Insull Arrested in Greece for Probable Deportation

FLIGHT FROM EXTRADITION FRUSTRATED

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 10.—Samuel Insull, arrested here today for probable deportation to the United States, told Greek police he had lost personally $100,000,000 in the collapse of the Insull utilities interests in connection with which he and his brother Martin have been indicted at Chicago.

Insull said his losses were exclusive of those sustained by his wife and son. He claimed that his personal expenditures now were only $18,000 a year, the amount of pension voted him by his companies.

REPORT SON TOOK $75,000 IN TOLL

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The United Press learned today that the grand jury and the state's attorney's office were investigating a report that Samuel Insull, Jr., took $75,000 to his father when he visited the elder Insull in Paris.

ROAD SCANDALS DARKEN "MA'S" FIRST TERM

By GORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Miriam A. ("Ma") Ferguson's administration began with an era of good feeling. Proposed legislation against the Klan was toned down.

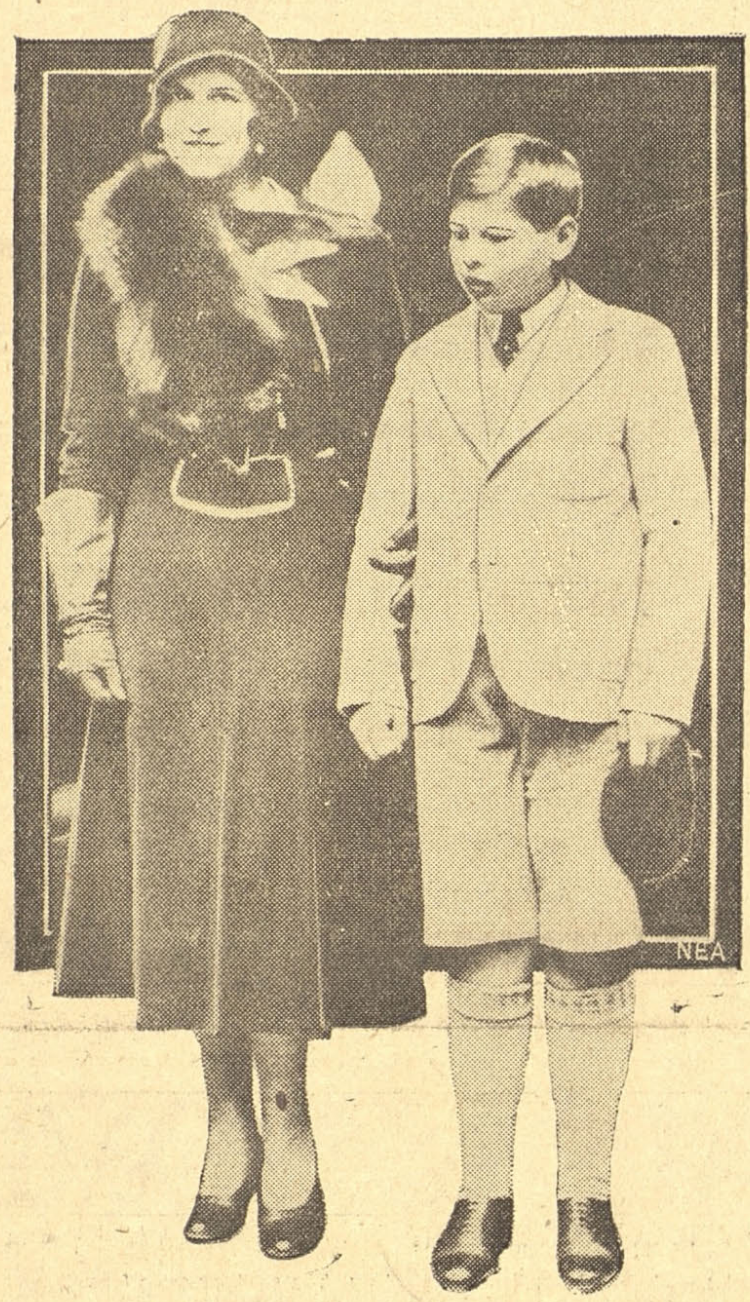

Ugly Rumors

Ugly rumors began to circulate. Texas newspapers, bound by the fetters of the Texas libel laws had to remain silent. A meeting of the county judges and county commissioners association was called for Amarillo. Kemp asked a hearing.

When Kemp finally took the floor at the Amarillo convention the story was on its way to the world.

Attorney-General Dan Moody already was suspicious. As a young lawyer, without funds, he had campaigned the state speaking from wagon boxes on town squares, and hitch-hiking, with old University friends from town to town.

Helene Fights King for Son

A mother's determination to see her son is responsible for the bitter quarrel between Princess Helene and her divorced husband, King Carol of Rumania, over little Crown Prince Michael, Princess Helene, in a public appeal for the moral support of the British people, charged that Carol would not permit her to see the boy when he was ill, and that Michael's visit to her in London has been curtailed because of sympathy given her there.

Amendment Seeks to Combine Offices Of County Assessor and Tax Collector

By GORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN, Oct. 10.—Elimination of a constitutional officer in counties under 20,000 population is the purpose of one of the constitutional amendments to be voted upon Nov. 8.

It is sought to accomplish this by combining the offices of tax assessor and tax collector.

Considerable confusion has arisen when such a combination would become effective if the amendment is adopted. Secretary Bob Barker of the state senate has made a check of the various stages of the joint resolution submitting the amendment and says it discloses the change would become effective in 1935.

The proposal really submits two amendments to the state constitution in one. It seeks to amend Section 14 of Article 8, and also to amend Section 1 or Article 8. The change in Section 14 merely provides for the dual office in place of the existing two offices of county tax assessor and county tax collector.

The amendment of Section 16 takes care of the counties of small population where the sheriff now acts as collector of taxes. Under the proposed change:

"The sheriff of each county in addition to his other duties shall be assessor and collector of taxes therefore; but in counties having 10,000 or more inhabitants, to be determined by the last preceding census of the United States, an assessor and collector of taxes shall be elected to hold office for two years and until his successor shall be elected and qualified."

The argument for the consolidation is, of course, fee and salary.

GROUP WILL FIX RELIEF APPLICATION

Representatives of governmental and relief agencies in Eastland county are meeting at Eastland this afternoon to estimate the probable amount of relief needed in the county during the coming winter and to prepare an application for an R. F. C. appropriation through the West Texas chamber of commerce and the governor of the state.

Participating in the meeting will be the county Red Cross committee, headed by J. E. Spencer, Cisco, as chairman; the three directors of the West Texas chamber of commerce in the county; the county judge and a committee from each of the towns in the county. Cora V. Schuman, field representative of the Red Cross in the county, will attend the meeting.

Each town will present data on local needs and an amount to be asked from the R. F. C. fund will be determined upon.

Father Sought As Infant's Slayer

OKEMAH, Okla., Oct. 10.—A young father, accused of killing his infant daughter by swinging her by the heels and dashing her head on the ground, was sought by possemen today.

The six-months-old child died today from the injuries which included a fractured skull.

H. A. Hall, 22-year-old farmer, seized the child from its mother's arms, a witness said. "If you won't live with me, you'll never see this baby alive again," he was quoted as saying. Then he dashed the child against the ground, throwing the body away from him.

REACTION TO STERLING BOLT IS AWAITED

AUSTIN, Oct. 10.—Reaction to Gov. R. S. Sterling's announcement he would bolt the democratic ticket and refuse to vote for Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson was awaited today by party leaders in Texas.

Whether Sterling's position will cause his followers to swing from Mrs. Ferguson to Orville Bullington, republican candidate, or to candidates of other parties was the question that climaxed the long court fight for the democratic nomination which ended Saturday in a decision favoring Mrs. Ferguson.

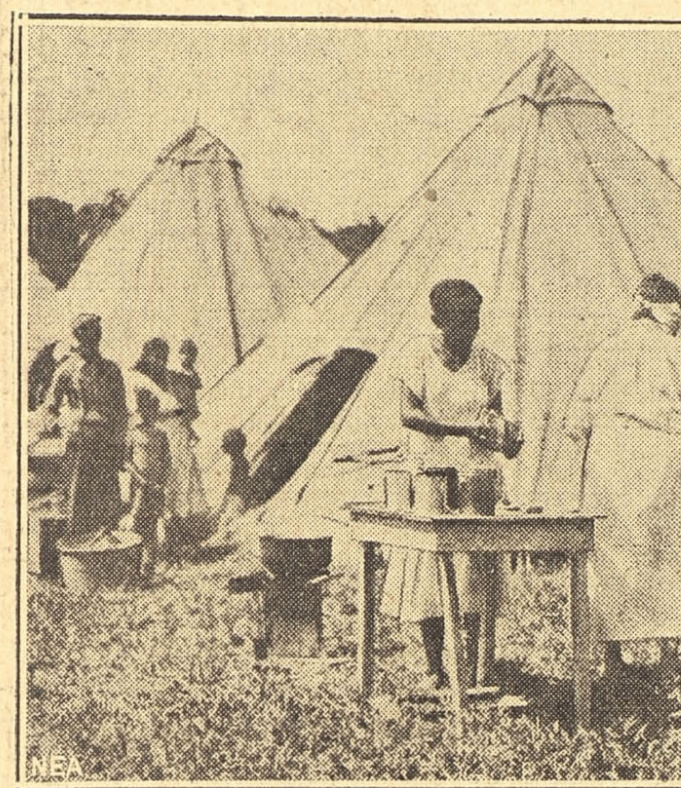

Sterling based his decision for bolting on the ground that former Gov. James E. Ferguson virtually would be governor if Mrs. Ferguson is elected.

"Knowing Jim Ferguson's record and having declared it to the people of Texas and having concern for my state, I would consider it an act of positive dishonor to cast my vote to put the government of Texas in his hands," Sterling said.

"I shall not be intimidated by the cry of 'bolter' or reference to party pledges. Fraud in the procuring of the nomination relieves me and all other democrats of any obligation to support the one declared to be the nominee of the primary."

STERLING ASSAILED AT EL PASO. EL PASO, Oct. 10.—El Paso democrats today assailed Gov. R. S. Sterling for his announcement that he will not support Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson.

Puerto Ricans in Emergency Camps

With a quarter of a million persons made homeless by the hurricane that swept over Puerto Rico, scenes like this are common in the devastated area. As soon as the storm had passed, with its toll of 212 dead and 2000 injured, relief agencies opened emergency camps to supply food and shelter.

OPPONENT FOR LOBOES IS NOT YET SECURED

Cisco will have a football game this week end, though it is not yet certain whom the Lobos will encounter, according to a statement from Coach Elkins this morning.

Clemo Ray, star quarterback of the Lobo squad, who was injured in the game with the Texas Rangers Friday afternoon is feeling somewhat better, Elkins said, but will not likely report for practice this week.

Ray suffered an injury of the neck when he stopped Townsend, galloping Ranger back, after the latter had taken a lateral pass and was making tracks in the general direction of the Cisco goal line.

Somewhat disappointed at the showing made by their charges Friday, the Cisco coaches are due to give them a week of heavy workouts before the next game. The Lobos showed a lack of ability to complete passes Friday, and will likely work on this phase of the game this week.

Elkins is anxious to get the matter of Cisco's eligibility to compete in the Interscholastic League settled. He says that as soon as the boys know what they are to do, they will settle down to a steady brand of football.

Bullington Will Continue Campaign

WEATHERFORD, Oct. 10.—Death of Mrs. Sarah Bullington, 73, mother of Orville Bullington, republican nominee for governor, will not stop his campaign for that office, it was announced here today.

Before her death, Bullington said, she requested that he continue his campaign.

Baptists to Open Training School

With an expected enrollment of between 40 and 50, the Baptist training school will open at 7 o'clock this evening, at the First Baptist church, according to Rev. E. S. James, pastor. The school will run throughout this week, closing Friday night.

Each evening there will be an hour of classes, a 15 minute intermission during which the pastor will address the group, and another hour of classes. Four classes will be taught by the following: C. S. Karkalis, J. R. Burnett, Mrs. J. R. Burnett, and Miss Wilma Mason.

SHARP DECLINE IS CAUSED BY HEAVY SELLING

In its weekly review of business and financial conditions the Wall Street Journal says: During the middle of the past week, heavy selling brought about sharp declines in leading issues. After one day of convalescence on Thursday, when the stock market showed only modest recuperative powers, the list sagged off again under renewed pressure.

The break in stocks was precipitated by an abrupt decline in wheat prices. Wall Street, looking for a stimulus to push stocks out of the narrow trading rut on the upside, had seized on the possibility of higher prices for wheat, and there had been numerous reports in the wheat market that heavy selling was about to disperse the heavy body of wheat broken sharply on Wednesday, stocks crumbled.

Some signs of a flattening out in the business pick-up also served to dampen enthusiasm for the long side of the market. While steel operations for the week ended Monday, according to the Dow-Jones compilation, were up slightly, the gain was not as large as had been hoped for.

Loading of individual railroads for the week ended October 1, generally showed wider declines from the like 1931 week than has occurred in weeks. While traffic generally was ahead of the previous week, the fact that the comparison with the similar week of 1931 turned less favorable served to bring selling into the rail shares. During the period when the market was swinging in a narrow range, the rails were extremely sluggish. They gave ground easily at the start of the decline.

Chain and mail order store sales for September, which appeared during the week, gave proof of the important gains in business scored in September over August. In a number of cases the gains over August, on a percentage basis, were the largest in the past five years.

Figures on electric output for the latest week were mildly better than those for the previous week, and the decline from the like 1931 week was smaller. So far, however, there has been no important pick-up in utility company earnings.

The first week in October witnessed a continuation of the upward trend of September, but with a slackening in the rate of gain.

ALLOWABLE IS NOW 804,798 BARRELS DAY

AUSTIN, Oct. 19.—New oil production limits were set for Texas oil fields by the state railroad commission here today, reducing the total allowable to 804,798 barrels a day.

On October 1 Texas' production was 922,160 barrels, the reduction being 117,352 barrels. Fast Texas was cut to 335,000 barrels for the field allowable and a 40-barrel well limit.

JURY BEING CHOSEN FOR ARNOLD CASE

BRECKENRIDGE, Oct. 10.—No juror had been selected at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the trial of Doye Arnold, 25, who is charged with murder in connection with the death of his former wife, Zelma Morgan Arnold, on a street corner here Sept. 10. The case went to trial this morning.

Part of the morning was spent in arguments upon a defense motion to disqualify all veniremen who had read copies of the Breckenridge American or Fort Worth Star Telegram in which accounts of charges against Arnold either in Stephens or Palo Pinto counties had appeared. Judge Hamlin denied the motion and the defense took exceptions.

Arnold is accused of killing his wife by stabbing her and then beating her over the head with a rock on a busy street corner here a short while after she had obtained a divorce. He had only lately been released from the penitentiary where he had served a sentence after conviction upon a automobile theft charge in this county.

Two alienists have been summoned as witnesses in the case. Dr. Charles W. Castner, head of the state hospital at Wichita Falls, has been subpoenaed by the state and Dr. D. T. Bass, superintendent of the epileptic colony at Abilene will appear on the stand for the defense. Several local physicians have likewise been subpoenaed.

One Killed When Scaffolding Falls

MT. VERNON, Texas, Oct. 10.—One man was killed by flying timbers and five others injured, one seriously, when a scaffold and framework of a cotton gin collapsed here today.

Leslie Eiter, 30, of Sherman, who was working on the ground was killed. All others working on the frame-work were injured when they fell to the ground.

YES, AIRMAIL IS SOARING.

An editorial from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat carries the news that "special delivery letters are declining and air mail soaring." Also, that the activities of postal speed competitors are in line with the post office department's newly inaugurated move to widen the use of air mail and further increase its efficiency. Special delivery was instituted many years ago. It is admitted that it served well and prospered through many seasons, being the only method by which a sales message could be passed on from one person to another faster than ordinary delivery could "leap the gap." "But air mail came as the competitor," declares the St. Louis newspaper. "It speeded up delivery of regular air mail between sending and receiving offices, something a special delivery stamp could not do. It could gain many hours and even days from writer to reader. Special delivery lost its advantage except as advantage may be gained in short distance and the chance of arrival after regular delivery of mail had closed for the day." Now the postoffice department says that the average number of special delivery letters handled by the department each fiscal year from 1924 through 1929 was about 95,000,000, with the highest peak in 1930, when more than 100,000,000 such letters were mailed. In 1931, however, the total dropped below the period average of 95,000,000 and during the 1931-32 fiscal year it fell 5,000,000,000 below the preceding year. Regardless of economic conditions, this is the verdict, "the fact remains, however, special delivery letters are declining and air mail is soaring" just as the ox cart faded away when it came in competition with the iron horse of the rail. This is a reminder we are living in a fast moving age with its new civilization and that old methods and old systems are fast fading out of the picture.

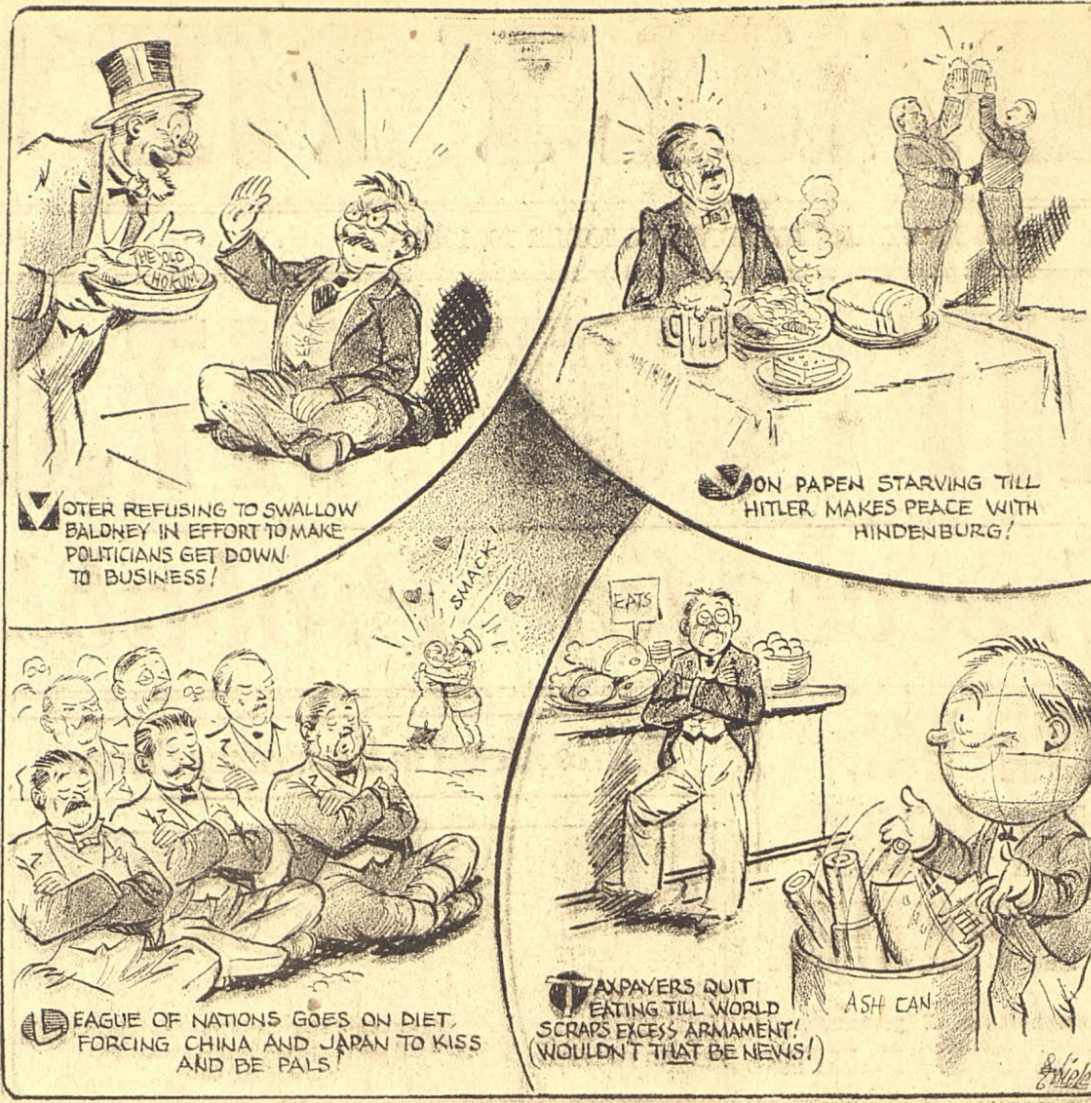

WHEAT SHIPMENTS ON THE WAY TO CHINA.

The head of the Farmers National Grain corporation predicts that grain shipments to China will start this month. That is, they will start in connection with the 15,000,000 bushel credit sale to the nationalist government of China if completion of financing arrangements for the sale has been made. There is a heavy wheat surplus in the United States. There is a heavier cotton surplus. Growers are interested. Artificial deals or artificial price fixing will not assist to any great extent the grain growers and the cotton growers unless the movement is continuous "both before and after November election day." There have been famine stricken districts in China. For centuries, year in and year out, there are famine stricken districts in China. It is an age old tale, but this is not an argument against American feeding of the victims of these famines on the credit plan. It pays to be generous in the long run and it pays to remember "that charity begins at home." Millions of Americans will face hunger this winter. America first. And then aid for the stricken in a world that appears to have lost its balance.

EILERS ROUNDS OUT 50 YEARS SERVICE.

Prof. William Eilers, rural school inspector for the state department of education, has rounded out 50 years service in the public schools. Commenting on the works of the professor, the Hallettsville New Era contributed a gripping news editorial praising his work in order "to pass flowers while he is still living." Just 50 years ago when Eilers was 18 years of age he began his school career by teaching the Mule springs public school, seven miles north of Hallettsville. According to the New Era he had a vast deal to do with the shaping of the mind and holding the character of the future citizens or this great state and especially of Lavaca county. He taught school 25 years; he was a clerk under Former State Supt. R. B. Cousins for four years; he served as county superintendent of Lavaca for eight years; and for nine years he had been rural school inspector under the late Supt. S. M. N. Marrs and his successors. In his latest work he has inspected 2900 schools in 122 counties. He has visited 20 other counties and made talks to the school children. He has spoken to about 125,000 school children during the nine years of service as rural instructor. In the year 1932 he has prepared valuable handbooks for superintendents and trustees. A marvelous record, to say the least. Fifty years devoted to educational work under the skies of Texas. Fifty years of loyal and efficient service given to the training of the hands and the development of the brains of the children of Texas. Why not flowers for the living?

deprive someone of the benefit of the law. One common-sense lawmaker, if alone, probably would work out a sensible, reasonable system. With two, one would have some radical idea to put in; with three, one would want to cover some particular condition he knew about. . . . and with 100, it seems impossible to write election laws — any kind of laws — that are reasonable, simple, certain, effective.

 Religion, it is said, must be felt to be understood. It is primarily a state of the heart. So far as the essential to its understanding is concerned, republicanism appears to be similar. Indeed, viewing the great number of its devotees, one appreciates the wisdom of the republican fathers in establishing no mental prerequisites to its membership. The above remarks are by way of preface to a reperussion from Curly Armstrong's recent flattery of the republicans in this column. Curly took his pencil in hand and spent several laborious hours inditing a few paragraphs of comment which this column did the honor of reproducing. Now comes a staunch defender in reply. W. J. arms of Morpheus. Just as grief seems overwhelming and "Ole Man River" the only solution, the realization bursts forth that, after all, I'm still a republican. My first impulse is to dial the radio to "The Spring Song", don a Gandhi garb, entwine a wreath about my feverish brow and leap into Terepichorean gyrations from the sheer joy of being a republican. "Curly states republicans in their dumb devotion to Herbert Hoover are likened to his little dog, when even after chastisement, crawls on its belly back to the master. Even this coarse and unethical comparison may possess merit and value. The writer has often wondered whence the origin of the expression "blue-bellied republicans." "Surely Curly, in the light of past national elections admits the force of those immortal words of Abraham Lincoln—"God must have liked the republicans, he made so many of them."

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, Oct. 10—Courts all over Texas will show huge dockets of hundreds of pending cases as the question comes up of abolishing 23 of the trial courts and spreading out the districts of others. It should be shown, too, that from 65 to 95 per cent of the cases are dormant and will never be tried. A similar test was made in a Central Texas district court two years ago. There were over 800 cases on the docket. During the preceding 12 months, 18 cases had been tried. Lawyers said of the 800 it was doubtful whether over 15 or 20 ever would be tried. Yet most of those 800 will appear on the docket now, when the question of redistributing courts comes up. The civil judicial advisory council has done a piece of research work that will be invaluable to the legislature, in finding out just how many cases each court has disposed of in a year, and of those finished, how many were contested. The average is approximately 70 cases each for the courts except these in large cities; and also for a good many of the big cities that have numerous courts. Take the incomprehensible, conflicting election laws . . . courts have extreme difficulty of determining what they mean, and great difficulty in construing them not to

But maybe we expect too much of the legislature, based on its records in such things as pension, fee and election enactments, not to mention conservation and tax remission.

and rest?" The little Spanish girl was very attractive and her voice was alluringly soft. Dona stepped inside and sank into the chair offered her. The cabin had two rooms, one a kitchen and living room, and the other a bedroom with two cots. Everything was clean and neatly arranged. A bright shawl hung from the image of a dancing girl occupying a little shelf in one corner. Dona could feel the romantic atmosphere of the place and she settled back with a sigh. "You ride far?" the Spanish girl asked. Her wide, dark eyes were fastened on Dona's riding boots and trousers. "Not so far, but I'm thirsty just the same." Dona met the dark eyes and decided that the little senorita was as attractive as any maid from old Sevilla. "I go for water. Excuse please!" The girl bowed and vanished out of a back door. Dona sat looking curiously about. An object caught her eye and held it. It was a buckskin glove such as most cowboys wear. The right glove. Dona's eyes narrowed and a queer stab that might have been jealousy went through her heart. She remembered that Stanley Black had worn no glove on his right hand. Dona caught herself up short. She had no right to criticize. He had never by the slightest word pledged himself. Still she had not thought of him as a man who would amuse himself with such a girl as the one who had just stepped outside. Her hostess returned with a pitcher and a glass. Dona drank deeply and gratefully. "Thank you," she murmured. The Spanish girl sat down and folded her hands. "You live here with your parents?" Dona asked. "With my father. He works for the timber company." A wide smile spread over the features of the girl. "I know many boys at the camp." "What is your name?" Dona asked absently. The glove on the floor beside the cot held her attention in spite of herself. "Rosa Trujillo." The Spanish girl noticed Dona's eyes on the glove. With a bluish she picked it up and put it on a little stand. "The handsome cowboy forgot his glove," she said naively. "The handsome cowboy from Blind River?" Dona prompted. "Yes, Miss. Will you come inside

They mounted the steps to the main building and Dona crossed to her father's room. Asper was sitting up and greeted her with a smile that held much of his old vigor. "Just as I expected! You two would desert an old man." "We'll make up for it by pestering you all day tomorrow," Dona promised.

SHE went to her room and began to get ready for the trip to Dean's. Dudley was busy in his room. The door was open and she could hear him splashing and spluttering as he washed up. Dona delayed as long as possible in her room and when she came out Dudley greeted her with a flourish. He struck a grim pose. "Young lady, it is almost five o'clock. Just for that you will wait and have dinner here with me!" Dona agreed readily enough. She suddenly discovered that she was hungry. They walked over to the dining cabin and entered. A crowd of timber men were eating noisily. The table woman led them to a small table aside from the crowd and they sat down. The noisy enter of the men died at their arrival. "I wonder if Dad will be able to travel tomorrow?" Dona spoke almost to herself. "What's your hurry?" Dudley interrupted. "I'm getting on fine with my sleuthing and it would be a shame to keep me from showing up to my bunch of roughnecks." "I'm afraid something will happen to upset him, Dud. He's an old man and we have to think of him first." Dona was suddenly eager to get away from Folly Mountain. Something had snapped the bond that held her. She would not have admitted that it was a cowboy's right-hand glove. She still believed Stanley Black would do as he said about Ball, but that did not seem to matter so much now. "Well, in that light, I guess you win." Dudley grinned and began a healthy attack upon the steak. The man who had charge of the company garage was leaving after having finished his meal. Dona beckoned him to the table. "Have my roaster at the main building in half an hour," she said. She accompanied the words with a smile. The mechanic nodded and walked on. Dona's eyes met Dudley's and they both smiled.

Two Amendments Aimed at Relief of Citizens Whose Taxes Are Delinquent

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Oct. 10.—Two amendments of particular interest to those who have become delinquent in payment of taxes are to be voted upon at the November election.

One proposes to give up claims to taxes that have gone delinquent for ten years. The other proposes to make it easier for a person whose property has been sold for taxes, to recover it.

No one knows definitely how much back taxes the state will abandon if the ten year limitation amendment is adopted.

Presuming the 1933 legislature would follow adoption of the amendment by promptly enabling legislation, the taxes due from 1923 back would be released. A report from 1885 to 1923 shows a total of $36,041,026.71 state ad valorem, state school, state pension and state poll taxes became delinquent. The amount of delinquent tax paid by years also was compiled. It varies from ten per cent of the amount that became delinquent in the same year to instances of payment of delinquent taxes offsetting half the change in section 13 of article VIII of the constitution, which said the redeeming owner shall have two years from the date of the tax sale deed to redeem his land upon payment of double the amount of money paid for the land at the tax sale.

The new provision which voters are asked to adopt reads: "Provision shall be made by the first legislature for the speedy sale, without the necessity of suit in court, of a sufficient portion of all lands and other property for the taxes due thereon, and ever year thereafter for the sale in like manner of all lands and other property upon which the taxes have not been paid and the deed of conveyance to the purchaser for all lands and other property thus sold shall be held to vest a good and perfect title in the purchaser or thereof subject to be impeached only for actual fraud; provided that the former owner shall within two years from the date of the filing for record of the purchaser's deed have the right to redeem the land on the following basis:

"(1) Within the first year of the redemption period upon payment of the amount of money paid for the land including $1 tax deed recording fee and costs paid plus not exceeding 25 per cent of the aggregate total.
"(2) Within the last year of the redemption period upon payment of the amount as in (1) plus not exceeding 50 per cent of the aggregate total."

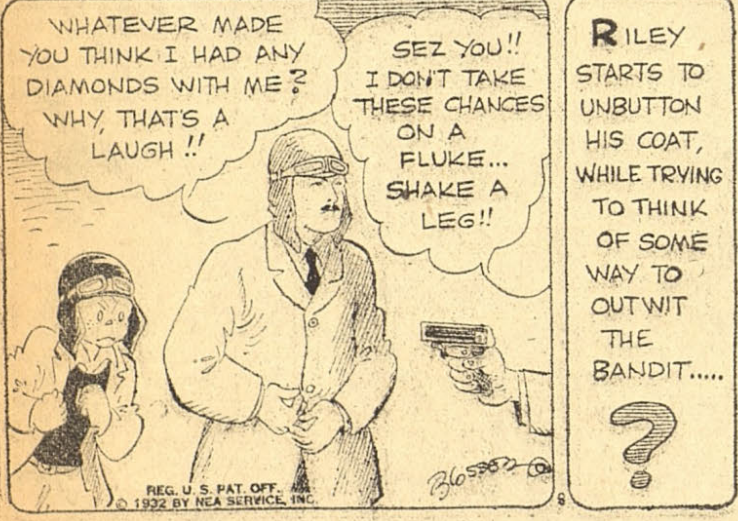

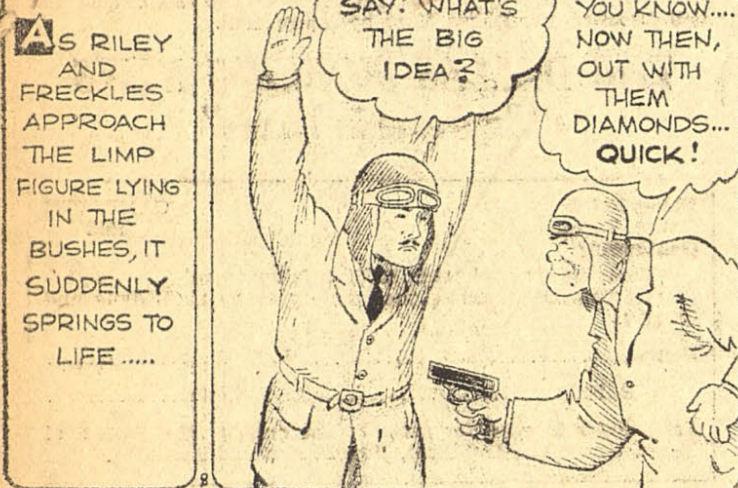

Both amendments are distinct from the tax penalty and interest remission statute of the recent special relief session of the legislature. That statute merely applies to taxes upon which delinquencies are paid before Dec. 31, 1932.

The constitutional amendments are to declare a permanent policy.

CENTER SHOWS ANOTHER PICTURE TAKEN AT THE GATE OF THE OLD HOMESTEAD, WHILE ON THE RIGHT HE IS SHAKING HANDS WITH DR. W. J. SPANKS OF POOLVILLE, WHO WENT ON MR. BULLINGTON'S NOTE TO GIVE HIM FUNDS WHEN HE STARTED TO NORMAL SCHOOL...

Orville Bullington, candidate for governor on the republican ticket, feels that he knows the problems of the farmer because of his early boyhood days spent on the farm shown above in Parker county, Texas.

Although his early training was on the farm where he did his "chores" the same as thousands of Texas boys have done, he has since become one of the leading lawyers of his section of the state. Residing in Wichita Falls, he became interested in the oil industry as it grew in North Texas, and became an independent operator, along with his law practice. It was because of his knowledge of the oil business, and the problems of the independent operator, that he went to Washington with his friends, Tom Hunter, and fought for six weeks for the passage of the Capper bill to limit the importation of cheap foreign oil when thousands of independent operators and oil workers were suffering.

Farmer and the oil men, and having been active in progressive government for many years Mr. Bullington feels that this experience will be of great benefit to him if honored with the governorship of this state. He is basing his platform upon lowering of taxes, political reforms, protection of the farmer, independent oil operator and small merchant, the relief of unemployment, and a sweeping reduction in the cost of operating all branches of government.

Let Us Proudly Display the Fruits of Our Forefathers' Building

"My ambition has been to succeed in redeeming Texas from its wilderness state by means of the plow alone, in spreading over it North American population, enterprise and intelligence."—(Letter from Stephen F. Austin to William H. W. Barton, April 24, 1829.)

"The Province of Texas will be the richest State in our Union without exception."

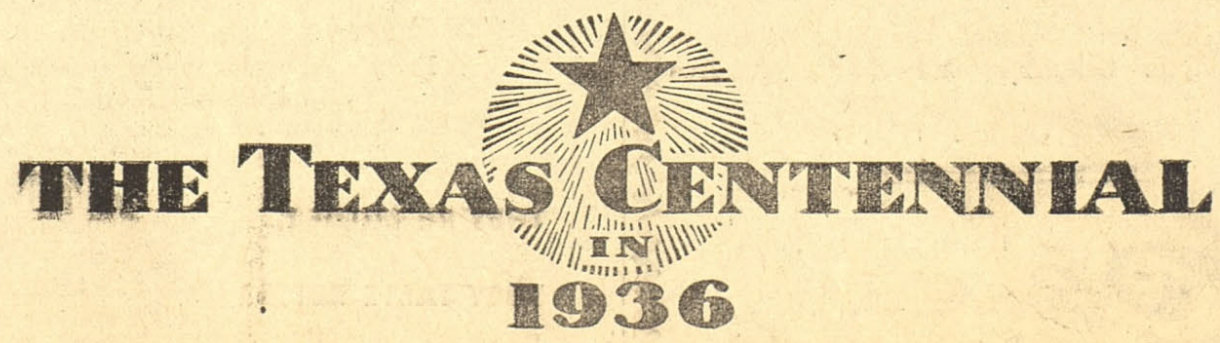

This prophecy was made by the author of the American Declaration of Independence (Thomas Jefferson) before Americans had begun to colonize Texas. It was found in a letter dated May 14th, 1820, which Jefferson had written to President Monroe.

The year Jefferson wrote that letter to Monroe, Stephen F. Austin began the colonization of Texas. "My object is to build up for the present as well as for future generations," wrote Austin. "I think I derived more satisfaction from the view of flourishing farms springing up in this wilderness than military or political chieftains do from the retrospect of their victorious campaigns."

Texas was founded by builders. Under Austin's leadership they laid the foundations in the wilderness, and under the leadership of Sam Houston they won their independence, in order that they might build in freedom.

One hundred years of freedom will be completed in 1936. A century of building has made the Texas of today. But Jefferson's prediction has not yet been fulfilled. We have inherited this great undertaking from our forefathers. Let us rededicate ourselves to the task of carrying it forward by observing the Centennial of Texas independence in a manner worthy of our traditions.

Doctors Give Creosote For Dangerous Coughs

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creosolium with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops all coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creosolium is powerful in the treatment of all colds and coughs no matter how long standing, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creosolium by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creosolium as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creosolium on hand for instant use. (adv.)

T. P. Reduces Rates To State Fair

DALLAS, Oct. 10.—Drastically reduced round trip fares which will permit residents of Cisco and vicinity to visit the State Fair of Texas for the lowest travel cost in history are announced by Frank Jensen, general passenger agent of the Texas and Pacific railway. The round trip fare from the Texas and Pacific from Cisco to Dallas and return, on three week-ends while the State Fair is in progress will be only $2.25.

Tickets are now on sale for this movement but will be good only on Texas and Pacific trains arriving in Dallas on Sunday mornings, October 9, 16 and 23 and returning the same night, Mr. Jensen said. In addition to this remarkable rate reduction, the Texas and Pacific is offering other attractive daily and week-end rates to Dallas during the State Fair.

This year's State Fair promises to be one of the most widely attended in history. Not only have many new attractions been added, but prices also have been considerably reduced.

Road Scandals--

by a former friend who said he wanted to contribute $1,000 to offset the expense Moody had been under in the campaign. Moody turned down the offer and kept alert for a motive.

He began investigation of the highway contracts and records. Suits were filed against the Hoffman Construction company and the American Road company. More than $1,000,000 was paid back to the state, and contracts cancelled.

The highway department had sided with the contractors. The governor employed counsel to represent them.

Lines, already close drawn between the governor and her administration's attorney-general, became more taut. Moody's friends propose he run for governor. He held off.

One Saturday afternoon he walked into the capitol press room at Austin. He handed correspondents a pencilled announcement for governor, written on the train between Dallas and Austin.

High Lights.

High lights of the campaign were the highway contracts, pardons issued by Mrs. Ferguson, employment held by former Governor Ferguson while Mrs. Ferguson was executive, writing of highway contract surety bonds by a relative agent of a surety concern.

Moody led at the first primary with 409,732 votes. Mrs. Ferguson had 283,482.

Moody missed by a few hundred votes the majority required under the Texas primary law to obviate a run-off.

In the run-off, Mrs. Ferguson received 13,000 less votes than she had in the first primary. Moody swelled his total to nearly 496,000, and he won at the fall general election.

At Moody's outdoor inaugural on the steps of the state capitol, Mrs. Ferguson delivered her farewell: "I congratulate Mr. Moody upon his election," she said. "His election as a 33-year-old governor was about as novel as my election as a woman governor. Time alone will prove if the people have acted wisely in either instance."

She retired to a home built in Enfield on a site purchased by friends, overlooking Austin and the state capitol. An early act of the legislature under the Moody administration was to repeal the amnesty act.

NAME REVIVED.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The name of Henry Cabot Lodge, formerly for some 45 years associated with American politics, again has been injected into public affairs. In the recent Massachusetts primary election, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., grandson of the late famed statesman, won the Republican nomination for state representative in the 15th Essex district. The elder Lodge was elected to the lower house in 1880.

Don't let Anyone kid you

He-men like 'em Mild

You might think that a two-fisted fellow like the steel jack in the picture would like his tobacco strong. Not at all.

He wants his cigarettes mild and that's why he picks Chesterfields.

Mildness doesn't mean a smoke that's weak or flat or insipid or anything like that. In fact it's just the reverse. Two-fisted fellows as well as anyone else—men and women—want a cigarette that's mild... one that satisfies—and that's Chesterfield.

We believe that every smoker is looking for a cigarette without any "bite" or bitterness, and a cigarette that has a pleasing taste—and that's Chesterfield.
