TWO BROTHERS, WHO HAD NOT SEEN EACH OTHER FOR 45 YEARS, ARE REUNITED HERE

Two brothers who had not seen each other for 45 years were reunited a short while ago when J. T. Walker, of Cisco, located Geo. L. Walker, at Cyril, Oklahoma, while visiting a sister in that state and brought him to Cisco for a visit.

Above are G. L. Walker, left, and J. T. Walker, right, brothers who had not seen each other for 45 years until a few months ago.

George L. Walker is the elder of the two. He was born in Jefferson county, Tenn., February 13, 1848. Two years later, on March 29, J. T. Walker was born at the same place.

Wife's Health Poor

Returning to Tennessee from his visit to his brother in Missouri, J. T. Walker, married, Mrs. Walker developed poor health and the first years of their married life were occupied to a great extent in trying to find a climate that would agree with her condition.

Trails Crossed

Thus the routes followed by the two brothers in their seeking for suitable locations often took each across trails that had been followed by the other but in those excursions they never met and each was ignorant of the others whereabouts or condition.

Only Two Days Left to Pay Your Poll Tax

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

THE CHRISTIAN'S MISSION:—Preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils; freely ye have received, freely give.—Matthew 10: 7, 8.

FIRST THINGS FIRST.

The Texas highway department is building roads on a scale that hardly can be realized. But it is neglecting to do one thing that should be first in its program.

It is leaving untouched practically all cardinal highways, unsafe one-way bridges, structures that stand as a message to human life and the cause of many fatal accidents.

It should before contracting to build another major piece of road, tear every one-way bridge from every main highway in Texas and replace it with an adequate structure.

Some of the main highways should be closed until the death traps are removed.

Most of the main highways have left on them narrow one-way bridges, flimsy structures without guard-rails, with invisible quarter-inch iron end-railings. These form not merely a danger from their inadequacy but a positive menace to the people of Texas in the actual hazards they present.

The present highway department is not to be blamed with the six-foot-wide bridges. Many were found on country roads taken into cardinal highways. Many were built in the old days when they were the extent of the state's financial ability. But the highway department has funds now to build $4,000,000 or more a month of main highway improvements. It could and can replace some of these death-trap bridges by emergency maintenance allotments. It is not responsible for such traffic hazards having been built, but it has the opportunity and the primary duty of remedying them.

GETTING OUT OF HAND.

The worthy movement started by Prof. John Strauss, Waco, and by a small group in Williamson county, to unite taxpayers in groups sponsoring lower costs of government, proper rendition of farms and homes, and a close check on city, county and district expenditures, has suffered the same fate as many another of great merit.

The Taxpayers' league movement has been super-organized. Too many diverse elements have been taken in. Essentially a rural man's effort to organize local small property owners, it has taken over by leaders from the city. The new state Taxpayers' association has begun to dabble in state political questions, such as the highway bond issue. Its officers are from Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, with Prof. Strauss of Waco kept as a vice president, and a man from Galveston on its board.

The association has adopted its own publication to disseminate its arguments. It has a group of people who will be organizers, promoters, executives, spokesmen, some of whom must depend upon it for their living.

In effect, it is now just another organization with the usual set-up, sponsoring a cause and depending on membership or contributions to support its operations.

Efforts such as the Williamson and McLennan county taxpayers' leagues would be better off if they weren't super-organized into state associations, and put into the hands of leaders, no matter how able, who had nothing to do with creating them, and probably a range of crusading interests far beyond the original purposes and needs.

TWO MORE DAYS.

Only two more days remain for the payment of poll taxes. For those citizens living in and adjacent to Cisco an opportunity to pay these taxes with the least inconvenience has been provided by the location of a temporary tax collecting office in the First National bank here.

This year is particularly important from the political standpoint and therefore the admonition to pay your poll tax is the more insistent.

Some misunderstanding relative to poll tax payments has existed in that many people were of the opinion that poll taxes could not be paid unless property taxes were paid. That is incorrect. A couple owning property but unable to meet property tax payments may pay one or both of their poll taxes without paying the property tax. The misunderstanding seems to have arisen from the fact that property tax cannot be paid without payment of poll taxes also. By one route the poll tax can be divorced from the property tax and by the other route it cannot.

The deputy collectors office was established in the First National bank here this morning. It will remain in the bank until the end of the month, receiving property and poll tax payments and car license payments, issuing the necessary receipts and license plates.

OTHER OPINIONS

THE "BIG" JURY WIN

Harris county commissioners have won a jury verdict in their attack upon the constitutionality of the state law apportioning the automobile license tax funds to counties and probably feel that they are fully compensated for the storm of abuse and criticism aroused by their action attacking the law. The claim of the Harris county commissioners was that the law was discriminatory, and that contention has been sustained by the Harris county jury which sat in the case. The law provides that counties collecting up to $50,000 per year in automobile license fees shall retain all their collections; counties collecting more than that amount to retain half of all collections in excess of $50,000 until their share reaches $175,000; and requires all collections above the latter amount to be remitted to the State Highway department. Five counties are affected adversely by the law, they being Harris, Bexar, Tarrant, Dallas and Jefferson, in which are located the big cities of Houston

"The Open Door"

San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas and Beaumont.

If these counties are to be considered as independent political units, without obligation to or benefit from the remainder of the state, then the law does appear to discriminate against them. If the five "big city" counties are to be considered only in their relation to each other, the law appears to be discriminatory, because it arbitrarily equalizes the amount each may retain of its automobile license fee collections despite the fact that there is a wide margin of difference between the gross amounts collected in license fees in the five counties.

But it seems to us that such consideration of the problem is unwarranted because no Texas county is independent of the remainder of the state, and none can properly measure the amount of revenue it turns over to the state in any form of taxation by the amount paid into the state treasury by any other county. The real flaw in the automobile license tax law is that it is a revenue raising measure instead of a licensing statute as it should be. The policy of collecting a heavy license tax from automobile owners was set up long before other special revenue measures, including the gasoline tax, had been inaugurated, and like most other revenue raising plans it was continued when additional sources of revenue were brought under taxation. The license fee should be reduced to a nominal amount, say $2 per year, and all the money collected in license fees should go into the state treasury. Thus whatever element of discrimination there may be in the present regulations would be removed, and a source of inequitable taxation would be eliminated. The loss of revenue to both the state and the counties could be made up by more equitable tax levies or by a lessening of revenue demands. The automobile is paying more than his share of the cost of public government. — Brownwood Bulletin.

Joe H. Jones Seeks Post in Congress Held by Blanton

From shining shoes to making law in the halls of Congress will be, in brief, the career of District Attorney Joe Jones of Eastland Texas, if he is able to realize his ambition announced today, to represent the 17th district in congress. Jones whose spectacular life has included prosecution of some of the most famous cases in West Texas in recent years, earned his first money as a shine boy on the streets of Gorman, Texas. After completing high school and working his way through law college he has advanced by rapid stages from City Attorney to County Attorney, to County Judge and now at the age of 35 is serving as District Attorney of the 8th and 9th Judicial Districts of Texas.

JOE H. JONES

The office to which Jones today announced his candidacy has been held for 13 years by Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene. It is interesting for Jones to recall that as a lad he frequently shined Congressman Blanton's shoes when the latter was a visitor in Gorman.

"Another vivid memory was during my high school days when Judge Blanton made a speech to my class in which he told us boys to study hard and apply ourselves that some day some one of us would have to take his place."

Native of County Born and reared in Eastland county, Jones comes from a pioneer family. He is a nephew of the late Tom A. Jones, deputy sheriff who was shot to death by Marshall Ratliff the Santa Claus bandit. Among the noted cases prosecuted by Jones were those of Henry Helms one of the gunmen of the Cisco holdup, who was electrocuted; Will Fritz who was electrocuted for the murder of D. W. Hamilton; Clyde Thompson, the boy who shot two men to see them kick and who was saved from the electric chair by the governor; E. V. Allen serving a life sentence for the robbery of the Carben bank and the Danby Lench case in which the defendant was convicted of the "Gravel Pit Murder."

"The farmers of America by hard work and the blessing of Providence have produced bountiful crops and are unable to sell them while millions of men are walking the streets without employment and unable to purchase food and the other necessities of life" Jones declared. "The livestock man finds his product selling at the lowest price in history. The oil man can sell only a small fraction of his output and that fraction at a ridiculously low price, while he sees daily thousands of barrels of crude oil produced by pauper labor in foreign countries brought into this country by the billionaire Secretary of the Treasury, Andy Mellon and other plutocrats, in unfair competition with the American oil man and American labor.

No Moratorium "Business men have lost their holdings, thousands have had their homes taken from them, the savings of many have been swept away and this government grants a moratorium to foreign countries on the money they owe Uncle Sam, while there is no moratorium for the suffering taxpayer who has seen his burden increased year by year. Millions of young men my age answered the call of their country Europe was ablaze with war; they faced shot and shell and even death to defend the flag of this country. Now thousands of these men, broken in body and shaken in mind, are jobless and are fighting a battle to survive. This government owes a sacred duty to these men who left their homes, their families, and their job to defend Old Glory, at least to see, while issuing moratoriums, that no veteran, no veteran's widow, wife or child suffers for the want of food as long as the flag which they defended floats on the breezes of Heaven."

City Seeking Niagara Water

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Lockport has opened a battle for "city water" from the Niagara River.

The city claims it has a right to 275 cubic feet of water a second from the river, to be diverted into 18-Mile Creek through the Barge Canal. The water was formerly given the city by an agreement between Canada and the Federal Water Power commission.

Mill owners along 18-Mile Creek recently sold their rights to water from the Barge Canal for approximately $2,000,000. They believed there would be enough overflow to take care of their needs.

The State of New York, however erected a dam, which prevented any water reaching the creek from the canal. They were forced to buy their water from the city, which, as a result ran short of water for sewage needs. The city, until the new demand was made on its water supply, was not particularly concerned about its water. Now, however, it determined to obtain the water which it claims rightfully belongs to it.

London Zoo Takes Inventory

LONDON, Jan. 28.—You can buy a rhinoceros for about $330,000, or a hippopotamus for roughly $234,500. And if you would like a nice shaggy lion, they're ever so cheap, only $13,400.

For these are the prices of wild animals at the present time as made by the Zoological Society, London, when making an annual inventory of the gardens.

There are about 6,000 animals in the zoo, and their value is estimated at about $13,400,000. It is only an estimate, because the value of the animals varies according to their state of health, age, etc.

Young giraffes sell for $200,000 to $250,000, but there's no market for mature giraffes, because their necks are too long to pass under tunnels, which makes their transportation difficult. The price limit for an elephant is $200,000.

The zoo has lost many of its "star turns" by death this winter, including a seal (an ancient inhabitant of the gardens), a hyena, a chimpanzee, and a tortoise so old that it seemed to belong to mythology. Recently, the tigon—the tiger-lion hybrid presented to the zoo by the Maharajah Jam Sahib of Nawanager—died.

Among the arrivals, however, is Peter the Great, a more than ordinarily intelligent chimpanzee.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

That many good people are becoming somewhat dazed over this much advertised world economic condition. Instead of being all humanity in their confession that they do not understand it, they are asking, "Who does understand it anyway?" They are even asserting that nobody understands it.

So while big business men and members of different governments are trying to find out what it is all about and the cure for it, there are people everywhere who would like to barter something they have in exchange for something they need that somebody else has. There is a rich variety of things that could be exchanged to the satisfaction of all, and the proper channels to use are the classified columns of the newspapers.

Classified ads are busy little things. To secure a place to board, a house to rent, or a furnished room, read the Classified Ads.

If you want to find opportunities for buying, selling, or exchanging, use the want ads. You will always find them a ready reference for anything you may want. They are the quick, efficient, sure way of getting you in touch with what you need.

You will find good buys and trades in the want ads. They are constantly performing many valuable missions which are to the advantage of all.

Everybody should get the habit of using the want ads. They will save time, trouble and money.

FAMED PARIS SLUMS TO GO IN CLEAN-UP

PARIS, Jan. 28. — The "artistic slums" and homely hovels of Paris soon will be only a memory, according to Police Prefect Jean Chiappe, in his annual report before the Municipal Council recently.

"Paris will soon lose its hovels and slums," he said, "for they impair the healthfulness as well as the brilliancy of the city. The poorly paved and badly lighted streets will soon be nothing but a memory."

As to misbehavior during the past year he reported that "the Colonial Exposition attracted 40,000,000 visitors without resulting in a single serious incident, despite the number of sovereigns and statesmen entertained and the attendant ceremonies and fetes."

"The general proportion of crimes and burglaries," he continued, "shows a decrease under the preceding year there being 107 in 1930 as against 95 in 1931. Ten robberies of importance took place in 1930 as against only five for the year 1931. Not one of the criminals whose sole motive was theft escaped our pursuit. They all were arrested."

"I always have made a vigorous fight against the high cost of living. Many things that seemed too expensive yesterday and an innovation today as an indispensable reform and perfectly legal. I venture to say that we owe to the studied street crossing, the entente which is steadily growing closer between the pedestrian and the motorist. It is by virtue of this consideration in our community that I dare again and again to drive ahead into the future, guided by the great sentiments that animate us all: love for Paris and devotion to its prosperity."

Prefecture Saved

On the occasion of the presentation of Prefect Chiappe's annual budget, 21 councillors voted for suppression of the Prefecture of Police, favoring assignment of its duties to the Surete Generale, the courts and the municipality, but 50 Councillors thought it would be better to keep the Prefecture, and consequently the budget was approved. The police executive's report was optimistic, crediting the sagacity and sense of proportion and courtesy of Parisians as much as the efforts of the police for the preservation of order and morale in the face of economic depression.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 28. — Some of Hartford's needy are equipped to go to a formal dance if occasion arises. Tuxedos, cutaway, morning coats and smoking jackets with silk facings were among articles of clothing collected by a charitable agency for the poor.

AIR TAXIS FOR FAIR.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28. — Air taxis, to eliminate parking congestion, will be a feature of the Centenary of Progress Exposition here next year. Air taxis and amphibians will travel from the municipal airport, up and down the lake front, carrying passengers and sight-seers.

DESEMOMONA

On Friday night Mrs. Plummer Ashburn and Mrs. Charlie Richardson entertained with a bridge party at the Desdemona Embroidery club home. There were eight tables of bridge. These present were Messrs and Memes, Obed Henslee, Hugh Abert, C. M. Kirkwood, J. E. Hester, A. B. Henslee, Earl Lane, Cecil Williams, W. H. Davis, C. E. Ragland, Aaron Henslee, A. C. Robert, John Arnold, Marion Williams, Charlie Richardson, Plummer Ashburn, Mrs. Mattie Henry and her son, Walker Henry, and Miss Ruth Crenshaw. High score prize for the ladies was awarded to Miss Ruth Crenshaw and for the men to Obed Henslee. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the favors of white mini clusters tied with pink ribbon and in the delicious refreshments of two kinds of sandwiches, fruit salad in lettuce cups topped with whipped cream and brownie and coffee, forming with the favors a very pretty plate. All present enjoyed the party very much.

Albert Richardson of Stephenville was here Thursday to buy a house to move to his Erath county farm. He bought the Carruth house just west of the bridge on Main street.

P. F. White attended the tax payers meeting at Eastland Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy McGee and two children formerly of Desdemona but now of George West were welcome visitors here Thursday. They were returning to their home after having attended the waterworks convention in Mineral Wells where they also visited her mother. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Roe while here but also visited a number of other friends who were delighted to see them.

Mr. John Mendenhall and her daughter, Mrs. Mattie Henry drove over to Gorman on business Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Plummer Ashburn spent the weekend with relatives at Spring Star.

Mrs. W. H. Davis and her daughter, Mrs. Aaron Henslee were guests at a bridge party Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. A. Sutton at Gorman.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lee drove up to Breckenridge Sunday to meet their little daughter, Frankie Jean who had been visiting her grandparents at Olney. Mrs. Lee's brother, Clay Simmons brought the little girl to Breckenridge.

Mrs. Dixie Stevens of Gorman is spending this week here with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Donica.

W. C. Bedford accompanied by Claude McCollum drove up to Cisco on business Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawley of Caddo were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Henslee Sunday.

Mrs. Charlie Richardson and Mrs. Plummer Ashburn were shopping in Ranger Thursday.

Mrs. Earl Lane and Mrs. Mattie Henry were shopping in Ranger Saturday and at Eastland Monday.

Jeff Duncan of Cisco was looking after his insurance business here Friday.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Iona Nabers is much better after having been threatened with pneumonia several days.

Mrs. N. D. Gallagher and little son, Norvell D. of Cisco and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Gallman of Oklahoma City were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Donica Thursday. On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Donica visited them at Cisco.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wade are receiving the sympathy of our community on account of the death of his father, G. W. Wade, who passed away at his home near Jake Ham on Sunday. The deceased was for quite a long time a mechanic at one of the Desdemona garages but did not move his family to town. He was highly respected not only by his neighbors but by all who knew him here in town. Besides his wife he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Guy Hooper and Mrs. Edna Lansford and one son, J. A. who lives here. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. A. Walker, pastor of the Desdemona Methodist church and the body was laid to rest in the DeLeon cemetery Monday afternoon. In spite of a steady downpour of rain a large number of Desdemona friends attended the funeral.

Mrs. N. D. Gallagher and little son, Norvell D. of Cisco and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Gallman of Oklahoma City, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Donica Thursday and on Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Donica went to Cisco and spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher. Miss Bonelle Whitfield returned to her home at Dublin Friday after a few days visit with her sister, Mrs. J. H. Rushing, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Barron drove over to Gorman on business Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Acrea returned Saturday from Stephenville where they had visited relatives several days.

The Methodist Missionary Society held an all day meeting at the church Thursday. Besides quilting a large quilt they had the last lesson in the book "The Challenge of Change", the lesson period being in the afternoon. The outside assignments in connection with the lesson were very interesting.

Mrs. "O. I. L." Ayres had a narrow escape at Olden Tuesday afternoon when her Chrysler sedan was crowded off the pavement and turned over in a deep ditch. Mrs. Ayres was not hurt and the car did not even have a broken glass.

Methodists at Olden gave Rev. R. A. Walker and family a delightful reception and a pounding Tuesday night. Rev. Walker is pastor of both Olden and Desdemona churches. He preaches at Olden on the 1st and 3rd Sundays and at Desdemona on the 2nd and 4th Sundays and also each 5th Sunday next Sunday being a 5th Sunday.

Mrs. Earl Lane assisted by Mrs.

Plummer Ashburn entertained the members of the "21" Study club at her home Tuesday afternoon. Almost every member was present and responded to roll call with a current event. During the business session, Mrs. Gifford Acrea was elected to membership. The program was led by Mrs. Fred Weider and was as follows:

Chicago—Schools, Art Galleries and Museums—Mrs. Bratton.

History of the Great Chicago Fire—Mrs. Snodgrass.

Museums and Parks of St. Louis—Mrs. Henry.

A visit to the Wisconsin Lakes—Mrs. Griffin.

Milwaukee—Mrs. Claud Lee.

Mackinaw and the Early Trades—Mrs. Richardson.

Questions on North Central States—Mrs. Weider.

During the Social hour the hostesses served a very pretty refreshment plate consisting of jello fruit salad on lettuce, heart shaped sandwiches, angel food cake and coffee.

Those present were Meses. A. C. Robert, Hugh Roe, Clarence Ragland, J. W. Griffin, W. H. Davis, C. W. Maltby, Fred Weider, Aaron Henslee, A. B. Henslee, C. M. Bratton, W. C. Bedford, Claude Lee, Mattie Henry, John Mendenhall, Roy Ashburn, S. E. Snodgrass, Charlie Richardson and the two hostesses.

COOK'S NOSE

Is Worth $200

PARIS, Jan. 28. — An expert cook here, deprived of her sense of smell because she slipped on an onion, fell on the stove and broke her nose, has been awarded $200 damages.

Josephine, the cook, a plump and jovial juggler of pots and pans, was preparing a choice dish for her master when she met with disaster. Just as she put the noble concoction into the oven and started away from the stove, she slipped on a piece of onion, fell headlong against the corner of the stove, breaking her nose.

A surgeon mended the nose, but when the patient returned to her pots and pans, she found that her center of attraction failed to function. With her sense of smell gone, her sense of humor soon vanished, which was followed by her genius. The next day her faithful employer, enraged because his meals no longer were the gastronomic joy of his life, discharged her.

Josephine, however, was not to be dismissed summarily. She retained a lawyer took her troubles to court, and after pleading her case before a sympathetic jury, was awarded the $200 damages for the loss of a fifth of her senses.

PARIS FASHION RULERS OFFER SPRING STYLES

United Press Staff Correspondent. PARIS, Jan. 28.—With the thermometer hovering around zero and snowflakes settling over the Arc de Triomphe, the corners of the great steps of the church of the Madeleine, and Napoleon's column — those landmarks that cast their shadows over Paris fashion creators, artificial sunshine and summer atmosphere fill the pay salons in which models are parading in bathing suits, beach costumes, garden party frocks and the finery of the June fete. The showing of next summer's smartest styles "to the trade" start tomorrow.

The stage is set again for the Summer Show and while the winter orchestra still plays boisterously on its instruments of wind and sleet and snow outside the windows of the famous designers, inside the scene shows the fashion gardener at work on his summer plants. These are the first flowers that he has been nursing through the winter to force into early bloom.

You may be sure that it is only quality that is exhibiting at the first 1932 Fashion Show.

First Showing

The first house to show us its summer models is one that has come into fame suddenly and without the customary years of struggle. It is the house of Lyolene, and it has proved a fashion "find."

The schedule for the first five summer openings is as follows:

Lyolene Jan. 25, 11 A.M.
 Clair Soeurs Jan. 25, 3 P.M.
 Redfern Jan. 27, 3 P.M.
 Schiaparelli Feb. 4, 11 A.M.
 Chanel Feb. 5, 10 P.M.
 Patou, Molyneux, Worth, Poiret, Vionnet, Lanvin, Lelong, Jane Regny, Lucile, Louise Boulanger, Dupuy Martin, Martial et Armand, Jenny, Chantal, Yvett, Maggy-Rouff, and the rest of the Favored Forty will open their doors to the press and international buyers during the first two weeks in February.

There is not a fashion house here that has not decreased its number of mannequins and the number of models it will exhibit.

Change in Tendencies

During the mid-winter showings here, there was a decided tendency toward usefulness for the daytime frock and a lack of strictly formal evening gowns. These two tendencies have been carried further with the result that the summer collection, while lacking nothing in real loveliness, are going to show an unbelievable amount of wearability.

Clothes have been put through a rather rigid course of education during the past 18 months, but the summer season will see them graduated with a diploma that means something to their future life. Clothes that have been educated here will no longer be the frivolous things that they have been in the past. In their relaxed moments they will be daring rather than flirtations, sensuous in certain severe styles, and mysterious in tailored adaptations for evening.

Shirts for daytime will be no longer than mid-calf and often shorter; for afternoon they will be ankle-length, and for evening either ankle, or instep-length.

Beggar's Coat Was Realistic

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—The world's first honest-to-goodness "million-dollar ragamuffin" is Cesare Formichi, the opera baritone. Formichi took his rags to heart eleven years ago, singing the role of Tonic in "Pagliacci." Formichi decided the costume he wore was "steggy." He set out to find an assortment of rags that would be realistic.

A shred of cloth that the opera star believed would fit adequately in a beggar's ensemble was located in the bag of a ragpicker in Milan. Formichi bought it and a rag beg to put it in.

He kept his eye open for other "bargains." He found two shreds of dirty cloth in Rome, another in Brazil, others in odd corners of the globe. Last summer he took his collection to a Paris tailor, who specializes in outfitting smart people. The tailor followed orders. They were:

"Make me a coat. No buttons; no thread. Tie it with string."

No creation quite so horrible, nor quite so artistically correct, ever has been worn on a Chicago stage. The bizarre coat of rags, which cost thousands of dollars to assemble, was worn for the first time when Formichi draped it around his shoulders in the role of Tonic at the Chicago Civic Opera, Jan. 12.

Shippers Will Boycott Cooperative

MCALLEN, Jan. 28.—Forty-four of the biggest shippers and cash buyers of Lower Rio Grande Valley vegetables have published notices in which they bound themselves not to purchase produce from the members of the Rio Grande Vegetable Cooperative association, now operating under the federal farm board plan.

The action resulted from litigation instituted against some members of the shippers' group by the cooperative in an effort to prevent alleged violation by several association members of the marketing agreement signed by them.

There are now five suits pending in the 93rd district court of Hidalgo county against members of the association and as many cash buyers of produce.

Hot Bed and Cold Frame Garden

To grow an early garden it is necessary to start such crops as cabbage, cauliflower, tomatoes, egg plant, and peppers in a protected place and then transplant to the open garden. A hot bed provided an excellent place for this purpose. At least four inches of manure should be used in this bed and another inch added for every week beyond four weeks that there is frost danger. For hardening plants cold frames are used and are constructed exactly the same as the hot bed except no manure is used. The bed are heated by the sun during the day and this warmth is held in by sand during the night.

For a real early start the seed may be planted in a shallow box in the house and transplanted to hot bed or cold frame when the first two true leaves have developed.

warm weather shade the plants with some such covering as newspapers until growth has begun.

Cabbage and cauliflower plants may be started six weeks before transplanting to the garden and in the case of tomatoes, peppers and egg plants this period may be lengthened to eight or ten weeks.

To secure a good stand of vigorous vegetables good seed must be used. Old seed carried over from the previous season cannot be relied upon to feed the family. It is safest to purchase seed from a reliable seed house and give enough time and thought to the purchasing of the seed to be sure that the varieties selected are adapted to the locality, and that the resulting vegetables are varieties that are tender and of high quality. The popular varieties are usually coarse, and not so palatable as some of the less popular ones.

Thorough cultivation is necessary to get vegetables of highest quality. More than that, cultivation should be regular in order to maintain a good physical condition of the soil to save soil moisture, to furnish a loose area that can easily be penetrated by the roots, and to keep down weeds. A good garden is no place for weeds as all good gardeners know. On farms, where gardens often grow up in weeds because of the rush of farm work, the garden may be laid out sufficiently large and the rows spaced far enough apart to enable cultivation with a horse drawn sweep stock for keeping down weeds, and with a one-horse adjustable harrow for maintaining a soil mulch.

Dry weather often knocks out an otherwise good garden, particularly late in the season. Sometimes a site can be selected that is well drained and at the same time is naturally terraced to conserve moisture. This is highly desirable. Good cultivation is another substitute for rainfall. Yet in spite of coaxing nature in these ways, artificial watering becomes advisable nearly every year at some time or other.

Water the garden few times, but thoroughly each time for it is the root system and not the tops of the plants that need water, and constant sprinkling of the soil in hot weather may cause the plant roots to be shallow. A thorough irrigation is more permanent and induces the roots to follow the moisture to a depth that insures greater feeding capacity for the plants.

Insects must be reckoned with in growing a garden. They are not very difficult to keep in check as a general thing if one understands their habits and is prepared to control them. There are two classes of damaging insects, the kind that bite into the fruit or foliage and chew it up, and those that suck out the juice. For the first kind it is important to place stomach poisons in dust or spray form on the surface of the plants where the insects are feeding. A good spray mixture which may be applied in small gardens with a pump sprayer and in large ones with knapsack or barrel-spray, is two pounds arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water. Dusting for biting insects is coming into general use and for this purpose arsenate of lead or calcium arsenate, dusted over the surface of the plants may be used without damage to the plants or danger to consumer. If either Paris Green or London Purple is applied it should be mixed with equal parts of hydrated lime. Dust may be applied, by putting the dust in a sugar sack and shaking it over the plant. Common biting garden insects are Colorado potato beetle, cabbage worm and tomato worm.

Stomach poisons are of no use whatever against such sucking insects as plant lice and leaf footed plant hopper. The body pores must be stopped up with a poison spray such as nicotine sulphate which may be used either as a liquid spray to the under sides of the leaves better than does the liquid spray and is therefore more effective. One pound of nicotine sulphate to 20 pounds of hydrated lime mixed up in an old ice cream freezer, makes an excellent dust. This amount will furnish enough dust for an acre of garden in an ordinary year.

Tomatoes, peppers, cabbage, and many stumpy plants are frequently cut down over night in early spring by cut worms or grasshoppers. These pests are very effectively controlled by putting out poison bran mash, distributing one-fourth teaspoonful at the base of each plant late in the evening. The mash is made by mixing together 1 pound of white arsenic or Paris Green, 20 pounds of coarse wheat bran, 6 finely ground lemons and juice, 2 quarts of any kind of molasses, and enough water to make the mixture slightly moist but not sticky.

One of the chief diseases that frequently attacks garden crops in Texas is wilt of cowpeas, Irish potatoes, tomatoes, and many of the vine crops such as watermelons, cucumbers and cantaloupes. This disease is characterized by the sudden dying out or wilting of the leaves and branches. A cross section of the plant stem will reveal spots scattered through the vascular tissue if the trouble is due to wilt disease. There is no fungicide that will control this ailment but crop rotation with such fibrous rooted plants as corn or small grain will starve out the disease in 3 to 5 years. The chief recommendation that can be made, then, is to change wilt susceptible crops to new ground known as Marglobe has been developed.

If the Irish potatoes that are planted have small corky spots on the surface they have scab and the resulting crop will be scabby, too. To avoid danger of harvesting a scabby crop dip the seed potatoes for two hours prior to cutting and planting, in a solution of 2 ounces of bicloride of mercury to 10 gallons of water.

Growing Sweet Potato Plants

The sale of sweet potato plants early this spring should prove a profitable business. T. A. Fritts, state department of agriculture seed potato inspector who has been in the county this week making storage inspections of potato seed advises that due to insect infestations all seed potatoes in Smith and Upshur counties has been condemned. These counties which usually provide a large part of the seed and plan for sweet potato growing in the state will not be permitted to sell but on the other hand will be in the market for this commodity. Eastland county potato growers should capitalize the situation and jump into the plant selling field with vim. This market wants its plants about April the first, making it necessary that seed be bedded early in February in hotbeds heated with fire.

Such a hot bed may be prepared by placing sheet iron or old corrugated roofing across a trench and being properly supported this will hold the ten to twelve inches of sand which should be placed above it. Old pipe of six inches diameter and above may also be used to conduct the heat under the bed. There should be a flue at the exhaust end to cause a draft. Either wood or gas may be used to make the heat. If a long bed is to be made the pipe should be elevated at the rate of one foot to each 20 feet to cause the air movement. Joe Niver have been using such a hot bed for a number of years with decided success. The bed should be thoroughly heated before the potatoes are bedded out. About fourteen square feet will be required to bed a bushel of seed potatoes. For home planting figure about four bushels to provide enough plants for one acre, twenty five hundred to three thousand plants per bushel.

All potatoes should be dipped in disinfectant before bedding to help control diseases. The use of coprosive sublimate is recommended at the rate of 5 ounces to 40 gallons of water, being at the rate of one ounce to eight gallons. Mix should be prepared in a wooden container. This mixture is poisonous and should be handled as such. Crates of potatoes should stay in the dip three to five minutes.

What My Job Means to Me

MY JOB means far more to me than just a paycheck. I realize the responsibility that goes with it. I know that homes must have heat and that most of them depend entirely upon natural gas. I am a part of that service which provides instant heat as soon as you light the burner on your gas equipment. If I should fall down on the job, there would be inconvenience, discomfort, suffering in many homes. I know that, even though our customers seldom think about it, they rely upon the dependability of our service and depend upon its being available instantly and without interruption . . . day or night . . . regardless of the weather. I know it's my responsibility never to fail that trust. This is what my job means to me.

With one accord, the small army of men responsible for bringing natural gas from the wells to your burner subscribe to this code. Their cooperation is an important part of our gigantic effort to provide for you the safety and security of an unexcelled fuel service.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE

by KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ann and Cecily Fenwick have for years supported themselves, their younger sister, Mary-Frances, and their grandparents, known as "Resili" and "Grand." Because of this financial responsibility, Ann who is 28, is unable to marry Phil Erroyd, young lawyer to whom she has been engaged for eight years. Cecily, 22, loves Barry McKell, an engineer, but when he proposes she refuses to name their wedding date for the same reason.

Mary-Frances, 15, and still in school, believes herself in love with Earl De Armount, vaudeville actor whom she has met without the knowledge of her sisters. He urges her to leave home and become his stage partner.

Ann and Phil quarrel when she hears Letty King, who works in Phil's office building, address him with endearments. Ann tries to forget Phil by going about with Kenneth Smith, rich and attentive.

Mary-Frances agrees to go away with De Armount. The same day Cecily quarrels with her grand-father and drives away with Barry in his car.

Kenneth Smith asks Ann to marry him and she refuses. She comes home to find a note saying her gran-parents have gone to spend the day with friends. At 6:30 Cecily arrives with news that she and Barry are to be married this evening.

GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIII

Mrs. Hill was sitting in a wicker chair on the front porch reading the evening paper. Ermintrude was on the steps with a book in her lap. Mr. Hill and Uncle Chaney were in the yard bending over the lawn mower, which was turned upside down between them. The four persons, and the green lawn, and the white house, and the pink rose hedge composed neatly into an attractive picture of suburban home life. Nothing seemed lacking.

Mrs. Hill looked over the edge of her paper, and smiled and stood, and held out her hand, and said, "Good evening, Miss Fenwick. I'm so glad to see you. Take this chair, won't you? Honey bring out another chair for mother."

"No thank you," Ann said. "I can't stay. I'm in a hurry, rather. I came for Mary-Frances."

"Mary-Frances?" Mrs. Hill questioned, more as if she had never heard the name before than as if Ann had said she had come for Bonnie Pince Charlie.

"Yes, I want her to come home with me."

"But, Miss Fenwick, Mary-Frances isn't here. She hasn't been here since this afternoon."

"Oh," said Ann flatly, not as an exclamation. "But—she said she was coming here. She brought Cecily's bag. She—she must be here. I mean—but, then, where in the world is she?"

"Why, I don't know, I'm sure we asked her to stay for dinner, and she said she couldn't. That your grandfather was ill and that she was needed at home."

"Well, but—she's too big to get lost. Ermintrude, do you know where Mary-Frances is?"

Ermintrude slumped; her neck disappeared as her stomach collapsed. She seemed at the same time to be squirming away from herself and to be dwindling, wriggling as it were down into herself.

"Stop acting like that, Ermintrude," Mrs. Hill said, "and answer at once. Do you know where Mary-Frances is?"

Ermintrude muttered. Ann leaned close. "She says," she construed for Mrs. Hill, "that in a way, she does."

"That's enough of that, now Ermintrude. You will please answer at once. Where is Mary-Frances?"

Ermintrude moistened her lips. She swallowed. "I—will guess I couldn't help it, could I? She slumped."

"Slumped? Slumped?" said Ann jumping a place for it, seeking a definition pushing her fingers through her hair.

"E-loped," pronounced Ermintrude distinctly. "E-loped of with a man."

Ann took Ermintrude by the shoulders and shook her, not hard but back and forth. "No, no, no, no. She couldn't do that. She's a baby. She couldn't. Why do you say such a thing? No, no—"

Mrs. Hill went down the steps and put an arm around Ann. "Don't dear," she said. "Joe," she called, across the lawn. "Joe—come here. Joe. Come. Come quickly—Joe."

Joe came bounding. He expected to put out the fire, to grab the murderer and robber, and to rescue his wife and his daughter:

In 17 years of married life only once before had he heard Trudie's voice go insane.

On her way home, in Mr. Hill's car, Ann listened to him telling her again that if Mary-Frances and that dirty cur were at Bluetown there would be no damage done as long as they managed to keep it out of the papers. If her sister Cecily and her friend found the child at Bluetown, he did hope they would follow his advice and simply bring her home and let the man go. It would be the only way to avoid publicity, and publicity must be avoided.

She said, "Yes, Mr. Hill. Barry and Cecily though so, I do," and listened to what Ermintrude had said a few minutes before.

"No, they weren't going to get married for a while. He couldn't go, account of his father's will. I know. Several months she said. They were just going on their honeymoon and then on the stage. I guess it will be all right. Mary-Frances really loved him, mother. She really loved him deeply and truly."

"Be still with that, Ermintrude will you? Answer daddy, now. Is that all you know about where they were going? Positively everything? Stop crying and answer me. Bluetown tonight? You are sure of that?"

Cecily's voice, stricken over the telephone, "Barry's just come. We'll start at once. Three hours' head start. Dear Lord, Ann!"

"For an instant, Barry's voice. 'We'll find them, Ann. Don't worry. We'll tear the place down, if necessary. Mr. Hill is right about keeping it quiet, though.'"

"But suppose," Ann said, again to Mrs. Hill, "that they didn't go to Bluetown. Suppose," he said that just to mislead you."

"In that case, I suppose we'll have to go to the police. Gosh knows what good they'll do. Perhaps I'll be able to think of someone who has influence enough to keep it out of the papers, if we do have to go to the police."

"Really, I—I don't care about the papers. Neither did Cissy, until Barry thought we should. I—I'd much rather call in the police right away."

"Miss Fenwick, we have to care what the police do, now? Watch the highways—but they left at 4, and we aren't positive as to the direction. I'll find his garage and discover what make of car he was driving. I'll go to his rooming house—I may be able to pick up some information there, and around the theater. If he's half as big a fool as he looked, he has probably told where he was bound for, eventually. Uncle Chaney seemed to think that the desk in Denver might be a lead. He may get trace of them at the service stations on that highway."

"Then—you don't believe they will be at Bluetown?"

"I hope so with all my heart. But, remember this, Miss Fenwick, sooner or later we'll find her. I'm not a rich man, but every cent I can rake and scrape will go into this if it needs to. Yes, yes, indeed, I am responsible. I am deeply responsible. Trudie and I reared Ermintrude—"

"No, Mr. Hill. For that matter I have reared Mary-Frances."

"You are nothing but girls yourselves—busy girls away from home all day. And your grand-parents are—well, that is to say they are very old."

He stopped the car on the driveway in front of the door and said as Ann stepped out of it, "I'll telephone to you the minute I hear anything at all. Uncle Chaney will phone if he hears anything. Don't break down now. Don't give up hope."

"I wish," said Ann, "that there were something I could do—anything besides just waiting for telephone calls. Something. Anything."

"Pray, pray hard. And if you have any friends you can trust, absolutely, to keep their mouths shut now and always, phone them and have them go scouting about on the highways as Uncle Chaney is doing. If they stopped for gas—something to eat—anything, we may get a line. The sooner we can get it the better. I'll find out about his car the first thing and let you know. Then you can tell your friends that much, at least along with the description of that dirty cur and Mary-Frances. A brown striped suit remember. A blue coat, and a blue dress with smoking."

"Yes. A blue dress. I did the smoking."

Ann went into the house and into the dining room and sat down in a chair which she had put directly under the telephone and rubbed her right fist into the damp palm of her left hand, and waited.

How One Man Lost 22 Pounds

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—my first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now I feel like a new man."

To lose fat SAFELY and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle at any drugstore in the world and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. Moore Drug Co. and all good drugists will be glad to supply you.—Adv.

The telephone bell.

"Miss Fenwick? This is Joe Hill speaking. The car is a 1928 sports model Thysler, repainted yellow with green trimmings. No news as yet, as I suppose?"

"A 1928 sports model Thysler repainted yellow with green trimmings. No not a word. Not a word from anyone."

"Do soon yet to hear you know. Keep up heart. I'll call you again, later. I'm going to see his landlady now, and to the theater."

Ann dialed a number and asked for Mr. Philip Erroyd. Just a moment please. Mr. Erroyd did not answer. What was the number again? Walnut 5745. Yes, it

Story Says Daughter of Burr Perished As Pirate Captive on Coast of Texas

FREEMONT, Jan. 28.—Out of the folklore of the Texas Gulf coast country today came the latest story concerning the probable fate of Theodosia Alston, beautiful daughter of Aaron Burr, who became one of history's most famous missing persons.

The most generally accepted story is that Mrs. Alston, young wife of Governor Joseph Alston of South Carolina, perished when a packet, the Patriot, bound from Charleston to New York, foundered in a storm off Cape Hatteras.

If this latest story is true, however, it will bear out the opinions of the more romantically inclined folk of the early 19th century, who believed that Mrs. Alston, along with other passengers, was seized by buccannery who then infested southern waters in great number.

Be it false or fact, the story unearthed by Mrs. T. A. Humphries, local historian, has the famous beauty dying on the beach near the mouth of the San Bernard river, with a naked savage as her last audience.

The beautiful Theodosia disappeared in December, 1813, nine years after her father, then vice president of the United States, fought and fatally wounded in a duel Alexander Hamilton, secretary of the treasury. The ship Patriot never reached New York, where Mrs. Alston was to have joined Burr, just returned from self-imposed exile abroad.

One Deerhead, chief of the Carolina Indians, is credited by Mrs. Humphries as witnessing a white woman's death on the beach near here several months after the Patriot's disappearance.

It was in his room yesterday and gone today. So Denver does seem to be one lead.

"But, Mr. Hill, Bluetown is south. If they were going to Denver, then—then Bluetown is hopeless."

of disappeared. Deerhead told his story to the early settlers and it has been handed down through the years.

In the early fall of 1814, according to Deerhead's account, a pirate ship was caught in a storm near where the San Bernard empties into the Gulf of Mexico. Deerhead came upon the battered hulk on the beach next day.

Hearing a faint cry, he broke into a cabin and found a white woman chained to the wall. She was near death. Deerhead administered to her in his crude fashion but soon the woman died. Before she died, however, she gave the Indian a gold locket.

Years later, old settlers testify, the Indian known as Deerhead proudly exhibited such a locket. It contained miniature of a handsome man and child, and on one side was engraved the name "Theodosia."

Legend has it that Deerhead buried the woman on the beach and covered the grave with a broken door from the pirate vessel.

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
This is the open season for the payment of poll tax. It is said that the high water mark in payment was established for the election of 1928. Practical politicians who keep their eyes open as well as their ears are confident that the 1928 registration will continue as the high mark unless all the signs are misleading. They say that there are thousands of men and women in city and country who have not the money to provide themselves with certificates of voting citizenship. Clearing day is coming. It would be well to be prepared. There is going to be a battle royal, politically speaking, in Texas this year and red hot campaign is promised. Now, it is said those who are determined to stop Roosevelt are playing a game strong but silent in many states. Only 385 delegate votes are needed to stop the New York governor. Under the two-thirds rule it will take 770 votes to nominate Roosevelt for the reason that the leaders the country over haven't the intestinal courage to abrogate the hell-raising rule of 100 years.

Now comes the news that Ohio is one of the line of favorite sons which is relied upon to block the nomination of the New York governor for president. It is asserted that an agreement has been made by the Ohio leaders which provides for the holding of the strong Buckeye delegation intact against outside candidates for at least four ballots in the democratic national convention. Feasibility of the delegation of 52 following the bent of their own minds after one complimentary vote for Gov. George H. White was "exerted" when "all the Ohio leaders united on a plan to have the delegates to vote first for Gov. White and then some other Ohioan or four babies before giving votes to other candidates." Then, unless the nomination of a candidate from another state has become inevitable, "the delegation will be selected to support another Ohio candidate." Those who are pulling the wires predict that the second choice of the 52 Buckeye delegates will be Newton D. Baker "despite his refusal to seek the presidential nomination."

Newton D. Baker is the foremost champion of the league of nations in the camp of Jefferson. If he should receive the nomination after a deadlocked convention where would Mr. William Randolph Hearst go? But why play futures? It is a long time before the coming of early July and the delegates to the Chicago convention will name

Nazarene Services Continue Interest

Despite bad weather and "flu" the revival continues with good interest at the Church of the Nazarene. Services are held at 7:30.
The evangelist is dealing with some very timely subjects from night to night. Only four more days of the meeting remain, and everyone is invited to attend these last few services.
"Holiness or Hell" will be the subject for this evening. The subject will be handled with characteristic dispatch, with numerous Scripture references from both the Old and the New Testaments.
"Many people are falsely informed relative to what holiness involves. Few realize it is nothing to become excited about" declared Rev. Murphy. "Many are not aware that it is Methodist doctrine and that both John and Charles Wesley preached it just as the Nazarenes do now. It is not in the least fantastic, neither is it self-righteousness, or spiritual pride. It is a mighty humbling of the human and exaltation of the divine and a glorious possibility."

R. C. A. Planning Pacific Phones

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 28. — Plans for the establishment of a radio telephone service from the Philippines to the United States and Europe, to be followed by service to China and Japan are being contemplated, according to W. A. Winterbottom, vice-president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America Communications, Inc. The service will also extend to Java and Australia.
Winterbottom sees in the project the possibility that telephone users in the islands may talk to persons in America and Europe and other countries of the Far East.
The R. C. A. executive arrived here recently and immediately conducted a survey of the islands' communications service.
According to tentative plans Winterbottom said, the project will be put into effect in 1932.
Service to Japan, China, Java and Australia, Winterbottom said will depend on the success of the Philippines-to-America -to-Europe project.

Minister Visits His Sister Here

The Rev. Melvin Wise, minister of the Church of Christ at Nocona, Texas, with Mrs. Wise and daughter, Jo Ellen, will be the week-end guests of his sister, Mrs. J. B. Hunter, and while here will occupy the pulpit of the local Church of Christ at both the morning and evening services next Sunday. All members and friends are invited to attend these services, which will be at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

the standard bearer after having drafted and adopted a platform. Bludgeoning the two-thirds rule would bring peace and harmony in all the years to come in the national household of the democratic party.

State Sen. Clinton Small journeyed all the way from Amarillo to Austin for a conference with Gov. Ross S. Sterling. They were in conference 45 minutes. Sen. Small did not tarry in the Friendly City over night. He caught a home bound train for the snow covered section of Texas. He said to his friends that he would not be a candidate for governor this year but he would be a candidate for reelection to his present office. Of course the expected happened Gov. Sterling has been a candidate for a second term all along. There are democrats who are very close to the Ferguson who are spreading the news by grapevine and other wise that Mrs. Ferguson will be a candidate for governor if the rural district citizenry make an excellent showing in poll tax payment. If this happens then the editor of the Forum will not be in the race for congressman-at-large. If those who are close to him are good judges a slump in poll tax payments is predicted by the practical politicians who read the newspapers and watch the paying records carried daily in the 254 counties of Texas.

REPUTATION and CHARACTER

This is the BANK that SERVICE is Building

Firms, as well as individuals, have reputation and character.

Reputation is based on the general estimate of one's worthiness; character is worthiness itself.

The First National Bank admits an honest pride in its reputation, which it guards carefully; but it cherishes more the character from which this reputation has sprung.

CONTINUED THINKING

MEMPHIS, Tenn., January 23. — Dr. W. R. Atkinson, professor of psychology at Southwestern, co-educational college here, says 70 per cent of our dreams are unpleasant. He is of the opinion that most dreams are continuations of daytime thinking, that most people can remember only the dream they had experienced just before awakening.

"My reason for smoking LUCKIES"

THE QUEEN OF COLLEENS
They scoured Ireland—the FOX flicker folks—for a winsome colleen to play opposite that great Irish tenor in "Song O' My Heart." And whom should they find but Maureen O'Sullivan! She arrived dressed as a waif—but her trunk was full of snappy Paris clothes. How's that for Irish blarney! She's now going over big in RKO PATER'S "THE BIG SHOT." It didn't take her long to pick LUCKIES, and she's been smoking them a year and a half. The only reward for her statement was our friendly "Top o' the morning, Maureen!"

"My reason for smoking LUCKIES is that they are so mild and cause no irritation to my throat. Your new Cellophane wrapper is marvelous. Just a pull of the tab and there are the LUCKIES."
