After Labor Kacketeers OR four months Eliot Ness, the young safety director of Cleveland, Ohio, has been investigating labor racketeering in Cleveland, especially in the building trades, and then he made a report of his findings that resulted in a special session of the Cuyahoga county grand jury to hear the stories of scores of business men who allegedly have been terrorized by labor union officials. Ness Eliot Ness said these men were prompted to volunteer their information because of the security offered them and the knowledge that many others were prepared to testify. In addition to protests from business men that they were being shaken down, Ness also had numerous complaints from rank and file union men that their leaders had obtained dictatorial control of the unions and had used it for racketeering purposes. This resulted in hundreds of men being thrown out of work, impeded legitimate business, and kept hundreds of thousands of dollars in new industries out of the city, the Ness report was said to have stated. -*_

Governors Ask Tax Repeal GOVERNORS of the six New England states, in conference in Boston, adopted resolutions severely criticizing the tax and tariff policies of the administration. They demanded repeal of the capital gains tax and the tax on undistributed corporate profits, and denounced the pending reciprocal trade agreement with Czechoslovakia as imperiling the jobs of thousands of American citizens. The governors who took this action were Lewis O. Barrows, Republican, Maine; F. P. Murphy, Republican, New Hampshire: George D. Aiken, Republican, Vermont; Charles F. Hurley, Democrat,

Something I said recently about the folly of killing every snake on sight, without investigating the snake's character, brought a flock of letters from readers who don't like snakes.

Even a so-called venomous snake may have his better side. In Kansas, in the old local option days, you could get a drink only on a doctor's prescription, excepting in case of dire emergency, such as a snake bite. So every properly run drug store kept a rattlesnake on the premises to serve the citizenry. And the only time a drug store rattler ever refused to bite a thirsty stranger was when he was all worn out from accommodating the regular local trade

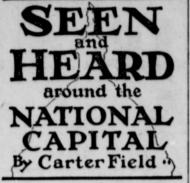

And what though it was a snake that led Eve astray in the garden of Eden? He may have brought sin into the world, but wouldn't we have missed a lot of spicy reading matter in newspapers if he hadn't?

Yep, I plead guilty to thinking an occasional charitable thought for any decimated and vanishing group. I feel that way about old line Republicans and mustache cups and red woolen pulse-warmers.

Political Predictions.

E TAKE the opportunity to announce that the Literary Digest, or rather its journalistic successor, will not conduct a poll on next year's congressional and state there were always two big Washington .- How long the pres sporting events-the one Graent "breathing spell" in the reform ham McNamee saw and the battle of the administration against one that actually took place. business is going to last is one of the most important questions in But, alongside the present sports Washington. Few observers believe broadcasters, Graham's wildest that it is anything more than a strategic retreat. Most of them believe that the offensive will be renewed, with fresh vigor, when the present business recession turns, as everyone hopes it soon will, into renewed prosperity.

Some of the Capitol Hill leaders predict, however, that even if business should blossom like the rose next summer the drive toward "planned economy" will not be resumed until after the election next tionists who'll wind Irvin S. Cobb November. A few even predict that it will not be resumed in full force fering from nervous exhaustion, until after the Presidential election, wrecked vocal chords, violent rush though this seems less probable. Had it not been for the business burst outward, you'll hear pouring recession there would have been a battle between congress and the President almost as bitter, and dous burst, Irish Goldberg is jamprobably as significant, as that ver enlarging the Supreme court last winter. Congress was all set for revamping of the undistributed But don't get worked up. What earnings tax, and the capital gains you hear is merely a convalescent tax, long before the business men back in the districts and states began to blame the whole recession on governmental interference with business management and investment trends. The business recession simply strengthened this determination.

> But it also determined the President to yield, at least in part, and to lay more emphasis on balancing the budget. This in turn promises less government competition with private business, particularly in the electric industry.

To Fight Again

The same battle will be fought, but the battleground will be different. The President has retreated to a stronger position. Son James and Charley West, Tommy Corcoran and Charley Michelson, will be found buttonholing senators and representatives to prevent modification from going too far, rather than to prevent any modification at all.

And there may be no fight whatever to force immediate power projects into the seven TVA's. In fact Sen. George W. Norris is already giving out interviews that his understanding with the President on that subject seems to be very different from what the President now thinks it is.

As another result of this "breathing spell" the President and Sen. Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, seem to be further apart than they have been at any time since Mr. Roosevelt entered the White House.

La Follette has never been afraid of taxes-nor of admitting frankly as to equalize the competition between them and the big ones. Thus, he says, a long step could be made in the direction of preventing the growth of monopolies. Actually his own Treasury department has proved to its own satisfaction from its own figures that the undistributed earnings tax did not bear so heavily on small corporations as on large ones. Actually most of the suggestions as to why the business recession had come was aimed at big business concerns rather than small ones.

Not This Session

This administration eagerness to confine modification of the undistributed earnings tax is excellently illustrated also in the statement made by Sen. Alben W. Barkley, Democratic leader, after a talk with the President. Barkley said:

"In my judgment, we cannot act this session (meaning the short session) on proposals for amendment of the undistributed profits tax to relieve new and debt-burdened corporations." Contrast this with Senator George, who says:

"There can be no business recovery unless those who employ labor can retain some of their earnings to pay debts and to expand operations. I am confident the congress will modify the provision imposing the surtax on undistributed earnings, and allow those earnings to be used by business in the interest of the workers."

Some very shrewd observers do not believe the President will insist on the text of his first message. They think it was almost purposely put in general terms. Certainly it left plenty of loopholes. Even his flat declaration against speculative profits-an old dogma of the New Deal doctrine-was not specific.

On this point congress is determined to permit the spreading of losses over at least two if not three years, in clear opposition to the New Deal theory that saving for a rainy day merely makes it rain harder, and sooner.

Again Soft Coal

"Like the poor, the soft-coal industry is always with us," a high administration official lamented at a little gathering of the best governmental minds.

At present two agencies of the government, the interstate commerce commission and the bituminous coal commission, are not just seeing eye to eye on this terrifically important problem, intensified at the moment by the fact that the administration is straining every nerve to get business out of its doldrums.

The National Coal association is indignant both at the boost in railroad freight rates on coal already granted by the I. C. C., and at the present demand for a further increase of about 15 per cent. The present increase, the association's officials claim, "is to take effect despite the evidence that high rail rates are diverting coal in large tonnage to truck transportation as well as accelerating consumer use of substitute fuels which move by pipe-line. To add another 15 per cent increase to rail freight rates on coal, as now asked for by the railroads, will be suicidal." The bituminous coal commission, which earlier maintained that the increased cost of coal would be borne mainly by the railroads and utilities, and not by householders, is now perturbed. It is opposing vigorously the increase now on the table before the I. C. C.

And Yonder Lay the Tenth Bairn

A divinity professor was asked to preside at the baptism of the latest-arrived infant in the already crowded home of the minister of the parish in Scotland.

The professor gave out one of the paraphrases often used on such occasions.

"Let us," he said, "sing from the second verse, 'As sparks in close succession rise.' "

To his consternation he observed that the congregation seemed unable to repress a giggle.

Afterwards, asking the minister's man what had been wrong, he received the reply, "You see, the minister's name is Sparks."

Peace Talk with Utilities RESTRICTION of the construction and expansion activities of the privately owned public utilities being recognized as an important factor in the current business recession, President Roosevelt began a series of conferences with the heads of these concerns. He seemed to be in a conciliatory frame of mind and sought to lessen the utilities' fear of the effect of government policies, but without making any concessions. His first caller was Wendell Wilkie, president of the Commonwealth & Southern corporation, and next day he talked with Floyd Carlisle of the Niagara Hudson Power corporation. Though he appeared amiable, the President at the same time was sending to various congressional committees and federal avencies a report by the New York state power authority, whacking friends and agents of the private utilities for "propaganda" against public power development. It presented figures to show the government could produce water power at a much lower cost than private utilities could produce power by steam plants.

It was understood Mr. Wilkie submitted these points:

That there is a general fear throughout the country of government competition and interference with private utilities which can be subdued only by concrete reassurance from the administration.

That money for private expansion purposes and refinancing to obtain lower interest rates, which in turn would be reflected in lower to committee for revision. power rates, is hard to obtain.

That the government had a right to sell power from its dams, but a basis for marketing it could be found without frightening the whole industry.

Let others go around taking straw votes, but, the way the Digest folks feel now and, in fact, have felt ever since last November, they wouldn't start a canvass to prove that two and two make four. Because, look here-what if it should turn out that two and two merely make some more Marx brothers or a double set of Siamese twins?

Anyhow, the business of basing cocksure predictions on half-cocked estimates doesn't seem to be flourishing these days. Figures don't lie, but the citizens who furnish the figures may do so, either unintentionally or just for the sake of a laugh. that more must be laid on the small income group. He has consistently scorned the New Deal intimation that the rich could be made to pay for New Deal spending. So he wants to boost the rates on small incomes and lower the exemptions as well. Moreover, he wants the government to go right on with spending-increase it until every available "employable" can be put on the government payroll.

Strategically, this puts the President in between the two extremes. an extremely enviable political position. It may make very much harder the task of the southern conservatives, who hope to win party control, nominate a conservative, and really "turn to the right" in the next national platform.

Tax Revision

President Roosevelt bends to the gale, to keep the New Deal trunk from snapping, but even as he bends he shows clearly the resiliency which will lend power to the swing back so soon as the gale has ceased blowing.

With a congress all set for revision of the tax laws to ease the burden business has been bearing, the President springs in with his message saying some changes are necessary. Then he hints at changes far less drastic than congress was determined to make.

For example, he says nothing about when the tax modifications shall be made.

Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia. member of the finance committee and powerful figure among the group of southern conservatives who hope to take control of the party away from the New Dealers, and nominate one of their number, in 1940, wants immediate revision of both the capital gains and losses and of the undistributed earnings taxes. Not only that, he wants to make the modifications retroactive -to apply to 1937 earnings.

Again, the President wants to use the modification of the undistributed earnings tax as another club against in the United States says that bigness. He says flatly that the through advertising it is able to market its product at less than onetax could be changed, by granting exemptions to small companies, so | half mill per gallon.

But the Railroads

But on the other hand, what is to be done for the railroads? Weakness in their stocks is regarded by the administration experts as one of the big factors in the recent stock market slides, and in the general recession of business. Administration agents have been delving eagerly into the possibility that business could be revived by railroad buying. First there was the idea of lending them more money-pouring it out. But they learned that this would interest only a few roads, chiefly those already in financial trouble. The stronger roads would prefer to do their own financingif-and that has been the troublethey considered the situation justified the spending. So it has become obvious that the railroads must be permitted to earn more, not just to have cheap money loaned to them, in order to start any real amount of spending.

On this phase the I. C. C. is inclined to agree, but it has learned through sad experience, as indeed have the railroads, that rate advances are nonguarantee of bigger earnings. Freight diverts quickly to trucks. The I. C. C. has rather reached the conclusion that the only freight-rate advance that is sure to produce more money in the railroads' treasuries is one on products so heavy that truck hauling is uneconomic. Of these, coal and ores stand out like sore thumbs.

But the danger point has been reached on coal, the bituminous coal commission believes. It is concerned about the switching from coal to other fuels, though of course not concerned with whether traffic is diverted from the railroads to trucks. @ Bell Syndicate. WNU Service.

"One Brand New Suit" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Take it from me, boys and girls, you can't take it from Bob Kaiser. That is, you may take it from him, but you won't keep it. It's been tried before and it just didn't work.

It all sounds mysterious but it's as simple as A B C. As a matter of fact, it's the tale of today's adventure story-the stirring tale of how Bob Kaiser of New York city got mad about having a brand new suit ruined and fixed the guy that ruined it with both hands tied behind his back.

Today Bob works for the New York Steam company, but on June 7, 1925, he was a sales manager for the United Cigar Stores, running a shop located at Broadway and Thirty-first street, New York. It was on a Sunday, and things were quiet along that section of Broadway. There weren't half a dozen people in sight on the street, and there hadn't been a customer in the store for half an hour.

These Customers Were Bandits.

Then, about noon, a customer came in. He asked for a package of cigarettes and Bob turned to get them from the rack. And as he turned he heard a low, grating voice say: "Don't move -or I'll blow your brains out!"

Bob didn't move, but out of the corner of his eye he could see the man -holding a thirty-eight caliber revolver on him. "It was a hot day," says Bob, "but the sweat that broke out on my forehead just then was cold-ice cold."

The man came behind the counter and ordered Bob to sit down on the floor. That's where Bob began to get mad. He had on a nice, new suit that day and the floor had been freshly oiled. The porter had oiled it the day before, and he had given it an extra heavy dose. If Bob sat down on that greasy floor-well-his suit wasn't going to look so new any more.

Bob got mad about it, but he didn't lose his head. He took another look at that thirty-eight and decided that maybe the gangster was right. He sat down on the floor. And about that time, a second gangster, who had been watching outside, came in to help the first.

Ruined Suit Made Bob Angry.

They told Bob to open the safe, and he opened it. The company's instructions, in case of a hold-up, were to give the bandits the money without any argument. The gangsters took four hundred dollars of the company's money and it made Bob mad to see them get it that easily. Likewise, he was still mad about his ruined suit.

When the bandits had the money they tied Bob's hands behind his back, put a gag in his mouth and pushed him down to the floor. A friend of Bob's came into the store and bought some tobacco. The bandits waited on him. When they asked where Bob was they told him he was out to lunch. After Bob's friend had gone the bandits told Bob not to move for five minutes, and left, themselves.

But Bob didn't wait even five seconds after those thugs went out the door. With his hands tied behind his back and a gag in his mouth, he leaped up and ran in pursuit of the bandits. When he got to the street he saw the thugs walking toward Sixth avenue. He tried to yell, but the gag in his mouth was so tight that he couldn't utter a sound. So he started across Thirty-first street after those crooks.

He followed those birds to Sixth avenue and Thirty-second street and already getting up beside her fallen "Get down-quick, behind there the bandits split up and went in different directions. ' Bob lost the horse!" She hesitated, but he sight of one man but he continued to follow the other. He trailed him to Thirty-second street and Seventh avenue, and there the fellow turned around and caught sight of Bob, gag still in his mouth, hands tied beher and laid her flat behind her hind him, trailing along in his wake. At that the thug turned and bolted,

He Literally Fell on the Thug.

The thug ran across the street toward Pennsylvania station, dashed into the Thirty-second street entrance and bolted down the stairs toward the concourse. Bob lit out after him.

Running as fast as he could with his hands tied, Bob dashed down through the main corridor and down the slippery marble stairs. At the bottom of the stairs, right in front of the ticket windows, he caught up with the thug and there a strange battle took place-probably the strangest scrap in all history. Bob fell on the crook, and when I say "fell," I mean that literally. With his hands tied behind his back, there just wasn't anything else Bob could do.

He gave a leap and landed on the crook. And the crook went down. Bob, gagged as he was, couldn't yell to attract attention but the spectacle of a bound and gagged man, legs flailing in the air, rolling on the floor and all over the top of another man attracted plenty of attention as it was. People began to yell and run to the spot. Tom Eagan of the station police came running up with the crowd and grabbed the bandit. That bandit was out of breath and pretty badly frightened by his strange experience. He was still wondering what landed on him as they led him away to the calaboose.

Bob got his hands untied then, took the gag out of his mouth, and went back to his store. He had left the door open and a big crowd had gathered about the place. He did a record business that day, selling stuff to people who wanted to hear his story of the hold-up.

The bird Bob caught squealed on his partner, and both of them got seven-year sentences. And the company gave Bob a $550 bonus, a raise and a vacation.

great variety of arms were in use during the Civil war. The percussion principle was applied to many of the flintlocks in the possession of the government, and the muskets and rifles made in the government armories were adapted to that style of ignition. Breechload-ing rifles, carbines, several types of repeating arms and foreign weapns were also used.

Albino Dingo Not Popular

The albino dingo (wild dog) Australia is not popular among his" own kind. This was proved so years ago when the first pure white dingo ever seen in Queensland was captured alive. The animal was placed in a cage with other dingoes that were in captivity. On the fol-lowing morning the albino animal was found dead, having been torn to pieces.

CORD offers two new cars for 1938the Standard Ford V-8 and the De Luxe Ford V-8. They are different in appearance - but built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence - on the same chassis.

Because people liked our 1937 car so well, they bought more than of any other make. They liked its looks, its smooth performance, and the way it handled. We have improved on that car in the newly styled Standard Ford V-8.

But some folks wanted still more size and style, with the same Ford advantages. For them, we designed a new De Luxe line. The De Luxe Ford V-8 Sedans are longer With two distinct designs, two engine

De Luxe cars are equipped with the 85horsepower engine only.

The Standard is even lower priced than the De Luxe. It has graceful new lines and well-tailored interiors-with a choice of engine sizes-85 or 60 horsepower.

Before Ford made V-type 8-cylinder engines available to every one, they were used only in expensive cars. Since then, four million Ford owners have learned the genuine enjoyment of driving an eightcylinder car with all-around economy. The thrifty "60" engine, especially, makes possible in Standard models a very low first cost and equally low operating cost.

"Overweight increases the strain on the heart and kidneys. This extra strain often results in diseases of the heart, bloodvessels and kidneys. Overweight, aside from causing fatigue and bodily discomfort, is also known to be an important factor in causing diabetes.

"These complications generally appear after the age of forty. To lessen these dangers and so increase your chances of health and long life, you must begin early and make a serious and constant effort to keep your weight at a normal level.

"A strong will is the first essential in the reduction treatment of overweight. You must learn to use or exercise this strong will, otherwise the result is bound to be disappointing."

Explaining Humus

Humus is partly decomposed organic matter from plant and animal residues. Organic matter contains many potential plant nutrients which, gradually decaying, liberate compounds that in contact with various mineral and particles set free otherwise insoluble and so unavailable plant foods in the soil. Concentrated, ready-made fertilizers are frequently lacking in organic matter and so their own value is greatly increased if their use is supplemented by humus. Soils lacking humus are low in water-holding capacity. They pack easily, forming a hard crust, and they are poorly aerated below the surface. Source of organic material are well-rotted manure, spent mushroom soil and peat: that is, peat-moss, raw native peat and cultivated peat.

Why Lake Erie Is Stormiest Stormiest of the Great Lakes, Erie, yearly takes heavy toll of shipping. It's all because the lake is so shallow. It averages only 70 feet, goes down only 210 feet at its deepest. Thus any strong wind stirs up a storm. Western gales often lower the lake's level 8 feet at one end, raise it as much at the other. When the storm subsides, the water then rushes back, starts another storm.

By far the gayest and most delightful of the new pictures is "It's new is the refreshing, witty treatment the story has been given. Never before have the three featured players been so deft. -*-

Greeting to Mary

D EAR Mrs. Post: Am I supposed D to say "How do you do, Miss Brown," or even "How do you do, Mary" to a young friend receiving with her mother when Mary happens to be a very good friend of mine whom I greet no more formally at other times than "Hello, Mary"? The party will be a big one and the invitations are formal and I have an idea that saying "Hello, Mary" upon arrival would be very bad.

Answer: You say "How do you do. Mrs. Brown" very formally, and with a sweet smile and in not too boisterous a tone of voice "Hello, Mary" or "How do, Mary."

Hands in Greeting D EAR Mrs. Post: Etiquette suggests that a man wait for a woman to extend her hand in greeting first. But what is a man to do when a hostess receiving at a party for her daughter fails to put out her hand in spite of the fact that etiruette also says that a guest should shake hands with a hostess and her daughter in the receiving line at such a party? Answer: If she does not hold her hand out to him, then he behaves as he was taught in dancing school when a small boy. In other words, he takes one step, cracks his heels and bows from the waist and says, "How do you do, Mrs. Brown."

LESSON TEXT - Matthew 11:28-30;

stream, bears all its sons away," so sang Isaac Watts in 1719. One wonders what he might say today! The mad rush of modern life-its relentless drawing of us all into its terrific tempo-leaves us distraught, nervous, overanxious. Nervous disorders are on a rapid increase, even among children. The condition prevails in the country as well as in the city, although it is aggravated in the universe for a bit and counsel quietly about that almost forgotten Christian virtue, rest. Nowhere can the troubled spirit find calm of soul as surely and as quickly as in God's Word-and in the One revealed there, for true rest is found not in

Rest for our souls is found not in the cessation of activity, but rather in joining with Christ as our yokefellow and in going on with him in meekness and lowliness of heart. Most of life's restlessness is the result of pride, of driving ambition to be somebody or to attain something.

But we do have a yoke and a burden to bear. Yes, it is true that not all is easy in the Christian life. But as someone has suggested, the burdens are like the burden of feathers on a bird. They may seem to be too heavy for his little body, but as a matter of fact they are the thing he flies with! Such are the "burdens"

II. Received by Faith (Heb. 4:3). Those who believe enter into rest. Faith in God through Jesus Christ brings a man into an abiding place that the storms of life may beat upon but can never move. Fair weather followers of Jesus who fall into a frenzy of fear and worry when sorrow or loss comes upon them need to learn to walk by faith. "Be not dismayed whate'er betide. God will take care of you." is more than the pious expression of a hymn writer, it is a statement of fact.

III. Rejected by Unbelief (Heb. 4:1. 6-11). "The worst thing in the world" is unbelief - because it effectually closes the door to God's blessing. Jesus could not do "many mighty works" in his home town of Nazareth "because of their unbelief" (Matt. 13:58). Unbelief will keep us from the rest that God has prepared for his people, for it not only hinders men from coming to the Saviour, but keeps them from resting in him after they are saved. IV. Necessary to Useful Living (v. 11). Only when the follower of Christ appropriates that rest of soul which results from turning from his own efforts and trusting himself fully to Christ will there be that absolute surrender of every detail and problem of life to him which will bring out in daily living the glorious beauty and power of a life at rest with God.

 WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK-If President Rafael Leonidas Trujillo Molina of the Dominican republic persists in his impromptu war with Haiti, and spurns President Roosevelt's offer Ball Player Might Solve of mediation, it is possible that they Latin Feud might buy him off with a fast black shortstop and a couple of outfielders. President Molina is a rabid baseball fanatic, and only last June he was accused of stealing many of the best players of the American negro teams. The charges, quite violent and vehement they were, were made by the National Negro League of America, comprising six teams, and were backed up by Ferdinand Q. Morton, New York civil service commissioner, who is the Judge Landis of the league.

It was asserted that agents and emissaries of the President did repeatedly, by trick and device, snatch an ebony ball player wherever they might find him; that they had thus cashiered some of the best talent of the negro league. The Pittsburgh Crawfords were especially loud and insistent in their complaint.

The dictator of Santo Domingo learned fighting and ball playing with the United States Marines, with them eight years, until the end of the period of occupation in 1924. When he took over the country in 1930, by double-crossing old President Velasquez, his enemies said, he made baseball a major detail of his planned economy.

He helped build up the Central American league and brought through quite a He'd Summon few pennant win-Army to Get ners. He throws Star Player big parties for the visiting teams at

He was a farm boy when the marines came along. He worked up in the Dominican army from private to brigadier general, gaining the presidency by a clever coup d'etat. In 1933, he liquidated a strong opposition by putting it in jail. Several thousand exiles have for several years maintained a junta in New York city, led by Dr. Angel Morales, former Dominican minister to Washington. They have ac-cused President Trujillo of wholesale killings and of ruthless suppression of all political rights and civil rights.

When Sergei Bensome, former secretary of war, was murdered in New York in April, 1935, the political enemies of the dictator said his agents had committed the crime. When he became president in 1930, at the age of thirty-seven, he was the youngest ruler of any sovereign state.

Do lay them down today."

How true it is that we are prone to bear all the burdens of the universe when God's Word has told us to cast all our care upon Him, for He careth for us (I Pet. 5:7). It is a powerful testimony for Christ when distraught and worry-ridden non-Christians see God's children walking steady and true in the midst of disappointments, trials, and sor-rows. And the opposite is also true, that failure to trust God is a practical denial of our professed faith.

Effect of Little Things

The influences of little things are as real and as constantly about us as the air we breathe or the light by which we see.

WAYWARD offspring of the world-famous mission swallows of San Juan Capistrano (Calif.) are the objects of Father Arthur J. Hutchinson's mercy. Faced with the problem of fledglings that fall from their nests in the mission ruins and become injured, the Padre enlisted the help of Mrs. Reyes Yorba, guide, and formed a tiny "hospital" on a shelf near the mission gate. Here the kindly bird doctors maintain a routine as rigid as that of any well-organized infirmary. Several times a day the little feathered patients are fed hamburger from the tip of Mrs. Yorba's finger. This is washed down with water from an eyedropper. Wounded legs and wings are carefully massaged at regular intervals. As a result, the fledglings never fly with their parents to seek food, but stay in the mission gardens, where they are protected from harm.
