GARNERS WELCOMED HOME TODAY

Three Dead as Blazing Pistols Climax Bitter Feud

PRINCIPALS AND FARMER ARE VICTIMS

MADILL, Okla., July 18.—A feud reached a climax in the blazing pistols of a veteran peace officer and a notorious gunman who met in the corner drug store in this quiet village late Sunday.

Both principals in the gun duel and an innocent bystander lay dead at Ardmore today. Another bystander who was caught in the line of fire was injured critically.

The dead:

Crockett Long, veteran peace officer and assistant superintendent of Oklahoma's bureau of criminal investigation.

Wiley Lynn, the slayer of another famous peace officer, Bill Tilghman.

Rody Watkins, a farmer who was caught in the line of pistol fire.

John Hilbert, another farmer and bystander, was wounded seriously.

Seated in Store.

Long was seated near the rear of the store when Lynn walked into the room. He stopped a moment, saw Long and called out:

"All right, Crockett Long, 'throw 'em up. I'm going to get you some time and it might as well be now."

Long wheeled about shouting: "Drop that gun, Lynn."

They emptied their pistols as they advanced toward each other.

Hilbert and Watkins were cut down in the furious gun-fire.

Long died shortly before 6 p. m. Lynn had two bullets in the stomach, one struck him in the back and another in the chest. He died at 4:30 a. m. today. Watkins died last night.

None could recall the exact cause of the duel although enmity between the two men was a legend here. Long once arrested Lynn on liquor charges.

Jobless "Sold" on Auction Block

Pre-Civil War days, when slaves were sold from auction blocks were recalled in Los Angeles when the labor of unemployed persons was auctioned off by Louis Byrens, welfare worker and philanthropist. He is pictured on the block with Vivian Roberts, 22-year-old waitress, whose services were bought on a bid of 50 cents an hour. The labor of salesmen, clerks, cooks and other workers was "knocked down" to the highest bidders.

CANDIDATES TO BE HERE TOMORROW

Candidates for county officers will invade Cisco en masse Tuesday evening. They will speak on the city hall lawn at 8:30 o'clock where a platform will be provided. Judge J. D. Barker, Cisco, a candidate for judge of the 88th district, will preside. Speakers will be limited in time upon a schedule based upon the character of the office each is seeking.

Seventh street for the block in front of the city hall will be roped off and the area patrolled against interference from traffic. The space between the city hall and the rear of the Dean Drug store will be freed of cars and left open to the crowd.

An amplifying system to enable the candidates to be clearly heard over the space will be installed.

For the past month county candidates have been following out an organized program of this character, visiting all the centers of population in the county.

In contrast to this arrangement, George Bryant, candidate for county judge has played a lone hand. He will speak this evening at the city hall.

FLEEING BANDIT KIDNAPS 2 IN MURDER GETAWAY

Kidnaped by a fleeing bandit who had just killed one man and wounded another, nine-year-old William Klesin and his uncle, John Hova, were forced to drive the fugitive from Toledo, Ohio, to South Bend, Ind., where he released them unharmed. The lad and his uncle are shown in the upper photos. Below are Dr. Martin J. Larkin (right), Toledo physician, who was shot by the bandit during the latter's escape after he had killed City Marshal Jay Davis (left) in a gun battle at North Baltimore, Ohio, near Toledo, when the officer was trying to arrest the desperado for a robbery. Police identified the bandit as James Storey, 25, alias James Wilson, of St. Paul, Minn. Two of Storey's younger brothers were arrested, one being wounded in the gun battle with the marshal.

Moody to Speak At Eastland

Former Governor Dan Moody will speak at Eastland Thursday at 2:30 p. m. in behalf of the candidacy for Gov. Ross Sterling for re-election, it was announced today.

Mr. Moody will speak from the court house lawn.

SHAVE FIRST CONCERN OF THE SPEAKER

By SAM D. HALES
P. P. Staff Correspondent.

EN ROUTE WITH GARNER, July 18.—Speaker John Garner, democratic nominee for vice-president, began his triumphant return home today by greeting 1,000 admirers and having a barber remove a three-day growth of beard at Denison, the first Texas stop on the Missouri-Kansas-Texas.

The shave in question was the one the speaker sought in vain in St. Louis yesterday. So anxious was he to be shaved before reaching Dallas he wired Denison Katy officials from Muskogee, Okla., and they had a car at the station to take him to a barber shop.

"Sam, I've got to get my whiskers cut off," said the Speaker as the shoo-k hands with Rep. Sam Rayburn, the first to meet Garner at Denison. Mrs. Garner agreed, but he had to mount a truck and speak before he could leave the station.

"I'm mighty glad to get back to Texas," he told the crowd. "I'm about done up with this talking and quarreling with the republicans."

"What's needed in Washington is the nerve to fight political bosses and graft."

After a few minutes his friends managed to get him to the car and it sped five blocks to the Simpson hotel where Jack Reynolds gave the Uvalde congressman such a good shave that the already late train had ten additional minutes to make up when it started south again.

"Good Luck"

Congressman and Mrs. Garner stood on the observation platform and shouted "Good Luck" as the train left.

"Where are you going fishing?" he was asked.

"Well, by gad, I'm going so far into the brush that you can't find me with an airplane," replied the ruddy faced Speaker.

"All the gates are going to be barred and anything that newspapers report me as saying for the next three weeks will be all wet. I'm going away with this talking and quarreling with the republicans."

"I'm leaving the wife at home and will be off the next day with an old carpenter friend and a car driver, just the three of us, to fish."

Garner recalled that he earned his first money in north Texas by picking 100 pounds of cotton one morning in Red River county. He received five dollars and bought a young mule which he later sold for $150.

COLLUM WILL HELP DIRECT STATE CONTEST

Special to The News:
DALLAS, July 18.—G. W. Collum, of Cisco, has been named on the committee to be in charge of the state-wide band contest which will be held at the 1932 State Fair of Texas, it has been announced by Col. Earl D. Irons of Arlington, superintendent of the band contest.

The contest will be open to any non-professional band in the entire state, and will be held by the State Fair in conjunction with the Texas State Band Teachers association, of which Col. Irons is vice president, and other musical organizations of Texas.

The first prize in the contest will be $1,000 in cash and a second prize of $400 is also being offered. The designation of the Official State Fair of Texas band will be given the band, and should the winning band go to the world band contest at Chicago next year, it will be entitled to call itself such.

Karl L. King, internationally famous composer of band music and widely known judge has been named to award prizes in the contest.

Much interest has already been manifested in the contest, and Col. Irons has predicted that there will be more than 100 bands competing at the State Fair. All bands will play in concert and a mass band concert at the State Fair as part of their competition.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY PACT SIGNED

WASHINGTON, July 18.—A treaty providing for action by the United States and Canada to engage in the outstanding engineering project of modern times, an $800,000,000 St. Lawrence waterway linking the heart of the American continent with sea-going European traffic, was signed here today by representatives of the two countries.

Sec'y of State Stimson signed the treaty in behalf of the United States and Minister William D. Harriidge for Canada.

Two large dams capable of developing 1,100,000 horsepower and a waterway 27 feet deep through St. Lawrence are envisaged in the project.

Former Cisco Girl Wins Contest

Miss Gladys Donaldson, who formerly made her home in Cisco, was awarded first prize in a popularity contest, staged recently in Halbrook, Arizona.

Miss Donaldson received 4500 votes and was presented with a wrist watch by the Arizona Nite Hawks orchestra.

ROTARY MEET.

SWEETWATER, July 18.—Presidents and secretaries of the 41st Rotary district, comprising all west Texas met here today with Andy Anderson, of Ranger, district governor, presiding.

CAN'T COLLECT GAME

ST. CLAIR SHORES, Mich., July 18.—It's all right to shoot pigeons here, but the shooter can't pick up his game. An edict issued by Police Chief Abe Allard makes it against the law for the person who shoots a bird to take it home. Chief Allard hopes his edict will prevent indignities from shooting the birds for food.

ESTATE DOUBLED

BESSEMER, Mich., July 18.—When Pasqual Padone filed the law, believing he had killed a man eleven years ago, he left behind a modest fortune amounting to approximately $2,552. Now officers are seeking Padone to tell him the man he shot recovered. His property has almost doubled in value.

STUDIES TEMPERATURES

MACON, Mich., July 18.—Henry Ford is experimenting with an old mansion here, in an effort to develop a year-round temperature control system with one unit. The unit combines refrigeration with heat.

Ford purchased the mansion known as the Barton Farmington homestead to restore its pioneer appearance.

Lotief to Speak Here This Evening

Cecil Lotief, candidate for the legislature from the 10th district of Eastland and Callahan counties, will speak tonight at the city hall and receive the address by George Bryant at 8:30, he announced.

EARLY HEARING GRANTED PARKS IN DROWNING

SWEETWATER, July 18.—Early preliminary hearing for L. M. Parks, bottling works company manager charged with murder in connection with the drowning of his wife was held yesterday by Park's attorney and will be held tomorrow.

Parks, arrested shortly after his wife's body was removed from Lake Trammell and after it was discovered she had been insured for $15,000, was brought here yesterday from San Angelo where he was held in county jail. A woman, Mrs. Fay Condit, arrested in Oklahoma and brought here by officers has been charged with "wilfully advising" Parks in the alleged murder.

BONUS FORCES AT WASHINGTON DRIFTING OFF

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Leaders of the bonus army exerted their men today to remain in Washington and continue their struggle for government help, but an increasing number of veterans appeared to be anxious to quit the fight and return to their homes.

The veterans administration was thronged with applications for transportation advance on their adjusted service certificates. More than 2,000 veterans have been furnished transportation and several hundred others were waiting in line to make out the necessary forms.

W. F. Bruce Returns To Randolph College

The many friends of W. F. Bruce will be glad to know that he will return to Randolph college. Mr. Bruce came to Randolph first in 1924, and with the exception of the past year has been prominently connected with the school. At one time he was dean of the college, and has been one of the faithful few who have stayed with it in spite of hardship and sacrifice. It is felt that he will add much strength to the college.

He has spent the last year in Butler university in Indianapolis where he has been doing graduate work. He will be head of the English department.

ONE RING RECOVERED.

ONIDA, Kan., July 18.—Mrs. Emery Conwell lost a ring in the tornado of May 17, 1886. In clearing away the debris caused by another recent storm, her husband found the gold band buried in the barnyard.

STERLING PLAN WOULD FREE COUNTIES OF MORE THAN $77,000,000 BONDS FOR STATE HIGHWAYS

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, July 18.—Governor Ross S. Sterling's campaign plank on highways assures taxpayers of Texas that if he is elected, more than $77,000,000 outstanding bonds, voted to build state designated highways, will be lifted from the shoulders of the home and farm-owners.

This will reduce the highway fund $7,000,000 the first year, and a gradually-decreasing amount each year to follow, until the bonds are paid off.

It will leave the highway department with enough money to continue necessary road-building, and to match — and thus to get — the $5,000,000 or more federal aid per year.

It will keep the highway-building program intact.

More to Appropriate
James E. Ferguson's highway plank promises a sop of additional money to the schools.

It promises to take $10,000,000 out of the highway fund and turn it over to the whims of the legislature whose record through all the years has been to appropriate out more than the state could raise.

It promises no relief from the bond debts.

It assures the complete stoppage of all highway construction for at least as long as the Fergusons would be in power, if elected, and until an other legislature could undo the damage.

Election of the Fergusons, if this should happen, would be a mandate for the legislature to let him take the $10,000,000 out of the highway fund—thus even stopping highway work already approved and authorized.

Bonds Would Remain.
So the counties still would have their highway bonds, still would be paying the full gasoline tax, and would have none of the road-construction funds coming back to them.

Amounts of outstanding bonds to be assumed if Mr. Sterling is re-elected have not yet been reported for each county. The amounts are in the neighborhood of that contributed by each county to highway construction, as recorded by the state highway department. From the original bond issues, payments have been made in varying amounts, but the counties paid for right of way in the addition to the figures shown as direct contributions into the highway fund.

EASTLAND COUNTY BONDS TOTAL $3,151,000
The total amount of Eastland county bonds for road construction outstanding as of July 1, 1932, is $3,151,000, according to the county auditor's office. The original issue was $4,500,000 which has paid down to the first figure. Annual payments on this indebtedness have ranged between $325,000 and $340,000 of which about $135,000 was payment on principal.

CISCO SCOUTS LEAVING FOR CAMP TUESDAY

Twenty Cisco Boys Scouts, members of troops No. 1 and 4 will leave tomorrow morning for Camp Gibbons at Richland Springs, 40 miles from Brownwood for the annual Comanche Trail council encampment. They will remain at the camp for one week.

The camp site is well equipped and well supplied with every convenience.

A special program for visitors will be held at the camp next Sunday. Parents and friends are invited. Several hundred boys from over 15 counties will attend the camp. Guy N. Quiri, council Scout executive will be in charge. He will be assisted by scoutmasters, and men specially trained in camp work. Physicians will be in attendance.

Those to go from Cisco are:

Troop No. 1 — Billy Wallace, Durward Boyd, George R. Winston, Coleman Williams, Melvin Lawcox, Victor Lawson, Crandall Jones, Thomas Lee Jones, Kessler Thomas, Bayard McMahon, Emers Huey and L. A. Hanson.

Troop No. 4. — Olin Odom, Cecil Edwards, Reuben Wendle, Levitus Lanford, Robt Campbell, Robt. Bates, Jimmie Romitger, Billie Burman and Billy Kilborn.

These boys will be carried in five cars. F. D. McMahon, S. R. Wood, O. G. Lawson, S. H. Nance and T. C. Williams will furnish and drive the cars. Baggage will be transported in a truck furnished by W. W. Wallace. Mr. Williams will take his car and a group of the boys this afternoon. The others will leave early tomorrow morning.

Ernest Lennon and T. C. Williams will have charge of the boys at the camp.

FIGURES FOR FARMERS AND LIVESTOCK MEN.

State Auditor Moore Lynn in his report shows the disbursements for the development and conservation of natural resources were for the year 1920 approximately $773,220 and for the year 1930 approximately $1,813,887, an increase of $1,076,667. Bear in mind this group includes the agricultural experiment stations and forestry service under the direction of the Agricultural and Mechanical college, the department of agriculture, the livestock sanitary commission, the game and fish and oyster commission, and the state reclamation department and the board of water engineers.

A reminder that the farmers and livestock producers of Texas as well as the truck growers and orchardists of Texas are largely responsible for these departments of government. Why shouldn't they be given protection? Texas is the greatest of agricultural states. Texas is the greatest producer of wool and mohair. Texas leads in sheep and goats. Texas takes high rank as a swine producing state. Texas is famous for its orchards and gardens. It is famous for its production of vegetables of all kinds. It is destined to be one of the greatest citrus producing states in the union. Really, the appropriations made are pitifully small. They are made for vast industries which like the Forgotten Man had been given grudgingly assistance in years ago.

A modern commonwealth must have highways of the best. A modern commonwealth must have a university and colleges and public schools of the best. Texans, to their credit be it said, have been building highways and they have been giving support to the cause of education.

Hammer this in the ears of the bollyhoosers that 90 per cent of the cost of government is due to increases in yearly expenditures for highways and education, and only 10 per cent of the increase is divided among the various other governmental functions.

Texas has a population over the 6,000,000 mark, and Texas, or Texans, are not going to take the back track. They should demand responsible government. They should demand honest and efficient government. They should demand an economical expenditure of public money and the way to continue down the broad open highway is to kick advocates of proxy government in the ribs and out of the picture or primary election day.

GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE SIGN A PACT.

According to the prime minister of France, under the new Franco-British accord, Great Britain has no right to negotiate a new war debt settlement with the United States without first consulting the French government. This new instrument is a complement to the gentlemen's agreement signed at Lausanne. This agreement bound the debtors of the United States not to ratify the Lausanne treaty settling German reparations until each of them had obtained a satisfactory settlement of its own debts. Well, these foreign brothers who were the allies of Uncle Sam in the World War are indebted to the American government and people for a little balance of $11,000,000,000. Their representatives agreed to whittle German war reparations from $60,000,000,000 to $750,000,000. Now they are ready to begin negotiations with Uncle Sam to get him to reduce their debts from $11,000,000,000 to nothing.

There are many wise men in America who are of the opinion that Uncle Sam will never collect a dollar of the war debts. But regardless of all this the American taxpayers will be compelled in time to pay the $11,000,000,000 Liberty bonds floated for the honor of the nation and the flag to make democracy safe for the world. Uncle Sam never repudiates his debts. He has pledged the honor and the credit of the nation to the Liberty Bond issues and their redemption. There are no whittlers on this side of the Atlantic when it comes to the final payment of Liberty Bonds. Behind them is the pledge of the nation, the honor of the nation, and the wealth of the nation.

SPEAKER GARNER RUNS TRUE TO FORM.

Washington says that Speaker Garner has decided on the most economical method possible to receive formal notification of his nomination for the vice presidency. It will cost two 3-cent postage stamps and will take place within a few days. There will be no ceremony. Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky will notify the Texan by letter. Speaker Garner will reply in kind and the letters will be made public.

Franklin D. Roosevelt blazed a new trail for those who come after him when he made his air trip from Albany to Chicago, faced a nominating convention, made an acceptance address second to none in 50 years, and very bluntly told the delegates and leaders that the platform had his endorsement a full 100 per cent. This will do away with a lot of political flummery and long-winded promplicity in future years. Flowers for the Texan.

What Happens When Irresistible Force Meets Immovable Body?

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Sen. Morris Sheppard read a newspaper clipping saying "it is generally known that Wayne B. Wheeler wrote and handed the 18th amendment to Sheppard to sign on the dotted line". Well, the senior senator from Texas made use of his branding iron on the writer of the newspaper story. Of course, the senator did not make use of the word short and ugly. This was his mild rejoinder: "That is entirely untrue. I wrote and introduced the resolution that became the 18th amendment. In doing it I conferred with others in and out of congress."

Wayne B. Wheeler was the voice of the national Anti-Saloon league and its allied organizations. He was one of the keenest lobbyists that Washington has known. Washington correspondents credited Wheeler with being the brains of the inner circle organization of the league.

Now he is dead. Why not let him sleep in peace? He is not the author of the 18th amendment. A Texan sent it out of his workshop. A Texan put it over, it has been given a trial trip of 12 years and now it is a burning issue (according to political side-steppers) as it was in the days before the coming of Morris Sheppard or the famous Dr. Andrew Volstead of Minnesota.

John D. Rockefeller was for years a financial sponsor and angel. A pro of pros. Rockefeller started the political world when he advised a change. Indeed the son of his father practically declared for the repeal of the 18th amendment in his letter to Nicholas Murray Butler who is one of the foremost repeaters on the stage of action as well as the head of a famous university.

Pres. Hoover sent in his veto of the Garner relief bill. First, "it would place the government in private business in such fashion to violate the very principles of public relations upon which we have builded our nation." Second, "this proposal violates every sound principle of government finance and of business." Third, "never before has such power for evil been placed at the unlimited discretion of seven individuals."

Well, the veto was sustained. Then the great engineer president dispatched a special message to congress recommending that the board be increased from seven to eight members, and second, that Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board and the farm loan commissioner, Paul Bester, be replaced on the board of directors by successors to be named by him. Owing to the heavy burdens placed upon the seven members the president fears there is danger of physical breakdown "among the ex-officio members in their endeavor to carry on dual duties."

Cgden L. Mills is secretary of the treasury. He was named when Andrew W. Mellon was sent to the Court of St. James. Ogden L. is a New Yorker. He is said to be the owner of millions and he speaks for millions. On the day the congress received the veto message the successor of Andrew W. Mellon opened the republican 1932 presidential campaign in the city of Boston. He spoke very highly of the distinguished statesman who had made him secretary of the treasury. Read it: "No man living has the qualifications of Pres. Hoover." Wonderful. He is the wonder medicar of all the ages. As for the secretary of the treasury, those brilliant propagandists of the press who have White House entry acclaim him "the greatest Alexander Hamilton of American history" not the second but the greatest. On with the bunk battle.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

CHICAGO—So much was heard about the wets and the noise they made during the Republican convention that you may have wondered whether there were any visible signs of the great network of dry organizations which first put prohibition in the constitution and has kept it there since.

There were, although diligent search was required to find dry headquarters. Most of the big shots in the prohibition movement were here as super-strategists for the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, which is a super-organization of all the dry organizations especially formed to fight off the wets in 1932.

At least a score of nationally known officials and working members of that board were active in the wet-dry fight which raged over the Republican platform plank.

Not Even a Sign!

HEADQUARTERS was established in two modest hotel rooms in one of the older hotels within the Loop, many blocks away from convention headquarters and the hotels which housed the big delegations. One of the dry leaders had known the assistant manager of the hotel, so there they went. These rooms were used only for meeting places and conference rooms. No attempt was made to attract the presence of delegates or the public.

The dries didn't even erect a sign in the downstairs lobby. In fact, as one dry lady explained, the only reason they had a headquarters at all was that "they didn't want to meet for discussion in each others' bedrooms because they were both men and women and that wouldn't be desirable."

There was no question that the hotel bill would be paid, but neither was there any attempt to deny that most dry leaders yearned for the good old days when millions flowed freely into their coffers. Only a few weeks ago the board of strategy put on, with the anticipated cooperation of Sunday schools and churches everywhere, a drive for "a million dimes," which meant $100,000, with the slogan "Dry dimes will beat wet dollars." The result was a disappointment, although enough dimes came in to pay rent and other expenses for a while.

The Bantam Bishop
BISHOP JAMES CANNON, JR.,
the little bantam from Virginia who has been so busy fighting in congressional hearing rooms, the newspapers and ecclesiastical councils for the last few years, was one of the most active strategists. He doesn't use any more the crutches which he used to brandish when under fire and now seems to walk with ease. He preferred to avoid the limelight at Chicago.

Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington of Ohio appeared to be a dominant force in the group. He is a tall, heavy man who gives an impression of force, a business man who has operated the Anti-Saloon League's publishing house at Westerville and, like so many other business men, wears heavy days—especially those days before the Anti-Saloon League bank went bust.

Cherrington, whom many dries used to think would fill the shoes of Wayne B. Wheeler, is chairman of the strategy board, head of the World League Against Alcoholism and boss of the endowed educational section of the league.

The Dry Platform Plea

HE was the principal dry speaker before the Republican platform committee, arguing, like the others, that prohibition was not a political issue, that the constitution should not be monkeyed-with except in the existing constitutional method. Let Congress act when ready, Cherrington urged.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, an elderly veteran in the cause who remains spry and jolly and always grins at adversity, is executive secretary of the strategy board, which has headquarters in Washington. He is the one who tried to raise the million dimes. He was often to be seen around the lobbies of convention headquarters, always willing to pose—even with leaders of obscure wet organizations—when the photographers desired.

Miss Young Dries
MORE gaunt and worried was General Superintendent F. Scott McBride of the league, a country preacher type whose misfortune has resembled that of Herbert Hoover in that he took office in time to serve through the depression. The others were also veterans of the pre-prohibition fights. You missed the younger generation of dries. The sad fact was that the younger generation in Chicago seemed to be marching and hollering with the wets.

time, in excess of $61,000—the federal income tax records show.

Is it possible that the following picture the course to be taken in the United States if the prohibitionists succeed or the modifiers bring back beer and win by legal definition? It is the first definite idea advanced here for an "adequate substitute" claimed by the dries to be lacking.

For what it may be worth, the idea is:

That the federal government will turn over enforcement to such states as will assume it, giving federal aid for enforcement, as in highway-building, education and other activities.

That where a state refuses to handle the enforcement or administration, the federal government will use its own agents and machinery, as now set up duplicating state agencies.

This, it will be seen, keeps in federal control the trouble question under state administration, of interstate commerce in shipping liquor across state lines.

James E. Ferguson has predicted a vote of 850,000 in the first primary suggesting that on that basis Mrs. Ferguson will require only 425,001 votes for a first-primary nomination. In 1930, two years nearer her former term, she polled in the first primary, 242,959 votes to 170,754 for Gov. Sterling.

In the second primary, she gained 141,443 votes. Mr. Sterling gained 332,617 votes.

On his own figures, Mrs. Ferguson would have to rustle up in the first primary 182,942 more votes this year than in the first primary then, and 40,599 more than in the second primary of 1930, despite the decline of between 60,000 and 100,000 Ferguson poll-tax payments.

GALVESTON REVUE SCOPE IS RESTRICTED

GALVESTON, July 18.—The Galveston bathing revue, which formerly operated more extensively as the International Pageant of Pulpit, will be known this year as the "Personality Contest," and its scope will be strictly southwestern.

George Mitchell, general manager of the contest, insists that the main difference between the contest this year and the previous years is in the name.

"Otherwise," said Mr. Mitchell, "the contest will be the same. We will have, as in previous years, a glittering galaxy of gorgeous girls parading along a magnificent boardwalk before applauding thousands. The cream of southwestern womanhood will be there."

Whatever the difference, plans for the 1932 contest apparently have incurred no displeasure among persons who saw much to criticize in the international pageants.

Bitter Opponent

For instance, nothing has been heard from Bishop C. S. Byrne, of the Catholic diocese, who has fought its annual event bitterly ever since its inception. Several years ago Bishop Byrne wrote to European beauties and dissuaded them from entering the Galveston contest.

Dates of the "personality contest" have been changed from July 23 and 24 to August 6 and 7. The board of directors decided on the change when it was learned the first date would conflict with the democratic primary election.

The Galveston Beach association, sponsors of the contest, has not made public the list of entrants to date.

Entrants this year will be from Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Oklahoma, instead of from all parts of the world. The winner, to be known as "Miss Personality," will tour the eastern United States via American Airways and make personal appearances at leading hotels and theaters. All expenses will be paid.

Rules of the contest provide that entrants must be selected by an elimination contest, conducted in their home city, must be between 16 and 25 years of age and unmarried; must be amateurs; must give exclusive picture and movie rights to the Galveston Beach association, and must participate in every scheduled event of the contest.

Contestants must be furnished with three costumes in which to compete, sports costume or afternoon frock, bathing costume, and evening gown.

No entrants will be permitted to appear without hose. When wearing bathing suits, the hose must be full length or "open" hose.

MARKET PRICES TREND UPWARD DURING WEEK

In its weekly review of business and financial conditions The Wall Street Journal says:

Several consecutive developments during the past week, including a more favorable trend in banking and higher prices for basic commodities, coupled with the prospect of an early adjournment of congress, were instrumental in effecting a better price situation in markets generally.

Raw sugar and hog prices were conspicuous on the upside, while wheat and cotton moved irregularly. In its advancing stage, raw sugar touched a new high, marking a gain of almost 100 per cent from the lows reached in May. Hog prices with few interruptions, have been experiencing an almost steady climb to higher levels for the past six weeks, the appreciation being about 70 per cent.

The week's statements of the Federal Reserve banks were reassuring, and disclosed a reduction of $61,000,000 in circulation, an expansion of member bank reserve balances and an increase in the country's gold stock of about $10,000,000. The American dollar strengthened in foreign markets. Particular weakness, however, was apparent in French francs.

Among trade developments, the steel industry presented a slightly more favorable aspect. Operations rebounded to 16 per cent, bringing the level to the June average. The gain represented resumption of activity after the holiday shutdowns.

While there is a tendency to predict that the low point in steel operations was passed over the period in which Independence Day fell, it is futile to consider estimates of this kind seriously. There is little noticeable difference between 12 per cent and 16 per cent operations, and any ripple on the business surface could cause a variation in operations to that extent. Those who view the situation realistically know that most companies have a long way to go before operations approach a profitable level, and there appears little hope of important buying stimulation before fall. By that time, it is realized, a widespread increase in the use of credit must be promoted if the steel industry is to attain any worthwhile operating rate. Currently the steel trade is in the grip of seasoned and extraordinary dullness the latter resulting from the lack of confidence in general business and the absence of constructive work and capital expansion programs.

As judged by the Dow-Jones' averages, stocks on the New York Stock Exchange showed sizeable gains for the week. The industrials advanced 3.84 points, rail 2.34 points and utilities 1.74 points. Bonds gained 1.01 points.

Distinct improvement was apparent in shares and bonds of railroad companies toward the latter part of the week, based on the prospect of an early decision by the interstate commerce commission on the four-party eastern trunk line consolidation.

The week's range of the Dow-Jones averages follows:

30 Industrials	454.47	449.68	454.47
20 Utilities	18.31	17.00	18.31
20 Rails	15.66	14.10	15.66
40 Bonds	71.10	70.51	71.24

A. T. T. Report Shows Drop in Telephones

The following is the report of the American Telephone and Telegraph company to its stockholders made by Walter S. Gifford, president and released July 15, 1932.

"To the Stockholders: During the first six months of 1932 the number of Bell System telephones disconnected exceeded those added by about 785,000. The number of telephones now in service is approximately 3 per cent below the system's maximum development—a point reached in 1930—is slightly in excess of those in service on January 1, 1929. Long distance calls were about 1 per cent less than for the same period last year.

"While the company shows earnings of $4.02 per share in the first half of 1932, dividends received from Associated Companies amounting to $69,671,263 as shown in the statement below were not fully earned by these companies during the six months by approximately $8,000,000. No dividends have been received this year from the Western Electric company as compared with $10,325,862 received in the first six months of last year. That company is now operating at a net loss for the first four months of this year (the latest available figures) of $3,381,000.

"The number of stockholders of the company is now in excess of 700,000, a gain of more than 55,000 since the first of the year.

United States Senator Robert D. Carey, of Wyoming, says:

"The man who lives on the frontier had to take care of himself. He could not rush to the telephone and call for help. Consequently he was self-reliant. If he needed something he either obtained it thru his own efforts or devised some substitute. Often he went without.

"Civilization lessens self-reliance and initiative.

"The farmer will go or send to town for parts for his machinery rather than attempt to make repairs. If he has a difficult problem he will pass it on to the County Agent.

"The city man will call some expert to do a job which he could do himself in a few minutes.

"Many parents feel that the schools can supply all the discipline and moral training that their children need. Girls learn to cook and sew at school rather than at home.

"The state and federal governments are doing many things for people which they could do for themselves.

"If we continue as we are doing we will become so helpless that we cannot do anything for ourselves. Who will take care of us when that time comes?"

CISCO BOYS EKE OUT WIN OVER MILLS 9

The Cisco Red Sox eked out another win over Fort Worth when they defeated the Universal Mills nine 3-2. The Cisco boys had to come from behind twice to win the victory. Fort Worth took the lead in the first inning only to have the score tied in the third inning. Two hits in the sixth accounted for an other run for the Flour lads. The Red Sox filled the bases in the seventh with one out. Allen attempting to put on a squeeze play struck out but Harris slid home safely to tie the score at two all. Bryan then won his own game in the eighth with a triple to deep left field, coming home when the third baseman failed to handle the throw in from the outfield.

Bryan bested Hershel Kinsy, ace of the Southwest Conference, to gain his sixth victory in two weeks. Kinsy allowed only four hits and the Sox did not score an earned run while Bryan was touched for six hits allowing one earned run. He was tight in the pinches however and protected his lead well never being in danger after the Sox tied the score.

The Fort Worth infield was the classic center to perform in Cisco. They handled themselves like a veteran machine, making two or three sensational plays to cut off potential hits. The base-running of Harris Cisco center-fielder, featured for the locals. He got on base by beating out an infield then stole home with the tying run. Harris left immediately after the game to report to Tyler in the Texas league.

Next week the Red Sox will play the undefeated Graham team here. Graham also holds victories over two strong Fort Worth clubs. It is likely that the Cisco club will journey to Fort Worth next month for a return game with Universal Mills in Pantluer Park.

TRUCKLOAD OF SILVER
HOLYCKE, Mass., July 18.—The American Writing Paper company, in accordance with a contract made in 1871 in which the privilege of payment in silver bullion was given recently sent a truckload of silver to the Holyoke Water Power company for payment of mill power rentals. The silver was refused on the grounds that continued payment by check had rendered the silver bullion clause invalid.

YOU HAVE TO HAVE ONE MORE, YET... POODLE WOULD GET OUT THROUGH THERE, MEBBE!!

I GOT IT RIGHT HERE. BOY! THAT'S SOME DOG TRUNK!!

HEY! HOLD ON!! I'M NAILED IN HERE!!

WELL, GOSH! WE SHOULD HAVE POODLE IN THERE... NOW I HAVE TO RIP THOSE BOARDS OFF!!

to get some sleep. Instead—well, anyhow he felt rotten!

There should be aspirin in the medicine cabinet. Cherry always kept it—

Phillips checked himself and swore again. He had vowed he would not think of Cherry. A girl who could treat a fellow the way she had treated him! Left him flat. Gone away without even a word or a note of explanation. Just disappeared. Anyone else would have been ensnared about it. Nowadays marriages and divorces were taken in a matter-of-fact way. Why did Cherry have to work herself into a state of hysterics and create a scene? Why not admit sensibly that their marriage was a failure (because of her nagging and quibbling and narrow-mindedness) and set about arranging a divorce?

No wonder Dan had felt last night that a drink or two wouldn't hurt him. A week ago last night he and Cherry had had that row. He had come home and found her gone. For days he had expected some message from her. Now he knew none would come. She was through with him. All right—if that was the way she wanted it! He'd not make a move to find her. Not a move!

A hamper used for soiled clothing stood in the bathroom. Dan kicked at it violently. He had sworn he would not think of Cherry again and here he was doing it!

The aspirin was where he had expected to find it. Dan took two of the pellets, dashed cold water over his face and went to the kitchen. He decided to make coffee. There were unwashed dishes piled in the sink and after a look at them Dan changed his mind. He returned to the bathroom and stepped into a cold shower. Then he shaved, dressed and presently left the house.

Dixie Shannon was coming up the steps. She wore a tawny cloth coat with deep cuffs and collar of red fox. Dixie's hat was blue velvet and both coat and hat were new. She carried a prayer book.

"Hello," Dixie greeted him amiably.

"Good morning."

"Morning," she laughed. "Maybe it's morning to you but my watch says 2:30. I've been out for hours—even went to church!"

Phillips was not inclined for conversation. He moved slightly as though to continue on his way but Dixie remained squarely in the middle of the lower step.

"I haven't seen anything of you or Cherry for a week," she went on. "Is Cherry upstairs now? Guess I'll drop in—"

The young man's expression did not change. "You won't find her," he said curtly. Some explanation seemed necessary and he added, "Didn't you know? Cherry's gone for a little trip. Visiting relatives. She won't be back for some time yet."

"You mean—Cherry's gone?"

"Why, yes. I thought probably she'd told you. Left a week ago."

"For goodness sake!"

Her tone of voice annoyed Phillips. He mumbled something about an engagement and would have brushed past but the girl stopped him. Dixie's eyes widened.

"Dan," she said anxiously, "there isn't anything wrong, is there? I mean—you and Cherry—?"

"Of course not!" He snapped the words out. An instant later Phillips was hurrying down the street, his expression as dark as his thoughts. Meddling women! Always nosing into other people's affairs. There was bound to be talk now. Why did he have to meet Dixie Shannon, of all people, today? Give that Shannon the hint of scandal and she'd stay with it until she'd dragged out the truth. What made her think there was anything wrong between Cherry and himself? And whose business was it if there were?

The aspirin hadn't seemed to help his head. Dan plodded on angrily, reached the corner just too late to catch a street car. He fumbled in his vest pocket, discovered he had cigars but no matches.

"Damn everything! What a day!"

"But the play means so much!" she assured him. Brenda's lashes had narrowed again. "It's you I'm thinking of, Dan," she told him. "You and your future. My dear, you do know that, don't you? We have to do what's best for you."

"Then come away with me!"

"What makes you so anxious to leave Wellington?"

"Why shouldn't I want to leave? I hate the town! They're all a lot of old gossip here. Besides, it's the thing to do. If I get out Cherry can start suit—"

"Oh—Cherry! So you're thinking about her now?"

"Don't talk that way, Brenda. I have to think of Cherry, don't I, if you and I are to be married? I mean she'll have to divorce me. Of course it will take time but in the meanwhile—"

"In the meanwhile I told you there are letters I must write. Really, Dan, you should go. It's growing late."

"If you want me to leave promise me one thing! I'm willing to wait a week to hear from that agent. If a letter doesn't come by that time promise you'll go to New York with me!"

"But, Dan—"

"All right—then I don't leave! You'd promise, Brenda, if you cared for me as much as you said. You'd promise if you loved me!"

Her shoulders moved impatiently. "You're being very foolish again," Brenda told him. "Of course I love you. Why do you doubt me so? It's cruel of you!"

"Then you will go?"

"In a week. Yes—I promise!"

As he rang for the elevator a few moments later Dan Phillips assured himself he was the happiest fellow in the world. He was almost able to make himself believe this.

(To Be Continued)

THEY stepped from the cab and Dan handed the driver a bill. Brenda Vail, half-turning, said, "Are you coming up?"

"Don't mind, do you?"

She smiled. "Of course not! Only you really mustn't stay so long as you did the last time, dear. I've letters to write—"

"Letters? Last night you had a mysterious engagement and tonight it's letters. Say, Brenda, you're not trying to get rid of me, are you?"

"Silly boy! How can you even say such things? Besides it's your fault if I've neglected my friends so long they must all think me dead! You know that, don't you?"

She smiled and to the young man that smile seemed the utmost of devoted tenderness. They were inside the building now. The elevator bore them upward, stopped, and a minute later they were entering Miss Vail's apartment.

She stood still, letting Dan remove the luxurious fur wrap from her shoulders. Then she moved to a mirror, touched her hair here and there, patting it into the outline she desired, drew a slender gold lipstick from her purse and applied the paste critically.

Dan's head appeared in the mirror behind her. "You don't need that stuff," he told her. "You're beautiful without it!"

Compliments always pleased Brenda. She tilted her head backward, looking up at him and smiling through narrowed lashes.

"Do you really think that?" she asked coyly.

"Brenda, you know I do!" Suddenly his arms were around her. He would have kissed her but she eluded.

85 MILLION PEOPLE will see this..

WHY will this advertisement appear in more than 1,800 newspapers, reaching over 85,000,000 readers?

BECAUSE we want every smoker throughout the length and the breadth of this country to know that Chesterfield cigarettes are milder...

The tobaccos are the mildest that money can buy. Ripened and sweetened in the sunshine... cured by the farmer... then aged for two years in wooden hogsheads.

We want to tell every smoker from coast to coast that Chesterfield cigarettes taste better...

Chesterfield's way of blending and cross-blending fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos brings out better flavor and aroma.

We want every man and woman smoker to know this:

Chesterfield cigarettes are pure—just as pure as science can make them—just as pure as the water you drink.

We want every one to know that you can depend on a LIGGETT & MYERS product.

OUT OUR WAY

JUST A MINUTE, PLEASE!
EVERYTHING'S BEEN GOING OUT AND NOTHING COMING IN, SINCE YOU GOT THOSE CHICKS — IT'S A GRAND IDEA TO GET YOU OUT OF WASHING DISHES, BUT I'LL BE BLEST IF I'M GOING TO SET THE TABLE WITH THE SKILLET AND FOUR FORKS
