JOHNSON'S NEBRASKA MANAGER SAYS INSTRUCTED DELEGATES "TREACHERY AND DESERTERS"

Says Performance of Nebraska Delegates Will Never Be Forgotten Until Convention System Is Wiped Out.

Associated Press. LINCOLN, Neb., June 16.—Frank A. Harrison, manager of the Johnson Nebraska presidential primary, issued a statement today, charging "treachery and desertion of delegates from the instructed states which broke the heart of the Johnson movement."

"Just two men," Harrison said, "on the Nebraska delegation, at all times tried to obey the instructions of Nebraska when the roll was called. 'If the Hiram Johnson men and women of Nebraska, who voted for him, ever forget or forgive the performance of the Nebraska delegation at Chicago, it will be after the accused convention system is wiped out and forgotten.'"

FEDERATION OF LABOR FIGHTS HIGH PRICES

PROFITEERING HAS BIG INFLUENCE AT CONVENTION IN MONTREAL.

PLUMB PLAN TO CARRY

Organizations Warned Against Joining the Secessionist Movement.

Associated Press. MONTREAL, June 16.—Profiteering, League of Nations, non-partisan politics and industrial courts were given the right of way in the American Federation of Labor convention here today.

Emphatic action against the high living cost was promised before the day ended. It was learned today that the Plumb plan of nationalization of the railroads had been rejected by the resolution committee. The railroad unions combined in an effort to override the committee's report.

The Mine Workers' president announced the support of that union to the Plumb plan with the largest vote in the convention, and the Plumb supporters say the plan will carry.

The convention instructed all affiliated organizations to "refrain from giving moral support or assistance of any kind to any secessionist movement." Any organization violating these instructions are threatened with having their charters revoked.

A resolution declared that the "secessionist movement was being encouraged by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association and other unfriendly employers of labor for the purpose of discrediting the recognized organizations in the railway service."

Constable Is Sued by Local Contractor; Trunk Causes Action

George A. Bock, local contracting painter, has filed a complaint in the County Court against Constable C. S. Looney, by whom Bock claims he was unduly arrested on an alleged theft of a trunk a few weeks ago and imprisoned without being allowed to make bond, or to see a lawyer.

The trouble began, says J. L. Stevenson, Bock's lawyer, "when A. Lotief, Cisco merchant, gave the sign man a trunk in return for which Bock was to have done some painting work, but in the meantime while Bock was buying and arranging material for the work, Lotief decided not to allow him to go on with the painting, and demanded the return of the trunk which he had already given to Bock."

Lotief turned the case over to Looney and imprisonment without bond or permission of legal advice was forced on Bock.

Stevenson says the minimum penalty for false imprisonment of this kind is 60 day jail sentence and a $200 fine. The case will probably come up for trial some time in August.

A resolution providing for the investigation of the cement manufacturing industry in Texas was adopted by the Senate.

The House passed its own bill proposing for the increase in salaries of county school superintendents from $1000 to $1500 and $2500 a year.

The conference committee reached an agreement under which damage suits arising under the pink boll worm bill may be filed in Travis county and the injunctions be filed in the county of residence of the petitioner. The committee expected to report today.

SOLUTION RAIL CONGESTION IS BEING SOUGHT

Failing through these methods to alleviate the coal shortage in various parts of the country, consideration will be given to the question of an embargo upon all coal exports.

Blitch Is Selected Third Commissioner at Tuesday Session

J. B. Blitch has been selected by the City Commission to fill one of the vacancies in that body brought about recently by the resignation of Commissioners Claude Wild and John Sue.

The other new commissioner has not been named as yet. He is expected to be announced within the next few days, however, according to Mayor James Williamson.

Commissioner Blitch was a candidate in the April election for the position he has now been granted. In the election result he polled in number of votes next to the last man elected.

The new commissioner has been a resident of this community for many years. Several years ago he was telegraph operator and train dispatcher of the Texas & Pacific at the Union Depot. When the oil boom first struck Ranger he moved to that place. Fortune favored him in business deals. Two years ago he moved back to this city and bought property. He has been interested in civic projects and public affairs since.

According to Mayor Williamson the choice of the other commissioner is now wavering uncertainly among three men. He says that the commission has decided that one of these three shall be chosen but has not come to an agreement as yet as to which.

When a full quota of commissioners has been obtained it is probable that the commission will be reorganized. It is understood that one of the old commissioners will be given charge of the fire and police departments, from which position Wild resigned, and that another of the old commission will be given the street department, from which Sue withdrew as head. The two new commissioners will then be put in charge of the work formerly carried on by the old commissioners.

Wife's Quick Thinking Saves Life of Husband Suffocating In a Well

International News Service. EMPORIA, Kans., June 16.—Lewis Roberts owes his life to the quick thinking and quick action by his wife the other day. When Roberts descended in a well to rescue Earl Bean, killed by fumes from a powder charge, he was himself overcome by the same fumes. Mrs. Roberts moved a large bucket up and down in the well which created air currents which saved her husband.

LOWDEN AND WOOD EXPENSE THEIR HOODOO

BLANKENBECKLER SAYS THAT WAS THE REASON THEY LOST OUT.

DEMOCRATS' POWDER

Latter Would Have Profited by Either Lowden's or Wood's Nomination.

For the first time in its history Texas has the honor of having seconded the nomination of a successful candidate on the floor of a republican national convention, according to F. A. Blankenbecker of this city, who has just returned from Chicago, where he was one of the 23 delegates from this state.

R. C. Creager of Brownsville, who had been an ardent advocate of Harding from the beginning, seconded the nomination of Governor Willis of Ohio, who put the senator before the convention.

Blankenbecker says that he and the majority of the Texas delegation voted for Lowden until it was apparent that the situation was hopeless. On the ninth ballot, he says, the representatives from this state gave Harding 18 votes and on the tenth ballot their unanimous support.

"One of the principal reasons why neither Wood nor Lowden could receive the nomination," says Blankenbecker, "was because of the talk raised over their heavy campaign expenditures, and it was generally realized that if either were nominated it would only be giving the democrats powder to burn."

"I believe that every one at the convention was thoroughly satisfied with Harding. I doubt whether this talk of a split will ever amount to anything."

"Senator Borah in a speech on the floor of the convention declared that neither he nor his constituents would bolt, and Senator Johnson made the same verbal pledge elsewhere."

"I think that both will finally line up behind Harding and boost his candidacy. It is possible that La Pollette and his following may bolt, but their numbers are too insignificant to affect the strength of the republican party to any appreciable degree."

Blankenbecker says that Senator Harding is a fine, sound man of impressive appearance. "The Texas delegation had Senator Harding as its guest at dinner in the Congress Hotel last Saturday night," says Blankenbecker. "He made the appointment before he was nominated and could not very well withdraw, even had he been so inclined."

Young Men's Meeting Tonight Promises a Banner Attendance

Every one of the 250 members of the Young Men's Business League is expected to be present at tonight's meeting at the City Hall. As has been previously announced, the organization will discuss the proposition of electing directors to pass on all matters of interest to Cisco. Instead of handling them in open forum, as has been the custom since the league was organized.

While the officers and most members of the Y. M. B. L. prefer to have the members themselves discuss such matters, it has been found difficult to secure a large attendance during the summer months. It is proposed to have a director of seven, which will meet weekly. The meetings to be open to the general public, with an open forum meeting of the entire membership every month.

The league is working in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce on an advertising booklet which they propose to have printed at an early date. The photographer is now at work securing some unusually good views, from which cuts will be made. Committees from both organizations will work with the City Commission in editing the reading matter, in which it is proposed to set out the thousand and one reasons why Cisco is the best town in the oil fields.

MOB OF 5,000 ENRAGED MEN SWEEP AWAY ENTIRE POLICE FORCE TO GET ATTACKERS OF WHITE GIRL

Normal Conditions Prevail Today, Although Negro Population Is in State of Unrest—No Further Trouble Expected by Officers—Lynched Negroes Were Employed by Circus as Roustabouts.

Associated Press.

DULUTH, Minn., June 16.—Virtually normal conditions prevail here today after last night's lynching, when a mob of over 5000 men, in their rage to get at three negroes, swept the entire police power of the city away.

The three negroes had been taken into custody by peace officers in connection with an attack upon a white girl last Monday night.

The attack upon the girl took place upon the grounds of a circus that is showing here.

The negroes who were lynched were all working for the circus company as roustabouts. Excitement ran so high during the conflict between the mob and police for a time that telegraphic negotiations were opened with state authorities toward securing troops.

The negro population today is in a state of unrest, but no further trouble is anticipated by the police department.

Associated Press. A number of farmers last week contracted their entire wheat crop, on the basis of 40 pounds or better, at $2.75 per bushel, delivery to be made as cars are available to haul it away. Practically all winter wheat will average around 50 pounds.

Having become fourth in production of poultry in the state Floyd county is now preparing to become a ranking county of the Lone Star state as a producer of cream. A carload of jersey cattle has just arrived for distribution. A large number of Holstein cows have already been brought in.

Houston Labor Will Take Hand in Strike of Galveston Men

Associated Press. HOUSTON, Tex., June 16.—An impartial investigation of the strike of the longshoremen and the martial law situation at Galveston by a committee from the legislature and not by a military court or special representatives of the governor is desired by the Houston labor council.

"Should an investigation show that the troops were called to Galveston to assist any one faction against another, organized labor will ask for impeachment proceedings against Governor Hobby," declared W. E. Carroll, secretary of the Houston labor council, today in an interview with the Associated Press.

A new large size Victor X-Ray machine has been ordered by the Brice-Payne Sanitarium at 1011 West 12th street, and will be installed in the hospital about June 23, according to authorities of the sanitarium. The machine will be capable of taking pictures of any part of the body or head, Dr. Brice says.

Authorize Doctors to Raise Booze Permits Higher on Pretenders

International News Service. ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 16.—Charges of from $5 to $10 for writing whiskey prescriptions is not profiting revenue officials, ruling when a number of physicians declared themselves to be suffering from "writers' cramp," appealed for a decision as to whether such high prices could be termed "gouging." The medics explained that they would not charge bona fide sick persons anything extra for a while-ly prescription when their ailments really required liquor, but that they were "wearing away their arms" writing the coveted slips for sick pretenders and "friends." Exorbitant charges, they declared, was the only means of putting an end to camouflaging lovers of "Old Red Eye," but they feared they might be subject to prosecution under the Lever act. The revenue agents dispensed their fears.

TEAMWORK VS. SLAVERY.

Look at the open letter on this page entitled "Teamwork Wins." It is signed by Dr. A. E. Baten. Dr. Baten is a scholarly man, a deep thinker and what he has to say is well worth reading.

His article is couched in the simplest of terms. It is the theme he is attempting to impress upon you, not his manner of writing.

Turn to this article of his and read it. Think it over thoroughly. Digest it as fully as possible. Then return to this editorial and let's talk things over.

A splendid article, is it not? Well written and leaving a vivid picture in your mind.

It is a picture of two oxen with a heavy yoke upon their necks, pulling a loaded cart and struggling to free themselves from one another, is it not?

You probably put yourself in the place of one of these beasts of burden and wondered what you would do under the same circumstances. How did you feel? Did you feel that it would have been better to plod along day in and day out with your fellow ox, or did the whole situation appeal to you as intolerably oppressive and beyond endurance under any circumstances? Did you feel that you would prefer to plod on in harness under the goad for the sake of harmony, in harness with a team mate with whom you could not work? Or did you feel that you would prefer to struggle to break away and let some weaker but more willing creature take your place?

There are millions of people taking both courses of action each day. On every hand you find men associated in business, or working side by side with others, whom they do not even trust, and for men in whom they have no confidence. Behind them is the impelling goad of the necessity of making a living. Above them is the crack of the whip that tells them that they must work with whoever they happen to be in harness with.

Some struggle and chafe futilely in the traces; others accept passively any imposition that is put upon them for the sake of harmony. Some can afford to break over the traces; others can not. Some break over the traces whether they can afford to or not; others do not break over even though they can afford to.

If we break away from one cart we shortly find ourselves hitched up to another. It is the law of things that every one must pull a load of some kind or else shirk his responsibility to life altogether.

The only choice we have is what sort of a car we prefer to be hitched up to and who our team mates are to be. Sometimes we do not even have this choice.

Sometimes the yoke about our necks is martyrdom.

Whether or not it is the best or wisest thing to break away is for each man to decide for himself.

But to look again at Dr. Baten's picture as an argument for team work—

Most of the time the driver is working harder than the driven, but—

Was it the fault of the oxen that they were unwilling to work together, or was it misjudgment on the part of the driver to attempt to harness two discordant animals to the same cart?

If the load had been put upon two wagons instead of one, and each of the oxen hitched to a separate wagon, it is probable that the destination would have been reached as quickly and with greater satisfaction.

It's the mismatching of animals that has stalled many a load and the mismatching of men that has thwarted gigantic projects and stagnated cities.

There is no question but that every resident of Cisco is agreed that everything possible should be done to push this city forward. The disagreement comes in the method of accomplishing this result.

If we can't have team work, let's at least have co-ordinated action.

If we can't attack this stupendous objective of civic endeavor en masse, the next best thing we can do is to organize into collaborating units and attack it from all sides and angles until it has been attained.

But is it useless to quibble over the division of glory and the spoils before any have been won.

"Work and save" is a pretty good motto for any one. Too many people these days are trying to let the other fellow do all the working and saving while they do the spending. The war savings stamp way is a good way to save.

OPEN OPINIONS

TEAMWORK COUNTS
When a mere child I learned to drive oxen. My father had a yoke of fine, fat cherry-red steers.

As we drove them about the farm, I was oftentimes amused to see them pull against each other. Each would press his neck hard against the outside of the oxbow and brace his feet inward, and tug as if he were trying to pull his yoke-fellow across the high middle of the road.

Upon a time I went with my father to make a long trip in the wagon drawn by these steers. It was thought that when we were well on our way, the "boys," as we called them, as they began to grow weary in pulling the load, would cease pulling against each other. But the more weary they became, the more contrary they grew, and so they threw all their weight against each other, and went right on.

The off side of each one's shoulder was soon skinned, festered and sore. The off side of their off-side hoofs wore out—wore to the quick—and still they pulled against each other.

Their feet and shoulders became so sore that the poor creatures were unable to travel.

So my father traded them to a farmer, by the wayside, for a smaller and weaker yoke of oxen—traded at a great sacrifice.

By their pulling at cross purposes they broke up their good fellowship, and for a time rendered themselves utterly worthless in any team.

The weaker team for which we traded were splendid pullers. They were not nearly so capable as the others, but they did better work and gave satisfactory results.

If our old friend Aesop had told this story, he would have closed with his inevitable moral, which would have been something like this: "Behold, how had a thing in discord, and how good a thing in concord." But my conclusion is: "The City that Teamwork is Building" ought so to live as to justify its slogan.—A. E. Baten.

LABOR SHORTAGE OF WEST TEXAS IS BEING RELIEVED

HUNDREDS OF MEN SURREPTITIOUSLY APPEAR AT TOWNS BECAUSE OF PUBLICITY.

Special to The News.

STAMPFORD, Tex., June 16.—The serious labor shortage reported in West Texas wheat fields last week has quickly taken a change for the better, according to the federal employment service cooperating with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Immediately that heavy orders began to come to the labor bureau here, said the examiner in charge, "regulation was made through the government's clearing house and through the press, with the result that hundreds of men surreptitiously appeared at the towns most seriously affected by a shortage. A great number of those who reported for work declared they were brought to this section by the write-ups which they saw in the press."

The examiner declared that the prospects are that a large number of farmers of Central West Texas will be compelled to increase their price for farm labor if they are to get their cotton shipped. Most of the farmers so far, the examiner says, are offering $2 and board for choppers. Very few men are willing to work for such low wages.

In an effort to induce the farmers to increase their wages, the farmers declared that they were not able at the present price of the staple and the great amount which they have on hand left over from last year and which they can not sell.

In the Haskell section as much as $5 is being paid. However, most farm labor is drawing from $2 to $4 a day, with board. A number of hands recently arrived at Haskell and refused to work for $4 a day, laying around the town.

Local labor was recruited and the wheat harvest saved.

Thousands of acres of cotton in this county will soon require chopping. With fair weather it is believed that the labor that can be recruited in the west will be sufficient. However, the frequent rains of May have caused many of the farms to be very rank with vegetation.

Foard County Active in Efforts to Retain Operation of Orient

Special to The News.

CROWELL, Tex., June 16.—Foard county, one of the outstanding counties of the state this year, in 1919 raised 1,000,000 bushels of wheat as against 1,000,000 bushels this year. In 1919 some of the products were 2600 bales of cotton, 4500 tons of cotton seed, 120,000 bushels of oats, 2500 tons of maize and other feeds and 6000 bushels of corn. The amount of wheat held over in mills, elevators and granaries, from last year's crops due to the scarcity of cars, is estimated at one million bushels.

The town of Crowell in 1919 transacted $206,548.71 worth of business with the Orient railroad, the line which West Texas interests are trying to save by securing a federal apportionment from the revolving fund.

COURT COULD NOT DIVEST ROOSTER FROM HIS CROW

Associated Press. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 16.—The rooster's early morning crow can not be restrained by a court order.

Such was the decision of Judge W. W. Bardwell, in district court here, after hearing a petition from Dr. C. F. Dight, a former adjutant of this city, seeking an injunction to restrain sleep disturbing noises which, he said, came from his neighbor's house and yard.

In his complaint Dight alleged his neighbor had a squeaky pump which was operated during slumber hours; that dancing was going on at his neighbor's house at all hours of the night and morning; that a photograph was being played when its hearers should have been in quiet repose; that pots and pans were thrown maliciously about the kitchen, creating an irritating din, and last but not least, residing in the back yard of said neighbor was the owner of a disturbing crow, all of which curtailed his sleep.

The court, in an opinion from the bench, said it would issue a temporary restraining order requiring that the neighbor not make unnecessary noises at unseemly hours, but that it was beyond the power of the court to divest the rooster from his crow or restrain him from using it at certain hours.

He never quite knew what it was, for he had a queer little laugh which I always fixed, and he laughed just once before I ended his life. I just emptied the revolver.

It seems touching. It's pitiful, really, I suppose, and yet I am not in the least sorry. I have killed him quite as I planned.

The kisses he gave to me were just kisses of pity. "I found a letter and I know the woman who wrote it loved my husband. There was no mistaking nor was there any question in her mind that her love was returned. The letter breathed it, just as a spoken word would in its accents.

I had long known that my husband, good as he was, had ceased to love me. He had outlived me, really, and he pitied me; just determined to be kind until I died."

The woman was not arrested, for she had only a short time before been discharged from the Winfield Hospital here as incurably tubercular. She was not expected to live more than a week or two.

LOSES LOVE, SO SHE MURDERS HER HUSBAND; NOT SORRY

Associated Press. ELGIN, Ill., June 16.—Here is a remarkable story of a woman who killed her husband because he did not love her any more. She is free, but about to die—an incurable victim of tuberculosis.

The woman—Mrs. Henry C. Friederichs—premeditated the crime. She planned with a pistol for many days in the room in which she lay, using her husband's cap as a target.

The husband, a well-known business man, was kind to her, Mrs. Friederichs said, but only because he "pitied" her. After she became proficient with the revolver she asked her husband to dinner one night.

"I stepped back, just as I had planned to do, just as I used to do in front of the cap, and when the range was as usual I killed him," she said.

"He never quite knew what it was, for he had a queer little laugh which I always fixed, and he laughed just once before I ended his life. I just emptied the revolver."

It seems touching. It's pitiful, really, I suppose, and yet I am not in the least sorry. I have killed him quite as I planned.

HUSBAND'S HEROIC EFFORTS FAIL TO SAVE WIFE'S LIFE

International News Service. PEORIA, Ill., June 15.—Walking over the C. B. & Q. railroad bridge here with his wife, Charles Workman, coal miner, found himself trapped by an approaching train.

Grasping his wife around the waist he swung to the trestle below, but as the train thundered by his wife raised her head above the rails and had her skull fractured by the last car.

Despite his heroic efforts, his wife died.

CISCO SPLITS DOUBLEHEADER WITH EASTLAND

SCOUTS TAKE FIRST GAME, 3 TO 1; JUDGES WIN SECOND, 8 TO 1, WITH SAME PITCHER.

Eastland, Texas, June 16.—Eastland and Cisco split a doubleheader yesterday. The Scouts, with Hap Kotzelnick in the box, won the first, 3 to 1. The indispensable south-paw dished only three hits to the Judges in this encounter, and struck out seven. The Judges won the second, 8 to 1. Harding was in the box for the second, and errors again proved his downfall. King knocked a homer in the first game with two men on, but it was moments later when Cheeves dug out the trick. Though pitched both games for the first time, and after losing the first, came strong for the second, and with support by his mates chalked up a win. King pulled off the unexpected in the first game, when he stole home for Eastland's only run. Cheeves proved himself more valuable than the ordinary pitcher. The yellow played left field in the second game and got a single and a home out of three trips to the rubber. The box score:

Summary: Stolen bases, Lewis (2); pitcher, Kotzelnick; hit by pitcher, Kotzelnick; Gross; double play, Gross; sacrifice to Bratcher.

GIL'S GLEANINGS

By winning one game from the Eastland Judges in yesterday's doubleheader, while Ranger was dropping a game to the Abilene Eagles, we advanced a rung higher in the percentage ladder, and skinned Ranger out of second division leadership by four points.

Our warriors will travel over to Abilene today for a three days' stand with Bugs Young's Eagles. After that they will come home again for six games. Three will be with the Resorters and three with Eastland. In order to break even on the road trip, the Scouts will have to take two out of three games from Abilene.

"Eagles" seems to be a good name for the Abilene bunch; and they are living up to the moniker, too. At least they are certainly soaring high above the rest of the flock.

George Sieler, of St. Louis, has knocked Tris Speaker out of first place in the leadership of American league swatters. The Browns' batsman, out of 208 times to the bat, is hitting for an average of .400. This is close behind, however, with a mark of .398.

The latest dope says that Jack Johnson is about to be run out of Mexico for "lawlessness and offensive arrogance." Where the big black will go from there is a question. Mexico has been his last haven, and since that country says he has only 30 days of grace, it looks as though he will be forced to drop into the hands of the U. S. law.

Glenn, pitching for Houston yesterday, held the fast flying Panthers to one lonely hit, and the Buffs knocked the fast flying Fort Worthers off the pickle boat, 3 to 1. The blow was a two-bagger by Bobby Stow, and came in the eighth inning.

Now that Jack Dempsey has been freed from his charge of being a slacker, he can cut loose and prove to those who are skeptical whether or not he is a fighter.

Dempsey's Manager Says Big Champion Is Ready to Fight

Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—Jack Kearns, manager for Jack Dempsey, announced today that Dempsey would be ready within two weeks to meet Carpenter, the French heavy-weight champion, "or he will fight any one else in the world if Carpenter is unwilling to talk fight."

Kearns issued a statement saying Dempsey's acquittal yesterday of the draft evasion charge left the big fighter's war record clear and "that there would be no more whispering campaign carried on about him."

HUSBAND AND WIFE SIT AS MEMBERS OF SAME JURY

International News Service.
KALAMAZOO, Mich., June 16.—What is believed to be the first case on record in Michigan where a husband and wife sat as members of the same jury, occurred in Kalamazoo court recently when Aaron Westevere, of Schoolcraft, and Mrs. Westevere, of Schoolcraft, were among the occupants of the jury box.

The former was on the regular panel which became exhausted, and Mrs. Westevere, who was in the court room waiting for her husband, was summoned as a talesman.

"Can you have a mind of your own, even if your husband is sitting on the same jury with you?" asked one of the attorneys.

"I certainly can," emphatically replied Mrs. Westevere.

Associated Press.
SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 16.—Agents of the Department of Justice and Immigration are on a watch along the Mexican border today for Jack Johnson, the famous negro pugilist, should he enter the United States.

It is reported that the Mexicans will force Johnson to leave that country.

PEOPLE OF NORTH HAVE WRONG IDEA OF WEST TEXAS

Pecos County Agricultural Outlook This Season is the Best of Its Entire History.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.
FORT STOCKTON, Tex., June 16.—"Down here where people of the north have seen us as wilderness denizens," said a prominent business man today, "we are quietly but effectively collecting agricultural products to be carried by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to 15 state fairs, that will prove that the Fort Stockton country is a leader in the southwest."

Already preparations are under way for the great national exhibit movement which the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will carry. Pecos county is rallying fast to get a blue ribbon line of products raised by irrigation.

Harvesting and marketing the bumper alfalfa crop of the valley is the gentle order of the day in this section. The alfalfa yield will be up to the standard, or from one to one and one-half tons to the acre, bringing from $25 to $28 per ton.

Oats and wheat are also being thrashed. Wheat is making around 25 bushels and oats from 40 to 70 bushels to the acre. A car shortage is preventing uniform shipments.

From June 1 to 3, 41 cars of hay were shipped.

The best yield of oats so far threshed came from the irrigated farm of G. W. Rose and raised by D. S. Thomas, averaging 73 bushels to the acre. The best yield of wheat threshed came from the farm of James Rooney and made 25 bushels to the acre. However, only a small amount of wheat has yet been harvested, so that it is probable that the yield per acre will be increased materially.

Fort Stockton land, where you can put water on it, is worth at least $277 an acre, Joseph Schlegel of this city sold his 90 acre irrigated farm last week for $25,000.

Much land is changing hands and new people coming in.

Think of Bitter Tears the Poor Lemon Sheds If This Theory Is So

By FLOYD MACGRIFF
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, June 16.—Be kind to the carrot. And pray pause to consider the asparagus' sufferings in melted butter.

For Sir Jagadiz Chunder Bose, noted scientist, says that 20 years of experimenting has convinced him that plants have a nervous system corresponding to that of animals.

He found that if vegetables are given alcohol they get drunk. A carrot under chloroform wrote with a staggering hand. A leaf severed from its parent stem sent an affecting dying message. Sir Jagadiz has a delicate instrument which registers all these plant life impulses.

"These facts being so," concludes the Evening News, "vegetarians must reconsider their position. They can no longer continue to gorge on the carrot's corpse, or to crush between their ferocious jaws the death agonies of the nut."

No tender-hearted housewife reading these lines, can any more steel her nerves to gouge the eyes out of a living potato, or flay an innocent onion. Flesh eaters are jubilent, remarking to vegetarians how often they have heard the hiss and sizzle of the sausagians, believing it to be only the gravy boiling, when it was really the Irish stew screaming its death agony.

Every time one has salad the meat eaters point out, the kitchen will resound with the plaintive cry of the dismembered lettuce, the heart-rending moan of the beets bleeding to death and the shriek of the watercress celery, being torn limb from limb.

It is high time for organization of a society for prevention of cruelty to pot-herbs, the meat eaters declare.

"Be kind to vegetables," may develop into a cult that will regard such things as "fellow creatures" and make them pets, cultivate their acquaintance, and possibly take along the pet mangelwurzel for the holidays. And a helping hand can be lent the inebriate onion that has lost its way in the parsley bed.

Theatre Party at New India.
There was a well-appointed theatre party Tuesday night at the New India to see "The Yellow Typhoon," when Mrs. Thomas Bliss was hostess to a number of friends, consisting of Messrs. Richardson, Dwight Wallace, W. E. Spencer, E. S. Huey, George Lingie, A. A. Webster, Ledford, E. M. Kittrell of Hamburg, Ark., and Miss Leile Patton of Hereford, Texas.

The party embraced none of the opposite sex in its members, and after the show spent an enjoyable aftermath of refreshments that had been prepared for their individual delectation at the fountain of the City Drug Store.

TEXAS C. OF C. PLANS BETTER FARM CREDITS

DECREASING MAN POWER ON TEXAS FARMS TO BE CHECKED.

TO USE MOTIVE POWER

Seven Prominent Men Make Up Personnel of the Committee.

Special to The News.
DALLAS, Tex., June 16.—The Texas Chamber of Commerce is planning to mobilize public sentiment for a better system of farm credit in Texas and has announced the following rural committee, which formulates policies along this line:

- J. D. Stephenson, farmer, Dallas.
 - S. A. Lindsey, Federal Land Bank, Houston.
 - Joe Hirsch, chairman agricultural commission of American Bankers' Association, Corpus Christi.
 - Clarence Ousley, Fort Worth.
 - W. M. Spilawn, professor of economics of University of Texas, Austin.
 - F. M. Law, Texas Bankers' Association, Houston.
 - E. P. Brown, Agricultural and Mechanical college, College Station.
- Decreasing man power on the farms must be supplemented with horse and motor power and with improved labor-saving implements and devices, according to the policy of the Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The purchase of the implements will mean credit for a longer period than one year, and to this end a special effort will be made to interest bankers and other business men in providing this credit and also to the working out of a permanent system of "middle-term" credit based on personal security.

Pays $138,539 For 7,696 Acres of Hale County's Farm Land

Special to The News.
PLAINVIEW, Tex., June 16.—The exodus from Central and East Texas to the "Land of Midas," the South Plains—continues.

Frank Norfleet has sold W. M. Hall, Capt. Lott A. Malheur and Clark H. Malheur of Hale county, his Hale county ranch of 7,696 acres. The sale price was $138,539.

It is understood that the new owners will stock the ranch with fine Hereford cattle, but contemplate cutting the big tract up for small farms in the near future.

Frank Norfleet came in possession of this vast acreage several years ago at a nominal price. Plainview has been designated as one of the points on the itinerary of the proposed automobile race to start from Amarillo July 5.

More than $3000 in purses have been put up.

The proposed route is from Amarillo to Clovis and thence to Plainview and back into Amarillo, or from Amarillo to Childress and thence through Plainview to Amarillo.

At least 40 cars are expected to enter. Many different types of roads and conditions of thoroughfare will be encountered.

SOME CHICKENS

International News Service.

Besides laying the average size egg of from one to two ounces in weight every day, a light Brahma hen belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Busch, of No. 4843 Hartford street, recently broke the henfruit record with an egg weighing 5 1/2 ounces. The Buschs declare they fed the hen only the regular chicken diet.

TOPEKA, Kans., June 15.—A curiosity in the shape of a chicken was hatched in an incubator owned by Gilbert Vaughn, of this city, a few days ago.

The chicken, if it can be so called, possesses four legs and the extra are so well developed that it is almost impossible to distinguish them from its "regular" set.

Aside from the "extra," which it uses with equal adeptness, the "bird" is normal.

MOSCOW, Idaho, June 15.—Thirty years ago a woman here found a diamond in the crop of a chicken. This led to the discovery of a rich mine, which, because of high cost of mining, was abandoned. Many rich gems were found. The mine, almost forgotten, is to be reopened.

FALL MILLINERY is prettier this season than ever, and contrary to reports the prices will be reasonable. An unusual attractive line has been purchased for Mrs. Kennon's Exclusive Hat Shop. These goods will commence to arrive in a short time, and room must be made for them. Seasonable hats are going at just half price.

International News Service.
OTTUMWA, Ia., June 15.—Pure-bred cattle came high in Iowa. At a recent sale of 40 odd head of the Angus variety near here an average price of $3,710 was paid for each animal. "Elitona B" a prize cow, brought $10,000.

SKIPPER BURTON'S WIFE ONLY WOMAN IN RACE—LOVES SEA TO HELP SAIL SHAMROCK

By MARGERY REX.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Over the hull of the Shamrock, the only woman in the race, Mrs. Burton, sat on the deck and boom of "my dear." Long, luscious curls were swept up and pinned above the horizon, and her eyes were fixed on the challenger, which lines of waves were racing along a changing pattern.

As good as the fact from which she might have gathered was the three-masted trading schooner in the distance. Found of business and humors and plan of plain truth about Jacob's ship, on "my dear," told the visitor that the Shamrock was being made for an important event.

Choppy little waves tipped Shamrock IV—the pride of Sir Thomas Lipton—and the sea struck green gleams from the challenger's emerald tinted sides. Close to the shore lay the former Shamrock, which came over in 1914, little more because of war, new "trial horse" for the cup.

"The Shamrock, to borrow a phrase from your republican convention is a dark horse," said Mrs. Emily Burton, who stood on the deck of the houseboat, watching sailors, climb rope holders or pile up night in "chairs" made of board and rope. "And the old Shamrock is now 'trial horse' for her."

But just you wonder why a woman carries in a shipyard we hasten to explain that Mrs. Burton will sail on the Shamrock in the great race on July 15 off Sandy Hook. For she is more other than the wife of the man who will command the speedy contender, and she is the first woman who has ever been a member of a crew in a cup race.

"I'm just going along because I like to," Mrs. Burton said modestly.

"New Emily," Captain Burton, her husband, said reproachfully, "why do you say that?" Then he turned to the "my wife is timekeeper—she always has been for me, and would allow no one else to perform that duty."

Mrs. Burton smiled out to sea and told me of her experiences and her love of things nautical.

"We've been sailing together for 25 years—ever since we've been married. My husband has built a number of boats and we raced in England and over in the Kiel Canal. The Ostoria, one of our boats, won many times for us."

"We used to go in for hunting back home. My husband was master of the hounds and I often rode two hounds with him. But in the last few years I have given it up and sailing is my only sport now."

"Sailing life is hard on a woman if she cares for her complexion. Salt water is hardly a cosmetic, but it's wonderful for one's health. A wetting of sea never gives one a cold, but you know it would on land."

"You see, they're fixing up the former Shamrock—she's the 'trial horse' now. They call her that because in the trial races she goes beside Shamrock as a peace-maker. The 'trial horse' is the boat that sailed across the ocean in 1914. But the new Shamrock is a lovely craft. Sir Thomas Lipton will be here to see her in a few days," continued Mrs. Burton. "There is her mast yonder."

"The challenger lies between 30 and 40 in her crew, and we're all anxious for her to win, of course."

"I personally have not thought of anything else. Although we have received wonderful hospitality since our arrival, I have really planned to go nowhere, haven't even been into New York City. You see, we came right in City Island after landing on the Adriatic. I may go out more later after the excitement is over."

"There is so much to be done. The boats must have their sails and gear tested. And everything is to be painted inside and out. But as to the Shamrock's winning, that depends on so many things, weather conditions and good seamanship."

"It may be fine or very rough, but she is a good boat and has good sails, so I hope we can handle whatever situation comes up. We have every hope, but none can tell the outcome, yet."

Katherine MacDonald, the American Beauty, At the Judia Tonight

With a story, star and production that bid fair to set the pace for screen attractions for months to come, "Passions Playgrounds," adapted from the famous story of Monte Carlo, "The Guests of Hercules," by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, will be shown at the New Judia theatre today and tomorrow afternoon and night.

The infinite opportunities for picturization of the famous gambling story induced Katherine MacDonald, "the American Beauty," to select it as the starring vehicle for her latest release under her contract with First National Exhibitors' Circuit. Despite her remarkable past successes, Miss MacDonald has never been seen in a picture that equals "Passions Playgrounds" for dramatic moments.

Raised in a convent, the blood of a gambler in her veins, unknowing of the ways of the world, Miss MacDonald takes the part of Mary Grant, who leaves the convent upon receipt of her inheritance to make her way to Monte Carlo. Here, Mary becomes involved in the schemes of a set of society blenders whose efforts to ensnare her prove to be replete with thrills.

Perhaps no other fictioned work dealing with the attempts of titled personages and wealthy men and women from all parts of the world to stake their fortunes and lives upon the chance-devises at Monte Carlo has met with the popularity of "The Guests of Hercules."

At a mass meeting in the City Hall, Thursday, June 17, at 5:30, the candidates of Eastland county will have opportunity to make their announcements to the voters.

On last Monday evening on the beautiful lawn of the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Winston, the members of the First Christian church, with their children and young people, enjoyed a delightful social time.

The lawn was beautifully lighted and the children had great fun at games. Mrs. Bob Winston led a delightful service with her "little light bearers."

She has 50 of these children under eight years of age. Their mothers, who are members of the Christian woman's board of missions, pay dues for them which is used for orphanage work in India. Mrs. Winston had these children and their mothers come forward, and after lighting a large candle which represented the light of Jesus 50 tiny candles were given to the children and lighted. After reciting a few lines appropriate to the occasion, the large children sang "Jesus Bids Us Shine." Certificates of membership were then distributed.

There was a fine attendance of members and friends and a very pleasant social time was enjoyed.

Ice cream and cake was served. Every one expressed genuine appreciation for this hospitality upon the part of the host.
