Six Alleged Kidnapers of Young

ONE OF GANG ATTEMPTS TO END HIS LIFE

DENVER, Colo. March 7 — Arrest of three men and three women on charges of kidnaping Charles Boettcher II, Denver millionaire who was held 17 days before he was released upon payment of $60,000 ransom, was announced by police today.

The women and two of the men supplied information which led to an exciting airplane flight to the kidnapers' hideout in the South Dakota hills. The third man, identified as Arthur Youngberg, was arrested there.

Youngberg was taken to the jail at Chamberlain, S. D., where he confessed and attempted to commit suicide by slashing his throat and wrists with a razor blade which he found in his cell, police said.

Fourteen hundred dollars of the ransom money was recovered here in a house where the kidnaping plot was hatched.

The ransom notes were written, it was discovered in a downtown Denver office building. The typewriter on which they were written was seized by police.

HOGS LEADING IN FT. WORTH PRICE GAINS

Communists were being rounded up throughout Germany in a wave of indignation following the disastrous fire which swept the magnificent Reichstag building in Berlin shown above by night. The Reichstag building is to the German republic what the Capitol at Washington is to the United States. Its famous gilded cupola was reduced to ruins, and forced the Reichstag to seek another place of meeting. Evidence of incendiaryism was discovered. The police sought to show it as part of a Communist plot to terrorize Germany.

POLICE WATCH DURING NIGHT HOURS DOUBLED

The night police patrol has been doubled during the present banking holiday to take care of any emergency, it was announced today by Police Comm'r H. C. Henderson.

He asked that merchants and citizens alike cooperate with the department to the fullest extent to guard against attempted robberies during the period that the banks remained closed.

Presence of any suspicious character should be immediately reported to the police, he said, so that the department may take immediate precautions.

"We are going to do our best to give the people protection," he said, "but in order to do this effectively it is essential that the entire citizenship be alert to the possibility of violence.

"If an attempted burglary is discovered shoot to hit. That will prove the most effective remedy for crime. Shoot and talk afterward. I'll guarantee that such tactics will put a stop to such criminal acts."

The department was stimulated to greater diligence in its precautions against crime by the burglary of the Blease Motor company's service station at Tenth street and D avenue early yesterday morning. Three casings and about 24 tubes were taken.

The time of the robbery was placed at about 5:30, when a blazing barn sent the fire department to North Cisco. The night patrol had passed the station shortly before and found it undisturbed. Immediately afterward an alarm was turned in and the fire department, responding, found an isolated barn in flames. Police were certain that the fire had been started to distract attention from the business district during the robbery.

"The fire boys can take care of the fires," the police declared. "We are going to keep the town under the most careful watch during the alarms to guard against such ruses."

J. E. SPENCER RENAMED HEAD OF RED CROSS

Members of the Eastland County Chapter of the Red Cross, meeting in annual session at the chamber of commerce yesterday afternoon, returned J. E. Spencer to the county chairmanship for a sixth term with a strongly worded resolution commendation for the manner in which he has directed the activities of the chapter.

J. D. Lauderdale, of Cisco, chosen secretary-treasurer, succeeded the late A. M. Williams. Resolutions eulogizing Mr. Williams, expressing the chapter's respect for the excellent manner in which he had performed the duties of office during the two years immediately preceding his death, unanimously passed.

Other officers were elected as follows:

Vice-chairman, Frank Rising Star; home secretary, Bailey, Cisco; chairman, Cross, Howard C. Hick; publicity chairman, M. Jackson, Eastland; vice chairman, Mrs. L. D. Stewart; Cisco; first aid and L. Statham, Cisco.

Executive Committee

The executive committee chosen to consist of Eastland—Dr. H. George Brogdon; Ray Anderson and Charley Star—W. E. Tyler and Gorman—Frank L. D. Stewart; Cisco—O. J. Russell, F. E. Shockley and J. B. W. W. Speer and E. Desdemona, W. B. Kuntze.

Mr. Spencer reported work that has been done past year in the chapter, the amount of relief and the manner in which contribution has been handled.

Mrs. Cora V. Shuman, Red Cross representative present, told of the activities of the national organization as during the year laying emphasis on the fact that the annual membership campaign this year has fallen below the age. The membership campaign the only source of funds for the work of the chapter, she said, and the result has fallen down all over United States. Heretofore the annual roll call has never dropped below 4,000,000 members, she said this year the figure is less than 500,000. Since the national chapter receives only 50 cents from each member, the remainder of the contribution remaining with local chapters, this response will by no means sustain the great demands that Red Cross must meet in this critical economic period, she declared.

No Appeal Made.

The national chapter has dug to its reserve fund to the tune of $3,500,000 to handle disaster relief during the past year and no national appeal has been made to replenish this fund as would be done under normal conditions, she explained. She urged that the chapter paralyze the roll call to bring it to par with last year's response, least. Only about 840 members have been obtained in the county this year.

Resolutions passed by the chapter heartily commending Mr. Spencer's administration of relief work, declared that his work in making surveys and collecting and classifying accurate data upon the needs of the county were responsible for the large amount of relief that the chapter has been able to secure. He was also praised for the equitable manner in which this relief was distributed, the resolution asserting that he had favored no community over another and that the distribution had been eminently fair.

Thirty-five members of the chapter from all over the county attended the meeting.

duction taxes, all the gasoline taxes and about $10,000,000 more a year is a further reason that should assure enactment of the law in his opinion.

MADISON, Wis., March 7—Modern law enforcement agencies preferably state police organizations are required for protection against modern criminals, in the opinion of George N. D. Hall, former member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and now a plumbing engineer here. Ninety per cent of the success of the mounted police was due to organization rather than individual members, Hall said.

Bills too get nicknames in the house. Rep. Fritz Englehardt, in asking committee transfer of the bill standardizing egg packing referred to it as the "rotten egg bill." The bill to permit pari-mutual wagering at race meets is generally called the "horse racing bill," though it neither authorizes nor prohibits equine racing. The "rural aid" bill is an appropriation for schools.

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS AUSTIN, March 7. — The new law that kept John N. Garner's congressional seat from being vacant long after March 4 will save Cameron county from being without a member in the Texas legislature if Milton West, who had a lead in the congressional first primary, becomes the nominee in the second. Under this law, Mr. West can resign, and said he will, if nominated effective on the day of the congressional election. The governor can call a special legislative election, fixing it for the same day as that for congressman. In discussing this, Rep. West, who lacked five per cent of a first primary nomination, said he claims beyond the remotest doubt the nomination March 15.

Heads of state departments, already having submitted their budget requests to the house appropriations committee, during this week will have hearings before the senate finance group. After that, their future supply grants will be wholly in the hands of the legislature until enacted, then subject to the governor's approval or veto.

The proposals for lump-sum appropriations for the university and educational institutions would have effect of preventing the veto of any individual salary or appropriation item. When itemized, a stroke of the pencil through a line — they rarely use blue pencils—strikes out somebody's salary for two years.

Sen. Tom DeBerry, protesting a senator's efforts to raise judicial salaries above the committee recommendations said, "he must have millionaire dust in his eyes."

West Texas lawmakers are asking that landowners who bought state lands, and by a court decision have been subjected to liability for payment of half the bonuses they collected and 10-cent rentals on the land, be given 40 years in which to pay the money to the state on installment. A second bill permits the surface owners to buy state-reserved minerals on a 40-year plan, to obviate further liabilities under the decision on the old relinquishment act.

Ernest O. Thompson, railroad commissioner, believes that every owner of more than 1,000,000 Texas automobiles would support, if he had an opportunity to do it, the plan to substitute a graduated tax on oil for the gasoline tax. The oil tax would be paid by those producing the larger quantities of oil from their well—and 85 per cent of it passed on to people outside Texas, according to the official's estimates.

Simple, sure, legal proration is the primary reason he supported the graduated oil production tax, Col. Thompson said; but the opportunity to collect all the present oil pro-

PRETTY GIRLS WILL DISPLAY COTTON GARB

COLLEGE STATION, March 7.— Cotton costumes of all sorts, from bathing suits to evening dresses, will be displayed by a group of 100 pretty Texas girls at the second annual Cotton Ball and Pageant at the Texas A.&M. college the evening of April 7.

Sponsored by the Agronomy Society of the college, of which Floyd Thurman, a junior at A.&M. from Cisco is a member, the ball and pageant will herald the opening a week later of the contest for students specializing in cotton. Examinations in the contest will cover all phases of cotton in which instruction is given or research is carried on at the college. Winners in this contest will be eligible for traveling scholarships for the study and observation of the cotton industry in its practical workings.

Widespread interest in the cotton ball and pageant is indicated. Many notables are expected to attend. Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and former Governor James E. Ferguson have accepted invitation to attend, provided administrative duties will permit the chief executive to be away from Austin at the time, and Governor Ferguson has indicated that she and her husband will appear in cotton garments, if feasible, in keeping with the spirit of the occasion.

J. S. Mogford, associate professor of agronomy in charge of cotton production, is chairman of general arrangements and Mrs. J. P. Wheeler is director of the pageant. The program of the event will include banquet, beginning at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, cotton style show to start at 9 o'clock, and the cotton ball to follow.

The student body of the Texas State College for Women (C. I. A.) at Denton has been invited to select a queen for the affair and following announcement of this selection the Agronomy Society will name a king. The crowd of young women who will display cotton costumes at the style show will be members of the royal court. Their escorts will be from the cadet corps of the college. Costumes for the style show and pageant will be supplied by manufacturers and merchants.

The whole program is being designed to emphasize the part of cotton in the agricultural and industrial life of the cotton producing states. In addition to the cotton dresses to be displayed in the style show, there will be exhibits to show various other uses for cotton.

Planes Are Aiding In Development

CHICAGO, March 7.—A new factor in Pan-American relations, linking both North and South America more closely together and speeding the development of Latin-American countries, was reported by L. B. Manning, vice president of Cord Corporation, just returned from a 17,000-mile air trip through 12 countries in 16 days of flying.

Air lines and air transportation were seen by Manning as a vital influence on inter-American relations. The airplane, he said, has spanned the difficult jungles of the Amazon region and the mountain fastnesses of the Cordilleras. Major cities of South and Central America are within a few hours of each other by air where railroad tracks have not as yet been laid.

Commercial travelers are filling air lines to capacity. Little business can be expected between these countries and the United States, he said, because of the unsettled in exchange rates, although the depression has not been as severe there as in the United States.

He foresaw a more friendly feeling growing up between the Latins as a result of the air communications, replacing the hostility and enmity between southern republics now so prevalent.

SWEETWATER'S CHUCK WAGON TO FT. WORTH

SWEETWATER, March 7.—Sweetwater's famous old time chuck wagon bearing one-hundred or more brands and the fifty-two year old D. Z. chuck box and equipment, will hit the trail for the Ft. Worth Stock show and Cattlemen's convention, Friday, March 10. It will participate in the pioneer barbecue given by the Fat Stock show officials, and later be in the Pioneer section of the exposition parade, after which it will be "camped" in the lobby of a leading hotel.

Accompanying the wagon will be Horace Wade, Sweetwater business man and old time cow cook, Julian Moody, a well known wagon boss of the early eighties, John Selman, wagon boss for the S. M. S. Flat Top ranch, and John M. Hendrix, wrangler for the Sweetwater Chuck Wagon association to whom the wagon belongs.

Since the organization of the association last May, the Sweetwater chuck wagon has traveled more than a thousand miles, having visited the Texas Cowboy reunion at Stamford, the state democratic convention at Lubbock, the Golden Jubilee at Wichita Falls, and entertained at Midland, in October, the cattlemen of that section.

On these trips it has served chuck wagon meals to around three thousand people making no charge. The organization was formed to perpetuate the traditions of the old time cow outfit and visit all gatherings where cattlemen are to be found. At each place visited, numbers of old timers visited it, recall having eaten at the D Z wagon on the South Plains and in New Mexico in the early eighties.

Sleepers Leave Madrid Streets

MADRID, March 7.—Sleeping on the doorsteps has gone out of vogue here this winter. In former years street urchins, men in tatters, old women, and even whole families might sometimes be seen stretched out for the night on some doorstep, generally covered with paper posters which they had ripped off some billboard.

Now, however, through the initiative of Mayor Pedro Rico, the city has sufficient beds, not only for those who voluntarily go there for a place to sleep, but for those who are found sleeping on the streets, and rounded-up in the trucks which the city has for that purpose. Every "sereno"—the typical Madrid night-watchman—has the duty of telephoning to the City Hall, asking for the truck to come around and pick up anybody found sleeping on doorsteps or sidewalks.

In these cold wintry nights, therefore, Madrid has for the first time probably in centuries appeared entirely devoid of homeless persons stretched out on the ground.

This new service is complementary to the free kitchens, which were instituted right after the proclamation of the Republic, and which still are maintained.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JANET HILL is engaged to ROLF CARLYLE but they do not have enough money to marry. Janet is secretary for BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine, and Rolf works for the Atlas Advertising Co. Janet insists they must have $500 in a savings account before they can be married.

HOWARD GRESSY, another employ of the magazine, tries to make dates with Janet but she mistakes him.

She hurries home from the office one Saturday to prepare a surprise birthday dinner for Rolf. On the way she sees a couple entering the fashionable Brewster Hotel Coffee Shop and at first thinks the young man is Rolf. Afterward she decides she was mistaken.

The dinner party is a success. Rolf tells Janet there is something he wants to talk to her about but later evades and says it was "nothing." He says he cannot see her next day because he is entertaining an out-of-town friend.

Sunday proves to be a gloomy day. Rolf does not telephone. Janet visits with MOLLY LAMBERT, who lives across the hall. She returns to her room and there she finds a young man she has never seen before.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

The man found words first. "I—I—" he stammered, "hope you don't—I mean I didn't mean—that is—I guess I've made a mistake!"

Janet was clutching the pink bathrobe, holding it about her. It was surprise and not fear that held her speechless.

"Who are you?" she demanded. "And what are you doing in my room?"

"I guess I've made a mistake," the young man repeated. His face had grown quite red. "You see I didn't know—"

"But what are you doing here?"

It was certainly not like Janet to use a tone like that. It wasn't like her at all. The words snapped out sharply. Shock probably was responsible for the stern way she eyed the young man.

"I'm—I'm—" he began desperately. "You see I live here?"

"What?"

"Upstairs. On the next floor. My name's Grant—moved in yesterday. I'm terribly sorry about this. You see when I came yesterday the woman in charge—Mrs. Snyder—showed me a room on this floor she said was vacant. I thought this was it. And tonight when the electric light burned out and I couldn't find anyone downstairs to get another I thought I could borrow the light from this room—"

"But it's my room!"

"Well, you see I didn't know that. I thought this was the vacant room. I thought it would be all right to take the light and explain about it tomorrow. I'll—I'll go now. It doesn't matter about the light—"

It was ridiculous to suppose this young man could be a burglar. He seemed more disturbed over the situation than Janet. More than anything he looked like a young man who has made an extremely embarrassing mistake and is willing to do almost anything to remedy it. Besides Janet remembered Molly had spoken of a new roomer. Grant—was that the name? Yes, it was.

She would probably have smiled and said she understood, that it was perfectly all right but suddenly Janet remembered what she was wearing. The bathrobe and pajamas! Dignity fled and, striving to recapture it, the sharp note came into her voice again.

"You'd better leave," she said shortly. "And after this please remember this room is not vacant!"

Rolf said, "Get your bonnet, youngster. We're going out to eat."

The young man moved toward the door. He moved rapidly. For the first time Janet took sketchy note of his appearance. She had observed from the first that he was tall—probably six feet. Now she saw that his shoulders were broad and there was an athletic look about him. Dark hair. Blue eyes.

In the doorway he turned. "Sorry to have bothered you," he mumbled.

Suddenly the girl relented. "Wait!" she said. "If you want a light bulb I have an extra one here. It belongs to the house so you can keep it."

She crossed the room, took the bulb from a drawer and brought it to him.

"That's awfully nice of you. Thanks!"

"Not at all. Good night, Mr. Grant."

"Good night."

The door closed. Janet, being feminine, took a quick glance in the mirror to see if she really looked as badly as she feared. She wasn't interested in Mr. Grant. She'd probably never see him again. She just wanted to know.

Before the mirror Janet remembered she hadn't basted the collar and cuffs into her black dress. There was more time for it now than there would be in the morning. She took the dress from the closet, got out needle and thread and set to work.

Rolf Carlyle did not telephone that evening.

It was 4:30 the next afternoon before she heard his voice. Janet had been busy all day. Mondays were always crowded, with Mr. Hamilton in and out of the office, giving his secretary enough work while he was there to more than keep her busy in his absence. This particular Monday had been nerve-racking. An important piece of copy had been mislaid. There had been three-quarters of an hour of mad scrambling before the pages were discovered. It was just after this—during a moment of blessed relaxation—that the telephone rang. Janet answered and Rolf's voice came to her over the wire.

He said, "Janet? Just thought I'd give you a ring. How's every little thing?"

"Oh, Rolf, I'm glad you called! I'd been wondering about you. Did you have a nice time yesterday?"

"Yesterday? Oh, just about what you'd expect. I was going to call you but there wasn't a chance. Listen, Janet, I'm going to play basketball with the fellows tonight. How about having dinner together tomorrow? O. K.?"

"Of course."

"All right. Meet you at 5:30. At Tracy's." (That was the convenient corner midway between the two offices where they usually met.) "Bye, honey. Be seeing you!"

THE connection was broken. Janet returned to her work but the day's irritations and worries seemed suddenly erased.

As it turned out, Janet Hill and Rolf Carlyle did not have dinner together Tuesday night. At a quarter of 12 next morning Rolf appeared in the Every Home office. Janet, looking up from folding a letter, saw him standing before her.

"Rolf!"

"The same. In person. Get your bonnet, youngster. We're going out to eat."

"But, Rolf—"

"Not a word—not a word! Don't intend to starve yourself, do you? Have to eat. Well then, come along!"

"But it's so early. I never go to lunch until—oh, it is almost 12, isn't it? I suppose it's all right. Mr. Hamilton won't be back until 1:30—"

"Of course it's all right. Let's get going!"

Over a table for two at the nearest cafeteria he explained. "You see I happened to be in the neighborhood. Had to see a fellow in the Security Building. When I saw it was about noon I thought we might as well lunch together. Afraid I'm not going to be able to keep that date tonight, Janet. Don't mind, do you? It's something I couldn't very well get out of. This fellow I was with Sunday—well, I forgot I'd told him I'd go to the wrestling matches with him tonight. Being new in town the way he is and not knowing anybody—well, you see how it is, don't you? And of course we can just as well go some other night."

Janet said yes, of course. They could go any night. It didn't make the least bit of difference.

"Then that's that!" said Rolf cheerfully. "You know, Janet, that little car I told you about that's for sale so cheap? Well, I was looking at it again yesterday—"

"But, Rolf, you know you can't afford to buy a car!"

"Oh, sure, I know that. But I was just looking at it. Say, it's a honey! Be pretty swell to have a little car like that, wouldn't it? Think of the long drives we could take—"

Janet was smiling. "We'll have one just like it some day."

"You bet we will!"

THEY talked until suddenly Janet discovered that it was 10 minutes after one. Hastily she gathered up gloves and handbag. Five minutes later they said good-bye at the entrance of the Every Home Building. "You'll call me tomorrow, won't you?" Janet asked in parting.

"Oh, sure. Take care of yourself!"

Several times during the afternoon Janet caught herself thinking of Rolf's school friend, the young man from out of town whom she had never seen but for whom she was developing an active dislike.

"Thinking of this she jabbed a key of the typewriter so vindictively that the machine jumped a space. She had to use the eraser and even then the page was smudged.

The incident reminded her that it was foolish to brood over something she couldn't help. And of course things wouldn't go on this way. Rolf was only trying to be nice to a friend who was lonely.

She was telling herself the same things, trying to find solace in the same arguments a few hours later as she sat in her own room with a new magazine. Somehow her attention wandered repeatedly from the printed page.

There was a knock at the door and Janet looked up gratefully. Molly Lambert's blond head appeared, partially covered by a small green turban. Molly wore a green coat and carried gloves.

"Just came in," she said. "I saw your light. What in the world are you doing home tonight?"

"Why shouldn't I be at home?" Molly hesitated. "Well, I—well, of course it's all right." Suddenly she seemed to gain determination. "Listen, Janet, maybe I shouldn't say this but I think you ought to know! I just passed the Liberty theater. There's a road show there, you know—a swell musical comedy. And who do you think I saw? Rolf Carlyle! Gee, he was all dressed up. And you should have seen the girl with him!"

BILL TO END RACKET

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 7.—A measure to end "love racketeering" is before the state legislature. On the ground that thousands of persons are blackmailed every year to quash charges of breach of promise alienation of affection and seduction because they fear publicity, Lawrence Cobb, Assemblyman from Los Angeles, has introduced a bill providing all such court action be placed on secret file.

Ancient Reptile Puzzles Expert

BERKELEY, Cal., March 7.—Complicated jig-saw puzzles are child's play compared with the task now facing curators of the university of California Museum of Paleontology here.

They are attempting to piece together a complete specimen of a 150,000,000-year-old reptile from more than 30 boxes of material in the form of fragmentary bones excavated from a "reptile quarry," near St. John, Ariz.

The work will be long and tedious. First, the bones must be identified and filed; this will be followed by a period of writing scientific reports of the findings. Then the actual construction of an exhibit will begin.

"As the specimen we are undertaking to prepare will be spectacular and also will contribute valuable information to paleontology, it will be of interest to both the layman and scientist," S. P. Welles, field and laboratory assistant of the museum, explained.

The "reptile quarry," from which the collection was obtained, was discovered in 1930 by two members of the museum's staff, Dr. C. L. Camp, director, and V. L. Vander-Hoof, field and laboratory assistant.

Olds Is Oldest Hollywood Car

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 7.—The oldest automobile under the 1933 registration in Hollywood is a two cylinder Olds built in 1902, according to the latest automobile census of the United States.

The car is owned by A. E. MacDonald, who runs a filling station. He bought it for $800 in 1902 and still operates it.

Next on Hollywood's "oldest car list," according to the automobile census, is a four cylinder 1911 Cadillac roadster owned by Charles O. Gragg. The old model T Ford takes two third places with a 1912 roadster registered under the name of Robert R. Bertrand and a 1913 Ford touring owned by H. W. Kelly. A 1913 six cylinder Buick owned by M. W. Satterlee is fourth.

Further figures in the census, furnished by the Reuben H. Donnelly Corporation, reveal that of the automobiles owned by Hollywood film stars, comparatively few late models are represented. Clara Bow owns a 1931 Rolls Royce sedan, a 1928 Cadillac sedan, a 1929 Packard touring car, a 1926 Kissel sedan and a 1931 Chevrolet roadster.

Will Rogers has two Fords, Douglas Fairbanks owns a 1931 Cadillac coupe, a 1931 Rolls Royce sedan, a 1930 Cadillac sedan, a 1931 Ford sedan and a 1929 La Salle coupe. Charlie Chaplin owns a Cadillac 1928 sedan and a Ford 1928 sedan, and a Buick touring.

Character and mildness... the Lucky combination

Wherever you find joy in life... there you find Lucky Strike. For Luckies offer you Character—tempting flavor and the full, smooth quality of the finest tobaccos—the "Cream of the Crop". But that's not enough. A cigarette should be mild. And so these fine tobaccos are subjected to the famous "Toasting" process. It is "Toasting" that makes Luckies mild—just as surely as fine tobaccos give Luckies character. And for these two reasons—character and mildness—"Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

YOU and the WORLD

YOU can sit in your room and turn through advertising pages—demand any portion of the world before you to come to you, and it will come! You can summon an ounce of French garden in a perfume vial; intricate pieces of Switzerland in a tiny wrist-watch; a corner of California packed in an orange; a handful of Virginia to stuff in your pipe; sunny Seville in olives; a taste of Ceylon in tea.

Advertisements tell you the desirable portions of the world you can buy. How most quickly to call them to you. How much you'll like them when yours. Grown on a far island—dug from a mine—if it's advertised and you ask for it, it's yours. If you ask it to do what it's advertised to do, it will. If you ask others who have used it what they found out about it, they will repeat facts advertised about that product. Advertisements are your surest, quickest means of enjoying the world. They help you obtain the best the world offers, at a price which wide use has made low.
