

ody," repented Timmie, and past the doctor. He struck the door, and went out. He rang the elevator bell in the corridor, then thrust his hand into his pockets. In a moment, unafraid about abruptly, went and opened the door of his father's room.

"How long would it take to get a specialist here from Chicago?" he asked the doctor.

"Less than twenty-four hours," was the answer.

"Okay, dad," exclaimed Timmie. "You get your iron lung. Bookah won't win." He walked

BEST CALLED FOR NEW POSTMASTER

Home Town Gossip

There have been a bit livelier of home town this week with a lot of moving going on, making plans for a business stimulant, a rain blanketing the parade throughout the trade and the Buffaloes winning another Friday night.

At present Chas. Taylor, incumbent, is continuing as watchman. He will remain on the job through the night of November seventh. In the meantime he is being assisted by H. H. Nash, who will handle the job until results of the election are known.

Members of the city council in session Tuesday night ruled that any person who is a citizen of the United States is eligible for the job and may be a candidate in the election. It will not be necessary for applicants to reside in Cross Plains.

While nothing definite was known yesterday it was understood that there would be at least three or four candidates for the office, the Review was told.

The Cottonwood H. D. club met in its annual achievement Friday October 28th, 1938. Met first at the home-folks food supply demonstrator. Mrs. C. W. Worthy, who displayed a very nice pantry with a goodly number and variety of fruit and vegetables, Halloween colors were carried out.

Refreshments of cake and punch were served to visitors, club members and 4-H club girls. The following visitors present were Dressy, Mrs. Dona Neeb, Mrs. W. O. Spencer, Mrs. Vernon Spencer and Mrs. Howard Neeb, Cross Plains; Mrs. Charley Taylor, Mrs. B. W. Everett, Mrs. Roy Hayes and Mrs. Homer Sudderth of Brownsfield; club members, Mesdames John McElroy, S. A. Moore, L. L. Bryan, S. E. Archer, Enla Bennett, Alva Bennett, L. I. Sudderth, H. S. Varner, R. T. O'Neal, W. R. Thompson, W. J. S. Gafford, S. R. Peavy, C. W. Worthy, Lee Champion, O. D. Strahan, J. F. Coffey, Fred Keller, Norman Coffey, Floyd Coffey, Ed Strahan, Bryan Bennett, Myrtle Clark.

Four-H club: Charlene Hutson, Dixie Ann Respass, Nedra Jean Hutson, Wilda Jean Jones, Estelle Freeland, Nelma Jean Thompson, Dorothy Thompson, Lemoine Shirley Susie Coats, Corrie Mae Ferrell, Ruby Billrey, Viola Champion, Christine Ferrell, Lenora Gillet and Melvina O'Neal.

We then went to the home of our bedroom demonstrator, Mrs. Ed Strahan, who had a very nice improved bed-room with little cost. A short program was rendered by club members. Various amounts of needle work were displayed.

Pick Night Watchman At Polls December 6

CANDIDATES MUST BE INDORSED BY 10 LOCAL VOTERS

An election will be held December sixth to choose a night watchman and city marshal for the city of Cross Plains, to assume duties of the office immediately. All qualified voters residing within the incorporated limits will be entitled to ballot.

Names of 10 voters must accompany a candidate's petition to assure the listing of his name on the printed ballot. Petitions are to be filed with Lindsey Tyson, city clerk, at least 10 days prior to the voting; the deadline being November 26.

Caton's Variety Moves Near Post Office; Underwood Grocery To Cross Main Street

Two Cross Plains business concerns are changing their locations. Caton's Variety Store is moving from the building one door South of Smith Drug Store to the quarters formerly occupied by Bond Brothers, the building one door North of the post office. J. A. Caton, proprietor of the firm, told the Review yesterday that the move was just about completed and that he'd doing business at the new stand Saturday morning.

Into the building formerly occupied by Caton will move the Underwood Grocery, now located on the East side of the street in the building adjoining the abandoned post office quarters. Mr. Underwood, however, will not begin the removal of his stock and fixtures until after all of the variety store items have been cleared from the house he intends to occupy. Moving will probably start Monday morning.

To launch the new stand, Caton's Variety will open with a big sale Friday morning. A four column advertisement on another page of today's Review lists several of the sale specials.

What appeared to be beginning of an extreme drought was broken early Thursday-morning as heavy, overhanging clouds yielded more than an inch of rainfall throughout the Cross Plains trade territory. The moisture was accompanied by a mild windstorm, however, no damage was reported.

The precipitation was hailed as a boon to grain fields which have been sowed several weeks but have not received enough moisture to sprout the seed. Pastures too were greatly in need of rain.

Exact measurement of the fall here could not be obtained as the Review prepared to go to press yesterday, however, consensus fixed the amount near one inch.

Weather bureau reports Thursday morning predicted additional showers and a lowering of temperature.

A million dollar rain if there ever was one.

CROSS PLAINS WINS FROM BANGS FRIDAY NIGHT 19 TO ZERO

Cross Plains high school Buffaloes won their third conference victory in five starts on the local gridiron Friday night when they trounced the Bangs Dragons 19 to nothing.

The herd scored early in the first quarter after Bangs lost the ball on a fumble at their own 24 yard stripe. Pierce and McMillan picked up the necessary yardage for a touchdown in five plays, with the former going over the double stripe for the counter. McMillan's attempt to convert from placement was low.

Heads up play by Junior Ford, hustling Buffalo wingman, accounted for another tally for the locals in the second quarter. Lackey started around end and after a five yard pick-up fumbled the leather on Cross Plains 30 yard line. Ford snatched the ball and outran the field for a 70 yard jaunt into pay dirt. McMillan's kick from placement was perfect. Score Cross Plains 13, Bangs nothing.

In the fourth quarter an exchange of kicks gave Cross Plains the ball on Bangs' 36 yard line. McMillan skirted around end for 26 yards before being hauled down. On the next play from scrimmage Pierce cut back over tackle for 10 yards and the third touchdown of the evening. McMillan's attempt to add the extra point from placement failed.

Cross Plains made nine first downs and Bangs four. The herd passed six times, none of which were completed. Bangs took to the air 13 times, connecting five times for 62 yards and getting two intercepted. Cross Plains was penalized six times for 40 yards and Bangs twice for 29. The locals picked up 249 yards from scrimmage to 66 for the visitors.

Tuesday, November eighth, is general election day throughout the United States. In Cross Plains voting will take place at the Anderson Chevrolet Company building.

Through the South, where nomination by the Democratic party is tantamount to election, little interest in the vote is expected to be manifest. Party leaders, however, will make a serious effort to get out as many voters as possible, due to the fact that the number of delegates seated at national convention is dependent upon the number of votes cast in general elections.

MOZELLE BULLDOGS COME HERE FRIDAY TO MEET BUFFALOES

A shift in arrangements late last week will result in the Cross Plains-Mozelle football game being played here Friday night, rather than at the Coleman county village.

The lately improved Bulldogs are expected to give coach "Beans" Morris' athletes one of their toughest games carded for the remainder of the season. Having never upset Cross Plains, Mozelle is reported to have been pointing to the game with the Buffaloes ever since partially evening an old score with Coleman, as a result of an 18 all tie, several weeks ago.

If the locals are able to defeat the Mozelle team and then get out of the Coleman game with as much as a tie, Cross Plains is definitely assured third place in conference standing, believe local dopesters. Rising Star and Rochelle are expected to afford little opposition.

Mozelle defeated Santa Anna by exactly the same score as did Cross Plains, and their 18 all tie with Coleman gives warning that the small consolidated school district possesses the best team in its history.

Kick-off for the Mozelle game has been advanced 30 minutes to 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock, superintendent Lewis C. Norman announced yesterday.

At a meeting of the local school board Monday night, Miss Autalee Notgrass, of Atwell, was elected to teach in the grammar school here. She will assume duties Monday morning.

An overflow in the third grade necessitated the employment of another teacher and it is there that Miss Notgrass will be assigned, said Superintendent Lewis C. Norman.

Addition of Miss Notgrass gives Cross Plains schools a faculty of 20 teachers.

ONE OF 3 HIGHEST APPLICANTS TO BE SELECTED FOR JOB

An open competitive examination for the postmaster-ship of the Cross Plains office has been announced by the civil service commission. Applications, which are available at the post office, must be signed and on file by October 18.

In order to be eligible for the examination, an applicant must be a citizen of the United States, must have actually resided within the delivery of this post office for at least one year, must be in good physical condition, and within the prescribed age limits. Both men and women are admitted.

Under the terms of an Act of Congress, approved June 25, 1938, the Civil Service Commission will certify the names of the highest three qualified eligibles to the Postmaster General who shall thereupon submit the name of the one selected to the President for nomination. Confirmation by the Senate is the final act.

Applicants will be required to assemble in an examination room for written tests, and will also be rated on their education, business or professional experience, general qualifications and suitability. The Civil Service Commission will make an impartial inquiry among representative patrons of the office, both men and women, concerning the experience, ability, and character of each applicant, and the evidence thus secured will be considered in determining the ratings to be assigned to the applicants. The Commission is not interested in the political, religious, or fraternal affiliations of any applicant.

Full information and application forms may be obtained at the post office in this city, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C. Applications must be on file in this Commission's office at Washington, D. C., not later than the date specified at the head of the announcement.

The Cross Plains office pays $2,000 a year.

GAME FESTIVAL TO BE SPONSORED BY SENIORS THURSDAY

The Seniors of Cross Plains High School are planning a game festival to be held in the gym Thursday night, November 10. Preparations to entertain 150 guests are being made. Patrons and friends of the school from Atwell, Cottonwood and other nearby communities as well as from Cross Plains are urged to use this opportunity to get acquainted. Twenty-five cents a couple entitles anyone to play. Chinese checkers, forty-two, dominoes and monopoly, and other games will be played. Refreshments will be served. The games and contests will begin immediately following the pep rally which the Pep Squad has scheduled for that night.

WAILENA BARCLAY, MALCOM STEELE ARE UNITED IN MARRIAGE

Miss Wailena Barclay of this place and Malcom Steele of Dressy were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in Cottonwood with the Rev. Van Pelt reading the marriage ceremony. They were accompanied by Miss Eloise Lane, and the bride's brother, Harold Barclay.

Mrs. Steele is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Barclay. She graduated from Cross Plains high school in 1937, and has been a student in John Tarleton college in Stephenville this year. She was very popular in all school activities here having been voted, the prettiest girl for two years and leader of the pep squad in 1937.

Mr. Steele is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Steele of Dressy and graduated from school here in 1936, later attending Abilene Christian college in Abilene.

Mr. and Mrs. Steele left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip through West Texas. They are expected to return here the latter part of the week.

Drought Is Broken As Area Gets Rain Thursday Morning

What appeared to be beginning of an extreme drought was broken early Thursday-morning as heavy, overhanging clouds yielded more than an inch of rainfall throughout the Cross Plains trade territory. The moisture was accompanied by a mild windstorm, however, no damage was reported.

The precipitation was hailed as a boon to grain fields which have been sowed several weeks but have not received enough moisture to sprout the seed. Pastures too were greatly in need of rain.

GENERAL ELECTION VOTE SET TUESDAY

Tuesday, November eighth, is general election day throughout the United States. In Cross Plains voting will take place at the Anderson Chevrolet Company building.

Through the South, where nomination by the Democratic party is tantamount to election, little interest in the vote is expected to be manifest. Party leaders, however, will make a serious effort to get out as many voters as possible, due to the fact that the number of delegates seated at national convention is dependent upon the number of votes cast in general elections.

The Citizens State Bank in Cross Plains will be closed in observance of the holiday.

To trial in forty second district court at Baird Friday morning will go the case of the citizens committee of that place vs the city of Baird, contesting a September 30 municipal bond election. The suit is an outgrowth of the recent election to install a city owned light plant.

Miss Leota Jones And Doyal Rhodes Are Wed Saturday

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Leota Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Jones, and Doyal Rhodes, both of this place. The ceremony was solemnized Saturday evening at six o'clock.

A shower honoring the couple will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stacy November fourth, with their daughter, Mrs. Vernon Baird, of Abilene, acting as hostess. Mr. and Mrs. Baird attended the couple at the marriage ceremony.

METHODIST CHARGE MEETS IN PIONEER

The Methodists of the Pioneer charge met in Pioneer Friday night of last week at the Methodist church. Each church in the charge brought hens and baskets filled with good things to eat.

A short business session was held before the meal was spread at which time reports for the year were given.

COTTON GINNING LOW AS COMPARED TO 1937

Census report shows that 1,245 bales of cotton were ginned in Calhoun County from the crop of 1938 prior to October 8, as compared with 2,880 bales for the crop of 1937.

HORSES AND MULES FROM HERE GO TO MISSISSIPPI

A carload of horses and mules was shipped from Cross Plains last week to Mississippi by G. E. (Ed) Morgan, local livestock dealer. Shipment was made by M.K.&T. railroad.

Mrs. Gordon Phillips of Big Spring and Willie Cutbirth of Baird were visitors here Saturday.

BAND PARENTS MEET IN REGULAR SESSION

A regular meeting of the Band Parents club was held in the high school auditorium Tuesday night with seventeen present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. C. W. Kemper and minutes of the previous meeting were read. In a business meeting were made to raise money to buy uniforms for band members. Mr. Porter J. Davis volunteered to give ten percent of all groceries sold Monday.

We Are Meeting The Issue

What will Be The Harvest

Do Not Delay

The most sensational sale in modern merchandising and here's the "true story in two nut shells" as Andrew Brown would say.

We prepared our Fall selling campaign on the basis of cotton prospects of early July. As you know—the bright prospects faded away on the wings of the pesky boll weevil and other pests with the sad results that we are now "holding the bag" and that bag is filled with new Fall merchandise which you need and we don't need.

In the past we have always found the way out of such unhappy situations—and this shall be no exception to the rule. We now exert our ability to help you when you need help most—killing two birds with one stone (further quoting Andrew Brown). We are opening wide our doors to our faithful customers—cutting the very heart out of the price of our Fall merchandise—bringing the cost to you within your ability to pay—while at the same time we will clear our shelving of our seasonal merchandise.

You will reap a harvest of values beyond your fondest hopes—a harvest of real values on high grade ware, dry goods, furniture, etc.

You should now have in your hands one of our big four page circulars carrying glad tidings of rare savings. Get one of these messengers and read of the many values waiting for you—or better still come direct to our store and supply your needs at our thrift sale prices.

scarcely closed it before when Donovan, throwing blankets and springing the door!" he warned his wife, the "doctor." He said, "Guess we pulled his eyes that time, eh? We got to do it line up . . . Chicago, New Orleans, Boston . . . We'll all. It's Hop Skit to win or more!"

As Timmie hurried off to the post he dropped the medal Sir Peter had entrusted to him. Roger saw it fall. He ran, picked it up, and tried to call to the disappearing jockey; but Timmie gave no sign that he heard. Reaching the gate that led to the starting post, Roger attempted to climb over. "Hey, where do you think you're going?" demanded an attendant, seizing his arm.

"I've got to give him something," said Roger, pointing. "Too late now." The attendant shook his head. Roger looked down at the emblem, thought of Timmie's inexplicable actions, and felt a sense of impending disaster.

Cricket was pounding some anonymous stout gentleman on the back as Roger returned sulkily to the Calverton box. "Hey, look, everybody!" she cried. "This is the first time I ever bet a horse on the nose," said Mother Ralph.

A sudden roar from the crowd, coming simultaneously with the starter's shot, drowned out the noise of the pistol. Roger leaped forward and strained his eyes to catch every bit of action. The Pookah had got away to a bad start.

"What's the matter with that Timmie Donovan?" exclaimed Mother Ralph. "Asleep at the post, he is!" Sir Peter, hands tensely clutching the rail, pressed his lips together, but said nothing.

Around the first great are speed the flying racers. Turning into the "backstretch," the Pookah had fallen to improve his position. Cream slice, Featherton and Hop Skit—the latter a long shot—were dividing honors between them. On they went for another hundred yards. The Pookah still last.

"Shouldn't he be making his move now, Grandfather?" asked Roger, a worried look on his face. "He should have made it, Roger," answered Sir Peter heavily. "On swept the horses, Timmie was apparently using the butt of his whip to stimulate the Pookah to renewed efforts. From the stands it was all a clever camouflage. Despite Timmie's care, to hold his nerve ahead, past one, then another of the contenders. But at the finish Hop Skit (the horse backed by the Donovan clique) was about a length ahead of the field. Featherton was second, Cream Slice third, and the Pookah snorting as though he realized he could have won if he'd been handled properly, trailed in fourth place.

Just as the racers passed the judges' stand Sir Peter suddenly swayed backwards in his seat. Vainly he tried to rise; his head dropped forward. "It wasn't Timmie's fault," Roger was saying reassuringly. "Next time he'll know just what to do." He turned and gasped as he saw Sir Peter's strained, deathly pale face. "Grandfather!" he cried. "What is it? He leaped to the aisle. "Quick! A doctor!" One of the ushers ran forward. He called to an official, who hurriedly summoned the track physician. Mother Ralph, terribly upset, tried to help the British sportsman. There was nothing she could do, but by anything she said, from Roger's face. In a moment the doctor had arrived. He looked at Sir Peter, felt his pulse and whispered something to an usher, who ran to telephone for an ambulance. "Is it very serious?" begged Roger anxiously. The doctor patted him on the shoulder, and replied with some evasive phrase. Timmie, meantime, had been summoned to the referee's stand the moment he alighted from the Pookah.

Roger looked down at the emblem, thought of Timmie's inexplicable actions, and felt a sense of impending disaster.

'FAST COMPANY' BLENDS MYSTERY AND THRILLS

Moviegoers who like their adventure spiced with comedy, thrills and romance will be drawn to "Fast Company," new romantic mystery which shows Thursday one day only at the Liberty Theatre.

The plot concerns the efforts of an ultra-modern married couple, played by Melvyn Douglas and Florence Rice, to break up the activities of an international stolen rare book gang. They combined married love and a business career by tracking down the suspects to a murderer.

When the couple are captured by racketeers it is their ability to joke and laugh with their captors that finally enables them to escape and catch the police.

This laugh and thrill a minute picture also features such entertaining performers as Claire Dodd, Shepperd Strudwick, Louis Calhern, Nat Pendleton and Douglas Dumbrille.

Edward Buzzell, who recently directed "Paradise for Three," has added his vigorous comedy and action touches to the picture.

"RISING TIDE"

In this distraught world so much of the news deals with the destructive forces of crime, war and greed, it is easy to overlook the fact that there is another side.

To report each week this other side is the purpose of this column. It deals principally with the personal experience of a rising tide of men and women who believe in God-governed and whose lives are governed by the thought that if you want a new and better world, the place to start with yourself. If you would like to meet or correspond with any of them, write to the Rising Tide Column.

Eagle, Goldthwaite, Texas. From the hills of Brown county to the teeming cities of China is a far journey, but the same God who brings peace of mind and strength of heart to His followers in Texas is just as willing to do the same in China. That is the experience of Bransford Eubank of Brownwood whose story follows:

"One evening of the year following the war, my roommate and I after some doubtless brilliant discussion, came to the conclusion that there was nothing to the Christian religion. After he had gone to bed, I took my Bible off the table to put it away, for I had no further use for it. Yet I considered myself a broad-minded and fair-thinking man, so I read a bit just to show that there were no hard feelings.

"The place happened to be the story of the crucifixion of Jesus. I was struck by the manner he conducted himself throughout what was obviously an unfair and deathly cruel experience. 'That man,' I thought, 'had courage.' He had more than any man on our college football squad. He was a real man, and met death like a man. He had, as we say 'what it takes.'

"Then I turned a few pages and read one verse where my eye fell: 'Then said Jesus to his disciples, if any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me.' Now army rules say, 'If you doubt the wisdom or authority of a man above you, first obey the order and afterwards protest.' The next thought that came was that if I really wanted to know if there was anything to

The presiding steward and the two placing judges were talking together in low voices as he arrived. Something was in the air, that much was evident. "Donovan, we don't like the ride you gave The Pookah," said the first steward, coming bluntly to the point.

"What was the matter with it?" rejoined Timmie.

"You deliberately held that horse back until it was too late to make a move," was the answer. "Who did" cried Timmie. "I handled him just like I was told to. You saw me go to the whip coming into the stretch, didn't you? Can I help it if the horse didn't have nothing? he won't run it ain't my fault, is it.

the Christian religion, I had only to obey the command. Then it came, "To be honest, you would need to first obey this command and then make your decision as to the truth and worth of the Christian religion. Would you have the decency and courage to do it?"

"A year or so later I calmly decided to take Jesus at his word and to follow him to do what he wanted me to do. My roommate, my friends and most of all myself, were surprised at change that came over me. I was different, life was different, it had meaning. Things had suddenly begun to make sense.

"A few years later found me on the mission field, but somehow I'd lost the freshness and joy of life I'd known, and much to my dismay some of my old humiliating habits and sins were coming back. There neighboring institution who had quite a bit to say about victory over sin, sharing of experience, but I, badly as I wanted freedom from defeat, thought it beneath my dignity as a missionary to talk intimately with a younger man, who was not even a missionary. I was inclined to be very critical of him, and at times was considerably less than polite in what I said to him.

"At last, sick of sin, I hunted him up and told him exactly the things that were bothering me. He told me that pride had been my worst sin, for it had shut the door to any help that God might have sent me through another person. Also, I had been fighting sin myself in order to get a victory for myself, while I could never stand against the devil, and that Christ had died to give us the victory. We also found that I was not letting Him have all my life, but was holding onto things for myself.

"The old penitence came back, and victory over sin followed naturally. When I got back to the States the following year I found that there was a small fellowship of persons like myself who through their various churches, boys and other contacts and under God's guidance were sharing with others the things that God does for those who let Him guide lives.

"That was several years ago. Now throughout the world there is a rising tide of men, women, nations who under God's guidance are seeking to bring about a new world order."

'THE HAUNTED CHAIR' TO BE GIVEN BY SENIORS

The Senior class completed plans last week for the production of their class play on December 9 of this year. They are giving their play early this year to avoid the crowded schedule of the spring months. The play selected is "The Haunted Chair" a three act mystery play by James F. Stone, which has received very favorable comment in other places, where it has been produced. The cast will be selected next week and rehearsals will start the week before Thanksgiving.

The Seniors plan to be hosts at a game party in the high school gym Thursday night, November 10. They plan to start selling tickets to this event this week. Everybody is urged to attend for the good time that is expected and to help the Seniors put over their program for the year.

THE BOOK SHELF - By - LEXIE DEAN ROBERTSON - On this book shelf always look - For anything except a book -

My Sims and I I took my little secret sins Down to the creek to drown, Five cunning ones of black and white And two of shining brown.

I set them down in one long row And bade them meditate Upon their wicked, foolish ways That led them to this fate.

They looked at me so wistfully And promised to be good, I yielded to their pleading eyes And hid them in the wood.

But when I had reached home again There perched upon my sill Were all those naughty sins of mine, And they are with me still!

-LDR in Red Heels

The Book Shelf Speaks: I took from the desk of a country poet whose home address is Rising Star, Texas. My highest aim is to bring to you a little smile, a bit to think about, something to make your heart glow warmer, something to make you feel that this old world is not so bad after all. Even if I am tucked away into a corner I hope that you will find me and please like me as much as you can. If you do like me tell all your friends, and most especially tell your EDITOR. I want his newspaper to be my home forever—his paper and your heart!

Are the men slipping? Who ever expected to see the A and M pep squad in red cellophane at their football game in Waco with the Baylor Bears even if it did rain and they needed raincoats?

"And Tell of Time," the much discussed and meritedly popular novel by Laura Krey is a story of romance and achievement covering the period between the last years of the Civil War until just before the gay nineties. The setting is laid chiefly in Texas where in the house on the banks of the Brazos, Calvin Darcy's father awaited his son's return from Lee's army. The story of Calvin Darcy and his wife Lucenia has been compared to the flow of Brazos waters in its sweep; sometimes swift and turbulent, sometimes placid, but always with rich under currents of truth and beauty. The novel is filled with memorable and authentic scenes, carpet-baggers, Ku Klux Klan, negroes and cotton fields warm under the Texas sun. It is a stirring realistic picture of family life. Mrs. Krey, who was born upon the banks of the Brazos near Houston, is now in Texas gathering material for more books and renewing old friendships. In a recent address at Dallas she gave some good advice to writers who wish to use Southern backgrounds. She warned them not to try to put the entire South into one novel but to confine the story to the particular region best known to the writer. For the last twenty five years Mrs. Krey has lived in St. Paul, Minnesota where her distinguished husband is Professor of Mediaeval History in the state university. She says that Northerners are much interested in Southern literature, but often fail to understand it wholly because they are unfamiliar with Southern traditions. Mrs. Krey is charming both in appearance and in personality. She has a delightful sense of humor and told her audience that before she left home her husband warned her not to talk too much because eventually some inadvertent remark she made left her embarrassed. She modestly disclaimed credit for her best seller saying that the story had written itself around the wonderful Texas characters and events which had made history. "And Tell of Time" is published by Houghton Mifflin Co.

Texas has just been celebrating YAM WEEK. To the uninitiated may I explain that Yams by any other name are those big golden sweet potatoes that baked for a long time in a slow oven, come out lusciously dripping their own sugar and emitting an enticing aroma that calls like a lonesome calf for its mother for a big hunk of crackling bread and a glass of old Jersey's rich milk as essential accompaniments. (There I go forgetting that I am trying to streamline my own figure! Bessie, what's for lunch today? Shredded lettuce and pineapple juice? Oh—well!) But there is something about a really satisfying sweet potato—beg pardon, yam—that takes me back to my childhood days in East Texas where the yam grows bigger and better and sweeter than anywhere else. In those days we called them "punkin yams" and bought no other kind. Old black Aunt Mandy who did her share toward bringing up Mother's seven youngsters used to cook them in our big three-legged oven on and under a bed of coals raked out upon the hearth. That is really the only way to cook a yam, though the papers are now full of fancy recipes none flossier than my own which I invented when I entertained Benjamin Musser, the distinguished Poet Laureate of New Jersey. Ben doted upon this dish and named it Lextex potatoes. It is quite simply made. Boil a few yams in their jackets, peel, and slice. Place in layers in a buttered casserole alternating each layer with one of sliced bananas. (If your husband is like mine use pineapple, coconut, apples or anything except bananas) Sprinkle each layer with generous hunks of country butter, sugar, and pecans, having pecans as the top layer. Squeeze one or two lemons over the whole and bake in a medium oven until brown. Eat at your own risk!

Blames Placed on Armadillo in localities where Armadillos and quail occupy the same range, this animal is accused of destroying many quail nests; they are claimed to be a factor limiting the populations of turkeys because of the destruction of the eggs, and an enemy to chickens. They are also blamed with the destruction of gardens and other farm crops.

WITH OUR WILDLIFE

By JOHN R. WOOD State Game Warden The Texas Nine-Banded Armadillo (Dasypus novemcinctus texanus, Bailey)

The Texas Nine-Banded Armadillo gets much criticism from sportsmen in general all over Texas. Much of this criticism given to the Armadillo is unjustly placed. The Armadillo is probably the most conspicuous signmaker of all the "predators," and this is responsible for much of the blame that it receives.

Armadillo Benefits Quail Individually the Armadillo is not a serious enemy to quail and quail eggs, because it is only by accident that the promiscuous rooting animal leads to quail nests.

Kill all wild house cats, because they are our birds' worst enemies.

Hardships of Foreign Missionary Told In Letter To Mrs. Sam

An insight into the life of a Christian missionary on foreign fields is given in a letter from Rev. and Mrs. Ben Oliver, of Brazil, to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Moore, of Cottonwood.

Monday, November 20 will be band day at our store. 10 percent of sales will go to the band. Help The Band

Excerpts of the part written by the Rev. Mr. Oliver, most of which is devoted to his work, appears hereunder.

"We arrived here in December 1935 and began work immediately. Since September 1937 we have been here alone. Our family now numbers five, the last child being born December 16, 1938, just two days after I had returned from a long trip into the wilds of Southern Santa Catherine, the state just South of us, which comprises a part of our field. Only by the grace of God was I spared on that trip for besides going through a great many hardships, the last night when I was preaching in Urubity, the priest organized a mob which threw rocks, etc at us, and when we were on our way home men on each side of the road emptied revolvers at the truck in which we were riding. That hail of lead, at least 12 bullets, passed with only minor scratches to the three persons. But I've been back there and preached again the unsearchable riches of Christ. Just as Paul was stoned at Lystra, and went back into the city, so did I.

"This year I've spent only about 100 days at home. When I'm here I have to work day and night to keep up the correspondence and get out the state paper 'O Baptista' keep my mission books in order, etc. Also, I've been teaching a couple of young men who want to be preachers. So you can see how busy a missionary is. My wife is a missionary too. She is president of the W.M.U. convention, teacher of a class of girls here in the church, director of the Y.W.A. of the choir and orchestra, and I don't know what else. We hardly have time for our own family. But we have hopes of the Deters' arrival here in December, and are asking the board another couple of missionaries for Santa Catherine, so I won't have to travel over such a great distance. Our field is larger

"When I make long the interior, as one I receive into the Southern part of I go equipped for all sorts. Some friends in Alabama, recently sent her mattress, which I use and use. It is really a joy. Until I received the I had to sleep on the floor. They didn't have a floor, with the fleas, chickens, and the like all around and simultaneously on rice and farinha—a kind of saw dust made of ground roots, which looks some a white sweet potato) and on until ground and to passed the day with one egg that I had the fores in my pocket at hand. But all of this is part now. I always take a supply of medicines, inj to treat the people. they find out that I can the gospel of the love of their benighted souls, their disease ridden body brought her child could not walk for their huge worms in his legs, those that infest the stomach. In two days the playing around well. I ferret me two eggs to boiling of the child. I didn't accept them, but I prelate it that she was

"A short time ago five times, had the baptism, and a business besides taking two long back to treat two fellow to sick to come to me in one day. When I finished I was ready to work. Everywhere I the being saved and we are happy in the work." (Signed) A. Ben
