STERLING IMPEACHMENT PLANNED

Decision in Cisco Football Case to Be Given Monday

ARGUMENTS ARE HEARD SATURDAY

Whether or not Cisco Lobos will be restored to the Interscholastic League is a question that is expected to be answered in 91st district court at Eastland Monday morning at 10 o'clock. That is the hour set by Judge Geo. L. Davenport for handing down his decision in the case after arguments by attorneys that consumed the entire day Saturday.

The case which originally went to trial before a jury on September 7, came early last week to a point where Judge Davenport was petitioned by each side to render a judgment. Both plaintiff and defendant filed motions for judgment by the court soon after a jury reported itself hopelessly deadlocked and was discharged Tuesday afternoon.

Judge Davenport set 9 o'clock Saturday morning as the hour for arguments to be presented. Attorneys argued throughout the day concluding shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Judge Davenport then announced he was undecided as to what judgment he should render and announced that he would take until Monday morning at 10 o'clock to make up his mind and hand down a decision.

The suit was brought by the Cisco Independent School district to set aside a mandate of the state committee of the Interscholastic League barring the Lobos from League football this season for alleged infraction of the rules, and to recover damages in the sum of $10,000 from the district committee for losses which the school will sustain because of the suspension.

Two officers were wounded one fatally, and a bandit suspect was killed. The two policemen, who escaped injury in the exchange of more than 75 shots, rushed their wounded companions to a hospital here, organized a new posse and began pursuit of the bandit suspects.

Criminal Deputy Sheriff Webster Reed, 44, died in a hospital here shortly after the fight. Night Police Chief Frank Edwards was shot through the neck, the bullet lodging near the spine after passing through his opened mouth. The dead suspect was left lying beside an abandoned automobile. He was identified as Buddy McLain, 27.

Air Crash Survivor Rescued in Wilderness

The sole survivor of an airplane's crash in the mountains 127 miles east of El Paso, Texas, had to be carried nine miles through country so rough that rescuers could get into it only on foot or on horseback. The injured man, George A. Davidson of Richmond, Calif., is shown on the special cot which was wheeled and carried through the wild country. On the horse behind him is Dr. Felix Miller, who led the rescue party. Three men, including the two pilots, were burned to death when the plane struck the side of a mountain.

BUILDING IN 37 CITIES IS UP SLIGHTLY

AUSTIN, Sept. 17.—Building permits awarded in 37 of the leading cities of the state totaled $1,324,715 during the month of August, according to reports by chambers of commerce direct to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. While this total was 3.6 per cent larger than that for July, the average gain between July and August during the five years from 1927 through 1931 was 31 per cent. As compared with the total for August a year ago, building permits in the month just past were 69 per cent smaller.

Twenty of the cities included issued a higher dollar value of permits during August than in the previous month; although most of the increases were insignificant in terms of actual dollar value of the permits issued, notable among the gains were those at El Paso (367 per cent), Tyler (235 per cent), Houston (36 per cent), and Dallas (27 per cent). Unusually large declines at Austin, Fort Worth, Galveston, Longview, and Plainview probably accounted for the small net increase in permits issued during August as compared with the previous month.

Total construction contracts awarded in Texas during August, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation were valued at $5,562,600, of which $664,700 was for residential building, $1,606,700 for non-residential building, $2,966,100 for public works, and $325,100 for public utilities; in August a year ago, total construction contracts awarded were valued at $11,586,500, of which $1,819,000 was for residential building, $2,579,300 for non-residential building, $4,527,700 for public works, and $2,661,700 for public utilities. According to this same authority, total construction contracts awarded in the 37 Eastern States totaled $133,988,100 in August as compared with $233,106,100 in the corresponding month a year ago.

No change in the downward course of building costs occurred in August, as shown by indexes of wholesale material prices and of wage rates.

BOND RELIEF BILL SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, Sept. 17. — Gov. R. S. Sterling today signed the road bond bill, enabling the state to assume payment of county and district road bonds. The act became effective on signature.

The governor sent a message to both houses congratulating them on their "splendid work," and stating he "assumed" the legislature would complete its work today.

AMOUNT OF RELIEF TO BE DETERMINED.

Eastland county officials Saturday were unable to say definitely what part of the county's road bond debt would be lifted from the shoulders of the tax-payers by the action of the legislature in diverting part of the gasoline tax to reimburse the counties for current funds applied to payment of the bonds expended on state roads.

County Judge Clyde L. Garrett, told the Daily News that the county commissioners court hopes to be able to reduce the entire county tax levy to $1 or at least no more than $1.10. This would entail a reduction of 55 or 45 cents.

He was unable to say Saturday morning when the court would convene to definitely fix the tax rate. All levies—except those for payment of the county road bonds—have been fixed. Tentatively the court fixed the road bond levy at $1.

"We have not received a copy of the bill," said Garrett, and he will not be in a position to take any definite action until we have checked all its provisions. It is not possible now to tell whether certain warrants and refunding bonds included in county expenditures on state highways will be assumed by the state. We are of the opinion they are.

"We hope to be able to reduce the tentative $1 levy to 40 or 50 cents so that the entire county levy will be $1, possibly lower, or in any event not more than $1.10. The present levy, including the $1 tentatively fixed for road bond payments, is $1.55."

County Auditor Michael III at his home Saturday, was unable to resort to the records at his office for any specific information.

He estimated roughly, however, that approximately $2,000,000 — or about two-thirds — of the county road bond issue would be lifted by the bill. Bonds expended for rights-of-way are not subject to being taken over by the state. The auditor carries this sum in an overhead account of $195,000 and could not give the exact figure from memory.

ENROLLMENT AT RANDOLPH ON INCREASE

Enrollment at Randolph college at the end of the first week is 30 per cent more than the enrollment at the end of the corresponding period last year, it was announced. New students are enrolling every day and many more are expected to be added to the student body this week it was said. Dr. John W. Tyndall and H. R. Garrett are busy each afternoon rounding up other students, and six or eight more have definitely promised to enroll Monday.

The plan of the college for accepting produce, cattle, hogs and other farm products in payment for tuition is meeting with a favorable response. This year to a greater extent than before students from nearby towns are driving in each day to meet classes. Another feature helping to attract new students is the opportunity afforded by the college for students to form clubs and "batches." These students bring food from home and do their own work, thus enabling them to cut living expenses.

A number of boys are already taking advantage of the method and Friday a mother and her two daughters from Coleman moved into a cottage adjacent to the college. With six or more other girls they will occupy the house and form their own boarding club under the supervision of the mother.

COMM'N ADOPTS BASIS UPON WHICH TO EFFECT BOND PLAN

The city commission Friday night approached a basis upon which further efforts toward a solution of the city's bonded debt problem can be projected by adopting a resolution committing the commission to the proposition that Cisco should do everything reasonably within its power to effect a settlement.

The resolution took the form of an agreement that, with approval of the qualified voters of the city, Cisco will put into effect service rates for water, sewer service, sanitary services and garbage collection commensurate with averages now charged by cities in Texas similarly situated. It also pledged the commission to reduction of municipal expenses, and to the application of all net revenues to the retirement of the public debt.

Determination of proper utility rates is essential in arriving at estimates of revenue upon which a debt refunding program can be based. Recommendations for revision of the city's present system of charges were contained in the report of the revenue survey made by R. G. Waggener, of the firm of Wood, Powell and Waggener, Dallas, consulting engineers. With these recommendations the commission was not in thorough agreement and the resolution passed Friday night set up a committee to cooperate with Mr. Waggener in determining what would be equitable rates from a study of charges made by cities situated as Cisco.

Named Committee.

The resolution offered by Comm'r Elliott and seconded by Comm'r Burnett, was unanimously passed. Comm'r Elliott, Burnett and Clements were named the committee to determine equitable rate schedules for services administered by the city. The resolution provided that the effectiveness of these schedules would be postponed until the voters have authorized bonds to refund the existing funded debt of the city; and also authorized Dunne, Davidson, Ransan Co. to negotiate with bondholders for refunding the debt, subject to the action of the citizens in election.

No Pajamas in This Judge's Court

FORT WORTH, Sept. 17. — Pajama-sued defendants are not permitted in Judge Dave McGee's court. When R. L. Coble notified the judge he had only his "nightie" in which to answer charges of swindling, the judge postponed the hearing.

Officers hope Erath county authorities are not so "snickly" over pajamas. Coble's wanted in Stephenville on swindling charges, police said.

The bandits slowed their automobile down three miles north of Naravisa, forcing Miss Leona Schultz and Jim Burns, their prisoners, to jump from the machine. Neither was injured.

The bandit trio was believed headed toward Texas.

HOUSE CALL ON 10 POINTS CIRCULATED

AUSTIN, Sept. 17. — Removal of Gov. Ross Sterling by impeachment was planned in the Texas house of representatives today.

Members circulated a proclamation calling an impeachment session of the house for November 10, two days after the general election. The proclamation requires signature by 76 representatives either by those re-elected or by new members of the 43rd legislature.

About 20 members have signified readiness to sign the call. Rep. W. E. Pope, Corpus Christi, said today. Members of the 43rd legislature cannot act officially until after their formal election in November.

Strangely enough the same law passed to regulate the legislative session that inquired into the conduct of former Gov. James E. Ferguson is now being invoked to investigate the official acts of his political enemy, Gov. Sterling.

Ten topics are named for investigation in the proclamation seeking the impeachment session.

10 Topics.

No. 1—Reasons for martial law in East Texas and the methods employed by troops sent into peaceful and lawabiding communities.

No. 2—Status of the Humble Oil company and other companies in state affairs.

No. 3—Transactions of Gov. Ross Sterling with the state banking department.

No. 4—Transactions of Gov. Sterling with banks or institutions with reference to violation of state or federal law, or "conduct justifying the pains and penalties of impeachment."

No. 5—Expenditures of the state highway department and the status of its employees before, during and since the primaries of 1932.

No. 6—Gov. Sterling's campaign expenditures.

No. 7—The use of state employees' time or the use of stamps, stationery, fuel, automobile or other means of transportation belonging to the state of Texas in Sterling's campaign for reelection.

No. 8—Any promises made by any state department agent or employe intended to influence voters in the primaries of 1932.

No. 9—Alleged intended effort to debauch the judiciary for political purposes.

No. 10—To return articles of impeachment, if cause for removal from office develops from such investigation.

WILL NOT WITHDRAW CONTENT OF ELECTION.

DALLAS, Sept. 17. — Faced with the threat of an impeachment session, supporters of Gov. Sterling will not withdraw their contest of the run-off primary in district court at Austin, District Attorney Sam McCorkle, of Mexia, said here today.

HOUSE REFUSES TO ADJOURN.

AUSTIN, Sept. 17.—The house of representatives refused to adjourn today by a vote of 83 to 44 after a warning by Rep. T. H. McGregor, Ferguson leader, that the house ought not to adjourn until after the "atmosphere cleared" so there would be "no need to call the members back."

"You ought to stay in session several days because you do not know what is going to happen," McGregor said.

Slain Woman May Have Seen Grave

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Sept. 17. — Mrs. Edith Dubois heard and possibly watched her husband dig the sub-cellar grave in which her own body was found a few hours after he solved a five-weeks mystery by killing himself, a letter revealed today.

Not many days before the 40-year-old wife of Charles E. Dubois mysteriously vanished from their great summer bungalow she wrote to a friend indicating her husband was acting strangely.

STAN BALL, an agent for cattle interests, faces ASPER DELO in his office in the city. Asper is accused by the cattle men of interfering on their range with his timber cutting. Ball accuses Delo of crooked work at his Three Rivers camp. He accuses Delo of having men shot who try to check up on him. Ball says he is going up to make a check himself. Delo retorts that he will personally see that Ball does not stand before the office building. Dudley Winters, in love with Dona, agrees to set Asper Delo back on his wild trip to Three Rivers if she will marry him. She gives him some encouragement.

DON applied the brakes and pulled her trim roadster to a halt at the curb before a spacious apartment house. Without giving the early hour a thought she sent a furious blast of the horn echoing through the maples that shaded the lower floors. She had only to signal once. A figure staggering under a load of khaki and leather appeared from the main entrance and moved down the walk. The pile of equipment reached the curb. There it erupted and Dudley Winters rose from its midst. He removed a soft felt hat and bowed.

"At your service, lady." "What on earth have you there?" Don gasped as she pointed a gloved hand toward the assortment scattered around Dudley. A sleeping bag, two guns, three tin rods, a camp outfit, two water bags, a collapsible canoe and several lesser items. Dudley surveyed the outfit proudly.

"You can't take any of that junk," Dona was positive. "But my friend Herman at the outfitters recommended this as the minimum of equipment." "Herman made you pay well for routing him out of bed last night. All you need is the outing clothes you're wearing and a suit case with a change of necessary things. You can get all the outdoor equipment you need at Three Rivers. Now hustle that stuff back and pack a few clothes." Dona was more than a little vexed now that she was over being amused.

Dudley sensed his mistake and gathered up his new possessions. He stowed the stuff away and came back on the roadster, he slid into place beside Dona. The car shot away from the curb and sped down the avenue. Dudley leaned back to drink in the fresh morning air. "Boy, it's great to be out and zipping along! Never knew the mornings were so bracing," he shouted.

"You haven't seen the sun come up for a good many summers," Dona shouted back. DUDLEY grinned and sank deep into the soft cushions. He was excited and willing to admit it. Dona gave her attention to the road. She was an excellent driver though her slender shoulders seemed almost frail behind the big wheel. Her thoughts were not with Dudley. She was wondering if Stanley Black would call while she was away. Try as she would she could not put him out of her mind entirely. The sun came up and the roads began to twist into the hills. SAYS STRIKE MOVEMENT HAS FAILED

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Sept. 17. — "The Southwestern Bell Telephone company has lost exactly 31 telephons out of its total of 6269 in Hutchinson during the past 30 days, as a result of the threat of a small group of customers to take out their telephone unless the company reduced its rate," said H. M. Cowan, district manager of the company. "Service has been suspended for 60 additional customers, who offered less than the regular rate, but their telephones have not yet been removed, because they indicated a need for service which the company believes to be true and decided that it would only be fair to give these customers a few days' time for a final decision. "The indications are now that collections in Hutchinson for August will be as good as for any month in the year 1932. "The reason the company has not made a statement regarding the situation in Hutchinson before is because the alleged petitions were never verified by its proper test lay in the August collections for the regular thirty day period, and the disconnection of only 31 telephones out of 6269 during that time amply refutes all of the statements and claims which have been made. "It is perfectly evident that 99 per cent of our customers in Hutchinson who paid their bills in full, are in agreement with us in the proper manner to determine the reasonableness of rates is before the regulatory body which the state has provided for this purpose, and which is empowered to hold hearings at which all sides are heard and to ascertain facts predicted upon inventories, appraisals and audits to determine a fair return upon the

54 R. G. MONTGOMERY

BEGIN HERE TODAY STAN BALL, an agent for cattle interests, faces ASPER DELO in his office in the city. Asper is accused by the cattle men of interfering on their range with his timber cutting. case and took it to another room. Dona went to her room at once. She was soon splashing in a washpan of cool water and preparing to slip into a fresh dress. Outside the door she could hear Dudley demanding a bath. "Ain't no such animal in this hotel!" Seth Doby's voice boomed. "Where you headed for, stranger? There ain't no baths out in this dry country." "I'm trailing a man named Asper Delo. Has he been through here recently?" Dudley asked. "Old Swede Delo? Sure. Stayed here a couple of nights ago. Say, boy, I've known Swede Delo for 30 years. Him and me had the dag-nabest fight two humans ever had. Swede put me down for the count, too." Seth Doby laughed loudly.

DONA knew Doby did not recognize her as the freckled girl with the pigtail braid who used to ride with old Swede Delo. Eastern finishing school had erased the marks of the range too thoroughly. As she stepped to the door, Doby had his back toward her and he was absorbed in telling Dudley about Swede Delo. "Don't you make no mistake about that man, Delo! He was the maddest I've ever seen him. 'Lowed as how he had been sittin' in an office until bow-legged cow hands thought they could come in and spit in his face. I figure he sure aims to bag himself a meddler, on I don't know Swede Delo." Doby stroked his beard. "Is he that bad?" Dudley asked seriously. "Swede Delo made his stake by fighting rustlers, lumberjacks and log jacks. He's a hellion when he gets his ire up and he sure had it up when he went through here. I had a time getting him to bed down overnight with us."

Dona stepped forward and spoke smilingly. "Run along and wash up, Dud, while I talk to Mr. Doby." Seth Doby looked sharply at the girl, then scratched his shaggy head. "You know me and I should know you, but I don't." "I'm Dona Delo. Pigtail D." Dona's white teeth shone. "Well, dag nab it! Sure you are." "Is Dad really on one of his benders?" Doby shook his head. "He sure is and I believe the old fool is getting a whackin' kick out of it. I tried to knock some sense into his head. Warned him plenty." "You think he might be in danger?" Dona could not conceal her fear. "He's in for a tough time. I know the man he aims to get." Doby's face sobered. "Can't you go up with us?" Dona caught the old man's arm. "You used to be able to handle Dad." Doby shook his head. "I'd do anything for you in remembrance of the days when you was Pigtail, though the city has shore taken the range scrub out of you, but this time I can't."

"Why?" Dona looked the old rancher in the eye evenly. "Well, I don't figure Swede Delo has lined out jest right this time and I told him so." Dona nodded and her tone was cooler though her smile was wide. "But you will feed us with the same kind of steak you used to cook?" "Sure! And I'll lend a hand, too, if I can." Seth Doby's honest face showed embarrassment and pain as he turned to the little dining room. (To Be Continued)

COMIC SCRAP BOOK

WE'LL give you one guess as to where Lindy wants to go. Correct! Right into your Comic Scrapbook. And the best part of it is that he's taking Freckles and Poodle with him. Poodle doesn't look very comfortable, but appears pleased with the ride, just the same. Better paste them in your Comic Scrapbook before Freckles slips off of Lindy.

GIDDYAP! Giddyap! Giddyap! Whoa! Lindy feels peppy. My, how he can go! Freckles, however, would like him to stop. Before he and Poodle both take a nice flop!

Your Electric Power Supply MUST Be Flexible

Electric power, to serve any community adequately, must be flexible. It must meet all requirements, large or small—from a huge factory to a small household—at any time and at any place.

Small local plants serving single communities lack this flexibility... they lack the variety of volume and demand which enables a larger system, serving a wide area by transmission lines, to operate efficiently.

The transmission line delivers larger amounts of power at once without the delay of installing additional equipment. Thus it clears the way for a rapid and permanently expanding industrial growth.

The present-day industrial progress of small communities is based in a large measure on the ample and economical power supply which resulted when transmission systems replaced inefficient and expensive small local plants throughout the nation.

The West Texas Utilities Company, through its widespread 2,500-mile transmission line network, makes available to 125 progressive West Texas cities and towns over 100,000 horsepower of electric energy—ready at the turn of a switch.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

West Texas Utilities Company
