Ickes Says Administration Seeks More U. S. Oil Control

About Our Friends

And here comes the Moore Drug Company with a new neon sign... Looks mighty up-townish at night... There goes E. P. Crawford with those long strides that cover miles in a day... always busy... always has time to talk pleasantly... business or social matters... on more committees perhaps than any other man in Cisco... because he makes a good report... a man who hurries, yet does a thorough job... A very valuable man to his community, having its confidence... It seems that Rev. E. S. James and K. H. Pittard now have their radiator caps back on the right cars and the fun for their friends is all over... Soft ball fans will be delighted with the results of the work by Joe Clements, who was instructed by the city to put the grammar school ball ground in good condition... and of course, when Joe does it, he does it... A little warm weather is all that's needed now, and most any afternoon a few Lions or Rotarians will likely begin assembling for practice... A. D. and Jack Anderson have not slept any for the past two nights... That Master Six Chevrolet has finally arrived, and after all those expressions of delight from their friends, how could they sleep!... Mr. Reagan and Mr. Lawson talking very earnestly at the post office... J. L. (Punk) Thornton sends a hurry call to Frank Walker to come and drink coffee... Mrs. Blanche Miller has a new dress... she admits it and all the clerks say she has... these same clerks say that if she doesn't get an opportunity to wear it soon... things may become unpleasant around the store... new dresses should be worn... Perry Bros. built a wide shelf in the back of their store to put Christmas toys on during the holidays and now have a few children's rockers placed on this shelf which is about six or seven feet from the floor. A man was seen looking at this arrangement recently with a puzzled expression on his face. "I just can't see how the girls get into those chairs."

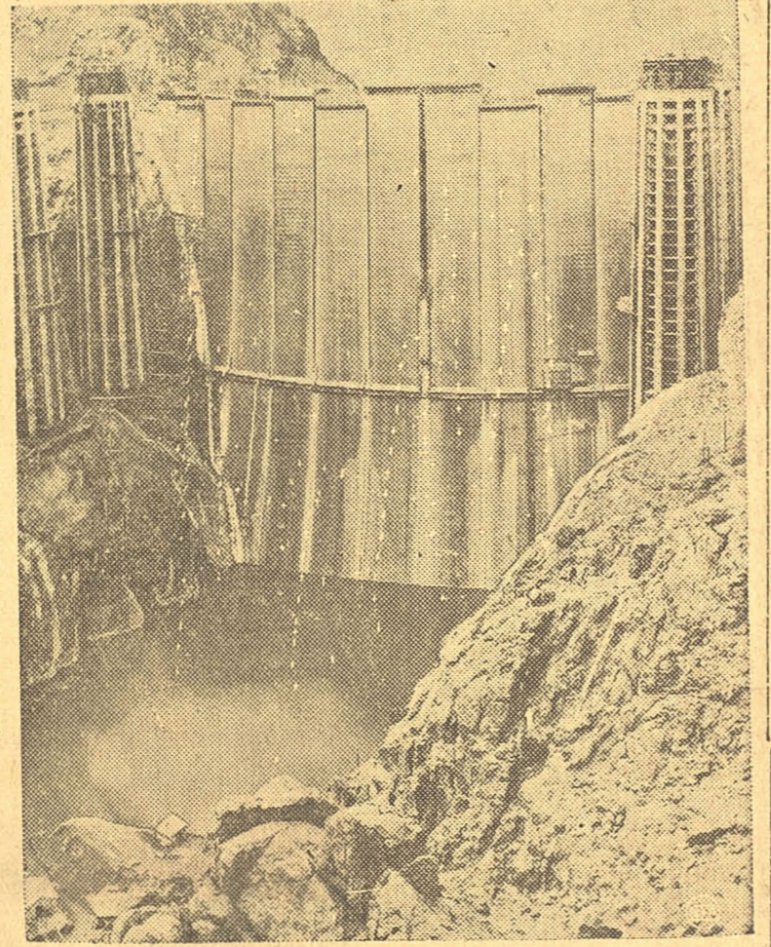

NEW BILL TO GIVE FEDERAL GOV'T POWER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. — With the Connally oil bill just signed by President Roosevelt, Oil Administrator Harold Ickes said today the administration will back another bill before congress giving the government stricter control over the oil industry. The new measure, he said, will be used in connection with the Connally measure signed by President Roosevelt. The bill, it was understood, would give the government authority to regulate production in the nation's oil industry and provide for more orderly refining of crude oil and operation of market facilities. "The Connally bill, as a 'hot oil' bill, is very satisfactory but it doesn't go far enough," Ickes said. He said an oil regulation bill was being drafted and another measure had been prepared by Rep. Wesley Disney, democrat, Oklahoma. The administration, it was learned, has been rallying congressional support, behind a move for strict federal control. Ickes, in an attempt to obtain support of oil companies for such a measure, has repeatedly threatened the $12,000,000 oil industry with federal action to declare it a public utility. With the signing of the Connally bill, it was revealed the federal tender board will be set up again in East Texas to curb hot oil production. The board will be set up "within 24 hours" after the president officially designates an administrator for the new oil control body.

NEW MODEL OF CHEVROLET ON DISPLAY HERE

A G. Motor company Saturday exhibited two new De Luxe Master Six Chevrolets, the first of the new 1935 series to reach here. The display attracted many motorists who had long awaited the much talked of car and were anxious to see for themselves how the new features and the more modern body lines would look. The crowd paid many compliments to Chevrolet and to A. D. and Jack Anderson of the company for the improvements shown over previous models. Although the streamlining and appearance features stand out to the observer, there are many other important improvements as well, it was pointed out, including more room inside the car, safety glass all around, and greater driving comfort. The local motor company had, however, a clever display which attracted almost as much attention and comment from motorists who came in as did the car itself. The car is equipped with a jack which is attached directly to the car and which raises it without fuss or worry. "That beats crawling under the car or knocking a hole in your gas tank," A. D. Anderson said. New features, greater streamlining, more powerful performance—all attract the motorist's eye. But above all, it's smart.

Boulder Dam Lake Rises Slowly

Slowly aping against the tremendous bulk of Boulder Dam, water is rising to form the mammoth lake for the great federal power and reclamation program to the southwest. On either side of the canyon are shown intake towers as high as a 35-story building, through which the water eventually will move to the turbines. Stupendous size of the project is indicated by the relative thinness of the building, lower left, at the lake edge.

Cisco Schools and Clubs Announce Entrance In Stunt Night Program

Cisco organizations this weekend were looking forward to the annual stunt night and band night program to be held at the high school auditorium Thursday evening at 7:30. The program is sponsored by the City Federation of Women's Clubs, with the assistance of the Lobo band. Clubs, schools, and other Cisco organizations are to take part in the program. The following have already announced their entries:

Duncans At Rites For Texas Pioneer

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Duncan and Mrs. C. R. Duncan Friday attended the funeral in Rising Star of Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Tyson, 95, pioneer and one of the original settlers of Rising Star. Mrs. Tyson was the aunt of Mrs. C. R. Duncan and the great-aunt of E. C. Duncan. Born in North Carolina, she came to Texas in 1864. For 50 years she was a resident of Rising Star. She was the oldest resident of Irving, where she died at the home of her grand niece, Mrs. A. P. Mauk.

RACES, LIQUOR GET INTEREST FROM SOLONS

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. — Repeal of prohibition and horse racing laws, regulation of utilities and the state planning board will be begging for attention when the state legislators reconvene Monday. Repeal of state prohibition will be given a public hearing Monday afternoon before the senate committee on constitutional amendments. Local option is proposed as a substitute. House plans to repeal prohibition rode at anchor today. A subcommittee is studying regulatory laws on liquor in wet neighboring states. Early next month the committee will report on a liquor regulatory plan to prevent return of the old-time saloon. Bills to regulate horse race books are to be heard in the house. They constitute a buffer to absorb public sentiment on the pari-mutuel betting law.

Work Relief Bill To Test FDR Leadership

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. — Pres. Roosevelt's leadership now faces the most severe test of his administration as his leaders in congress, their confidence shaken fought desperately to put the New Deal back on an even keel. The $4,800,000,000 work relief bill, wrecked at least temporarily by senate insurgents, was the issue which brought the administration face-to-face with the greatest legislative problem it has encountered in its two years of existence. Leaders at the capital, somewhat

Tragic Drama Sends Rich Bowery Bum Into Strait-Jacket

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. — Frank Grezes' sudden rise from rags to riches ended in tragedy today. He was taken to Bellevue hospital psychopathic ward in a strait-jacket, his twisted mind confirmed in its belief that Frank Grezes was God by a startling and fatal drama. In a dank lobby of a Bowery flop house he ranted and screamed for the benefit of bleary eyed Bowery bums. "I am God and I'm going to kill you, I can kill anyone who looks at me," Grezes was amused. He stepped from the crowd, faced Grezes, looked him full in the face. "That very instant he fell dead."

To Sudden Riches

On Feb. 5, Grezes, 67, was a Bowery bum of the hopeless order. He carried a sandwich sign through the Wall Street district for $1 a day, which barely sufficed to keep him alive. One day he picked up a wallet from the sidewalk that contained $45,000 in negotiable bonds and promptly turned it over to police. From that moment every condition of life familiar to him from childhood was reversed. Money poured in. Reporters interviewed him. He was asked to talk for the sound motion pictures and the radio. He secured a job that paid $70 a month. Then he became arrogant. He had a decided opinion on every conceivable subject, and did not hesitate to express it loudly. Then his arrogance became psychopathic three days ago, and today he was taken to the hospital, still believing that he was God.

Important Topics At C. of C. Meeting

MT. PLEASANT, Tex., Feb. 23. — Important state and national questions were discussed at the meeting of District No. 2 of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce here. Question which came up for discussion included proposed state sales tax legislation, community relief, federal public works plans and other similar topics. Charles F. Ashcroft of Sulphur Springs, president of the East Texas chamber, presided.

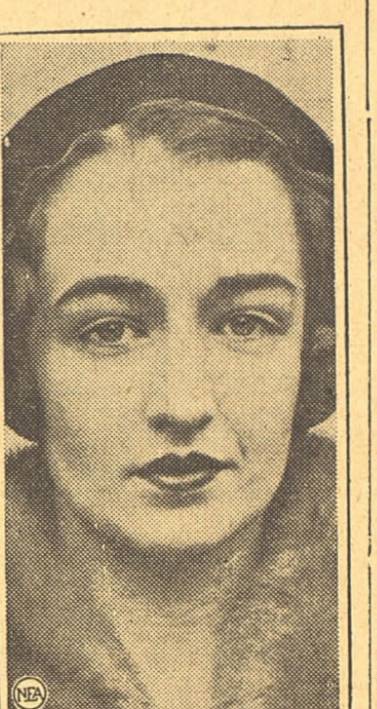

Yarbrough Facing His Fourth Trial

WAXAHACHIE, Feb. 23. — Cal Yarbrough today faced his fourth trial on charges that he murdered his 16-year-old foster daughter, Doris. His third trial Thursday resulted in a hung jury. After deliberation of 24 hours, the jurors were discharged.

Appeal Is Sought Upon TVA Ruling

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 23. — An immediate appeal will be taken against the adverse Tennessee Valley Authority ruling of Federal Judge William Grubb, power director David Lilienthal of TVA announced in a statement today. Judge Grubb ruled TVA could not legally sell electric power in competition with private industry. It was a major blow at the president's "Yardstick" program for sale of cheap power.

Barbara'll Act As Husband Says!

Probably Barbara Kent, above could rise to fame in the movies all on her own, but she just can't miss becoming a shining star because she's being managed by the man who guided such actresses as Garbo, Dietrich and others to the front rank of the famous. He's none other than Barbara's own husband, Harry Edington. That's the latest in a series of lucky breaks Miss Kent has had in pictures.

WILLIAMSON DENIES HE IS A CANDIDATE

Former Mayor J. M. Williamson late Saturday night denied rumors that he was announcing his candidacy for mayor of the city of Cisco. "I have nothing to say as yet," he said when confronted with reports that linked him with a movement to head a new ticket for the city administrative offices. He did not deny, however, that he would run, but said that he had not yet made up his mind on the matter.

SENATE BOLT SPREADING TO LOWER HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. — The revolt of senate democrats against administration leadership spread to the house today with organization of a group to force votes on controversial legislation. The threatened bolt caused party leaders, already worried by two major rebuffs in the senate, added concern. The huge house democratic majority heretofore has been held fairly well in line. Leaders of the house insurgent group welded a secret organization of 100 young democrats to force the administration leadership to agree to vote on issues which it has succeeded so far in avoiding. Each member of the block was pledged not to reveal identity of members of the insurgent movement. Six democrats who have broken with the administration on legislation admitted participating in organization of the bloc but asked that their names be withheld.

Cisco Girl Wedded To Palestine Man

Friends and relatives here have received news of the marriage of Miss Mattie Lea Kunkel to Bert Kirkes in Palestine Thursday night at 8:30, at the home of Rev. Mr. Nelson, pastor of the First Baptist church of that city. Miss Kunkel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kunkel of Cisco. She formerly worked in the office of Dr. W. P. Lee and was pianist for the Lions and Rotary clubs. LADY BUG GROWER POST FALLS, Ida., Feb. 23. — Ted Ladke, Post Falls, makes his living catching and selling lady bugs useful in subduing aphids and other garden pests. The insects may be found in early spring, clustered in great colonies in melting snows of the high mountains. WEATHER West Texas — Sunday partly cloudy. East Texas — Sunday fair, warmer northeast and southwest portions. Rain for month, 2.6 inches. Rain for year, 4.7 inches.

NEW HEARING IS DENIED IN STATE COURT

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 23. — Phil Kennamer, 19-year-old, Tulsa youth, must serve 25 years imprisonment for the fatal shooting of John Gorrell, Jr., on Thanksgiving night, the court here ruled Saturday afternoon. The sentence was imposed by Judge Thurman Hurst after the jury had found Kennamer guilty of manslaughter Thursday night. Judge Hurst denied the motion for a new trial, filed by the defense. "I think this man has had as fair a trial as he could have had," the Oklahoma justice said simply.

It had been indicated that Holly Anderson, prosecuting attorney, would seek a sentence of not less than 50 years, when the manslaughter verdict was returned. The sentence, upon which the jury could not agree and which it had left to the judge to decide, might have been from four years to a life term. Young Kennamer, son of Federal Judge Franklin Kennamer, had admitted that he shot Gorrell while the two were in the latter's car on Thanksgiving night. He claimed, however, that he did so in self-defense. To Protect Heiress Kennamer had claimed that he shot Gorrell, when the latter threatened to kill him in a quarrel over an extortion note involving Miss Virginia Wilcox, pretty Tulsa oil heiress. Although Miss Wilcox had failed to return his love, he said, he was attempting to protect her from abduction by Gorrell. Miss Wilcox testified for the defense at the trial. Kennamer's attorneys coupled his self defense plea with one of temporary insanity. The prosecution introduced both alienists and former teachers of the society youth to show that he was rational and above normal in mentality. His friends had testified that he had visions of himself as a military genius in foreign countries, and that he had done and again performed deeds of daring for the thrill and to impress his associates.

Eastland Youth To Get 20-Year Term

WORTH, Feb. 23. — Paul C. H. 17-year-old Eastland youth, to serve 20 years in the state penitentiary for robbery. Barker pleaded guilty to five charges pending against him, after a jury in criminal district court assess the 20 year penalty for one robbery. Judge Willis McGregor ordered Barker confined for 20 years for each charge, the sentence to run concurrently.

FARMERS WAR ON MAGPIES

SPALDING, Neb., Feb. 23. — Farmers of this region are organizing hunts to eradicate magpies. The birds, uncommon in Nebraska, have attacked cattle herds in recent weeks. Texans Asked To Show Patriotism AUSTIN, Feb. 23. — Patriotic Texans will unfurl the state flag tomorrow and keep it flying for a week, at the request of Gov. James Allred. Display of the flag was requested in a proclamation calling for observance of Texas week which the governor issued yesterday. Schools, churches, courts and the legislature were asked to hold programs informative of the significance of Texas' declaration of independence and calculated to inspire appreciation and reverence for the state's history.

Cisco Golfers To Hold Meet Monday

A meeting of the Cisco Golf club members will be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7:30 Monday evening, according to Leon Cagle. The meeting was described by Cagle as a very important one. All members were urged to be present. Altman Leaves On Spring Buying Trip F. B. Altman of the Altman Style shop left Saturday night for St. Louis, where he will visit the style markets. He will purchase spring merchandise for his stores in Cisco and Albany.

No Venison To Be Served Trippers

DEL RIO, Feb. 23. — Americans who make a trip to the Border country with the hope of securing a venison dinner in Old Mexico, will be doomed to disappointment because of a decree of the president of Mexico. The decree has placed a ban on all deer hunting for commercial purpose in that country. However, American hunters or natives of Mexico may hunt deer for the sport until the season closes March 15.

Harold Locke Gets Sentence of Death

SHERMAN, Feb. 23. — Harold Locke, 27, who bought whiskey with relief funds, got drunk, assaulted a woman, and killed a marshal, must die in the electric chair. The 15th District court jury was only 22 minutes today before returning a verdict that Locke was guilty of murdering City Marshal Ches Estes at Whitesboro on the night of Feb. 3.

BICYCLE TEST EXPLODES OLD OXYGEN IDEA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Through tests conducted on a bicycle, the Carnegie Institution has disproved a popular theory that breathing oxygen-rich air increases the combustion of body tissues and produces great heat-energy.

Hundreds of experiments were conducted by Dr. Francis G. Benedict of the Institution's nutrition laboratory to find:

1. How oxygen consumption is affected when performing severe muscular work and also when the same work is performed while breathing air highly charged with oxygen.

2. How the recovery period following cessation of strenuous work is affected by breathing atmosphere with varying percentages of oxygen content in excess of the normal amount.

In the tests, a person was mounted on a bicycle controlled so that the energy expended could be regulated and constantly maintained. A helmet to which was attached a closed-circuit respiration apparatus in which the oxygen content could be varied from 20 to 90 per cent, then was placed over his head.

The experiments proved that in the preliminary resting period before work began, also during the period of intense physical effort, and finally during the period of recovery after the work had ceased, the oxygen-consumption was not affected by excess oxygen in the air.

Furthermore, it was found that inhalation of oxygen-rich air had no effect on the respiration rate during either rest or work. In addition, the character of the material burned in the body during the period of muscular activity was unaltered by the highly oxygenated air.

HOLD RED CROSS SCHOOL

GALVESTON, Feb. 23.—This city has been selected for the statewide Red Cross training school in first aid next June. The school will be conducted by national representatives of the American Red Cross. The basic course will include lessons in swimming, life saving, first aid and boating.

STORK WORE PATH

PALMOUTH, Mass., Feb. 23.—The stork had the path well trodden to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hathaway. Four children were born to the couple within 13 months—two sets of twins.

"Richest Girl" On Bridal Day

"Love at first sight" led—more than five years after their initial meeting—to the marriage of Doris Duke, America's richest heiress, and James H. R. Cromwell, amateur sportsman, in a private, simple ceremony at the home of the bride's mother in New York. Here the couple is shown shortly after the wedding as they prepared to sail on a honeymoon cruise of the Mediterranean.

First Children's Tabloid Published

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—With the good wishes of President Roosevelt, and the sponsorship of a distinguished board of advisory editors, America's first newspaper edited exclusively for children has made its appearance on newsstands throughout the country.

It is a weekly in tabloid size and format, called "The Boys' and Girls' Newspaper," presenting the world's news with plenty of photographs and a varied assortment of features "for young folks from seven to 17."

A quarter of a million copies of the first issue have been printed. "The Boys' and Girls' Newspaper" has all the regular features and departments of a newspaper for adults including sports, radio, movies, science, fiction, and comic strips. There is also a home-making department for girls and an editorial page. The leading editorial in the first issue announces that the newspaper "will try to give boys and girls what they want to read—not what grownups think is good for them." The prediction is made that most of the time these points of view will coincide, but it is made clear that whenever there is doubt "the interests of boys and girls will predominate."

BAD DAY FOR FINGERS

Great Britain Gives Subsidy To Gliders

LONDON, Feb. 23.—A boom in the sport of gliding is forecast by aviation experts as the result of a government subsidy of $125,000 being granted after years of agitation. The subsidy is to be spread over a period of five years and will be divided among clubs approved by the controlling body, the British Gliding Association. Only eight of the 24 gliding clubs will be eligible for the subsidy under the rules laid down by the Air Ministry.

At present the number of gliders owned by these clubs totals 100, which are used by approximately 900 members. Thousands of new enthusiasts will, no doubt, be attracted to the sport, which will provide air training for those who cannot afford the membership of light airplane clubs.

Meanwhile, Britain's largest club, the London Gliding Club, anticipating a rapid increase in membership is planning to increase the facilities of the club. Increased hangar and clubhouse at the club's headquarters, which accommodation is to be provided over 117 acres near the town of Dunstable, in the heart of the Chiltern Hills, an ideal locality for gliding.

Vancouver Planning Big Aviation Meet

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 23.—An air derby, rivaling the great race from London to Melbourne last year, is suggested in tentative plans submitted at the first meeting of the executive council of the Vancouver Golden Jubilee Celebration.

The race, one phase of an elaborate program designed to attract visitors from all parts of the world for the celebration since 1936, would be for a prize of $25,000. The starting point would be Croydon, England, and the route would be via Moscow and Tokio, terminating at the Vancouver Airport.

The jubilee celebrations are expected to start May 24, 1936, and will continue until Aug. 15. They will include naval and historical spectacles; re-enactment of the arrival of the first train; a week of sports, during which boat races, cross-country marathons and a parade of athletes will take place; international week, when vessels of war from Italy, Russia, France and many other nations will visit the harbor; a carnival week, and re-enactment of the Klondike.

Urges Settling In Southwest Texas

DALLAS, Feb. 23.—Texas lands as a whole may be below the average of the Middle West in so far as production of staple crops is concerned, but Southwest Texas is the premier food producing section of the country, according to Porter Whaley, manager of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce.

Large numbers of unemployed, Whaley said, could be settled in this section of Texas to raise their own living, Whaley said. They could grow fruits and vegetables in abundance, could can the surplus and have a good deal left for future consumption, he said.

PERMISSION LATE
QUINCY, Mass., Feb. 23.—A recent snowstorm made the city's streets excellent for coasting. The children appealed to officials for authorization to slide on certain streets. They were granted that request two weeks later—but the snow had disappeared from the hills.

LITTLE CONTRACT TROUBLE WITH BILLY EVANS' CLEVELAND INDIANS

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23.—General Manager Billy Evans, of the Cleveland Indians, doesn't anticipate difficulty lining up all the Redskins for training duty. He has more than half his roster signed or having evinced satisfaction with their terms.

Only a few mild salary squawks have been received at the front office. One, involving a small demand on the part of Tal Trosky, already has been silenced and Evans believes the rest will be disposed of quickly.

In faraway California, two of the Cleveland contracts weren't received with complete grace, though both called for increases over 1934. These were the documents tendered Pitcher Monte Pearson and Shortstop Bill Knickerbocker.

Word from Fresno and Los Angeles, their respective homes, has been to the effect that there only are slight differences in the terms offered and salaries wanted. They expect no difficulty coming to an agreement before the players report to New Orleans, Feb. 25. Pearson was a hold-out last year.

The tribe has a nucleus of a pitching staff with Harder, the two Browns, Velve Bean, Hildebrand, Milnar and Perrin signed; four outfielders in Vosmik, Campbell, Averill and Galatzer; three infielders in Kamm, Trosky and Hughes; and a catcher in Pytlak.

No difficulty is anticipated with youngsters like Garson, outfielder; Calchouse, Lee, Sundra and Winegarner, pitchers; nor with Berger, infielder, and Brenzel, George and Garbak, catchers.

Glenn Myatt probably is waiting to see how his recently mended leg stands up before he signs, while Willis Hudlin always is the last to sign his name. Ab Wright, new outfielder, hasn't been heard from, but is not expected to balk over his first major league contract.

Visitors Honored At Chinese Party

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 23.—Smoldering remnants of exploded firecrackers had to be hauled away in a truck from in front of the place where Chinese of this city celebrated the New Year.

Ng Bow, president of the On Leong Chinese Merchants' association, said approximately 100,000 firecrackers were exploded during the afternoon ceremony.

Ten thousand firecrackers were set off at the noon luncheon in honor of the occasion, Bow said. Because of the limited quarters at the club the feast had to be repeated three times to accommodate the crowds.

Chinese good luck pieces, consisting of six fringed triangles of cash, were given away to all visitors.

SOLE DESCENDANTS OF ADAM

ST. SEBASTIAN, Spain, Feb. 23.—The only descendants of Adam live in this corner of the world, according to an old Basque tradition. The Basques believe that they are the sole children of Adam, and that their language was spoken in the Garden of Eden.

BANK TELLERS, too, must be

Handwriting Experts

You may never write your signature twice alike on a check. Yet, despite these many variations, the paying teller in your bank must be prepared to recognize instantly your writing. A momentary "slip" on his part might mean heavy loss. He must be on the alert to detect anything wrong. He must know all the necessary facts about your account, to enable him to handle every transaction quickly and safely. It is a credit to him that in the handling of thousands of transactions he rarely "slips."

This ability is not acquired in a day or a week. Time and patience and careful, thorough training are required. The result is service and protection for you.

Watch Your Child at Play

MANY children become victims of defective sight long before their parents discover the trouble. If you have children, watch them when they play, and also when they read or do school work at home.

The boy who is unable to throw a ball straight or to hit the target when he practices with his bow and arrow may not see well. If he bends low over his book or holds it close to his eyes when he reads, have his eyes examined immediately by a specialist.

The girl who brings poor report cards home from school may be just as earnest and just as intelligent as other girls of her age. Her eyes may be to blame for the trouble she has in getting passing marks.

Good home lighting is an important protection to children's eyes. Where there is not enough light or where the lighting arrangements are not correct there is likely to be eye-strain which often is a contributory cause of near-sightedness or other defects of vision.

Give your children good light. That is one of the most important things you can do for them. Our home lighting consultant will be glad to give you special advice on home lighting. There is no charge for this service. Just phone us or drop us a postcard.

BRITISH EDITOR URGES TRAVEL FOR YOUTH AFTER COLLEGE WORK

By FREDERICK KUH United Press Staff Correspondent LONDON, Feb. 23.—If young Americans on leaving college take the advice of R. D. Blumenfeld, journalist and editor, they will devote a year to European travel instead of, say, climbing towards executive positions via factory-wheel and office experience.

R. D. B., as he is known even beyond the British newspaper world, interviewed by the United Press, began by speaking of the journalistic career but made it clear that his counsel would equally apply to those on the threshold of any business or profession. His message to youth bore the twofold authority of rich experience garnered by the youngest septuagenarian in London.

Better Chance for Americans "The young American has a better chance than the Briton," Blumenfeld affirmed, "for he is untrammelled by tradition, can say and do things the Englishman can not. American forgives youth for idiosyncracies and blunders, less readily condoned in Britain.

LOTTERY FOR FRENCH DEBT AID TO SEERS

PARIS, Feb. 23.—France's national lottery is expected to help plug the government's deficit along one of the industry that the framers of the lottery bill never thought of—fortune telling.

Increased Prosperity The increased prosperity of the fortune telling racket might be attributed just to bad times if it were not for the inevitable line of each advertisement notifying the prospective client that one of the professor's specialties is getting winning lottery tickets for his customers.

World-Wide Novena To Honor St. Joseph MONTREAL, Feb. 23.— Following a yearly practice begun in 1928, there will be again this year a solemn world-wide novena at Saint Joseph's Oratory, Montreal, extending from March 10 to 19.

Holland Denies Any Reduction of Coffee

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 23.—Holland has no intention of opening negotiations with the British looking towards restriction of coffee production in Java and Kenya, according to government spokesmen here.

In fact, the Dutch authorities are getting rather weary of the stream of suggestions in the London press that this, that and the other thing should be curtailed. The Netherlands reluctantly have agreed to rubber and tin restriction, but at bottom they dislike the whole policy, and emphatically dislike it for coffee.

They also have revised the report current in the coffee market—that they contemplated an import duty on coffee. Such a tax, they point out, would definitely curtail the big international coffee market in Amsterdam, and the "pitance" yielded to the government by an import duty on Dutch consumed coffee would not offset the national income loss through ceasing to be the biggest Continental "middle-man" in coffee.

In 1933-34 the Netherlands imported 2,237,000 bags of coffee, but Dutch consumption in that period amounted to no more than 500,000 bags, leaving more than 1,700,000 bags, to be exported—a quantity far in excess of that exported by any other European country.

The coffee market is hoping that the active negotiations within the gold bloc will result in increased sales of Java coffee.

WEST COAST PIED PIPERS

ASTORIA, Ore., Feb. 23.—Helen Caldwell and Helen Engell are riding the Pacific Northwest of rats. Employed by communities to exterminate rodents, the two professional Pied Pipers use a poison made from a Mediterranean sea onion. On eating it, rats immediately seek the open air to die.

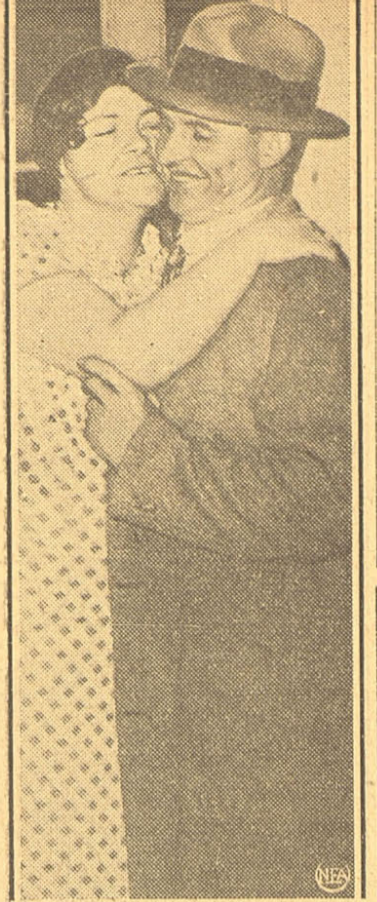

KEPT RECORD PERFECT

SEATTLE, Conn., Feb. 23.—Ethel G. Smith, didn't want to spoil a record of not having missed a single Sunday school session in 33 years because her feet were severely burned when a kettle of water upset on the stove, so friends motored her to the church and carried her to the class.

BANK CLERKS MARKSMAN

Soviet Ends Strange Drama of Politics

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—A strange drama where in a mixture of politics and passion sent a young Soviet citizen to prison has been enacted here.

Eudozia Sautina, a youthful woman worker in the Sacco and Vanzetti factory, was nominated to represent her institution in the Moscow Soviet. She received the vote of everyone except her husband, who objected strenuously to her election.

When the pair returned home after the election the man attacked his wife with a knife. He was brought into court and was charged with attempting to murder her. During the trial the husband railed incessantly against his wife, charging, among other things, that she came from a "kulak" family. (The word "kulak" meaning the class of industrious, well-to-do peasants who resisted the Communist party's efforts to drive them into collective farms, is an odious word in the present-day Soviet lexicon.)

Investigators were sent to the wife's birthplace. They reported that her parents were not "kulaks," but "respected collective farm members."

The irate husband went to jail for five years.

KILLS TWO TONS OF RABBITS

HERLINGTON, Kan., Feb. 23.—Dr. H. D. Mosler and Frank and Hogan Atkinson, who went to Hoxie, Kan., to hunt rabbits, reported they killed two and a half tons of the animals in one week on one section of land.

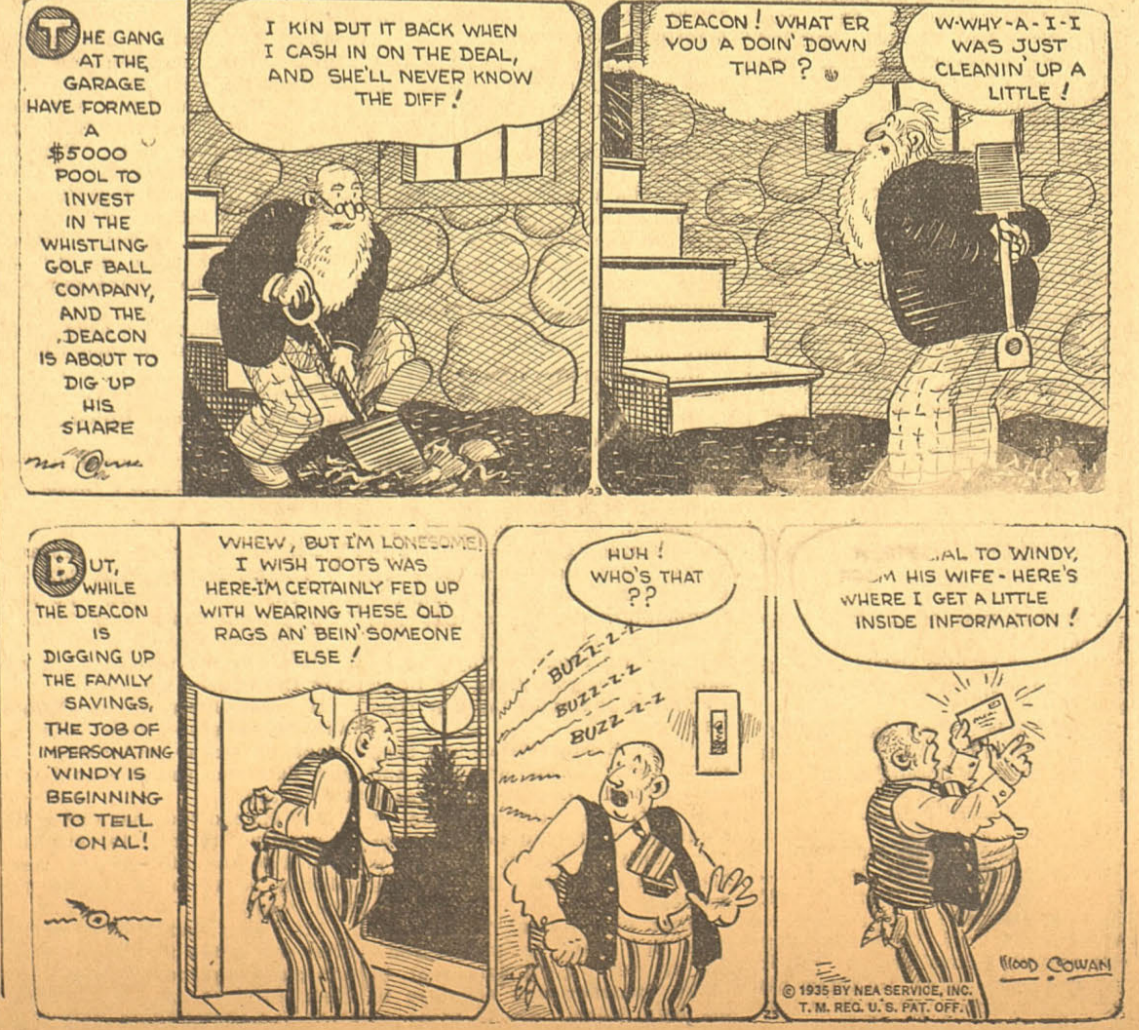

FIRE DREAMS LEAD TO PROBE

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 23.—A 13-year-old boy who said he dreamed continuously of fires, was held by state police in their investigation of two suspicious dwelling house fires. The boy admitted setting the fires, relating something "compelled" him to.

Legislators Cooperating

Eastland county citizens who have gone to Austin recently in connection with pending legislation have returned with praise for the county's senator and two representatives. Not only have these three representing the people been most courteous, but they have given their time and attention to helping the citizens with legislation needed and asked.

The recent trip to Austin by a committee representing the Cisco school board, composed of R. N. Cluck, and W. W. Wallace, and E. A. Ringold, representing the Ranger board, was most beneficial from the fact that the Eastland county representatives cooperated in every way possible to aid in the pending school legislation.

Representatives of the West Central Oil and Gas association, attending the hearing before the committee on taxation on the bill to raise the gross production tax were well received when they appeared to present their case.

The group pointed out to the committee that a further increase in the tax burden, especially on stripper wells such as are in this area, would cause many wells to be abandoned and to throw a considerable number of men out of employment, according to W. W. Wallace. They said that the stripper production in this territory is already carrying a tax burden of six per cent of the gross income. The bill would raise the gross production tax from two cents per barrel produced while the market is $1 or more and two per cent when the market is more than $1 a barrel.

The oil and gas men, as well as the school committee, were high in their praise of Senator Wilbourn B. Collie and Representatives Cecil Lotief and George A. Davisson, Jr., and impressed by their desire to hear from their constituents on pending legislation.

Events Over The World

Washington sees many important events in the shaping. The senate passes Senator Huey P. Long's resolution for the investigation of PWA contracts given a company in which Postmaster General James A. Farley is alleged to have had an interest, and observers prepare for fireworks when an "irresistible force" meets an "immovable object." The administration, having decided to extend the NRA, will seek extension of the many state enforcement acts. Social workers gathering for their convention raise a serious doubt—They do not believe the federal government can withdraw from direct relief in accordance with its plan.

Abyssinia, now much in the news, is scheduled to put its wild jungle noises on the air in world broadcasts next summer. Wynant Davis Hubbard, author and explorer, former Harvard football star, goes with his expedition to get wild tribes ready to sing and do their religious rites for the microphone, to get lions, hyenas and other fierce beasts ready to speak up at bedtime for children safe in faraway nurseries. Mr. Hubbard holds that when children really understand animals they never fear them. He does not believe there is such a thing as instinctive fear—He says fear is a pernicious something that has to be taught.

Ethiopia says in a special communique that Emperor Haile Selassie's troops have not advanced into disputed territory since the Ualul incident, which started the trouble. Rome fills with soldiers under mobilization orders, but no important embarkation for Africa takes place. A pith helmet swinging from each soldier's back announces his tropical destination. Negradas Jesus, Ethiopian Charge d' Affaires in Rome hopes there will be no war, but is outspoken—"If Italy comes against us we will fight to the last man to save our freedom of 6,000 years."

The remarkable durability of wood used by the aborigines in early days for making spears is demonstrated by a relic unearthed at Myall Creek, Dalby, Queensland, Australia. The relic is a 100-year old spear, broken off at the end but still about 5 feet 6 inches long. About six inches from the point begins a set of eight fishbone carvings beautifully executed. The first set is single-pointed, but this is followed by seven double pointed designs.

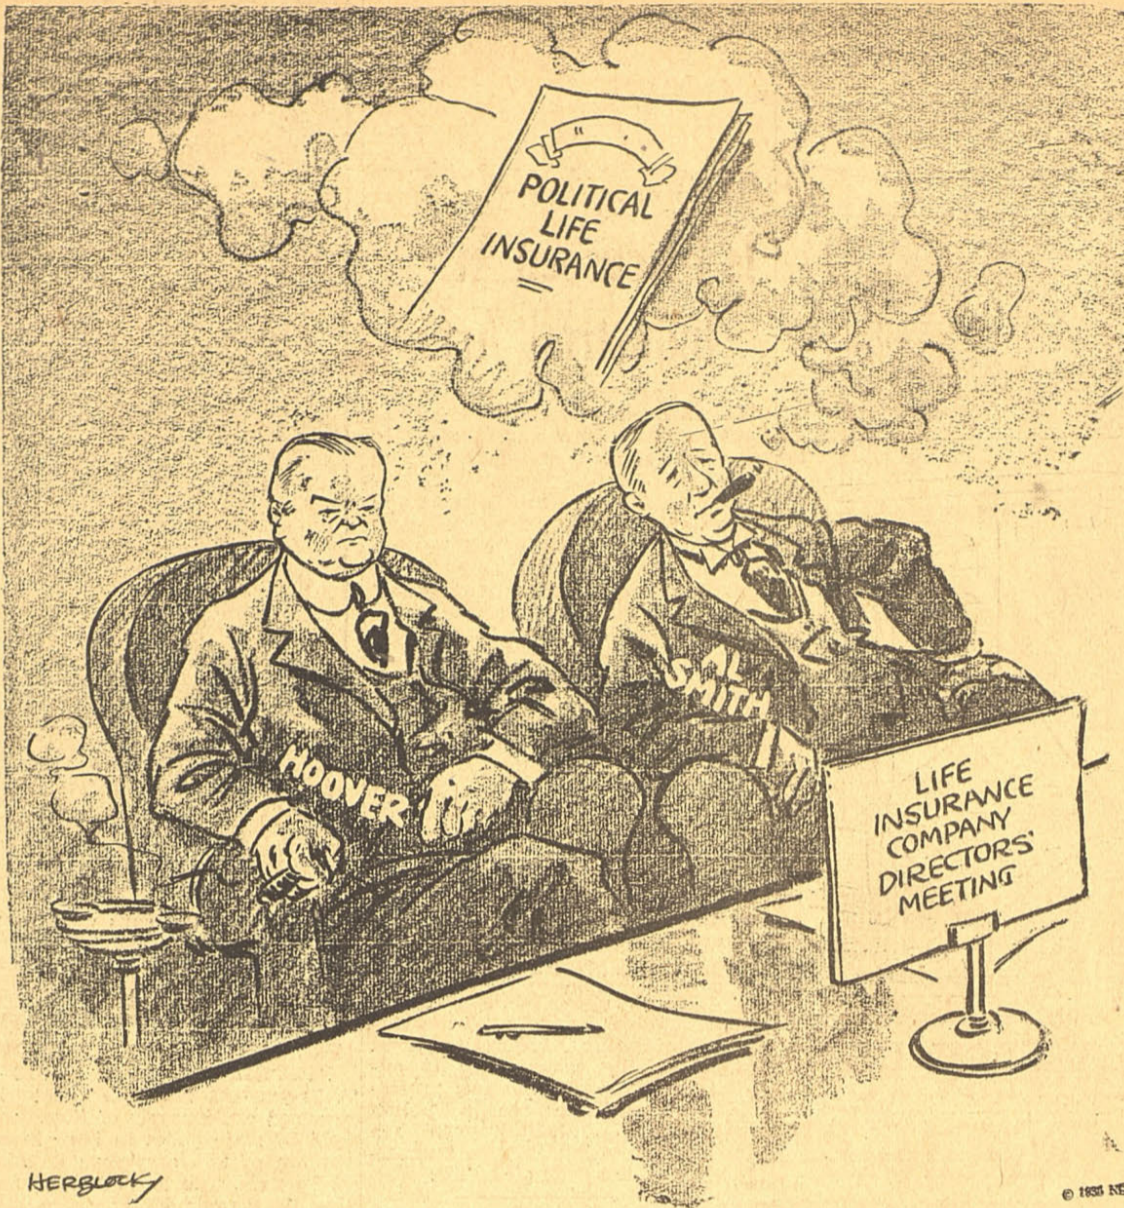

Although the spear must have been in the ground for many years, the wood is in a splendid state of preservation, and the edge of the carvings is still of needle-point sharpness. An aboriginal said the spear was a type carried by the king or chief of a tribe, and was very rare in these days. A similar specimen is to be seen in the Sydney Museum.

The first Empire air mail to arrive in New Zealand was delivered at Auckland recently, when four mail bags, containing nearly 7,000 letters, and a special bag with mail for the Duke of Gloucester, were landed from the Orient Liner Oronsay from Australia, 18 days after the mail left London by airplane. The mail was delayed in Australia through an accident to the plane, else it would have caught an earlier ship across the Tasman, and would have reached Auckland in 16 days from London, about 10 days faster than the fastest time by ocean and train. With an air connection across the Tasman, which can be crossed in about 12 hours, the time could be still further reduced.

Wonder If They Ever Think of This?

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. — It looked like one of those "life's darkest moments," when Elbert Hooper, who was first assistant to James V. Alfred was attorney general, appeared before a senate committee opposing the repeal of the present state racing law. The democratic party platform, written by Alfred and his leaders at Galveston last year, demanded repeal of the law.

"Who wrote that party plank?" somebody demanded. Members leaned forward expectantly. Nobody answered.

"Didn't Tom Love write it?" the same speaker went on.

That eased the situation. Several people present knew that Hooper had had a major share of the job of preparing and putting the party platform together at Galveston.

He did that as aide and associate of his then chief. Whether he wrote or wrote or agreed to the anti-race-betting plank, he at the convention simply was assisting in putting into the party declaration the dominant campaign planks upon which Alfred had been nominated governor.

looking after the well-being of taxpayers, has talked to numerous legislators, and anticipates a bill's introduction to raise the registration fees or "tuition" in the university and state colleges.

Mr. Young said he takes issue with newspaper column comments that the fees were more than doubled last year. He pointed out that the $30 long-term fees were increased to $50; that summer-school fees were increased, and that fees for out-of-state registrants were run very much higher than the increased in-state fees.

"It is commonly mentioned," Mr. Young said, "that some of these tax-supported schools have reduced and lopped off other fees, etc., so that the $20 raise is of very little real value to the taxpayer for whose relief it was made.

"With reference to the statement made then," the fact is that practically every person connected with these tax schools and every family whose sons and daughters were getting free professional training and higher courses at the expense of the taxpayer, entered most strenuous objection.

"The raise in tuition charges to relieve the taxpayer was the hardest-fought of any of the many commendable accomplishments of the 43rd legislature."

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Certain senators are taking a close squint at Admiral Christian Joy Peoples. Peoples has been reported as likely to have a large finger in distribution of the $4,000,000 work relief fund. The administration sent him to Capitol Hill to explain, after a fashion, its bill appropriating that sum.

He has a long and honorable record as the navy's paymaster and buyer. For more than a year, as head of the treasury's procurement section, he has bought government supplies and built government buildings.

He has been described as "Roosevelt's closest friend in the navy"—the friendship dates back to wartime—and is honest, amiable, and well-liked.

But many senators, already shocked at the proposal to hand all that money to Roosevelt with no strings attached, are prone to check up carefully on anyone likely to be a key figure in doling out the cash. They know politicians, contractors, and mere grafters are in a tatter of anticipation.

It was unfortunate for Peoples that a lobbyist's confidential memorandum laid before the Senate munitions committee revealed the admiral as consultant in a plan to bombard Roosevelt with telegrams urging him to get the navy to rescind its rejection of bids by the Bath (Me.) Iron Works for two destroyers.

Certain persons—and I'd hate to say they weren't admirers of "Honorable Harold Ickes"—began to whisper that Peoples might be a bit too susceptible to the wiles of politicians and lobbyists and that perhaps "the people around Peoples" didn't comprise the best imaginable staff.

STILL other records being contemplated on Capitol Hill seem to go a long way toward explaining recent rumors here that Louis Glavis, chief investigator for PWA and Secretary Ickes, had "investigated" Postmaster General Farley—to Farley's intense indignation.

Last summer Glavis and his men investigated the $4,250,000 post-office annex building and the $6,000,000 federal courts building in New York.

The General Builders' Supply Corporation had sold about $195,000 of cement, plaster, brick, and terra cotta blocks to the contractor or sub-contractors for the annex job and about $185,000 of materials for the federal courts job.

General Builders' Supply is known in New York as "Farley's company" and the postmaster general, although he resigned as its president, was still a stockholder and presumably in control.

THE Ickes-Glavis forces were especially interested in the bids on the annex job.

The procurement division had asked for bids four times. A company which had refused to buy supplies from the Farley company was low on the second and third bids, which were rejected.

A company which had been doing business with the Farley concern for years was low on the fourth bid and won the contract.

Did you ever stop to think

EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Okla.

Roy H. Faulkner, president of the Auburn Automobile company, says: "I wonder how often any of us ever 'Stop to Think' how important to the scheme of things in this great country of ours is the Salesman? Every business in the country, large or small, rests upon the shoulders of the actual purchaser supporting it. This statement is not meant in any way to depreciate the importance of the quality of the product as, of course that is essential. But regardless of the value of the product, its acceptance by the public is definitely dependent upon the manner in which it is presented to them, either through printed Salesmanship, called Advertising, or by direct contact of some Salesman with the actual purchaser.

"The gigantic automobile industry of today is a definite tribute to master salesmanship. While the desire to ride is instinctive in every person, the automobile business would not be what it is today had it not been for the tremendous glamour which has been built up around the pleasures of ownership of a motor car through automobile shows, millions of dollars worth of advertising, and automobiles enthusiastically presented directly to the prospect by the retail Salesman.

"This quality of salesmanship is going to be one of the greatest factors in bringing back the prosperity to America which is its rightful heritage. In several months of investigation and thousand of miles of traveling, I have found that Salesmen are again beginning to lift up their heads and talk the quality of the product, instead of fearfully trying to sell every customer the cheapest merchandise they have in the store. During the past few years a great many salesmen had been beaten down by the 'price' arguments of their customers until real Salesmanship was fast becoming a lost art. But some of the more courageous salesmen during the past year have again stressed 'quality' with their customers and the reception they have received has truly been amazing. They found that people really were interested in the quality of the merchandise they purchased, as well as in the price. And today the demand for better things is being shown in every industry. Proof of this is visible in the sales records of practically every variety of business. With the salesman once more playing the part of real merchandisers instead of 'order-takers' the business of the country will again move forward as it has in years past, and the American public enter upon a period of more gracious living."

UVALDE, Feb. 23. — Plans for Garner State Park to be established in honor of Vice President John Nance Garner, are nearing completion here.

FOREST CITY, N. C., Feb. 23. — Take it from P. D. Harrell, golf clubs can be used for something besides playing golf. While playing golf recently Harrell saw a rabbit run across the course. He threw his club at the rabbit, hitting it in the head. The rabbit was killed.

Horseshoes To Get New Highbrow Name

LONDON, O., Feb. 23. — The old, homespun game of horseshoes may go highbrow and acquire a new name.

Agitation to adopt a new name for the sport has become national in scope, according to R. B. Howard of London, secretary-treasurer of the National Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

Horseshoe pitching often is referred to as "barnyard golf." This is most irritating to horseshoe pitchers, who believe their game deserves the same dignity as any other sport with such a great following. D. O. Chess of Cleveland, secretary of the Buckeye State Horseshoe Pitchers' association, has suggested the game be named "Ringer." The name has been more popular with followers of the sport than any other suggestion.

"The sport is all right on its merits but a pain-in-the-neck by name," Chess said. "It is considered to as barnyard golf, far below the dignity of the real sport and sportsmen who take part in it. 'I believe that if it is given an appropriate name, carrying with it the dignity the sport deserves, there will be no stopping it from being recognized as one of our leading national major sports.'"

Texas Journalists Plan Southern Tour

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. — A tour of Southern states by Texas journalists in honor of the 1935 Centennial celebration, was tentatively planned at the Texas Press association meeting here.

The party is expected to leave late in April by special train and visit New Orleans, Birmingham, Montgomery, Jacksonville, Columbia, S. C., Raleigh, N. C., Richmond, Washington, Charlotte, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Knoxville, Nashville, Little Rock and Dallas. Lowry Martin of Corsicana is chairman of arrangements committee and Ray Nichols of Vernon is vice chairman.

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Laura Lu Brookman © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
GALE HENDERSON, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, PHIL, surprise her mother, Mrs. STEVE MEYERS, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.

Gale goes skating, breaks through the ice and is rescued by BRIAN WESTMORE, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after two years in Paris to enter the mill. Gale disappears before he can learn her name.

VICKY TRATCHER, daughter of ROBERT TRATCHER, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian.

Gale and Steve quarrel, later make up. Vicky tells Brian she wants to get acquainted with the mill workers, on the pretense of wearing them. He is pleased, agrees to take her to see Gale. Next evening they are married.

Brian comes back after Vicky has gone, but Gale refuses to talk to him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII
The amazing fact to Gale was that everything went on next day, just as it had. The sun shone brightly. Birds were singing, shrill notes that were a mockery. Two girls, standing beside Gale in the cloak room, laughed and joked as they hung away their coats and hats.

It was all just as it had been the day before. And yet, how could it be? How could there be laughter and gaiety in the world? How could anything be the same when for Gale there was only blankness and emptiness everywhere?

Once during that terrible, endless night Gale had pressed her hands together and buried her face in the pillow, sobbing in a muffled, smothered voice, "I can't go on! I can't!"

But she knew that she could. People did, somehow. People all over the world who were suffering, and broken-hearted, for whom brief visions of happiness had suddenly shattered, managed to piece together their broken lives once more.

Gale thought, "It's better to know it now. I ought to be glad it happened this way."

She should have been, and yet the thought failed to comfort her. She had rehearsed the same arguments the night before. Lying, wide-eyed, in the darkness, she had pictured again the scene with Vicky. She had gone over all that Brian had said Sunday—fragmentary sentences that had seemed so precious then. Why had he said them? Why had he said, "I love you, Gale. I think I've loved you since the first time I saw you."

Why? Because Steve had been right about Brian, and she had been wrong. Because she was a mill girl and Brian found it amusing to pretend he cared for her. Silly of her to suppose it had been more than that for one moment.

expected him to marry. Well, she had learned. She felt humbled, humiliated. And there was more to it than that. She had really cared for Brian Westmore—or for the man she had thought Brian Westmore to be.

COMING home that evening she heard a call from across the street and halted at the smallest of the O'Connors came flying toward her. He wore a coat several sizes too large, its sleeves dangling almost to the ground. His knitted cap was jammed over his forehead, but he threw his head far back, staring up at her with blue, appraising eyes.

The smallest O'Conner grasped at Gale's coat with bare, grimy hands and said impatiently, "They—when it'll be comin' back?"

"When is who coming back?" "You know! The man who doeth thwicks."

"Oh!" The chilly hand clutched Gale's heart again. It was a moment before she found her voice. Then she said, "I don't know, Tommy. I—I don't know when he's coming back."

"But I want to see him! Look—he thaid it wath luk thith—" The grimy fingers dug into a half-torn pocket, producing a cork from a bottle.

"He thaid—" The youngster began attempting to demonstrate the puzzle, but Gale put a hand on his shoulder.

"I'm sorry, honey," she said, "but I've got to go in the house now. I've got to get supper. Some other time you can show me how the trick goes."

But the youngster was adamant. "No," he said, "it's that man I want to see. You told him to come back here. I twel over and over and I can't get it wight. You tell him—"

Gale sought escape. "Maybe Phil knows how to do it," she said. "He'll be coming any minute now."

The child shook his head. "It's that man I want to see," he repeated. From the rear of the O'Connors' house a shrill voice called, "Tomme! Oh, Tom-meel!"

"That's your Mother," Gale said. "You mustn't keep her waiting."

over. It was wrapped in a news paper with a strip of plaid silk and a picture from a fashion magazine.

"Look," Josie said, holding the strip of plaid up to her face. "Don't you think it's kind of pretty?"

"Very pretty," Gale nodded. She had forgotten that she had promised to help Josie. She said, looking at the fashion picture, "Oh, yes—this is the one we do ed on, isn't it?"

She got out newspapers and cut a collar pattern, fitting it about Josie's shoulders. She pinned the paper collar into place and Josie considered herself in the mirror and seemed pleased.

She said, "Gee, Gale, it must be swell to be able to sew like you can. I tried to make a dress once and you should have seen it! Was I a sight?"

Gale was cutting the silk, careful to keep the edges even. "It just takes practice," she said. "It isn't hard after you've had a little practice."

MAYBE that was the way with other things," she thought. Maybe after telling yourself often enough that you didn't care about a person, that you despised them, it would really be true. She hoped it was like that. Hoped it was all her heart!

She drew her needle in and of the silk, taking minute, invisible stitches. She had the bitting on one half of the collar when Josie cut in sharply:

"Gale, look—you've got it on the wrong side!" "Oh, I have, haven't I? I'll have to rip it!"

Josie eyed the other girl shrewdly. She thought for an instant that there were tears in Gale's eyes, but that was ridiculous. Putting the binding of a collar on the wrong way couldn't make anyone cry.

An hour later, Josie rose to leave, the finished dress over her arm. She said, "Gee, Gale, you were swell to do this for me. It's like a new dress—"

"I'm glad I could do it," Gale told her. She really meant it. Sewing for Josie had filled the evening. She said, "Good night, Josie. See you tomorrow!"

And thus the day ended. Tomorrow, Gale told herself as she undressed and got into her plain little white gown, would be easier. Gradually the days would grow easier and she would learn to forget that she had been a silly, ridiculous little fool. She would even, some day, be able to think of Brian Westmore without that sharp, stabbing pain. Maybe she would be able to take the incident as lightly as he had—

But she couldn't do that now. She found out the following evening, coming home from the mill, just how far she was from thinking rationally, dispassionately about the whole affair. She had left Josie a block behind. Turning a corner, Gale's heart suddenly ceased beating. There, ahead of her, was Brian.

American Songs Are Studied By Jr. Music Club

The Junior Music Club held its regular meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of the vice president, Betty Lou Powell.

The subject for study was "American Songs". The different types were discussed and one of each class was played on the violin and piano.

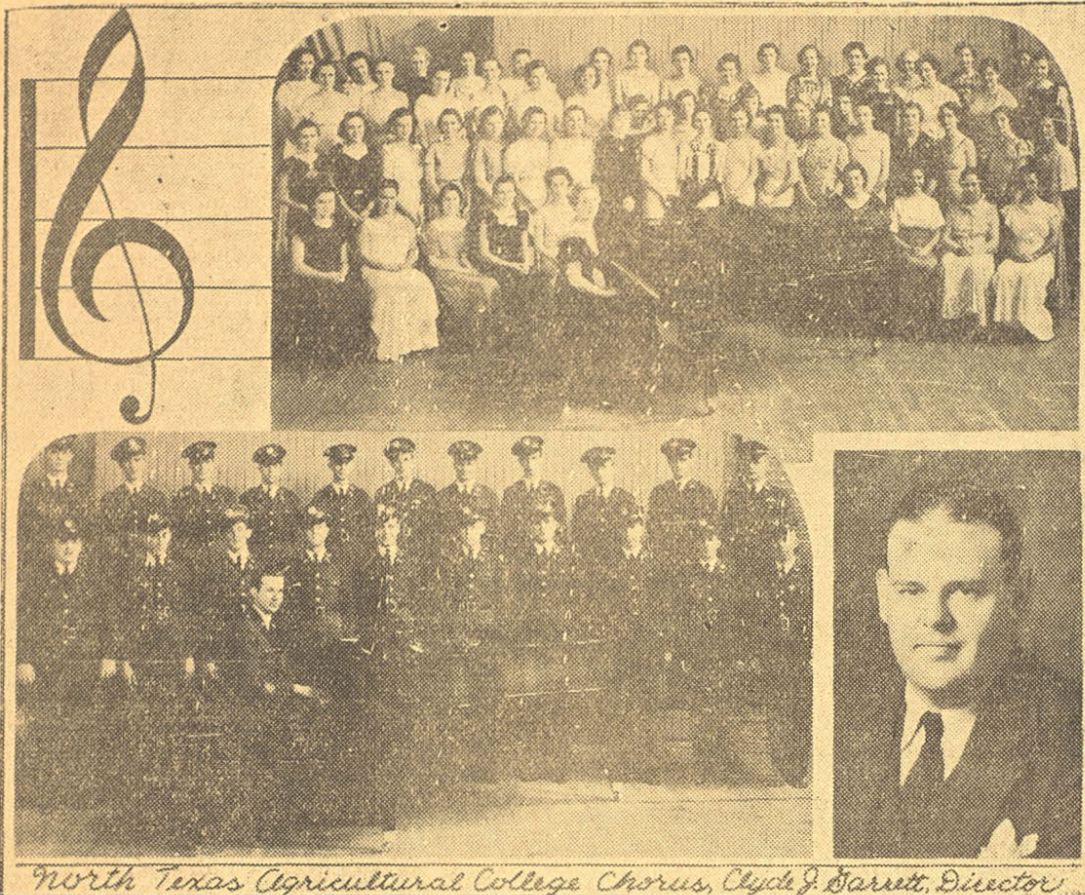

The special music was: "War Dances" by Clyde Alup, "Hymn" by Kelsie Fern Doyle, "Southern Memories" by Betty Lou Powell and "The Little Old Sod Shanty" by Julia Jane Moore.

Refreshments of fruit jello and snacks were served with tiny George Washington hatchets for favors.

Those present were: Marcel Robbins, Daisy Wood, Sue Wilden, Julia Jane Moore, Joyce Rimbolt, Margaret Lavorne Key, Kelsie Fern Doyle, Mildred Clark, Velsie Wood, Mrs. Ben Krauskopf, club sponsor, and the hostess, Betty Lou Powell. Mrs. A. S. Nabors and Mrs. Clyde Alup visited the club.

The next meeting will be an open house meeting held at the women's club house on Saturday afternoon, March 2. The study of American songs will be continued and a special invitation is extended to the mothers of the club members and the members of the Cisco Senior Music Study club.

American Novel Is Discussed At Industrial Arts

"The American Novel" was the subject for study Thursday afternoon when members of the First Industrial Arts club met in the home of Mrs. Joe Wilson. After a short business session directed by Mrs. Hubert Seale, the leader, Mrs. N. A. Brown had charge of the program.

Mrs. Alfred Iby gave an interesting discussion of "Distinguished Features of the Novels of Manners, History, Purpose, Romance, and Realism". A short talk on "Ben Hur" by Wallace was prepared by Mrs. Carl Wisdom and read by Mrs. Johnny Cox. Mrs. J. B. Pratt discussed "David Harum" by Westcott and Mrs. A. J. Olson gave a well prepared discussion on "A Hoosier School Master" by Edgerton. "The Rise of Silas Lapham" by Howell was discussed by Mrs. L. J. Leech and "Babbalanza" by Sinclair Lewis was given by Mrs. E. L. Smith. Mrs. S. H. Nance read a paper on Erice Cartington as a novelist. A round table discussion followed the prepared program, with "My Favorite Novelist and Why" for the subject.

Refreshments were served the following: Mesdames T. D. Schafer, E. L. Smith, N. A. Brown, H. Seale, A. J. Olson, Johnny Cox, B. E. Moreland, S. H. Nance, C. S. Levedidge, E. J. Poe, Rex Moore, L. J. Leech, H. A. Bible, J. E. Borman, Penecost and J. B. Pratt.

Wed 12 Years—in Hollywood!

Twelve years of wedded happiness isn't a Hollywood record, but it's at least unusual enough among the film folk to call for notice. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lloyd did not lack attention when they celebrated their twelfth anniversary. Shown here in their most recent picture are the noted comedian and Mrs. Lloyd, the former Mildred Davis, who before her marriage appeared with Lloyd in a number of his hits. They have three children—Gloria, 10; Peggy, 9; and Harold, Jr., 4.

P-T. A. Program Is Given By Pupils

Pupils of Mrs. J. P. Mason gave an interesting program Wednesday afternoon, when the Parent-Teacher's association met in the Grammar school. The Grammar school choral club were presented in two numbers which they will sing at the interscholastic meet in March. Miss Nadene Huestis gave a piano solo, Tylene Phillips a violin solo, and Martha Jo Pass and Alice Louise Slicker gave a piano duet. Dr. Seale gave an interesting discussion on "Community Progress".

Mrs. D. Ball presided during a business session and named the committee for the County Parent-Teachers association meeting here in March.

Mrs. Atkins Hostess To Entre Nous Club

Lovely bouquets of violets graced the Seventh street home of Mrs. George Atkins Thursday afternoon when she was hostess to the Entre Nous club members. In games of bridge Mrs. L. C. Moore won high score and Mrs. F. J. Borman, out.

An attractive and delicious refreshment plate was served. Those present were: Mesdames R. C. McCarter, L. C. Moore, Oran Shaekelord, E. L. Smith, Sam Kimmell, F. J. Borman, L. A. Warren and Rex Moore.

Circle Makes Quilt For Church School

Mrs. A. E. Jamison, circle chairman, opened the meeting last Tuesday when members of Circle Two of the First Presbyterian church met in the home of Mrs. Sandhofer. Mrs. C. H. Fee gave a most inspiring devotional, after which a quilt was made ready to send to the Tex-Mex school at Kingsville. Mrs. C. Rountree directed the lesson assisted by Mrs. Leith Morris and Mrs. C. H. Fee.

An enjoyable social hour followed. Those present were Mesdames C. H. Fee, A. E. Jamison, Elizabeth LeVeaux, E. P. Crawford, Leith Morris, Spliter, Rountree, F. J. Borman, J. A. Garrett, and A. Sandhofer.

Mrs. P. P. Shepard Is Forty Two Hostess

Merry Wives club members were guests Friday afternoon of Mrs. P. P. Shepard, who entertained in her Seventh street home. In games of forty-two which were played at five tables, Mrs. Reagan and Mrs. Fee won high scores.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Brandon and Mrs. Phippen in serving a tea plate of pear salad, sandwiches, wafers, and punch. Members and guests were: Mesdames C. Owen, C. H. Fee, J. E. Spence, A. RANCHMEN TO FACE NEW ERA ON APRIL 15

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 23.—The livestock industry of the West will enter a new era on April 15.

That was the belief of both Department of Interior officials charged with administering the Taylor Grazing Act and livestock men who attended the land meeting here at which Secretary Harold Ickes spoke rather brusquely on the subject of over-exploitation of the public domain.

April 15 is the date Ickes suggested for the issuance of proclamations creating about 50 grazing districts in nine states of the West.

In Operation by Fall
By autumn the plan will be in full operation. Ranchers of the region, who grow 10 per cent of the nation's cattle and 50 per cent of its sheep, will, by that time, feed their stock on public ranges under permits and with protection against exploiters.

That is the main difference between the New Deal and the Old Deal as regards the public domain, according to P. R. Carpenter, director of the grazing law. Under the Old Deal use of the public domain developed into a free-for-all and needless exploitation of the land.

New Plan
Under the new plan rights of well established stockmen, and the little fellows especially, according to Ickes and Carpenter, will be protected against nomadic sheep growers.

In return for this protection they will be expected to live up to rules prescribed by state and district grazing advisory committees and by the Interior Department. Eventually, but not this year, they will be expected to pay some fees.

OFFICER SHOT IN EFFORTS TO HALT BANDITS

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 23.—Two well dressed bandits executed a daring robbery here today and escaped with $675 after seriously wounding Plain Clothesman J. M. Lowther. The men entered the W. T. Grant company store and ordered breakfast. During the meal C. F. Clark, assistant manager of the store, passed by their table with Friday's receipts. One of the men arose suddenly and clubbed Clark to the floor with his pistol and the two bandits ran for a rear exit. Lowther, hearing Clark's screams, ran to his assistance and encountered the bandits attempting to escape. He was shot three times—in both lungs and a leg—and did not have an opportunity to return the fire. His condition is extremely serious.

Yellowstone Park Elk On Breadline

JACKSON, Wyo., Feb. 23.—Even the elk are joining the federal government's breadline in preference to going out and foraging for themselves.

A large part of the 20,000 herd here have accepted the role for the same reason that millions of persons throughout the United States are on relief—to keep from starving.

Last year's drought is responsible for their condition. There is not enough natural hay in the southern portion of Yellowstone Park for many of them to live on, so they have been coming down to the government refuge here in increasing numbers.

Commonplace Life Gives Distinction

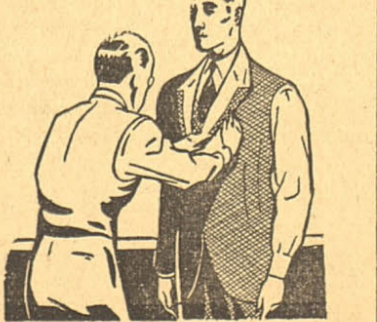

ALTO, Tex., Feb. 23.—Having to lead a commonplace life such as can be duplicated in almost every family, has not kept Miss E. Mabel Kinney, at the age of 85, from being an unusual and distinctive person. Born in Vermont, Miss Kinney emigrated with her parents to Minnesota in 1862, earned money for a college education by teaching school for $12 a month and "boarding school," taught school for some 20 years in Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois, gave up teaching to care for her aging parents, and then after their deaths came South to be with a brother who had lost his wife. In her new environment, Miss Kinney did not drop her interests but pursued them the same as before.

Besides keeping house, she has found time for writing, for compiling a family genealogy and for teaching Sunday school class. Some of her poetry and stories have been published, and she has at various times written columns for newspapers. She began teaching a Sunday school class in 1873 and has continued it since.

Bliss, Then Woe, As Bride Flees

"They'll never part us," was the impression Jane Cooke Scarlett, created as they embraced outside Rockville, Md., court, where Scarlett beat a theft charge by the bride's mother. But part they have. The bride has vanished, following the storm stirred by their elopement and her mother is conducting a frantic search.

Gigolos of London Are In Bread Line

LONDON, Feb. 23.—London's gigolos are on the bread-line. Ennued by their friends, banned by the high-tone hotel managements, they are forsaken by the rich women who kept them in the lap of luxury.

A tour of London's white-light district on any night will fail to reveal a single gigolo—and they are not hard to recognize. Immaculately dressed, wearing expensive jewelry, good-looking, usually in a dissipated sort of way, they used to be seen by the hundreds in the swank resorts.

With an almost regulation expression of the deepest boredom, their jobs was to dance with and pay attention to women reputed to have money.

Three factors have led to the gigolos' downfall:

First is the scarcity of rich patrons; second, the undeniable fact that the women of means and leisure who patronized them has discovered her normal self-respect; and third, and most important, is the existence of the dance instructors' union.

Dance instructors today cannot find employment at the best hotels, or the fashionable night clubs, unless they hold the diploma of the Imperial Society of Teachers Association of Teachers of Dancing. Gigolos who prey on rich and susceptible women, generally speaking, have little or no knowledge of the technique of dancing.

Troop Four Scouts On Hike Saturday

Troop four of the Cisco Boy Scouts spent Saturday on an all-day hike to the old Hi-Y cabin on the Bacon farm south of Cisco. They were accompanied by Scoutmaster J. R. D. Eddy.

Leaving Cisco at 8:30 a. m., the scouts hiked to the cabin, where they spent the day in signal practice and in playing scout games. The troop cooking was done in community style, with two of the boys acting as chefs.
