

JAYCEES TO SPONSOR STOCK SHOW TOUR

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

In an effort to conserve game fish in Texas waters and preserve the sport of catching them several leading sportsmen of the state are sponsoring a move to amend the law governing open season in the state to include the 15 days preceding the present closed season. The closed season begins on March 1. The conservationists would have it begin on February 15 instead.

The following statement in support of the move has come to my desk. Whether or not the arguments it sets forth are true, the matter ought to be examined without prejudice by all those who love fishing and wish to preserve the sport to the future. If Texas fish are being exterminated by unwise catching there will shortly be no fish for anybody to catch. In view of that fact every reasonable means should be adopted to insure conservation.

"Fish in these waters as a rule do not actually start the major spawning season until around March 15. But the spawning instinct begins about Feb. 11. Crapfish, in particular, and bass, to a great extent, start toward spawning waters in the middle of February. This results in all creeks, bayous, rivers and other inlets being crowded with game fish in an effort to find suitable spawning beds upstream.

"Concentration creates food scarcity; the mating instinct is paramount. As a result, many millions of fish are caught during these two weeks. Millions of eggs are killed.

"Chief opposition, it is said, to the proposed change will come from fishermen who like to kill their fish easily. Certain fishermen will oppose being prevented from catching the fish when they may be taken the easy way.

"With the usual short-sightedness of such fishermen, they do not look to the future; they do not stop to realize how the supply of fish is being exhausted at staggering speed. Any hatcheries man will corroborate the statement that any number of fish may produce will not overcome the millions killed each spring from Feb. 15 to March 1."

Constable Found Slain; No Clues to Assailant

CORPUS CHRISTI, Feb. 15 (AP)—R. T. Chisholm, San Patricio county constable and night watchman at Odem, was found shot to death early today on the main street of Odem.

There were no known witnesses or clues. Sheriff Frank Hunt said he believed Chisholm was shot while taking a prisoner to jail.

Acting governor Walter Woodul offered a $250 reward.

QUICK ACTION UPON RELIEF IS SUGGESTED

"Drastic" Employment Change Cited By House Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The house appropriations committee asked the house today to approve immediately a $250,000,000 emergency relief appropriation for the next four months.

It suggested quick action because of "drastic change which has taken place in private employment" since September and indications that the situation will not improve immediately.

The appropriation would be used to keep at least 2,000,000 persons on relief rolls for the next few months.

Acid Planned as Donovan Is Closely Watched

The Hickok Producing Development company's No. 1 Donovan, which yesterday found a small show of oil in the top of a saturated Ellenberger lime structure, was being watched today as operators were reported preparing to test the pay with acid. Although the drill penetrated the saturated stratum only about six inches, it was not planned to drill deeper, it was said.

According to observers this was the first well in which the entire distance into the Ellenberger lime was drilled entirely with cable core barrel.

A 24-hour test showed several barrels of free oil with no trace of water.

It was regarded as significant that the Ellenberger was encountered 121 feet lower than it was topped in the Hickok Van Parmer, 1,000-barrel Ellenberger producer one and one-half miles to the northwest.

Operators were proceeding with extreme caution in handling the well.

Total depth of the Donovan is 4,280 feet. Thirty-three feet of Ellenberger was cored.

Soldiers fired into the crowd. The crime was committed Sunday. The mob threatened to burn one building after another unless the suspect was turned over to it.

The rioting was quieted after about 1,000 shots had been fired. Three were reported wounded.

C. of C. Directors to Meet Tonight

The board of directors of the Cisco chamber of commerce will meet this evening at 7:30 at the chamber of commerce offices in regular session.

Spring Weather Is Broken by General Rains

ABILENE, Feb. 15 (Sp.)—Fertile spring was banished from central west Texas last night by rains and showers which at some points were as heavy as two inches.

Centers of the moisture belt was Aspermont, in Stonewall county, and Roby and Rotan, in Fisher county. Precipitation at all three approached two inches at midnight, and there still were light downpours.

The rainfall brought summery temperatures rushing down to the low 40s. Cloudy skies gave promise of additional moisture and other points looked hopefully aloft.

Moisture in Stonewall county, the best in that vicinity since last spring, extended well to the north of Aspermont. It was accompanied by a mild electrical storm which did no damage.

Rain was heaviest just after midnight at Roby, where the downpour was slackening at midnight. Rotan gauged slightly less moisture. Both had received little moisture of consequence since early January.

The rainstorm's path apparently was crescent shaped, extending from Throckmorton, to the north of Abilene, around to Colorado on the southwest.

Measurements in other localities were Throckmorton, three-quarters inch; Stamford, nearly one-half, with some lightning; Haskell, one-half; Snyder and most of Scurry county, more than half an inch; Sweetwater, intermittent showers which had yielded about one-half by midnight; and Colorado, nearly an inch and three-quarters.

Old People Meet Here on Saturday

A meeting of the Old People's Security League of Eastland county will be held at the Cisco city hall auditorium next Saturday afternoon at 1:30, it was announced today.

The meeting will hear discussions of the law governing old-age assistance and its administration by selected speakers and deal with other matters of interest to the old people which may arise.

Meetings of the league at Eastland and Ranger have drawn attendances of 300 to 400 and it was expected that a number of this magnitude would be here Saturday afternoon.

President of the league is J. H. Taylor of Eastland. W. O. Russell of Gorman is vice president and J. M. Williamson of Cisco is secretary-treasurer. Executive chairman of the league for Precinct No. 4, in which Cisco is located, is J. B. Elder of Cisco.

State Officials Jubilant Over Rate Decision

AUSTIN, Feb. 15 (AP)—State officials who administer Texas' law regulating gas utilities were jubilant today when the U. S. supreme court sustained an order of the railroad commission reducing retail gas rates at Laredo.

Ernest O. Thompson, commission member, said the decision presaged lower rates for all Texas where they already had not been reduced, while Attorney General William McCraw characterized it as the magna charta in the state's rate reduction program.

"The significance of the decision is that the method used by the commission and orders issued to bring about fair rates have been sustained in every respect," Thompson said.

"It means we now have a firm foundation for the ascertainment and promulgation of rates based on orders by this commission which cannot be overturned.

"The same procedure was followed in the Lone Star case, so we look forward to the same results, which will bring a reduction to some 300 cities and towns in Texas."

The commission has ordered the Lone Star Gas company to reduce its wholesale, or gate, rates, and the company, after losing in the state's highest courts, has appealed to the U. S. supreme court.

Thompson estimated gas consumers in Laredo would enjoy a saving of $23,000 a year as a result of the decision and would receive a refund of about that amount for six years, or $138,000.

He said the issues and principles in the Laredo case and cases involving reductions at Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Waco, Sherman and other towns were identical.

McCraw noted two important points in the ruling, the upholding of the retroactive phase of the order and the decision the commission had power to reduce rates when it found operating costs justified reductions.

200 Corporations Control Half of Wealth--Jackson

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Assistant Attorney General Robert Jackson told the senate committee today that whether "sixty families or 160 families" controlled the economic life of the nation he was "against that kind of concentration."

He made the assertion while testifying before the senate judiciary subcommittee considering his nomination to be solicitor general. He said it was true that more than one-half of the nation's wealth was controlled by 200 corporations.

Mrs. J. C. Dyer, Jr., and Miss Lillian Skiles of Moran were visitors here Monday.

Canadian Fascist Hails Acquittal

The straight-armed fascist salute, so familiar in the European scene, was vividly demonstrated to Canadians when Dr. J. G. Lambert, a leader of the Canadian Nationalist party, shown above in Mussolini-like pose, was acquitted in Montreal of the charge that he incited students of the University of Montreal to riot.

Lobos Ready for District Tournament

The Cisco Lobos this week awaited the district basketball tournament at Breckenridge with all members of the squad in top condition for the strenuous play which confronts them if they are to win the district title.

The Cisco five will meet the Haskell county champions in their first tournament game Friday afternoon. If they win this game they will face a three-game schedule Saturday, playing at 10 o'clock in the morning.

This will be the first time since 1928 that the Lobos have gone into district League play as the champions of Eastland county. Only twice this season have the Lobos been defeated, both times by Stephenville. Stephenville, however, was eliminated by Dublin in Erath county play and will not participate in the Breckenridge tournament.

In winning the Eastland county title the Lobos made a clean record.

PLAN TO HAVE 100 CARS AND BAND IN TRIP

Goodwill Jaunt Will Advertise County Livestock Show

The Cisco junior chamber of commerce will sponsor a goodwill tour of Eastland county on Wednesday, February 23, to advertise the Eastland County Livestock show to be held here on the following Friday and Saturday.

Decision to do so was made at the meeting of the organization at the chamber of commerce offices last night when a free luncheon was served the approximately 30 members who attended.

A committee headed by A. D. Starling was named to handle the arrangements for the tour. Others serving on the committee with Starling are Edward Lee and O. L. Stamey. Plans were advanced to take the high school band with the trippers and to enlist at least 100 Cisco cars in the trip.

Probability that a street parade would be held here next Saturday to spur local interest in the stock show was left to the decision of the committee.

It was announced that a volley ball game between the Jaycee team and a Moran team would be played at Cisco high school school Thursday evening at 7:30 proceeds of which will be used to help finance the high school debate teams, sponsored by the Jaycees.

It was decided, also, that the organization would sponsor a dance at the Laguna hotel roof garden in the near future to raise funds for the junior chamber's operation.

COFFEE FURNISHED BY N. C. PACKER

Coffee for the free feed given by the junior chamber of commerce to members who attended the meeting of the organization last night was contributed by N. C. Packer, who served Admiralty coffee.

Robbery Suspect Is Slain, Another Taken by Posse

DENTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A man suspected in a robbery at Whitesboro was slain and another captured at Pilot Point early today by a posse of north Texas officers.

The officers were cruising for two men who robbed Luther Biggers, Whitesboro filling station attendant, of about $20 last night.

The shooting occurred as the officers sought to question the men as they stopped at a closed filling station at Pilot Point. Deputy Sheriff Leon Hannah, Denton, said one man had a revolver in his hand.

Fingerprints were taken in an effort to identify the men.

Fertilizer Pool to Meet Here Saturday

Interested farmers will hold a meeting at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, February 19th at the chamber of commerce in Cisco to pool orders for additional purchase of fertilizer, it was announced by W. B. Starr. Some farmers wanting fertilizer early received their shipments through orders sent in for less than car load lots. This fertilizer cost them slightly more. Orders received in February will be shipped farmers in cooperative carloads, which will cost less money than fertilizer shipped in small quantities, Starr said.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

In Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ.—Eph. 2: 13.

"Why fret the soul? For things beyond thy small control? Do but thy part, and thou shalt see Heaven will have charge of them, and thee. Sow thou the seeds, and wait in peace The Lord's increase."

We reap what we sow, but nature has love over and above that justice, and gives us shadow and blossoms and fruit that springs from no planting of ours.—George Elliott.

WHAT IT MEANS: Government in Business

By MORGAN M. PEATY, AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The easiest way to make sense out of the test act of congress and of recent constitutional decisions of federal courts is to ignore the political fog for the moment and take a cash-register view. What actually is happening is this:

The federal government is making strides into economic territory that has been reserved for a hundred years or more for private citizens and corporations.

What the revised law does is to shove the government deeper into the mortgage insurance business. The government expects to lose some money. It already has lost six odd millions of dollars in this field, a little more than 1 per cent of its "investment." That's because its terms are liberal. But Uncle Sam is willing to take a comparatively small rap on the chin in hope that the bill will encourage building and thereby get heavy industries going. That would give employment to more people and spread profits among private citizens.

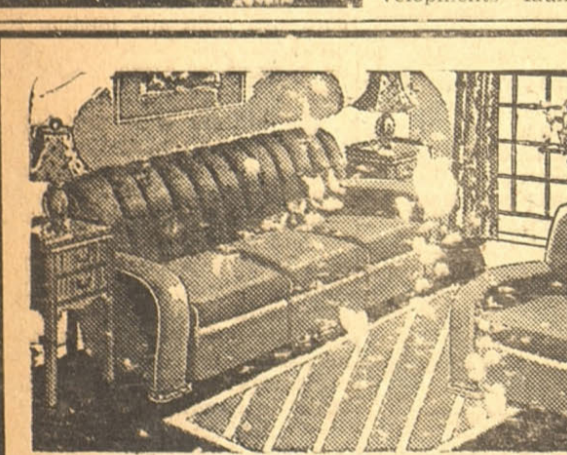

Can't Be Bothered Now turn to the Supreme Court's January decision upholding the constitutional right of the federal government to lend, or give, money to cities for power plants, public buildings, sewer systems and the like.

The real meaning of that is that Uncle Sam can't be bothered about the survival or death of a private enterprise, so long as he is giving the public a legitimate service.

Couple with that decision, the lower court ruling that approved the Tennessee Valley Authority—one of the biggest real estate developments launched anywhere.

A Humanizer of Journalism

DEATH OF O. O. McIntyre writes finis to the career of the second of two newspapermen to whom is due most of the credit for developing a form of newspaper writing which keeps alive in the anonymity of modern day metropolitan journalism the vital personal element.

First of the two foremost pioneers in this field was Arthur Brisbane. Methods and subject matter of the two were entirely different but the two men were alike in that they, as individuals, accepted the responsibility for what they wrote and were themselves the institutions to which their readers looked rather than to the newspapers in which their writing appeared.

THE newspaper is a bigger thing than the individuals whose collective labors produce it. It is made so by its service of certain ideals and responsibilities that are inexorable in their demands. But the contributions of McIntyre and Brisbane and of the host of their emulators have infused a humanizing element into the formal pattern and given it the sparkle of personality.

WHILE the news columns reflected New York as a city, McIntyre wrote of it as people in terms which people elsewhere could understand. Neither he nor his methods will lack imitators and some of his disciples may even exceed him in the art, but to him belongs most of the credit for developing a medium for keeping an essential human personality active in journalism.

Language experts reveal that the 150 Indian dialects are all based on phonetic laws of Europe. So they can't even call their language their own, now.

That decision keyed the whole scheme, including the right of the government to produce and sell water power in the valley.

The meaning of the lower court decision is substantially the same as that of the Supreme Court, although, because it approved the whole Tennessee project, it is much broader.

This does not imply that the government is going to supply all the electric current in the nation any time soon, if ever. The government only controls 15 per cent of potential water power sites anyway.

A Governmental Trend

Nevertheless the enlarging powers of the government to go into business other than such fundamental activities as national defense, the courts, and law-making, is a clear reflection on the trend of the times. This is the way the Hoover committee on social trends put it, back in 1933:

"It is conceivable that without any surrender of our belief in the merits of private property, individual enterprise, and self-help, the American people will press toward a larger measure of public control to promote the common welfare. One possibility is the further extension of the list of public utilities..."

That committee also saw an advantage in the democratic form of government to carry out social aims, "with less lag between social change and governmental adaptation."

The government's action in regard to mortgage insurance and public utilities demonstrates a trend toward the course seen by that committee. And that is the only trend disclosed by Congress or the courts since the special session of congress began last November 15.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

One thing that seems to have been revived by the depression and to have taken a new impetus through the recession is the practice of doing without money; we have found out that if we do not have the stuff then we'll do without. There has been a great deal of resort to barter, which by the way served man many centuries as the method of exchange. Money is, if we stop to think of it, not a necessity; neither is it in

For Love of Polly

By RACHEL MACK Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS POLLY CHELSEY, heroine; stranded in London when war breaks out. JERRY WHITFIELD, hero; the Yankee who sees her through. CABELL BANKS, privateer captain.

Yesterday: Having been called to the captain's quarters, Jerry and Cabell Banks are charged with desertion. This they deny and refuse places in the king's navy.

CHAPTER XII POLLY CHELSEY did not catch the Dover coach next morning because she had a fever and a headache that prostrated her.

After the realization that she was deserted by the man she loved and trusted, and for another woman, she went to her room and gave herself up to alternate moods of grief and anger which admitted neither reasoning nor forgiveness.

When this despair had spent itself like a disease, and when those questions "How could you?" "Where are you?" could find no clews to feed upon, Polly Chelsey recovered. That is to say, she got up from bed, dressed, ate a meal down in the public dining room and inquired after the next coach to Dover.

She did all this with a mechanical efficiency. Mrs. Toby's kind and sentimental heart was shocked and disappointed. She had thought it so fitting that the deserted young lady should languish in her room. But this quick and complete recovery!

Polly could not dwell continually on Jerry's perfidy. She had to plan how to get out of England. Her money would soon be gone; and for all she knew, that terrible old man, Oliver Dart, might be even now looking for her.

"Thank God Jerry didn't take my money!" she prayed devoutly on top of the Dover coach. In that, at least, he had been honorable. He had given it back to her that last night when they were together.

Did he know at that moment that he was about to desert her? Or did he only fear he might be tempted to? It would hurt a little less to believe the latter.

She did not know how to find the smuggler whom Jerry had contacted. She did not even know his name. She only knew he was "half Scotch and half French" and that he worked out of a wretched fishing village between Dover and Deal.

"It's hard," she said to Nuisance. "Thank God Jerry didn't take my money!" she prayed devoutly on top of the Dover coach.

In that, at least, he had been honorable. He had given it back to her that last night when they were together. . . . Did he know at that moment that he was about to desert her?

She meant it was terribly difficult for a girl, alone, friendless and American to get across the Channel when England was conducting two wars. Yet that's what Jerry Whitfield had left her to do as best she could, without instructions.

SHE thought of the woman in the blue dress whose claim on Jerry had been so mysterious and urgent. "I hope he gets sick of her!" she said fiercely to Nuisance. "Sick!"

Nuisance only flicked his ear, but an elderly man sitting beside Polly exclaimed, "What say, Miss? . . . You're sick? . . . I'm not surprised, the way this coach lurches about. Can I offer you a piece of candied ginger to settle your stomach?"

"Why, yes, thank you," Polly replied; and since he seemed a well-intentioned man, rather fatherly, she entered into a conversation with him about England's war policies.

"I've just been wondering," she said, "if any ladies would be allowed to cross to France?"

"If they're French, Miss, they'd probably be permitted to go home, and good riddance. That is to say, if there's a way for them to get home. If they're English and loyal they'd not want to go to France. Now would they?"

"I reckon not. But suppose, now, an American girl wanted to cross to France?"

The man eyed her with sudden disfavor. Like all Englishmen, he hated to see the French and Americans getting together. "If an American woman has the good fortune to be in England," he remarked ponderously, "let her appreciate it. Let her thank Heaven she's escaped from a land of barbarians and rascals."

Polly turned her shoulder toward him and made no reply, for she was offended. But presently she was moved to turn and say frankly, "There are some American rascals, sir, I grant you. I've got one in mind now. But home's home, and I want to get there. So I ask you, sir, what would be the safest way for a lone girl to cross the English Channel?"

"I doubt," replied the man, "if there is any safe way to count on." He was John Bull personified, respectable, intelligent, honorable and self-satisfied; he loathed Americans collectively, so it surprised him to find that they could be individually intriguing.

"No, there's not a safe way for any pretty friendless girl to cross the Channel in war time. She might meet gallantry, and again she might not. If it was my daughter had to do it, I'd advise her to make herself into an old crone."

"Thank you, sir," Polly said. "I don't know why I didn't think of that myself."

ALONG the flagstone pavement in Lyme, Conn., an elderly man with a seagoing gait made his way home, assisted by two homemade walking sticks. He had been to Pell's store. His purchases were in his pockets, for he bought only such necessities as tea, sugar and coffee, and as little of these as possible.

People spoke to him in a friendly way, but absent-mindedly. He was only Trepid Chelsey, a retired skipper without a ship, afflicted with rheumatism and no longer useful to the community.

"Evening, Mr. Chelsey." . . . "Howdy, Trepid." . . . Those who greeted him respected him for his worthy life and his good ancestry. But life moved rapidly even in Lyme, and Trepid Chelsey, who had once been a vigorous man named Intrepid, and had had a well-born London wife to be a credit to the village and a ship named the Proud Lyme to keep up the little port's reputation, now had none of these things, not even his health.

In the old shabby house with the tangled gardens there was only the crippled Dick who mulled over his books and would never carry on the family tradition of going to sea. . . . There had been the girl Polly, who had done all the housework since the year her father had lost his ship and his wife. But she had gone to London now, on the ship of old Tim Chelsey, down at New Haven.

People rarely spoke of Polly's unfortunate trip to her father, for with the war going on, she must be having difficulties. Only Mrs. Pell, who was relentless in her quest for news, dared mention it today. "Trepid," she said, stopping him not far from his own gate, "Polly'll have to stay on with her Dart relatives in London, won't she?"

"Likely," Trepid answered. His came clattered as he moved toward home. He was angry with the woman for reminding him that his child might become an English girl and never return.

Dick, taller than his sister and having the beautiful remote face of a dreamer, closed his Latin books when his father came in and went to stir the soup on the stove. "I've made it by Polly's recipe," he said. But his face, too, clouded unhappily at the thought of Polly.

Upholds State Limit on Interstate Trucks

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The federal government suffered a reverse Monday when the supreme court decided a state can constitutionally limit the width and weight of interstate automobile trucks passing through its territory.

The high tribunal upheld a South Carolina law limiting truck widths to 90 inches and gross weights to 20,000 pounds. A decision by three-judge district court, which had enjoined enforcement

Crop Control Bill Receives Senate Approval

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A crop control bill, praised as "the best farm bill ever enacted" and denounced as "regimentation" and "more harness" for the farmer, received final congressional approval Monday.

The measure, establishing a system under which the secretary of agriculture, in cooperation with farmer committees, may prescribe limitations upon the quantity of wheat, corn, cotton, rice and tobacco grown or marketed, now goes to the White House for the expected signature of President Roosevelt.

The last step in its tortuous journey through congress, which began in mid-November, was taken when the senate adopted a compromise measure, based upon the conflicting bills passed originally by house and senate.

While the bill establishes varying approaches for each of the crops affected, in general it directs the secretary of agriculture to make an estimate of the expected supply, set this figure against expected demand and adjust production accordingly.

Benefits to Farmers

This would be done by paying benefits to farmers who planted no more than a specified acreage. In addition, in years of bumper crops, the secretary of agriculture would be empowered to fix marketing quotas, limiting the quantities that

Valentine Motif Emphasized in WMS Musical Tea

Red hearts of all sizes, lighted red tapers on twenty-five individual tables, and sprays of japonica and other seasonal flowers lent atmosphere to the Valentine motif which was artistically emphasized when the ladies of the Methodist W. M. S. entertained with a tea and musical program at the church Monday afternoon.

Using the theme that "music is the language of all ages, and through it heart communes with heart," Mrs. Paul Wood, program chairman, presented a lovely musical program. The numbers were: song by Miss Ella Andres, accompanied at the piano by Hjalmar Bergh; violin solo by Rose Ann Wood, accompanied by Mr. Bergh; songs by the high school girl's trio, composed of Betty Lou Powell, Marian Jacobs, and Billie Cole, accompanied at the piano by Cathryne Russell; violin solo by Patty Jean Boyd, accompanied by Betty Slicker; violin quartet by Gloria Graham, Patty Jean and Emily Jo Boyd and Rose Ann Wood, accompanied by Betty Slicker; and vocal solos by Mrs. H. V. House.

About 115 attended. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. James Harvey, chairman, and Mrs. Jimmie Allen, Crigler Paschall, John Shertzer and R. W. Merket. Mrs. Paul Wood had charge of the program.

Breakfast Honors Mrs. Pentecost

Mmes. W. W. Wallace and A. E. Jamison were co-hostesses Tuesday morning at a prettily appointed breakfast at the Wallace home, honoring Mrs. R. M. Pentecost, who is planning to leave soon for her home in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, after spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. P. R. Warwick, and Mr. Warwick. Members of the Birthday club and a few guests were present. The patriotic theme was carried out in the table decorations, small flags being used for place cards. Japonica was used for the floral decorations for the rooms. After the breakfast the honoree was presented with gifts from the hostesses.

Those present were Mmes. Pentecost, E. P. Crawford, Homer Slicker, J. V. Heyser, Abbie Daniel, F. J. Borman, J. E. Moriarty, P. R. Warwick, M. H. Applewhite, S. E. Hittson, E. A. Morrow, and the hostesses, Mmes. Jamison and Wallace.

Crop Control--

Senator McNary, (R-Ore.) said the bill provided no new benefits to the farmers, except an extension of loans upon the 1937 cotton crop. This, he said, involved an immense expense to the government in insurance and storage costs. The bill as a whole, he added, makes the farmers "vassals" of the secretary of agriculture.

"It was the parity the farmers were seeking, not compulsion, parity—it is not provided for in this bill nor one cent of additional benefits," McNary said.

(Parity prices are those which would give a unit of farm products the same purchasing power it had in pre-war years.)

Senator Barkley, the Democratic leader, said:

"This is the best farm bill that has ever been enacted by the congress to deal with a great problem of American life," he said.

Sterilization Gold Program Is Modified

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau announced Monday partial abandonment of the treasury's gold sterilization program.

The treasury head announced a plan under which up to $400,000,000 worth of gold which may come into the United States in any year will be permitted to flow into the nation's credit base and relieve the treasury of the trouble and expense of borrowing money to pay for the gold and keep it inactive.

The plan was made retroactive to January 1 and approximately $30,000,000 of gold acquired by the treasury since then will be deposited with the federal reserve system at once.

The action will freeze at least temporarily, the $1,223,000,000 now in the treasury's inactive gold fund.

The action was taken by Morgenthau with approval of the federal reserve board.

Neither Morgenthau nor Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board gave any opinion as to the effect of the new policy on business credit, or other matters. A high administration official asserted, however, that the action was "not deflationary." He would not say, on the other hand, that it was inflationary.

The new program means that hereafter a certain amount of any gold acquired by the treasury will be spent instead of hoarded as it has been in the last year.

The sterilization program was begun December 24, 1936, and was designed to neutralize the inflationary effect of huge imports of foreign gold.

The new program was placed on a quarterly basis. From January 1 to March 30, all gold acquired by the treasury up to $100,000,000 will be spent just as it was before the sterilization program was inaugurated. If more than $100,000,000 worth of gold is acquired, by the treasury the amount in excess will be sterilized.
