Second Suspect Is Charged in Grapevine Bank Holdup

LONGVIEW MAN IS NAMED BY CONFEDERATE

FORT WORTH, Dec. 31.—Odell Chandler, 24, of Longview, today was named as the second bandit in the $2,500 holdup of the Grapevine Home bank in a purported confession by J. L. Stewart, 20, of Arlington. Charges of robbery with firearms were filed against Chandler in justice court here today. He was sought in Dallas. Officers believed Chandler was the bandit who last night forced W. A. Shumaker, 27, and Jesse Trigg, farmers, to drive him to Dallas. The bandit had posed as a member of the posse hunting the bank robbers until the farmers consented to drive him to Grapevine. Then he drew a gun and ordered them to proceed to Dallas. In the western edge of the city the bandit got out, shook hands with the farmers and thanked them for the ride. Over $1,400 of the stolen money was recovered late yesterday from Stewart, captured in a foot race up Bear Creek near Grapevine.

INSTITUTE FOR MINERS TO BE HELD JAN. 3-6

EL PASO, Dec. 31.—The Institute for Miners and Prospectors will be held at the College of Mines and Metallurgy, El Paso, Texas, from Tuesday, January 3rd to Friday, January 6th, inclusive. There will be no charge for tuition, nor will there be a fee of any kind. The Institute intends to present in nine lectures a study of the placer mining possibilities of the territory tributary to El Paso, means of identification of the common minerals, both metallic and non-metallic, found in the area, and a discussion of methods of preparation of ore for sale. The Departments of Geology, Chemistry, Mining, and Metallurgy are cooperating with some of the local mining industries in the presentation of the Institute, and the Faculty of the College will be assisted by outside speakers expert in their particular line. Due to the great interest shown in the Institute last year, the session this year will last four days. One whole day will be devoted to the study of placer mining from a geological, geographical and economic point of view and will include a demonstration in washing with a rocker, and panning.

Clerk Found With Throat Slashed

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 31.—County Clerk Jack Burke, indicted on a charge of misappropriating funds, today was removed under guard to a county hospital. Burke's surrender last night was as dramatic as his disappearance. He was found in a tourist camp, his throat slashed. Police found a knife sharpened to razor edge on the floor of the cabin occupied by Burke. Investigation of Burke's records will continue. He was indicted for alleged misappropriation of $7,500 of city funds left in his trust in February 1930.

"Lost" 30 Years, Sisters Reunited

Nearly 30 years ago a mother dying, left two baby girls in a New York orphanage. Both babies were adopted and grew up ignorant of each other's existence. Then one day Mrs. Agnes Roux, Long Island, N. Y., applied at the orphanage to adopt a baby. Mrs. Margaret Fowley of Chicago had just written in for a birth certificate. The orphanage knew they were the sisters, put them in touch with each other, and here you see them as they met in Chicago to spend the holidays together. Mrs. Roux, left, and Mrs. Fowley.

RESERVE EASY MONEY POLICY AIDS BOND MARKET IN 1932

By OTTO E. STURM (United Press Financial Writer) NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Bond prices pursued a definitely higher course during the past year. At only one stage, from March to early June, was there a general decline. It was followed by a rapid rise until the end of August, when high grade bonds and speculative issues parted company. The former holding steady around the highs, while the latter turned irregular. Even the most speculative bonds finished the year well above the bottoms touched in the decline that culminated in May and many were higher than 1931 closing levels. Gilt edged issues—U. S. Government bonds, legal rails and high grade utilities—closed around their highs of the year and at substantial net gains. A prominent feature was the appreciation in value of major European governmental loans, a movement particularly conspicuous as the Latin-American obligations, however, were highly erratic, influenced by political disturbances. Action by the Federal Reserve board to ease the credit situation gave the market a strong start and under lead of U. S. government issues, there was a concerted upward movement that was thrown askew about the middle of March by such upsetting financial developments as the Krueger suicide and prospects of passage of a soldier bonus measure in Congress. This decline was accelerated by weakness in stocks and the failure of expected business improvement to materialize. Congress was an unsettling influence all around, having under consideration various measures that smacked of inflation. U. S. Government bonds, however, were supported by the open market purchasing policy of the reserve banks. The turn came in June. Cessation of the long outflow of gold from this country and a rise in stock and commodity prices boosted domestic bonds, while the foreign list firmed up as a result of the Lausanne agreement on reparations, which practically relieved Germany of that burden forever. In the fall, low-priced and speculative bonds, particularly rails, which were affected by the uncovering of acute financial stress in some leading carriers, turned weak, coincident with a break in com-

GUN BATTLE OVER LIQUOR FATAL TO ONE

CORSICANA, Dec. 31.—A man was killed and another injured in a gunfight near Streetman today. County officers said the fight involved a cargo of liquor. Jack Harper, identified here as a Dallas desperado, died en route to a hospital. Mickey Nix, also of Dallas, was shot in the shoulder. Nix went to the police station following the shooting. He told officers he and Harper were attacked by four men traveling in two automobiles. He believed one or more of the attackers were wounded. The shooting occurred in a filling station one quarter of a mile north of Streetman on highway 75. E. E. Gaddy, Jr., operator of the station, said he heard the shots but did not witness the shooting. Harper, according to Nix, was at liberty under bond pending trial in federal court in Dallas on liquor charges.

Records Upon 150 Wells Are Lost

AUSTIN, Dec. 31.—Bottom hole pressure records on 150 wells in the east Texas oil field have been lost, it was announced today when the state railroad commission resumed its prorating hearings. The field was placed under complete shutdown for ten days to obtain the pressure records. The records had been placed in a brief case and were being taken to the commission office in Kilgore by H. C. Stipp. As Stipp's automobile reached a small bridge he was forced off to avoid a collision. He was not seriously injured but the records went into six feet of water and have not been recovered.

DEEDS TAKEN FOR CUT-OFF RIGHT-OF-WAY

Taking of deeds to additional right-of-way has been obtained but now a designated state highway north from Cisco, was being done Saturday by A. F. Taylor, county highway engineer. Most of the new right-of-way has been obtained but deeds could not be taken until the district engineer had completed surveying and taking field notes which has been done. Work of setting back the fences will be done through the Cisco Federal Emergency Relief committee which has set aside $800 for this work.

Coupe Stolen From Charlie Mayhew

A 1931 model Ford coupe belonging to Charlie Mayhew was stolen from the garage at Mayhew's residence, 808 F. Avenue, some time Friday night. The car was black with green wheels. Mayhew did not discover the theft until Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when he went to the garage to get the car.

SCHOOL PLANTS RENOVATED DURING IDLE HOLIDAY WEEK

Renovation work on the high school, grammar school, and west ward, which started Monday, has been going forward all week so that the building will be ready for occupancy this week, according to information received from J. E. Spencer, secretary of the Cisco chamber of commerce and a member of the school board. In keeping with Cisco's fight against contagious and infectious diseases, Walker pointed out that the effect of a new coat of calamine is the same as that of a thorough fumigation of the building. He said that the floors and desks of the buildings have recently been treated with a disinfectant oil, which will further prevent the spread of disease. Periodically, Walker said, the blackboards are washed and the chalk rails cleaned out. Erasers, ordinarily spoken of as germ carriers, are run through a cleaning process that eliminates much danger. Other labor consisted of repairing cracks in the plaster, replacing broken wall tile with brick, recalcimining the walls, and varnishing the woodwork of the building. The buildings, especially the high school, were badly in need of repairs, according to W. F. Walker, secretary of the school board. Besides being much needed improvements, this work will add greatly to the appearance of the school property, he said.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Congressional democratic leaders from both senate and house plan to confer with President-elect Roosevelt in New York city next Thursday, it was learned today. Among those expected to attend the conference was Speaker Garner.

ABANDONMENT OF COLLEGES RECOMMENDED

AUSTIN, Dec. 31.—Complete abandonment of two Texas State teachers colleges and either abandonment or reduction to junior colleges of four others was recommended today by the joint legislative committee on organization and economy. Shut-down of Southwest Teachers college at San Marcos because of its nearness to Texas university and consolidation of North Texas Teachers college with the College of Industrial Arts, at Denton, into a four year liberal arts school were advocated. Under the proposed plan East Texas teachers college at Commerce, Stephen F. Austin at Nacogdoches, West Texas at Canyon, and Sul Ross at Alpine would either be abandoned or made into junior colleges. In an attack on athletics the committee charged that physical education has "degenerated into athletics" in most of the teachers colleges. "The state is employing athletic coaches instead of physical directors," the report said. A reduction of $1,273,564 in teachers college appropriation for 1933 and 1934 was recommended.

Mission Window Not To Be Shown At Fair

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 31.—Because the famed carved window of San Jose Mission might be damaged or broken, no effort will be made to exhibit it at the World's Fair in Chicago next year, according to E. H. Whitehead, general manager of the Texas commission. The window, reputed to be the best example of early day carving in existence, was removed from the old Spanish mission near here and shown amid great attention at the World's Fair in St. Louis, in 1904. All members of the board are urged to be present for this meeting.

New Gas Proration Order for Panhandle

AUSTIN, Dec. 31.—A new gas order setting the market demand for the west Panhandle gas field at 300,000,000 cubic feet daily and limiting production of each well to not over 25 per cent of potential capacity was issued by the state railroad commission today. The order becomes effective at 7 a. m. Sunday.

COMPRESSOR IN GAS PLANT IS BLOWN OUT

By FRANK LANGSTON Staff Correspondent EASTLAND, Dec. 31.—Buck Kincaid, Sipe Springs, an engineer, was killed and Fred Davis, Eastland, also an engineer, injured in an explosion in the engine room of the Lone Star Gas company plant northwest of here Saturday morning. The explosion occurred when the compressor valve on the number 5 engine blew out, filling the room with gas, according to S. W. Taft, construction foreman. It was not known how the gas became ignited, Taft said, although there were several ways this could have happened. The engines were running at the time. A spark from the engines may have set off the gas, it was said, or a small spark may have been created by two pieces of metal or metal and stone. Kincaid died between 10 and 11 o'clock, a couple of hours after the explosion. Burns on Davis' hands were more serious than was at first believed, according to a doctor's report. Taft said that he believed Davis would be able to return to work in a few days, however.

Watch Stopped

A blackened watch hanging on a gauge chart board, the crystal blown off by the explosion, had stopped with the hands pointing to 8:05, indicating the hour when the accident took place. Little damage was done to the property, according to Taft. He estimated that a few hundred dollars would cover the property loss. All machinery was in working order, although the blast damaged the building itself. The gas was shut off and fire extinguishers brought into play before the flames resulting from the explosion could ruin any more property. The greatest property damage was that of the corrugated iron roof. It was blown off from the west side of the building and was loosened at other places, Taft said, however, that it could be replaced. Windows were blown out or broken on the west side, and the walls were burnt.

"Dandy First" to Leave Monday

FORT RUSSELL, MARFA, Texas, Dec. 31.—The "Dandy First," the oldest cavalry regiment in the United States army, stowed baggage and bid farewell to its border sweethearts. The regiment is leaving Fort Russell Monday for Camp Knox, Ky. Army orders calling for motorization of the regiment and abandonment of the fort are bitterly opposed by Texans. The troop transfer was the subject of a bitter denunciation of the war department in the United States senate by Sen. Connally, Dem., of Texas.

ROOSEVELT SMASHES SALES TAX.

Chairman Collier of the house ways and means committee declared for the enactment of a sales tax before the close of the lame duck session in order that the budget should be balanced to pass on a clean slate to Franklin D. Roosevelt after his inauguration March 4. Many democratic congressional leaders appear to have been in accord with the personal program of the Mississippi chairman of the most powerful of all house committees. Well, strange things happen. Gov. Roosevelt from the executive mansion at Albany let it be known that he was "horrified" that the story had been given by the press of the people that he was committed to the principle of the sales tax measure. It knocked the Collier plan higher than an ace of the air has ever traveled in the upper regions. Speaker John Nance Garner pronounced the funeral eulogy. Indeed, the Texan said that the sales tax measure was as dead as a herring, for the lame duck session at least. It is important for a democratic statesman to be in thorough accord with the president-elect of his party. It is also important that he keep in touch with the president-elect. As for the lame duck congress, its leaders are having troubles of their own. Farm relief does not appear to be on the way. Beer legislation may go over to face a veto. Dead ducks are slow travelers. They found themselves in a comatose condition on the morning of Nov. 9. They have not been resuscitated by the medical scientists of the period. Chairman Collier should take the advice of old Davy Crockett: "Be sure you are right and then go ahead."

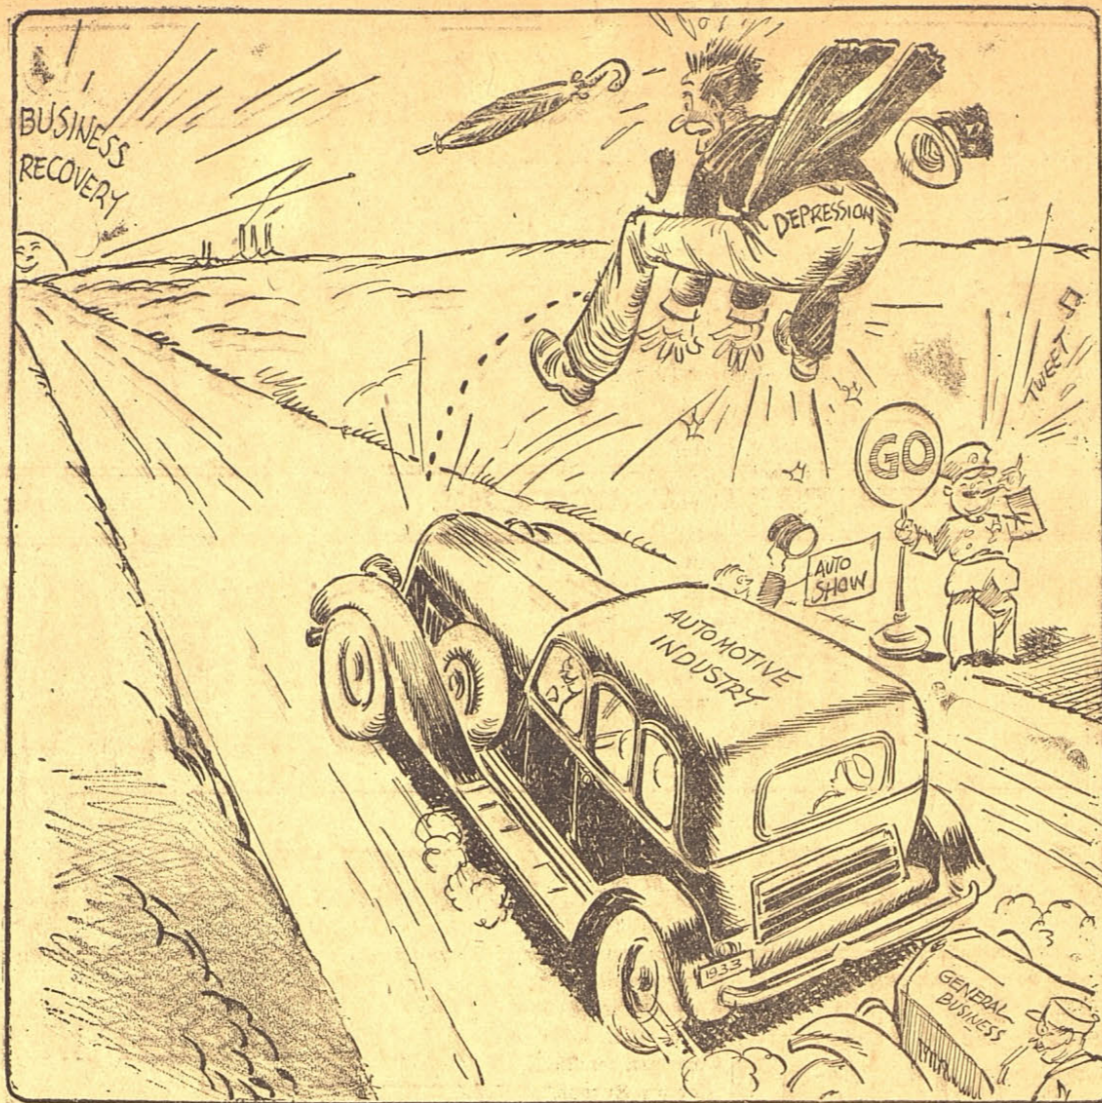

AN EDITOR AND HIS GOLD RESERVE SUPPLY.

There is a happy editor in this land of the free. He is the author of the ponderous and penetrating Colliers Weekly editorials for the edification and education of the millions. He faces the holiday season with a strong heart and a powerful head. This is his bold confession: "We are not going off the gold standard. This is certain. Despite the agitation of the reckless, the American dollar will stand firm. We have an abundant supply of gold to meet our needs." And the very next day after the appearance of Colliers Weekly carrying the self-incriminating editorial the internal revenue department at Washington gave out the information that there were only 75 Americans enjoying a million a year income in 1931 and the number would be greatly lessened when the returns came in for 1932. "We, the people of England," declared the three tailors of Tooley street in the long ago. "On with the editorial caterwauling of 'The Miser and His Gold.'"

SEN. ONEAL AND HIS AMENDMENT.

Sen. Ben G. Oneal of the Wichita district has let it be known that the legislative tax survey committee of which he is chairman would recommend the submission of a constitutional amendment limiting the ad valorem tax to 57 cents of $100. The constitutional limitation now is 77 cents. Under the proposed amendment a maximum of 35 cents would be levied for school purposes; 15 cents for general revenue, and seven cents for the Conference pension fund. Pending submission of the amendment the Oneal committee will recommend that the tax rate for general revenue purposes in 1933 be set at 18 cents. Levies for general revenue purpose during the current fiscal year was 37 cents and for the previous year it was 32 cents. This is a reminder that the tax gatherer will make the rounds in 1933 and 1934 as he did in all the years since the annexation of the commonwealth to the federal union of states. He is very like the Lord's poor—his face will never be missing from the land.

FRANCE AS A HOARDER OF GOLD.

French gold reserves totaling more than 170 times the defaulted war debt payment are reported by the federal reserve board. France's gold hoardings on Nov. 8 are placed at $3,266,000,000. Its war debt payment defaulted was $19,261,432. France has a new prime minister, Paul Boncour, who succeeded Herriot. This new prime minister will "continue parleys." That is, he will continue negotiations with Pres. Hoover and Secys. Stimson and Mills. He advised the chamber of deputies that while it was essential negotiations to continue "it was advisable to proceed cautiously until the new administration was in power in Washington." A reminder that the chamber voted against payment of the interest payment due Dec. 15, "unless the United States first agreed to confer about revision," all this over the protest of Herriot who declared that nonpayment would lead to the dishonor of France. Then he stepped down and out and refused to organize another ministry.

the same officers except secretaries in place of chief clerk and reading clerk, in the senate have long been under way.

The lobbyists somehow feel they must be on hand when the earliest bird of the 181 lawmakers arrives at the statehouse. An incoming member has a hard time. First he is grappled by two or more candidates for speaker; then a fringe of applicants for plain jobs engulf him. Then the main candidates for the elective offices of the legislature swarm about him; then the lobbyists all want to convince him they are friendly, trustworthy and not poison. Sometimes even a constituent shows up.

N. D. Welty, editor of the Bartlesville (Okkla.) Morning Examiner, says: "Now comes Technocracy with its findings and its implications. Many are frightened and worried about this position of the old, old threat of the machine age and the massed production bugaboo as it is dressed up in a given and all inclusive name. BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON—The south soon will be back "in the saddle" more effectively than at any time since before the Civil War.

The Republicans probably will be found hollering about it soon after the Roosevelt administration and the Seventy-third Congress come into being. Although the idea that the south will be imposing any sectional rule on the rest of the country is a false alarm, her sons will be heavily sprinkled through the positions of federal power.

Vice president-elect Jack Garner of Texas, to begin with, will be the first president or vice president elected from below the Mason-Dixon line since Lincoln and Andrew Johnson ran on the same ticket in 1864. He is not the first man from that section to be nominated by the Democrats for second place, but he is the first whose nomination has done him any good. And the fact cannot be ignored that he might become the south's first president in three score or more years.

You might even begin the list with Roosevelt himself. For years he has been living a large part of the time in Georgia, which he has described as his "second home." He can hardly be regarded as a 100 per cent "Yankee." He won his nomination through support of an overwhelming number of the politicians of the South and West.

The next speaker is likely to be a southern man. The three leading candidates to succeed Garner are Joe Byrns of Tennessee, John McDuffie of Alabama and Majority Leader Henry Rainey of Illinois. Rainey hasn't any edge in the contest. He lives on a farm, so far south in Illinois that he is in no sense associated with the northern urban Democracy. And if he should win, the Democratic leader in the House who succeeded him surely would be a southerner whereas if Byrns or McDuffie win the leader will be Rainey or another northerner.

The north and west get their break in the next Congress through the fact that they have suddenly elected enough members to the Democratic majorities to end the south's numerical congressional majority in the party. That should allay any weird fears about the danger of sectional rule, but the south will get nearly all the important posts on Capitol Hill because it has kept electing so many of its representatives consecutively for such long periods as to qualify them under the seniority tradition.

Joe Robinson of Arkansas presumably will be the Senate's majority leader. Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas doubtless will remain as the Democratic whip. Key Pittman of Nevada is the most likely choice to succeed George Moses of New Hampshire as the Senate's president pro tem.

REPORTS have had it that Roosevelt planned to name three men from the south to his cabinet, which is certainly fair enough in any Democratic administration. His choices are still a matter of speculation, but you hear most about Senator John S. Cohen of Georgia, and Senator Carter Glass and ex-Governor Harry F. Byrd, both of Virginia.

Unless individual preference or some other arrangement prevents, nine of the ten most important Senate committee chairmanships will go to the south and the other, Judiciary, to Ashurst of Arizona. Meanwhile, the twelve most important committees of the Democratic House are chairmanned by southern representatives and there aren't likely, at the most, to be more than a couple of changes in that sectional set-up.

last person who will be superintendent in Texas. For al years, since the board of education was converted from a figure-head ex-officio group of state officials, into a responsible board of interests, the school people of the state have demanded that the "manager system" be installed here, as in the highway department, the health department, the game department and other branches—in short, that the board shall appoint the executive head of the department, and take him out of politics. It appears such a move will prevail in 1933 or 1934.

progress. It reveals opportunity, for man creates the machine and the creator is always greater than the creation.

"Some of the so-called exact findings are theoretical and when refined by the test of practicality lose most of their terror. Technocracy errs in predicting a destruction of the price system and a rebuilding of a machine controlled world. It merely emphasizes our need to develop ability to use our chemical discoveries, and the machines which lessen the burden of toil and increase the amount of recreational time released. It means we must, and will, adapt and adopt that which is good and reject that which is evil.

"In the machine age pictured by Technocracy there will be a greater need for culture, for spiritual values and for humanitarian activity. Instead of being more mechanical we will become more spiritual, for otherwise we would be rushing pell mell into destruction.

"Technocracy's godfathers predict the newspaper will lose out, that it is obsolescent. Technocracy is in error. The newspapers are recording the rise of Technocracy and will record its progress until it is succeeded by a new theory fathered by new prophets. It has recorded the rise and fall of many theories like it. What is good in Technocracy the newspapers will popularize, and in the refining and adaptation of it they will lead the thought of the nation in accepting that which is vital and in discarding that which is incidental and valueless.

"This is not the first nor will it be the last of the false prophecies about the decline of the newspaper."

Norman Brokenshire Tunes Up Chesterfield Radio Stars for the New Year

The vast army of radio fans who are always looking for something new in the broadcast sky will be treated to a stellar display when Chesterfield's 1933 programs go on next week.

Tom Howard and his partner George Shelton are new to the other waves. An exclusive Chesterfield find, they are reported to have turned down some attractive stage offers.

Ruth Etting, who as Chicago's "Sweetheart of the Air" rose via Ziegfeld's Follies and other stage successes to be America's "Queen of the Air," will continue singing those heart-throb ballads for Chesterfield fans on Mondays and Thursdays.

Bing Crosby, who seems to conquer all fields of popular entertainment, makes his debut as a Chesterfield star next Wednesday night. The romantic baritone's latest triumphs were in Hollywood, where he starred in the "Big Broadcast" and other pictures.

A nightly feature of Chesterfield's stellar series will be Lennie Hayton's Orchestra. Hayton is another Chesterfield disc jockey—one of Broadway's younger successes.

Man Finds Cousin Of Fabled Goose

EL PASO, Dec. 31.—Finding of a cousin to the goose that laid the golden eggs is no less unusual than the honesty of the man who made the discovery.

Oscar Johnson, sportsman here, killed eight wild ducks recently and gave them all away—one to a penniless young couple he never saw but of whom his landlady had told him.

A few days later a stranger walked up to Johnson, thanked him for the duck and offered Johnson a gold nugget valued at about $12, saying it had been found in the duck.

"Keep it," said Johnson, "that was part of the duck."

Week-end MURDER

GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When elderly AMOS PEABODY falls to his death from the second story balcony of TOM AVERILL'S Long Island home LINDA, Tom's wife, believes it is murder.

She and Tom decide to pretend Cousin Amos's death was an accident, meanwhile identifying themselves to solving the crime.

Linda finds the towel with which the attempt was made to strangle her (identified by a smear of sunburn ointment) in Stalander's bathroom.

Next morning Pratt goes to church and the others take a swim. Linda and Tom compare notes and discuss latest developments of the mystery.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIII

THE sharp ringing of the telephone came just as the meal was finished. Surprise, suspense and query mingled in the look Linda cast her husband.

"Ah, yes!" The Belgian's interest quickened as the conversation veered toward their neighbor.

"That was Pratt," he said. "Went home after church with the Algerians meant to phone but thought one of them had done so."

Linda rose and, following her, the others drifted out into the hall.

"Not for another hour or more." He consulted his wrist watch. "You were saying, Mrs. Averill?"

"Only that Fleur's a very clever person," she answered, disposing herself comfortably in the deep lawn chair.

walk through there—no need to bring your car for that short journey!"

"Well, well, see." Tom absently assembled the different sections of the Sunday newspaper, scattered about the room.

"To think about? But I assure you they have already."

"Ah! well—as it happens I have been so fortunate as to cross rackets with some of your famous American tennis players when they were in Europe."

"I believe I am the only one outside of Miss Stoner's own party." He answered somewhat stiffly and she repressed a grin as she remembered that he had been substituted for a delinquent guest—not, she was honest enough to admit to herself, that Fleur wasn't glad of the opportunity.

"It isn't a restaurant. It's a road house. That is, it has a restaurant of course—well, there's just no European equivalent for it, I imagine. But you'll discover what it's like when the time comes."

"You are sure that this will not inconvenience you, Mrs. Averill? I know you could not participate in social affairs but Miss Stoner was so kind."

"It's quite all right with me," she assured him and did not add the fact that, Cousin Amos or no Cousin Amos, she would not have been invited to the gathering.

"I'm sorry if I have made plans that cause you trouble—" he began. "Not at all!" She managed to speak more cordially. Even if Fleur's high-handed way of turning everything to her own advantage terling Fleur. Of course she herself was not at all inclined to flirt yet, after all, it was a bit exasperating that none of that charm to which she had so instantly responded was exerted in her direction.

"Have I reached the age when confidences are to be my conversational lot?" she thought. "It's obvious I can't vamp a person who doesn't know I have any features other than my ears."

"I believe I am the only one outside of Miss Stoner's own party." He answered somewhat stiffly and she repressed a grin as she remembered that he had been substituted for a delinquent guest—not, she was honest enough to admit to herself, that Fleur wasn't glad of the opportunity.

"It isn't a restaurant. It's a road house. That is, it has a restaurant of course—well, there's just no European equivalent for it, I imagine. But you'll discover what it's like when the time comes."

tage did i Linda she need not convey voyance to this innocent gue want you to enjoy yourself. I've not been able to do mu not having a chauffeur, I ha to it that one of us is fre you to any engagements you ade."

"Miss Stoner has said I could be no inconvenience to her to send her car for me this evening?"

"What nonsense!" Linda could not help answering sharply. The descending gesture was so like Fleur! "It's no bother to drive you to a neighbor's house! Of course Fleur needn't send for you. Both the sedan and the roadster—"

As an idea struck her she stopped and, turning, caught the look of displeasure on his face. To his surprise—and somewhat to her own—she suddenly laughed with unabashed, whole-hearted amusement.

Her thrust had been a sure one. He looked at once startled and sheepish and then, as he realized how he had betrayed himself, furiously angry.

"I would not dream of criticising your motors, Mrs. Averill. Any arrangement you make will be perfectly satisfactory to me," he replied stiffly. She was silent but the quiver of her lips showed she was by no means silenced and her eyes, meeting the haughty rebuke in his, were mocking and unconvinced.

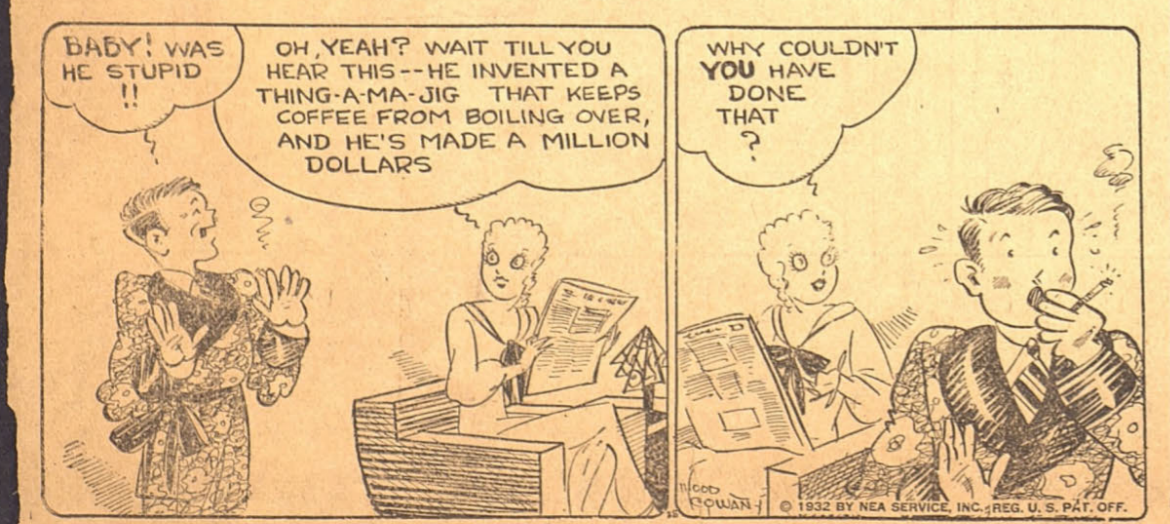

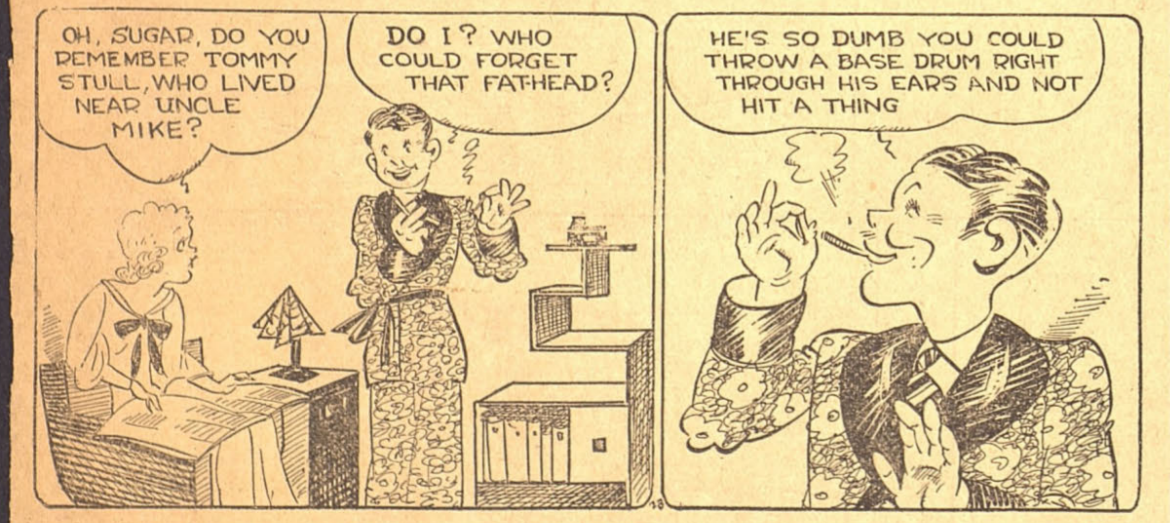

"Go right ahead!" Linda permitted graciously. "Here's Mrs. Shaughnessy. I think he's coming to tell you Marvin has arrived but he can remain to keep me company."

"I've just insulted Mr. DeVos," she confided to the Irishman who sank uninvited into the chair beside her. "I suppose it was terrible of me but somehow I don't feel a bit ashamed."

"A little insulting would be good for that lad," answered the other negligently.

BIG DAM CHATTER

By FRANK LANGSTON
Dr. Etedman V. Sanford, dean of the University of Georgia, has approached the amateur athletes situation in American colleges and universities from a new angle.

Dr. Sanford says that the greatest existing evil in college athletics is the subsidizing and proselyting that goes on. Probably everyone in the meeting of the National Collegiate association, to whom he addressed his remarks, will grant that point.

He goes on to say, though, that every year the association comes together and debates the matter for days—and then does nothing about it. Some of the members might not be so ready to admit that, but they would probably admit it just the same.

Dean Sanford says that it time to look at the matter from a sane viewpoint. He believes a new definition of amateurism is what is needed. He says that at present no student is allowed a scholarship or a loan either wholly or in part for athletic ability at his university.

Pointing out that in England, through the Rhodes scholarship system of selection, no man is refused participation in college athletics because of the fact that he is financed by a scholarship, the dean suggested that American colleges might do well to award scholarships on such a basis as that used by the English university.

That is a new way of looking at the situation. American colleges might do well to inaugurate such a system. It would work, though, only if carried out in the spirit as well as to the letter.

If scholarships were awarded for athletic ability alone, with the authorities winking at the scholastic and leadership requirements, this could easily prove to be a greater evil than the present one.

But if scholarship should be made the chief basis, with leadership and athletics occupying secondary positions for consideration, the United States could well look for worthwhile men to come from the ranks of the athletes in American colleges and universities.

It is not altogether an unheard of thing for a man to be brilliant in both scholarship and athletic ability. A couple of seasons ago when Texas and Harvard met on the gridiron sports writers all over the country got excited over the fact that the quarterback of the two teams, Bull ELKINS of Texas and Barry Wood of Harvard, belonged to Phi Beta Kappa, honor scholarship fraternity. To say the least it was unusual to have two such scholars directing the teams.

Ciscans know something of how Elkins, now coach here, won a Rhodes scholarship.

The career of Wood has been just as remarkable. In a recent vote for the Sullivan prize, to be awarded to the amateur athlete who has done the most to further the cause of sportsmanship in the last year, Wood ranked fifth. But at the same time he has done something even greater. He worked on a project dealing with blood corpuscles and used the Harvard football team for his experiments. Before each game he took a sample of the blood of every player, and after the game again took a sample of each man's blood. His findings have been hailed as one of the most valuable and original pieces of work ever accomplished by an undergraduate.

The contention of Dean Sanford is that young men who have athletic ability are being exploited by frantic alumni and students and often fail to secure their diplomas and to qualify as teachers, coaches, or whatever else they have set out to become.

The Texas legislative committee on organization and economy reports that coaches in institutions of higher learning in this state should be removed, for the most part, and physical education directors be substituted for them.

The theory is that athletics develops a team rather than individuals, which is all wrong. If Dean Sanford's plan were carried out in spirit many young men might be produced who would qualify as physical education directors such as the committee desires in Texas.

WE EXTEND OUR THANKS FOR FAVORS OF THE OLD YEAR.

And cordially invite you to continue with us during the coming year with full assurance that we will be found each day striving to the very best of our ability to please you. We'll do everything we possibly can to make it a happy, prosperous year for you.

Beware of Colds NOW!

With Flu in the Air Colds Are Doubly Dangerous

Colds—always treacherous—are doubly dangerous now, with flu reported in many sections. They lower body strength and pave the way for flu and all its serious complications. Heed even the slightest sniffle as a danger signal. It's no time to take chances.

The safest course to follow is that outlined in Vick Plan for better Control-of-Colds. In clinical tests last winter, Vicks Plan reduced the number and spread of colds by half!—cut their dangers and costs more than half! Full details of the plan are in each Vicks package. Briefly, it is this:

TO PREVENT MANY COLDS: At that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze — Nature's usual warning that a cold is coming on — use Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, the new aid in preventing colds. Vicks Drops aid Nature in throwing off the infection that threatens. They prevent development of many colds.

TO END A COLD SOONER: If a cold has developed or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. At bedtime, apply Vicks VapoRub. Its direct double action—continuing through the night — brings quicker relief. During the day, use the convenient Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. They add to comfort—help shorten the cold.

Follow Vicks Plan for Better CONTROL of Colds.

WHAT THE NEW YEAR HOLDS FOR EACH OF US, WE DO NOT KNOW . . .

But This One Thing

WE DO KNOW

It will be to some extent at least, we ourselves make it. As for us, we intend to work hard to make it a good year, not for ourselves alone but for our friends. We feel hopeful for we believe that hard work, industry, enterprise initiative and an earnest desire to serve, will enable every one to make progress.

Our Appreciation

We wish to express our appreciation to those who have favored us with patronage during the past year. We have tried hard to please you and to give you the maximum of quality and service at minimum cost.

May 1933 Bring You Happiness and Prosperity

THE OLD YEAR has been ushered out . . . the New Year has been bowed in. And with 1933 has come a new spirit—a spirit alive with courage and energy, and illuminated by a brighter aspect down the track to Recovery.

And there is reason to look into 1933 with strength renewed and hopes heightened. Such obvious factors as freer spending, rising prices and more activity in the marts of commerce indicate that there is a real and tangible basis for better feeling.

In keeping with the spirit of the season, we "resolve" for 1933 to continue our same high quality of service . . . we pledge ourselves to continue to work for the greatest good of this vast "Land of Opportunity" . . . and we wish for you a happier and more remunerative year. "HAPPY NEW YEAR."
