door locked.

"Come open this door," the man commanded the girl.

Miss Langston walked toward the door as if to open it but instead leaped quickly into a little room. Hanks remained standing, hands up in the middle of the floor.

One of the bandits went into a little window opening into the room in which the girl hid. He stuck his revolver through the window and threatened to fire if the girl did not emerge. She did not answer him.

The other robber, who had been standing near the front, became frightened.

"Come on, let's get out of here," he said.

The other turned and they ran to their automobile, speeding toward Texarkana.

Deputy to Assist With Tax Reports

For the convenience of those who are required to file federal income tax returns, a deputy collector of internal revenue will be in Cisco at the First National bank March 5th, to assist taxpayers in filing their returns, it was announced today.

No charge will be made for this service. Income tax returns for the calendar year 1930 must be filed not later than March 15, 1931 with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer resides or has his principal place of business, it was pointed out.

MOTOR TRUCK HEARINGS TO BE RESUMED

AUSTIN, Feb. 24.—Uncompleted hearings on a group of motor truck regulatory bills will be resumed this afternoon before a joint session of the highways and motor traffic committees of the Texas house and senate.

Consideration of the bills began yesterday afternoon and continued until 10:30 last night. It was indicated that many more persons wished to be heard.

There was a dramatic moment at the night hearing when Mrs. T. F. Wood of San Antonio, addressed the committee pleading for more safety regulation. "I am here," she said, "because the lives of my two daughters were taken when a large truck cut through our car for which it left insufficient room on the road."

"Many people in east Texas are for prohibiting trucks altogether," said Myron Blalock of Marshall, appearing for the east Texas chamber of commerce. Blalock said that at a series of east Texas meetings there had been a demand voiced for stringent regulations.

BOY RECOVERS

Leonard Gale Lavender, 6-year-old Pioneer boy who was injured in highway accident near his home several weeks ago is recovering rapidly from the effects of his injuries at the Graham sanitarium.

IS IMPROVING

Mrs. Frank Sikes, of Albany, who underwent a major operation at the Graham sanitarium Saturday, is improving rapidly.

GIRL STRIKER IS KILLED WHEN VIOLENCE FLARES IN WALKOUT

GORMAN MAN NEW DISTRICT BANKER HEAD

O. P. Newberry, of Gorman, was elected president of the seventh district of the Texas Bankers association at the district convention which closed yesterday in Fort Worth. Mr. Newberry, who is president of the First National bank at Gorman. He succeeds W. R. Keeble, of Abilene.

Rail Development Boon to Santa Fe

SANTA FE, Feb. 24.—Panhandle railroad development is making a town of this point which hitherto was little different from the other land within 30 miles of Dalhart. Santa Fe will have three railroads, a roundhouse, division offices and a 16-track switchyard, according to its neighbors.

The Santa Fe railroad has purchased 1000 acres of land at the crossing of its Amarillo-Las Animas line with the Dalhart-Morse line of the Rock Island. At the crossing will be the town of Santa Fe. A townsite already has been staked and bunk houses built. A station has been erected and foundations are being laid for the roundhouse.

Railroad officials say that no sales, leases or contracts will be made by the railroad until streets in the new town have been graded and curbs and gutters installed.

LITERATURE FOR C. M. T. CAMPS HERE

Literature and application blanks for the annual Citizens Military Training Camps have been received by Mayor Williamson. Any young man between the ages of 17 and 24 who is interested in securing admission to one of the camps may secure full information from or file application with the mayor.

Four courses of instruction are offered but each candidate must first have passed the basic course, age limits for admission to which are from 17 to 24 years. Successive courses have correspondingly higher age limits up to 31 years.

Detailed information on regulations governing the camps and other facts may be secured from the mayor.

There are five camps in the eighth corps area which includes Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. They, and the dates upon which they will open, are: Fort Bliss, Texas, June 5; Camp Bullis, Texas, June 19; Fort Logan, Colorado, June 19; Fort Sill, Oklahoma, July 2; Camp S. D. Little, Arizona, July 24.

A PLACE FOR THE INSANE.

Texas needs an institution for the care of its criminally insane and it is the duty of the legislature to provide such a place.

In a report filed on the condition of state institutions for the insane Representative Helen Moore of Texas City and Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo and Senator W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales recommends to the legislature that the criminally insane now scattered among the various institutions be put into one hospital built inside the walled grounds of the state penitentiary. This committee recommended two additional doctors for each state hospital in order that patients may have closer observation and the employment of dietitians, farm managers and dairy husbands.

Speaking of the "disgrace of Texas," need of additional buildings to take care of an increasing number of patients was pointed out. Statistics reveal that insane persons were being held in jail in 168 counties in October, 1930, because of the lack of room in state hospitals.

Why should insane persons be confined in jails that are built not for people unfortunately diseased but for the incarceration of criminals? Texas is one of the richest of the southern and southwestern commonwealths. Is it a crime to be insane? Why should a person whose only crime is that his or her mind is afflicted, be tried like a felon, subjected to abuses that not even savages would offer one afflicted with other types of physical ailments?

Before final adjournment the lawmakers should remove the "disgrace" from Texas by appropriating the funds to provide comfortable quarters for the unfortunates of the commonwealth who are being cared for as criminals are cared for within the walls of a jail.

"TOO FAR" IN 1912.

Back in 1912 George F. Baker, one of the most prominent banking executives, said that he believed the centralization of money and credit had gone far enough and the situation was not entirely comfortable for a great country to be in.

What has happened since then? Centralization has gone further and further. Giant business corporations have been built up, and in banking circles concentration has become more pronounced.
 In almost every realm one or two large corporations are predominant, and the smaller, independent groups are negligible and unimportant.

American prosperity has succeeded in furnishing us with the greatest collection of billionaires and multi-millionaires that we have ever had, but the fruits of this prosperous age have not been so generally distributed as to prevent a terrible depression just as soon as laboring men and women were temporarily left without their weekly or monthly wage.

If concentration was "far enough" in 1912, where is it today? Scrambled eggs can not be unscrambled was the challenge of a great trust executive some years ago. Unfortunately, in this country, we have not yet reached a stage of sufficient wisdom that a majority of the people are keen enough to prevent further scrambling.

A GLOOMY OUTLOOK.

Outlook for an embargo or tariff upon foreign crude at this time is a gloomy one since the house ways and means committee yesterday voted to postpone action on all tariff and embargo measures because "there would not be sufficient time during the remainder of the session for the consideration" of bills of this character. Democratic Leader John Garner's efforts to exempt oil from this action was overridden. The committee's action, in effect, kills oil legislation at this time and leaves the independents without the relief sought at least until the next congress assembles.

Unless the supporters of the measure are successful in gaining support of republican leaders and forcing a reconsideration by the committee the case of the independent oil men is practically hopeless at this time. A direct appeal to President Hoover will be made as a part of the effort to secure this reconsideration.

But, while those opposed to oil legislation of this character have been successful in halting consideration of pending measures, this success is temporary. It is predicted that the issue will assume greater and greater proportions until congress will be forced to either meet or mollify the demands in the not distant future.

OTHER OPINIONS

HYPOTHECATING TEXAS' FUTURE

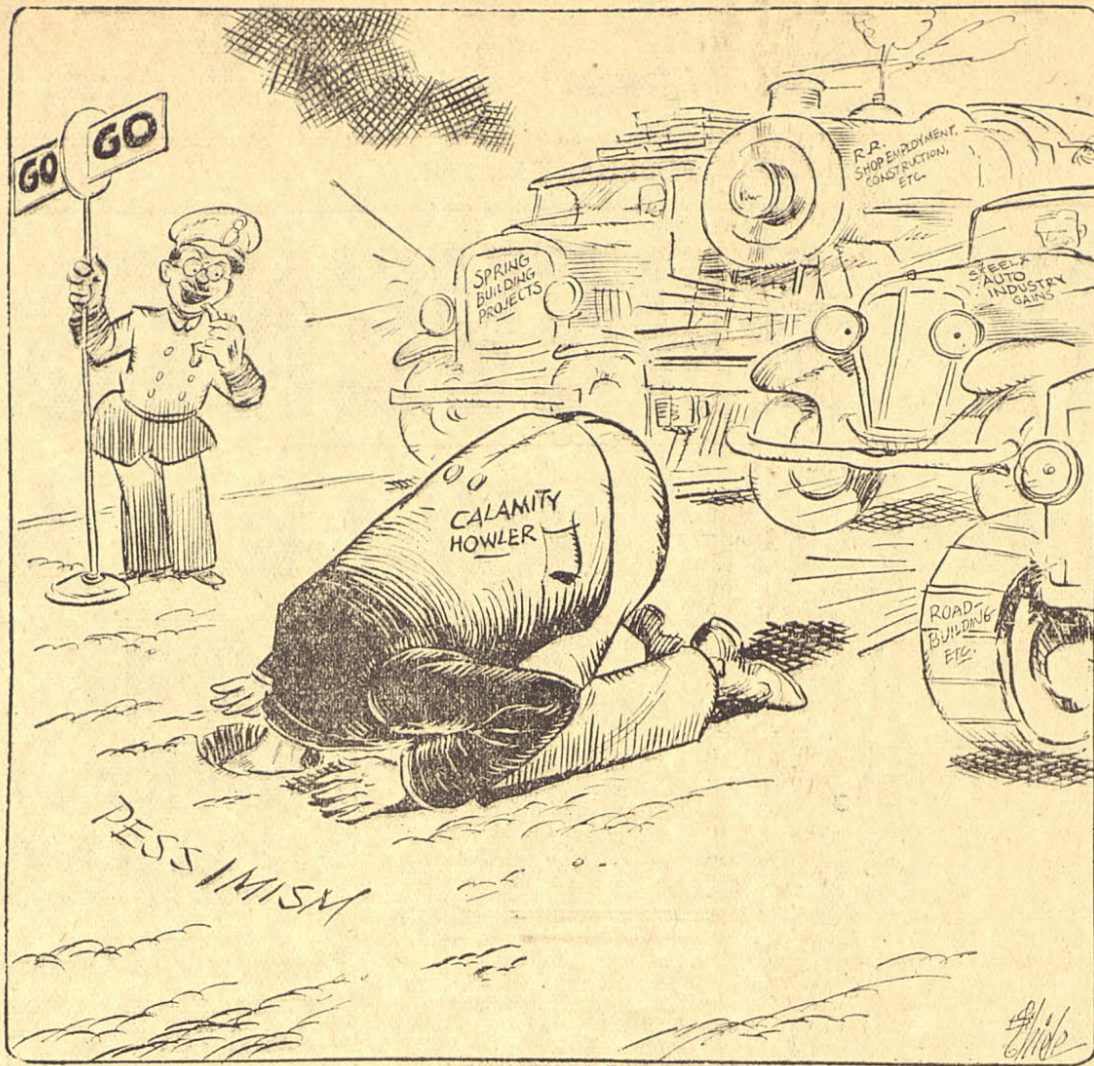

If any considerable number of the tax bills offered to the 42nd legislature were enacted into law, Texas, literally, would be taxing herself out of the picture of Southern progress and development.

It is understandable that a great and growing state, such as Texas, would experience more than ordinary difficulty in finding funds wherewith to maintain a government that daily grows more complex and more expensive. It is understandable that, in their extremity, the men who must find ways and means of raising this money would turn to enterprises which, at the moment, appear to be prosperous and prospering.

 But the years have demonstrated that methods of expediency are seldom constructive.

In his inaugural address, Gov. Sterling warned against legislation which might be construed as driving established industry out of the state, against legislation which might detour southward looking industry into other states. In the mad drive for funds, however, there is danger that this sound warning may be disregarded.

All Right, Everybody! Step on It!

There are in Texas certain industries which already have been taxed to the limits of safety. There are others which, to this time, have entirely escaped such taxation. It is the duty of the legislature, therefore, not to pursue to the bitter end these sources of tax revenue which have already been tapped, but to discover new sources of revenue—to equalize and distribute evenly the burden of the cost of government.

Better still, it is the duty of the legislature to devise ways and means of reducing the cost of government, to effect measures of economy and efficiency in government which will minimize the tax burden all up and down the line. With the type of men now in control of the machinery of government, such a policy is not only desirable but practicable.

With such a policy espoused by the Texas legislature and the Texas executive, there is the certainty that enough new industry will be brought into the state to produce, even upon the old ad valorem basis the additional revenues which expanding government must find. This policy, too, has the advantage of building the state's commerce and industry, rather than penalizing and driving it from our borders.

Let's guard against the chance that we may tax ourselves out of the picture of prosperity and progress. Let's build rather than destroy. Let's inject into the tax policy of Texas not only a system but a system of equity and fairness. Let's remember that it is "What Texas makes, makes Texas." Let's make 1931 a Texas year.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
 Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Donald Murray, editor of the Jonesboro (Ark.) Tribune, says:

"This problem of depression has reached the point where we can no longer expect intelligent people to cling to the ethereal phantasies that it's only psychological condition. The pangs of hunger are not a psychological reaction, such as anger, fear, or courage—they are a material condition affecting those suffering them most vitally."

"The programs of propaganda combating the psychological phases of the depression have done no end of good, but it is not enough to print reams and reams of newspaper copy telling people to cheer up, it's all in fun, when they see friends and neighbors, prosperous under ordinary circumstances, dependent upon the Red Cross and other relief agencies for their sustenance."

"The America of today confronts a problem to which ages and ages of inattention have added. It is a social problem, a legal problem, not a psychological problem. The people of this great country of ours are willing enough to spend their money, they were too willing to spend when they didn't have it, and this willingness has added its bit to the present condition."

"Rather should we be surveying conditions with a view to improving them and to preventing a recurrence of the present precarious state of affairs. The problem is one of a more equitable distribution of the wealth of this great country. Why should people starve to death with thousands of bushels of grains in the store-houses of our nation? This condition really exists."

"The people who have sponsored the propaganda to 'buy now,' 'build now,' and 'spend now' have done so with the best of intentions and their work has gone a long way toward relieving the temporary panic, but this problem is one in which basic causes, existing over a period of years, must be considered, and the rehabilitation that must come if we are to continue as a prosperous people must be attained to that information."

Clear Explanations
 With all intimacy and informality of a close friend revealing her favorite secrets in her own kitchen, Mrs. Garret strips the perplexities and worries of cooking from this most ancient of arts, and in a clear graphic manner discusses entertainingly with her listeners, the development of balanced menus based on intimate knowledge of the scientific calculation of food values in various items, recipes of the world's most famous chefs; the essential virtues of tried and tested nationally advertised food products and above all, extends a personal, intimate interest in every housewife's problems by inviting their questions, either from the floor or at the end of the class, when she will endeavor to work out for each individual woman desiring to counsel with her, the little items that transform what otherwise could be drudgery, into one of the most fascinating and exact of the arts.

There is every indication that Mrs. Garret's forthcoming appearance will inaugurate a new era of higher cooking standards and greater home happiness, for the housewife and the general health of the family circle. Daily News, through its women's department, wishes to extend to every housewife in Cisco and vicinity, an invitation devoid of strings or qualifications, to attend not one, but all of Mrs. Garret's illuminating discourses. Subjects fascinating to the feminine heart, make up each of her interesting daily presentations, and while there is a unity running through all five, each day's subject is entirely different from that of the preceding day. Admission is free and without charge. The lectures will begin promptly at 2:30. In order to expedite seating, it is urged that as many as possible arrive before this hour in order that there may be a minimum of disturbance trying to find places.

 CONOCO TRAVEL BUREAU Denver, Colorado.

THREE stock cars from three price classes went through six weeks of testing on Pike's Peak. Three nationally known oils were used in comparison with Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil. All of the testing was directly supervised by the American Automobile Association.

At the end of six weeks the AAA took the more than ten thousand observations, then issued a report of the outcome. The report stated that in the Pike's Peak Tests Conoco Motor Oil had shown a reduction of 76.4% in the rate of motor wear . . . that it had shown greater stability . . . had lowered frictional temperatures . . . increased compression pressures . . . reduced oil consumption . . . added to gasoline mileage . . . reduced crankcase dilution . . . lengthened motor life.

No higher authority could have been called upon to prove the merits of Germ-Processed oil. No more sweeping commendation could have been asked for. The complete story of the Pike's Peak tests is told in an attractive booklet. We'll gladly send you a copy upon your request mailed to "Conoco, Ponca City, Oklahoma" . . . or you can obtain it at stations showing the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle when you go there to change to Germ-Processed oil, as thousands of other motorists are doing every day.

Use of Telephones Grows in Italy

ROME, Feb. 24. — Although Italy occupies a low position, the 22nd in the list of telephone-using nations, great steps have been made in popularizing and extending the last few years.

There are still, however, only 0.8 telephones per 100 inhabitants in Italy, as against 16.3 telephones in the United States, 4.6 in Germany, 3.8 in Great Britain, and 2.3 in France.

In five years of private industrial organization of the telephone service in Italy, the number of subscribers has been more than doubled. When private enterprise took over the telephone lines in July 1925, the number of subscribers was 127,333 whereas at the end of June, 1930, the total had reached 272,815. It is calculated that the number at present is over 300,000.

In 1925, in Lombardy and Piedmont, the two regions of Italy with the greatest number of telephone users, only two cities, Milan and Turin had an automatic telephone service. The number of subscribers in both cities total only 40,000. Today there are over 115,000 automatic telephones in use in Turin and Milan. In the Rome province and zone there are 74,000.

In Piedmont and Lombardy, there are 100,410 telephone subscribers; 74,000 in the Rome region; 36,066 in South Italy; 30,621 in Abruzzi Molise and the central Adriatic zone; and 26,000 in the Venice provinces.

BRANCH RICKEY, former manager of the St. Louis Browns and one of baseball's master minds, once pulled a boner that might have gone unnoticed but for the sharp-witted Clyde Milan. Before a game with Washington, Rickey turned in a lineup to the umpire, with Bobby Wallace batting seventh and Jimmy Austin batting eighth. On another lineup he kept in the dugout, these two positions were reversed, so Austin and Wallace were batting out of order. The first two times at bat the pair were easy outs. But his next time up Wallace doubled and sent two runners over the plate. Milan, Washington's manager, trotted in from center and called the umpire's attention to the mixup. Wallace was declared out, the runners were sent back and the game was saved for Washington.

CRACKS IN THE DOME

AUSTIN, Feb. 24.—Priority in water rights is now a fact. The policy of preserving permanent first claim to cities for domestic and municipal uses, and the next claim to irrigation is one which is now following, according to Chairman John A. Norris. This policy subordinates appropriations for power purposes to both these claims. The same principle is proposed in a bill by Senator Walter C. Woodward now pending which has the approval of both Gov. Ross S. Sterling and former Gov. Dan Moody. Chairman Norris has not studied the bill; however, he not only agrees with the principle involved but already has it in effect as a policy. Senator Woodward sees to substitute a law for the discretion given the board of water engineers so that if first permits prove inadequate, intervening power permits shall never bar a city or irrigation district from increased takings. Emphasis was given the fact that the policy and the bill agree in principle. The bill followed the Brownwood irrigation district controversy, where the irrigation people fought the entry of the Insull power interests upon the Colorado river above Austin. It is known that a large number of desirable irrigation reservoir sites exist along Texas streams, and that development would be encouraged by topographic surveys pointing them out. Also, it is known that some of these would be destroyed in the absence of a complete mapping by improper location of others. Now a bill is pending in the house to allow the taxing of all impounded water at 2 cents per acre-foot to build up a fund to pay for operations of the state board of water engineers. One of the main costs of this board is to map out the topography of desirable water storage sites along Texas streams. The bill apparently would call attention to land owners in many areas to potentialities of great value in irrigation, right at their doors. Rep. Walter Beck, introducing his constitutional amendment to allow counties that want to adopt the home rule powers held by cities, inserted an arbitrary minimum of 150,000 population for counties to be benefited. This bottom limit is subject to change, Mr. Beck has said. Counties of from 40,000 to 150,000

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer. WASHINGTON—People with an appetite for atrocity stories can always get them from some part of the world and now they are getting them from Poland. The reports come from what seem to be reliable authority and are completely denied by Dictator Joseph Pilsudski's representative here, Polish Ambassador Tytus Filipowicz. "One trouble with atrocity stories is that, much as everyone likes to believe them, they are likely to be exaggerated. The other trouble is that they are always officially denied, en toto, whether true, false or only partly true. If Mr. Filipowicz, for instance, were to admit that there had been any Polish atrocities against the Ukrainians in eastern Galicia, as is being widely charged, he presumably would be recalled to Warsaw, fired and incarcerated in Marshal Pilsudski's great big hoosgow at Brest Litovsk. Urge Investigation. The Ukrainian members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom recently asked their international office to send a commission of inquiry into Galicia to investigate terroristic methods used by the Polish cavalry and police against the Ukrainian minority. Mary Sheepshanks, the international secretary, and Frau Oppenheim of Austria made the investigation and turned in a report which appears to reveal the most widespread campaign of atrocity perpetrated in many years. This began in October and continued up to the elections on Nov. 15. It was at about the same time that Pilsudski was throwing some of his most important political enemies into jail. The women found populations terrorized and peasants and workmen still suffering from frightful beatings inflicted two months previously, but they were able to find witnesses who dared talk. By government command, they report, somewhere between 500 and 800 villages were raided by cavalry and police. Hundreds, and "perhaps several thousand," were brutally bogged.

GYPSY MOTH WAR RUNS INTO MANY MILLIONS

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE, United Press Staff Correspondent. ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 24. — When a few fuzzy little caterpillars escaped from a scientist at Medford, Mass., 62 years ago they started on a march of devastation that has cost New England states $100,000,000. A relentless war is now being waged in the Hudson and Champlain valleys to prevent the ravagers from invading the rest of the country. The New York Conservation Department, in announcing the enormous loss suffered by New England in devastated forest, fruit and shade trees, warned that a new infestation of gypsy moths, which grow from the little caterpillars, has just been discovered in the town of Milan, Dutchess county, a few miles west of the Connecticut state line. A barrier zone has been set up to block the pests' advance, with department scouts and exterminators on constant vigilance. This year Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt recommended that the annual appropriation for the insect war be doubled, so as to serve the dual purpose of strengthening the state's forces against the ever-increasing horde and to provide extra jobs for unemployed, and it is being done. The appropriation this year will be $8,000. Conservation Commissioner Henry McGehean, Jr., has asked federal authorities for increased assistance in cleaning up the heavily infested area in New England. It is hoped 000—at least a dozen in this bracket, will have representatives ask the legislature to lower the bar to allow them the same discretion as the large-city counties, it is known.

Mr. Beck has said that savings under the plan in the large counties only of Texas each year would amount to the total state ad valorem tax collected on the minimum 35-cent tax rate.

Rep. Lee Satterwhite is disappointed at attempts to allocate between Texas and New Mexico the waters, available for irrigation, of the Pecos river. Now he has introduced a bill to repeal the former authority for an interstate compact, and he has asked Attorney James V. Alfred to bring suit in United States supreme court to compel the other state to give Texas recognition in the division of the water of this stream.

It was suggested the legislature go to Laredo for the Washington's birthday celebration "and to see a bull fight."

"Why not bring the bull up here and let it see the legislature?" was the inquiry of Rep. E. M. Davis of Brownwood.

the federal appropriation also will be doubled.

The invasion began in 1869 when a few of the insects which Leopold Trouvelot was cross-breeding with silkworms immune to certain diseases, accidentally escaped. Although Trouvelot notified the proper authorities, no attention was paid the matter until 20 years later when ravages of the pests, which Trouvelot had imported from Europe, began to cause general alarm. In 1890 the Massachusetts legislature took official cognizance of the menace and spent $1,000,000 during the following ten years in a futile effort to halt the advance. Since then the monetary loss has multiplied 100 times, according to the New York officials.

FOR GINGER'S SAKE

by ETHEL HUESTON
©1930 THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

To keep life from growing too dull in Red Thrush, Iowa, Ginger Ella Tolliver, daughter of a minister and stepdaughter of the wealthy and indulgent former Phil Van Doorn, organized a Junior Country Club.

Bard Holloway, a young artist who was both in and out of the country, stopped in Red Thrush. Attracted by Ginger, he agreed to stay and paint portraits and decorate the clubhouse. He suggested sending to Chicago for Nicola Caleno, who could cook and sing and strum a guitar.

But Nicola could not come. In his place came three of his countrymen. Angelo could play; Pietro could cook; Benito could sing. Ginger took them on. Beginning to realize he was in love with Ginger, Bard suggested leaving. But Phil persuaded him to stay longer as their guest, and she wrote to Speed Roney, a former friend of Ginger's, and invited him. She felt he would give Bard some competition.

Ginger met this move by inviting Patty Sears to take care of Speed. When Speed wired that he was bringing his sister she also persuaded Eddy Jackson to come, and Eddy decided to hang things up by keeping Ginger and Bard separated. This he did. Speed's sister's nickname was Cotton. Eddy devilishly contrived to keep her and Bard together while he stuck with Speed. Everyone had a miserable time.

Meanwhile, Benito had made a trip to Chicago and returned with presents for all and a plan to kidnap Ginger and hold her for ransom. He bided his time cut at Mill Rush, site of the club, and waited for his opportunity.

When Speed Roney, not knowing how matters stood, told Bard that Ginger never really loved him, he was engaged. Bard determined to leave. And at that point of the proceedings Ginger disappeared. Shortly afterwards a note was found, containing instructions and a demand for $30,000. Phil immediately wired to Chicago for the money and a pair of private detectives.

interest was to get Ginger back uninjured. These preliminaries attended to, Marker said he would like to hurry out to the scene of operations and they got at once into the car. On the way, however, he asked her where they were obliged to wait for 30 minutes while he wrote and dispatched a dozen or more telegrams.

The group at Mill Rush was impatiently awaiting their arrival, and with them the three Italians, timid, ill at ease, humiliated by the obvious suspicions against them but nervously anxious for human companionship.

Marker spoke to each of them and had a brief recital of the day's events as concerned each one, when last he had seen Ginger, what he had been occupied with at the time of her disappearance, how the intervening hours had been spent. In the 10 accounts there was not one word of dissent or agreement.

"Well," he said briskly, "why don't you all go to bed now? Holt and I will have a quiet look around by ourselves, and you will need some rest. There's nothing to be done tonight. But we'll keep watch and if anything turns up we'll call you. And if you hear any noises, don't be scared. We'll just do a little private exploring."

Certainly they had slight inclination for sleep, but as Phil joined her advice to the detectives, they paired off reluctantly to separate rooms, Patty and Cotton sharing one together.

Almost before the break of day, Marker called Eddy Jackson and asked him to drive in to town and bring out the answers to his telegrams, and a few minutes later, disturbed by the confusion of voices and the starting of the motor, the entire group reassembled downstairs, peering out into the misty gray morning, wondering where Ginger had lain her head that night.

Pietro hastened to serve them with strong hot coffee and light rolls. Angelo assisting, while Benito, evidently wounded to the heart, brooded alone and would neither eat nor drink.

When Eddy came back with the sheaf of telegrams Marker went off by himself to look them over. There was an air of satisfaction about him when he rejoined them at the table.

"Finish your coffee," he said, "but stick around. I've got a lot of questions to get off my chest and I'll want all of you. You, too," he turned to the Italians with a suddenness that sent a cup spinning from the nervous hand of little Angelo. "I want all of you."

Hurriedly they finished their coffee, feeling that something gravely portentous lay just ahead for the detective's manner indicated purpose.

"Just sit down," said Marker. "Don't get uneasy. We've got a big rickmole to go through, and it'll take time. All right, you first," he said briskly, turning to Speed. "What do you say your name is?"

"Roney," said Speed promptly. "Lane Roney. They call me Speed."

"You say you know him?" He turned to Mr. Tolliver.

"Yes. He was out here several years ago."

"It's really Roney, is it? You can positively identify him."

"Why, of course," chorused half a dozen voices. "We've known him for years. Of course it's Speed."

He turned with great suddenness upon Cotton.

"Why to his sister?"

"Why—yes."

"What's your name?"

"Cotton—Roney." Cotton was pale but composed.

"Why did you hesitate between the words?"

"Did I—hesitate?"

Speed sprang to his feet.

"Sit down," ordered the detective. "Stay away from her. Are you his sister?"

"Why—yes," she whispered.

"Do you know her, too?" asked Marker curtly of Mr. Tolliver.

Phil crossed quickly and stood beside Cotton. She took her hand kindly with her own. "We have not known Cotton long," she said gently. "She came here last week with her brother, and has been out guest since then. We like her very much indeed, and trust her implicitly."

"Well, I wouldn't trust her too far," said the detective. "You really are his sister?" he repeated insistently.

"Y-yes—" "No," she said suddenly. "I'm not his sister." She covered her white face with one hand. "Let me tell the truth, Speed. I'm not his sister."

The detective laughed. "So I heard. No, Mrs. Tolliver, she is not the young man's sister. The young man's sister is at home in Massachusetts. This woman is an impostor."

marker was annoyed that Phil insisted upon keeping the $30,000 available for instant payment, and that she adhered to her determination to pay it over on demand without a moment's delay. He explained in vain that it was his policy as a good detective to catch the criminals first and get the victim afterward, this allowing more money—and more credit—for his professional skill. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIV

"It seems weeks," said Patty faintly. "And it was only this morning."

"Lots can happen in a day," said Phil cheerily, but she added at once brightly, "and lots can happen in a night, too. Perhaps she will be with us for breakfast."

After what seemed interminable waiting, it was time to drive in to the station to meet the midnight train, and Phil decided that she and Mr. Tolliver should go alone to give their first instructions to the detectives and make clear their determination to accede to the demands of the abductors.

Huddled in an anxious group, others watched them driving swiftly down the lane and then turned nervously back to the brightness of the big room.

"We seem so—few—without Ginger," said Patty timidly.

Both Phil and Mr. Tolliver were favorably impressed by the detectives, Marker and Holt. They were quiet in manner, rather unobtrusive than otherwise, extremely business-like.

Marker said they would like as much advance information as possible before meeting the others of the household, and they drove out to Doornedee for a conference.

Phil gave a brief account of what had happened, described the general layout of the establishment at Mill Rush, and, at Marker's request, gave him a written list of Ginger's guests, names and addresses, and of the servants.

With Pat and Eddy, known to the Tollivers from childhood, he was quickly satisfied, and showed little interest in blind Benny and his wife, but of all the strangers, guests as well as servants, he asked searching questions and took the names of every one known to be connected with any of them.

Phil's efficient habits proved useful then, for she was quickly able to oblige him, giving Speed's father in Massachusetts and the references Bard had given when he first came, which she had not hesitated to investigate. She turned over to him, with the references of the Italians, the answers she had received to her letters of inquiry.

Marker was frank to say that his offhand suspicions lay with Benito, Angelo and Pietro.

"I regret to say that we suspect them, too," admitted Phil reluctantly, "but it is only because they are foreigners. They are devoted to Ginger, they love their work, and are heartbroken at our suspicions."

"Also," added Mr. Tolliver fairly, "remember that they have been surrounded all the time by five wide-awake young people, and have had no chance to make trouble."

"Accomplices, likely," said Marker.

"Of the three, I suppose Pietro is most to be suspected," said Phil. "He is a silent, taciturn person, and the boys have had to watch him incessantly to restrain him from turning the club into a speak-easy."

Marker was annoyed that Phil insisted upon keeping the $30,000 available for instant payment, and that she adhered to her determination to pay it over on demand without a moment's delay. TEXAS TOPICS

By RALMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Feb. 24—Chain-store monopoly in the buying of eggs for shipment was charged as a probable effect of the standard egg grade bill, sponsored by farm members in the house by Tom Miller, Austin produce dealer. The house agriculture committee debated whether a farmer will make more selling eggs if the market is restricted, and he is required to produce only first quality eggs, than under present conditions. It ended in just about a tie.

Rep. Eugene V. Giles, author of the bill, was backed by A. & M. college experts and by dealers. They made a plea against leaving Texas a dumping ground for inferior eggs, finding no market in states with inspection.

The surprising thing about the egg business was that Texas imports quantities of eggs from other states.

The bill, as does many others, provides for a new group of state licenses, to all those dealing in eggs in quantities of over one crate, and levies a license fee to cover administration.

Gov. Sterling complimented these engaged in a publicity stunt, in which a name of considerable prominence was involved, that they had their thoughts turned toward another kind of "likker" than that occupying so many people's.

State officials will attend and take part in the state cattlemen's convention in Corpus Christi in March. The session will come just at a time when the legislature is to consider the funds it must spend for experiment station work in dairying; in college appropriations for animal husbandry; and in the tick eradication work of the livestock sanitary commission. Livestock men are supporting the fullest measure of effective work for all these.

Those who come to Austin to oppose certain types of taxes, as provided in pending bills this year are being invited to "offer a better plan" along with their arguments against those proposed in the bills.

Members have indicated they will not be satisfied with the old argument of "don't disturb things as they are," but are convinced that some measures, such as may be found the most satisfactory, are to be adopted at this session. The warning of "ruining the state" appearing does not sound quite as terrifying as before economic experiences of late months.

STATE SOLONS TO AID CHILD WELFARE WORK

AUSTIN, Feb. 24—A comprehensive child welfare legislative program, containing provisions for a division of child welfare of the state board of control and the amendment of existing statutes affecting mothers' pensions and adoptions, had advanced toward final action in the legislature today.

Sponsored by an unofficial committee headed by William Struss, Hicken insurance man and philanthropist the program has the endorsement of the American Legion; the Federation of Women's clubs; the Parent-Teacher association of Texas and various chambers of commerce and civil authorities.

The child welfare division is provided for under a bill by Senator Carl Hardin, of Stephenville. A permanent organization working under the board of control, it would create under the direction of an experienced welfare worker and a corps of assistants trained particularly in child welfare.

Enforcement of all existing laws protecting unfortunate children would be one of the main purposes of the division it would be granted authority to create in each county a child welfare board, composed of three members, the county boards to co-operate with county commissioners and other agencies handling juvenile cases.

Under a bill by Senator Walter Woodul, of Houston, mothers of children under 16 years of age would be enabled to secure pensions not only for themselves, but $20 monthly for each child. Not only widows would benefit, but mothers who had been abandoned or whose husbands were confined in insane asylums or penitentiaries.

The purpose of the provision is to enable mothers to rear their children at home instead of being forced to place them in institutions.

Another bill by Senator Woodul would create a better system of adopting children, one designed to provide for closer supervision of adoptions and to insure the protection of the adopted child's interests. Senator Woodul pointed out that present statutes governing adoptions are out of date, since they fail to provide for any supervision of adoptions or protect the adopted child's interests. Under the bill the adopted child would share in his foster parent's estate.

Coat of Arms for Texas Is Designed

AUSTIN, Feb. 24—Designs for a coat of arms for Texas will be presented to the legislature soon by a committee from the Alamo Chapter of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas of San Antonio, according to Mrs. Mattie Austin Hatcher, architect at the University of Texas library, with whom the committee conferred in checking the accuracy of the drawings. This committee, composed of Mrs. Fannie G. Applewhite, Mrs. Otis M. Farnsworth, Mrs. E. O. Saratt and Miss Anna Ellis, all of San Antonio, designed the coat of arms, and checked the historical references in the University archives.

The proposed coat of arms which will be recommended includes in its design the six flags under which Texas has served, those of France, Spain, Mexico, Texas, the Confederacy and the United States arranged around a shield bearing inscriptions of the three outstanding battles in the fight for Texas Independence—the Alamo, represented by a picture of the present structure, Gonzales, represented by a cannon, and San Jacinto, shown by the San Jacinto bridge. Beneath the shield is the inscription, "Texas One and Indivisible," while a blazing Lone Star surmounts the heraldic emblem.

AUTOS TO USE RAIL TUNNEL AND BRIDGE

By JAMES C. FEITZER
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24. — A tunnel and bridge which marked the entry of the Wabash railroad system into Pittsburgh 25 years ago and precipitated one of the outstanding railroad battles, will be re-vamped for use of automobiles.

County commissioners have unanimously approved a bond issue for purchase of the tunnel and bridge for $3,000,000 from the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad. It will be converted into a new traffic route to South Hills suburbs if voters approve.

Sale, however, does not indicate the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, present owner of the tunnel, is abandoning the Pittsburgh field. Other facilities will be arranged for their terminal here and the company, with completion of the new $15,000,000 extension to Connelville, Pa., is preparing for even greater business.

Long Fight
 The Wabash interests, headed by George J. Gould, succeeded in entering Pittsburgh only after a long, hard fight. Several months' struggle was necessary to get a charter grant from city council.

Millions of dollars were spent in building the road, but the expected profits were not realized.

Since the Taplin brothers of Cleveland acquired the Pittsburgh and West Virginia several years ago, they have pushed projected plans for a new Erie to Baltimore route. This through the Great Lakes, would provide a new route for traffic from the Northwest to tidewater at Baltimore.

Old Dream
 The Connells extension gives the P. and W. Va., connection with the Western Maryland at Connelville. The P. and W. Va., already has connected with the Wheeling and Lake Erie at Pittsburgh Junction. Through acquisition of the two lines, for which the P. and W. Va., has applications before the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Taplins might realize a dream of years.

Pittsburgh and West Virginia is fighting to establish such a system in the face of double odds. The proposed plan of the Interstate Commerce Commission would assign the P. and W. Va., to the Wabash system along with the Wheeling and Lake Erie, to establish a new short route from St. Louis to New York and a fifth eastern trunk system.

The proposed four-trunk line system of the leading eastern railroad executives would assign the P. and W. Va., to the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and Chesapeake and Ohio, as a "bridge" line.

Siamese Royalty to Visit Incognito

When King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambai Barni of Siam, here shown in their latest photos, visit the United States in April for an operation on the ruler's eyes, they will travel under the titles of Prince and Princess Sukhothai. But their majesties are to drop their incognito for their visit to President Hoover and other officials, and during the King's convalescence expect to travel in Canada before returning to their country. In their party will be the Queen's parents, Prince and Princess Svasti.

Says Spies May Have Been Guilty

The archives of the department of justice in Washington which recently revealed the activities of German espionage agents in California, have thrown an additional cloud of uncertainty on the guilt of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, both serving life sentences for the San Francisco Preparedness day bomb tragedy of 1916.

While it is possible that Mooney and Billings are guilty of having caused the bomb explosion which killed ten persons and maimed forty others, it is equally possible and much more likely that the atrocity was committed by German espionage agents, according to Sidney Sutherland, well known journalist and author.

Mr. Sutherland discusses the Mooney-Billings case in a new series of articles he has written for Liberty Magazine in which he reveals many hitherto unpublished facts concerning the espionage warfare that Germany waged against neutral America.

"It is possible that Mooney and Billings are wasting their lives in prison for a horrible crime they did not commit; but which it is highly probable was committed by one or more of the German agents then running amuck in California," writes Mr. Sutherland.

"There was a club of about 15 Germans who worked as longshoremen and had access to all ships and waterfront warehouses. If a good bomb could be made these Germans could easily plant it, to explode later when it would be difficult, if not impossible, to trace its origin.

"A bomb was presently created. The whole bomb could be fitted into a thermos bottle—or in a three-inch pipe, such as was used in the Preparedness Day bomb! Also the bomb which wrecked the Preparedness Parade and sent Mooney and Billings to prison for life was a time-bomb enclosed in a cheap, old suitcase and left on a side street a few paces from Market street, where the parade was taking place.

"When Horst von der Goltz, a German agent, and his accomplices took 300 pounds of dynamite from the Dupont barge anchored near the Statute of Liberty in New York harbor, they bought old, second-hand suitcases from a pawnshop to carry the explosive with which they planned to destroy the Welland Canal.

"And the manufacture of time-bombs certainly was a more constantly practiced art with the Germans than with Mooney and his labor agitators, as accomplished as the latter were in making and using such clew - destroying devices.

"Few of these facts could have been even suspected by the Mooney defense committee which has tried for fourteen years to get Mooney out of prison; or been known to anybody until the secret archives of the department of justice in Washington, D. C., yielded the affidavits and evidence to the American lawyers prosecuting the $400,000,000 Black Tom and Kingsland suits against Germany."

Mileys Honor Visitor

Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Miley gave a reception Monday evening in their attractive home to Rev. C. C. Maple of Elyria, Ohio.

Rev. Maple stopped in Cisco to visit the Mileys on his way home from spending the winter in California. It was just three years ago this month that he visited the Mileys in their home in Union City, Tenn.

Misses Nona Mayhew and Leona Myrtle Miley served individual chocolate cakes and punch throughout the evening.

Although Mr. Maple has been in Texas a number of times, this was his first visit to Cisco. He was very much pleased with the city and was very happy to meet a number of Cisco people.

Among the guests was Rev. Tom Lennex, former pastor of the First Christian church of this city, now of Corsicana.

TO BE POOR, AND TO SEEM POOR, IS A CERTAIN METHOD NEVER TO RISE.

Any one of the English philosophers might have coined this phrase. It is a plain and simple truth, recognized in all walks of life.

The adage was composed by Goldsmith in "On Concealing Our Wants."

While it is not the portion of everyone to be rich, or to seem rich, any one of us may avoid being poor, or seeming to be poor, by starting and maintaining a bank account. It will grow for anyone with a regular income who is willing to practice self-denial to promote thrift.
