Cotton Co-op Throws Support to Roosevelt Farm Bill

BREAK OCCURS IN LONG LINE OF OPPOSITION

WASHINGTON, March 28. — The American Cotton Cooperative association today threw its support behind the administration farm bill and urged the senate to empower President Roosevelt "to give American agriculture a new deal."

U. Benton Blalock, president of the association, testified before the senate agriculture committee that the farmer needs "a general agriculture bill flexible enough to handle all basic commodities."

"We have a president in the white house elected under a promise to give American agriculture a new deal," he said.

"Give him the machinery as carried in this bill and we believe the president will carry out his promise."

Blalock's testimony was the first break in a long chain of opposition testimony before the committee.

WAGNER BILL GIVEN FAVORABLE REPORT.

WASHINGTON, March 28. — The senate today began a major offensive against unemployment.

The banking and currency committee voted to report favorably the Wagner $500,000,000 unemployment relief bill with a restriction that not more than 15 percent of the new funds may be allocated to any one state.

Senate leaders were confident of passing this week that bill and also the administration's measure creating jobs for 250,000 men. The last measure, in its present form, leaves to President Roosevelt to power to fix the wage at which volunteers in the reforestation army will work.

Sen. Black, Dem. of Alabama said he would press for action this week also on another relief bill, his five-day, 30-hour week measure.

ROOSEVELT TO EXECUTE OLD INDIAN LEGEND

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 28. — An Indian legend may be soon climaxed at Muscle Shoals if President Roosevelt's "new deal" is carried out, according to Mrs. Caroline Engsfeldt, whose hobby is collecting legends.

The story is that the Great Spirit imprisoned a water sprite beneath Muscle Shoals. She was the Goddess of the Tennessee river. Her lover was the Prince of the Power of Air, who did his wooing with breezes.

But it was decreed that the two never should be united until a magician in human form should bring a reign of peace and prosperity.

President Roosevelt, in advocating opening of the Shoals power and nitrate plants, is the magician, it is believed by the few remaining Indians.

That, Mrs. Engsfeldt says, is her best legend. But she has others.

Another Indian story, devoutly believed by persons of Indian extraction in Alabama's Black Belt region, has to do with the only earthquake ever recorded there.

The quake was caused by the stamping of a foot by wrathful Chief Tecumseh, whose ire had been stirred when his efforts to arouse the Black Belt Indian braves to war in 1811 had been futile.

The warriors were flabby and lazy from years of peace. So Chief Tecumseh declared he would find warriors among the Huron tribes of what now is Detroit.

When braver friends were found, the angry chief said, Tecumseh would stamp upon the ground and the earth would shimmer in the Black Belt.

After 60 days had passed the ground rolled and pitched and whole villages toppled to earth. Tecumseh the Indians believed, had accomplished his vengeance.

VOTE SOUGHT ON BEER BILL NEXT MONDAY

AUSTIN, March 28. — A vote on Texas' 3.2 per cent beer bills in the house of representatives will be sought next Monday, it was learned today.

The bills were favorably reported by the house committee on state affairs last night after a public hearing marked by criticism of President Roosevelt by Atticus Webb Dallas, leader of the Texas Anti-Saloon league.

Webb had criticized the constitutionality of congress declaring 3.2 per cent beer non-intoxicating. He was asked what he thought about Roosevelt's signing the beer measure.

"I don't think he knew what it was all about," said Webb.

The Anti-Saloon leader was booed when he said "I think the man who voted for repeal because he expects to save taxes is on the same plane with the officer who puts his hand behind his back to get money the bootlegger puts into it."

Miltreated Child Found in Burlap

NEW YORK, March 28. — A bruised and lacerated six-year-old girl was found in a burlap bag today in the basement of a Brooklyn tenement house.

Physicians worked over the dying child but were unable to revive her and she was pronounced dead early this afternoon.

Meanwhile detectives searched the district where five major crimes against children have occurred in the last two years.

The child's assailant had knotted a rope tightly around the neck of his victim, Barbara Wiles. She had been carelessly stuffed into the sack.

Physicians said she had been criminally assaulted.

STATE PLANS PARADISE FOR OUTING DAYS

LINCOLN, Neb., March 28. — A ten-year program for outdoor development of Nebraska, designed to make the state a paradise for hunters and fishermen and a vacation land of note, has been adopted by the state game, forestation and parks commission.

The object of the plan, State Game Warden Frank O'Connell said, is to have a businesslike and scientific plan of developing the state's outdoor resources.

Nebraska abounds in natural beauty and is ideally adapted for wild game bird life. The sand hills of the north central part of the state were once the land of the prairie chicken and quail. Both game birds, slaughtered in early days, are coming back.

Hungarian partridge and ring-neck pheasants, wild turkeys and grouse are being planted in various sections of the state.

Lakes and streams are planted with trout and bass. Catfish and bluegills and other slow-stream fish are planted in the southern parts of the state.

The program outlined provides: 1. Increase in game birds. 2. Increase in game fish. 3. Providing suitable hunting, fishing and recreation facilities. 4. A scientific study of all wild life. 5. Turning waste lands into fish-breeding pools. 6. Reforestation of waste lands. 7. Control of sewage to prevent pollution. 8. More game refuges and sanctuaries. 9. Elimination of predatory animals and birds and a war on crows especially. 11. Co-operation between sportsmen and civic organizations. 12. More rigid enforcement of game laws.

DUPLICATED TRICK WORCESTER, Mass., March 28. — A gust of wind blew off Mrs. William Larkin's spectacles and they were shattered on a sidewalk. Going to an optician's to replace the lenses, she discovered from his records that the same thing happened to her just one year ago to the day and almost to the minute.

MORE CITIZENS LEND SUPPORT TO CISCO C. C.

"The chamber of commerce is a vital necessity for Cisco," said J. C. King, M. K. and T. agent here. "And municipal chamber of commerce is the most equitable form for the reason that it makes every person who gets any benefit from it pay his or her share of the cost."

"The band and zoo are institutions that we can not have otherwise than by taxation and they add so much to the desirability of Cisco as a place in which to live that I think it would be poor policy to get rid of them, especially when abolishing them will not reduce by a single iota the amount of taxes we must pay. To look at the situation from one point of view, we are getting a live chamber of commerce, a municipal band and a municipal zoo absolutely free."

"I shall support and urge every earnest citizen of Cisco to support the three amendments to the city charter affecting these three institutions."

"Let's keep Cisco distinctive. I might add that it is the policy of our railroad wherever it is interested, to work in cooperation with the chambers of commerce and to assist in community enterprises."

J. T. ANDERSON IS STRONG FOR AMENDMENTS

"I am strongly in favor of all three of the proposed amendments to the city charter affecting the chamber of commerce, the band and the zoo," said J. T. Anderson, Cisco independent oil operator. "Cisco can not be without a chamber of commerce and expect to make any progress as a city. It is the only institution that can take care of the 'business that is nobody's business'."

The record that the chamber of commerce has made during the past two years show conclusively its value. If we had had no chamber of commerce we should have gotten very little outside relief for our poor people and we should have been called upon for donation after donation to take care of this need alone.

"For another thing, if the chamber of commerce as a municipally supported institution is killed you may count upon the fact that we shall have to contribute extra money every month to take care of an institution to take its place, whether it be another chamber of commerce or not. Such a privately supported chamber is ineuitable, because it makes a few bear the cost of doing things for the entire community, and it does not accomplish the results."

"Under the proposed amendment we shall have the chamber of commerce without any more cost than

ALASKA FLIERS FACE DANGERS ON MERCY TRIPS

By ART HENDERSON United Press Staff Correspondent

SEATTLE, March 28. — Alaska summers aren't so long as those in Florida or California, but just as beautiful. Aviators usually have their "recreation" in these months.

Ancl Eckmann, 35, with about 10 years of flying experience and a former ensign in the naval flying corps, flew two prospectors, with food and equipment and a pet dog, into the wastes beyond Juneau. He left his passengers and received orders to return for them later.

The men lost their food.

One Dead

When Eckmann returned, he found one dead and the other nearly unconscious from hunger and exhaustion. The pilot loaded the man into the plane and went after the dog. The pet fought to stay near his master, buried under a pile of rocks. It was all Eckmann could do to put him into the ship. He returned to Juneau and the man recovered.

During the next two years the dog met every plane at Juneau in hopes that his master would return.

Completing a full day's work and then ordered to fly on a mission of mercy over some of the most jagged mountain peaks in Alaska, is one of many instances in the lives of Alaska fliers.

Clark Wing, 26, flier, who too received his early training with the naval flying corps at Pensacola, Fla., flew on an errand of mercy after spending the entire day flying motion picture men over high peaks.

AMENDMENTS CAUSE WARM HOUSE DEBATE

AUSTIN, March 28. — Efforts to strip the Texas Railroad commission of its oil and gas supervisory powers and to put them under another body brought about long and heated debate in the house of representatives today.

The proposal was made in a series of amendments by Rep. Bob Long, of Wichita Falls, to the utilities commission relative to oil proration and gas production would be transferred to a new department to be known as the "Utilities and Natural Resources commission of Texas."

Long, who led the recent legislative investigation of the railroad commission, made it plain his amendments are to make a "raid-road" commission out of the railroad commission, leaving it only regulatory powers over trucks and railroads.

Rep. O. F. Chastain, Eastland, and Olan Van Zandt, vigorously defended the railroad commission and opposed the amendment.

NO CLUES ARE OBTAINED TO 2 TERRORISTS

HOUSTON, March 28. — Authorities announced today they had found no tangible clues to the identity of two negroes, one of whom assaulted a white woman yesterday after killing her escort.

Miss Adele Torian, 24, the assault victim whose companion, William W. Porch, Jr., was slain when he asked the negroes to spare her, will view six suspects in the hope of identifying the terrorists.

NOTED ARTIST WILL APPEAR HERE TUESDAY

Mr. Brigham has become widely known in musical circles of the United States during recent years, as in that time he has made several professional tours of the entire country, and has repeatedly given his song and dramatic recitals. These recitals, because of their artistic and educational value have been in demand in educational institutions as well as in musical organizations.

Included in the program are classical and romantic songs, operatic arias, folk songs, ballads or "heart songs," and musical recitations, such as "Enoch Arden," Tennyson-Strauss. One of the unique features of these recitals is that in them Edward Brigham is always his own accompanist, both in songs and in musical recitations.

Mr. Brigham filled an engagement at Hot Springs, Arkansas, on March 16, and after his appearance in Cisco will go to Lubbock, where he will be presented under the auspices of Texas Tech.

This is the first program of this type to be presented in Cisco within recent years, and public appreciation of that high type of entertainment will be expressed by attendance. If this program is well received, the public may have the benefit of many other such performances, according to Prof. James Dacus, Jr., who is in charge of arrangements.

HALF BILLION IN GOLD.

More than half a billion dollars in gold, most of it hoarded, has been returned to the vaults of the federal reserve banks as a result of the government's campaign to bring the precious metal out of hiding and restore it to activity in support of the national currency. There has been $503,000,000 redeposited to be exact in round figures. Multiplied by the accepted credit formula one may readily see just what effect this vast sum of timid wealth exerted in the stagnated condition which brought on the recent banking crisis.

Each dollar of gold, by legal interpretation, will support two dollars and fifty cents of currency. That is, there must be 40 cents in gold actually on deposit in the federal treasury for every dollar of currency in circulation. The remaining 60 cents of each dollar is backed up by government bonds or sound commercial paper. Thus in currency alone the $503,000,000 in returned gold will support $1,250,000,000 in current money.

But that is not all. Credit experts, figuring from actual facts, estimate that each dollar of money in circulation will provide $10 in credits, that intangible commodity which is the life blood of business. Multiplying the $1,250,000,000 by that multiplier we have the staggering sum of $12,500,000,000 in purchasing power which was being withheld from the channels of trade by reason of the timidity or thoughtlessness of its possessors. Money hidden away in cans or vaults is worth only its face value. But put to work it doubles itself many times. Of course the mere fact that it is available does not work the alchemy of credit expansion. It requires to be joined with human effort and human confidence and courage before that mystery unfolds itself into prosperity. But the fact that it is available furnishes the incentive to put it to use. Money is valuable and capable of supporting itself only in use. Withdrawn it languishes just as any other medium designed for a particular function languishes.

NORRIS FOR DIRECT ELECTION.

Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska has introduced a measure calling for direct election of presidents. It would toss in the ditch the system of election known as the electoral college. He predicts his new measure will have the opposition of every political party and every boss in the country. A similar proposal has been introduced in the house by Rep. Clarence Lea of California. He voted for Roosevelt in 1932.

Lea is a democrat and a reformer. Sen. Norris is classified as republican-progressive. He cast his ballot for Alfred E. Smith in 1928. In 1930 Norris was re-elected to the senate of the United States by the voters of Nebraska. This is the fifth attempt of Norris in as many sessions of congress to provide for direct election of presidents. Borah poses as the great independent in and out of the senate. He is not. The greatest independent in and out of the senate is the Nebraska veteran. He has convictions and he backs them and votes for his convictions. Borah talks of his convictions and on general election day he votes against his convictions.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Some senators and congressmen are already craving to be dealt out of the New Deal.

They don't like the way it's going—for a variety of reasons. And they are numerous enough to make what amounts to a strong minority, outside party lines.

Already they have forced the Roosevelt parade to take one or two detours. More may follow.

For instance, Majority Leader Joe Robinson sponsored an amendment to the Banking Bill, to let state banks borrow funds from the Federal Reserve system. Senator Huey P. "Kingfish" Long danced a triumphant dance in the Senate lobbies when this happened. He claims responsibility for it.

On the Economics Bill, something of the same kind occurred. A fledgling senator from the Silver State of Nevada, Pat McCarran by name, aimed his untried sword at the venerable Pat Harrison and the even more venerable Carter Glass over this.

Vote Is Forced
Pat McCarran was worried about the constitutionality of the measure, and wanted it sent to the Judiciary Committee.

The Senate had to take a vote. It was dignified with the title of "test vote." McCarran took the beating he expected—but 19 senators lined up with him.

Whatever the minority may do, it is as yet nothing like the Wilsonian combination of "wild men" of wartimes. There are few signs of concerted action or revolt.

What it actually means is that legislators at Washington these days have refused to surrender their independence, even to a Roosevelt, even to a national emergency which has been likened to war.

Opposition to the presidential banking and economy measures is based on several grounds: On constitutionality, on economic argument, and on humanitarianism.

Borah, attacking the Economics Bill on the floor, does so on the latter count. It is inequitable, he argues, to cut a high-salaried government official 15 per cent and to cut the little man the same amount.

Stocky, truculent, courageous Senator Couzens flatly declared the Economics Bill an unwarrantable measure of deflation.

The state of Washington looms big in the Capitol these days. A new senator, Homer Bone, and a flock of new congressmen have landed here, fresh from the big experiment in barter and in community selfhelp they have been conducting out there.

The day Senator Bone left his home state, the legislature there passed the Bone Power Bill. That gives state-owned power utilities the right to compete with private concerns.

Westerners Prominent
Across in the other wing of the Capitol, Bone's lieutenants in Congress are already restless.

"They call this wartime," declared Monrad C. Wallgren, of Everett, Washington. "But you never heard of them reducing wages in wartime, did you? They made work in wartime. They started the lumber mills going night and day, to build cantonments. They made work—at high wages—for everybody. Think that over."

Wallgren, 42, well set-up, immaculately dressed, is serving his first political job. He is a jeweler by profession, a mixer, a star at billiards.

Slick, forceful, young, competent, inherently political is Marion A. Zlonchek, another of the Washington delegation.

Wallgren, Zlonchek, Martin Smith and the rest of the Washington delegation in Congress except Knute Hill, rangy dirt farmer, voted against the Economics Bill.

More may be heard from these lads.

And What Do April Showers Bring?

Norris risks all and wins. Borah talks all and loses. Regardless of political affiliation Americans, or at least a vast army of Americans admire the statesman of direct action who goes all and not part of the road.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF THE GREAT CRASH.

Raymond W. Stevens of Chicago is dead. He was a former president of the Illinois Life Insurance company, now in receivership, and a nationally known hotel operator. He was 59. His father, James W. Stevens, 80, and a brother, Ernest A. Stevens, were under charges of embezzlement in connection with the collapse of the $150,000,000 life insurance company. Father and sons three years ago built the largest hotel in the world. It boasts 3000 rooms and cost $30,000,000. Now one of the sons is dead, the father is near death, and the last of the famous trio must face trial in the courts of Illinois. Raymond W. Stevens was found shot to death in his palatial home in Chicago. Nearby lay a revolver from which one bullet had been discharged. For 50 years the Stevens family was among the social leaders of Chicago and the West. What price glory. What price wealth. Isn't it true that many of the greatest financiers and builders of the period which ended in the year 1927 are paupers today, or facing trial in courts, or fugitives from justice, or are sleeping their last sleep in the grave of the suicide?

brought out of private stock and returned to public vaults. Total of gold so far redeposited with the bank is therefore about $6700. Unless, of course other shipments were made of which Specs is not aware.

In all the nation has returned to the banks where it can be used in backing currency more than half a billion dollars in gold coin. That means swelling the national currency volume far above the billion dollar mark. More than that demonstrates as conclusively as it is possible to demonstrate the confidence that America has in the soundness of its banking institutions and the character of the men who are directing its financial organizations.

T. R., Jr., Bagged Big Tamaraw

MANILA, P. I., March 28.—Former Governor-General Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who spent months traveling in out-of-the-way jungles and mountains hunting animals such as the giant panda and other rare specimens, called in the services of Captain Russell A. Maughan and his airplane to go in quest of the elusive tamaraw, and was rewarded.

Maughan now adviser on aviation here, probably is best remembered for his dawn-to-dusk hop across the United States in 1924, the first such flight ever made.

Roosevelt was particularly anxious to bag a tamaraw for the Museum of Comparative Zoology in Cambridge. "The tamaraw," he explained "is a rare animal only found on the island of Mindoro (Goldmine) in the Philippines."

To get specimens for mounting Roosevelt and Maughan flew to the island of Mindoro.

"We searched for two days, with the aid of two old-time hunters and some beaters who went into the jungle and tall grass to drive the game out," Roosevelt said.

"On the third day I bagged a nice bull. We were skinning the animal for mounting when we saw two more coming toward us. Captain Maughan bagged his, a cow, which gave us an ideal combination for the museum."

Hizzoner, the Mayor, informs Specs that the "Clean-Up" week proclamation, coinciding with election week, extends to the city hall. Evidently Mayor Berry is of the opinion that a clean-up should apply generally to all phases of civic life. There are a number who will agree with him.

Specs suggests that the "clean-up" be extended even further to include the bath-tub. The sweet odor of cleanliness should not be contaminated by that "Even your best friends won't tell you" complex. Specs suggests that the proclamation be amended to include a paragraph calling upon all citizens of high and low degree to take a bath. Most of us do, of course. But it won't hurt to extend the proclamation.

R. L. Poe, energetic and able president of the Cisco chamber of commerce, is a beloved "old-timer" who hasn't gone to seed. He is as chipper and optimistic as a youngster of 20 summers and as two-fisted in what he believes as John L. Sullivan. I don't mean by that he is pugnacious or unreasonable. On the contrary he is as courteous in his insistence as he can be.

Now everybody has confidence in Mr. Poe and he is entitled to it. He believes in the chamber of commerce, he has worked with it for years and he knows the inside of this institution whose sole object is to make Cisco a better place in which to live. He knows the sacrifices that the business men who serve on its board make; he knows that they get no pay, except some unthinking criticism. He knows these things and he is still willing to devote himself to the work, willing to face the criticism and willing to give his time and his labors without any reward except the consciousness that he is doing his share to make Cisco a fine and livable city.

Now, having gone to some length to eulogize his record and establish my respect for Mr. Poe I can with impunity declare that he has done me wrong. Early in the campaign I made a bet with him on the spur of the moment. I failed to exact any terms out of him and, as I said, he is as stubborn as a Missouri mule. The result is I have everything to lose and nothing to gain.

Furthermore, he has advertised the fact, Henry Stubblefield, around at the city hall, has made use of the information to get back at me for sundry darts which I have loosed in his direction. All of which is unkind and adding insult to injury.

PARIS DIVIDED OVER ATTIRE FOR WOMEN

Ug Moore Wins From Canadian Grappler

RANGER, March 28.—Ug Moore, Denton, 177 pound college graduate, using his favorite hold, a rocking chair split, downed Chick Evans, of Canada, here last night in the feature bout on the Elks club wrestling card.

Moore won the first fall in 29 minutes, but 19 minutes later lost the second when Evans pinned him with an Australian leg stretch. He came back to take the third in 23 minutes. Following the match Moore issued a challenge to Tiger Billy McEun, of Pasadena, to meet him in a bout next Monday night.

In a special bout arranged when Wild Bill Carger was delayed and did not arrive from Shreveport in time for his match, McEun, 180 pounder, wrestled three middleweights. He threw Bert Edwards, Kansas City, in 8 minutes, and Johnny McCain, Tulsa, in 12 minutes. Bennie Wilson, contender for the junior middleweight titles, was too much for him, though, and the two wrestled to a draw.

BERGS BEGIN ANNUAL MARCH DOWN ATLANTIC

By GRANT M. SASSAMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—Icebergs which 21 years ago this April caused the greatest disaster in the annals of the sea—have begun their annual spring parade across the North Atlantic shipping lanes.

This was disclosed at the U. S. hydrographic office, where it was reported that Norwegian, British and American ships had sighted more than a dozen bergs and had broken ice fields in Mid-Atlantic during the past six weeks.

That icebergs and icefields are coming down prematurely this year has been established by radio reports from various ships that have encountered them east of Cape Race.

Though more than a score of years has passed since the night of April 14, 1912, when the White Star liner Titanic ripped her undersides against a gigantic berg and sank with a loss of more than 1,500 lives, the precautions taken by authorities following that tragedy never have lessened.

The customary time for big ice to reach the North Atlantic trade lanes is late in April or early in May, but the patrol boats of the U. S. government have been cruising in northern waters for weeks.

Born off the ice-locked shores of Greenland, these gleaming terror-fleets in massive silence down across the ocean highways. Icebergs are huge parts of glaciers breaking off as the rivers of ice move down a mountain into the sea, but all glaciers do not produce icebergs. Of the hundreds on the west coast of Greenland, only a dozen produce the thousands of bergs coming south each year. A few come from the east coast and from Baffin Land and Ellsmere Island in the Antarctic and the Pacific they practically are unknown.

PARIS STYLES

United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, March 28.—If you never envied Gloria Swanson before you will when you hear about some of the Paris clothes she has just ordered. Her first fitting chez Schiaparelli was for a suit of dark blue wool the material boasting a white line that is set in a very attractive herringbone pattern at the back.

The jacket, on which were lavished most of the new ideas, has the shoulder trays and peated set-in sleeves. It makes up for shortness by a row of pleats at the back of the waistline, and in front a single aluminum slide is used as a fastener.

The blouse, which is all white Peau de Taton, with a little tie holding together the cowshaped shaped neckline, goes under the jacket and Miss Swanson has selected one of those adorable clown hats of dark blue knitted wool. She is a perfect imp of smartness with it cocked at just the right angle. Schiaparelli meant it to be worn at.

Misses Jennie Lee Matthews and El Dora Cooner visited Miss Genevieve Egbert in Brownwood Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Cunningham were visitors in Brownwood Sunday.

Those enjoying this occasion were Misses Faye Farmer, Pearl Ayers, Frankie Lou Garrett, Ruby Gann, Dorothy Kramer, Opal Crawford, Dutch Gunn, Elsie Richardson, Earlene Farmer, the honoree, Miss Ila Jewel Smith, and the hostess, Miss Nina Smith.

COMPOSER OF "PEANUT VENDER" HAS URGE TO WRITE CLASSICS

By LESTER ZIFFREN
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, March 28.—Moses Simon, the Cuban composer responsible for peanuts taking the place of bananas as a musical dish, wants to forget the rumbas which made him famous and retire among the sober chords of the classics.

"The man who gave 'El Manicero,' or 'The Peanut Vender,' to the world and thereby made the exotic, stirring Cuban dance, the rumba, universally known, pointed out his ambition was a luxury that required money 'so I'm trying to build up my financial reserve with popular tunes. What that's done, I'll settle down to the 'caballero' life of writing symphonies."

Simon, bronzed and perpetually gray-haired, told the story of "The Peanut Vender." He is 43.

"I had a rush call from Rita Montaner, a Cuban actress, one day in 1929," he said, "for a song for her show opening the following day in Havana. While I was waiting in the lobby of her hotel to discuss the matter, I wrote the melody for 'The Peanut Vender.' Havana used to have these peanut men, picturesque characters who used to sing under your window. The best singer usually sold the most peanuts.

"The song was a hit. It immediately became a popular radio feature and music publishers in the United States, who heard it as it was broadcast from the Hotel Plaza in Havana, were impressed by its spright-ness, sensuous rhythm and tropical enchantment. I sold it to an American publishing house thus introducing Cuban music into the United States. From here it spread all over the world.

"I don't know how many millions of copies were sold, but a French publisher said they estimated it grossed over $20,000,000. I only received about $20,000 because there was a defect in my copyright, resulting in the song being pirated."

Simon also wrote "Martha," the theme vehicle of a noted American radio personality. A defective copyright also cut down his returns on this production, so he finally joined the Song Writers' Protective Association with iron-clad copyrights and contracts assured for his future efforts.

He said he secured ideas for many of his songs by listening to the secret rites of Negro spiritualists in Cuba. The unusual chants and music provide him with themes vividly tropical.

Simon said he has sold one of his latest songs, "Tuya," to a New York publishing house and is negotiating for the sale of three others, "Serenata Espanola," "See-Saw," and "Dark Moon."

HANOVER, N. H., March 28.—Winning elections is a habit with George M. Brigham. At the recent annual town meeting he was elected to his 50th consecutive one-year term as town clerk.

would fall upon a few and that would be unfair, because every person in Cisco, business man, business woman or salaried person gets benefit from it work and should pay proportionate to that benefit.

"As long as the chamber of commerce the band and the zoo are economically run, as the now are, they are wonderful things. We are for them under the proposed amendments."

A. C. GREEN FAVORS THREE AMENDMENTS.
"I favor the chamber of commerce, the band and the zoo," said A. C. Green, of the Green Funeral home. "If necessary I should be willing to go down into my pocket to keep them alive. We need a chamber of commerce and both the band and the zoo add a touch to our town that makes it that much better to live in. I favor the three amendments."

In every corner of the world, both here and overseas, wherever you find joy in life, 'tis always "Luckies Please!"

Luckies are distinctive in character... unique in mildness

The wide world over, people want a cigarette that has character... and mildness... That's why they choose Luckies.

The "Cream of the Crop"—in those four words, you have the reason for Luckies' character—a character that sets them apart from all other cigarettes.
