EDWARD KENNEDY: PROFILE IN COURAGE

en a secretary to the late with his arms. We mator Robert F. Kennedy of w York, A storm of controsary and doubt has swirled visions of other times the secretary and secretary to the late with his arms. We with his arms. We wish has a with a cover of the late with his arms. We with his arms. We with his arms. We with his arms. We will have a secretary to the late with his arms. We will have a secretary and with his arms. We will have a secretary and we will New York, A storm of controversary and doubt has swirled about Edward Kennedy ever since that tragic night. Most of the doubt and charges are not justified but are based on prejudice. Some of the doubt about Kennedy's action is justified, for there are unanswerer questions; why was it almost ten hours from the time of the accident until it was reported to the Edgertown police; what was Kennedy and Miss Kopechne doing on the bridge in the first place (Kennedy said a wrong turn onto the narrow bridge led to the fatal accident.
Judge James A. Boyle last April said he did not believe the Senator's story and that he thought Kennedy was negligent in the operation of his car that night.
In view of the doubt and unanswered questions, it might be easy for us to indee Edward In view of the doubt and un-answered questions, it might be easy for us to judge Edward Kennedy harshly, to condemn him and say he did not live up to the Kennedy tradition of bringing honor to his name. But before we condemn, before we judge, let us examine this man,

By Sterling Tucker
there was a shining spot, there was a Camelot and the name "Kennedy name to it's most llustrious heights; and that of there was a Camelot and the there was a Camelot and the the name "Kennedy" was ic. The name glowed like a lant star and it's light need the most remote corners this land, and indeed, the world. Joseph P. Kennedy saed a fortune worth five ired million dollars, drew family close around him taught them the meaning honor and courage and dignal and the world. Joseph P. Kennedy saesassination. No one can know the pressure, fear and anxiety unser which he lived, but their politics or apove of their life style, all will be to admit that the Kentys brought honor to their ley of rifles fire a final salute.
At the sound of rifle fire Kennedy, instinctively, fell to the ground and covered his head with his arms. What horrible vision did the sound of rifle fire bring to his mind? perhaps visions of other times and other Kennedys and that horrible sound of gun fire.

I do not suggest that he be excused any indiscretion because of the awful pressure under which he lived, for we must all be held accountable for our acts. But I say that an accident, like that at Chappaquiddick, might cause him to become confused, indecisive and defensive, and we should not judge him too harshly. I believe Edward Kennedy will rise above this tragic incident. I believe he will rise to the greatlieve he will rise to the great-ness for which the Kennedys are famous and he will famous and he will bring h to his name. Although the magic is gone, the courage remains
