HOQUIAM, Wash., Feb. 24.—No white man remembers when the Pacific Coast beaches near here were so clear of driftwood as they are this winter. Unemployed persons go to the beaches every day and carry the wood home.

Methodist Pastor Quits Ministry; Will Adopt Another Profession

The First Methodist church, of Cisco, lost its pastor Sunday night. With tears in his eyes, his voice choked with emotion, the Rev. H. D. Tucker stood before the board of stewards of the church, called into special session last night, and told them that he was their pastor no longer. Sunday evening, following the regular services at the church, he had handed his credentials and all papers pertaining to his ministerial authority, to Dr. Cullom H. Booth, presiding elder of the Cisco district, and stepped from the pulpit a minister no longer.

Plain "Mr." Now

H. D. TUCKER.

A board of stewards, stunned by the announcement sat in deep silence as Mr. Tucker explained the reasons for his act.

Indebtedness Is Cause

Mr. Tucker explained that during the past four years prolonged illness of members of his family and hospital expenses had piled upon him a burden of debt that had become impossible to liquidate with the salaries he has received as a minister, and that it was necessary, in order to clear up these obligations, that he enter another profession, in which his earnings are not limited to fixed income.

EXCHANGE HEAD IN DEFENSE OF SHORT SELLING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said today before a house committee that the exchange would have been closed a month ago if it had not been for the stabilizing effect of short selling.

TAX COMMITTEE FAVORS STATE INCOME TAX, GILBERT SAYS

Recommendations which the legislative tax survey committee, now engaged in a consideration of possible tax reforms, will present to the next legislature will include a bill to abolish the state ad valorem tax and adopt, in its stead, a state income tax, State Rep. Victor B. Gilbert, of Cisco, a member of that committee, said yesterday.

PROPORTIONATE BURDENS.

"Second, the state ad valorem tax is levied upon real estate, small and large, regardless of whether or not that investment has returned a profit. This form of taxation amounts in many cases, apply ill-used, and in many cases—such is the depression, to a penalizing of investment of this type. The small farmer, whose farm has been operated at a loss, during the year pays proportionately as much to the maintenance of the state government as another citizen whose investments have been prosperously used."

NOT A CENT TO STATE.

"We have in our files copies of income tax reports from various corporations which have paid income taxes to the federal government on as much as one million dollars and more and not a single penny to the state government."

McADOO AS A POLITICAL TRAIL BLAZER.

William Gibbs McAdoo is one of the outstanding prohibitionists of the United States. Thomas Love of Texas has always been close to the former secretary of the treasury. Now that McAdoo has landed in the Garner camp where is the former senator going to land? All the old time leaders are keeping the people guessing. All this is a reminder that the old timers are passing out of the picture and the youngsters appear to be determined to take charge of the Chicago convention.

However, this is not the paramount issue away down in Texas. There is a Dawes credit reconstruction act with a $2,000,000,000 fund behind it. It would be well to remember the pledge of the president when he signed the act. His pledge was positive, that this huge sum was to be used for the smashing of frozen credits, the release of congested credits and bank deposits in closed institutions, and for the making of jobs for the jobless in city and county. A return of prosperity is much more important to all the American people than the plans and programs of ambitious statesmen who are for the most part practical politicians.

PAT HURLEY CARRIES CHIPS ON HIS SHOULDER.

In Oklahoma they call him "Fighting Pat Hurley." He is a very pugnacious individual. He is secretary of war. He is the Jack Dampsey of the administration. Wherever there is a row he is sent in to settle it. Whatever Pat says is law and gospel. Whatever democratic office holders say is cowardly or defamatory or picking flaws in the shining armor of the distinguished engineer who is president of the United States.

Fighting Pat had his latest run-in with two senators: Cutting of New Mexico and King of Utah. Cutting is an independent republican, one of the ablest and cleanest men in public life. He is a New Englander who selected New Mexico as his home and he has made history. He has ever been against the political crooks of New Mexico and the country. King is one of the able lawyers of Utah. He is a man of high ideals and distinguished ability. These senators asked questions of the fighting man from Oklahoma. He attempted to answer the questions before the senators were given time to dress their interrogatives in senatorial shape. He was told to be calm, to answer after he knew the extent of the information desired. And then "Fighting Pat" roared that he had grown weary of being called a liar and he bolted out of the committee room.

It is to be regretted that James A. Reed of Missouri retired from the senate. It is to be regretted that the Missouri Hotspur was not a member of the committee when "Fighting Pat" put on his pugilistic show. Of course, later in the day a meeting of the senate territories committee was arranged in the office of Chairman Bingham (r) of Connecticut, which resulted in an amicable settlement of "the difficulties." Chairman Bingham announced the settlement. He said: "Secretary Hurley and Senator King, meeting with Senators Pittman (d) of Nevada and Hawes (d) of Missouri, had reached a thoroughly amicable understanding."

Well, "Fighting Pat" of Oklahoma made the headlines. He got on the air. He accomplished his purpose. Really, it is up to a democratic house and a coalition senate to see to it that the fighting spirit of Andrew Jackson is not dead.

Why should the donkey crawl on his knees? Democratic senators and representatives have carried over the top the relief proposals of the chief magistrate of the republic. They are doing their part. Why should they be bulldozed at every turn of the political game? A political party never wins victories by crawling on its belly in campaign or any other year.

A CHALLENGE

With the state "head over heels" in debt, and county and municipal governments experiencing great difficulty in balancing budgets, ways and means to effect new economies in government will very likely play leading roles in the coming state elections.

The Dallas News, observing that Texas is not as progressive as it might be, so far as the state government is concerned, says: "Moss-backs who have not had an idea for 20 years, and empty-headed demagogues should retire permanently from candidating to the darkening shades of private life. Texas needs newer political timber; it desires ideas, not words."

They have fallen in the past few years and concentrate on a program of economic and social progress that will place the state among the leaders. As the News concludes, "taxes are too high and the expense of local government is preposterous."

When the cost of government mounts, with resultant tax hikes, agriculture, business and industry suffer, and when they are sick distress is our lot. — Editorial Digest

TEXAS TOPICS

My RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Feb. 24.—Tom F. Hunter, Wichita Falls candidate for governor, last week paid his first visit to the statehouse since he entered the political race, for a hand-shaking tour among state officials and a survey of the office he has offered to occupy for the next term.

Mrs. Ferguson's race for the office doesn't look formidable to him he commented. "I have expected that all the time," he said.

Her vote this year will be less than she received in either of her last two races against Dan Moody and Gov. Sterling, in his opinion, Mr. Hunter said.

Raymond S. Mauk, who has just taken office as fire insurance commissioner of Texas, started out his official career with a move for full cooperation between his department and the fire chiefs and marshals of the 425 Texas cities and towns. He has written these officials with whom he will work inviting their suggestions and full cooperation in efforts to cut down the toll of lives and the huge volume of property destroyed by fire in Texas.

Austin friends and fellow officials of Judge Fritz R. Smith Snyder are mourning the death of a man they consider one of the most conscientious and devoted public officials Texas has ever had. As a member of the house, as chairman of the state parson board as a district judge, he gave to each of the offices he has held an air of dignity, faithful attention to the rights and interests of those with whom he dealt, uprightiness and probity in all his acts such as distinguished his career in the public service. He was typical of the best of West Texas and of Texas.

Under contracts just awarded, the state of Texas during the next 12 months will buy an automobile tire costing the individual buyer $10 for $4.50, and all other in the same scale. It will purchase more than $100,000 worth of tires. If it had to go on the open market the supply would cost it about $220,000. Among its requirements will be more than 70 tires of size of 5 1/2 by 10 inches, retailing normally at somewhat above $200 apiece.

The Texas prison system lost $894,000 last year due to adverse prices of cotton; but this loss is below the average of losing years of the past decade . . . and losing years have been most frequent.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

D. N. Raynor, editor of the Port Jervis (N. Y.) Union-Gazette, says: "That there are 120 million people in the United States. There are millions of springs supplying water for the Mississippi river. The people are scattered in every nook of the nation and grouped in cities and the springs are widely scattered."

Let us suppose that every little spring supplying water for the great river was frozen up for a month or a year. Let us imagine that the sources in the mountains of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, etc., were withholding their supply — just a little in each case. All the great territory served by the Father of Waters would soon become a desert. Those tiny springs must get and give continuously — and there is life.

Industry in this country has been experiencing a crisis because the funds of the people — the little springs — are frozen and are being hoarded and kept from doing their share to prevent idleness. Advertising is the one thing that can thaw out the frozen springs of industry, and merchants and other business men, big and little, must do their share to start the money flowing and keep it going, for it has a Midas touch when in action and helps the River of Industry to carry its cargoes to many ports. Let us have a universal effort to thaw out all the springs, at once.

"Where Most Texas People Stop"

The dime-a-dance girl

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beautiful Ellen Rossiter, salesgirl in Barclay's Department store, works at night at dance hall houses at Dreamland. She lives with her extravagant mother, Molly Rossiter, her elder sister, Myra and her young brother, Mike.

Steven Barclay, 57, and Ellen's employer, loves the girl but Ellen is in love with Larry Harrowgate, an artist, she has met at Dreamland. She loses her heart to him in spite of the fact that he is engaged to Elizabeth Bowes, a debutante.

Ellen is unwilling to wound Barclay but when scandalous gossip is circulated at the store, she determines to see him no more. However, Molly Rossiter, anxious for Ellen to marry a rich husband, invites Barclay to dinner. Without Ellen's knowledge, Molly borrows money to make the apartment more attractive and to buy the most expensive food. When the girl learns this she is furious. She and Molly go to the kitchen to prepare dinner while Myra and Bert Arnstead, Myra's fiancé, entertain Barclay.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII

The Rossiter ice-box was stuffed almost to the bursting point. Certainly Molly had stunted on nothing. There was pate, there was lobster, there were two plump yellow ducks—an duck at $1.75 a pound. There were artichokes and potatoes. There were all the things that should never have been included in a simple home dinner. But Ellen squared her jaw and flew about the heated kitchen growing hotter and crosser each minute.

Perching at the kitchen table, daintily shelling peas, Molly looked cool and comfortable and maddeningly satisfied with herself. From time to time she would turn a little time. Then glimpsing her daughter's black face, she would halt and virtuously continue shelling the peas. Molly was convinced everything would work out for the best.

Except for decorative purposes the colored maid was entirely useless. She did set the table with a great flourish. She considered that with serving and washing the dishes she would have more than earned her little wage. When Ellen, ignoring this discrimination toward real labor, suggested that she taste the ducks, the maid looked aggrieved and "allowed" she did only plain cooking.

"This is plain enough," said Ellen in exasperation. "You'll simply have to do it while my mother and I dress. Just open the oven every 10 minutes and ladle the drippings up with a spoon."

"All right, Miss. I'll do it. But you can't blame me if them ducks don't taste just right."

"We won't," snapped Ellen.

She grew cooler and more comfortable in the bedroom as she flung aside her business dress and went into the bathroom and cautiously bathed with due consideration for the fact that splashing water was audible in the living room. She returned to the bedroom and slipped into a clean, fresh, blue linen frock. She brushed her curling hair, powdered her flushed face and found the string of amber beads that went so well with her skin. She looked all right. The sleeveless dress, cheap as it was, was very kind to her slender youth.

"Ellen honey," said her mother entering, "will you fix my snaps on are you still mad at me?"

Ellen's heart melted. What was the use of anger, of threats of reproaches? After a solemn talk, which took place as Ellen's fingers busied themselves with the snaps, Molly promised, as she had promised so often before, that there would be no more surprises. But she looked unusually sobered. By telling her of the mess at the party, Ellen had succeeded in brightening the harem-scurum little Irish woman.

"They're just jealous," she declared. "If I were you I'd just tell that Mrs. Bondy that he was here for dinner tonight. That'd stop their mouths. I've half a notion to go down there and tell—"

"The best thing I can do," Ellen interrupted warningly, "is what I am doing—say nothing."

"Well, maybe you're right, but I'd like to give two or three of those girls a good shaking just the same!"

Together they went into the living room. Bert was engaged in a long and technical discussion of the comparative merits of the Yankees and the Giants. If Barclay was bored, his courteous interest in the fact that he stood up quickly as Ellen and Molly appeared.

SUFFERED PERIODICALLY FOR YEARS

Mount Home, Texas. "I suffered periodically for a number of years; tried several different kinds of medicine but to no avail. Finally my husband suggested consulting Dr. Pierce by letter and I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery, alternately," said Mrs. W. H. Dunk. "After taking two bottles of each, I was permanently relieved. Two years have passed and I haven't suffered one single time since."

Write Dr. Pierce's Chalmers, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice. Druggists sell.

Dr. Pierce's Medicines

Mike's been dying, simply dying for a bicycle."

Mike shyly raised his head. "I'm to keep it then?" he demanded eagerly. "Ellen said so if I'd be good."

At that moment the maid made a blessed interruption, an interruption which Ellen felt to be almost worth the $5 she was to receive. She clumped into the room to announce dinner was ready.

Seventy Mourners Bury Pet Dog

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 24.—A little dog died here recently, and 70 mourners attended the funeral services.

He was "Mascot Jim," pet of the gas works for eight years. The mourners were the gas works employees, who built a coffin for Jim and buried him in the plant yard. Eight years ago a gas worker found a puppy outside the gates. The man was fond of dogs, and he saved Jim from the dog pound. "Mascot Jim" became as much a

Winter Starves Game Animals

MISSOULA, Mont., Feb. 24.—Thousands of big game animals in the forests of the Northwest are starving to death this winter.

Maj. Evan W. Kelley, regional U. S. forester, says that unless something is done the forest animals of the section will be depleted just as the buffalo were from the ranges of the west.

Snow covers the higher ranges to a depth of four or more feet, and prevents the deer, moose, and elk from reaching the grasses on summer months.

The advance of civilization and the fencing off of pastures in the lowlands, has robbed the forest animals of their customary winter pastures.

The forest service has gradually been buying up pasture land with the view of having it for winter range, but the program has not kept pace with the inroads of civilization in making among the herds.

The Idaho game commission put out ten tons of hay for deer, and near McClure, Wash., more than 1,000 deer collected to receive free feed offered by county game association.

FOR FINER COOKERY USE AN ELECTRIC RANGE

Thousands of experienced home-managers throughout West Texas vouch for the superiority of Electric Cookery, for they realize and appreciate the many important advantages to be gained through use of a modern Electric Range.

The automatic features alone are worth many times the moderate cost of an Electric Range, for with the Time and Temperature Controls it is possible to place a complete meal in the oven, then have the day free to follow more congenial pursuits—while your "Electric Maid" tends the cooking, accurately and scientifically, without further attention.

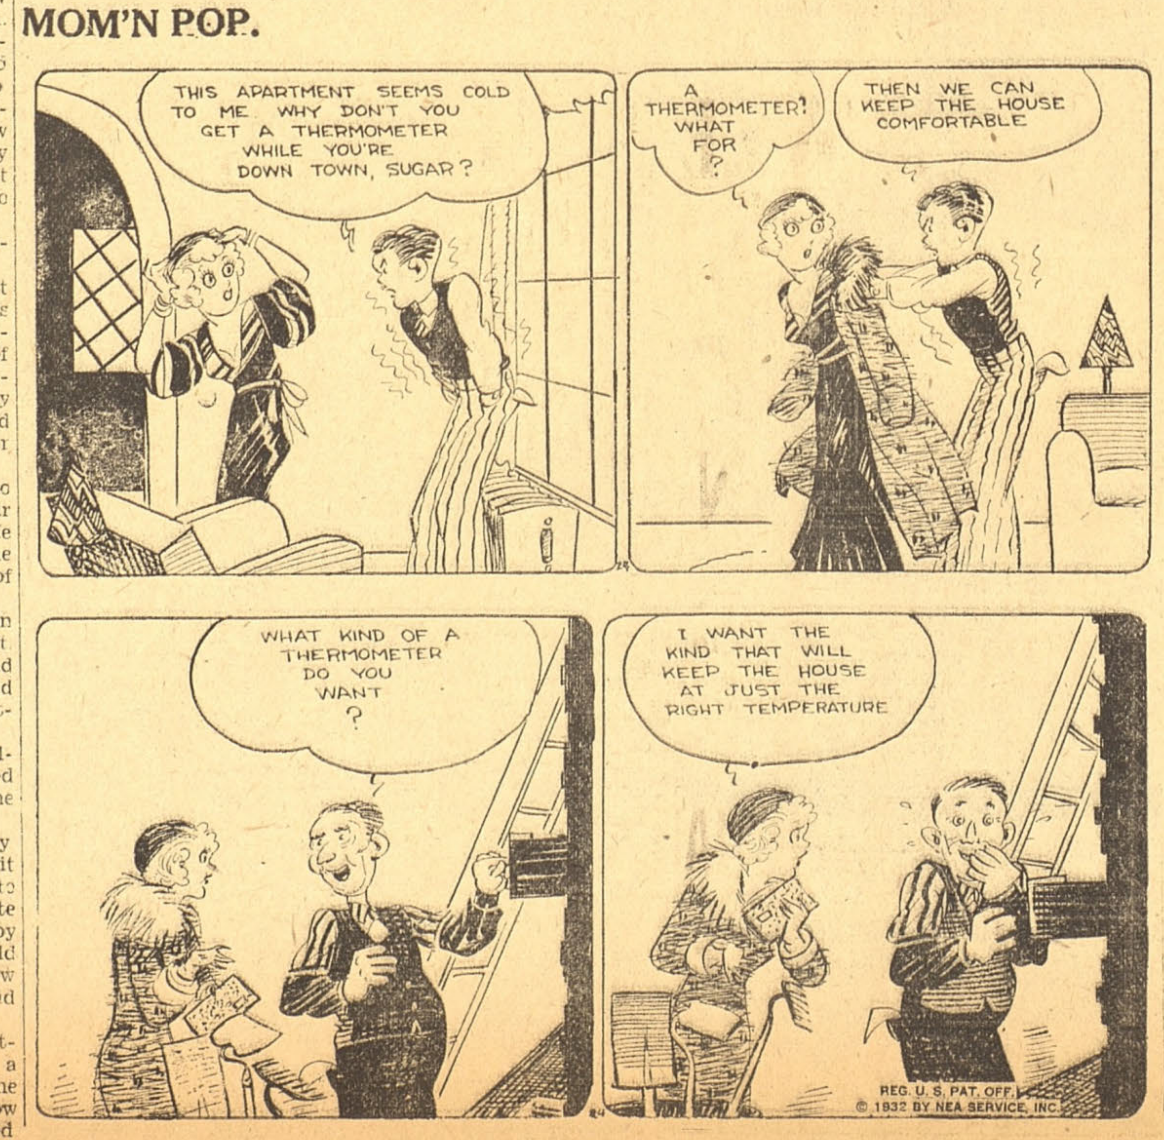

The savings and economies to be realized through less shrinkage of foods are immense. And with Electric Cookery, the vital mineral salts and precious vitamins are not lost as in other methods of cooking.

A salesman will be pleased to explain and demonstrate the numerous advantages and superiorities of Electric Cookery. Telephone for a trained representative, or call in at the Merchandise Showroom.

"Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?"

FORT WORTH, Feb. 24.—Early requests for tickets and the increasing list of contestants point toward one of the largest shows in the history of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show here.

The 38th annual exposition will open March 4 and closing March 13.

Entries have piled into headquarters here within the last week in record number. All box seats for the horse shows and rodeo were sold a week ago with many requests rejected. More than 15,000 merchant's tickets were sent out and extra efforts are being made to rapidly take care of all applications for admission.

Scores of workmen prepared the grandstands, exhibition rooms and the arena in which the world championship contests will be held.

The horse show is expected to be one of the finest events held. Entries have been received from virtually every district in the southwest. Seth Lamb, of Houston, owner of a highly-rated group of horses, and the Mary Fiers Stable, Oklahoma City, have entered. Other cities to be represented include Dallas and Wichita Falls.

The program this year is similar to that of former years. No curtailments have been made because of subnormal business conditions. The program includes:

March 5 — General livestock judging contests for senior agriculture college, junior A. and M., and state teachers college students.

March 7 — Southwestern dairy judging contest for senior agriculture college students; boys' and girls' baby beef show; selection of winning individual steers of all breeds; choosing the grand champion steer; boys' and girls' lamb show and selection of champions in the sheep show.

March 8 — Hereford and Shorthorn prize winning contests; boys' and girls' pig club exhibits.

March 9 — Completion of Hereford and shorthorn contests; Jersey dairy cattle show; boys' and girls' dairy calf show and awarding prizes on the wool sheep, carloads of fat steers and carloads of Hereford and Shorthorn bulls.

March 10 — Award of prizes in Aberdeen-Angus, Jersey and Holstein cattle and angora goat contests.

All livestock judging will be completed by the afternoon of March 10, it was announced, to allow sufficient time for the last days of special features.

Los Angeles Purity Squad Raids Shows

By EARL H. LEIF

United Press Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—Vice crusaders here are once again at loggerheads with the devotees of the movies and the stage as a consequence of recent theater raids, where police claimed "lewd and indecent performances" were being staged.

The latest of these raids was led by Captain D. MacD. Jones, who twice arrested producers and 55 members of the cast of Lysistrata, a 2,300-year-old Greek comedy by Aristophanes.

The internationally celebrated Nance O'Neil, star of the play, rode with the others in the "Black Maria." The second raid on the farce was in defiance of a court injunction, however, and Captain Jones was "inside the jail watching" him go out instead of being outside putting "em in." He was adjudged in contempt of court.

But this raid was not the first for the purity squad. For the past five years they have intermittently raided various shows, ranging from Minskyesque "strip" burlesques on Lower Main Street, catering to the slatternly customers of poverty row, to the ornate theaters out in the "miracle mile" of Wilshire Boulevard, frequented by the world of wealth, wit and fashion.

A remarkable feature of raids is revealed by court records showing that only one of the raids prior to Lysistrata was successful in darkening the theater. All other raids failed to halt the performances, which continued on after receiving a million dollars worth of free publicity.

The Captive, by Eugene O'Neil, with Ann Davis as the star, was raided three times on successive performances and the cast taken to jail each time. Producers and cast succumbed and the show was taken from the boards.

Another O'Neil opus, "Desire Under the Elms," was raided by the "purity platoon" in 1926, after which the show performed to packed houses for 11 consecutive weeks. During the trial raiders testified the play made them "flush" and turn red "with embarrassment."

LIGHTWEIGHTS GAIN

DENTON, Feb. 24.—A gain of 6.5 pounds per student was found in the study of girls gaining weight when put in a class because of underweight at Texas State college for women. Students in some instances gain as much as 25 pounds.

BUYS LIVE RABBITS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 24.—The State Game Commission is paying 50 cents each for live rabbits trapped in Pennsylvania. The commission has authorized nurserymen, farmers, fruit growers and others under special permit to trap rabbits, which are proving a nuisance and causing property damage. The commission will use the animals, and will use them in respecting other hunting areas.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS.

I'LL MAKE IT AS SHORT AS POSSIBLE, MRS. REDFIELD.... IT WAS FIFTEEN YEARS AGO WHEN ED REDFIELD AND I WERE PARTNERS AT THE BIG HOLE DIGGINGS IN WESTERN NEVADA.... WE DID FAIRLY WELL AND, AT THE END OF THE YEAR, WE HAD TWENTY FIVE THOUSAND TO DIVIDE BETWEEN US.... GOLD, YOU KNOW....

YES...YES... GO ON, MR. BOSSON!!

WELL, WE DECIDED TO BANK IT AT RENO, SOME MILES DISTANT... IT WAS A TRAMP OF MANY MILES, BUT WE HAD A BURRO TO CARRY THE GOLD.... OUT A WAYS OUR BURRO FELL AN' BROKE HIS LEGS... WE HAD TO SHOOT IT... AND THE STUFF WAS TOO HEAVY TO CARRY... A LOT OF WEIGHT, YOU KNOW....

SO ED WENT ON TO SEE IF HE COULD BUY A BURRO SOMEWHERE, WHILE I STAYED BEHIND, PITCHIN' CAMP BY A STREAM.... ED CALCULATED HE'D BE BACK INSIDE A WEEK... YOU SEE THE GOLD WAS LEFT WITH ME.

YES AND WHEN HE RETURNED YOU HAD GONE AND TAKEN ALL THE GOLD WITH YOU!! STOLEN EVERY OUNCE OF IT... AND FROM THAT DAY HE NEVER SAW YOU... NEVER HEARD OF YOU AGAIN!!

JUST A MINUTE, MRS. REDFIELD... GO EASY WITH HIM... HE'S A SICK MAN = LET HIM PROCEED.

SAY, MR. MELLINGER IS A THIEF... CAN YOU IMAGINE THAT?

OH-WEBBE HE ISN'T TOO... LET'S HEAR THE REST OF IT BEFORE WE SAY THAT!!

HEAVY VOTE FOR "REPEAL" IN STRAW POLL

The vote for "Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment" outnumbered that for "Continuance of the Prohibition Amendment" by over five to one in the first scattering returns from eight States of The Literary Digest current nationwide straw ballot on prohibition.

Of the total of 323,550 votes received in this first tabulation, 51,285 are for Prohibition and 272,265 are for the repeal of the prohibition amendment, or 15.85 per cent "Dry" and 84.15 per cent "Wet."

The eight states represented in the initial returns of the poll include: New York, Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio.

In this early tabulation, New York is the wettest of these states, with a percentage of 87.43 for repeal and North Carolina is the driest, with a percentage of 41.17 for continuance of the Eighteenth amendment.

Illinois and Maryland are second and third in wetness, with wet percentages of 85.73 and 82.79 respectively.

Second and third in dryness of the states reported are Indiana and Georgia with dry percentages of 36.03 and 31.68 respectively. Ohio, which is referred to as the cradle of the Anti-Saloon League, figures in these returns with 71.50 per cent "Wet" and 28.50 per cent "dry" vote.

The Literary Digest however, issues a warning of caution that these first returns are so small in comparison to the final vote anticipated that any tendencies evidently apparent now may be completely overturned.

The magazine calls attention to the fact that many of the reputedly dry states are not included in this current tally and that heavy voting from these sections is beginning to pour in and will be reported at an early date.

"The short initial tabulation of early returns from the eight states" the magazine states, editorially, "is for from having anything decisive about it. Anybody who takes it as a sign-post or prophecy is liable to be badly disappointed when the poll gets into its stride, and especially when it nears its finish. Many startling fluctuations in the voting may be witnessed between now and then.

"It was just a toss-up whether the drys or wets would win this opening skirmish in what is to be the longdrawn battle of the twenty million ballots.

"The Literary Digest, true to its non-partisan traditions, gives the results of the opening skirmish and withholds all comments of its own. Others drawn conclusions, but we draw none.

"In face we warn our readers that it is altogether too soon for conclusions.

"The wets may seem to be having it all their own way in this affair of outposts, but nobody knows how soon the drys may turn the tables on them.

"It will be noticed at once that the bulk of today's votes are from the State of New York.

"Our second tabulation will probably embrace a much larger number of states, many in the political-bone-dry regions.

"Kansas is yet to be heard from. That is, in tabulated form. Her ballots are coming in strongly and are being disentangled by our tabulators along with those from other states not included in this week's preliminary exhibit."

A comparison between the first returns and the 1930 prohibition poll of the Literary Digest shows that while ten states were reported then, there were fewer votes at that time—a total of 291,588.

On the first initial returns of the three-question poll of two years past, the votes were divided: 80,739 for prohibition; 91,915 for modification; and 118,934 for repeal of the prohibition amendment.

A previous prohibition poll of considerably smaller magnitude was taken by the Literary Digest in 1922. The first tabulated returns of that poll are reported to have shown 94,657 votes counted. Of these 32,445 favored strict enforcement; 39,665 favored modification; and 22,547 voted for repeal of the prohibition amendment.

OPINIONS ON MARTIAL LAW RULING VARY

KILGORE, Feb. 24.—Newspapers of East Texas and other sections of the state take various stands editorially on the federal court decision invalidating martial law and on the need of troops in the oil field a United Press survey revealed.

"The East Texas oil field is almost a unit in hoping the control of the field is kept under the national guard boys. Headed by Brig. Gen. J. F. Wolters," said the Kilgore Daily News.

"It is a matter in which East Texas is vitally interested, for many reasons," said the Longview Daily News. "It would be regrettable if the production is permitted to become so great that the price of oil will drop to the low figures prevailing a few months ago."

"We hope the governor leaves his soldiers in the field—leaves them to prevent what never has happened yet—riot and insurrection—but keep their hands off administration of the laws of Texas governing the production of oil," said the Tyler Telegraph.

"Let the railroad commission seek to enforce the state's conservation laws," says the Fort Worth Press. "If that is impossible it will be time to call in the military. In that event Governor Sterling can defend his martial law program with the facts and not theories as to what might happen."

"Nearly every one in Texas knew that martial law edict in East Texas was unconstitutional, except Governor Sterling who ordered it and General Wolters who enforced it," said the Houston Press. "Nobody will be surprised now to see things happen in the oil fields that may make martial law necessary."

"Saving the oil market from complete wreckage. Governor Sterling and his troops have brought order out of chaos in East Texas, have preserved for Texas some of the vast natural resources which were going to waste, and stabilized a great industry," said the Mexico Daily News. "To move the troops out now would invite disaster. Texas cannot afford it."

"Regardless of the purposes of martial law in East Texas we cannot help but disagree with the three federal judges," said the San Angelo Standard. "We think it is a dangerous policy to have the actions of the chief executive of a state subjected to the curb of federal courts in such matters as this."

Expert to Seek "Ghost" Waves

BRADFORD, Enr., Feb. 24.—Prof. E. V. Appleton, one of the world's foremost radio authorities soon will leave for the Arctic, hoping to solve the mystery of the "ghost" signals.

Appleton has discovered what "echoes" of radio signals can be heard as long as 30 seconds after the original. Since radio waves can travel several times around the earth in a second, no one has been able to explain the echoes, nor suggest where the waves roam in the intervals.

Appleton has a theory that the Arctic region peculiarly attracts radio waves and believes it possible for a man with a certain type of receiving set at the North Pole to pick up the program of every broadcasting station in the world.

He will be assisted in his search for the "ghost" waves by a party of noted radio engineers.

GAS DROVE OFF ELK

YAKIMA, Wash., Feb. 24.—Roving elk will not attempt to get their meals from County Game Warden Joe Drolet's hay stacks for some time. Drolet rigged a shotgun up with tear gas, near the hay stack. The next morning he found slow tracks toward the hay stack and hasty leaps toward the tall timber.

Beck Ineligible for Comm'n, He Says

KILGORE, Feb. 24.—State Sen. John W. E. H. Beck, of DeKalb, lieutenant colonel in charge of the medical department of the national guard in the east Texas oil field today said the constitution prevented his appointment as successor to Railroad Comm'r Pat Neff.

Neff is expected to resign from the commission to become president of Baylor university. Austin dispatches said Beck personally friend of Gov. Sterling, had been mentioned for the railroad commission post.

"My business takes me all over the world"

WHEREVER I HAPPEN TO BE, I tune in on Chesterfield's Radio Program. Six nights a week at 10:30 E. S. T. over the Columbia Coast-to-Coast Network. Nat Shilkret's famous orchestra and Alex Gray, soloist. Say, can't that fellow sing?"

E. S. T. C. S. T. M. T. P. T.

"Guess I'm like most Americans who travel a lot, I take many of my hobbies with me. Chesterfields, for instance. I've smoked 'em for years.

"They're not only made good, but they're made to keep good, and that's why they hold old customers like me.

"Take the tobaccos. That fragrant Turkish tobacco—your taste gets that, all right. And the whole blend—say, there's nothing like it for milder, better taste.

"But my point is, Chesterfields are just the same wherever I buy them—Argentina, India, New Zealand. The package is O. K.—moisture-tight, clean-looking—keeps the aroma in.

"Even the paper comes into it. As far off as Shanghai I've noticed how pure and white and fresh it is.

"I've never yet found a town where Chesterfields couldn't be had! And no matter where I've bought 'em, they've always been just exactly right!"
